

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

MDCCL.

To the RIGHT HONOURABLE

Sir ROBERT RAYMOND, Knt.

Lord Chief Justice of England.

My LORD,

AT length, by your Lordship's generous Encouragement, vouchsafed me on a former Dedication to your Lordship, my New Law-Dictionary appears to the World committed to your Patronage and Protection, and as You are universally allowed to be the most proper Patron for a Work of this Nature.

It hath been often observ'd to be a Commendation to any Person, to attempt any Great and Useful Undertaking; but it is not every One who engages in it, is Able to perform it: Whatever Censure, in this Particular, is pass'd upon me by the Readers, my Judges, I have one very great Satisfaction; which is, that your Lordship is at the Head of them, whose powerful Influence and kind Interpretation will silence others into Candor and Good Nature.

To say, That every Thing Praise-Worthy belongs to your Lordship, is not to pay the Debt of Compliment, but of Merit: As by indefatigable Study and Application to Business, Reputation ever attended You; so on your Advancement to the Supreme Station of the Common Law, your Behaviour therein hath evidently

evidently gain'd You univerfal Approbation. There have been Many who have filled the prime Offices of Judicature, which muſt always be ſupply'd with a Succeſſion of Men, tho' few that have adorned them; But 'tis your Lordſhip's Glory to do both: And after the Great Lord Chief Juſtice HOLT, it is the Happineſs of the preſent Age to boaſt of a RAYMOND.

My Lord, Applauſe and Popularity Court You, whiſt You endeavour to ſhun them, for they are the natural Reward of doing impartial Juſtice; and thoſe who leaſt ſeek them in Publick Authority, by their great Integrity and conſummate Abilities have the largeſt Share of Them: It is impoſſible to be otherwiſe, than that your Lordſhip ſhould be a Favourite of Mankind, when your whole Conduct is ſo exceeding Juſt and Upright, as to merit the High-eſt Honour; and give me Leave to obſerve of You, what every One finds who Approaches your Lordſhip.

On a Character ſo very conſiderable as your Lordſhip's, much more might be enumerated; but I am conſcious of my Inequality to the Task, and therefore deſiſt from it, my only Aim being to ſhew how much I am,

My LORD,

Your Lordſhip's

Moſt Dutiful, and moſt

Obliged Humble Servant,

Giles Jacob.

THE P R E F A C E.

ALL Prefaces to Treatises, are intended by Authors either to Explain the Works to which they belong, and set forth the Reasons of their Engaging in them; or to Vindicate their Writings and Reputations from those Reflections which may be cast upon them by the Critical Part of Mankind; and I think it Necessary for me to say something on these Heads, in my Preface to this Work.

According to a great Writer, the Study of the Law is not rendered easy by numerous Volumes, but by reducing the Sense into a compleat methodical System; and the Difficulty and Disagreeableness of this Study, is not to be imputed to any material Defect in it self, but to the Manner in which the Books that contain this Learning are Written: The Justice of this Wise Observation, hath been always acknowledged; As our Abridgments of the Law abound with Tautologies and Confusion, and are generally speaking very voluminous to little Purpose, which has been a Principal Reason for my Attempting the following Sheets.

This large Work now published, contains the Derivations and Definitions of Words and Terms used in the LAW, and likewise the whole Law, with the Practice thereof, collected and abstracted from all other Books in an easy concise Method; for the Universal Use of all Counsellors at Law, either in their Chambers or on their Circuits, Students of the Inns of Courts, and Practisers of the Law, and other Persons of what Degree or Profession soever, and for all Studies and Offices, being a Kind of Library; so that although I have the Interpretation of Words, to give it the Title of a Dictionary, yet my Scheme is very different from the other Law-Dictionaries: And the Great Lawyer

The P R E F A C E.

Lawyer Sir EDWARD COKE having observ'd, that the Forms of Writs, and judicial Proceedings, do much contribute to the Right Understanding of our Law; Therefore these, together with Forms of Deeds and Conveyances, illustrating the Practice on that Head, are here insert'd: Further, the Reader will find interspersed, taken from the most ancient Treatises of the British, Saxon, Danish, and Norman Laws, such Informations as Explain the History and Antiquity of the Law; with our Manners, Customs and Original Form of Government.

As in this Age it is become common for Arts and Sciences to be comprehended in Dictionaries, I have pursued this Method, and the Knowledge of the Arts themselves, cannot be improper to follow the Terms and Definitions of them. Under the Heads of Law, by the Advice of my Learned and Judicious Friends, I have gone through and gather'd every Thing I could find any ways Useful; and there is nothing Collected; but some Benefit may be drawn from it, either as immediately to the Purpose; or Explanatory of what the same hath Relation to: In my Larger Heads, where they interfere with others, I have but just touch'd upon the Matters interfering; and left the particular Learning to the more proper Heads where 'tis expected to be found, at the same Time some Notice being required under the general Titles.

I may with great Truth affirm, that considerably above two Thirds of my Work, with some Hundreds of very material Words, are intirely New in a Performance of this Kind; and the remaining Part is greatly Improv'd, although Abridg'd as to Quantity by omitting a great Deal of Obsolete Matter. There is not any Thing in the following Dictionary, directly the same as appears elsewhere, but in such Cases only where it was absolutely Necessary for my own Justification; though the Compilers of the other Law-Dictionaries have generally transcribed verbatim from each Other. The Law-Latin in many Instances differing from other Latin, I have purposely used and followed it, as those have done who have gone before me. Likewise several Words of Use, especially relating to Country Affairs, are here still preserv'd from the Law Interpreters, though they may seem a little foreign to my Subject.

As to the other Dictionaries, let who will for the Future Write or Enlarge them, it must be always confess'd, that it was I who first attempted a BODY of the LAW, in any Dictionary. This I ought ought to mention, in Justice to myself; That it may not at any Time be affirmed I have wholly built on other Writers, but They on Me as to any Additions, if they should fill up their Works in my Method beyond what they were in the Year 1720, when I first began this elaborate Treatise. And if I have borrow'd from my Own Writings hitherto Published, I have assumed no Freedom in so doing, but such as Authors of the best Reputation have thought fit to take; who have had Occasion to treat subsequently on their former Subjects, in any larger or more general Work: Also I have every where inserted References unto them, sometimes Pointing out the Best Editions; where One Impression is esteem'd better than another.

I have now made deeper and closer Searches into the Knowledge of the Law, and taken a long Journey of Observations and Improvements on those Things which I had but just seen at a Distance before; which however painful to my self, I am confident I have struck out therein a much easier Path for Others than they had before to Walk in. I have endeavour'd to make a Right Choice of Matter, as well as to follow an exact Method, which, with the Reduction that was necessary to avoid Prolixity, I found no small Task; And of this I may say with Virgil, Hoc Opus, hic Labor est.

It is indeed True that my great Work is chiefly Collection; but let this be Consider'd with it, That Collecting on the Subject of the Law, is infinitely more difficult, than upon other Subjects; because most other Subjects are treated of with Order and Connexion, but the Law of England is not, by reason of the great Number of its Branches, and the various Heads thereof.

As for what I have already written, a prudent Author will commonly attempt many of the smaller Matters, by Way of Trial of his Abilities, and See their Success, before he will have Courage to venture upon Larger; and if I had not Experienc'd what hath fallen in my Way, it would have been Impossible for me to have perfected the ensuing Treatise with that Advantage it is now handed to the Publick. And thus much I am obliged to say farther in Behalf of this Dictionary; That if notwithstanding the infinite Pains I have here taken, it be not in itself Authority, it carefully refers to Books of the greatest, which is all as can be asserted in Favour of any of the Abridgments of the Law. But where there is such great Variety of Learning and abundant Quantity of Nice Matter, with the utmost Care, there must be some Faults and Failings to be Pardon'd by the Reader.

In this Sixth Edition, all the Law-Heads throughout are compleatly filled up, and some others added, from the new Books of Reports, and the many late Statutes enacted which have alter'd our Law, down to this Time; I have also now inserted Variety of Select CHANCERY CASES, that have been lately adjudg'd in the most settled Points, dispersed under all the Heads where they were any Ways proper or material. The Forms of Writs and other Law Proceedings, with several curious additional Precedents, appear likewise carefully Translated into English, pursuant to the Act of Parliament; but the ancient Customs remain in Latin, the Language I found them in. I thus have render'd my Useful Book full and perfect in all Things; and 'tis no small Pleasure to me, that the Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Editions were very Successful, and the greatest Part of a large Impression of the Work, as I had at first Compiled it, sold off in the Space of a Year's Time, by the Approbation of my Great Patron, and favourable Acceptance of the Publick.

I hope upon the Whole, it is here fully apparent that I have done every Thing in my Power to compleat this Great Undertaking, and which I doubt not by my often repeated diligent Endeavours, will continue to answer its good End propos'd, so as to give entire Satisfaction to all Persons whatsoever.

A.

A, The first Letter of the Alphabet, which being prefix'd to words in English, signifies as much as un in French, as a Man, un Homme.

Ab, From the Word Abbot, and in the Beginning of any Place signifieth that the Place belong'd to some Abbey.

Abacot, A Cap of State, wrought up in the Form of two Crowns, worn by our ancient British Kings. Chron. Angl. 1463. Spelman's Gloss.

Abatores, (Abatores, derived ab abigendo) Stealers and Drivers away of Cattle by Herds, or in great Numbers. They are thus distinguish'd from Fures: Nam qui ovem unam surripuerit, ut fur coercetur, qui gregem ut abactor. MS.

Abacus, Arithmetick, From the Abacus or Table on which the Ancients made their Characters.—

Omnium liberalium artium peritus, Abacum præcipue, lunarem computam & cursum rimatus. Knighton's Chron. lib. 1. c. 3.

Abandum, (Abandonum) Any Thing sequestred, procrib'd or abandon'd. Abandon, i. e. In Bannum res missa.—A Thing bann'd or denounc'd as forfeited and lost; from whence is to abandon, desert, or forsake as lost and gone.

Abarnate, From the Sax. Abarian, to discover and disclose to a Magistrate any secret Crime.—Si homo furtivum aliquid in Domo sua occultaverit, & ita fuerit abarnatus, rectum est ut inde habeat quod quaesivit. Leg. Canuti Reg. cap. 104.

Abate, As derived from the French Abater or Abatre, signifies to prostrate, break down or destroy; and in Law to abate a Castle or Fort, is interpreted to beat it down. Old Nat. Brew. 45. Westm. 1. c. 17. Abater Maison, is to ruin or cast down a House, and level it with the Ground: And as he that puts a Person out of Possession of his House, Land, &c. is said to dispossess; so he that steps in between the former Possessor and his Heir, is said to abate; and this is a Term in its special Signification. Kitch. 173. Old Nat. Br. 115. To abate a Writ, is to defeat or overthrow it, by some Error or Exception. Brit. c. 48. In the Statute De conjunctim Feoffatis, the Writ shall be abated, that is, shall be disabled and overthrown. 34 Ed. 1. Stat. 2. The Appeal shall abate, and be defeated by Reason of Covin or Deceit. Staundf. Pl. Cr. 148.

And the Justices shall cause the said Writ to be abated and quash'd. Anno 11 H. 6. c. 2.

Abatement, (from the French) in Latin Intrusio, or rather Interpositio, to distinguish it from Intrusion after the Death of Tenant for Life; is used in that Sense for the Act of the Abator, as the Abatement and Entry of the Heir into the Land before he hath agreed with the Lord. Old Nat. Br. 91. Abatement when it relates to Writs or Plaints, is the quashing or destroying of the Plaintiff's Writ; and under this Signification, which is most general, it is an Exception alledged and made good in our Law; being as much as Exceptio dilatoria with the Civilians. Brit. c. 51. And this Exception may be taken either to the Insufficiency of the Matter, or the Incertainty of the Allegation, by misnaming the Plaintiff or Defendant; or the Place; to the Variance between the Writ and the Specialty or Record; to the Incertainty of the Writ, Count or Declaration; or to the Death of either of the Parties before Judgment had; or for that a Woman Plaintiff is married before, or hanging the Suit, and for many other Causes, upon which the Defendant prays that the Writ or Plaint may abate, viz. That the Suit of the Plaintiff may for that Time cease. Terms de Ley 1. Some Causes of Abatement, are where the Plaintiff is incapable of maintaining his Writ, by the Defendant's being under the Protection of the Law, as being an Infant, &c. or by the Plaintiff's misconceiving his Action; or asserting a material Thing that is false, so that it appears of his own shewing, he ought not to maintain his Writ in that manner, but intitle himself in a better Way. Mod. Entr. Engl. 25. On Abatement of Suits, all Writs and Process must be begun de Novo: And one great Reason for the Abatement of Writs is, that the Party prosecuted may not be twice charg'd or vex'd for one Debt; as where the Plaintiff hath another Action depending for the same Matter, &c. 3 Lev. 304. In an Action of Debt, &c. another Action depending in the Courts of Westminster, for the same Matter, is a good Plea in Abatement: But Plea of Action in an inferior Court is not good, unless Judgment be given. 5 Rep. 62. In an Appeal, Information, &c. it is a good Plea in Abatement, that another Prosecution is depending, but not on Indictment. 2 Hawk. Pl. Cr. 190, 367. Error depending in the Exchequer Chamber is a good Plea in Abatement to Debt on Judgment in B. R. 5 Mod. 68.

A Suit

A Suit may be abated, for that the Writ in Debt precedes the Day of Payment: For that there are not fifteen Days between the Teste and the Return of the Writ. 1 Lutw. 16, 25. Where a Defendant binds himself jointly with another, and he is not named: Or the Bill is in Case, and ought to be in Account: And where the Plaintiff declares of several and distinct Causes of Action in the same Bill; or it appears by the Plaintiff's own Shewing, that he had no Cause of Action for the Whole or for Part, the Writ shall abate. 2 Mod. Inq. 18. 4 E. A. 32. Where a Demand is of two Things, and it appears the Plaintiff hath an Action only for one, the Writ may not be abated in the whole, but shall stand for that which is good: But if it appear, that altho' he can't have this Writ which he hath brought for Part, he may have another the Writ shall abate in the whole. 11 Rep. 45. 1 Saund. 285. A Writ of Ejectment shall be abated, on its appearing to the Court to be sued out before the Cause of Action. Cro. Car. 272. In Case Administration was granted after the Action brought, and this appears, the Plaintiff's Writ abates. Hob. 245. Repugnancy in the Plaintiff's shewing and setting forth of his Matter, may cause an Abatement. 2 And. 96. If a Plaintiff, after Appearance be nonsuit, discontinued, &c. the Writ shall abate. 7 Rep. 27. And where the Plaintiff discharges Part of the Debt after the Writ purchased, on shewing the Acquittance the Writ shall abate. Misnomer in the Addition, Place, Trade, Dignity, &c. of the Defendant, may abate the Writ; as where one pleads there is no such Place, or that he is a Baronet and no Knight, &c. 1 Vent. 154. If the Addition of the Defendant's Quality and Dwelling be omitted in any original Writ, in a personal Action, Appeal or Indictment, where Exigent may be awarded, the Writ shall abate; but it shall not abate for Surplusage in the Addition. 1 H. 5. cap. 5. Where one is misnamed in a Bond, the Writ must be brought against him by the same Name as in the Bond. Dyer 279. And where a Defendant comes in gratis, or pleads by the Name alleged by the Plaintiff, he is estopped to alledge any Thing against it. Style 440. To the Plea of Misnomer, the Plaintiff may reply, the Defendant was known by the Name in the Writ. 1 Salk. 6. Where an Indictment for a capital Crime is abated for Misnomer of the Defendant, the Court will not dismiss him, but cause him to be indicted de novo by his true Name. 2 Hawk. 367. Pleas in Abatement found against a Defendant in Capital Cases, are not peremptory as they are in other Cases; but he may afterwards plead over to the Felony. Ib. 191. And a Person cannot to an Action brought against him, plead in Disability of himself, that he is attainted of Treason, &c. 1 Leon. cap. 466. Outlawry may be pleaded in Abatement, or in Bar; but 'tis only a Disability till the Outlawry is reversed. 1 Inst. 128. Excommunication, or any Plea in Disability of the Plaintiff, may not be pleaded after a General Imparance. 1 Lutw. 19. After Plea in Bar to annul the Action for ever, and after Imparance, one cannot plead in Abatement of the Writ. An Alien born may be pleaded in Abatement: But Jews may prosecute Actions and recover, a Plea in Abatement against them being but a Disability so long as the King shall prohibit them to Trade. 1 Lill. 4. One may plead in Abatement of a Declaration, where 'tis by Original; but if the Action be by Bill, you must plead in Abatement of the Bill only. 5 Mod. 144. A little Variance between the Declaration and Bond pleaded, will not make naught the Declaration: But Incertainty will abate it. Plowd. 84. The Variance of the Declaration from the Obligation, or other Deed on which it is grounded, will sometimes abate the Action: And if a Declaration assign Waste in a Town, not mention'd in the original Writ, the Writ of Waste shall abate. Hob. 18, 38. Abatement may be also by the Plaintiff's Entry into all or Part of what is sued for; as in Assise for Lands, &c. A Lease is made for Years rendring Rent, with Clause of Re-entry for Non-Payment, the Rent being in Arrear, the Lessor brings Debt for it, and pending the Suit enters into the Land; in this Case the Writ abates by the Plaintiff's Entry. Plowd. 92. Style 260. If two Defendants plead several Pleas in Abatement, and Issue is joined upon one Plea, and a Demurrer upon the other; if the Issue be found against the Plaintiff, the Writ will abate against both Defendants. Hob. 250. The Court Ex Officio abates Writs for want of proper Words of Art, Want of legal Form, &c. And false Latin would formerly abate an original Writ; but not make void any judicial Writ, Plea, &c. Latch 178. An Original telled in the Reign of a King, who dieth before the Return, by the Common Law 'tis abated and gone, and shall not be returned in the Reign of another. Dyer 165, 206. But by Stat. 1 Ed. 6. c. 7. No Writ shall be abated in any Suit between Party and Party, by the Death of the King: Nor shall any Writ or Suit abate, on the Preferment of the Plaintiff, pending the Suit; as by his being made a Peer, one of the Justices, &c. And Process or Suits before Justices of Assize, Goal-Delivery, Justices of Peace, &c. shall not abate by any new Commission or Association. Stat. Ibid. Informations for the King do not abate upon the Death of the King; but shall be continued by Resummons, &c. Moor 748. The Death of a Husband, where Husband and Wife are prosecuted for Words spoke by the Wife, &c. will not abate the Writ or Action. Hardr. 151. But if the Words are by Husband and Wife, and the Husband die, the Writ shall abate. Style 135. Where two Jointenants are Defendants, the Death of one of them will not abate the Writ. 3 Mod. 249. And no Plea in Abatement shall be receiv'd in any Suit for Partition; nor shall the same be abated by the Death of any Tenants. Stat. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 31. In Trespas against two or three Defendants, if one of them die hanging the Writ, it shall not abate: But where one of the Defendants dieth after Judgment, and a Writ of Error is brought, it is otherwise. Yelv. 209. If a Writ of Trespas be brought against divers Persons, and it abate against one, it may abate against all. 8 Rep. Blackmore's Case. Error being brought in Action of the Case, before the Errors were argued, one of the Defendants who was Plaintiff in the Writ of Error died; and by this it was held, that the Writ of Error was abated. Yelv. 208. In a Writ of Covenant against three, one of them dies; the Writ abates against him only. Style 421. In Assise against two, where one of them dieth, it shall not abate the Writ, if there be a Disseisor and a Tenant remaining: So in Quare Impedit, or Replevia against two Persons: And in such Case, the Court may proceed to a Venire fac. and a Trial against the Survivour only. Jenk. Cent. 90. 6 Rep. 9. Dyer 88. 9 H. 7. In Audita Querela by two Persons, if one die, the Writ shall not abate. Yelv. 208. The Death of a Plaintiff did in all Cases abate the Writ before Judgment, till the Statute 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 10. by which neither the Death of Plaintiff or Defendant shall abate it, if the Action might be originally prosecuted by and against the Executors or Administrators of the Parties: And if there are two or more Plaintiffs or Defendants, and one or more die, the Writ or Action shall not abate, if the Cause of Action survives to the surviving Plaintiff against the surviving Defendant, &c. Stat. Ibid. It is held the Court will not abate the Plaintiff's Writ or Bill, if not pray'd properly in the Plea; tho' there needs no Pleading to abate a Writ, that is of itself abateable. 1 Salk. 298.

Abatementum, Is a Word of Art, and signifies an Entry by Interposition. Co. Litt. 277. Vide Plea, Writs, &c.

Abator, Is a Person that abateth or entreth into a House or Land, void by the Death of him that last possessed the same, before the Heir takes Possession, and by that Means keeps out the Heir. Old Nat. Br. 115.

Abatude, Is any Thing diminished. — Moneta abatuda, is Money clipp'd or diminish'd in Value: Si tempore solutionis hæc Moneta fuerit abatuda fructu deteriorata. Charta Simonis Comitum Leicestriz, Anno 1290.

Abay, or Abey: Ye shall fore Abey it; that is, you shall suffer great Pain, or pay dear for it: From the Word Buy, the Letter A being added.

Abbay, (Abbatia) Is the same as to the Government of a religious House, and the Revenues thereof, subject to an Abbot, as a Bishoprick is to a Bishop. This Word is used in some of our antient Grants, particularly Anno 34 & 35 H. 8. in a Grant to the Countess of Pembroke. — Sciant quod ego Isabella Comitissa Pembr. pro salute Animæ meæ, &c. Dedi Deo & Abbatie de Nutteleg totam Wickham juxta prædictam Abbatiam, &c.

Abbat, or Abbot, (Abbas in Latin, in French Abbé, and in Saxon Abbad) Is a Spiritual Lord or Governor, having the Rule of a religious House. The Word is also by some derived from the Syriac Abba Pater. Of these Abbots here in England, some were elective, some presentative; and some were mitred, and some were not; such as were mitred had Episcopal Authority within their Limits, being exempted from the Jurisdiction of the Diocesan; but the other Sort of Abbots were subject to the Diocesan in all Spiritual Government. The mitred Abbots were Lords of Parliament, and called Abbots Sovereign, and Abbots General, to distinguish them from the other Abbots. And as there were Abbots, so there were also Lords Priors, who had exempt Jurisdiction, and were likewise Lords of Parliament. Some reckon twenty-six of these Lords Abbots and Priors that sat in Parliament. Sir Edw. Coke says, there were twenty-seven Parliamentary Abbots, and two Priors, Co. Litt. 97. In the Parliament 20 R. 2. there were but twenty-five: But Anno 4 Edw. 3. in the Summons to the Parliament at Winton more are named. And in Monasticon Anglicanum there is also Mention of more; the Names of which were as follow: Abbots of St. Austin's Canterbury, Ramsay, Peterborough, Creyland, Evesham, St. Benet de Hulme, Thornby, Colchester, Leicester, Winchcomb, Westminster, Cirencester, St. Alban's, St. Mary's York, Skenbury, Selby, St. Peter's Gloucester, Malmesbury, Waltham, Thornby, St. Edmond's, Beaulieu, Abingdon, Hyde, Reading, Gloucestery, and Osney. — And Priors of Spalding, St. John's of Jerusalem, and Lewes. — To which were afterwards added the Abbots of St. Austin's Bristol, and of Bardeny, and the Priory of Sempingham. These Abbays and Priories, were founded by our ancient Kings, and great Men, from the Year 602 to 1133. An Abbot with the Monks of the same House were called the Convent, and made a Corporation; but the Abbot was not chargeable by the Act of his Predecessor, unless it were under the common Seal, or for such Things as came to the Use of the House or Convent. Terms de Ley 4. By Stat. 27 Hen. 8. cap. 28. all Abbays, Monasteries, Priories, &c. not above the Value of 200 l. per Ann. were given to the King, who sold the Lands at low Rates to the Gentry. Anno 29 H. 8. the Rest of the Abbots, &c. made voluntary Surrenders of their Houses, to obtain Favour of the King: And Anno 31 H. 8. a Bill was brought into the House to confirm those Surrenders; which passing, completed the Dissolution, except the Hospitals and Colleges, which were not dissolved, the first till the 33d, and the last till the 37th of H. 8. when Commissioners were appointed to enter and seise the said Lands, &c.

Abbat's, An Avenen or Steward of the Stables; the Word was sometimes used for a common Hostler, pronounc'd short in the middle Syllable. — Abbatis ad canam dat Equis Abbatis avsnam. Spelm.

Abbochment, (Abbrocamentum) The Buying up of Wares before they are exposed to Sale in a Fair or Market, and selling the same by Retail; which is a Foretelling of a Market or Fair. MS. de placit. coram Rege Ed. 3. penes J. Trevor Mil.

Abbutals, (from the French Abutter, to limit or bound) Are the Buttings and Boundings of Lands, East, West, North, or South, shewing how the same lie with respect to others; as on what Lands, Highways, or other Places, they are limited and bounded. Camden tells us, that Limits were distinguish'd by Hillocks rais'd in the Lands call'd Batentines, whence we have our Word Butting. The Sides on the Breadth of Lands are properly Adjacentes, lying or bordering; and the Ends in Length Abbutantes, Abutting or Bounding. And in old Surveys, these last are called Head-Lands, from Capitare, to Head. The Boundaries and Buttals of Corporation and Church Lands, and of Parishes, are preserved by an annual Procession. And Abuttals or Boundaries are of several Sorts; such as Inclosures of Hedges, Ditches and Stones in common Fields; Brooks, Rivers, and Highways, &c. of Manors and Lordships.

Abdicare, (Abdicare) To renounce or refuse any Thing. Terms de Ley 5.

Abdication, (Abdicatio) In general, is where a Magistrate, or Person in Office, renounces and gives up the same, before the Term of Service is expired. And this Word is frequently confounded with Resignation, but differs from it, in that Abdication is done purely and simply; whereas Resignation is in Favour of some third Person. Chamb. Dict. 'Tis said to be a Renunciation, Quitting and Relinquishing, so as to have nothing further to do with a Thing; or the Doing of such Actions as are inconsistent with the Holding of it. On King James's leaving the Kingdom and Abdicating the Government, the Lords would have had the Word Desertion made use of; but the Commons thought it was not comprehensive enough, for that the King might then have Liberty of Returning. Abdication Debates. The Scots call'd it a Forfeiture of the Crown, from the Verb Forisfacio.

Abditorium, An Abditory or Hiding-Place, to hide and preserve Goods, Plate, or Money: And is used for a Chest in which Reliques are kept, as mentioned in the Inventory of the Church of York, Mon. Ang. p. 173. — Item unum Coffeur, & una pixis de Ebore ornata cum argento deaurato, Item tria Abditoria, &c.

Abbeched, From the French Abbecher, to feed, is an old Word, which signifies to be satisfied.

Abremurder, (Abremurdrum) Plain or downright Murder; as distinguished from the less heinous Crimes of Manslaughter and Chancemedly. It is derived from the Saxon Eber, apparent, notorious, and Mord, Murder: And was declared a Capital Offence, without Fine or Commutation, by the Laws of Canute, cap. 93. and of Hen. 1. cap. 13. Spelm.

Abbesed, (from the French Abbaiffer, to depress) Hath the Signification of Humbled; and hence we derive the Words Abase and Base.

Abbet, (Abettare) From the Saxon A and Bedan or Beteren, to stir up or incite; or from the French Baster, Impellere or Excitare. In our Law it signifies as much as to encourage or set on: The Substantive Abetment, is used for an Encouraging or Instigation. Staudf. Pl. Cr. 105. And Abettor (Abettator) is an Instigator or Setter on; one that promotes or procures a Crime. Old Nat. Br. 21. Abettors of Murder, are such as command, procure, or counsel others to perpetrate the Murder; and in some Cases these Abettors shall be taken as Principals, in others but as Accessaries; their Presence or Absence at the Time of committing the Fact, making the Difference. Co. Litt. 475. Vide Accessaries. Abeyance, Abeyance, or Abbayance, (from the Fr. Bayer) to expect: It is what is in Expectation, Remembrance and Intendment of Law. By a Principle of Law, in every Land there is a Fee-simple in some Body, or it is in Abeyance; that is, tho' for the present it be in no Man, yet it is in Expectancy belonging to him that is next to enjoy the Land. Co. Litt. 342. Litt. c. Discontin. If a Man be Patron of a Church, and presents one to the same, now the Fee of the Lands and Tenements pertaining to the Rectory is in the Parson: But if the Parson die, and the Church become void, then is the Fee in Abeyance, until there be a new Parson presented, admitted and inducted; for the Patron hath not the Fee, but only the Right to present, the Fee being in the Incumbent that is presented. Terms de Ley 6. The Frank-tenement of the Glebe of a Parsonage, during the Time the Parsonage is void, is in no Man; but in Abeyance or Expectation, belonging to him who is next to enjoy it. If a Man makes a Lease for Life, the Remainder to the Right Heirs of J. S. the Fee-simple is in Abeyance until J. S. dies. Co. Litt. 342. In this Case the Remainder passeth from the Grantor presently; tho' it vests not presently in the Grantee, but is said to be in Abeyance until J. S. dies, after whose Death the Heir has a good Remainder, and it ceases to be in Abeyance. Terms de Ley. If Lands be leased to A. B. for Life, the Remainder for Years is in Abeyance until the Death of the Lessee, and then it shall vest in him in Remainder as a Purchaser, and as a Chattel shall go to his Executors. 3 Leon. 23. Where Tenant for Term of another's Life dieth, the Freehold of the Lands is in Abeyance till the Entry of the Occupant. Fee-simple in Abeyance cannot be charged until it comes in esse, so as to be certainly charged or aliened; tho' by Possibility it may fall every Hour. Co. Litt. 378. The Word Abeyance hath been compared to what the Civilians call Hereditatem jacentem; for as the Civilians say Lands and Goods do jacere, so the Common Lawyers say, that Things in like Estate are in Abeyance, as the Logicians term it in posse, or in Understanding; and as we say in nubibus, that is, in Consideration of Law. See Plowd. Rep. Walsingham's Case.

Abgatozia, Abgetorium, The Alphabet A, B, C, &c. This seems to be an Irish Word. Mat. Westm. reports of St. Patrick—Abgetoria quoque 345 & eo amplius scripsit, totidem Episcopus ordinavit.—The Irish still call the Alphabet Abgbittin.

Abigevus, For Abigenus, signifies a Thief who hath stolen many Cattle, viz. Si quis suam surripuit fur erit, & si quis gregem Abigevus erit. Braet. l. 3. cap. 6.

Ability, The King's Issue are of Ability to inherit in England wheresoever born; and Children of Subjects born beyond Sea, may inherit if their Birth were within the Allegiance of the King. Stat. 25 Ed. 3. Vide Naturalization.

Abilbering, Is understood to be quit of Amercements. It originally signified a Forfeiture or Amercement; and is more properly Mishbering or Miskering, according to the learned Spelman. Since it hath been termed a Liberty or Freedom, because where-ever this Word is used in a Grant or Charter, the Persons to whom made have the Forfeitures and Amercements of all others, and are themselves free from the Control of any within their Fee. Rastal's Abr. Terms de Ley.

Abjuration, (Abjuratio) A Forswearing or Renouncing by Oath, signifies a sworn Banishment, or an Oath taken to forsake the Realm for ever. Staundf. Pl. C. l. 2. c. 40. It hath also now another Signification extending to the Person, as well as Place; as to abjure the Pretender by Oath, whereby a Man binds himself not to own any regal Authority in the Person called the Pretender, nor ever to pay him any Obedience, &c. Formerly in King Edward the Con- essor's Time, and other Reigns down to the 22 H. 8. (in Imitation of the Clemency of the Roman Emperors towards such as fled to the Church) if a Man had committed Felony here; and he could fly to a Church or Church-yard before his Apprehension, he might not be taken from thence to be tried for his Crime; but on Confession thereof before the Justice, or before the Coroner, he was admitted to his Oath to abjure or forsake the Realm; which Privilege he was to have forty Days, during which Time any Persons might give him Meat and Drink for his Sustainance, but not after, on Pain of being guilty of Felony: The Form of the Oath you may read in an ancient Tract de officio Coronatorum, and in Horn's Mirror of Justices, lib. 1. But at last, this Punishment being but a perpetual Confinement of the Offender to some Sanctuary, wherein (upon Abjuration of his Liberty and free Habitation) he would chuse to spend his Life, as appears by the Statute Anno 22 H. 8. c. 14. it is enacted 21 Jac. 1. cap. 28. That thence-after no Sanctuary or Privilege of Sanctuary should be allowed; whereupon this Abjuration ceased. 2 Inst. 629. An Abjuration or Deportation for ever into a Foreign Country, is a civil Death; and called (by the Lord Coke) a Divorce between Husband and Wife; and the Wife of such a Person may bring Actions, or be impleaded during the Natural Life of the Husband, which she may not do in any other Case: Also shall have her Dower, or Jointure, &c. Co. Litt. 133. This is where a Person suffers Banishment for any Crime. By Stat. 35 Eliz. Popish Recusants not making the Submission of Conformity, &c. are to abjure the Realm. And by 1 W. & M. 13 W. 3. 1 Geo. 1, &c. All Persons are to abjure the pretended Prince of Wales; and refusing the Oath, are liable to divers Penalties and Forfeitures, &c. This Abjuration Oath was invented for the Security of the Crown, and the Protestant Religion. See Oaths.

Abolition, A Destroying or Effacing, or putting out of Memory: And signifies the Leave given by the King, or Judges, to a Criminal Accuser to desist from further Prosecution. Stat. 25 H. 8. c. 21.

Abridge, (Abbreviare) Is derived from the French Word Abreger, to make shorter in Words so as to retain the Sense and Substance. And in the Common Law it signifies particularly the making a Declaration or Count shorter, by severing some of the Substance from it: A Man is said to abridge his Plein in Assise; and a Woman her Demand in Action of Dower, where any Land is put into the Plein or Demand which is not in the Tenure of the Defendant; for if the Defendant pleads Non tenure, Joint-tenancy, &c. in Abatement of the Writ, the Plaintiff may leave out those Lands, and pray that the Tenant may answer to the Rest. The Reason of this Abridgment of the Plein is, because the Certainty is not set down in such Writs, but they run in general: And though the Demandant hath abridg'd his Plein in Part, yet the Writ will be good for the Remainder. Brook, Tit. Abridgment, Anno 21 H. 8. c. 3.

Abridgment, (Abbreviamentum) A Treatise or Writing abridged and made shorter.

Arogate, (Abrogare) To disannul or take away any Thing: As to abrogate a Law, is to lay aside or repeal it. Stat. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 3.

Absentees, or Des Absentes, Was a Parliament so called, held at Dublin 10 May 28 Hen. 8. And mentioned in Letters Patent, Dat. 29 Hen. 8. 4 Co. Inst. 354.

Abolve, (Absolvere) To absolve one excommunicated, or pardon, or set free from Excommunication. Vide Absolve.

Absolutions from Rome, High Treason, &c. Stat. 23 Eliz. See Bull.

Absontare, Was a Word used by the English Saxons in the Oath of Fealty, and signified to shun or avoid avoid—As in the Form of the Oath among the Saxons recorded by Mr. Somner: In illo Deo, pro quo sanctum hoc sanctificatum est, volo esse nunc Domino meo N. fidelis & credibilis, & amare quod amat; & absoniare quod absoniat, per Dei rectum, & seculi competentiam—

Abque hoc, Are Words of Exception made Use of in a Traverse; as the Defendant pleads that such a Thing was done at B. &c. Abque hoc, that it was done at, &c. Mod. Ca. 103.

Accapitum, and Accapitare, The same with Relief due to Lords of Manors.—Capitali Domino accapitare, i. e. to pay a Relief to the Chief Lord. Fleta l. 2. c. 50.

Accedas ad Curiam, Is a Writ that lies where a Man hath received false Judgment in a Hundred-Court, or Court Baron. It is directed to the Sheriff; and issued out of the Chancery, but returnable into B. R. or C. B. And is in the Nature of the Writ de falso judicio, which lies for him that hath received false Judgment in the County-Court. In the Register of Writs, it is said to be a Writ that lies as well for Justice delayed, as for false Judgment; and that it is a Species of the Writ Recordare, the Sheriff being to make Record of the Suit in the inferior Court, and certify it into the King's Court. Reg. Orig. 9. 56. F. N. B. 18. Dyer 169.

Accedas ad Vicecomitem, Where a Sheriff hath a Writ called Pone delivered to him, but suppresseth it; this Writ is directed to the Coroner, commanding him to deliver a Writ to the Sheriff. Reg. Orig. 83.

Acceptance, (Acceptatio) Is the Taking and Accepting of any Thing in good Part, and as it were a tacit Agreement to a preceding Act, which might have been defeated and avoided, were it not for such Acceptance had. For Example; If a Bishop before the Statute 1 Eliz. leased Part of his Bishoprick for Term of Years, reserving Rent, and then dies; and after another is made Bishop, who accepts and receives the Rent when due, by this Acceptance, the Lease is made good, which otherwise the new Bishop might have avoided. It is the same if Baron and Feme seised of Lands in Right of the Feme, join and make a Lease or Feoffment, reserving Rent; and the Baron dies, after whose Death the Feme receives or accepts the Rent; by this the Lease or Feoffment is confirmed, and shall bar her from bringing a Cui in vita. Co. Litt. 211. But if a Parson, &c. make a Lease for Years not warranted by the Statute 32 H. 8. but is void by his Death; Acceptance of Rent by a new Parson or Successor, will not make it good. 1 Saund. 241. And if a Tenant for Life make a Lease for Years, there no Acceptance will make the Lease good, because the Lease is void by his Death. Dyer 46, 239. So if Tenant in Dower, leases for Years, and dies, and the Heir accepts the Rent. Tenant in Tail makes a Lease for Years not warranted by the Statute, rendering Rent, and dies; if the Issue accepts the Rent, it shall bind him. 3 Leon. Case 36. And if an Infant accepts of Rent at his full Age, it makes the Lease good, and shall bind him: But if Tenant in Tail make a Lease for Years, to commence after his Death, rendering Rent, in such Case Acceptance of Rent by the Issue, will not make the Lease good to bar him, because the Lease did not take Effect in the Life of his Ancestor. Plowd. 418. If a Lessor accepts from his Tenant the last Rent due to him, and gives the Lessee a Release for it, all Rent in Arrear is by Law presumed to be satisfied. Co. Litt. 373. And if a Lessee for Term of 20 Years, accepts of a Lease of the same Land for 10 Years, by the Lessee's Acceptance of the new Lease, the Term of 20 Years is determined in Law. 2 Roll. Abr. 469. A Lease is made on Condition, that the Lessee shall do no Waste; if he commits Waste, and afterwards the Lessor accepts the Rent, he cannot enter. Godb. 47. And where a Lessor accepts of a Surrender from the Lessee, he will be concluded of his Action of Waste, for Waste before the Surrender. Acceptance of the next Rent due, at a Day afterwards, will bar one to enter for a Condition broken before by Reason of Non-payment of the Rent; because the Lessor thereby affirmeth the Lease to have Continuance. Co. Litt. 211. And taking a Distress, affirmeth the Continuance of the Rent: But if Rent was due, at a Day before, and thereby the Condition was broken, one may receive that Rent, and yet re-enter: And if he accepts of Part of the Rent, he may enter for a Condition broken, and retain the Lands until he has the whole Rent. 3 Rep. 64. 1 Inst. 203. On accepting of Rent afterwards, the Lessor must have Notice of the Breach of the Condition, to bar his Entry. 1 Leon. 626. If a Lessor accepts of Rent from an Assignee, knowing of the Assignment, it bars him from Action of Debt against the Lessee; for the Privity of Contract is extinguished: But after such Acceptance, the Lessor or his Assigns, may maintain an Action against the first Lessee upon his Covenant for Payment of the Rent. 1 Saund. 241. 3 Rep. 24. Acceptance of Rent from the Assignee has been adjudged a sufficient Notice of the Assignment, so that the Lessor could not resort to the first Lessee. 2 Bull. 151. Acceptance of a lesser Sum of Money, may be in Satisfaction of a greater Sum, if it be before the Day on which the Money becomes due. 3 Bull. 301. But it will not be so after the Money is due. Moor 671. A Bill or Bond accepted may not be pleaded in Satisfaction of a Bond; but 'tis said a new Bond may, if it be not for Payment of Money on another Day. Hob. 68, 69. Where the Condition of a Bond is to pay Money, Acceptance of another Thing is good: But if the Condition is not for Money, but a collateral Thing, it is otherwise. Dyer 56. 9 Rep. 79. And the Acceptance of uncertain Things, as Customs, &c. made over, may not be pleaded in Satisfaction of a certain Sum due on Bond. Cro. Car. 192. If a Woman hath Title to an Estate of Inheritance, as Dower, &c. she shall not be barred by any collateral Satisfaction or Recompence: And no collateral Acceptance can bar any Right of Inheritance or Freehold, without some Release, &c. 4 Rep. 1. When a Man is entitled to a Thing in gross, he is not bound to accept it by Parcels; and if a Lessor distrains for Rent, he is not obliged to accept Part of it; nor in Action of Detinue, Part of the Goods, &c. 3 Salk. 2.

Necessary, Accessorius vel Accessorium, (Participi Criminis) Is where a Man is guilty of a felonious Offence, not Principally, but by Participation, as by Command, Advice, or Concealment, &c. And is of two Sorts, viz. Before the Fact, and after it: An Accessory before the Fact, is he that Commands or Procures another to commit Felony, and is not himself present when it is done; for if he be present, he is a Principal: And an Accessory after the Fact, is he that receives, assists or comforts any Man that hath committed Murder or Felony, which hath come to his Knowledge: But this doth not extend to a Woman, who receives or assists her Husband, tho' a Husband receiving his Wife, will be Accessory; and a Servant may be Accessory in relieving his Master, or assisting him in his Escape, &c. Also furnishing others with Weapons; finding a Felon a Horse for his Journey, or relieving him with Money, Victuals, &c. will make Persons Accessory. H. P. C. 218. 3 Inst. 108. There is likewise an Accessory of an Accessory; as he that receives an Accessory to a Felony. Fitz. Coron. 197. And Accessories in Petit Treason, Murder, Robbery on the Highway, in Dwelling-houses, &c. shall not have their Clergy. 4 & 5 P. & M. c. 4. One that is present and aiding the Stabbing of another, is not a Principal, but Accessory to the Stabbing, within the Act 1 Fac. 1. There cannot be an Accessory before the Fact in Manlaughter, because it is committed committed of a sudden, and unpremeditated. H. P. C. He who counsels or commands any Evil, shall be adjudged Accessory to all that follows upon it; but not to any Thing else: If a Person commandeth another to beat such a Person, and he beats him so that he dies of his Wounds, the Person commanding will be Accessory to the Murder: But if the Command had been to beat another Person; or to burn such a House, and he burns another; he that commandeth will not be Accessory. 3 Inst. 51. If I command a Person to do an unlawful Act, as to rob A. B. at one Place, and he doth it at another; or to rob him on such a Day, and he doth it not himself, but procures another to do it; or to kill by Poison, and he doth it by Violence; in all these Cases I shall be Accessory: But where the Command is to kill A. B. and he killeth A. D. this Difference in Substance, will not make the Commander Accessory. Plowd. 475. If a Man counsels a Woman to murder the Child in her Womb, and the Woman murder her Child after it is born, he is Accessory to the Murder. Dyer 185. If the Owner of stolen Goods, after Complaint made to a Justice of Peace, take his Goods, and consent to the Escape of the Felon, or compound the Offence; this it is said will make him Accessory after the Fact. Lamb. 285. But 'tis otherwise if before Complaint to the Justice, the Owner retaketh his Goods, and suffereth the Felon to escape, &c. Lamb. 285. Dalt. 400. Persons buying or receiving stolen Goods, knowing the same to be stolen, are Accessaries to the Felony. Stat. 3 & 4 W. & M. If a Felon come to the House of another, and he permits him to escape without Arrest, knowing him to have committed Felony, this doth not make a Man Accessory; but if he take Money of the Felon to suffer such Escape, it makes him an Accessory: And so it is if he shut the fore Door of his House, whereby the Pursuers are deceived, for here is not a bare Omission, but an Act done. 1 Hale's Hist. P. C. 619. If a Principal be not attainted, convicted, or outlawed thereupon, the Accessory may not be arraigned; there being a Law Maxim, Ubi non est principalis non potest esse accessorius. If the Principal is pardoned, or hath his Clergy, the Accessory cannot be arraigned; for the Principal must be adjudged so by Law: But if the Principal is pardoned after Attainder, in such Case the Accessory may be arraigned, because it appears judicially that there was a Principal. 4 Rep. 43. Where there are two Principals, the Attainder of one of them gives sufficient Foundation to arraign the Accessory: And Error in Attainder of the Principal will not avail an Accessory, for he is no Party to the Record. Jenk. Cent. 76. If the Principal be erroneously attainted, it must stand good till 'tis reversed. 9 Rep. By Stat. 1 Ann. c. 9. It is enacted, that where the Principal is convicted of Felony, or stands mute, or challengeth above twenty of the Jury, it shall be lawful to proceed against the Accessory in the same Manner as if the Principal had been attainted; and notwithstanding such Principal shall be admitted to his Clergy, pardoned, or delivered before Attainder. And if the Principal cannot be taken, then the Accessory may be prosecuted for a Misdemeanor, and punished by Fine, Imprisonment, &c. Stat. Ibid. See Stat. 5 Ann. c. 31. Accessaries are by Common Law, and by Statute: But in the highest and lowest Offences, there are no Accessaries; but all are Principals. Co. Litt. 71. Vide Murder, Principal, &c.

Accola, An Husbandman who came from some other Parts or Country to till the Lands, eo quod adveniens terram colat.—And is thus distinguished from Incola, viz. Accola non propriam, propriam colit Incola terram. Du Fresne.

Accolade, (from the French Accoller, collum amplecti) A Ceremony used in Knighthood by the King's putting his Hand about the Knight's Neck.

Accompt, (Computus) Is a Writ or Action which lies against a Bailiff or Receiver to a Lord, or others, who by Reason of their Offices and Business are to render Accompt; but refuse to do it. F. N. B. 116. If a Man makes one his Bailiff of a Manor, &c. he shall have a Writ of Accompt against him as Bailiff: Where a Person makes one Receiver, to receive his Rents or Debts, &c. he shall have Accompt against him as Receiver; and if a Man make one his Bailiff, and also his Receiver, then he shall have Accompt against him in both Ways. Also a Person may have a Writ of Accompt against a Man as Bailiff or Receiver, where he was not his Bailiff or Receiver; as if a Man receive Money for my Use, I shall have an Accompt against him as Receiver; or if a Person deliver Money unto another to deliver over unto me, I shall likewise have Accompt against him as my Receiver: So if a Man enter into my Lands to my Use, and receives the Profits thereof, I shall have Accompt against him as Bailiff. 9 H. 6. 36 H. 6. 10 R. 2. Fitz. Accompt. 6. A Judgment in Accompt as Receiver, is no Bar to Action of Accompt as Bailiff: But 'tis said a Bailiff cannot be charged as Receiver, nor a Receiver as Bailiff; because then he might be twice charged. 2 Lev. 127. 1 Davv. Abr. 220, 221. The Heir may have Writ of Accompt before or after his full Age, against a Guardian in Socage: And if he sue the Guardian for Profits of his Lands taken before he is fourteen Years old, he must charge him as Guardian; but if it be for taking the Profits after that Age, there he must sue him as Bailiff. Litt. 124. F. N. B. 118. Where an Heir sues a Stranger that doth intermeddle with his Land, he shall charge him in Accompt as Guardian. F. N. B. 18. A Man devises Land to be sold by his Executors, and the Money thence arising to be distributed among his Daughters; Action of Accompt lies in this Case, for the Daughters against the Executors. Jenk. Cent. 215. 2 Roll. Abr. 285. An Action of Accompt lies against a Bailiff, not only for what Profits he hath made and raised, but also for what he might have made and raised by his Care and Industry, his reasonable Charges and Expences deducted. Co. Litt. 172. One Merchant may have Accompt against another, where they occupy their Trade together: And if one charges me as Bailiff of his Goods ad mercandizandum, I shall answer for the Increase, and be punish'd for my Negligence; but if he charges me as Receiver ad computandum, I must be answerable only for the bare Money or Thing delivered. F. N. B. 117. Co. Litt. 272. 2 Leon. Ca. 245. A Man having received of another 100*l.* to be employed in Merchandize abroad, covenants at his Return to accompt to him; this doth not alter the Case, but notwithstanding the Covenant, Action of Accompt may be brought. 2 Bull. 256. And if I deliver to another Person Goods or Money beyond Sea, to be delivered to me again in England at a certain Place, and he delivers it not, I may be relieved by this Action. F. N. B. 18. Where two Persons are adjudged jointly to accompt, if one discharges himself upon the Account, it will be a Discharge to the other; and if he be charged by the Account, it shall be a Charge upon the other. Davv. 230. None shall be generally charged in Accompt but as Bailiff or Receiver, or Guardian in Socage. 1 Davv. 220. By the Stat. Westm. 2. 13 Edw. 1. c. 11. Masters may assign Auditors to take the Accounts of Servants, &c. (this extends not to Guardians in Socage.) And if the Accomptant be found in arrear, the Auditors assigned have Power to commit him to Prison, there to remain till he makes Agreement with the Party: But if the Accomptant be not allowed his reasonable Expences and Costs, or if he be charged with more Receipts than he ought, he may sue out of the Chancery a Writ ex parte talis, directed to the Sheriff to take four Mainpernors for bringing his Body before before the Barons of the Exchequer at a certain Day, and to warn the Lord or Master to appear at the same Time. Where a Man is adjudged to account, the Court shall assign him Auditors; and before the Auditors, the Plaintiff or Defendant may join Issue, or demur upon the Pleadings before them; which shall be certified to the Court, and there tried or argued: If Auditors are assigned, and a Day given the Defendant to account before them, if the Defendant would pray a further Day to give in his Account, the Auditors must grant it, and not the Court: But if the Defendant is remiss and negligent, they must certify to the Court that he will not account. 1 Danv. Abr. 231. 1 Mod. 42. By 4 & 5 Ann. Actions of Account may be brought against the Executors and Administrators of Guardians, Bailiffs, Receivers, &c. And by one Jointenant, &c. against the other, his Executors and Administrators, as Bailiff for receiving more than his Share; and the Auditors appointed by the Court, where the Action shall be depending, are authorized to administer an Oath, and examine the Parties, &c. The Auditors are Judges of Record. 2 Inst. 380. But what may be pleaded in Bar to the Action, shall not be allowed to be pleaded before the Auditors. Cro. Car. 82, 161. Some Pleas are in Bar of the Account, and others in Discharge before Auditors; and some Pleas will be allowed before Auditors, that will not be in Bar to the Account. Dyer 21. 11 Rep. 8. In Account the Plaintiff declared of the Receipt of Money by the Hands of a Stranger; the Defendant pleaded a Gift of the Money afterwards by the Plaintiff; this was a good Plea as well in Bar of the Action, as before Auditors. Winch 9. If Action of Account be brought against one as Bailiff, he shall be allowed his Costs and Expenses; but 'tis otherwise if such Action be brought against him as Receiver. Co. Lit. 172. If a Bailiff or Receiver make a Deputy, Action of Account will not lie against the Deputy, but against them. 1 Leon. 32. A Person receives Money due to me upon an Obligation, &c. I may either have an Action of Account against him as my Receiver; or Action of Debt, or on the Case, as owing me so much Money as he hath received. 1 Lill. 33. If I pay Money to another, I may bring an Action against him for so much Money received to my Use: But then he may discharge himself by alledging it was for some Debt, or to be paid over by my Order to some other Person, which he hath done, &c. 1 Lill. 30. An Apprentice shall not be charged with Action of Account: But if a Man have a Servant, whom he orders to receive Money, the Master shall have Account against him, if he were his Receiver. 1 Inst. 172. If Money be received by a Man's Wife to his Use, Action of Account lies against the Husband, and he may be charged in the Declaration as his own Receipt. Co. Lit. 295. Account does not lie against an Infant; but it lies against a Man or Woman, that is Guardian, Bailiff or Receiver, being of Age and discover: And tho' an Apprentice is not chargeable by this Action, for what he usually receives in his Master's Trade; yet upon collateral Receipts, he shall be charged as well as another. 1 Inst. 172. Roll. Abr. 117. 3 Leon. 92. As to other Actions of Account, they will not lie of a Thing certain; if a Man delivers 10*l.* to merchandize with, he shall not have Account of the 10*l.* but of the Profits, which are uncertain: And this is one Reason why this Action shall not lie for the Arrears of Rent. 1 Danv. Abr. 215. Action of Account may be brought against a Factor that sells Goods and Merchandizes upon Credit, without a particular Commission so to do, tho' the Goods are bona peritura. 2 Mod. 100. If there are two Demands in a Declaration, to which the Defendant pleads an Account stated, the Plaintiff can never after resort to the Original Contract, which is thereby merged and discharged in the Account: If A. sells his Horse to B. for 10*l.* and there being divers other Dealings between them, they come to an Account upon the Whole, and

B. is found in Arrear 5*l.* A. must bring his Infimus computasset for it, and not an Indebitatus assumpsit: But if there be only one Debt betwixt the Parties, Entering into an Account for that would not determine the first Contract. 1 Mod. Rep. 206. 2 Mod. 44. It has been held, that mutual Demands on an Account are not extinguished by settling it, and promise to pay the Balance; wherefore Assumpsit was brought for the original Debt. Fitzgib. 44. Hill. 2 Geo. 2. The Pleas in this Action, are Quod nunquam fuit Receptor, Quod plene computavit, &c. It is no Plea in an Account that he was robbed; but alledging it was without his Default and Negligence, will be a good Plea. Co. Lit. 89. That the Defendant never was Bailiff, is the general Bar; and it is a good Plea in Bar, by claiming a Property in the Things to be accounted for. 21 Ed. 3. 29 E. 3. 47. A Defendant as Receiver, cannot wage his Law, where he receives the Money by another's Hands; 'tis otherwise where he received it of the Plaintiff himself. 1 Cro. 919. And the Substance of the Action of Account against a Receiver is, that the Defendant be properly charged; as to the Time, 'tis not necessary to be particular therein, nor as to the Quantum of the Money; but the Plaintiff must shew by whose Hands the Defendant received it. 3 Kebl. 425. This Action is now seldom used: Damages are not given by it, for the Judgment is only to Account. 1 Leon. 302. The usual Judgment is quod computet, on which the Defendant is taken by Capias ad computandum: But there are two Judgments in this Writ, for if the Defendant cannot avoid the Suit by Plea, Judgment is first given, That he do Account; and having done this before the Auditors, there is another Judgment entered, that the Plaintiff shall recover of the Defendant so much as is found in Arrears. 11 Rep. 40. The first Judgment is but an Award of the Court, like to a Writ to enquire of Damages; and these two Judgments depend one upon another: For if Judgment be to Account, and the Party die before he hath accounted, the Executor cannot proceed in the Action, but it must be begun again; and no Writ of Error will lie upon the first 'till after the second Judgment. Ibid. Where a Scire Facias lies upon the Record in this Action ad Computandum, for the Plaintiff to proceed, &c. See 1 Cro. 19. The Process in Account, is Summons, Pone and Distress, and upon a Nihil returned, the Plaintiff may proceed to Outlawry. The Statute of Limitations, 21 Jac. 1. doth not bar a Man who is a Merchant from bringing Action of Account for Merchandize at any Time: But all other Actions of Account are within the Statute. In Chancery an Account fifteen or twenty Years standing, the Defendant may be allowed to prove on his own Oath, what he can't otherwise make Proof of; but here the Particulars must be named, as to whom the Money was paid, for what, and when, &c. 1 Chan. Rep. 146. And a Defendant shall be discharged upon his Oath of Sums under 40*s.* tho' it is held a Plaintiff shall not so charge another, or be allowed any Thing in Equity on his Oath. 2 Chan. Caf. 249. 1 Vern. 283. See Quib.

A Writ of Account to the Sheriff of the County.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting: We command you that, &c. A. B. that he justly and without Delay render to C. D. his reasonable Account, for the Time he was Bailiff of the said C. in, &c. And Receiver of the Monies of him C. as may be reasonably shewn, which to render him he ought, that no more Clamour thereof we may bear for Default of Justice. Witness, &c.

Accountant General, A new Officer in the Court of Chancery, appointed by Act of Parliament, to receive all Money lodged in Court, in the Place of the Masters, Masters, &c. He is to convey the Money to the Bank, and take the same out by Order; and shall only keep the Account with the Bank, for the Bank is to be answerable for all Money received by them, and not the Accomptant General, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 32. No Fees shall be taken by this Officer or his Clerks, on Pain of being punished for Extortion; but they are to be paid Salaries, the Accomptant General 650*l.* per Annum, out of Interest made of Part of the Suitors Money. 12 Geo. 2. cap. 24.

Accord, (French) Is an Agreement or Concordance between two or more Persons, where any one is injured by a Trespass, or Offence done, or on a Contract, to satisfy him with some Recompence; which if executed and performed, shall be a good Bar in Law, if the other Party after the Accord performed bring any Action for the same. Terms de ley 14. And it is to be observed that Accord executed only is pleadable in Bar, and Executory not. 1 Mod. 69. Also in Pleading it, 'tis the safest by Way of Satisfaction, and not of Accord alone. For if it be pleaded by Way of Accord, a precise Execution thereof in every Part must be pleaded: But by Way of Satisfaction, the Defendant need only alledge, that he paid the Plaintiff such a Sum, &c. in full Satisfaction of the Accord, which the Plaintiff received. 9 Rep. 80. The Defendant must plead that the Plaintiff accepted the Thing agreed upon in full Satisfaction, &c. And if it be on a Bond, it must be in Satisfaction of the Money mentioned in the Condition, and not of the Bond; which can't be discharged but by Writing under Hand and Seal. Cro. Jac. 254, 650. When a Duty is created by Deed in Certainty, as by Bill, Bond, or Covenant to pay a Sum of Money, this Duty accruing by Writing, ought to be discharged by Matter of as high a Nature; but when no certain Duty arises by Deed, but the Action is for a Tort or Default, &c. for which Damages are to be recover'd, there an Accord with Satisfaction is a good Plea. 6 Rep. 43. As a Contract upon Consideration may commence by Words; so by an Agreement by Words for any valuable Consideration, the Agreement may be dissolved. In Accord, one Promise may be pleaded in Discharge of another, before Breach; but after Breach, it cannot be discharged without a Release in Writing. 2 Mod. 44. Accord with Satisfaction, is no Plea to a Covenant not broken; for the Covenant being created by Deed, by Deed must be discharged: But upon a Covenant broken, it is a good Plea in Satisfaction and Discharge of the Damages. Lutw. 359. And Accord made before the Covenant broke, hath been adjudged a good Bar of Action of Covenant, as it may be in Satisfaction of Damage to come. 1 Danv. Abr. 546. If a Contract without Deed is to deliver Goods, &c. there Money may be paid by Accord in Satisfaction: But if one is bound in an Obligation to deliver Goods, or to do any collateral Thing, the Obligee can't by Accord give Money in Satisfaction thereof: Though when one is bound to pay Money, he may give Goods or any other valuable Thing in Satisfaction. 9 Rep. 78. 1 Inst. 212. Where Damages are uncertain, a lesser Thing may be done in Satisfaction, and in such Case an Accord and Satisfaction is a good Plea; but in Action of Debt on a Bond, there a lesser Sum cannot be paid in Satisfaction of a greater. 4 Mod. 88. Accord with Satisfaction is a good Plea in personal Actions, where Damages only are to be recovered; and in all Actions which suppose a Wrong, Vi & Armis, where a Capias and Exigent lay at the Common Law; in Trespass and Ejectment, Detinue, &c. Accord is a good Plea: So in an Appeal of Maihem. But in real Actions it is not a good Plea. 4 Rep. 1, 9, 70. 9 Rep. 77. Of late it hath been held, that upon mutual Promises an Action lies, and consequently there being equal Remedy on both Sides, an Accord may be pleaded without Execution, as well as an Arbitrament. Raym. 450. 2 Jones 158. Acceptance of the Thing agreed on in these Accords is the only material Thing to make them binding. Hob. 178. 5 Mod. 86.

Accroche, (from the French Accrocher) To hook or grapple unto: It signifies as much as to encroach, and is mentioned in the Statute 25 Ed. 3. c. 8. to that Purpose. The French use it for Delay, as Accrocher un Procès. to stay the Proceedings in a Suit.

Accusation, (Accusatio) To charge any Person with a Crime. By Magna Charta, no Man shall be imprisoned or condemned on any Accusation, without Trial by his Peers, or the Law. 9 H. 3. None shall be vexed upon any Accusation, but according to the Law of the Land: And no Man may be molested by Petition to the King, &c. unless it be by Indictment, or Presentment of lawful Men, or by Process at Common Law. 25 Ed. 3. 28 E. 3. c. 3. None shall be compelled to answer an Accusation to the King, without Presentment, or some Matter of Record. Stat. 42 Ed. 3. Promoters of Suggestions are to find Surety to pursue them, and not making them good, shall satisfy Damages to the Party accused, and pay a Fine to the King. 38 Ed. 3. c. 9. In Treason there must be two lawful Accusers. Stat. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. A Person is not obliged to answer on Oath to a Matter by which he may accuse himself of any Crime, &c. 2 Mod. Rep. 278.

Accephali, The Levelers in the Reign of King Hen. 1. who acknowledged no Head or Superior. Leges H. 1. They were reckoned so poor that they had not a Tenement by which they might acknowledge a superior Lord. Du Cange.

Ac etiam Bille, Words or a Clause of a Writ, where the Action requires good Bail. The Stat. 13 Car. 2. c. 2. which enjoins the Cause of Action to be particularly expressed in the Writ or Process which holds a Person to Bail, hath ordained the Inserting of this Clause in Writs; but it ought not to be made out against a Peer of the Realm, or upon a penal Statute, or against an Executor or Administrator, or for any Debt under 10*l.* Nor in any Action of Account render, Action of Covenant, &c. unless the Damages are 10*l.* or more: Nor in Action of Trespass, or for Battery, Wounding or Imprisonment; except there be an Order of Court for it, or a Warrant under the Hand of one of the Judges of the Court out of which the Writ Issues. 1 Lill. Abr. 13.

Acchat, (Fr. Achet) Signifies a Contract or Bargain. Purveyors by Statute 36 Ed. 3. were called Acchators, from their frequent making of Bargains.

Acherfet, A Measure of Corn, conjectured to be the same with our Quarter or eight Bushels. The Monks of Peterborough had an Allowance weekly of twelve Acherfetos de frumento, and eight Acherfetos de Brasio, and Six de Grad. and eleven Acherfetos de fabis, &c.

Acholite, (Acolitus) An inferior Church Servant, who, next under the Subdeacon, followed or waited on the Priests and Deacons, and performed the meaner Offices of lighting the Candles, carrying the Bread and Wine, and paying other servile Attendance.

Acknowledgment Money, Is a Sum paid in some Parts of England by Tenants on the Death of their Landlords, as an Acknowledgment of their new Lords; in like Manner as Money is usually paid on the Attornment of Tenants.—Solvet XIIId. ad Recognitionem cuiuslibet novi Domini de Hope, &c.—Ex libro Cart. Prior. Leominstriz.—It is in Latin called, Laudativum vel Laudemium, a laudando Domino.

Acquiescentia de Shiris & Hundzedis, To be free from Suits and Services in Shires and Hundreds.

Acquiescendis Plegiis, A Writ of Jussies lying for the Surety against a Creditor, who refuses to acquit him after the Debt is satisfied. Reg. of Writs 158.

Acquiescere, Is a Law-Word, signifying quietum reddere. Dr. Wilk. Gloss. And it also sometimes signifieth to pay. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. fol. 199.

Acquittal,

Acquittal, (from the French Word Acquitter, and the Latin Compound Acquittare) To free or discharge: It signifies in one Sense to be free from Entries and Molestations of a superior Lord for Services issuing out of Lands; and in another Signification (the most General) it is taken for a Deliverance and Setting free of a Person from the Suspicion of Guilt; as he that on Trial is discharged of a Felony, is said to be Acquittatus de Felonia; and if he be drawn in Question again for the same Crime, he may plead auter foits acquit; as his Life shall not be twice put in Danger for the same Offence. 2 Inst. 385. When two are indicted, the one as Principal, and the other as Accessary, the Principal being discharged, the Accessary of Consequence will be acquitted by Law: Acquittal in Fa^{ct} is when a Person is found Not guilty of the Offence by a Jury, on Verdict, &c. But in Murder, if a Man is acquitted, Appeal may be brought against him. 3 Inst. 273. If one be acquitted on an Indictment of Murder, supposed to be done at such a Time; and after indicted again in the same County, for the Murder committed at another Time; here notwithstanding that Variance, the Party may plead auter foits Acquit, by averring it to be the same Felony: So where a Person is indicted a second Time, for Robbery upon the same Person, but at another Vill, &c. But if there be an Indictment against him in another County, for a Felony there done 'tis said he shall not plead Acquittal of the same Felony in the County where first indicted; tho' it has been held to be otherwise on an Appeal. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 244, 245. And under Larceny the contrary is in 2 Haw. k. 370. Where a Man is discharged on special Matter found by the Grand Jury, yet he may be indicted de novo seven Years afterwards, and cannot plead this Acquittal; as he may upon the special Matter found by the Petit Jury, and Judgment given thereon. Ibid. 246. If a Person is lawfully acquitted on a malicious Prosecution, he may bring his Action, &c. for Damages, after he hath obtained a Copy of the Indictment and the Judge's Certificate: But it is usual for the Judges of Gaol-Delivery to deny a Copy of an Acquittal to him who intends to bring an Action thereon, when there was probable Cause for a Criminal Prosecution. Carters's Rep. 421. A Son in-Law indicted his Mother for poisoning her Husband his Father, and she being acquitted, brought an Action for a malicious Prosecution against him, and recovered Damages; and he, to requite her Kindness, brought an Appeal of Murder, on which she was tried, convicted and executed. Cro. Car. 383. Also a Fellow having brought an Action for saying of him he was a Highway-man; and it appearing upon Evidence he was so, he was taken in Court, committed to Newgate, and convicted and hanged the next Sessions. Mod. Caf. 217. An Offender may be acquitted by the King's Pardon, or Proclamation. Staundf. 168.

Acquittance, (Acquittantia) signifieth a Discharge in Writing, of a Sum of Money, or Debt due; as where a Man is bound to pay Rent reserved upon a Lease, &c. And the Party to whom due, on Receipt thereof gives a Writing under his Hand witnessing that he is paid: This will be such a Discharge in Law, that he cannot demand and recover the Sum or Duty again, if the Acquittance be produced. Terms de Ley 15. Dyer 6, 25, 51. An Acquittance is a Discharge and Bar in the Law, to Actions, &c. And if one acknowledges himself to be satisfied by Deed, it may be a good Plea in Bar, without any Thing received: But an Acquittance, without Seal, is only Evidence of Satisfaction, and not pleadable; for no Deed signifies a Deed of Acquittance. 1 Inst. 52. The Obligor is not bound to pay Money upon a single Bond, except an Acquittance be given him by the Obligee: Nor is he obliged to pay the Money before he hath the Acquittance. But in Case of an Obligation with a Condition, it is otherwise; for there one may aver Payment. And by 3 & 4 Ann. c. 16. If an Action of Debt is brought upon a single Bill, and the Defendant hath paid the Money, such Payment may be pleaded in Bar of the Action. 'Tis observed, that a general Receipt or Acquittance in full of all Demands, will discharge all Debts, except such as are on Specialty, viz. Bonds, Bills and other Instruments sealed and delivered; on which Account those can only be destroyed by some other Specialty of equal Force, such as a General Release, &c. There being this Difference between that and the general Acquittance. See 2 Cro. 650. A Servant may give an Acquittance for the Use of his Master, where such Servant usually receives his Master's Rents, &c. and the Master shall be bound by it. 1 Inst. 112. The Manner of Tender and Payment of Money shall be generally directed by him who pays it, and not by him who receives it; and the Acquittance ought to be given accordingly.

Acre, (from the German Word Acker, i. e. Ager) A Quantity of Land, containing in Length 40 Perches, and in Breadth four Perches: Or in Proportion to it, be the Length or Breadth more or less. By the Customs of Countries, the Perch differs in Quantity, and consequently the Acres of Land: It is commonly but 16 Feet and a Half; but in Staffordshire it is 24 Feet. According to the Statute 34 Hen. 8. concerning the Sowing of Flax, it is declared that 160 Perches make an Acre, which is 40 multiplied by Four: And the Ordinance of measuring Land, 35 Ed. 1. agrees with this Account. The Word Acre formerly meant any open Ground or Field; as Castle-Acre, West-Acre, &c. and not a determined Quantity of Land. Also Acre, or Acre-fight, is an old Sort of Duel fought by single Combatants, English and Scotch, between the Frontiers of their Kingdoms, with Sword and Lance; and this Duelling was called Camp-fight, and the Combatants Champions, from the open Field that was the Stage of Trial.

Æstilia, Military Utensils. — Quilibet paratus sit cum Æstiliis & Harnesibus, &c. & quicumque habet decem Libras in bonis, & non habuerit omnia cremorum Æstilia, perdat omnia bona. Du Cange.

Action, (Actio) Is the Form of a Suit given by Law for Recovery of that which is one's Due: Or it is a legal Demand of a Man's Right. 1 Inst. 285. The learned Bracton thus defines it, Actio nihil aliud est quam jus prosequendi in Judicio quod alicui debetur. And Actions are either Criminal or Civil; Criminal, to have Judgment of Death, as Appeals of Death, Robbery, &c. or only to have Judgment for Damage to the Party, Fine to the King and Imprisonment, as Appeals of Maibem, &c. 1 Inst. 284. 2 Inst. 40. Civil Actions are such which tend only to the Recovery of that which by Reason of any Contract, &c. is due to us; as Action of Debt, upon the Case, &c. 2 Inst. 61. There are also Actions Penal; which lie for some Penalty or Punishment in the Party sued, be it corporal or pecuniary. Bract. Actions upon the Statute, brought upon the Breach of any Statute, whereby an Action is given that lay not before: As where one commits Perjury to the Prejudice of another, the Party that is injured shall have a Writ upon the Statute. Actions Popular, given on the Breach of some penal Statute, which every Man hath a Right to sue for himself and the King, by Information, &c. And because this Action is not given to one especially, but generally to any that will prosecute, it is called Action Popular. These last Actions may be rank'd under Criminal Actions: And Actions Civil are divided into Real, Personal and Mix'd. Action Real is that Action whereby a Man claims Title to Lands, Tenements or Hereditaments, in Fee, or for Life: And these Actions are Possessory, or Ancestrel; Possessory, of a Man's own Possession and Seisin; or Ancestrel of the Possession or Seisin of his Ancestor. Action Personal is such as one Man brings against another, on any Contract for Money or Goods, or on Account of any Offence or Trespafs; and it claims a Debt, Goods, Chattels, &c. or Damages for the same. Action Mix'd is an Action that lieth as well for the Thing demanded, as against the Person that hath it; on which the Thing is recovered, and likewise Damages for the Wrong sustained: It seeks both the Thing whereof a Man is deprived, and a Penalty for the unjust Detention. But Detinue is no Action mix'd, notwithstanding the Thing demanded and Damages for withholding it be recovered; for it is an Action merely personal, brought only for Goods and Chattels. In a Real Action, setting forth the Title in the Writ, several Lands held by several Titles may not be demanded in the same Writ: In Personal Actions, several Wrongs may be comprehended in one Writ. 8 Rep. 87. A Bar is perpetual in Personal Actions, and the Plaintiff is without Remedy, unless it be by Writ of Error or Attaint: But in Real Actions, if the Defendant be barred, he may commence an Action of a higher Nature, and try the same again. 5 Rep. 33. Action of Waste sued against Tenant for Life, is in the Realty and Personalty; in Realty, the Place wasted being to be recovered, and in the Personalty, as treble Damages are to be recovered. 1 Inst. 284. If a Disseisor make a Feoffment to another, the Disseisee shall have Assise of Novel Disseisin against the Disseisor and the Feoffee, and recover Seisin of the Lands, and Damages for the Profits: And so it is of Actions mix'd, not only in Waste, but Quare Imprudis, &c. Terms de Ley 18. But if a Lessee for Years commit Waste, and dies, Action of Waste may not be had against his Executor or Administrator, for Waste done by the Deceased. And where a Keeper of a Prison permits one in Execution to escape, and afterwards dieth, no Action will lie against his Executors. Also if a Battery be committed on a Man, and he that is the Aggressor, or the Party on whom committed, die, the Action is gone: For Personal Actions die with the Person. 1 Inst. 53. Actions Real and Mix'd, Ejectment, Waste, Trespases, Quare Clausum Fregit, &c. are to be laid in the same County where the Land lieth: Personal and Transitory Actions, as Debt, Detinue, Assault and Battery, &c. may be brought in any County, (except it be against Officers of Places, &c. by Statute 21 Jac. 1.) 1 Inst. 282. Actions Transitory may be laid in any County, altho' the Statute 6 R. 2. enacted, That Writs of Debt, Account, &c. should be commenced in the County where the Contracts were made; for that Statute was never put in Use; and yet generally Actions have been laid in the County where the Cause of them was arising. If the Cause of Action arise in two Counties, an Action may be brought in either County: But if a Nuisance be erected in one County, to the Damage of a Man in another, the Assise must be brought in Confinio Comitatum. Mich. 8 Ann. B. R. Actions are said to be perpetual and temporal; perpetual, those which cannot be determined by Time; and all Actions may be called perpetual that are not limited to Time for their Prosecution: Temporary Actions are those that are expressly limited: As for Example; the Statute 7 H. 8. c. 3. gives Action within four Years after the Offence committed: The 1 Ed. 6. c. 1. within three Years: The 31 Eliz. c. 5. within one Year, &c. Since the Statute of Limitations, all Actions seem to be temporary; or not so perpetual, but they may in Time be prescribed against: A Real Action may be prescribed against within five Years, on a Fine levied, or Recovery suffered. By Stat. Hen. 8. A Writ of Right for Recovery of Lands is to be brought within sixty Years: By 21 Jac. 1. Writs of Formedon for any Title to Lands in Esse, are to be sued within twenty Years: Actions of Debt, on the Case, of Account, Detinue, Trover and Trespases, are to be brought within six Years; of Assault and Battery within four Years; and Slander within two Years: But the Right of Action in these Cases is saved to Infants, Feme Coverts, Persons beyond Sea, &c. And on a fresh Promise the Time limited may be enlarged; also the Taking out and Filing of a Writ, is a good bringing of an Action to avoid the Statute of Limitations. 1 Lill. 19. Actions are joint or several; joint, where several Persons are equally concerned, and the one cannot bring the Action, or cannot be sued, without the other; Several, in Case of Trespases, &c. done, where Persons are to be severally charged, and every Trespas committed by many is several. 2 Leon. 77. A Man attainted of Treason or Felony, convict of Recusancy, an Outlaw, excommunicated Person, convict of Praemunire, an alien Enemy, &c. cannot bring an Action, till Pardon, Reversal, Absolution, &c. But Executors or Administrators being outlawed, may sue in the Right of the Testator or Intestate; though not in their own Right. A Feme Covert must sue with her Husband: And Infants are to sue by Guardian, &c. 1 Inst. 128. Actions may be brought against all Persons, whether attainted of Treason or Felony, a convict Recusant, outlawed and excommunicated, &c. and a Feme Covert must be sued with her Husband. A Scire facias, or any Writ to which the Defendant may plead, or by which a Plaintiff may recover, is an Action. 6 Rep. 3. Salk. 5: But where it appears upon the Record, that an Action is brought before the Cause of Action arises, either in the Declaration or Verdict, or otherwise by the Plaintiff's own Shewing, he shall never recover. 3 Salk. A Plaintiff may sue out a Latitat before the Cause of Action; but he cannot declare till after the Cause of Action doth arise. Mod. Cnf. in L. and E. 344. Right and Wrong are the Mother of all Actions; and therefore no Action can be brought without the having of a Right, and the Laying of a Wrong done before the Action. Hob. 198. In every Action, and the Proceeding thereupon, three Things are to be done; first the Cause or Matter of Fact must be shewed, and this the Parties must do; then the Law is to be shewed, and Judgment given according to it, which the Judges are to do; and then their Judgment must be executed by the Officers of the Court. Flouvd. 36. Also in all Actions, there must be a Person able to sue; the Party sued must be one suable for the Thing laid; and the Plaintiff is to bring his Right and proper Action which the Law gives him for Relief. 1 Selp. Abr. 20. There are three Sorts of Damages or Wrongs, either of which is a sufficient Foundation for an Action. 1. Where a Man suffers Damage in his Fame and Credit. 2. Where one has Damage to his Person, as by Imprisonment, Battery, &c. which respects his Liberty. 3. Where a Person suffers any Damage in his Property. Cartb. Rep. 416. If a Thing that is an Injury to a particular Person, is prohibited by Act of Parliament, the Party may have his Action, and yet 'tis indictable also. Comberb. 374. And Injuria & Damnum are the Foundations of Actions on the Case.

Action upon the Case, (Actio super Casam) Is a general Action given for Redress of Wrongs and Injuries, done without Force, and by Law not provided against, in Order to have Satisfaction for Damages: And in Actions upon the Case, the like Process is to be had as in Actions of Trespases or Debt. 19 H. 7. c. 9. Terms de Ley 17. It is called Action of the Case, because the whole Cause or Casus, so much as in the Declaration (except Time and Place) is set down in the Writ; and there is no other Action given in the Case, save only where the Plaintiff hath his Choice to bring this or other Action. If my Fire, by Misfortune, burn the Goods of another Man; for this Wrong, he shall have Action on the Case against me: And if my Servant puts a Candle or other Fire in any Place in my House, and this burns all my House and the House of my Neighbour, Action of the Case lies for him against me. 1 Danv. 10. But see the Stat. 6 Ann. and 10 Ann. c. 14. If a Person delivereth Goods to a common Carrier, to carry them to a certain certain Place, and he loseth them, Action upon the Case lies against him; for by the common Custom of the Realm he ought to carry them safely: It is the same of a common Hoyman or Lighterman, who is a Water-Carrier of Goods; but Goods in this Case, may be thrown over-board in a Tempest, to preserve the Passengers Lives in the Lighter, &c. and no Action lie. 2 Bull. 280. If a common Carrier is robbed of Goods, he is chargeable for them, because he had his Hire, and took upon himself the safe Delivery of the Goods therefore: And tho' a Person doth not acquaint the Carrier with all the Particulars in a Box, as that there is such a Sum of Money, &c. the Carrier shall answer for the Money, if robbed: Tho' a special Acceptance may excuse him. 1 Danv. 13. A common Inn-keeper is chargeable for Goods stolen in his House: And if the Inn-keeper be not of sound Memory, it is said Action lies against him; But if the Inn-keeper be an Infant, no Action will lie against such Infant. The Person robbed must be a Traveller, and Guest in the Inn; If the Goods are committed to the Host upon another Account, and are stolen, no Action will lie. So if a Man comes to an Inn, and leaving Goods there, goes away for two or three Days, if in that Time they are stolen, no Action lies against the Inn-keeper; for at the Time of the Stealing he was not his Guest: But where a Man comes on Horseback to an Inn, and leaves his Horse with the Host, if he goes away from the Inn for several Days, and in his Absence the Horse is stole, the Inn-keeper shall be charged for it; because he had Benefit by the Continuance of the Horse with him, he being paid for it, and so the Owner was a Guest. Moor 877. If a Man upon a special Agreement boards in an Inn for any Time, and is robbed, the Inn-keeper shall not answer for it. Latch 127. An Inn-keeper is liable, tho' the Guest doth not acquaint him what Goods or Money he hath. 8 Rep. 33. If an Inn-keeper refuse to entertain his Guest, this Action may be brought against him. Dyer 158. If a Mail is robbed, and Bills are lost; by Holt Chief Justice, Action lies against the Post-Master, as against a common Carrier, &c. he being paid a Salary for doing his Duty; but 'twas over-ruled by the other Justices. 1 Salk. 17. This Action lies for Deceits in Contracts, Bargains and Sales: If a Vintner sells Wine knowing it to be corrupt, as good and not corrupt, tho' without Warranty, Action lies. Danv. 173. So if a Man sells a Horse, and warrants him to be sound of his Limbs, if he be not, Action on the Case lies. 11 Hen. 6. A Person warrants a Horse Wind and Limb, that hath some secret Disease known to the Seller, but not to the Buyer, this Action may be brought: Tho' if one sell a Horse and warrant him sound, and he hath at the Time visible Infirmities, which the Buyer may see; Action on the Case will not lie. Yelv. 114. 2 Cro. 675. Where one tells me any Wares or Commodities, and is to deliver that which is good, but delivers what is nought: Or sells any Thing by false or deceitful Weights and Measures, with or without Warranty, Action on the Case lies; and so where a Man doth sell corrupt Victuals, as Bread, Beer, or other Thing for Food, and knows it to be unwholesome. Dyer 75. 4 Rep. 18. 2 Cro. 270. Yet if the Buyer or his Servant shall see and taste the Victuals, &c. and like and accept the same, no Action can be had. 7 H. 4. 16. Nor will Case lie upon a Warranty of what is out of a Man's Power, or of a future Thing; as that a Horse shall carry a Man thirty Miles a Day, or the like. Finch 188. If a Man sells certain Packs of Wool, and warrants that they are good and merchantable, if they are damaged, Action of the Case lies against him. 1 Danv. 187. The bare Affirmation by the Seller of a particular Sort of Diamond, without warranting it to be such, will not maintain an Action. 2 Cro. 4. 196. But where a Man hath the Possession of a personal Thing, the Affirming it to be his own, is a Warranty that it is so: Tho' 'tis otherwise in Case of Lands, where the Buyer at his Peril is to see that he hath Title. 1 Salk. 210. If a Person sells to another Cattle or Goods, that are not his own, Action of the Case lies: So if he warrants Cloth to be of such a Length, that is deficient of it. If a Taylor undertakes to make a Suit of Clothes, and spoils them, Action lies: And if a Carpenter promises to mend my House before a certain Day, and doth not do it, by which my House falls: Or if he undertakes to build a House for me, and doth it ill, Action on the Case lies. 1 Danv. 32. If a Chirurgeon neglects his Patient, or applies unwholesome Medicines, whereby the Patient is injured, this Action lieth. And if a Counsel retained to appear on such a Day in Court, doth not come, by which the Cause miscarries, Action lies against him: So if after Retainer, he become of Counsel to the Adversary against the Plaintiff. 11 H. 6. 18. For Stopping up a Water-course or Way; Breaking down a Man's Wall, Stopping of antient Lights, and for any private Nufance to a Man's Water, Light, or Air, whereby a Person is damnified, this Action lieth. 1 Cro. 427. Yelv. 159. Where a Smith promises to shoe my Horse well, if he pricks him, Action of the Case lies; and so when he refuses to shoe him, on which I travel without, and my Horse is damaged. If a Horse that is hired, hath been abused by the Rider, Action lies: So where Goods pawned are not delivered, on offering the Money: Where any one personates another, for Cheating at Gaming; where a Surety is not saved harmless, &c. 2 Inst. 198. If I lend another my Horse to ride so far, and he rides further, or forward and backward, or doth not give him Meat, this Action lieth. 1 Cro. 14. And where one lends me a Horse for a Time, if he take him from me within that Time, or disturb me before I have done what I hired him for; Action of the Case lies: And though I ride the Horse out of the Way in my Journey, he may not take him from me. 8 Rep. 146. This Action lies, for keeping a Dog accustomed to bite Sheep; but not for a Man's Dog running at any Sheep, tho' he kills them, if it be without his Consent. 1 Danv. Abr. 19. Heil. 171. Action of the Case will lie against a Gaoler for putting Irons on his Prisoner; or putting him in the Stocks, or not giving sufficient Sufenance to him, being committed for Debt. F. N. B. 83. The Master may in many Cases have this Action against his Servant, Steward, or Bailiff, for any special Abuse done to him; and for Negligence, &c. Also it lies for taking or enticing away my Servant, and retaining him; or threatening a Servant, whereby I lose his Service. Lane 68. 1 Cro. 777. 1 Shep. Abr. 52, 59. A Servant is trusted with Goods and Merchandize consign'd to him by a Merchant, to pay the Customs for them, and dispose of them to Profit; if he to deceive the Merchant, and have Allowance for it on his Account, and to defraud the King, lands some of the Goods without paying the Customs, by which they are forfeited, Action of the Case lieth. Lans 65. 2 Cro. 266. If I trust one to buy a Lease or other Thing for me, and he buyeth it for himself, or doth not buy it, this Action lies against him; but if he doth his Endeavour it sufficeth. Bro. 117. And where a Man is disturb'd in the Use of a Seat in the Church, which he hath had Time out of Mind: A Steward is hinder'd in the keeping of his Courts; a Keeper of a Forest disturbed in taking the Profits of his Office; a Bailiff in distraining for an Amerciament, &c. Action on the Case will lie. Brndl. 89. Lib. Intr. 5. Moor 987. An Action of the Case lies for him in Reversion, against a Stranger, for Damage to his Inheritance, tho' there be a Term in Esse. 3 Lev. 360. Also if a Lessor comes to the House he has demised, to see if it be out of Repair, or any Waste be done, and meets with any Disturbance therein; or if one disturbs a Parson in taking his Tithes, this Action lies. 2 Cro. 478. 2 Inst. 650. And for setting up a new Mill on a River, to the Prejudice of another who hath an antient Mill, likewise an Action will lie. Lib. Intr. 9. The Things for which Action of the Cafe may be brought are generally distinguish'd into Nonfeasance, where a Man omits that which he ought to do, and comprehends an Assumpsit, expressed or implied; Misfeasance, the doing of something undertaken, or which the Law requires him to do, otherwise than he ought, by which Misdoing the Plaintiff receives Damage; And Malefeasance, a doing of something which ought not to be done at all, &c. And Nonfeasance may concern a Man's real Estate; as where there is a Charge upon any Person by reason of his Tenure, to repair any House, Bridge, Way, Hedge, &c. and he doth it not, whereby the Plaintiff is prejudiced; also for refusing to Grind at the Lord's Mill according to Tenure; or for not paying Toll of a Mill, Market, &c. Misfeasance may likewise regard a Man's House or Lands, as well as his Goods and Cattle. 8 Rep. 146. 3 Cro. 498. 10 Rep. 139. Co. Entr. 10. And Action of the Cafe on Assumpsit, lies for not making a good Estate of Land sold, according to Promise; not paying Money upon a Bargain and Sale, according to Agreement; not delivering Goods upon Promise, on Demand; This is by express Assumpsit; and implied Assumpsit is where Goods are sold, or Work is done, &c. without any Price agreed upon; on Action of the Cafe by Quantum meruit, the Law implies a Promise and Satisfaction to the Value. If a Man make a Lease for Years, rendering Rent, he cannot have Action upon the Cafe for Assumpsit for this Rent; but is to have Action of Debt on the real Contract. 1 Danv. 28. So it is upon Promise of Payment of Money on a Bond; unless there be a Collateral Promise: And for Breach of Promise made by Deed, Writ of Covenant is to be brought. 1 Roll. Abr. 517. Indebitatus Assumpsit will not lie upon a Bill of Exchange accepted; but Action upon the Custom only. 1 Vent. 152. The Consideration is the Ground of the common Action on the Cafe: And no Action on the Cafe lieth against a Man for a Promise where there is no Consideration why he should make the Promise. 1 Danv. 53. A Consideration wholly past and executed before is not sufficient to bring Action of the Cafe. Moor 820. But it may be good on Promise for Service done. 2 Leon. 225. A Person, in Consideration another hath built a House, or acquitted him of a Trespass, &c. promises to do some other Thing, or to pay so much Money; 'tis said this is not a good Consideration, to ground an Action, there appearing nothing but what is altogether past, without any Thing to continue it. Moor 220. Style 465. Where a Plaintiff by the Defendant's Appointment paid a little before 20*l.* for a Debt of the Defendant, he promis'd to repay it on Demand; that Consideration shall be held to be past, and the Judgment in the Action stayed. Cro. Eliz. 741. If a Man promise to do a Thing by such a Day, without any Consideration or Reward, and doth it not, no Action will lie; but if he actually enters upon the Performance of the Thing, and then neglects it to the Deceit of the Plaintiff, Action on the Cafe lies. Trin. 2 Ann. 3 Salk. 11. 'Tis said the Folly of a Defendant hath been considered in some Promises, and reasonable Damages given by the Jury. Mod. Ca. 305. The Person to whom a Promise is made, shall have the Action; and not those who are Strangers, or for whose Benefit it is intended. Danv. 64. Nor shall Action be brought against one for what another receives, not at his Request, &c. 1 Salk. 23. But if a Man delivers Money to A. B. to my Use, I may have an Action on the Cafe against him for this Money. If a Man accounts, and upon the Account is found in Arrear to a certain Sum, and presently in Consideration thereof assumes to pay the Debt at a Day; Action on the Cafe lies for this after the Day. Yelv. 70. And on a Promise to pay a Sum of Money, at so much a Month, an Action of the Cafe may be brought before the whole is payable; for it is grounded upon the Promise, which is broken by every Non-Payment, and Damages may be recovered: 'Tis not like the Cafe of a Bill of Debt, which is founded on the Specialty, and cannot be demanded until the intire Sum is due. 2 Cro. 504. If Action on the Cafe be upon a Special Promise, it is necessary to lay a good Consideration, &c. And the Declaration may be laid on five several Counts or Promises, viz. Assumpsit for Promise of Payment of so much Money on such a Day, &c. Quantum valebat, where Goods are deliver'd at no certain Price, to be paid so much as they are worth, &c. Quantum meruit, when a Man does work without making any Agreement for it, to be paid as much as he shall deserve: Indebitatus Assumpsit for Debt in a Sum certain, &c. And infimus Computasset, where the Parties have reckoned or accounted. Also sometimes a Mutuo dat & accommodat, &c. is inserted; and the Cause of laying the Declaration so many Ways, is, that you may be sure by the Proofs to hit on one of the Promises. Practif. Attorn. 72, 73. For malicious Prosecutions, where a Suit is without Ground, and one is arrested, Action on the Cafe lies for unjust Vexation: So for false Imprisonment. And for falsely and maliciously arresting a Person for more than is due to the Plaintiff, whereby the Defendant is imprisoned, for Want of Bail; or if it be on Purpose to hold him to Bail, Action on the Cafe will lie, after the Original Action is determined. 1 Lev. 275. 1 Salk. 15. And Action likewise lies against Sheriffs, for Default in executing Writs; permitting Escapes, &c.

Action on the Cafe for Words, Is brought where a Person is injured and defamed in his Reputation. And for Words spoke of a Person, which affect his Life, Office, or Trade, or tend to his Loss of Preferment in Marriage, Service, or to his Disinheritance, or which occasion any particular Damage, this Action may be had. To say of another, that he hath killed a Man, Action lies; though he did not design any particular Person. 1 Danv. 150. But not to say of a Man he deserves to be hang'd: Nor to call another Rogue generally, or say he will prove him to be a Rogue; though it will lie to say a Man is a Rogue of Record. 4 Rep. 15. Danv. 92. Words which charge a Person, with being a Murderer, Highwayman or Thief, in express Terms, are held actionable. 1 Roll. Abr. 47. Tho' for saying such a one would have taken his Purse on the Highway, or have robbed him, an Action lies not; for nothing is shewn to be done in order thereto. Cro. Eliz. 250. To say of another he is a Traitor, Action lies. 1 Bull. 145. If one call another a feditious traiterous Knave, no Action lieth; because the Words imply an Intention only, and not an unlawful Act. 4 Rep. 19. To say that he is a Witch, and did bewitch such a Person, &c. is actionable; but not to call a Person Witch, without more Words. 1 Brownl. 15. To say a Man was in Gaol for stealing any Thing, is not actionable, for the Words do not affirm the Theft. Danv. 140. But to call an honest Person Thief, or to say I will not keep a Thief, as A. B. doth; Or that I think A. B. committed such a Felony; or I dream he stole a Horse, &c. these are actionable. Dal. 144. 1 Danv. 105. If one say of another, thou art a Bugging Rogue, and I could hang thee, Action lies. 1 Sid. 373. And if a Man say, I know myself, and I know you, I never bugger'd a Mare, &c. it is actionable. To say of a Person, he hath perjured himself; or that he would prove him perjured; or that he was forsworn in the Court of Chancery, Common Pleas, &c. are actionable: But not to call a Person forsworn Man, unless it be said in a Court of Record. 3 Inst. 163. Danv. 87, 89. If a Man say he gave another Money for forswearing himself; or call him perjured perjured Knave, Action will lie. To say a Man hath forged an Obligation, &c. and he will prove it; this is actionable. Danv. 130. When such Words are spoken of another maliciously, for which Words, if true, such other might be punished, Action lies: As to say of a Man, he can prove him perjured, &c. Or if he might have his Will he would do such a Thing, which Thing is actionable. 10 Rep. 130. If A. says that B. said that C. did a certain scandalous Thing, C. shall have Action against A. with Averment that B. never said so, whereby A. is the Author of the Scandal. Cro. Jac. 406. See 1 Roll. Abr. 64. If one say of a Bishop, that he is a Papist, Action lies: So of a Member of Parliament, &c. To call any other Papist or Heretick, is not actionable. 2 Brownl. 166. Calling an Officer in the Government, &c. Jacobite, hath been held actionable; aliter of a private Person. Farresl. Rep. 107. To say a Minister preacheth Lies in the Pulpit, Action lies: Not if the Words are, that he is a Preacher of false Doctrine. Danv. 119. If one says of a Parson that he hath a Bastard, whereby he receives Injury, it is actionable. 1 Lew. 248. To say a Justice of Peace doth not administer Justice, is actionable. Cro. Eliz. 358. And so for other Disgrace in his Office. To call an Attorney Rogue and Knave, in his Profession; or Champertor and common Stirrer up of Suits; or say he is not fit to be an Attorney; or to say a Man is a cheating Knave; if it be in his Trade and Profession, these are actionable. Danv. 111. Moor 261. To call a Clerk in Court corrupt Man, and say he deals corruptly, is actionable. 4 Rep. To say of a Counsellor, that he is no Lawyer; that they are Fools who come to him for Law, and that he will get nothing by the Law, Action lies. Danv. 113. And it is the same to say he hath disclosed Secrets in a Cause. To call a Doctor of Physick Fool, Ass, Empirick and Mountebank, or say he is no Scholar, are actionable. Cro. Car. 270. So to say of a School-master, put not your Son to him, for he will come away as very a Dunce as he went. Hell. 71. Where one says of a Midwife, that many have perished for her Want of Skill, an Action will lie. Cro. Car. 211. If one calls a Merchant Bankrupt, Action lies. 1 Leon. 336. And to call a Trading Person Bankrupt Knave, is actionable. 1 Danv. 99. Also if one say of a Merchant, that he is a beggarly Fellow, and not able to pay his Debts: Or say of a Person that he is a Runaway, and dares not shew his Face, by Reason whereof he is disgraced and injured in his Calling, these are actionable. Raym. 184. To say an Alehouse keeper keeps a Bawdy-house, Action lies. Cro. Eliz. 582. Tho' to say of an Inn keeper, that he harbours Rogues, &c. is not actionable; for his Inn is common to all Guests. 2 Roll. Rep. 136. To say of another he hath the French Pox, Action will lie. Cro. Jac. 430. But 'tis said, if one say that he had the Pox, after cured, no Action lies; because none will then avoid his Company, &c. Noy 151. To call a Man Whore-master, or a Woman Whore, no Action lies; for these are merely Spiritual. Danv. But calling a Woman Whore in London, is actionable by the Custom of the City. And if one calls a Woman Copyholder, while she is Sole, a Whore, an Action lies, by Reason of the special Damage that may arise thereby. 1 Sid. 214. In like Manner calling the Mistress of a School Whore, may be held actionable. 1 Vent. 21. To say that a Woman hath a Bastard, or is with Child; or that a certain Person hath had the Use of her Body, whereby she loses her Marriage, Action lies: Tho' not without special Damage, on Action at Common Law. 2 Salk. 696. If a Man is in Treaty with a Woman to Marry, and another tells him, She is under a Pre-contract; this doth not imply a Scandal, but yet if false, an Action will lie. Micb. 5 Ann. To say of a Man that he lay with a certain Woman, &c. by which he loses his Marriage, is actionable; For in these Cases there is a Temporal Damage. 1 Danv. 81. If one says of another that has Land by Descent, that he is a Bastard; Action upon the Case lies, as it tends to his Disinheritance. Co. Ent. 28. But to say of a Son and Heir apparent, that he is a Bastard, Action lies not until he is disinherited, or is prejudiced thereby. 1 Danv. 83. And though scandalous Words are spoken before a Man's Face, or behind his Back, by Way of Affirmation, or Report, when drunk, or sober; and although they are spoke in any Language, if they are understood by the Hearers, they are actionable: Also Words may be actionable in one County, which are not so in another, by the different Construction, &c. 4 Rep. 14. Hob. 165, 236. But if the Defendant can make Proof of the Words, he may plead special Justification. Co. Ent. 26. Yet where the Plaintiff has a Pardon, after an Offence committed, the Words are still actionable. Moor 863. If Words may receive a double Interpretation, the one Way that they shall be actionable, and the other Way not, they shall be taken in mitiori sensu, so far as not to be actionable. Cro. Jac. 438. Therefore to say that a Man hath the Pox, when it may be the ordinary Disease; or that he is a Coiner of Money, when it may be his Trade, and he may do it by Authority, &c. no Action will lie: And yet in this Case, if the common and violent Sense of the Words in the Import thereof be the worse Sense, they may be taken accordingly, and are liable to Action. 4 Rep. 20. Hob. 126. 3 Cro. 352. The Words to maintain this Action must be direct and certain, that there may be no Intendment against them: But as some Words separate, without others joined with them, are not actionable; so some Words that are actionable, may be qualified by the precedent or subsequent Words, and all the Words are to be taken together. 4 Rep. 17. 1 Cro. 127. Moor Ca. 174, 331. And some Writers make a Difference, where the subsequent Words are introduced by the Word And; as you are a Thief, and have stolen, &c. which are additional, and shall not correct; and the Word For; as you are a Thief, for you have, &c. Hob. 386. Style 115. Godb. 89. The Words, He is a Maintainer of Thieves, and keeps none but Thieves in his House, will not support an Action, unless it be averred that he knew them to be Thieves. 1 Cro. 746. Likewise where one calls a Tradesman Cheater or Cozener, these Words bear no Action, without there be a Colloquium or Discourse of Trade laid therein. Hardr. 8. 5 Mod. 398. Where Words spoken are somewhat uncertain, by the precedent Conference or some Circumstance, with an Averment, they may be many Times made certain and actionable. 2 Bull. 227. So by the Pleadings of the Parties, and Verdict of a Jury for the Plaintiff. 2 Cro. 107. The Thing said by the Words, must be that which is possible to have been done; for if it be of a Thing altogether and apparently impossible, no Action lies. 4 Rep. 16. For Words spoken in Pursuit of a Prosecution in an ordinary Course of Justice; and where a Lawyer in Pleading his Client's Cause, shall utter Words according to his Instructions; and to say of one he is a Bastard, when this is to defend the Party's own Title, where he himself doth claim to be Heir of the Land that is in Question; these Words will not bear an Action. 2 Cro. 90. 4 Rep. 13. If a Felony be done, and common Fame is that such a Person did it, although one may charge or arrest him on Suspicion of that Felony; yet a Man may not affirm that he did the same, for he may be innocent all the while, and therefore affirming it hath been held actionable. Hob. 138, 203, 381. To slander the Title of another Person to his Lands is actionable: But the Words must be false, and be spoken by one that neither hath, nor pretendeth Title to the Land himself; and that is not of Counsel to him that pretends Right. 4 Rep. 17. If a Man shall pretend

Title to the Land another hath in Possession, and hath no Colour of Title to it; and shall say he hath such a Deed or Conveyance of it, where in Truth he hath none, or if he hath any it is a Counterfeit and forged Deed, and he knows it to be so: In this Case the Words may bear an Action; but if there be any Colour for what is said, they will not be actionable. 2 Cro. 339. Yelv. 80, 88. And the Party of whom the Words are spoken must have, or be likely to have some special Damage by the Speaking of them; as that he is hindered in the Sale of his Lands, or in his Preferment in Marriage, &c. without which it is said Action doth not lie. 1 Cro. 99. 2 Cro. 213, 397. Popb. 187. 2 Bulst. 90. The affirming that another hath Title to the Land, where actionable, see 4 Rep. 175. As to Words for which an Action lies, relating to a Man's Office, they must have a plain and direct Meaning, to charge him with some Crime that is punishable; and be spoken of his Office, or otherwise they are not actionable. 6 Mod. 200. In Offices of Profit, for such Words as impute the want either of Understanding, Ability or Integrity to execute them, this Action lies. 2 Salk. 695. Where the Words are disgracing a Man's Profession, they also must appear to be spoke precisely of it; for to say a Person has cozened one in the Sale of certain Goods, is not actionable; unless you shew that the Party lived by such Selling. 1 Roll. Abr. 62. And where Words are of a Carrier, that he is a common Barretor, no Action will lie. Hob. 140. In this Action the Nature of the Words must be set forth, with the Manner of speaking them, the Time and Place, when and where spoken, and before whom, and the Damage thereby to the Plaintiff; what his Credit was, and how impaired, with the aggravating Circumstances: But it matters not whether the Plaintiff doth in his Declaration set forth all the Circumstantial Words as they are spoken; so as to shew the very Words that are actionable, and the Substance of them, &c.

Action Prejudicial, (otherwise called Preparatory or Principal) Is an Action which arises from some Doubt in the Principal; as in Case a Man sues his younger Brother for Lands descended from his Father, and it is objected against him that he is a Bastard: Now this Point of Bastardy is to be pre-tried, viz. before the Cause can any further proceed: And therefore it is termed Præjudicialis, quia prius Judicanda. Braet. l. 3. c. 4.

Action of the Writ, Is a Term used when a Man pleads some Matter by which is shewn that the Plaintiff had no Cause to have the Writ which he brought: But it may be that he may have another Writ for the same Matter. It is called a Plea to the Action of the Writ, as a Distinction from a Plea to the Action; which is where the Plaintiff hath no Cause to have any Action for the Thing demanded. Terms de Ley 17.

Actionare, i. e. In Jus vocare, Or to prosecute one in a Suit at Law. Thorn's Chron.

Action Burnel, The Stat. 13 Ed. 1. so called from its being made at a Place called Action Burnel, a Castle in Shropshire, anciently of the Burnels, and afterwards of the Levels: It ordained the Statute Merchant for Recovery of Debts.

Action, The Proctor or Advocate in Civil Courts or Causes: As Advor Ecclesie has been sometimes used for the Advocate of the Church: Advor Dominicus, for the Lord's Attorney: Advor Ville, the Steward or Head Bailiff of a Village.

Acts done, Are distinguished into Acts of God, the Acts of the Law, and Acts of Men. The Acts of God shall prejudice no Man: As where the Law prescribeth a Means to perfect or settle any Right or Estate; if by the Acts of God this Means in some Circumstance becomes impossible, no Party shall receive any Damage thereby. Co. Litt. 123. 1 Rep. 97.

The Acts of Law are esteemed beyond the Acts of Men: And when to the Perfection of a Thing, divers Acts are required, the Law hath most Regard to the Original Act. 8 Rep. 78. The Law will construe Things to be lawfully done, when it standeth indifferent whether they should be lawful or not: But whatsoever is contrary to Law, is accounted not done. 1 Inst. 42. 3 Rep. 74. Our Law doth favour Substantial more than Circumstantial Acts; and regards Deeds and Acts more than Words: And the Law doth not require unnecessary Things. Plowd. 10. As to Acts of Men; that which a Man doth by another, shall be said to be done by himself; but personal Things cannot be done by another. Co. Litt. 158. A Man cannot do an Act to himself, unless it be where he hath a double Capacity: No Person shall be suffered to do any Thing against his own Act; and every Man's Acts shall be construed most strongly against himself that doth them. Plowd. 140. But if many join in an Act, and some may not lawfully do it; it shall be adjudged the Act of him who might lawfully do the same. Dyer 192. Acts that Men are forced by Necessity and Compulsion to do, are not regarded: And an Act done between Persons, shall not injure a Stranger not Party or Privy thereto. Plow. 19. 6 Rep. 16.

Acts of Parliament, Are positive Laws, consisting of two Parts, (viz.) the Words of the Acts, and the Sense and Meaning of them, which being joined make the Law. The Words of Acts of Parliament shall be taken in a lawful Sense: Cases of the same Nature are within the Remedy, though out of the Letter of the Act; and some Acts extend by Equity to other Things than are mentioned therein, &c. 1 Inst. 24, 381. Vide Statute.

Actuary, (Actuarius) A Clerk that registers the Acts and Constitutions of the Convocation.

Adcredulitate, To purge one's self of an Offence by Oath.—Qui in Collegio fuerit ubi aliquis occisus est, Adcredulitet se quod eum non percussit. Leges Inæ, c. 36.

Addition, (Additio) Signifieth a Title given to a Man besides his Christian and Surname, setting forth his Estate, Degree, Trade, &c. As for Example; Additions of Estate are Yeoman, Gentleman, Esquire, &c. Additions of Degree, are Knight, Earl, Marquess, and Duke: Additions of Trade, are Merchant, Clothier, Carpenter, &c. Then there are likewise Additions of Place of Residence, as London, York, Bristol, &c. And these Additions were ordain'd that one Man might not be grieved or molested for another: And that every Person might be certainly known, and bear his own Burden. If one be of the Degree of a Duke, Earl, &c. he shall have the Addition of the most worthy Dignity. 2 Inst. 669. But the Titles of Duke, Marquess, and Earl, &c. are not properly Additions, but Names of Dignity. Terms de Ley 20. And the Title of Knight or Baronet, is Part of the Party's Name, and ought to be rightly used; but the Titles of Esquire, Gentleman, Yeoman, &c. being no Part of the Name, but Additions as People please to call them, may be used or not used, or if varied is not material. 1 Lill. 34. An Earl of Ireland is not an Addition of Honour here in England, but such a Person must be written by his Christian and Surname, with the Addition of Esquire only: And Sons of English Noblemen, altho' they have given them Titles of Nobility in respect to their Families; if you sue them they must be named by their Christian and Surnames, with the Addition of Esquire, as such a one Esquire, commonly called Lord A. &c. 2 Inst. 596, 666. By the Common Law, a Man that had no Name of Dignity, was named by his Christian and Surname in all Writs; which was sufficient. If he had an inferior Name of Dignity, as Knight, &c. he ought to be named by his Christian and Surname with the Name of Dignity: But a Duke, &c. might be sued by his Christian Name only, and Name of Dignity, which stands for his Surname. 2 Inst. 665, 666. By Stat. 1 Hen. 5. cap. 5. It is enacted, that in Suits or Actions where Process of Outlawry lies, Additions are to be made to the Name of the Defendant, to shew his Estate, Myſtery, and Place of Dwelling; and that Writs not having ſuch Additions ſhall abate, if the Defendant takes Exception thereto, but not by the Office of the Court. By pleading to Issue, the Party paſſes by the Advantage of Exception for Want of Addition; for by the Common Law it is good without Addition, and the Statute gives Remedy only by Exception. Cro. Jac. 610. 1 Roll. 780. No Addition is neceſſary, where Process of Outlawry doth not lie. 1 Salk. 5. If a City be a County of itſelf, wherein are ſeveral Pariſhes, Addition thereof as de London is ſufficient: But Addition of a Pariſh, not in a City, muſt mention the County, or it will not be good. 1 Daru. 237. An Addition after the Alias dicitur is ill; and according to Holt Chief Juſtice, if a Man of Wills commit Felony at Westmiſter, he ſhall be indicted by his Name, as of Westm. 3 Salk. 20.

Adeling, (from the Saxon Edelan) Signifying Excellent, was a Title of Honour amongst the Angles; properly belonging to the King's Children; it being uſual for the Saxons to join the Word Ling to the Chriſtian Name, which ſignified a Son, or the Younger. King Edward the Confessor having no Iſſue, and intending to make Edgar, his Nephew, the Heir of the Kingdom, gave him the Stile and Title of Adeling. Speim. Gloſſ.

Ademption, or taking away of a Legacy; this ariſes from a ſuppoſed Alteration of a Teſtator's Intent, by calling in Money due to him on Bond, &c. that he had expreſly Deviſed by Will to another Perſon. Talbot's Chan. Caſ. See Legacy.

Ad Inquiritendum, Is a Judicial Writ, commanding Enquiry to be made of any Thing relating to a Cauſe depending in the King's Courts. It is granted upon many Occaſions for the better Execution of Juſtice. Reg. Judic.

Adjournment, (Adjournamentum) The ſame with the French Word Adjournement, and ſignifies a putting off until another Day, or to another Place. As Adjournment in Eyre, by Stat. 25 Ed. 3. is an Appointment of a Day, when the Juſtices in Eyre will ſit again. A Court, the Parliament, and Writs, &c. may be adjourn'd; and the Subſtance of the Adjournment of Courts, is to give Licence to all Parties that have any Thing to do in Court to forbear their Attendance till ſuch a Time. Every laſt Day of the Term, and every Eve of a Day in Term, which is not Dies Juridicus, or a Law-Day, the Court is adjourn'd; and it is uſually done two ſeveral Times, ſitting the Court. 2 Inf. 26. The Terms may be adjourn'd to ſome other Place, and there the King's Bench and other Courts at Westmiſter be held: And if the King puts out a Proclamation for the Adjournment of the Term, this is a ſufficient Warrant to the Keeper of the Great Seal to make out Writs accordingly; and Proclamation is to be made, appointing all Perſons to keep their Day, at the Time and Place, to which, &c. 1 And. 279. 1 Lev. 176. In the firſt Year of King Car. 1. a Writ of Adjournment was delivered to all the Juſtices, to adjourn two Returns of Trinity-Term: And in the ſame Year Michaelmas-Term was adjourn'd until Craſtino Animarum to Reading; and the King by Proclamation ſignified his Pleaſure, that his Courts ſhould be there held. Cro. Car. 13, 27. Anno 17 Car. 2. The Court of B. R. was adjourn'd to Oxford, becauſe of the Plague; and from thence to Windſor; and afterwards to Westmiſter again. 1 Lev. 176, 178. On a foreign Plea pleaded in Aſſiſe, &c. the Writ ſhall be adjourn'd into the Common Pleas to be tried; and after Adjournment, the Tenant may plead a new Plea purſuant to the Firſt: But if he pleads in Abatement a Plea triable by the Aſſiſe, on which it is adjourn'd, he cannot plead in Bar afterwards, &c. 1 Daru. Abr. 249. The Juſtices of Aſſiſe have Power to adjourn the Parties to Westmiſter, or to any other Place; and by the expreſs Words of Magna Charta cap. 12. they may adjourn, &c. into C. B. before the Judges there. Dyer 132. If the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, &c. are divided in Opinion, two againſt two, upon a Demurrer or ſpecial Verdict, (not on a Motion) the Cauſe muſt be adjourn'd into the Exchequer Chamber, to be determined by all the Judges of England. 3 Mod. 156. 5 Mod. 335. After Diſſolution or Prorogation of Parliament, and after Adjournment for above fourteen Days, Actions may be proſecuted againſt Perſons entitled to Privilege, &c. Stat. 12 W. 3.

Adjudication, (Adjudicatio) A giving or pronouncing by Judgment, a Sentence or Decree. Stat. 16 Ed. 17 Car. 2. c. 10.

Adjura Regis, A Writ brought by the King's Clerk preſented to a Living, againſt thoſe that endeavour to eject him, to the Prejudice of the King's Title. Reg. of Writs 61.

Ad Large, At large: And there is Title at large, Aſſiſe at large, Verdict at large; to vouch at large, &c.

Adlegiate, Or Aleier in French, is for one to purge himſelf of a Crime by Oath. In the Laws of King Alfred, in Brompt. Chron. cap. 4. Si ſe velit adlegiare, &c. And cap. 13. Si Accuſetur, inde adlegiet ſe per ſexaginta hidas, &c.

Admeasurement, (Admeſuratio) Is a Writ brought for Remedy againſt ſuch Perſons as uſurp more than their Share, to bring them to Reaſon. It lies in two Caſes; one is termed Admeasurement of Dower (Admeſuratio Dotis) where a Man's Widow after his Deceaſe holdeth from the Heir more Land, &c. as Dower, than of Right belongs to her: And the other is Admeasurement of Paſture (Admeſuratio Paſturae) which lies between thoſe that have Common of Paſture appendant to their Freehold Eſtates, or Common by Vicinage, where any one or more of them ſurcharge the Common. Reg. Orig. 156, 171. In the firſt Caſe, the Heir ſhall have this Writ againſt the Widow, whereby ſhe ſhall be admeaſured, and the Heir reſtored to the Overplus; and in the laſt Caſe, it may be brought againſt all the other Commoners, and him that ſurcharged; for all the Commoners ſhall be admeaſured. Terms de Ley 23. The Heir ſhall have a Writ of Admeasurement of Dower, for Dower aſſigned in the Time of his Anceſtor: And if an Heir within Age aſſign unto the Wife more in Dower than ſhe ought to have, &c. the Guardian in Right may have a Writ of Admeasurement. But if the Guardian aſſigns Dower more than ſhe ought to have, the Heir, during his Nonage, ſhall not have a Writ of Admeasurement of Dower. 7 Hen. 2. 4. 7 E. 2. c. 13. If the Wife after Aſſignment of Dower do improve the Land, and make it better than it was at the Time of the Aſſignment; an Admeasurement doth not lie of that Improvement. Nat. Brevium 332. A Perſon who hath Common Appurtenant certain, or Common by certain Grant, ſhall be admeaſured, and a Tenant ſhall have Admeasurement againſt him: But he who hath a Common Appurtenant without Number, or Common in Groſs without Number, ſhall not be ſtinted, nor ſhall Writ of Admeasurement of Paſture lie againſt him. If the Lord ſurcharge the Common, his Tenant muſt not have a Writ of Admeasurement; but an Aſſiſe of Common againſt the Lord. 18 Ed. 2. cap. 20. And ſo if the Lord do make Approvement of the Common. And it is said, that if the Tenant surcharge the Common, the Lord shall not have a Writ of Admeasurement against him; but he may distrain the Surplusage Cattle. On a second Surcharge of a Common, after Admeasurement made, the Plaintiff shall recover his Damages against him that was Defendant in the first Writ; and also he shall forfeit to the King the Cattle which he put in over and above the due Number after the Admeasurement made. Stat. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 7. The Writ of Admeasurement of Pasture is wicotiel, and shall be directed to the Sheriff, and not be returnable.

A Writ of Admeasurement of Pasture.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting: A. B. hath complained to us, That C. D. and E. F. have unjustly surcharged their Common of Pasture in, &c. so that in it they have more Beasts and Cattle, than they ought to have, and to them belongeth to have therein: And therefore we command you, that justly and without Delay, you cause the same Pasture to be admeasured, so as the said C. and E. may not have therein more Beasts and Cattle than they ought, and to them it belongs to have; according to the Freehold they have in the said Town; and that the said A. may have or keep in the same Pasture so many Beasts and Cattle as he ought, and to him it belongs to have there; that no more Clamour thereof we may bear, &c.

Adminicula, (Adminiculum) Signifies Aid, Help, or Support; being used to this Purpose, Stat. 1 Ed. 4. cap. 1.

Administratoz, (Latin) Is one that hath the Goods of a Man dying Intestate committed to his Charge by the Ordinary, for which he is accountable when thereunto required. The Bishop of the Diocese where the Party dies is regularly to grant Administration: But when the Person dying hath Goods in several Dioceses, which are Bona notabilia, Administration must be granted by the Archbishop in the Prerogative Court, or it will be void. 1 Plowd. 281. An Administration may be granted, during a certain Time, or continually; and be as well upon Condition, as absolute: And if a Man have Goods in two Provinces, and he make a Will of his Goods in one of them; and die Intestate for those in the other, Administration may be granted for the Goods in that Province. Dyer 294. Plowd. 279. Hob. 256. And if one dies in Ireland, and has nothing but a Specialty for Money, which lies in England; the Ordinary of the Diocese within which the Place is that it lieth, shall commit the Administration; and not the Ordinary of that Place where the Debt began. 1 Andersf. 23. Yelv. 29, 115. Moor 13. When one dies without Child or Kindred, Administration may be granted by Letters Patent, by the King; but the Administrator ought to be admitted by the Ordinary. 1 Salk. 37. At Common Law there was no such Thing as an Administrator; for whosoever possessed himself of the Goods of the Intestate, was chargeable by the Name of Executor. 5 Rep. 82. But by the Stat. 31 Ed. 3. cap. 11. Authority was given to the Ordinary of every Diocese to appoint Administrators, to gather up and dispose of the Goods of the Deceased, so as they should account for the same as Executors. Before this Statute, by the Statute of Westm. 2. it was ordained that the Goods of Persons dying Intestate, should be committed to the Disposition of the Ordinary, who was bound to answer the Debts of the Deceased, as far as his Goods would extend. Administration must be granted, 1st, To the Husband, of the Wife's Goods and Chatels. 2. To the Wife, of the Husband's Goods and Chattels. 3. If there be no Husband or Wife, to the Children, Sons or Daughters.

4. If there be no Children alive, to the Father or Mother. 5. Then to a Brother or Sister of the whole Blood, or of the half Blood. 6. And if there are none such, to the next of Kin, as Uncle, Aunt, or Cousin. 7. Then to a Creditor of the Deceased. 8. And for Want of all these, to any other Person, at the Discretion of the Ordinary: Or the Ordinary may grant to a Stranger Letters Ad Colligendum bona defuncti, to gather up the Goods of the Deceased; or may take them into his own Hands, to pay the Deceased's Debts, in such Order as an Executor or Administrator ought to pay them: But 'tis said, he or the Stranger who hath Letters Ad Colligendum, cannot sell them, without making themselves Executors of their own Wrong, and Action lies only against the Ordinary, &c. Wood's Inst. 333. By Stat. 21 H. 8. Widows and next of Kin, are to be appointed Administrators; and a Mother is to have Administration of Goods of a Child, before a Brother or Sister, &c. But an Administration may be granted to the Father, before a Widow; and a Residuary Legatee ought to be preferred before the Widow in an Administration, cum Testamento annexo. 3 Salk. 21. A Grandmother is as near of Kin to a Person deceased as the Aunt. 1 Salk. 38. See Preced. Canc. 527. An Ordinary may grant Administration to a Father of a Son, or the Son's Wife, at his Election: And where Persons are of equal Degree of Kindred to the Intestate, it is in the Discretion of the Ordinary to grant Administration to which of them he pleaseth. 3 Salk. 22. When there are two next of Kin to the Deceased, and one of them the Administrator dies Intestate within the Year, before Distribution, his next of Kin shall have the Administration. Shew 25. If an Administrator die, his Executors are not Administrators; but in this Case the Ordinary is to grant new Administration. Terms de Ley 24. An Alien may be Administrator, and shall have Leases for Years of Lands and Personal Estate in Debts; because he hath them in auter Droit. Cro. Car. 8. But a Popish Recusant Convict is disabled by Statute to be an Administrator. 35 Eliz. c. 4. On granting Administration, Bonds with Sureties are to be taken for the Administrator to make and exhibit an Inventory of the Goods of the Deceased, render a just Account thereof, and make a Distribution of the Surplusage, after Debts paid, according to Law, &c. Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. cap. 10. One of half Blood is in equal Degree of Kindred with one of the whole Blood, to take out Letters of Administration: And Administrators are to make Distribution of Personal Estate, equally between the whole Blood and half Blood. 2 Lev. 173. And where Persons die Intestate, their Estates are to be distributed, one third Part to the Wife, and the other equally amongst the Children, and their Representatives; If there be no Children, one Moiety of the Personal Estate, shall go to the Wife, and the Residue equally to the next of Kin: If there be no Wife, but Children, it shall be distributed among such Children; and if there be no Wife or Children, it shall go to the next of Kin in equal Degree. 22 & 23 Car. 2. When Children shall die after their Father without Wife or Child, the Mother, and every Brother and Sister, and their Representatives, shall have equal Share in the Estate of such Intestates. Stat. 1 Jac. 2. cap. 17. But no Representatives are allowed after Brothers and Sisters Children; and Children advanced by the Intestate in his Life-time, with any Estate equal to the other Shares, are excepted; tho' not the Heir at Law, who is to have equal Share in the Distribution, notwithstanding what he hath by Descent. The Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. is not to extend to the Estates of Feme Coverts, who die Intestate; but the Husband shall have Administration as before the Act; and not be compellable to make Distribution of their Estates. 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. A Posthumous Child shall have a Share of the Personal Estate of the Father, on a Distribution

Distribution equally with the other Children. Bernardist. 273. And where a Person dies, leaving a Wife and one Child, the Wife shall have one Third only, and the Child the two Thirds, of the Personal Estate; being comprehended under the Word Children. By Pollexfen 3 Mod. 63. If one die Intestate, and there is an Uncle, and Uncle's Son, it is held that such Son of the Deceased, shall not come in for a Share in the Distribution with the living Uncle, by the Statute. Preced. Canc. 28. Security may be required from those to whom Distribution is made, to refund to the Administrator in case Debts appear afterwards. And Administrators have a Property vested in them of the Goods of the Intestate, immediately upon his Death; and the Possession is cast on them by Law. Godb. 33. They may sue for Goods before they have Possession as well as Executors. 8 Rep. 135. An Administrator hath an Interest in all the Chattels Real and Personal of the Deceased; and in all Goods and Chattels either in Possession or Action, in like Manner as an Executor: And all the Goods and Chattels which come to the Hands of the Administrator, shall be Assets to make him chargeable to the Creditors, as Executors are to Creditors and Legatees. 2 Inst. 398. A Residuary Legatee is to have the Care and Administration of the Estate, where the Executor of a Will dies Intestate, the Residue of the Estate being devised to such Legatee. 1 Vent. 217. A Creditor Administrator may retain the Goods of the Intestate, to satisfy his Debt; and if the Goods are taken away before Administration granted to him, he may have Trespafs against the Person that took them. Styl. 384. If Administration is granted to an Obligor, this doth not extinguish the Debt; but it shall be Assets in his Hands. 8 Rep. 136. Against an Administrator and for him, Action will lie, as for and against an Executor, and he shall be charged to the Value of the Goods, and no further; unless it be by his own false Plea, or by wasting the Goods of the Intestate. An Executor or Administrator shall never be charged de bonis propriis, but where he doth some Wrong; as by selling the Testator's Goods, and converting the Money to his own Use, concealing or wasting them, or by pleading what is false. Dyer 210. 2 Roll. Rep. 295. If an Administrator plead Plene Administravit, and 'tis found against him, the Judgment shall be de bonis propriis, because 'tis a false Plea, and that upon his own Knowledge. 2 Cro. 191. 'Contra where he pleads such a Plea, and that he hath no more than to satisfy such a Judgment, &c. the Recovery shall be de bonis Testatoris, &c. 2 Roll. Rep. 400. Upon Plene Administravit pleaded by an Administrator, the Plaintiff must prove his Debt, or he shall recover but a Penny Damages, though there be Assets; because the Plea only admits the Debt, but not the Quantum. 1 Salk. 296. Special Bail is not required of Administrators in any Action brought against them for the Debt of the Intestate; except where they have wasted the Goods of the Deceased: Nor shall Costs be had against Administrators. 24 Hen. 8. Where an Administrator is Plaintiff, he must shew by whom Administration was granted; for that only intitles him to the Action: But if an Administrator is Defendant, the Plaintiff need not set forth by whom Administration was granted, for it may not be within his Knowledge; tho' he must declare that it was granted to the Defendant debita juri forma, which is necessary to charge him with the Action. Sid. 228. 1 Lutw. 301. If a Stranger that is not Administrator, take the Goods and Administer in his own Wrong, he shall be charged and sued as an Executor. Terms de Ley 24. And generally an Administrator shall be charged by others, for any Debt or Duty due from the Deceased, as he himself might have been charged in his Life-time; so far as he hath any of the Intestate's Estate, to discharge the same. Co. Litt. 219. Dyer 14. An Administrator's Power is given by the Administration, therefore he can do nothing until that be granted; and yet as to Goods taken away before, the Administration shall relate so as to give the Administrator an Action for them. Fitzherb. 2. 6. If a Man have Judgment for Land in a real or mix'd Action, and for Damages, and then dies; his Executor or Administrator, not the Heir, shall have Execution for the Damages; but not for the Land. Fitz. Admin. 53. March 9. The Power of an Administrator is almost equal to that of an Executor: But if there are many Administrators, one cannot sell Goods, release Debts, &c. without the other, for they must all join. Noy Max. 106. The Office of Administrators is the same with that of Executors, in the Burial of the Deceased, Payment of Funeral Charges, making Inventories of his Goods and Chattels, Payment of Debts, &c. The Ordinary ought not to repeal Letters of Administration which he hath duly granted; but if they are granted to such Persons who ought not by Law to have them, he may revoke them. 1 Lill. 38. For just Cause they may be revoked, and where a Person is a Lunatick, &c. And if granted where not grantable, they may be repealed by the Delegates. 1 Lev. 157, 186. If an Administration is granted, and afterwards a Will is produced and proved, the Administration shall be revoked; and all Acts done by the Administrator, are void. 2 Roll. Abr. 907. If a Citation is granted against a Stranger Administrator, and his Administration is revoked by Sentence, yet all Acts done by him bona fide as Administrator are good till the Revocation; the Administration being only voidable. 6 Rep. 18. 8 Rep. 135. But if there is any Fraud, a Creditor may have Relief upon the Stat. 13 Eliz. cap. 5. And when the first Administration is merely void, as granted by a wrong Person, &c. it is otherwise: So when there is an Appeal from the Grant of the Administration, to suspend the former Decree. 5 Rep. 30. Administration was granted to J. S. and he released all Actions, and after the Administration was revoked, and declared void; this Release was held good. 1 Brownl. 51. If an Administrator gives Goods away, and then Administration is revoked or repealed, 'tis said the Gift is good; except it be by Covin, when it shall be void only against a Creditor by Statute: And where the Administrator after much Goods administered, had his Administration revoked, and it was committed to B. who sued the first Administrator for Goods unduly administered; it was held, there was no Remedy but in Chancery. 6 Rep. 19. Clayt. 44. 4 Shep. Abr. 89. See Hob. 266. A Stranger to whom Administration was granted, during a Suit for Repeal, sells the Goods, and afterwards the Administration is repealed, and granted to another; in Trover for the Goods, the Defendant is not chargeable, but the Sale shall be good. Moorca. 494. But where the first Administration is void, the Administrator that takes the Goods is a Trespassor. 2 Leon. 155. And Letters of Administration obtained by Fraud, are void. 3 Rep. 37. Where an Infant is intitled to Administration of the Goods of an Intestate, Administration shall be granted to another Durante minore etate, till he is of the Age of 21 Years: Tho' where an Infant is made Executor, such Administration granted during his Minority, ceaseth at the Infant's Age of 17 Years. 5 Rep. 29. 6 Rep. 27. If a Female Infant under 17 Years old is made Executrix, and she afterwards marries with one of that Age, her Husband shall have the Execution of the Will, and the Administration ceaseth. 1 Salk. 39. An Administrator durante minore etate cannot sell Goods of the Deceased, unless it be of Necessity for Payment of Debts, or bona peritura, Goods that are perishable; for he hath this Office pro bono & commodo of the Infant. 5 Rep. 29. Administration cum Testamento annexo, is where an Executor refuseth to prove a Testament, an Administration with the Will annexed to it is granted to the next of Kin, &c. And where an Executor dies before Probate of the Will, Administration is to be granted with the Will annexed, and the Testator is looked upon in Law to die Intestate. 1 Inst. 113. If where a Person has made a Will, after his Death the Executor proves it, and then dies Intestate, Administration is to be granted by the Ordinary of the Goods of the Testator unadministred, to some other Person; which is called an Administration de bonis non, &c. (viz.) Non Administratis. 2 Roll. Abr. 907. And an Administrator de bonis non, may sue out a Scire facias on a Judgment after a Verdict recovered by an Executor, &c. Stat. 17 Car. 2. Besides all these Administrations, there is Administration durante absentia extra Regnum, where a Person is absent abroad; and Administration pendente lite, which may be granted by the Ordinary as well as Durante minori etate.

Administratrix, (Lat.) She that hath Goods and Chattels of an Intestate committed to her Charge, as an Administrator.

Admiral, (Admiralis, Admirallus, Admiralis, Capitaneus or Custos Maris) and derived of the French Amerel, signifies an high Officer or Magistrate, that hath the Government of the King's Navy, and the Determining of all Causes belonging to the Sea. This Word is also said to have its Derivation from the Saxon Aen Mercal, over all the Sea: And in ancient Time the Office of the Admiralty was called Custodia Maritimæ Angliæ. Co. Litt. 260. It appears that anciently the Admirals of England had Jurisdiction of all Causes of Merchants and Mariners, happening not only upon the main Sea, but in all Foreign Parts within the King's Dominions, and without them, and were to judge them in a summary Way, according to the Laws of Oleron and other Sea Laws. 4 Inst. 75. In the Time of K. Ed. 1. and K. John, all Causes of Merchants and Mariners, and Things arising upon the main Sea, were tried before the Lord Admiral: But the first Title of Admiral of England, expressly conferred upon a Subject, was given by Patent of K. Ricb. 2. to the Earl of Arundel and Surrey. Of late Times this high Office has been generally executed by Commissioners; who by Statute are empowered to use and execute the like Authorities as Lord Admiral. 2 W. & M. cap. 2. In the Reign of Ed. 3. the Court of Admiralty was established, and Ricb. 2. limited its Jurisdiction. The Admiralty hath Cognizance of the Death or Maim of a Man, committed in any Ship riding in great Rivers, beneath the Bridges thereof, next the Sea: But by the Common Law, if a Man be killed upon any Arm of the Sea, where the Land is seen on both Sides, the Coroner is to inquire of it, and not the Admiral; for the County may take Cognizance of it; and where a County may inquire, the Lord Admiral has no Jurisdiction. 3 Rep. 107. All Ports and Havens are infra Corpus comitatus, and the Admiral hath no Jurisdiction of any Thing done in them: Between high and low Water Mark, the Common Law and Admiral have Jurisdiction by Turns; one upon the Water, and the other upon the Land. 3 Inst. 113. The Admiral hath Power to arrest Ships in great Streams, for the Service of the King, or Commonwealth, and hath Jurisdiction in such Streams, and during the same Voyages: Every Commander, Officer, and Soldier of Ships of War, shall observe the Commands of the Admiral, &c. on Pain of Death, or other Punishment. 13 Car. 2. cap. 9. The Lord Admiral hath Power to grant Commissions to inferior Vice-Admirals, &c. to call Courts Martial, for the Trial of Offences against the Articles of War; and these Courts determine by Plurality of Voices, &c. Stat. Ibid. Admiralty Process is made out in the Name of the Admiral, who has under him a Judge of the Admiralty: And though the Proceedings are according to the Civil Law, and the Maritime Laws of Rhodes and Oleron, the Sea being without the Common Law; yet by Stat. 28 Hen. 8. Murder, Robbery, &c. at Sea, may be tried by special Commission to the Lord Admiral, &c. according to the Laws of England: But see the Stat. 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 7. The Admiralty is said to be no Court of Record, by Reason it proceeds by the Civil Law. 4 Inst. 135. But the Admiralty has Jurisdiction where the Common Law can give no Remedy; and all Maritime Causes, or Causes arising wholly upon the Sea, it hath Cognizance of. 6 Rep. The Admiralty hath Jurisdiction in Cases of Freight, Mariners Wages, Breach of Charter Parties, though made within the Realm; if the Penalty be not demanded: And likewise in Case of Building, Mending, Saving, and Victualling Ships, &c. so as the Suit be against the Ship, and not only against the Parties. 2 Cro. 216. Mariners Wages are contracted on the Credit of the Ship, and they may all join in Suits in the Admiralty; whereas at Common Law they must all sever: The Master of a Ship contracts on the Credit of the Owners, and not of the Ship; and therefore he cannot prosecute in the Admiralty for his Wages. 1 Salk. 33. It is allowed by the Common Lawyers and Civilians, that the Lord Admiral hath Cognizance of Seamens Wages, and Contracts, and Debts for making Ships; also of Things done in navigable Rivers, concerning Damage done to Persons, Ships, Goods, Annoyances of free Passage, &c. And of Contracts, and other Things done beyond Sea, relating to Navigation and Trade by Sea. Wood. Inst. 818. But if a Contract be made beyond Sea, for doing of an Act or Payment of Money within this Kingdom; or the Contract is upon the Sea, and not for a Marine Cause, it shall be tried by Jury; for where Part belongs to the Common Law, and Part to the Admiral, the Common Law shall be preferred. And Contracts made beyond Sea, may be tried in B. R. and a Fact be laid to be done in any Place in England, and so tried here. 2 Bull. 322. Where a Contract is made in England, and there is a Conversion beyond Sea, the Party may sue in the Admiralty, or at Common Law. 4 Leon. 257. So where a Bond is made and delivered in France: An Obligation made at Sea, it has been held cannot be sued in the Admiral's Court; because it takes its Course, and binds according to the Common Law. Hob. 11. The Court of Admiralty cannot hold Plea of a Matter arising from a Contract made upon the Land, tho' the Contract was concerning Things belonging to the Ship: But the Admiralty may hold Plea for the Seamens Wages, &c. because they become due for Labour done on the Sea; and the Contract made upon Land, is only to ascertain them. 3 Lev. 60. Though where there is a special Agreement in Writing, by which Seamen are to receive their Wages, in any other Manner than usual; or if the Agreement at Land be under Seal, so as to be more than a parol Contract, it is otherwise. 1 Salk. 31. See Hob. 79. If the Master and Mariners of a Ship, fitted out with Letters of Reprisal, without the Notice or Assent of the Owners commit Piracy, the Owners shall lose their Ship by the Admiral Law. 1 Roll. Abr. 530. And if the Master pawns the Ship on the High Sea out of Necessity for Tackling or Provision, without the Consent of the Owners, it shall bind them; but 'tis otherwise where the Ship is pawned for the Master's Debt: The Master can have no Credit abroad, but upon the Security of the Vessel; and the Admiralty gives Remedy in these Cases. 1 Salk. 35. Sale of Goods taken by Piracy in open Market, is not binding by the Admiral Law, so that the Owner may retake them; but at Common Law the Sale is binding, of which the Admiralty must take Notice. 1 Roll. Abr. If Goods delivered on Shipboard are imbezilled, all the Mariners ought to contribute to the Satisfaction of the Party that lost his Goods, by the Maritime Law, and the Cause is to be tried in the Admiralty. 1 Lill. 368. By the Custom of the Admiralty, Goods may be be attached in the Hands of a third Person, in Causa Maritima & Civili, and they shall be delivered to the Plaintiff after Defaults, on Caution to restore them, if the Debt, &c. be disproved in a Year and Day; and if the Party refuse to deliver them, he may be imprisoned quousque, &c. March Rep. 204. The Court of Admiralty, may cause a Party to enter into Bond in Nature of Caution or Stipulation, like Bail at Common Law; and if he tender his Body, the Sureties are discharg'd; and Execution shall be of the Goods, or the Body, &c. not of the Lands. Godb. 260. 1 Shep. Abr. 129. See 1 Salk. 33. A Person in Execution, on Judgment in the Admiralty Court, upon a Contract made on the Land in New England was discharged, being out of the Admiralty Jurisdiction. 3 Cro. 603. 1 Cro. 685. And where Sailors Cloaths were bought in St. Katherine's Parish, near the Tower London, which were delivered in the Ship; on a Suit in the Admiralty for the Money, Prohibition was granted; for this was within the County: So of a Ship lying at Blackwall, &c. Owen 122. Hughes Abr. 113. But the Admiralty may proceed against a Ship, and the Sails and Tackle, when they are on Shore, altho' alledged to be detained at Land: Yet upon alledging Offer of a Plea, claiming Property therein, and Refusal of the Plea, on this Suggestion a Prohibition shall be had. 1 Show. 179. The Admiralty Court may award Execution upon Land; tho' not hold Plea of any Thing arising on Land. 4 Inst. 141. And upon Letters Misfise or Request, the Admiralty here may award Execution on a Judgment given beyond Sea, where an Englshman flies or comes over hither, by Imprisonment of the Party, who shall not be delivered by the Common Law. 1 Roll Abr. 530. When Sentence is given in a Foreign Admiralty, the Party may libel for Execution of that Sentence here; because all Courts of Admiralty in Europe are governed by the Civil Law. Sid. 418. Sentences of any Admiralty in another Kingdom are to be credited, that ours may be credited there, and shall not be examined at Law here: But the King may be petitioned, who may cause the Complaint to be examined; and if he finds just Cause, may send to his Embassador where the Sentence was given, to demand Redress, and upon Failure thereof, will grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal. Raym. 473. If one be sued in the Admiralty, contrary to the Statutes 13 & 15 R. 2. he may have a Superfedeas, to cause the Judge to stay the Proceedings, and also have Action against the Party suing. 10 Rep. 75. A Ship being privately arrested by Admiralty Process only, and no Suit, it was adjudged a Prosecution within the Meaning of the Statutes; and double Damages, &c. shall be recovered. 1 Salk. 31, 32. And if an erroneous Judgment is given in the Admiralty, Appeal may be had to Delegates appointed by Commission out of Chancery, whose Sentence shall be final. Stat. 8 Eliz. cap. 5. Appeals may be brought from the inferior Admiralty Courts, to the Lord High Admiral: But the Lord Warden of the Cinque-Ports, hath Jurisdiction of Admiralty exempt from the Admiralty of England. By the Stat. 22 Geo. 2. c. 3. His Majesty's Commission to all the Privy Councillors then and for the Time being, and to the Lord Chief Baron of the Court of Exchequer, the Justices of the King's Bench and Common Pleas, and Barons of the said Court of Exchequer, then and for the Time being, for hearing and determining Appeals from Sentences in Causes of Prizes pronounced in the Courts of Admiralty, in any of his Majesty's Dominions, declared valid, although such Chief Baron, Justices and Barons are not of the Privy Council. But no Sentence shall be valid, unless the major Part of the Commissioners present be of the Privy Council.

Admission, (Admissio) Is when a Patron of a Church having presented to it, the Bishop upon Examination admits the Clerk, by saying admitto te habilem. It is properly the Ordinary's Declaration that he approves of the Presentee, to serve the Cure of the Church to which he is presented. Co. Litt. 344. All Persons are to have Episcopal Ordination before they are admitted to any Parsonage or Benefice; and if any shall presume to be admitted, not having such Ordination, &c. he shall forfeit 100*l.* Stat. 14 Car. 2. No Person is to be admitted into a Benefice with Cure of 30*l.* per Ann. in the King's Books, unless he is a Bachelor in Divinity at least, or a Preacher lawfully allowed by some Bishop, &c. Action of the Case will not lie against the Bishop, if he refuse to admit a Clerk to be qualified according to the Canons, (as for any Crime or Impediment, Illiterature, &c.) but the Remedy is by Writ Quare non admittit, or Admittendum clericum brought in that County where the Refusal was. 7 Rep. 3.

Admittendo Clerico, A Writ where a Man has recovered his Right of Presentation against the Bishop. Reg. Orig. 33. If a Man do recover his Presentation in the Common Pleas against the Bishop, then he may have a Writ to the same Bishop to admit his Clerk, or unto the Metropolitan: A Person recovers an Advowson, and six Months pass; yet if the Church be void, the Patron may have a Writ to the Bishop; and if the Church is void when the Writ comes to the Bishop, the Bishop is bound to admit his Clerk. 7 H. 8. 14 H. 4. Where a Man recovers against another than the Bishop, this Writ shall go to the Bishop; and the Party may have an Alias and a Pluries, if the Bishop do not execute the Writ, and an Attachment against the Bishop, if need be. New Nat. Br. 84. In a Quare Impedit betwixt two Strangers, if there appears to the Court a Title for the King, they shall award a Writ unto the Bishop, for the King.

Admittendo in socium, A Writ for associating certain Persons to Justices of Assize. Reg. Orig. 206. Knights and other Gentlemen of the County, are usually associated with Judges in holding their Assizes on the Circuits.

Anichiled, From the Latin Nihil, written of old Nihil, and signifies annulled, cancelled, or made void. Stat. 28 Hen. 8.

Ad quod Damnum, Is a Writ which ought to be issued before the King grants certain Liberties, as a Fair, Market, &c. which may be prejudicial to others: It is directed to the Sheriff to inquire what Damage it may do, for the King to grant a Market, Fair, &c. Terms de Ley 25. This Writ is likewise used to inquire of Lands given in Mortmain to any House of Religion, &c. And it is a Damage to the Country, that a Freeholder who hath sufficient Lands to pass upon Assises and Jury, should alien his Lands in Mortmain, by which Alienation his Heir should not have sufficient Estate after the Death of the Father to be sworn in Assises and Juries. F.N.B. 121. The Writ Ad quod Damnum is also had for the Turning and Changing of antient Highways; which may not be done without the King's Licence obtained by this Writ, on Inquisition found that such Change will not be detrimental to the Publick. Vaugh. Rep. 341. Ways turned without this Authority, are not esteemed Highways so as to oblige the Inhabitants of the Hundred to make Amends for Robberies; nor have the Subjects an Interest therein to justify going there. 3 Cro. 267. If any one change an Highway without this Authority, he may stop the Way at his Pleasure. But see the Statute 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 16. for enlarging of Highways by Order of Justices of Peace, &c. Where any common Highway shall be inclosed after a Writ of Ad quod damnum executed, any Person aggrieved by such Inclosure, may complain to the Justices at the next Quarter-Sessions; but if no such Complaint or Appeal be made, then the Inquisition and Return, recorded by the Clerk of the Peace, shall be for ever binding. 8 & 9 W. 3. It appears by the Writs in the Register, that in antient Times, upon every Grant, Confirma-

Confirmation, &c. or Licence made by the King, first a Writ of Ad quod Damnum was to be awarded, to inquire of the Truth thereof, and what Damage the King might have by the same: But now the Practice is contrary; and in the Patents of common Grants of Licence, are put in the End these Words.—Et hoc absque aliquo Breui de Ad quod Damnum, seu aliquibus aliis brevibus seu inquisitionibus aut mandatis superinde habend. fend. aut prosequend. &c.

A Writ of Ad quod Damnum.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of the County of W. Greeting: We command you, that by the Oath of honest and lawful Men of your Bailiwick, or of your County, by whom the Truth of the Matter may be better known, diligently you inquire, whether it will be to the Damage or Prejudice of us, or others, if we grant to C. D. one Fair at, &c. And if it will be to the Damage or Prejudice of us or others, then to what Damage and what Prejudice of us, and to what Damage and Prejudice of others, and of whom, and in what Manner, and how, and where, &c. And the Inquisition thereupon, distinctly and openly made, to us in our Chancery, under your Seal, and the Seals of those by whom it was made, do you send without Delay, and this Writ. Witnesses, &c.

Adressare, Addressare, i. e. ad rectum ire, recto Stare, To do right, satisfy or make Amends. Geru. Dorobern. Anno 1170.

Ad terminum qui preterit, A Writ of Entry, that lies for the Lessor and his Heirs, where a Lease has been made of Lands or Tenements for Term of Life, or Years; and after the Term is expired, the Lands are with-held from the Lessor by the Tenant, or other Person that possesseth the same: And it likewise lies for the Heir of the Lessor. F. N. B. 201.

Advent, (Adventus) A Time containing about a Month preceding the Feast of the Nativity of our Saviour Christ. It begins from the Sunday that falls either upon St. Andrew's Day, being the 30th of November, or next to it, and continues to the Feast of Christ's Nativity commonly called Christmas. Our Ancestors shewed great Reverence and Devotion to this Time, in Regard to the Approach of the solemn Festival: For in adventu Domini nulla assisa debet capi. Int. placita de temp. Regis Joban. Ebor. 126. But the Statute West. 1. cap. 48. ordained that notwithstanding the usual Solemnity and Times of Rest, it should be lawful (in Respect of Justice and Charity, which ought at all Times to be regarded) to take Assises of Novel Disseisin, Mort d'Ancestor, &c. in the Time of Advent, Septuagesima, and Lent. This is also one of the Seasons, from the Beginning of which to the End of the Octaves of the Epiphany, the Solemnizing of Marriages is forbidden, without special Licence, as we may find from these old Verses,

*Conjugium Adventus prohibet, Hilarique relaxat;
Septuagena vetat, sed Paschæ Octava reducit;
Rogatio vetitat, concedit Trina potestas.*

Ad ventrem Inspectendum, A Writ mentioned in the Statute 12 Ed. 2. See Ventre Inspectendo, by which a Woman is to be searched, whether she be with Child by a former Husband, on her with-holding Lands from the Heir.

Adventure, A Thing sent to Sea, the Adventure whereof the Person sending it, stands to Out and Home. Lex. Mercat. Vide Adventure.

Adultery, (Adulterium, quasi ad alterius thorum) Anno 1 Hen. 7. cap. 7. and in divers old Authors termed Advoluery, is the Sin of Incontinence between two married Persons; and if but one of the Persons be married, it is nevertheless Adultery: But in this last Case, it is called single Adultery, to distinguish it from the other, which is double. This Crime is severely punished by the Laws of God, and the ancient Laws of the Land; The Julian Law, among the old Romans, made it Death; but in most Countries at this Time, the Punishment is by Fine, and sometimes Banishment: In England it is punished by Fine, Penance, &c. King Edmund a Saxon, Leg. suar' cap. 4. Adulterium affici jussit instar Homicidii. And Canutus the Dane, Hominem Adulterum in exilium relegari jussit, sceminam nasum & aures præcidi. Leg. par. 2. c. 6. & c. 50. Leg. Hen. 1. cap. 12.—Rex, &c. Vic. South'ton, Præcipimus tibi quod diligenter inquire facias per legales homines de Visn. Candeur. si Robertus Pincerna habens suspectum Will. Wake qui cum uxore sua Adulterium committeret, prohibuit ei ingressum domus sue, & si idem Will. post prohibitionem illam domus ipsius Roberti ingressus Adulterium prædictum commisit, inde præfatus Robertus mentula cum privavit, & si inquisitio dederit, quod ita sit, tunc eidem Roberto & suis qui cum eo erant ad hoc faciend. terr. & Catalla sua occasione illa in manum nostram scista, in pace esse facias, donec aliud inde tibi præcipimus, &c. Claus. 14. Joh. m. 2. Perhaps this might be in some Measure agreeable to a Law made by William the Conqueror, that whoever forced a Woman should lose his Genitals, the offending Parts. Before the Statute 22 Car. 2. which makes malicious maiming Felony, it was a Question, whether cutting off the privy Members of a Man, taken in Adultery with another Man's Wife, was Felony or not? For according to Bracton, sequitur poena aliquando Capitalis: But Anno 13 H. 3. one John a Monk being taken by Henry Hull, in the Act with his Wife, he cut off the privy Members of the Monk, and was only indicted for a Maim. 3 Inst. 118. If a Wife elope from her Husband, and live with the Adulterer, (without being reconciled to the Husband) she shall forfeit her Dower. 1 Inst. 36. 2 Inst. 435. And there is a notable Case concerning Margaret the Wife of John de Camois, who with her Husband's Consent lived in Adultery with Sir William Pannel, yet lost her Dower. 2 Inst. Adultery being a Thing Temporal, as well as Spiritual, is against the Peace, &c.

Advocate, Is the Patron of a Cause, assisting his Client with Advice, and who pleads for him: It is the same by the Civil and Ecclesiastical Laws, as a Counsellor by the Common Law. The Ecclesiastical or Church Advocate, was originally of two Sorts; either an Advocate of the Causes and Interest of the Church, retained as a Counsellor and Pleader of its Rights; or an Advocate, or Patron of the Presentation and Advowson. Both these Offices at first belonged to the Founders of Churches and Convents, and their Heirs, who were bound to protect and defend their Churches, as well as to nominate or present to them.—As Ailwin, Founder of Ramsay Abbey, Proruit in medium, se Ramesiensis Ecclesiæ Advocatum, se possessionum ejus tutorem allegans. Lib. Rames. Sect. 49. But when the Patrons grew negligent in their Duty, or were not of Ability or Interest in the Courts of Justice, then the Religious began to retain Law Advocates, to solicit and prosecute their Causes. Vid. Spelman.

Advocati, Were those which we now call Patrons of Churches, and reserved to them, and their Heirs, a Liberty to present a Person on any Avoidance. Blount.

Advocatione Decimarum, A Writ that lies for Tithes, demanding the fourth Part, or upwards, that belong to any Church. Reg. Orig. 29.

Advow, (Advocare) To justify or maintain an Act formerly done. For Example: One takes a Distress for Rent, and he that is distrained sues a Replevin;

now the Distrainer, justifying or maintaining the Act, is said to Advow or Avow: And hence comes Advowant and Advowry. Old Nat. Br. 43. The Signification of this Word is also to bring forth any Thing: Anciently when stolen Goods were bought by one, and sold to another, it was lawful for the right Owner to take them where-ever they were found; and he in whose Possession they were found, was bound advocare, i. e. to produce the Seller to justify the Sale; and so on till they found the Thief. Afterwards the Word was taken for any Thing which a Man acknowledged to be his own, or done by him, and in this Sense it is mentioned in Fleta, lib. 1. cap. 5. par. 4. Si vir ipsum in domo sua susceperit, nutrierit & advocaverit filium suum.

Advowee, Or Avowee, (Advocatus) is used for him that hath Right to present to a Benefice: And by 25 Ed. 3. Stat. 5. we find Advowee Paramount is taken for the King, the highest Patron.—Advocatus est ad quem pertinet jus Advocationis alicujus Ecclesie, ut ad Ecclesiam, nomine proprio non alieno, possit presentare. Fleta lib. 5. c. 14.

Advowson, (Advocatio) Signifies the Right of Presentation to a Church or Benefice: And he who hath this Right to present is styled Patron; because they that originally obtained the Right of Presentation to any Church, were Maintainers of, or Benefactors to the same Church. When the Christian Religion was first established in England, Kings began to build Cathedral Churches, and to make Bishops; and afterwards, in Imitation of them, several Lords of Manors founded particular Churches on some Part of their own Lands, and endowed them with Glebe, reserving to themselves and their Heirs, a Right to present a fit Person to the Bishop, when the same should become void: And this is called an Advowson, and he that hath this Right of Presentation is termed the Patron, it being presumed that he who founded the Church, will Avow and take it into his Protection, and be a Patron to defend it in its just Rights. 1 Nels. Abr. 184. Advowsons are of two Kinds; Appendant, and in Gros: Appendant, is a Right of Presentation dependant upon a Manor, Lands, &c. and passes in a Grant of the Manor as incident to the same; and when Manors were first created, and Lands set apart to build a Church on some Part thereof, the Advowson or Right to present to that Church became appendant to the Manor. Advowson in Gros, is a Right subsisting by itself, belonging to a Person, and not a Manor, Lands, &c. So that when an Advowson appendant is severed by Deed or Grant from the corporeal Inheritance to which it was appendant, then it becomes an Advowson in Gros. 1 Inst. 121, 122. Also Advowsons are either Presentative, Collative, or Donative. Advowsons were formerly most of them appendant to Manors, and the Patrons Parochial Barons; the Lordship of the Manor, and Patronage of the Church were seldom in different Hands till Advowsons were given to religious Houses; but of late Times the Lordship of the Manor, and the Advowson of the Church have been divided; and now not only Lords of Manors, but mean Persons have, by Purchase, the Dignity of Patrons of Churches, to the great Prejudice thereof. By the Common Law the Right of Patronage is a real Right fixed in the Patrons or Founders, and their Heirs, wherein they have as absolute a Property as any other Man hath in his Lands and Tenements: For Advowsons are a Temporal Inheritance, and Lay Fee; they may be granted by Deed or Will, and are Assets in the Hands of Heirs or Executors. 1 Inst. 119. A Recovery may be suffered of an Advowson; a Wife may be endowed of it; a Husband Tenant by the Curtesy; and it may be forfeited by Treason or Felony. 1 Rep. 56. 10 Rep. 55. If an Advowson descends to Coparceners, and the Church after the Death of their Ancestors becomes void, the eldest Sister shall first present. Stat. 21 Ed. 3. And when Coparceners, Jointenants, &c. are seized of an Advowson, and Partition is made to present by Turns, each shall be seized of their separate Estate. 7 Ann. An Infant may present to a Church; and where an Advowson belongs to a Feme Covert, the Presentation must be by Husband and Wife. 1 Inst. 135. Persons seized of Advowsons being Papists, are disabled to make Presentations, and the Chancellors of the Universities shall present. 1 W. & M. cap. 26. And Presentations to Advowsons, &c. for Money or other Reward, shall be void, &c. Stat. 31 Eliz. c. 6. Vid. Presentation, Simony, &c.

Advowson of the Moiety of the Church, (Advocatio medietatis Ecclesie) Is where there are two several Patrons, and two several Incumbents in one and the same Church, the one of the one Moiety, the other of the other Moiety thereof. Co. Litt. Medietas Advocationis, a Moiety of the Advowson, is where two must join in the Presentation, and there is but one Incumbent; as where there are two Parceners; And though they agree to present by Turns, yet each of them hath but the Moiety of the Church. 1 Inst. 17. But Vide Stat. 7 Anne.

Advowson of Religious Houses, Where any Persons founded any House of Religion, they had thereby the Advowson or Patronage thereof, like unto those who built and endowed Parish Churches. And sometimes these Patrons had the sole Nomination of the Abbot, or Prior, &c. either by Investiture or Delivery of a Pastoral Staff: Or by direct Presentation to the Diocesan; or if a free Election were left to the Religious, a Conge d'Esire, or Licence for Election, was first to be obtained of the Patron, and the Elect confirmed by him. Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. 147, 163.

Aerie, (Aeria accipitrum) Airy of Goshawks, is the proper Term for Hawks, for that which of other Birds we call a Nest. Stat. 9 H. 3. cap. 12. And it is generally said to come from the French Word Aire, a Hawk's Nest. The Liberty of keeping these Aeries of Hawks was a Privilege, granted to great Persons: And the preserving the Aeries in the King's Forests was one Sort of Tenure of Lands by Service. Anno 20 Ed. 1. Simon de Raghton & al Tenent terras in Raghton, &c. per Serjantiam custodiendi Aerias Austringorum Domini Regis.

Estimatio Capitis, (Pretium Hominis) King Abelane ordained that Fines should be paid for Offences committed against several Persons according to their Degrees and Quality, by Estimation of their Heads. Cress. Ch. Hist. 834. Leg. Hen. 1.

Estate Probanda, A Writ that lay to inquire, Whether the King's Tenant holding in chief by Chivalry, were of full Age to receive his Lands into his own Hands. It was directed to the Escheator of the County; but is now disused, since Wards and Liveries are taken away by the Statute. Reg. Orig. 294.

Affeerers, (Afferatores) From the Fr. Affer, to affirm. They are those that in Courts-Leet upon Oath settle and moderate the Fines and Amercements imposed on such Persons as have committed Faults arbitrarily punishable, viz. that have no express Penalty appointed by Statute: And they are also appointed for moderating Amercements in Courts-Baron. The Persons nominated to this Office, affirm upon their Oaths what Penalty they think in Conscience ought to be inflicted on the Offenders. This Word is used Stat. 25 Ed. 3. c. 7. Where Mention is made, that the Justices before their Rising in every Sessions, shall cause the Amerciements to be affeer'd. And this seems to be agreeable to Magna Charta, by which it is ordained, that Persons are to be amerced after the Manner of the Fault; and the Amerciements shall be assessed by the Oath of honest and lawful Men of the Vicinage. 9 Hen. 3. cap. 14.

The Oath of Affeerers.

YOU shall well and truly advise and affirm the several Amercements here made, and now to you read over; you shall spare no one out of Love, Fear, or Affection, nor raise or inbalance any out of Hatred or Malice, but impartially shall do your Duties therein.

So help you God.

Affiance, The Plighting of Troth between a Man and a Woman, upon Agreement of Marriage: It is derived from the Latin Word Affidare, and signifies as much as fidem ad alium dare. Lit. Sect. 39.

Affidare, To plight one's Faith, or give, or swear Fealty, i. e. Fidelity, MS. Dom. de Farendon 22.

Affidatio Dominorum, An Oath taken by the Lords in Parliament, Anno 3 H. 6. Rot. Parl.

Affidatus, Signifies a Tenant by Fealty, also a Retainer—Affidatio accipitur pro mutua fidelitatis connexione, tam in sponsaliis, quam inter Dominum & vassallum—Proles de Affidata & non maritata, non est Haeris. MS. Arth. Trevor Ar.

Affidari, Sex Affidari ad Arma, To be mustered and inrolled for Soldiers upon an Oath of Fidelity. Dom. de Farendon, MS. 55.

Affidabit, Signifies in Law an Oath in Writing; and to make Affidavit of a Thing, is to testify it upon Oath. An Affidavit generally speaking is an Oath in Writing, sworn before some Person who hath Authority to take such Oath: And the true Place of Habitation, and true Addition of every Person who shall make an Affidavit, is to be inserted into his Affidavit. 1 Lill. Abr. 44, 46. Affidavits ought to set forth the Matter of Fact only, which the Party intends to prove by his Affidavit; and not to declare the Merits of the Cause, of which the Court is to judge. 21 Car. 1. B. R. The Plaintiff or Defendant may make Affidavit in a Cause depending; but it will not be admitted in Evidence at the Trial, only upon Motions. 1 Lill. 44. When an Affidavit hath been read in Court, it ought to be filed, that the other may see it, and take a Copy of it. Pascb. 1655. An Affidavit taken before a Master in Chancery, will not be of any Force in the Court of King's Bench, or other Courts, nor ought to be read there; for it ought to be made before one of the Judges of the Court wherein the Cause is depending. Styl's Rep. 455. But by Stat. 29 Car. 2. c. 5. The Judges of the Courts at Westminster by Commission may empower Persons in the several Counties of England to take Affidavits concerning Matters depending in their several Courts, as Masters in Chancery extraordinary used to do. Where Affidavits are taken by Commissioners in the Country, according to the Statute 29 Car. 2. and 'tis expres'd to be in a Cause depending between two certain Persons, and there is no such depending, those Affidavits cannot be read, because the Commissioners have no Authority to take them; (and for that Reason the Party cannot be convicted of Perjury upon them); but if there is such a Cause in Court, and Affidavits taken concerning some collateral Matter, they may be read. Salk. 461. There being one Affidavit against another relating to a Judgment, the Matter was referred to a Trial at Law upon a feigned Issue, to satisfy the Conscience of the Court as to the Fact alledged. Comberb. 399. No dilatory Plea shall be received in any Court, unless the Truth thereof be made out by Affidavit; or some probable Matter be shewn to believe the Fact. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. Affidavits are usually for certifying the Service of Process, or other Matters touching the Proceedings in a Cause.

Affinage, (Fr. Affinage) Refining of Metal, Purgatio metalli; inde, fine and refine.

Affirm, (Affirmare) Signifies to ratify or confirm a former Law or Judgment: So is the Substantive Affirmance used, Anno 8 H. 6. c. 12. And the Verb it self by West. Part 2. Symbol. Tit. Fines, Sect. 152. 19 H. 7. cap. 20.

Affirmation, An Indulgence allowed by Law to the People called Quakers, who in Cases where an Oath is required from others, may make a solemn Affirmation that what they say is true; and if they make a false Affirmation, they are subject to the Penalties of Perjury: But this relates only to Oaths to the Government, and on publick Occasions; for Quakers may not give Testimony in any Criminal Cause, &c. Stat. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 34. See Quakers.

Affozare, To set a Value or Price on a Thing. Et quod Amerciament. praedictor. tenentium affozentur & taxentur per Sacramentum parium. Charta Anno 1316. apud Thorn. Du Cange.

Affozatus, Appraised or valued, as Things vendible in a Fair or Market—Retinuit Rex potestatem pardonandi ei omnimoda Amerciamenta tam Affozata, quam non Affozata, tam de se quam de omnibus hominibus. Cartular. Glaston. MS. f. 58.

Affozciament, (Affozciamentum) A Fortress, strong Hold, or other Fortification—Pro reparatione murorum & aliorum Affozciamentorum dictae Civitatis, &c. Pryn. Animad. on Coke, fol. 184.

Affozciare, To add, increase, or make stronger—Cum Juratores in veritate dicenda sunt sibi contrarii de consilio Curiae Affozcietur affisa ita quod apponantur alii juxta numerum majoris partis quae dissenferit. Bract. lib. 4. c. 19. viz. Let the Witnesses be increased.

Affozest, (Affozestare) To turn Ground into a Forest. Chart. de Forest. c. 1. When Forest Ground is turned from Forest to other Uses, it is called Disaffozest. Vide Forest.

Affray, Is derived from the Fr. Word Effrayer, to affright, and it formerly meant no more; as where Persons appeared with Armour or Weapons not usually worn, to the Terror of others. Stat. 2 Ed. 3. c. 3. But now it signifies a Skirmish or Fighting between two or more, and there must be a Stroke given, or offered, or a Weapon drawn, otherwise it is not an Affray. 3 Inst. 158. It is inquirable in the Court-Lect; and punishable by Justices of Peace in their Sessions, by Fine and Imprisonment. And it differs from Assault, in that it is a Wrong to the Publick; whereas Assault is of a private Nature, Lamb. lib. 2. A Justice of Peace may commit Affrayers, until they find Sureties of the Peace: A Constable may require Affrayers to depart, and if they resist, he may call others to his Assistance; who, if they refuse to assist him, may be fined and imprisoned: And a private Person, or Stander-by, may put a Stop to an Affray, and seize the Offenders, where Persons are assembled in a tumultuous Manner to break the Peace. 3 Inst. 158. H. P. C. 135. In Case a Person be dangerously roufully wounded, any Man may apprehend the Offender, and carry him before a Justice, in the same Manner as a Constable. Dalt. 35. In a very dangerous Affray, a Constable can justify Commitment, till the Offenders find Sureties for the Peace. Lamb. 139. He may likewise put the Affrayers in the Stocks till he can procure proper Assistance to convey them to Gaol. Dalt. 38. But in Cases of Affrays, the Constable must apprehend the Persons offending before the Affray is over, or else he may not do it without a Warrant from a Justice, except it be in an extraordinary Case; as where a Person is wounded dangerously. Dalt. 36. In Case of a sudden Affray, through Passion or excess of Drinking, the Constable may put the Persons in Prison if there be one in the Vill, until the Heat of their Passion and Intemperance is over, though he deliver them afterwards; or till he can bring them before a Justice of Peace, and that to avoid the present Danger. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 95, 90. If a Constable is hurt in an Affray, he may have his Remedy by Action of Trespas, and have good Damages; but the Affrayers, if they are hurt, shall have no Remedy. Lamb. 141. And where any other Persons receive Harm from the Affrayers, they may have Remedy by Action against them. Dalt. 35.

An Indictment for an Affray.

THE Jurors for our Sovereign Lord the King upon their Oath present, That A. B. C. D. and E. F. late of, &c. with Force and Arms, that is to say, with Swords, Staves, and other Warlike Instruments, on the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. at M. in the County aforesaid, being arrayed and unlawfully assembled together in a warlike Manner, then and there by turns made an Assault and Affray, to the Terror and Disturbance of divers Subjects of our Lord the King then and there being, and to the evil and pernicious Example of the Lige People of the said Lord the King, and against the Peace of our said Lord the King, his Crown and Dignity.

Freightment, (Affretamentum) The Freight of a Ship, from the French Fret, which signifies the Tons. Fat. 11 Hen. 4. See Charter-Party.

Affri, vel Affra, Bullocks, or Horses or Beasts of the Plough—Viccomes liberet ei omnia catalla debitoris, exceptis Bobus & Affris caruæ. Westm. 2. c. 18. Et communiam Pasturæ ad decem Boves & duos Affros in prædictis Pasturis. *Mon. Age, (Ætas, Fr. Age) In common Acceptation signifies a Man's Life from his Birth to any certain Time, or the Day of his Death: It also hath Relation to that Part of Time wherein Men live. But in the Law it is particularly used for those special Times which enable Persons of both Sexes to do certain Acts, which before through Want of Years and Judgment they are prohibited to do. As for Example; a Man at twelve Years of Age ought to take the Oath of Allegiance to the King: At Fourteen, which is his Age of Discretion, he may consent to Marriage, and chuse his Guardian; and at Twenty-one he may alien his Lands, Goods and Chattels: A Woman at nine Years of Age is dowable; at Twelve she may consent to Marriage; at Fourteen she is at Years of Discretion, and may chuse a Guardian; and at Twenty-one she may alienate her Lands, &c. 1 Inst. 78. There are several other Ages mentioned in our antient Books, relating to Aid of the Lord, Wardship, &c. now of no Use. Co. Litt. The Age of Twenty-one is the full Age of Man or Woman; which enables them to contract and manage for themselves, in Respect to their Estates, until which Time they cannot act with Security to those as deal with them; for their Acts are in most Cases either void, or voidable. Perk. But a Person under Twenty-one, may contract for Necessaries suitable to his Quality, and it shall bind him: Also one under Age may be Executor of a Will. 1 Inst. 171. And at Fourteen Years of Age a Person may dispose of Goods and Personal Estate by Will; tho' not of Lands till the Age of Twenty-one. It hath been adjudged, that if one be born on the first of February at Eleven o'Clock at Night, and the last of January in the One and Twentieth Year at One o'Clock in the Morning, he makes his Will of Lands, &c. and dies; yet such Will is good, for he then was of Age. Mod. Caf. 260. A Person under the Age of Twenty-one may make a Purchase; but at his full Age he may agree or disagree to it. 1 Inst. 2. So where Persons marry, the Man under the Age of Fourteen, or the Woman within Twelve, they may disagree to the Marriage at those Ages: And the Law is the same in other Cases. Persons under the Age of Fourteen, are not generally punishable for Crimes: But if they do any Trespas, they must answer for the Damage. 1 Inst. 247. 2 Roll. Abr. 547. Fourteen is the Age by Law to be a Witness; and in some Cases a Person of nine Years of Age hath been allow'd to give Evidence. 2 Harok. 434. None may be a Member of Parliament under the Age of Twenty-one Years; and no Man can be ordained Priest till Twenty-four; nor be a Bishop till thirty Years of Age.

Age-Prier, (Ætatem precari or Ætatis precatio) Is when an Action being brought against a Person under Age for Lands which he hath by Descent, he by Petition or Motion shews the Matter to the Court, and prays that the Action may stay till his full Age, which the Court generally agrees to. Terms de Ley 30. But as a Purchaser, a Minor shall not have Age-Prier: Nor in a Writ of Assise, because it is of his own Wrong, and this Writ shall not be delay'd; or in a Writ of Dower; or of Partition. Stat. 3 Ed. 1. 38 Ed. 3. Hob. 342. In a Writ of Debt against an Heir, he shall have his Age, for at full Age he may plead Riens per Descent, or a Release to his Ancestor, and be discharged. Danv. Abr. 259. See Parol Demurrer.

Agenfrida, The true Lord or Owner of any Thing—Si porcus non fuerit ibi sapius quam semel det Agenfrida unum solidum. Leg. Inæ, c. 50. apud Brompt. c. 45.

Agenfine, A Guest at an Inn after three Nights, when accounted one of the Family. See Hogbenbino.

Agent and Patient, Is when a Person is the Doer of a Thing, and the Party to whom done: As where a Woman endows herself of the best Part of her Husband's Possessions, this being the sole Act of herself to herself, makes her Agent and Patient. Also if a Man be indebted unto another, and afterwards he makes the Creditor his Executor, and dies, the Executor may retain so much of the Goods of the Deceased as will satisfy his Debt; and by this Retainer he is Agent and Patient, that is, the Party to whom the Debt is due, and the Person that pays the same. But a Man shall not not be Judge in his own Cause, Quia iniquum est aliquem suæ rei esse judicem. 8 Rep. 138.

Agild, Signifies to be free from Penalties, not subject to the customary Fine or Imposition. Sax. a Gild, Sine multa. Leges Aluredi, cap. 6. Si utlagata efficiat ut occidatur, pro eo quod contra Dei velleum & Regis imperium Stet—jaceat Agild. In Leg. Hen. 1. c. 88. Agilde was a Person so vile, that whoever kill'd him was to pay no Mulct for his Death.

Agiler, From the Sax. a gile, an Observer or Informer.

Agillarins, A Hey-ward, Herd-ward, or Keeper of Cattle in a common Field. Towns and Villages had their Heywards, to supervise and guard the greater Cattle, or common Herd of Kine and Oxen, and keep them within due Bounds; and if these were servile Tenants, they were privileged from all customary Services to the Lord, because they were presumed to be always attending their Duty, as a Shepherd on his Flock. And Lords of Manors had likewise their Heywards, to take Care of the Tillage, Harvest-Work, &c. and see that there were no Incroachments made on their Lordships: But this is now the Business of Bailiffs. Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. 534, 576.

Agist, (from the Fr. Giste, a Bed or Resting Place) Signifies to take in and feed the Cattle of Strangers in the King's Forest, and to gather up the Money due for the same. Chart. de Foresta, 9 H. 3. c. 9. The Officers appointed for this Purpose are called Agisters, or Gist takers, and are made by the King's Letters Patent: There are four of them in every Forest wherein the King hath any Pannage. Manw. For. Laws 80. They are also called Agistators, to take Account of the Cattle agisted.

Agistment, (Agistamentum) Is where other Men's Cattle are taken into any Ground, at a certain Rate per Week: It is so called, because the Cattle are suffered agister, that is to be levant and couchant there; and many great Farms are employed to this Purpose. 2 Inst. 643. Our Graziers call Cattle which they thus take in to keep Gisements; and to gise or juice the Ground, is when the Occupier thereof feeds it not with his own Stock, but takes in the Cattle of others to agist or pasture it. Agistment is likewise the Profit of such Feeding in a Ground or Field: And extends to the Depasturing of barren Cattle of the Owner, for which Tithes shall be paid to the Parson. There is Agistment of Sea-Banks, where Lands are charged with a Tribute to keep out the Sea. Terræ Agistatæ are Lands whose Owners are bound to keep up the Sea-Banks. Spelm. in Romney-Marsh.

Agius, (Gr.) i. e. Holy.—Ego Triumphalem Trophæum Agix crucis impressi. Mon. Angl. p. 15, 17.

Agnus Dei, A Piece of white Wax in a flat oval Form, like a small Cake, stamp'd with the Figure of the Lamb, and consecrated by the Pope. Agnus Dei, Crosses, &c. are not permitted to be brought into this Kingdom, on Pain of a Pæmunire. Stat. 13 Eliz. c. 2.

Agraria Lex, A Law made by the Romans for Distribution of Lands among the common People.

Agreement, Agreementum (aggregatio mentium) Signifies a joining together of two or more Minds in any Thing done, or to be done. Plowd. 17. It is Threefold; 1st, An Agreement executed already at the Beginning; as where Money is paid for the Thing agreed, or other Satisfaction made. 2dly, An Agreement after an Act done by another; as where one doth such a Thing, and another Person agrees to it afterwards, which is executed also: And 3dly, An Agreement executory, or to be performed in futuro. This last Sort of Agreement may be divided into two Parts; one certain at the Beginning, and the other when the Certainty not appearing at first, the Parties agree that the Thing shall be perform'd upon the Certainty known. Terms de Ley 31. Every Agreement ought to be perfect, full and compleat, being the mutual Consent of the Parties; and should be executed with a Recompence, or be so certain as to give an Action or other Remedy thereon. Plowd. 5. Any Thing under Hand and Seal, which imports an Agreement, will amount to a Covenant: And a Proviso, by Way of Agreement, amounts likewise to a Covenant; and Action may be brought upon them. 1 Lev. 155. An Agreement being put in Writing only for Remembrance, doth not change its Nature; but if it be put in Writing sealed and delivered, it is of greater Force. Hob. 79. Where an Agreement for the Purchase of Lands, being in Writing, and signed by both the Parties, but not sealed; it was held good in Chancery, and decreed to be executed. Though where a Person gives a Guinea, &c. Earnest, without Agreement in Writing it is otherwise. Preced. Canc. 16, 560. A Note of an Agreement sign'd by one Party only, will bind both in Equity: So it is of Agreements in Part executed, by delivering Possession of the Lands, tho' neither Party sign them. Abr. Caf. Eq. 21. But if any Estate in Possession or Reversion be made to me, I must agree to it, before it will be settled; for I may refuse, and so avoid it: A Release, Deed or Bond, is made and delivered to another to my Use, this will vest in me without any Agreement of mine; but if I disagree to it, I make the Deed void. Dyer 167. And regularly where a Man hath once disagreed to the Party himself, he can never after agree: An Obligation being made to my Use, and tendered to me, if I refuse it, and after agree again and will accept it; now this Agreement afterwards, will not make the Obligation good, that was void by the Refusal. Co. Litt. 79. 5 Rep. 119. An Agreement may be as well in the Party's Absence, as in his Presence; but a Disagreement must be to the Person himself to whom made. 2 Rep. 69. When an Estate is made to a Feme Covert, it is good till Disagreement without any Agreement of the Husband: Tho' a new Estate granted to the Wife where she hath an Estate before, as by the taking of a new Lease, and making a Surrender in Law, will not vest till the Husband agree to it. Hob. 204. A forced Agreement of the Party is accounted no Agreement, and therefore he that did agree to the Thing, shall not be compelled to perform it. 1 Lill. 48. An Agreement made only by Parol, may be discharged and made void, at any Time before broken, by Parol only, without Satisfaction: But not after it is broken, when an Injury is done. 22 Car. 1. B. R. Agreements are to be in Writing, by Stat. 29 Car. 2. cap. 1. of Frauds and Perjuries: And by the Common Law, are govern'd by the Intention, or as near as it may be. If an Agreement be in the Nature of a Penalty, the Courts of Equity will not relieve against it; for the Terms shall be judged the Measure of Satisfaction to the Parties. Preced. Can. 102. See Contract.

Articles of Agreement for Sale of an Estate.

Articles of Agreement, indented, made, concluded and agreed upon the Day and Year, &c. Between A. B. of, &c. of the one Part, and C. D. of, &c. of the other Part, as followeth, viz.

FIRST, The said A. B. in Consideration of the Sum of, &c. to be paid as herein after is mentioned, doth covenant and agree with the said C. D. That he the said A. B. shall and will, at the Costs and Charges of the said C. D. on or before the Day, &c. next coming, by such Conveyances, Ways and Means in the Law, as his Counsel shall reasonably advise, well and sufficiently grant, convey and assure to the said C. D. and his Heirs, or to whom he or they shall appoint, and to such Uses as he he or they shall direct, All that Messuage or Tenement, &c. situate, &c. with Covenants to be therein contained against all Incumbrances done or committed by him the said A. B. or any claiming under him. Also, The said C. D. for himself, his Heirs and Assigns, doth covenant and grant to and with the said A. B. his Heirs and Assigns, That he the said C. D. shall and will, on executing the said Conveyance, pay unto the said A. B. his Heirs or Assigns, the said Sum of, &c. as and for the Purchase Money for the said Messuage, Tenement and Premises above-mentioned. Also, It is further agreed by and between the said Parties to these Presents, That the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns, shall and may, on the Day, &c. enter into and upon the said Premises, and receive the Profits thereof, to his and their own Use and Uses. In Witness, &c.

Agril, In our Law, denotes arable Land in the common Fields. Fortescue.

Aid, (Auxilium) Is all one with the French Aide, and is generally understood to be a Subsidy granted to the Crown. By the ancient Law of the Land, the King and any Lord of the Realm, might lay an Aid upon their Tenants, for Knighting an eldest Son, or Marriage of a Daughter; but this was taken away by the Statute 12 Car. 2. This Imposition, which was often levied in former Times, seems to have descended to us from Normandy, or rather from the feudal Laws. Grand Custom. c. 35. It is said to differ from Tax in Signification; for Taxes were anciently levied at the Will of the Lord, upon any Occasion whatsoever, but Aids could not be levied but where it was lawful and customary so to do; as to make the eldest Son a Knight, marry the eldest Daughter, or to redeem the Lord from Prison. By Statute 34 Ed. 1. It is ordain'd that the King shall levy no Aid or Tax without his Parliament.

Aid-Prayer, (Auxilium Petere) A Word made use of in Pleading, for a Petition in Court to call in Help from another Person that hath an Interest in the Thing contested: This gives Strength to the Party praying in Aid, and to the other likewise, by giving him an Opportunity of avoiding a Prejudice growing towards his own Right. As Tenant in Tail, by the Curtesy, for Term of Years, &c. being impleaded, may pray in Aid of him in Reversion; that is, desire the Court that he may be called by Writ to alledge what he thinks proper for the Maintenance of the Right of the Person calling him, and of his own. F. N. B. 50. Aid shall be granted to the Defendant in Ejections firme, when the Title of the Land is in Question: Lessee for Years, shall have Aid in Trespals; and Tenants at Will: But Tenant in Tail shall not have Aid of him in Remainder in Fee; for he himself hath Inheritance. Daw. Abr. 292. In a Writ of Replevin, the Avowry being for a real Service, Aid is granted before Issue; and in Action of Trespals after Issue join'd, if there be Cause, it shall be had for the Defendant, tho' never for the Plaintiff. Jenk. Cent. 64. Fitz. Abr. 7. There ought to be Privy between a Person that joins in Aid and the other to whom he is joined; otherwise Joinder in Aid shall not be suffered. Daw. 318. There is a Prayer in Aid of Patrons, by Parsons, Vicars, &c. And between Coparceners, where one Coparcener shall have Aid of the other to recover pro rata. Co. Litt. And also Servants, having done any Thing lawfully in Right of their Masters, shall have Aid of them. Terms de Ley 34.

Aid of the King, (Auxilium Regis) Is where the King's Tenant prays Aid of the King, on Account of Rent demanded of him by others. A City or Borough, that hold a Fee-farm of the King, if any Thing be demanded against them which belongs thereto, they may pray in Aid of the King: And the King's Bailiff, Collectors, or Accountants shall have Aid of the King. In these Cases, the Proceedings are stopp'd till the King's Counsel are heard to say what they think fit, for avoiding the King's Prejudice: And this Aid, shall not in any Case be granted after Issue; because the King ought not to rely upon the Defence made by another. Jenk. Cent. 64. Terms de Ley 35. Stat. 4 Ed. 1. § 14 Ed. 3.

Aile, (of the French Aiel, i. e. Avus) Signifies a Writ which lies where a Man's Grandfather or Great Grandfather (called Beaile) being seized of Lands and Tenements in Fee-simple, the Day that he died, and a Stranger abateth or entreth the same Day, and dispossession the Heir of his Inheritance. F. N. B. 222. The Aunt and the Niece shall join in a Writ of Aiel of the Seisin of their Grandfather. And the Writ runs thus: Rex Vic. &c. Prac. A. B. quod juste, &c. redd. B. & D. unum Messuagium, &c. de quo, D. Avus præd. B. & prævus Præd. D. cujus hæred. ipsi sunt, sicut seistus, &c.

Ailments, Include any Liberty of Passage, open Way, Water-course, &c. for the Ease and Accommodation of Tenants. Kitch.

Al, Ald, Words which begin with Al or Ald in the Names of Places, signify Antiquity; as Alborough, Aldworth, &c.

Alanerarius, A Manager and Keeper of Dogs, for the Sport of Hawking, from Alanus a Dog, known to the Antients. Du Fresno. But Mr. Blount renders it a Faulconer.—Robertus de Chedworth Vice-Com. Linc. liberavit lvi s. viii d. Johanni de Bellovento, pro putura septem Leporariorum & trium Falconum & Alanerarii & pro vadiis unius Braccarth. 16 E. 1.

Alba, The Alb, A Sorplice or white sacerdotal Vest, antiently used by officiating Priests.

Alba firma, This Word is used by my Lord Coke, and seems to signify a Tenure.—Duplex est Tenura in Com. Westmorland, scilicet una per Albam firmam, & alia per Cornagium, &c. 2 Inst. 10.

Albergellum, The same with Halsberga: Omnis homo, &c. habet Albergellum & capellum ferreum, Lanceam & Gladium. It here signifies a Defence for the Neck. Hoveden 611.

Album, Is a Word made use of for white Rent, paid in Siver. Rot. Parl. 6 H. 3.

Alder, Signifies the First; as Alder best, is the best of all; Alder lieft, the most dear.

Alderman, (Sax. Ealderman, Lat. Aldermannus) Hath the same Signification as Senator, or Senior: But at this Day, and long since, those are called Aldermen who are Associates to the Civil Magistrate of a City or Town Corporate. Stat. 24 H. 8. cap. 13. An Alderman ought to be an Inhabitant of the Place, and Resident where he is chosen; and if he removes, he is incapable of doing his Duty in the Government of the City or Place, for which he may be disfranchis'd. 4 Mod. Rep. 36. Alderman Langham was a Freeman of the City of London, and chosen Alderman of such a Ward, and being summoned to the Court of Aldermen he appeared, and the Oath to serve the Office was tendered to him, but he refused to take it, in Contempt of the Court, &c. whereupon he was committed to Newgate, and it was held good. March Rep. 179. The Aldermen of London, &c. are exempted from serving inferior Offices; nor shall they be put upon Assises, or serve on Juries, so long as they continue to be Aldermen. 2 Cro. 585. In Spelman's Glossary we find that we had antiently a Title of Aldermannus totius Angliæ; Witness this Inscription on a Tomb in Ramsay Abbey—Hic requiescit D. Alwinus iacobi Regis Eadgari cognatus totius Angliæ Aldermannus, & hujus Sacri Carnobii miraculosus Fundator. And this Officer was in the Nature of Lord Chief Justice of England. Spelm. Alderman was one of the Degrees of Nobility among the Saxons, and signified an Earl; sometimes applied to a Place, it was taken for a General, with a Civil Jurisdiction as well as military Power; which Title afterwards was used for a Judge, but it literally imports no more than Elder.

Alcecnarium, A Sort of Hawk called a Lanner. See Putura.

Alket, (Sax. Alseth) A Cauldron or Furnace, wherein boiling Water was put for a Criminal to dip his Arm in up to his Elbow, and there hold it for some Time. Du Cange.

Alehouses, Are to be licensed by Justices of Peace, who take Recognizances of Alehouse-keepers not to suffer Disorders in their Houses, and they have Power to put down Alehouses, &c. But the Act is not to restrain Selling of Ale in Fairs. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 25. Alehouse-keepers are liable to a Penalty of 20*s.* for keeping Alehouses without Licence; not exceeding 40*s.* nor under 10*s.* for selling Ale in short Measure; and 10*s.* for permitting Tippling, &c. And Persons retailing Ale or Beer, Alehouse-keepers, &c. shall sell their Ale by a full Ale Quart or Pint, according to the Standard in the Exchequer, marked from the said Standard; and Sub-Commissioners or Collectors of Excise, are to provide substantial Ale Quarts and Pints in every Town in their Divisions; and Mayors and Chief Officers to mark Measures, or forfeit 5*l.* by Statute 1 Jac. 1. c. 9. 3 Car. 1. c. 3. 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 15. See Inns.

Ale-Licences, In London, must be taken out from Commissioners of Excise, &c. on which a Duty is to be paid to the Crown; and not taking out a Licence or Permission, incurs a Forfeiture of 20*l.* but this Statute doth not take away the Power of Justices of Peace in Licensing and Regulating Victuallers, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 13. The Duty granted on Ale-Licences, by this Statute, is repealed by 16 Geo. 2. cap. 12.

Alet san jour, (Fr.) To go without Day, viz. To be finally dismissed the Court, because there is no further Day assigned for Appearance. Kitch. 146.

Ale-Silver, A Rent or Tribute annually paid to the Lord Mayor of London, by those that sell Ale within the Liberty of the City. Antiq. Purvey. 183.

Alestake, A May-Pole called Alestake, because the Country People drew much Ale there: But it is not the common May-Pole, but rather a long Stake drove into the Ground, with a Sign on it, that Ale was to be sold.

Ale-taster, Is an Officer appointed in every Court-Leet, sworn to look to the Afize and Goodness of Ale and Beer, &c. within the Precincts of the Lordship. Kitch. 46. In London there are Ale-Conners, who are Officers appointed to taste Ale and Beer, &c. in the Limits of the City.

Alias, A second or further Writ, issued from the Courts at Westminster, after a Capias, &c. sued out without Effect. Pract. Attorn. Edit. 1.

Alias diffus, Is the Manner of Description of a Defendant, when sued on any Specialty, as a Bond, &c. where after his Name, and common Addition, then comes the Alias diff. and describes him again by the very Name and Addition, whereby he is bound in the Writing. Dyer 50. But the Alias diff. is said to be only Reputation, and not the Truth. Jenk. Cent. 119. See Misnomer.

Alien, (Alienus, Alienigena) One born in a strange Country, out of the Allegiance of the King: It is taken for the contrary to a Denizen or natural Subject. But a Man born out of the Land, so as it be within the Limits of the King's Obedience beyond Sea; or born of English Parents out of the Obedience of the King, if the Parents at the Time of the Birth were of such Obedience, is no Alien. Stat. 25 Ed. 3. c. 2. And if one born out of the King's Obedience, come and reside in England, his Children begotten and born here are not Aliens but Denizens. 7 Rep. All Persons being the King's Natural-born Subjects, may inherit, as Heirs to their Ancestors, though their Ancestors were Aliens, by Statute 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 6. Children of an Ambassador in a Foreign Country, by a Wife being an English Woman, by the Common Law, are natural-born Subjects, and not Aliens. 7 Rep. 11. And if an English Merchant living beyond Sea marries a Wife there, and hath a Child by her, and dies, this Child is born a Denizen, and shall be Heir to him, notwithstanding the Wife be an Alien. Cro. Car. 605. March 91. Those which are born in the English Plantations, are Subjects born. Danv. Abr. 324. There are two Incidents regularly that are necessary to make a Subject born; First, That his Parents, at the Time of his Birth, be under the actual Obedience of the King; Secondly, That the Place of his Birth, be within the King's Dominions. 7 Rep. 18. And it is the Place of Birth that makes the Disability of an Alien to have Lands, &c. The Blood is not the Disability, but the Place where born. Cro. Jac. 539. An Alien can hold no Land by Descent or Purchase, or be Tenant by the Curtesy, or in Dower. 5 Rep. 502. An Alien may purchase a House for Years, for Habitation during his Residency, as necessary for Trade; tho' not Lands. If an Alien, being a Merchant, leaves the Realm, the King shall have the Lease; and if he dies here possessed thereof, his Executors or Administrators shall not have it, but the King; he having it only as an Habitation for his Trade. If an Alien is no Merchant, the King shall have his Lease for Years, tho' it were for his Habitation. 7 Rep. 18. 1 Inst. 2. 129. 2 Inst. 741. In Case an Alien purchase Land, the King upon Office found, shall have it. 1 Inst. 2. Aliens are prohibited to purchase Benefices, without the King's Licence, &c. Stat. 7 R. 2. c. 12. A Devise of Lands to an Alien is void. 4 Leon. 82. And if a Man be bound to an Alien Enemy in an Obligation, the Bond is void to him; but the King will have it. 1 Lev. 59. Danv. Abr. 322. Aliens may obtain Goods and personal Estate, by Trade, &c. And may maintain Actions for the same; they may also have Actions of Assault and Battery, and for Support of their Credit. 1 Bull. 134. But they cannot bring any Real Action, unless it be for an House for necessary Habitation, being for the Benefit of Trade. 7 Rep. And an Alien Enemy cannot maintain any Action whatsoever, nor get any Thing lawfully within this Realm. Terms de Ley 36. An Alien Enemy coming into this Kingdom, and taken in War, shall suffer Death by the Martial Law; and not be indicted at Common Law, for the Indictment must conclude contra Ligeantiam suam, &c. And such was never in the Protection of the King. Molloy de jur. Marit. 417. Aliens living under the Protection of the King, may have the Benefit of a General Pardon. Hob. 271. No Alien shall be returned on any Jury, nor be sworn for Trial of Issues between Subject and Subject, &c. but where an Alien is Party in a Cause depending, the Inquest of Jurors are to be half Denizens, and half Aliens: But in Cases of High Treason, this is not allowed. 2 Inst. 17. An Alien shall not have any Vote in the Choice of Knights of the Shire, or Burgesses to Parliament. Hob. 270. And Persons that are Aliens, or born out of the Realm, are incapable to be Members of Parliament, enjoy Offices, &c. Stat. 12 W. 3. cap. 2. Aliens are to take an Oath to be true to the King, and obedient to his Laws: They shall not take Apprentices, but such as are born in the King's Allegiance. Strangers not being Denizens and Householders are restrained from keeping any Shop, &c. to exercise their Handicrafts: And the Goods and Wares of Aliens are to be examined and marked, by Wardens of Handicrafts, dicrafts, &c. 14 H. 8. 21 H. 8. cap. 16. 32 H. 8. c. 16. No Alien shall be a Factor abroad, in the English Plantations, under Penalties. Stat. 12 Car. 2. cap. 18. See Artificers.

Alienation, (from Alienare to alien) A Transferring the Property of a Thing to another: It chiefly relates to Lands and Tenements; As to alien Land in Fee, is to sell the Fee-simple thereof, &c. And to alien in Mortmain, is to make over Lands or Tenements to a Religious House or Body Politick; for which the King's Licence is to be obtained. Stat. 15 R. 2. c. 5. Fines for Alienations are taken away by Statute; except Fines due by particular Customs of Manors. 12 Car. 2. Danv. Abr. 327. All Persons who have a Right to Lands, may generally alien them to others: But some Alienations are forbidden; as an Alienation by a particular Tenant, such as Tenant for Life, &c. which incurs a Forfeiture of the Estate. 1 Inst. 118. For if Lessee for Life, by Livery alieneth in Fee, or makes a Lease for the Life of another, or Gift in Tail, it is a Forfeiture of his Estate: So if Tenant in Dower, Tenant for another's Life, Tenant for Years, &c. do alien for a greater Estate than they lawfully may make. 1 Inst. 233, 251. Conditions in Feoffments, &c. that the Feoffee shall not alien, are void. 1 Inst. 206. Hob. 261. And it is the same where a Man possess'd of a Lease for Years, or other Thing, gives and sells his whole Property therein, upon such Condition: But one may grant an Estate in Fee, on Condition that the Grantee shall not alien to a particular Person, &c. And where a Reversion is in the Donor of an Estate, he may restrain an Alienation by Condition. Lit. 361. Wood's Inst. 141. Estates in Tail, for Life, or Years, where the whole Interest is not parted with, may be made with Condition not to alien to others, for the Preservation of the Lands granted in the Hands of the first Grantee.

Alimony, (Alimonia) Signifies Nourishment or Maintenance: And in a legal Sense, it is taken for that Allowance which a married Woman sues for and is entitled to, upon any occasional Separation from her Husband. Terms de Ley 38. Where a Woman is divorced a Menſa & Thoro, she may sue her Husband in her own Name for Alimony or Maintenance out of the Husband's Estate, during the Separation, either in the Chancery or Spiritual Court; and it will be allowed, except it be in Cases of Elopement and Adultery. 1 Inst. 235. But the Spiritual Court is the proper Court to sue in for Alimony: And the not Allowing a Wife Maintenance, is not an Offence within the Statute 1 Eliz. but a Neglect of the Husband's Duty, and a Breach of his Vow. 12 Rep. 30. A Man may be sued in the Spiritual Court for Beating his Wife, and he may be ordered to pay her so much per Week Alimony: But a Prohibition hath been granted by B. R. in such Case; and the Wife may have Sureties of the Peace for unreasonable Beating her. Trin. 11 Jac. 1. Moor 874. Alimony was antiently expressed by Rationabile Estoverium, Reasonable Maintenance.—Rex. Vic. Bucks salutem. Præcipimus tibi quod de Matrimonio Emmæ de Pinckney uxoris Laurentii Penire, qui Excommunicatus est, eo quod prædictam Emmam affectione Maritali non tractat, eidem Emmæ Rationabile Estoverium suum invenias, donec idem Laurentius Vir suus eam tanquam uxorem suam tractaverit, ne iteratus clamor ad nos inde perveniat.—Rot. 7 Hen. 3.

Almonds, Ab Alanis, Scythiæ Gente, Hare-Hounds.

Alloy, (Fr. in Lat. Alloya) A Word used for the Tempering and Mixture of other Metals with Silver or Gold. Stat. 9 Hen. 5. This Alloy is to augment the Weight of the Silver or Gold, so as it may defray the Charge of Coinage, and to make it the more fusile. A Pound Weight of Standard Gold, by the present Standard in the Mint, is Twenty-two Carats fine, and two Carats Alloy: And a Pound Weight of right Standard Silver consists of eleven Ounces two Penny Weight of fine Silver, and eighteen Penny Weight of Alloy. Lownd's Essay upon Coins, pag. 19. One Penny Weight of Angel Gold, is worth four Shillings and Two-pence; of Crown Gold, three Shillings and Ten-pence: And one Ounce of pure Silver, is worth five Shillings and Four-pence; and with Alloy, five Shillings. Mod. Just. tit. Coin, pag. 120.

Allegiance, Allegiantia (formerly called Ligeance, from the Latin Alligare & Ligare, i. e. Ligamen Fidei) is the sworn Allegiance, or Faith and Obedience, which every Subject owes to his Prince. It is either perpetual, where one is a Subject born; or where one hath the Right of a Subject by Naturalization, &c. or it is Temporary, by Reason of Residence in the King's Dominions. To Subjects born, it is an Incident inseparable; and as soon as born they owe by Birth-right Obedience to their Sovereign: And it cannot be confined to any Kingdom, but follows the Subject wheresoever he goes. The Subjects are hence called Liege People, and are bound by this Allegiance to go with the King in his Wars, as well within as without the Kingdom. 1 Inst. 2, 329. 2 Inst. 741. All Persons above the Age of Twelve Years are to be required to take the Oath of Allegiance in Courts-Lect. And there are several Statutes requiring the Oath of Allegiance and Supremacy, &c. to be taken, under Penalties: Justices of Peace may summon Persons above the Age of Eighteen Years, to take these Oaths. 1 Eliz. 1 W. & M. &c. Absolving any Persons from their Allegiance, is High Treason, by 1 & 21 Eliz.

Allegiate, To defend or justify by due Course of Law.—Si quis se velit allegiare secundum Regis Weregildam hoc faciat. Leges Alfvred. cap. 4. Spelm.

Aller Good. The Word Aller is used to make what is added to signify superlatively; as Aller-good is the greatest Good.

Allestare, Signifies to levy or pay an accustomed Fine. Some of our antient Histories mention such Fines paid by Persons to their Lords for Redemption of their Daughters, or for a Licence to marry them. Brady's Pref. to Eng. Hist. 64.

Allocation, (Allocatio) In a legal Sense is an Allowance made upon an Account in the Exchequer; or more properly a Placing or Adding to a Thing.

Allocatone facienda, A Writ for allowing to an Accountant such Sums of Money as he hath lawfully expended in his Office; directed to the Lord Treasurer, and Barons of the Exchequer, upon Complaint made. Reg. Orig. 206.

Allocato Comitatu, Is a new Writ of Exigent allowed, before any other County-Court holden, on the former not being fully served, or complied with, &c. Fitz. Exig. 14.

Allodial; This is where an Inheritance is held without any Acknowledgment to any Lord or Superior; and therefore is of another Nature from that which is feudal. Allodian Lands are free Lands, which a Man enjoys without paying any Fine, Rent, or Service to any other. See Allodium.

Aluminos, (from the Fr. Allumer, to lighten) Is used for one who coloureth or painteth upon Paper or Parchment; and the Reason is, because he gives Light and Ornament by his Colours to the Letters or other Figures. The Word is used Stat. 1 R. 3. c. 9. But we now call such a one a Limner.

Almanack, Is Part of the Law of England, of which the Courts must take Notice, in the Returns of Writs, &c. but the Almanack to go by, is that annex'd to the Book of Common Prayer. Mod. Caf. 41, 81.

Almaria, for Armara: The Archives of a Church, a Library.—Omnia etiam Ecclesie Almaria conservat, Chartas & Privilegia quadam igne cremavit. Gervaf. Dorob. in R. 2.

Almner,

Almner, or Almoner, (Elemosynarius) An Officer of the King's House, whose Business it is to distribute the King's Alms every Day. He ought to admonish the King to bestow his Alms, especially upon Saints Days and Holydays; and he is likewise to visit the Sick, Widows that are poor, Prisoners and other necessitous People, and to relieve them under their Wants; for which Purpose, he hath the Forfeitures of Deodands, and the Goods of Felo's de se, allowed him by the King. Flata, lib. 2. cap. 22. The Lord Almoner has the Disposition of the King's Dish of Meat, after it comes from the Table, which he may give to whom he pleases; and he distributes Fourpence in Money, a Two-penny Loaf of Bread, and a Gallon of Beer; or instead thereof Three-pence daily at the Court-gate to Twenty-four poor Persons of the King's Parish, to each of them that Allowance. This Officer is usually some Bishop.

Almsfeob, or Aelmsfeob, Saxon for Alms-Money: It has been taken for what we call Peter Pence, first given by Ina King of the West-Saxons, and antiently paid in England on the first of August. It was likewise called Romefeob, Romefeot, and Heortþening. Selden's Hist. Tithes 217.

Almutium, A Garment which covered the Head and Shoulders of Priests. Quæsit Episcopus in quali habitu esset? Responsum est, quod in tunica de Burneto & Almutio sine cuculla. W. Thorn. 1330.

Alnage, (French Aulnage) Signifies a Measure, particularly the Measuring with an Ell. Stat. 17 Ed. 4. cap. 5.

Alnager, or Aulnager, (French Alner, Latin Ulner) Is properly a Measurer by the Ell; and the Word Aulne in French signifieth an Ell. An Aulnager with us is a publick sworn Officer of the King's, whose Place it is to examine into the Assise of all Cloths, made throughout the Land, and to fix Seals upon them; and another Branch of his Office is to collect a Subsidy or Aulnage Duty granted to the King. He hath his Power by Stat 25 Ed. 3. and several other antient Statutes; which appoint his Fees, and inflict a Punishment for putting his Seal to deceitful Cloth, &c. viz. a Forfeiture of his Office, and the Value. 27 Ed. 3. 3 R. 2. But there are now three Officers belonging to the Regulation of Clothing, who bear the distinct Names of Searcher, Measurer, and Aulnager; all which were formerly comprised in one Person. 4 Inst. 31. And because the Subjects of this Kingdom should not be abused, an Office of Searching is established by Act of Parliament.

Alnetum, A Place where Alders grow; or a Grove of Alder-trees. Alnetum est ubi Alni arbores crescant. —Domesday-Book.

Alodium, In Domesday signifies a free Manor: And Alodarii Lords of Manors, or Lords Paramount. Quando moritur Alodarius, Rex inde habet Relevationem terræ, &c. Domesday, Tit. Kent. 1 Inst. 1, 5.

Aloberium, A Purse. This Word is mentioned in Flata, lib. 2. c. 82. par. 2.

Altarage, (Altaragium) The Offerings made upon the Altar, and also the Profit that arises to the Priest by Reason of the Altar, obventio Altaris. Mich. 21 Elix. It was declared that by Altarage is meant Tithes of Wool, Lambs, Colts, Calves, Pigs, Chickens, Butter, Cheese, Fruits, Herbs, and other small Tithes with the Offerings due: The Case of the Vicar of West-Haddon in Northamptonshire. But the Word Altarage at first is thought to signify no more than the casual Profits arising to the Priest, from the Peoples voluntary Oblations at the Altar; out of which a Portion was assigned by the Parson to the Vicar: Since that, our Parsons have generally contented themselves with the greater Profits of Glebe, and Tenths of Corn and Hay; and have left the small Tithes to the officiating Priests: And hence it is that Vicarages are endowed with them. Terms de Ley 39. 2 Cro. 516. —Vicarius de Tickill ad sustentationem sui habeat totam Altaragium, ita quod Nomine Altaragii contineantur omnes obventiones, Decime & proventus ipsius Ecclesie de Tickill, Exceptis Decimis Bladi Leguminis & feni, & terris ad dictam Ecclesiam pertinentibus, &c. Ordinatio Walter. Archiep. Ebor. An. Dom. 1249. Vicaria in Ecclesia Sancti Martini de Stampford consistit in toto Altaragio dictæ Ecclesie. Monasticon, a Tom. 881. 3 Tom. 139.

Alteration, (Alteratio) Is a Changing of a Thing: And when Witnesses are examined upon Exhibits, &c. they ought to remain in the Office, and not be taken back into private Hands, by whom they may be altered. Hob. 254.

Alto & Basso. By this is meant the absolute Submission of all Differences. Pateat Universis per præfatos quod Willielmus T. de Y. & Thomas G. de A. posuerunt se in Alto & Basso in Arbitrio quatuor hominum, viz. — de quadam Querela pendente, &c. Et prædicti quatuor homines Judicaverunt, &c. Dat. Anno 2 Hen. 5.

Amabyr, vel Ambabyr, (Br.) A Custom in the Honour of Clun, belonging to the Earls of Arundel: Pretium Virginitatis Domino Servendum. LL. Eccl. Gul. Howeli Dna, Regis Walliæ. Puella dicitur esse Desertum Regis, & ob hoc Regis est de ea Amabyr habere. This Custom Henry Earl of Arundel released to his Tenants, Anno 3 & 4 P. & M.

Ambassus, A Servant or Client. Cowel.

Ambassador, (Legatus) Is a Servant of the State, representing the King in a Foreign Country, to take Care of the Publick Affairs. And Ambassadors are either Ordinary, or Extraordinary; the Ordinary Ambassadors are those who reside in the Place whither sent; and the Time of their Return being indefinite, so is their Business uncertain, arising from emergent Occasions; and commonly the Protection and Affairs of the Merchants is their greatest Care: The Extraordinary Ambassadors are made pro tempore, and employed upon some particular great Affairs, as Condolements, Congratulations, or for Overtures of Marriage, &c. Their Equipage is generally very magnificent; and they may return without requesting of Leave, unless there be a restraining Clause in their Commission. Molloy 144. An Agent represents the Affairs only of his Master; but an Ambassador ought to represent the Greatness of his Master, and his Affairs. Ibid. By the Laws of Nations, none under the Quality of a Sovereign Prince can send any Ambassador: A King that is deprived of his Kingdom and Royalty, hath lost his Right of Legation. No Subject, though ever so great, can send or receive an Ambassador; and if a Viceroy does it, he will be guilty of High Treason: The Electors and Princes of Germany, have the Privilege of sending and Reception of Ambassadors; but it is limited only to Matters touching their own Territories, and not the State of the Empire. It is said there can be no Ambassador, without Letters of Credence from his Sovereign, to another that hath sovereign Authority: And if a Person be sent from a King or absolute Potentate, though in his Letters of Credence he is termed an Agent, yet he is an Ambassador, he being for the Publick. 4 Inst. 153. Ambassadors may by a Precaution be warned not to come to the Place where sent; and if they then do it, they shall be taken for Enemies: But being once admitted, even with Enemies in Arms, they shall have the Protection of the Laws of Nations, and be preserved as Princes. Moll. 146. If a banished Man be sent as an Ambassador to the Place from whence he is banished, he may not be detained or molested there. 4 Inst. 153. The Killing of an Ambassador, has been adjudged High Treason. 3 Inst. Some Ambassadors are allowed by Concession, to have Jurisdiction over their own Families; and their Houses permitted to be Sanctuaries: But where Persons who have greatly offended offended fly to their Houses, after Demand and Refusal to deliver them up, they may be taken from thence. Ambassadors cannot be defended when they commit any Thing against the State, or the Person of the King, with whom they reside. 4 Inst. 152. An Ambassador guilty of Treason against the King's Life, may be condemned and executed: But for other Treasons, he shall be sent home, with Demand to punish him, or to send him back to be punished. 4 Inst. 152. 1 Roll. Rep. 185. If a Foreign Ambassador commits any Crime here, which is contra jus Gentium, as Treason, Felony, &c. or any other Crime against the Law of Nations, he loseth the Privilege of an Ambassador, and is subject to Punishment as a private Alien; and he need not be remanded to his Sovereign, but of Curtesy. Danv. Abr. 327. But if a Thing be only Malum Probitum by any Act of Parliament, Private Law, or Custom of the Realm, and it is not contra jus Gentium, an Ambassador shall not be bound by them. 4 Inst. 153. And it is said Ambassadors may be excused of Practices against the State where they reside, (except it be in Point of Conspiracy, which is against the Law of Nations) because it doth not appear whether they have it in Mandatis; and then they are excused by Necessity of Obedience. Bac. Max. 26. By the Civil Law, the Person of an Ambassador may not be arrested; and the moveable Goods of Ambassadors which are accounted an Accession to their Persons, cannot be seized on, as a Pledge, nor for Payment of Debt, tho' by Leave of the King or State where they are Resident; but on Refusal of Payment, Letters of Request are to go to his Master, &c. Molloy 157. Danv. 328. By our Statute Law, an Ambassador, or Publick Minister, or his Domestic Servants, registred in the Secretary's Office, &c. are not to be arrested; if they are, the Process shall be void, and the Persons suing out and executing it, shall suffer such Penalties and Corporal Punishment as the Lord Chancellor or either of the Chief Justices shall think fit. Stat. 7 Ann. cap. 12. Also the Goods of an Ambassador, or of his Servants, shall not be distrained. Stat. ibid.

Ambidexter. (Lat.) One that can use his left Hand as well as his right; or that plays on both Sides. But in a legal Sense, it is taken for a Juror or Embracoor, who takes Money of both Parties for giving his Verdict; and such a one shall be imprisoned, never more be of a Jury, and further punished at the King's Pleasure. 5 Ed. 3. c. 10. Crompt. Just. 156. See Decies tantum.

Ambiza, (Sax. Amber, Lat. Amphora) A Vessel among the Saxons: It contained a Measure of Salt, Butter, Meal, Beer, &c. Leg. Ine West. Sax.

Ambry, The Place where the Arms, Plate, Vessels, and every Thing which belong'd to Housekeeping were kept; and probably the Ambry at Westminster is so called, because formerly set apart for that Use: Or rather the Aumonery, from the Latin Eleemosynaria, an House adjoining to an Abbey, in which the Charities were laid up for the Poor.

Amenable, (Fr. Amener) To bring or lead unto: Or Amainable (from the Fr. Main a Hand) signifies tractable, that may be led or governed: And in our Books it is commonly applied to a Woman, that is governable by her Husband. Cow. Interp.

Amendment, (Emendatio) The Correction of an Error committed in any Process, which may be amended after Judgment; and if there be any Error in giving the Judgment, the Party is driven to his Writ of Error: Though where the Fault appears to be in the Clerk who writ the Record, it may be amended. Terms de Ley 39. A Plaintiff may amend his Bill on the File at any Time before the Plea pleaded; but not afterwards without Motion and Leave of the Court. 1 Lill. Abr. 58. Original Writs are not amendable at Common Law; for if the Writ be not good, the Party may have another: Judicial Writs may and have been often amended. 8 Rep. 157. And by the Statutes 8 H. 6. and 18 Eliz. the Misprision of the Clerk, &c. is amendable in Original Writs; but it must not be in another Term, when the Roll is a Record. 8 Rep. 88. The Faults and Mistakes of Clerks are in many Cases amendable: The Misprision of a Clerk in Matter of Fact is amendable; tho' not in Matter of Law. Palm. 258. If there be a Mistake in the legal Form of the Writ, it is not amendable: There is a Diversity between the Negligence and Ignorance of the Clerk that makes out Writs; for his Negligence (as if he have the Copy of a Bond, and do not pursue it) this shall be amended; but his Ignorance in the legal Course of Original Writs is not amendable. 8 Rep. 159. A Party's Name was mistaken in an original Writ; and it appearing to the Court that the Curstors Instructions were right, the Writ was amended in Court; and they amended all the Proceedings after. 2 Vent. 152. Cro. Car. 74. If a Thing which the Plaintiff ought to have entered himself, being a Matter of Substance, be totally omitted, this shall not be amended; but otherwise it is if omitted only in Part and misentered. Danv. Abr. 346. By the Common Law a Writ of Error returned and filed, could not be amended; because it would alter the Record: But now by Stat. 5 Geo. 1. cap. 13. Writs of Error wherein there shall be any Variance from the original Record or other Defect, may be amended by the Court where returnable. When the Award of a Writ of Inquiry on the Roll is good, the Writ shall be amended by the Roll. Carth. 70. The Court cannot amend to make a new Writ; or to alter a good Writ, and adapt it to another Purpose, &c. only when the Writ is bad and vicious in the Face of it. Mod. Caf. 263, 310. A Declaration grounded on an original Writ, may not be amended, if the Writ be erroneous: Tho' if it be on a Bill of Middlesex or a Latitat, it is amendable. 1 Lill. Abr. 67. Declarations upon any penal Statutes, Qui tam, &c. may not be amended after Issue joined. 2 Mod. 144. And Indictments of Treason, and Felony, Writs of Appeal, &c. are excepted out of the Statutes of Amendments; tho' some Things in them are amendable at Common Law. Mod. Caf. 269. A Plaintiff may amend his Declaration in Matter of Form after a general Issue pleaded, before Entry thereof, without Payment of Costs: If he amend in Substance, he is to pay Costs, or give Imparance; and if he amend after a special Plea, though he would give Imparance, he must pay Costs. 1 Lill. 58. A Declaration in Ejectment, laid the Demise before the Time; this was not amendable; for it would alter the Issue, and make a new Title in the Plaintiff. 1 Salk. 48. The Plaintiff declared on the Statute of Winton for a Robbery done to himself, when it should have been of his Servants; he had Leave to amend. 3 Lew. 347. If a Defendant pleads a Plea to the Right, or in Abatement, the Plaintiff may amend his Declaration; but not where he demurs, for this Fault may be the Cause of the Demurrer. 1 Salk. 50. A Plea when only on Paper, upon Notice and Payment of Costs may be amended; but if the Plea be entered on Parchment, it is not amendable, being a Plea of Record: After Demurrer, and after Issue joined, a Plea may not be amended. A Demurrer may be amended, after the Parties have joined in Demurrer, if it be only in Paper. Style 48. Where a Plea shall be amended, when in Paper, or on Records, &c. See the Statute 4 Geo. 2. c. 26. An Issue entered upon Record, with Leave of the Court may be amended; but not in a material Thing, or in that which will deface the Record. 1 Lill. Abr. 61. A Record may be amended by the Court in a small Matter, after Issue joined, so as the Plea be not altered. Danv. Abr. 338. If on a Writ of Error a Record is amended in another Court in Affirmance of the Judgment, it must be amended in the Court where Judgment ment was given. Hardr. 505. Where the Record of Nisi prius does not agree with the original Record, it may be amended after Verdict, provided it do not change the Issue: But a Record shall not be amended to attain the Jury, or prejudice the Authority of the Judge. Mich. 8 W. A General or Special Verdict may be amended by the Notes of the Clerk of Assise in Civil Causes; but not in Criminal Actions. 1 Salk.

47. The Issue Roll shall be amended by the Imparlance Roll, which is precedent: But a Roll may not be amended after Verdict, when there is nothing to amend it by; tho' Surplusage may be rejected, and so make it good. Cro. Car. 92. 1 Sid. 135. A Mistake of the Clerk in entering a Judgment; as where it was that the Defendant recovered, instead of the Plaintiff, &c. was ordered to be amended. Cro. Jac. 631. Hutt.

41. A Judgment may be amended by the Paper-book signed by the Master. 1 Salk. 50. At Common Law, the Judges may amend their Judgments of the same Term; and by Statute of another Term. 8 Rep. 156.

14 E. 3. If Judgments are not well entered, on Payment of Costs they will be ordered to be so: When Judgments are entered, 'tis said the Defects therein being the Act of the Court, and not the Misprision of the Clerk, are not amendable. Goffb. 104. Mistakes in Returns of Writs, Fines and Recoveries, made by mutual Assent of Parties may be amended.

5 Rep. 45. Judgment shall not be stayed after Verdict, for that an Original wants Form, or varies from the Record in Point of Form, which are amendable.

4 Rep. 45. After Verdict given in any Court of Record, there shall be no Stay of Judgment for Want of Form in any Writ, or insufficient Returns of Sheriffs, Variance in Form between the Original Writ and Declaration, &c. Stat. 32 H. 8. 18 Eliz. Vide 5 Geo. 1. Where Judgment shall not be reversed for Defects in Form or Substance. It is said, there are only two Statutes of Amendments; the 14 Ed. 3. c. 6. and 8 H. 6. c. 12. The rest being Statutes of Jeofails; and the Statute of H. 6. is but to enlarge that of Ed. 3. which extends only to Process out of the Roll or Record, and not to Proceedings in the Roll itself: But neither of these Statutes extend to the Crown. Mod. Caf. 268, 285. Imperfections and Defects are aided after Verdict, by the Statutes of Jeofails: And by 4 & 5 Ann.

all the Statutes of Jeofails shall be extended to Judgments upon Confession, Nihil dicit, &c. Also upon Demurrer, the Judges shall give Judgment without regarding Imperfections in any Writ, &c. except the same be set down as Cause of Demurrer. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann., cap. 16. Amendments are usually made in Affirmance of Judgments; and seldom or never to destroy them: And where Amendments were at Common Law, the Party was to pay a Fine for Leave to amend. 3 Salk. 29.

Amerciament, Amerciamentum, (from the Fr. Merci) signifies the pecuniary Punishment of an Offender against the King, or other Lord in his Court, that is found to be in Misericordia, i. e. to have offended, and to stand at the Mercy of the King or Lord. The Author of Terms de Ley saith, that Amerciament is properly a Penalty assessed by the Peers or Equals of the Party amerced, for the Offence done; for which he putteth himself at the Mercy of the Lord. Terms de Ley 40. And by the Staute of Magna Charta, a Freeman is not to be amerced for a small Fault, but proportionable to the Offence, and that by his Peers. 9 H. 3. c. 4. Amerciaments are a more merciful Penalty than a Fine; for which if they are too grievous, a Release may be sued by an antient Writ called Moderata Misericordia. The Difference between Amerciaments and Fines, is this; Fines are said to be Punishments certain, and grow expressly from some Statute; but Amerciaments are such as are arbitrarily imposed. Kitch. 78. Also Fines are imposed and assessed by the Court: Amerciaments by the Country: And no

Court can impose a Fine, but a Court of Record; other Courts can only amerce. 8 Rep. 39, 41. A Court-Leet can amerce for publick Nufances only. 1 Saund. 135. For a Fine and all Amerciaments in a Court-Leet, a Distress is incident of common Right: But for Amerciament in a Court Baron, Distress may not be taken but by Prescription. 11 Rep. 45. When an Amerciament is agreed on, the Lord may have an Action of Debt, or distrain for it, and impound the Distress, or sell it at his Pleasure: But he cannot imprison for it. 8 Rep. 41, 45. In Courts Baron, the Amerciaments ought to be assessed; but 'tis otherwise of Fines imposed by a Court of Record. 2 Inst. 27. In the Court-Baron, Tenants not doing Suit of Court, Persons making any Incroachments, not performing what is ordered, or for other Misdemeanors there punishable, are to be amerced: These Amercements are made upon Presentment of the Jury; and if they are grounded upon a void Presentment, the Amercements are also void. 1 Lill. Abr. 72. There is also Amercement in Pleas in the Courts of Record, when a Defendant delays to tender the Thing demanded by the King's Writ, on the first Day. 1 Inst. 116. And in all Personal Actions without Force, as in Debt, Detinue, &c. if the Plaintiff be nonsuited, barred, or his Writ abate for Matter or Form, he shall be amerced: But if on judicial Process, founded on a Judgment and Record, the Plaintiff be nonsuit, barred, &c. he shall not be amerced. 1 Nelf. Abr. 206. And an Infant if nonsuited, is not to be amerced: 'Tis otherwise when at Age. Jenk. Cent. 258. Sheriffs are to be amerced for the Faults of their Officers; and Clerks of the Peace are amerccable in B. R. for gross Faults in Indictments removed thither. Hill. 21 Car. The Amercement of the Sheriff, or other Officer of the King, is called Amercement Royal. Terms de Ley. A Town shall be amerced for the Escape of a Murderer, in the Day-Time: And if the Town be walled, 'tis said, it shall be subject to Amercement, whether by Day or Night. 3 Inst. 53. Amerciaments are likewise in several other Cases.

Amicus Curie, If a Judge is doubtful or mistaken in Matter of Law, a Stander by may inform the Court, as Amicus Curie. 2 Co. Inst. 178. In some Cases, a Thing is to be made appear by Suggestion on the Roll by Motion; sometimes by Pleading, and sometimes as Amicus Curie. 2 Kebl. 548. Any one as Amicus Curie may move to quash a vicious Indictment; for if there were a Trial and Verdict, Judgment must be arrested. Comberb. 13. A Counsel urg'd, that he might as Amicus Curie, inform the Court of an Error in Proceedings, to prevent giving false Judgment; but it was denied, unless the Party was present. 2 Sbotw. Rep. 297.

Amittre Legem Terræ, To lose and be deprived of the Liberty of Swearing in any Court: As to become infamous, renders a Person incapable of being an Evidence. Vide Glanvil, lib. 2. And see the Statute 5 Eliz. cap. 9. against Perjury.

Antients, Gentlemen of the Inns of Court. In Gray's Inn, the Society consists of Benchers, Antients, Barristers, and Students under the Bar; and here the Antients are of the oldest Barristers. In the Middle-Temple, such as have gone through or are past their Readings are termed Antients: The Inns of Chancery consist of Antients and Students or Clerks; and from the Antients one is yearly chosen the Principal or Treasurer.

Ancient Demesne, or Demain (Vetus Patrimonium Domini) Is a Tenure whereby all the Manors belonging to the Crown in the Days of St. Edward, and William, called the Conqueror, were held. The Number and Names of all Manors, after a Survey made of them, were written in the Book of Domesday; and those which by that Book appear to have at that Time belong'd to the Crown, and are contained under the Title Terra Regis, are called Ancient Demesne. Kitch. 98. Fitzherbert tells us, That Tenants in Ancient Demesne had their Tenures from ploughing the King's Lands, and other Works towards the Maintenance of the King's Freehold, on which Account they had Liberties granted them. F. N. B. 14, 228. And there were two Sorts of these Tenures and Tenants; one that held their Lands freely by Charter; the other by Copy of Court-Roll, according to the Custom of the Manor. Brit. c. 66. The Tenants holding by Charter cannot be impleaded out of their Manor; for if they are, they may abate the Writ by pleading their Tenure: They are free from Toll, for all Things bought and sold concerning their Substance and Husbandry. And they may not be impanelled upon any Inquest. F. N. B. 14. If Tenants in Ancient Demesne are returned on Juries, they may have a Writ de non ponendis in Assis, &c. and Attachment against the Sheriff. 1 Rep. 105. And if they are disturbed by taking Duties of Toll, &c. they may have Writs of Monstraverunt, to be discharged. These Tenants are free as to their Persons; and their Privileges are supposed to commence by Act of Parliament; for they cannot be created by Grant at this Day. 1 Salk. 57. Lands in Ancient Demesne are extendible upon a Statute Merchant, Staple, or Elegit. 4 Inst. 270. No Lands ought to be accounted Ancient Demesne but such as are held in Socage; and whether it be Ancient Demesne or not, shall be tried by the Book of Domesday. A Lessee for Years, cannot plead Ancient Demesne: Nor can a Lord in Action against him plead Ancient Demesne, for the Land is Frank-fee in his Hands. Danv. Abr. 660. In real Actions, Ejectment, Replevin, &c. Ancient Demesne is a good Plea; but not in Actions merely Personal. Danv. 658. If in Ancient Demesne a Writ of Right Close be brought, and prosecuted in Nature of a Formedon; a Fine levied there by the Custom, is a Bar: And if this Judgment be reversed in C. B. that Court shall only judge, that the Plaintiff be restored to his Action in the Court of Ancient Demesne; unless there is some other Cause, which takes away its Jurisdiction. Jenk. Cent. 87. Dyer 373. A Fine in the King's Courts, will change Ancient Demesne to Frank-fee at Common Law: So if the Lord enfeoffs another of the Tenancy; or if the Land comes to the King, &c. 4 Inst. 270. See Fine.

Antienty, (Fr. Anciennete, Lat. Antiquitas) Eldership or Seniority. This Word is used in the Statute of Ireland. 14 Hen. 3.

Anfeldtyhde, or Anfealhtile, a simple Accusation; for the Saxons had two Sorts of Accusations, viz. Simplex and Triplex: That was called Single, when the Oath of the Criminal and two more was sufficient to discharge him; but his own Oath, and the Oaths of five more were required to free him a triplici Accusatione. Sommer. In the Laws of Adelstan we read—Et si Anfeldtyhde fit, immergatur manus post Lapidem, vel examen usque ad Wriste. Leg. Adelstani, cap. 19. apud Brompton.

Angaria, (from the Fr. Angarie, i. e. Personal Service) Is a troublesome vexatious Duty or Service which Tenants were obliged to pay their Lords; and they performed it in their own Persons.—Terram liberam ab omnibus Angariis & Exactionibus, &c. MS. Eliam Ashmole Arm.—Præstationes Angariarum & Perangariarum, Plaustrorum & Navium.—Imprefsing of Ships. Blount.

Angelica Vestis, A monkish Garment which Laymen put on a little before their Deaths, that they might have the Benefit of the Prayers of the Monks. It was from them called Angelicus, because they were called Angeli, who by their Prayers animæ salutis succurrabant. And the Word Succurrendum in our old Books is understood of one who had put on the Habit, and was near Death: Siquis ad succurrendum metu mortis se loco prænominate dederit, illic recipietur. Monasticon, 1 Tom. p. 632.

Angel, Signifies, in the Computation of Money, ten Shillings of English Coin.

or Fine; and Trigild the Treble, according to the rated Ability of the Person. Law of Ina, c. 20. Spelm.

Anblote, A single Tribute or Tax. The Words Anblote and Anscot are mentioned in the Laws of William the Conqueror: And their Sense is, that every one should pay according to the Custom of the Country, his Part and Share as Scot and Lot, &c. Leg. W. 1. c. 64.

Aniens, (Fr.) void, being of no Force. F. N. B. 214.

Annales, Yearlings, or young Cattle of the first Year.—Vituli primo Anno postquam nati sunt, Vituli Vocantur; secundo compoto Annales vocantur; tertio Boviculi; quarto Bovetti.—Regulæ compoti Domus de Farendon MS.

Annats, (Annates) This Word has the same Meaning with First-fruits, Anno 25 H. 8. c. 20. The Reason of the Name is, because the Rate of the First-fruits paid for spiritual Livings, is after the Value of one Year's Profit. Annates more suo appellant primos fructus unius anni sacerdotii vacantis, aut dimidiam eorum partem. Pol. Virgil de Invent. rer. lib. 8. cap. 2.

Annealing of Title, (Anno 17 Ed. 4.) From the Sax. Onelan, accendere, signifies the Burning or Hardening of Title.

Anntented, (from the Fr. Anneantir) Abrogated, frustrated, or brought to nothing. Lit. 3. cap. Sect. 741.

Anniversary Days, (Dies Anniversarii) Solemn Days appointed to be celebrated yearly in Commemoration of the Deaths or Martyrdoms of Saints; or the Days whereon, at the Return of every Year, Men were wont to pray for the Souls of their deceased Friends, according to the Custom of the Roman Catholics, mentioned in the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. cap. 14. and 12 Car. 2. cap. 13. This was in Use among our ancient Saxons, as you may see in Lib. Ramesf. Sect. 134.—Anniversaria dies ideo repetitur defunctis, quoniam nescimus qualiter eorum causa babeatur in alia vita. Alcuinus's Divine Offices. The Anniversary or yearly Return of the Day of the Death of any Person, which the Religious register'd in their Obituar or Martyrology, and annually observ'd in Gratitude to their Founders and Benefactors, was by our Forefathers called a Year-day and a Mind-day, i. e. a Memorial Day: And tho' this proceeded from one of the trading Arts of the Priests, who got many a Legacy for thus continuing the Memorial of their Friends; yet abating the Superstition of it, we must confess this Practice of theirs has been a great Advantage to the History of Men and Times, by fixing the Obits of great and good Men.

Annū Nubiles, (Lat.) When a Woman is under 12 Years of Age, her Age to marry, she is said to be infra annos nubiles, and unmarried; so that it signifies the marriageable Age of a Woman. 2 Co. Inst. 434.

Anno Domini, The Computation of Time from the Incarnation of our Saviour; which is generally inserted in the Dates of all publick Writings, with an Addition of the Year of the King's Reign, &c. The Romans began their Æra of Time from the Building of Rome: The Grecians computed by Olympiads; and the Christians reckon from the Birth of Jesus Christ.

Annoisance, Annoyance, or Noisance, Is a Word used for any Hurt done to a publick Place, as a Highway, Bridge, River, &c. or to any private Place, by laying any Thing therein that may breed Infection, by Incroachments, or such like Means; and it is also taken for the Writ brought upon such a Transgression. This Word is mentioned Anno 22 H. 8. c. 5. Vide Nuisance.

Annua Pensione, An ancient Writ for providing the King's Chaplain unpreferred with a Pension. It was brought where the King having due to him an annual Pension from an Abbot or Prior, for any of his Chaplains whom he should nominate, (being unprovided of Livings) to demand the same of such Abbot or Prior. Reg. Orig. 165, 307.

Annuate, A Word signifying the yearly Rent or Income of a Prebendary.

Annualia, A yearly Stipend assigned to a Priest for celebrating an Anniversary, or for saying continued Masses one Year, for the Soul of a deceased Person.—Inhibemus quoque districius ne aliquis Rector Ecclesie faciat hujusmodi pactum cum suo sacerdote, videlicet quod ipse Sacerdos præter cætera stipendia poterit recipere Annualia & Triennialia. Const. Rob. Grosstest Episcopi Lincoln. in Append. ad Fascic. pag. 411.

Annuity, (Annuus Redditus) Is a yearly Rent, payable for Term of Years, Life, or in Fee; and it is used for a Writ that lies against a Person for Recovery of such Rent. Reg. Orig. 158. Annuity hath also been defined to be a yearly Payment of a certain Sum of Money, granted to another for Life, &c. to be received of the Grantor or his Heirs, so that no Freehold be charged therewith; whereof a Man shall never have Assise or other Action, but a Writ of Annuity. Terms de Ley 44. The Treatise called Doctor and Student, Dial. 1. cap. 3. shews several Differences between a Rent and an Annuity, viz. that every Rent is issuing out of Land; but an Annuity chargeth the Person only, as the Grantor and his Heirs, who have Assets by Discent: For the Recovery of an Annuity, no Action lies, but only the Writ of an Annuity; but of a Rent the same Remedy lies as for Lands; and an Annuity is never taken for Assets, because it is no Freehold in Law; nor shall it be put in Execution upon a Statute Merchant, Staple, or Elegit, as a Rent issuing out of Land may. Dyer 345. 2 Rep. 144. If no Lands are bound for the Payment of an Annuity, a Distress may not be taken for it. Dyer 65. But if an Annuity issue out of Land, (which of late it often doth) the Grantee may bring a Writ of Annuity, and make it Personal, or an Assise, or Distrain, &c. so as to make it real. 1 Inst. 144. And if the Grantee take a Distress; yet he may afterwards have Writ of Annuity, and discharge the Land, if he do not avow the Taking, which is in Nature of an Action. 1 Inst. 145. But if the Grantee of a Rent bring an Assise for it, he shall never after have Writ of Annuity; he having elected this to be a Rent; so if the Grantee of an Annuity avow the Taking of a Distress, in a Court of Record. Danv. Abr. 486. And if the Grantee purchase Part of the Land out of which an Annuity is issuing, he shall never after have a Writ of Annuity. Co. Litt. 148. Where a Rent-charge issuing out of Lands, granted by Tenant for Life, &c. determines by the Act of God; as an Interest was vested in the Grantee, it is in his Election to make it a Rent-charge, and so charge the Lands therewith, or a Personal Thing to charge the Person of the Grantor in Annuity. 2 Rep. 36. A. seized of Lands in Fee, he and B. grant an Annuity or Rent-charge to another; this prima facie is the Grant of A. and Confirmation of B. But the Grantee may have a Writ of Annuity against both. If two Men grant an Annuity of 20 l. per Ann. altho' the Persons be several, if the Deed of Grant be not for them severally, yet the Grantee shall have but one Annuity against them. 1 Inst. 144. When a Man recovers in a Writ of Annuity, he shall not have a new Writ of Annuity for the Arrears due after the Recovery, but a Scire facias upon the Judgment, the Judgment being always executory. 2 Rep. 37. No Writ of Annuity lieth for Arrears only when an Annuity is determined, but for the Annuity and Arrears. 1 Inst. 285. Though if a Rent-charge be granted out of a Lease for Years, it hath been adjudged that the Grantee may bring Annuity when the Lease is ended. Moor, cap. 450. Where an Annuity is granted to one for Life, during the

the Term he shall have a Writ of Annuity: And when that is determined, his Executors may have Action of Debt; for the Realty is then resolved into the Personality. 4 Rep. 49. New Nat. Br. 278. Upon a Rent created by Way of Reservation, no Writ of Annuity lies. Danv. 483. If a Man grants a Rent out of his Manor, or Lands, or to be received of his Tenants, and he hath no Manor, Lands, or Tenants, yet it may be a good Annuity, though void as to a Rent. Danv. Abr. 485. A Person grants to me 10 l. every Year, that I shall be Resident in such a Parish; an Annuity lies for this, it being annual at my Will; and it is the same if a Rent be granted payable at the End of a certain Number of Years, though it be not annual. Ibid. 452. A Grant is made by a Person of an Annuity to another and his Heirs, without the Grantor's saying for him and his Heirs, this is determinable by the Death of the Grantor. Danv. Abr. 482. Writ of Annuity may not be had against the Grantor's Heir, unless the Grant be for him and his Heirs; and there must be Assets to bind the Heir, by Grant of an Annuity by his Ancestor, when he is named. 1 Inst. 144. 1 Roll. Abr. 226. An Annuity granted by a Bishop with Confirmation of Dean and Chapter, shall bind the Successor of the Bishop. New Nat. Br. 340. If the King grant an Annuity, it must be expressed by whose Hands the Grantee shall receive it, as the King's Bailiff, &c. or the Grant will be void; for the King may not be sued, and no Person is bound to pay it if not expressed in the Patent. 9 H. 6. New Nat. Br. 341. If where an Annuity is granted pro Decimis, the Grantor is disturbed of his Tithes, the Annuity ceaseth; and so it is where any Annuity is granted to a Person pro Consilio, and the Grantee refuseth to give Counsel: For where the Cause and Consideration of the Grant amounts to a Condition, and the one ceases, the other shall determine. 1 Inst. 204.

Antejuramentum, and Præjuramentum, By our Ancestors called Juramentum Calumniæ; in which both the Accuser and the Accused were to make this Oath before any Trial or Purgation, viz. The Accuser was to swear that he would prosecute the Criminal; and the Accused was to make Oath on the very Day that he was to undergo the Ordeal, that he was innocent of the Crime of which he was charged. Leg. Athelstan. apud Lambard 23. If the Accuser failed to take this Oath, the Criminal was discharged; and if the Accused did not take his, he was intended to be guilty, and not admitted to purge himself. Leg. Hen. 1. c. 66.

Appeal, Appellum, (from the Fr. Appel or Appellor to accuse) Is a Word used in our Law for the Removal of a Cause from an inferior Court or Judge to a Superior: But more commonly for the Accusation of a Murderer, by a Party who had Interest in the Person kill'd; or of a Felon by one of his Accomplices. 1 Inst. 287. It signifies as much as Accusatio with the Civilians; for as in the Civil Law, Cognizance zance of Criminal Causes is taken either upon Inquisition, Denunciation or Accufation; fo in the Common Law, it is upon Indictment, or Appeal, Indictments comprehending both Inquisition and Denunciation. And Accufation or Appeal is a lawful Declaration of another Man's Crime (being Felony at leaft) before a competent Judge, by one that fetts his Name to the Declaration, and undertakes to prove it, upon the Penalty that may enfue of the contrary. Bracl. lib. 3. Brit. c. 22, 25. Staundf. lib. 2. cap. 6. An Appeal is profecuted two Ways; either by Writ, or Bill: Appeal by Writ is when a Writ is purchafed out of Chancery by one for another, to the Intent he appeal a third Perfon of fome Felony committed by him, finding Pledges that he fhall do it: Appeal by Bill, is where a Man of himfelf gives up his Accufation in Writing, offering to undergo the Burden of appealing the Perfon therein named. Braclon. By Stat. 3 Hen. 7. the Wife or Heir of a Perfon killed, are to bring their Appeal of Murder; which differs from Indictment, being the Suit of the Subject, and the Party's private Action; who profecutes alfo for the Crown in Refpect of the Felony. Litt. 116. And this is the Reason that in Appeal of Death, &c. the King cannot pardon the Defendant. 3 Infl. 237. This Appeal may be brought by Bill before the Juftices in the King's Bench; before Juftices of Gaol-Delivery, and Commiffioners of Oyer and Terminer, &c. or before the Sheriff and Coroner in the County Court: But the Sheriff and Coroner have only Power to take and enter the Appeal and Count; for it muft be removed by Certiorari into B. R. Appeals may be likewise brought before the Conftable and Marfhall, of Felony done out of the Realm. Wood's Infl. 628. At Common Law, Appeals lay for High Treafon, and were ufually in Parliament. 3 Infl. 132. But this was oufted by Stat. 1 Hen. 4. cap. 14. By the Common Law, a Man could not maintain an Appeal of Death, unlefs he had made fresh Suit. 2 Infl. 319. A Female might have an Appeal at Common Law, as Heir to any Ancestor, as well as the Male; but by Magna Charta, nullus capiatur vel Imprifonetur propter Appellum facinorae de Morte alterius quam viri fui, &c. 3 Salk. 37. The Heir Male is to bring the Appeal for the Death of his Ancestor; and the Wife for the Death of her Husband, &c. 2 Infl. 318. But the Husband fhall not have an Appeal for the Death of his Wife; but the Heir only. Darv. Abr. 488. An Heir fhall not have Appeal for the Death of a Man married, except the Wife kill the Husband; in which Cafe the Heir may profecute the Appeal. 1 Leon. 326. 1 Infl. 33. The Wife is to be a Wife de facto to be intituled to Appeal; and if the marries again, before the Appeal is brought, or whilft the fame is depending, her Appeal will be gone. 2 Infl. 68, 317. If a Wife dies within the Year, the Heir fhall have no Appeal. Kelw. 120. And if after the Death of the Ancestor, the Heir Male dies, 'tis faid another Heir fhall not have Appeal. H. P. C. 182. For a Perfon that profecutes an Appeal muft be immediate Heir to the Ancestor killed, or his Suit fhall not be received. Staundf. 59. But where an Appeal lies againft an Heir, the next Heir fhall bring it. H. P. C. 182. An Infant may profecute an Appeal: And it is to be brought where the Felony is done, and the Party wounded fhall die. Staundf. 63. The Appellant is to commence his Appeal in Perfon; but he may proceed by Attorney, having a fpecial Warrant of Attorney filed. 1 Salk. 60. The Appeal muft be brought in a Year and Day after the Death of the Perfon murdered: And the Count muft fet forth the Fact, and the Length and Depth of the Wound, the Year, Day, Hour, Place where done, and with what Weapon, &c. And that the Party died in a Year and Day. 2 Infl. 665. Principal and Accessaries before and after are to be joined in Appeal. Darv. Abr. 493. And this is to be obferved, though the Accessary is guilty in another County. 3 H. 7. c. 1. In Appeal by Original, Principals and Accessaries are generally charged alike, without Difftinction, till the Plaintiff counts: But 'tis otherwise in Appeals by Bill. Darv. 494. There is to be but one Appeal againft the Principal and Accessary: If the Principal is acquitted, it fhall acquit the Accessary; and both fhall have Damages againft the Appellant on a falfe Appeal, or the Accessary may bring a Writ of Conspiracy. 33 Hen. 6. cap. 2. 2 Infl. 383. Though where a Perfon is acquitted on a juft Appeal, he may be arraigned upon Indictment at the King's Suit: And if a Murderer be acquitted upon Indictment, or found guilty and pardoned by the King, the Wife or Heir may bring Appeal. Wood 629. If the Defendant in Appeal is attaint, or acquit; or the Plaintiff Nonsuit after Appearance, which is peremptory, no other Appeal lies. H. P. C. 188. But if the Appeal is good and well taken, and afterwards fails, the Defendant fhall be arraigned at the Suit of the King: 'Tis otherwise if the Appeal was never good, or well taken; as if it abates for Mifnomer, &c. Staundf. 147, 148. If there be an Indictment and Appeal depending at the fame Time againft the fame Perfon, the Appeal fhall be tried firft, if the Appellant be ready. Kel. 107. Where the Appellant doth not profecute his Appeal; or in Cafe he releafe to the Defendant; the Appellee may be arraigned at the King's Suit. If the Defendant on an Indictment is convicted of Manflaughter, and allowed his Clergy, it will bar an Appeal: Though fome of our Books tell us the Heir may lodge an Appeal immediately before Clergy had: And others fay Clergy ought to be granted, and that it is unreafonable an Appeal fhould interpoze preftently to prevent Judgment. 3 Infl. 131. If a Perfon immediately after the Verdict of Manflaughter, put in an Appeal of Murder, and before the Appeal is arraigned, the Defendant demands his Benefit of Clergy; this is a good Bar to Appeal, and praying of Clergy, is having of Clergy, though the Court delay calling the Party to Judgment, &c. 1 Salk. 60, 62. Kel. 93. But formerly it was held, that the Court might delay the Calling a Convict to Judgment, and thereby hinder him from his Clergy, and make him liable to an Appeal, efppecially if the Appeal were depending: And where the Record of a Conviction of Manflaughter is erroneous, or insufficient, &c. the Offender cannot plead the Conviction and Clergy had therein, in Bar of an Appeal or fecond Indictment, &c. 2 Harwk. P. C. 378, 379. A Charter of Pardon, is no Bar of an Appeal: And if the Party be outlawed, &c. in Appeal, and the King pardon him, a Scire facias fhall iftue againft the Appellant, who may pray Execution, notwithstanding fuch Pardon; but if returned Sci. fac. and he appears not, then the Appellee fhall upon the Pardon be difcharged. H. P. C. 251. When a Perfon is indicted for Murder, and acquitted thereupon, he is to be bailed till the Year and Day is paft, allowed for bringing the Appeal, if an Appeal be intended. 3 Hen. 7. cap. 1. A Peer in Appeal of Murder, fhall not be tried by his Peers, but by a common Jury; though he fhall upon an Indictment for Murder. 3 Hen. 7. In Writ of Appeal, the Omission of any Word that is material will deftroy it. H. P. C. 200. No Effoin is allowed the Appellant, in Appeal of Death. Stat. 13 Ed. 1. In Appeal the Court can grant no Imparlance, but it may be adjourned. 1 Sid. 325. And where Appeal of Death is brought, the Defendant cannot juftify se Defendendo; but muft plead Not guilty, and the Jury are to find the fpecial Matter. Bro. App. 122. 3 Salk. 37. Appeal is the nicest Suit in Law, for any fmall Matter will abate it; the Procefs muft bear Date the fame Day with the Return of the Writ, if it be a Day afterwards, it is a Difcontinuance; and it varies from all other Proceedings, for there can be no Amendment of the Writ, nor is the Difcontinuance of it helped by any Statute. Nelf. Abr.

Abbr. 215. Where a Woman has Judgment in Appeal, of the Death of her Husband, she cannot have Execution if she do not personally pray it: A Judge went to a Woman great with Child, to know if she would have Execution? She said Yes, and the Appellee was hanged. Jenk. Cent. 137. By Statute an Appellant bringing a false Appeal, shall suffer a Year's Imprisonment, yield Damages to the Party grieved, and pay a Fine to the King; and being not able, those that abetted him, shall be punished in like Manner. Stat. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 12. There are not only Appeals of Murder, but of Maibem, Rape, Robbery, &c.

The Form of an Appeal of Murder.

Wilts. BE it remember'd, That at the General Delivery of the Gaol of the Lord the King, in the County of W. held for the said County at, &c. in the County aforesaid, the Day, &c. in the Sixth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Second, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith, &c. before Sir F. P. and A. D. Esq; &c. Justices of our said Lord the King assigned to, hold Pleas, &c. and Justices of the said Lord the King, his Gaol there of the Prisoners in the same being to deliver assigned, &c. J. B. Son and Heir of T. B. deceased, in his proper Person, by Bill earnestly appealed, R. D. late of, &c. and T. E. &c. in the Custody of W. C. Esq; Sheriff of the County aforesaid, to the Bar there brought in their proper Persons, of the Death of the said T. B. his Father; and there are Pledges of prosecuting his said Bill, that is to say, John Doe and Richard Doe; which said Bill follows in these Words: Wilts. ff. J. B. Son and Heir of T. B. late of, &c. in the County of W. Esq; in his proper Person, earnestly appeals R. D. late of, &c. Gentleman, and T. E. late of, &c. in Custody of W. C. Esq; Sheriff of the County of W. aforesaid, being to the Bar brought in their proper Persons, of the Death of the said T. B. his said Father; for that, that the said R. D. not having God before his Eyes, but being moved and seduced by the Instigation of the Devil, on the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. with Force and Arms, &c. at the Parish of, &c. in the County of W. aforesaid, that is to say, in a certain Place called, &c. in the King's Highway there, upon the said T. B. in the Peace of God and of our said Lord the King then and there being, feloniously, wilfully, and of his Malice forethought, made an Assault, and the said R. D. a certain Pistol of the Value of Ten Shillings, then and there charged with Gunpowder and a leaden Bullet, which Pistol the said R. D. in his Right Hand then and there had, feloniously, wilfully, and of his forethought Malice, directed against the said T. B. he shot off and discharged, and with the said leaden Bullet, by Force of the said Gunpowder out of the Pistol aforesaid, so as aforesaid directed, shot and discharged, the said T. B. in and upon the Right Side of the Breast of him the said T. B. near his Right Shoulder, then and there feloniously, wilfully, and of his Malice forethought, struck, pierced and wounded, and then and there the said R. D. with the said Bullet, so shot and discharged from the said Pistol as aforesaid, in and upon the said Right Side of the Breast of him the said T. B. near his said Right Shoulder, feloniously, wilfully, and of Malice forethought, gave to the same T. B. one mortal Wound, of the Length and Depth, &c. of which said mortal Wound the said T. B. then and there instantly died. And the said T. E. the said Day, &c. in the same Year, at, &c. aforesaid, in the Place aforesaid, and in the King's Highway aforesaid, there feloniously, wilfully, and of his Malice forethought, was present, abetting, aiding, comforting and maintaining the said R. D. the Felony and Murder aforesaid, in Manner and Form aforesaid, to do and commit: And so the said R. D. and T. E. the said T. B. in Manner and Form aforesaid, feloniously, wilfully, and of their Malice forethought, killed and murdered, against the Peace of our said Lord the King, his Crown and Dignity, &c. And as soon as the said Felons the said Felony and Murder had committed, they fled; And the said J. B. Son and Heir of the said T. B. made fresh Pursuit after the said Felons, &c. And if the said R. D. and T. E. the Felony and Murder aforesaid so as aforesaid done, are willing to avow and affirm, then the said J. B. is ready the said Felony and Murder against them the said R. D. and T. E. to prove, according as the Court of our said Lord the now King here shall consider thereof, and hath found Pledges to prosecute his Appeal, &c.

Appeal of Maibem, Is the Accusing one that hath maimed another: But this being generally no Felony, it is in a Manner but Action of Trespas; and nothing is recovered by it but Damages. In Action of Assault and Maiming, the Court may increase Damages, on View of the Maibem, &c. And though Maibem is not Felony, in Appeals and Indictments of Maibem, the Words Felonice Maibemavit are necessary. 3 Inst. 63. Bracton calls Appeal of Maibem Appellam de Plagiis & Mabemio, and writes a whole Chapter of it. Lib. 3. Traet. 2. cap. 24. In an Appeal of Maibem, the Defendant pleads that the Plaintiff had brought an Action of Trespas against him, for the same Wounding, and had recovered, and Damages given, &c. And this was a good Plea in Bar of the Appeal; because in both Actions Damages only are to be recovered. 4 Rep. 43. And where there is a Recovery in Assault and Battery, &c. the Jury give Damages according to the Hurt, which was done, and it shall be intended a Maibem at that Time; and therefore Appeal of Maibem doth not lie. Hob. 94. 1 Leon. 318. In Appeal of Maibem, the Appellant may not plead in Abatement of the Writ, and likewise over to the Maibem; if he doth, he will lose the Benefit of his Plea to the Writ. Moor 457.

Appeal of Rape, Lies where a Rape is committed on the Body of a Woman. 3 Inst. 30. A Feme Covert, without her Husband, may bring Appeal of Rape: And the Stat. 11 Hen. 4. cap. 13. gives Power where a Woman is ravished, and afterwards consents to it, for a Husband, or a Father, or next of Kin, there being no Husband, to bring Appeal of Rape; also the Criminal in such Case, may be attainted at the Suit of the King. 3 Inst. 131. 6 R. 2. cap. 6. And if a Woman consent after, she is disabled to challenge any Inheritance, Dower, &c. by Stat. 6 R. 2. The Statute of Westm. 1. cap. 13. enacts that Appeal of Rape shall be brought within forty Days: But by Stat. Westm. 2. c. 34. relating to this Offence, no Time is limited for the Prosecution; so that it may be brought in any reasonable Time. H. P. C. 186. Appeal of Rape is to be commenced in the County where committed: And if a Woman be assaulted in one County, and ravished in another, the Appeal of Rape lies in that County where she was ravished. H. P. C. 186. An Appeal of Rape was brought, and the Defendant found guilty; and being in Prison, some Exceptions were taken to the Plaintiff's Declaration, for that it did not say Felonice & carnaliter cognovit, &c. And it was not averred that she did not consent, before nor after the Fact: But these Points were not resolved; however it was held, that though formerly the Defendant might have his Clergy, 'tis taken away by the Stat. 18 Eliz. cap. 17. Dyer 201.

Form of an Appeal of Rape.

A. B. of, &c. in his proper Person earnestly appeals
A. C. D. late of, &c. in the Prison, &c. according to the Form of the Statute, made in the Parliament of the Lord Richard the Second, King of England, in the Sixth Sixth Year of his Reign held, &c. for that, that is to say, That the said C. D. the Day and Year, &c. at, &c. in the County aforesaid, M. B. Wife of the said A. B. feloniously ravished, and her carnally knew, against the Form of the Statute aforesaid, &c. And as soon as, &c. And this (the Felony and Rape aforesaid) the said A. B. is ready to prove against him the said C. D. as the Court, &c.

Appeal of Robbery, A Remedy given by the Common Law, where a Person is robbed of his Goods, &c. to have Restitution of the Goods stolen: As they could not be restored on Indictment at the King's Suit, this Appeal was judged necessary. 3 Inst. 242. If a Man robbed make fresh Pursuit after, and apprehend and prosecute the Felon, he may bring Appeal of Robbery at any Time afterwards. Staundf. 62. Adjudged, that an Appeal of Robbery may be brought by the Party robbed twenty Years after the Offence committed, and that he shall not be bound to bring it within a Year and a Day, as he must do in Appeal of Murder. 4 Leon. 16. And if one Man robs several Persons, every one of them may have Appeal: Likewise if the Robber be attainted at the Suit of one, he shall be tried at the Suit of the Rest, so as their Appeals were commenced before the Attainder. Danv. Abr. 494. In Appeal of Robbery, the Plaintiff must declare of all the Things whereof he is robbed, or they shall be forfeited to the King; for the Appellant can have Restitution for no more than is mentioned in his Appeal. 3 Inst. 227. By the Year-Book 21 Ed. 1. 16. Restitution of Goods was granted upon an Outlawry, in Appeal of Robbery; but a Person having preferred an Indictment against a Robber, and afterwards an Appeal, on which he was outlawed, the Plaintiff moved to have Restitution of his Goods, and it was denied. 2 Leon. 108. If the Count or Declaration in Appeal of Burglary be sufficient, and the Defendant is convicted at the Suit of the Party upon the Appeal; he shall not be again impeached for the same Offence at the King's Suit. 4 Rep. 39. By Stat. 21 Hen. 8. cap. 11. the like Restitution of stolen Goods may be had on Indictments after Attainder, as on Appeals: And Appeals of Rape and Robbery are now much out of Use; but the Appeal of Murder still continues, and is often brought.

Appeal to Rome. This was ever esteemed so great an Interruption to National Justice, that even at the Time the Roman Catholick Religion took Place in this Kingdom it was prohibited. By the Stat 24 Hen. 8. Appealing to Rome incurs the Penalty of a Præmunire: And it is made Treason by 13 Eliz. cap. 2. Where an Appeal in an Ecclesiastical Cause, is made before the Bishop, or his Commissary, it may be removed to the Archbishop; and if before an Archdeacon, to the Court of Arches, and from the Arches to the Archbishop; and when the Cause concerns the King, Appeal may be brought in fifteen Days from any of the said Courts to the Prelates in Convocation. 24 Hen. 8. c. 12. And the Stat. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 19. gives Appeals from the Archbishop's Courts to the King in Chancery, who thereupon appoints Commissioners finally to determine the Cause; and this is called the Court of Delegates: There is also a Court of Commissioners of Review; which Commission the King may grant as supreme Head, to review the definitive Sentence given on Appeal in the Court of Delegates. On taking away the Supremacy of the Pope in this Kingdom, this Power was lodged in the Crown, as originally belonging to it. 4 Inst. 340. The Dean of Wells was deprived of his Deanery, by the Commissary of the Bishop of Bath and Wells, from which Sentence the Dean appealed to the Archbishop, who affirmed it; and thereupon he exhibited an Appeal to the King in Chancery, but found no Relief, for the King granted the Deanery to one Turner: But Anno 1 Mar.

the deprived Dean obtained another Commission to the Delegates, and by their Sentence was restored to his Deanery; and after the Death of Queen Mary, 1 Eliz. Turner had a Commission of Review, and he was restored, though it was insisted there ought to be no farther Appeal. Dyer 273. In the 39th Year of Queen Eliz. Sentence being given in an Ecclesiastical Cause, the Party against whom had, appealed to the Archbishop, &c. who affirmed the Sentence; then he appealed to the Delegates, and they repealed both the former Sentences: On which the Queen granted a Commission ad revivendum the Sentence of the Delegates, and it was held lawful. Cro. Eliz. 571. The Bishop of Winchester is made Visitor of Magdalen College in Oxford; by whom the President of the said College was deprived, who appealed to the Queen in Chancery: Resolved that the Appeal doth not lie, for 'tis out of the Statutes 24 & 25 H. 8. Dyer 209. See 4 Mod. 106. See Admiral.

Appearance, In the Law signifieth the Defendant's Filing Common or Special Bail, when he is arrested on any Process out of the Courts at Westminster: And there can be no Appearance in the Court of B. R. but by Special or Common Bail. There are four Ways for Defendants to appear to Actions; in Person, or by Attorney; by Persons of full Age; and by Guardians, or next Friend, by Infants. Stow. 165. In all Cases where Process issues forth to take the Person's Body, if a common Appearance only, and not Special Bail is required, there every such Person may appear in Court in his proper Person, and file common Bail. 1 Lill. Abr. 85. Hill. 22 Car. B. R. Persons outlawed in any Case, except for Treason or Felony, may appear by Attorney to reverse the same without Bail; except where Special Bail shall be ordered by the Court. Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. cap. 18. If a Man is bound to appear in Court on the First Day of the Term, it shall be intended the First Day in common Understanding, viz. the First Day in full Term: And where the Defendant appears upon any Process, tho' the Day of Appearance be not lawful; yet 'tis said he shall be put to Answer. 1 Lill. 83. 2 Leon. 4. In Case the Defendant's Attorney doth receive a Declaration against his Client from the Plaintiff's Attorney; this obliges the Attorney to appear to it: And if an Attorney has a Warrant from the Defendant to be his Attorney in a Suit depending in B. R. and he files common Bail accordingly; it has been held, that he must appear by that Warrant in all Suits against the Defendant in the same Term; provided Declarations are filed in the Office, and Copies delivered to the Defendant, or his Attorney, who filed the Bail, before the End of the Term his Bail is filed. For the Defendant being, after Appearance and Bail put in, supposed to be in Custody of the Marshal, the Attorney that appears for him is bound to receive any Declaration that is brought against him during that Term. Comp. Attorn. Attornies subscribing Warrants to appear, are liable to a Penalty of 5 l. and Attachment, upon Non-appearance. And where an Attorney promises to appear for his Client, the Court will compel him to appear and put in Common Bail, in such Time as is usual by the Course of the Court; and that although the Attorney say he hath no Warrant for Appearance: Nor shall Repealing a Warrant of Attorney, to delay Proceedings, excuse the Attorney for his not appearing, who may be compelled by the Court. 1 Lill. 83, 84. The Defendant's Attorney is to file his Warrant the same Term he appears, and the Plaintiff the Term he declares, under Penalties by Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. cap. 16. In Actions by Original, Appearances must be entered with the Filazer of the County; and if by Bill, they shall be entered with the Prothonotary: And Appearances and Common Bail are to be entered and filed by the Defendant within eight Days after the Return of the Process on which he was arrested, relled, &c. on Pain of forfeiting 5 l. to the Plaintiff, for which the Court shall forthwith award Judgment and Execution. 5 Et 6 W. & M. c. 21. If the Defendant does not appear and find Bail, the Plaintiff's Attorney is to call upon the Sheriff for the Return of the Writ, whether the Defendant be arrested, or not; and proceed accordingly. On two Nobils returned upon a Scire & Alias Scire facias, they amount to a Scire feci, and the Plaintiff giving Rule, the Defendant is to appear, or Judgment shall be had against him by Default: And where a Defendant doth not plead after Appearance, Judgment may be had against him. Style 208. Upon a Party's Appearing, Errors in Writs are in many Cases salved, and the Party may be obliged to answer as if there had been no such Errors. 2 Hawk. 302. Where the first Process in an inferior Court is a Capias which ought not to be, it is salved and made good by Appearance; for the Defendant hath by his appearing admitted the Writ to be legal. Lutw. 954. And upon Appearance, a Writ hath had its End, and the Plaintiff shall declare: Also an Appearance takes away all Discontinuance, and bad Process before it. Jenk. Cent. 57. If Judgment is given by Default, where the Defendant doth not appear, the Writ ought to be according to Law; but if he appears and pleads, he slips his Advantage of excepting thereto. Ibid. 341. By late Statutes, where a Defendant is served with a Copy of Process, in Actions of Debt, &c. under 10 l. a common Appearance shall be entered, or common Bail filed by the Plaintiff, if the Defendant doth not appear within eight Days after the Return of the Writ; on Affidavit made of the Service of the Process. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 26. And a Notice shall be indorsed on the Copy of the Process, of the Intent and Meaning of the Service, for the Defendant to appear, &c. by 5 Geo. 2. c. 17.

Form of a Notice upon Process to appear.

A. B. You are served with this Process, to the Intent that you may by your Attorney appear in his Majesty's Court of King's Bench, at the Return thereof, being the twenty-eighth Day of November next, in Order to your Defence in this Action.

Appearance by Guardian and next Friend, Vide Infants, &c.

Appendant, (Appendens) Is a Thing of Inheritance, belonging to another Inheritance that is more worthy. As an Advowson, Common, Court, &c. may be Appendant to a Manor: Common of Fishing, Appendant to a Freehold: Land Appendant to an Office: A Seat in a Church to a House, &c. But Land is not Appendant to Land, both being Corporeal, and one Thing Corporeal may not be Appendant to another that is Corporeal; but an incorporeal Thing may be Appendant to it. 1 Inst. 121. 4 Rep. 86. Dauv. Abr. 500. A Forest may be Appendant to an Honour; and Waifs and Estrays to a Lect. 1 Co. Inst. 367. And Incorporeal Things, Advowsons, Ways, Courts, Commons, and the like, are properly Parcel of and Appendant to Corporeal Things; as Houses, Lands, Manors, &c. Plewd. 170. 4 Rep. 38. If Tenant in Tail of a Manor whereunto an Advowson is Appendant is disseised, and the Disseisor suffers an Usurpation; by the Disseisor's entering into the Manor, he is restored to the Advowson. 1 Inst. 49. But if one Disseisor of Common Appendant belonging to my Manor, and during the Disseisin I sell the Manor; by this the Common is extinct for ever. 4 E. 3. 21. 11 Rep. 47. Common of Estovers cannot be Appendant to Land; but to a House to be spent there. 1 Inst. 120. By the Grant of a Messuage, the Orchard and Garden will pass as Appendant. Appendants are ever by Prescription.

Appenditia, The Appendages or Pertinences of an Estate.—Simon Earl of Northampton gave to the Knights Templars his Manor of Merton in Com. Oxon. cum omnibus Appenditiis suis.—Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. 110. Hence our Pentices, or Pent-Houses are called Appenditia Domus, &c.

Appennage, or Apennage, (Fr.) Is derived from Appendendo; or the German Word Apanage, signifying a Portion. It is used for a Child's Part or Portion; and is properly the Portion of the King's younger Children in France, where by a Fundamental Law, called the Law of Apennages, the King's younger Sons have Duchies, Counties, or Baronies granted to them and their Heirs, &c. the Reversion being reserved to the Crown, and all Matters of Regality as to Coinage, and Levying Taxes in such Territories. Spelman's Gloss.

Apportionment, (Apportionamentum) Is a Dividing of a Rent, &c. into Parts, according as the Land out of which it issues is divided among two or more: As if a Man have a Rent-Service issuing out of Land, and he purchaseth Part of the Land, the Rent shall be apportioned with Respect to the Value of the Land. Terms de Ley 47. And if a Stranger recovers Part of the Lands, a Lessee shall pay, having Regard to that recovered, and what remains in his Hands. Where the Lessor recovers Part of the Land; Or enters for a Forfeiture into Part thereof; the Rent shall be apportioned. 1 Inst. 148. If a Man leases three Acres rendering Rent, and afterwards grants away one Acre, the Rent shall be apportioned. 1 Inst. 144. Lessee for Years leases for Years, rendering Rent, and after Deceases this Rent to three Persons, this Rent may be apportioned. Dauv. Abr. 505. If a Lessee for Life or Years under Rent, surrenders Part of the Land, the Rent shall be apportioned: But where the Grantee of a Rent-charge purchaseth Part of the Land, there all is extinct. Moor, c. 231. A Rent-charge issuing out of Land, may not be apportioned: Nor shall Things entire, as if one holds Lands by Service to pay yearly to the Lord, at such a Feast, a Horse, &c. 1 Inst. 149. But if Part of the Land out of which a Rent-charge issues descends to the Grantee of the Rent, this shall be apportioned. Dauv. 507. A Grantee of a Rent releases Part of the Rent to the Grantor, this doth not extinguish the Residue, but it shall be apportioned; for here the Grantee dealeth not with the Land, only the Rent. Co. Litt. 148. On Partition of Lands out of which a Rent is issuing, the Rent shall be apportioned. Dauv. Abr. 507. And where Lands held by Lease rendering Rent are extended upon Elegit, one Moiety of the Rent shall be apportioned to the Lessor. Ibid. 509. If Part of Lands leased is surrounded by fresh Water, there shall be no Apportionment of Rent: But if it be surrounded with the Sea, there shall be an Apportionment of the Rent. Dyer 56. A Man purchaseth Part of the Land where he hath Common appendant, the Common shall be apportioned: Of Common appurtenant it is otherwise, and if by the Act of the Party, the Common is extinct. 8 Rep. 79. Common appendant and appurtenant may be apportioned on Alienation of Part of the Land to which it is appendant or appurtenant.

tenant. Wood's Inst. 199. If where a Person has Common of Pasture Sans Number, Part of the Lands descends to him, this being intire and uncertain cannot be apportioned: But if it had been Common certain, it should have been apportioned. 1 Inst. 149. Conditions generally are intire, and cannot be apportioned by the Act of the Party. 1 Nels. Abr. 227. A Contract may not be divided or apportioned, so as to subject a Man to two Actions. 1 Salk. 65.

Apportum, (from the Fr. Apport) Signifies properly the Revenue or Profit which a Thing brings in to the Owner: And it was commonly used for a Corody or Pension. It hath also been applied to an Augmentation given to an Abbot out of the Profits of a Manor for his better Support.—Ita quod Proficua Manerii predicti nomine Apporti, quolibet anno prefato A. in subventionem sustentationis sue solverentur, &c. Anno 22 Ed. 3.

Appraisers of Goods are to be sworn to make true Appraisement; and valuing the Goods too high, shall be obliged to take them at the Price appraised. Stat. 13 Ed. 1.

Apprentice, (Fr.) A Fee or Profit Apprendre, is Fee or Profit to be taken or received. Ann. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. cap. 8.

Apprentice, (Apprenticius, Fr. Apprenti, from Apprender to learn) Signifies a young Person bound by Indentures to a Tradesman or Artificer, who upon certain Covenants is to teach him his Mystery or Trade: These Apprentices are a Kind of Bond-Men; differing only in that they are Servants by Covenant, and for a certain Term, usually seven Years, and they live for the most part more reputably. Smith's Rep. Angl. lib. 3. cap. 8. Seven Years Apprenticeship is required to intitle a Man to use any Trade; but this relates only to such Apprenticeship to Crafts or Mysteries, and does not extend to getting of a Livelihood by mere Labour, where there is no Craft or Mystery. 1 Roll. Rep. 10. A Brewer, and Baker are publick Trades; and therefore the Law provides, that they shall serve Apprenticeships to them for seven Years; otherwise they will be within the Statute 5 Eliz. Though it is not so, of a private Brewer, in private Houses. Jenk. Cent. 284. 8 Rep. 129. By the Statutes 2 P. & M. c. 11. 5 Eliz. c. 4. Aliens and Denizens are restrained to use any Handicraft or Trade therein mentioned, unless they have served seven Years Apprenticeship within the Realm, under the Penalty of 40 s. per Month. Hutt. 132. But it hath been adjudged, that if an Apprentice serve seven Years beyond Sea, he shall be excused from the Penalties of the Statute 5 Eliz. And so if he serve seven Years, though he was never bound. 1 Salk. 76. And Apprentices going into the Army in the last Wars, might set up their Trades in the County where born, though they did not serve out their Times. Stat. 10 & 11 W. 3. An Infant above the Age of fourteen Years may bind himself with Covenants to serve as an Apprentice by the Custom of London: Infants voluntarily binding themselves Apprentice, and continuing seven Years, shall have the Benefit of their Trades; but a Bond for their Service shall not bind them. Cro. Car. 179. By the Custom of the City of London, an Apprentice may be turned over from one Master to another: And if the Master refuse to make the Apprentice Free at the End of the Term, the Chamberlain may make him Free: In other Corporations, there must be a Mandamus to the Mayor, &c. to make him Free in such Case. Danv. Abr. 421. Wood's Inst. 51. A Freeman's Widow may take a Maid Apprentice for seven Years, and inrol her as a Youth; if she be above fourteen Years old: And if an Exchange Woman, that hath a Husband Free of London take such Apprentice, she shall be bound to the Husband; and may be made Free, at the End of the Apprenticeship, if she be then unmarried. Lex Londinen. 48. No Apprentice or Journeyman shall be restrained by Bond or Oath from keeping of a Shop. 1 Lill. Abr. 89. Whatever an Apprentice gains is for the Use of his Master; and whether he was legally bound or no, is not material, if he was an Apprentice de facto. Salk. 68. But the Stat. 12 Ann. relating to Servants stealing and purloining the Goods of their Masters of the Value of 40 s. which is Felony, extends not to Apprentices under fifteen Years old. Though an Apprentice or Servant may be indicted of Felony for stealing his Master's Goods at Common Law, notwithstanding the Statute 21 H. 8. 1 Hale's Hist. P. C. 666. For enticing an Apprentice to leave his Service, Action of the Case may be brought: And for enticing him to imbezil Goods, Indictment will lie. 1 Salk. 380. A Master may be indicted for not providing for, or turning away an Apprentice. If a Master give his Apprentice Licence to leave him, it cannot be afterwards recalled. Med. Cas. 70. An Apprentice marries, without the Master's Privity, that will not justify his turning him away, but he must see his Covenant. 2 Vern. 492. By the Custom of the City of London, a Freeman may turn away his Apprentice for Gaming. Ibid. 241. Though if a Master turns an Apprentice away on Account of Negligence, &c. Equity may Decree him to refund Part of the Money given with him. 1 Vern. Rep. 460. As no Apprentice can be made without Writing; so none may be discharged by his Master, but by Writing under his Hand, and with the Allowance of a Justice of Peace, by Statute. Dalt. 121. Justices of Peace in their Sessions may cause disorderly Apprentices to be corrected and punished; or upon Complaint of the Apprentice of ill Usage from his Master, they may discharge him. Stat. 5 Eliz. If an Apprentice doth not his Duty, the Master may complain to a Justice, whose Business it is to reconcile the Difference if he can; but if he cannot do it, the Justice may commit the Apprentice to the House of Correction, or bind him over to the Sessions, &c. 1 Med. 286. It is said, that the Justices of Peace have the same Power of discharging the Apprentice upon Complaint of the Master, as upon the Apprentice's Complaint. Ibid. 287. But it hath been held, that the Statute never intended to give the Justices Power to meddle with Apprentices in all Trades, only in such as are therein mentioned, and which were then used in England, &c. And they cannot discharge any voluntary Agreements or Covenants made between the Parties. 5 Mod. Rep. 140. When a Master dies, the Apprentice is to go to the Executor or Administrator to be maintained, if there be Assets; and the Executor, &c. may bind him to some other Master for the Remainder of the Time. Serving an Apprenticeship gains a Settlement by Statute in a Place: But a Covenant between a Master and a third Person, the Servant not being Party, makes no Apprenticeship to gain a Settlement. Salk. 479. By Statute 42 Eliz. c. 2. Churchwardens and Overseers of the Poor may bind out poor Apprentices, by Assent of two Justices of Peace: And Persons receiving Money with poor Apprentices, where Money is given for placing such out, are to give Security for Re-payment in seven Years, for the Binding out others, &c. 7 Jac. 1. c. 3. And if any Person refuse to accept a poor Apprentice, he shall forfeit 10 l. Stat. 8 & 9 W. 3. Also Justices of Peace and Churchwardens, &c. may put out poor Boys Apprentices to the Sea-Service. 2 Ann. c. 6. A Duty of 6 d. in the Pound under 50 l. and 12 d. in the Pound for Sums exceeding it, given with Apprentices (except poor Apprentices) is granted by Statute; to be paid in a Month, within the weekly Bills of Mortality, and in any other Part of Great Britain within two Months after Indentures executed, &c. And if the full Sum agreed be not inserted, or the Duty not paid, Indentures shall be void, and Apprentices prentices not capable of following Trades; also the Masters are liable to Penalties. 8 Ann. c. 9. But there are several Statutes allowing further Time to pay the Duties, and stamp Indentures, thro' Neglect omitted, &c. Stat 6 & 7 Geo. 1 & 2. 3 Geo. 2, &c. By the Stat. 20 Geo. 2. c. 19. any two Justices, upon Complaint of any Apprentice put out by the Parish, or with whom no more than 5*l.* was paid, of any Misusage, Refusal of necessary Provision, Cruelty, or other ill Treatment by his Master, to summon the Master to appear before them, and upon Proof of the Complaint on Oath to their Satisfaction, (whether the Master be present or not, if Service of the Summons be proved) to discharge such Apprentice by Warrant or Certificate, for which no Fee shall be paid: And on Complaint of the Master against any such Apprentice, touching any Misdemeanor, Mis carriage, or ill Behaviour, the Justices may punish the Offender by Commitment to the House of Correction, there to be corrected and kept to hard Labour, not exceeding a Calendar Month; or otherwise by discharging such Offender. Either Party may appeal to the Sessions, and the Determination there is to be final.

An Indenture of Apprenticeship.

THIS Indenture made the Day and Year, &c. Witnesseth, That A. B. Son of, &c. Hath of his own free and voluntary Will placed and bound himself Apprentice unto C. D. of, &c. to be taught in the Trade, Science, or Occupation of, &c. which he the said C. D. now useth, and with him as an Apprentice to dwell, continue, and serve him from the Day of the Date hereof, until the full End and Term of seven Years from thence next ensuing, and fully to be compleat and ended; during all which Term of seven Years, the said Apprentice his said Master well and faithfully shall serve, his Secrets keep, his lawful Commands every where gladly do, Hurt to his said Master he shall not do, nor wilfully suffer to be done by others, but of the same to his Power shall forthwith give Notice to his said Master; the Goods of his said Master he shall not Imbezil or Waste, nor them lend without his Consent to any; at Cards, Dice, or any other unlawful Games, he shall not play; Taverns, or Alehouses he shall not frequent: Fornication he shall not commit, Matrimony he shall not Contract; from the Service of his said Master he shall not at any Time depart or absent himself, without his said Master's Leave; but in all Things as a good and faithful Apprentice shall and will demean and behave himself towards his said Master, and all his, during the said Term. And the said Master his said Apprentice the said Trade, Science, or Occupation of, &c. which he now useth, with all Things thereunto belonging, shall and will teach and instruct, or cause to be well and sufficiently taught and instructed, after the best Way and Manner that he can; and shall and will also find and allow unto his said Apprentice, Meat, Drink, Washing, Lodging and Apparel, both Linnen and Woollen, and all other Necessaries fit and convenient for such an Apprentice, during the Term aforesaid; and at the End of the said Term shall and will give to the said Apprentice one new Suit of Apparel, &c. In Witness, &c.

Appropriation, (Appropriatio, from the Fr. Appropriier) Is the Annexing of a Benefice, originally Juris Divini & in Patrimonio nullius, to the proper and perpetual Use of some religious House, Bishoprick, College, or Spiritual Person, to enjoy for ever. And when Appropriation is made, the Patron is perpetual Parson, and hath perpetual Institution and Induction; for the Appropriation alone is a sufficient Admission, &c. Plowd. 499. To make an Appropriation, the King's Licence is to be obtained in Chancery, the Consent of the Ordinary, Patron and Incumbent, where the Church is full; and of the Diocesan, and Patron, if the Benefice is void. Plowd. 496. 15 R. 2. c. 6. Appropriation made during the Vacancy of the Benefice, is executed immediately; and when the Church is full, by apt Words, the Patron is constituted Parson, after it becomes void. 11 Rep. 11: An Appropriation may be by the King alone, where he himself is Patron; as when by Letters Patent he grants the Advowson which he is seised of in Right of his Crown to a Dean and Chapter, &c. Plowd. 499. No Appropriation can be made without Licence of the King. 8 Rep. 11. Nor may it be properly unless to a Spiritual Person capable of the Cure: It may be to a Bishop, &c. and his Successors. Dawv. Abr. 511. Where Appropriations are made, a Vicar is to be endowed to serve the Cure: And formerly in Licences of Appropriation, it was expressed that the Diocesan should also provide a convenient Sum of Money to be yearly paid out of the Fruits, towards the Sustentation of the Poor of the Parish. Stat. 15 R. 2. c. 6. A Vicarage endowed may not be appropriated; but it may be united to another Church, or to a Dean and Chapter, or College, with the King's Consent. Hob. 307. An Appropriation cannot be assigned over, or surrendered to any; nor can it endure longer than the Body Spiritual to which it is at first appropriated: But those to whom granted may make Leases of the Profits. Plowd. 499. If after an Appropriation, a Clerk is presented to the Bishop, and instituted and inducted, the Benefice returns to its former Nature, and the Appropriation is dissolved. 7 Rep. 13. But if Lessee for Years of an Appropriation, presents thereto, this Disappropriation shall not bind him in the Reversion. Dawv. 513. If a Feme endowed of an Advowson appropriate presents to it, the Appropriation is dissolved. 1 Inst. 46. If a Man recovers the Advowson in Writ of Right, this disappropriates the Church: And Dissolution of the Spiritual Corporation disappropriates an Appropriation. Tho' Appropriation cannot properly be made, except to Spiritual Persons, and their Successors; yet by the Statute 31 H. 8. the King's Patentees (altho' Laymen) are rendered capable of Parsonages appropriate of dissolved Monasteries; but these are generally called Improprations. Appropriations have been judged an Abuse and Robbery of the Church and Parish Priests, &c. Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. 433.

Appropiate Communam, To discommon, and inclose any Parcel of Land, that was before open Common—Anno D. 1299. The Prior and Convent of Burcester, granted to the Rector of Afferunge and the Bon hommes of that Place, quod sibi possint Appropriare, & includere pro voluntate sua tres Acres de Communi Pastura in Blakethorn, &c. Paroch. Antiq. 336.

Approbe, (Approbare) To augment a Thing to the utmost: To approve Land is to make the best Benefit of it, by increasing the Rent, &c. 2 Inst. 474.

Approvement, Is where a Man hath Common in the Lord's Waste, and the Lord makes an Inclosure of Part of the Waste for himself, leaving sufficient Common with Egress and Regress for the Commoners. Reg. Jud. 8, 9. If there be not sufficient Common left for the Tenant, he may have a Writ of Assise, and shall recover treble Damages. Stat. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 3. And a Commoner may break down an Inclosure, if the Lord doth inclose Part of the Common, and not leave sufficient Room in the Residue. But if any, upon just Title of Approvement, do make a Hedge or Ditch for that Purpose, which afterwards is thrown down in the Night by Persons unknown, the Towns adjoining may be distrained to make such Hedge, &c. for which there is a Noctanter Writ. Stat. 13 Ed. 1. c. 46. 2 Inst. 474. Approvement is to be only by Inclosure; and the Lord may not by the Statutes of Approvement dig Pits for Gravel, or Coal, &c. 1 Roll. Abr. 90. 405. 9 Rep. 112. Approvement may be made between Neighbour and Neighbour, tho' one of them dwell in another Town, if the Commons join together; and if the Lord hath Common in the Tenant's Ground, the Tenant may approve. 2 Inst. 475. The Common is to be Common appendant or appurtenant, to be subject to Approvement, and not Common in gross to a certain Number. The Word Approvement is also used for the Profits of Lands themselves. Crompt. Jurisd. 152. And the Statute of Merton, 2 H. 3. makes mention of Land newly approved. F. N. B. 71. Approvement ann. 43 Eliz. c. 11. Is the same with Improvement—Idem Approvementum—Cum omnibus Approvementis & aliis Pertinentiis suis. Mon. Angl. 607.

Approvers, Anno 9 H. 6. Bailiffs of Lords in their Franchises are called their Approvers: And Approvers in the Marches of Wales were such as had Licence De vendre & acheter Beasts, &c. But by the Statute 2 Ed. 3. c. 12. Approvers are such as are sent into Counties to increase the Farms of Hundreds, &c. held by Sheriffs. Such Persons as have the Letting of the King's Demesnes in small Manors, are called Approvers of the King (Approbatores Regis) Anno 51 H. 3. And in the Stat. 1 Ed. 3. c. 8. Sheriffs are called the King's Approvers.

Approver, or Prober, (Approbator) Is one that confessing Felony committed by himself, appealeth or accuseth others to be guilty of the same Crime. He is called Approver in this Sense, because he must prove what he hath alledged; and that Proof was by Battle, or the Country, at the Election of him appealed: And the Form of this Accusation you may find in Crompt. Just. 250. See also Bracon lib. 3. Stamdf. pl. Cor. 52. If a Person indicted of Treason or Felony, not disabled to accuse, upon his Arraignment, before any Plea pleaded, and before competent Judges, confesseth the Indictment, and takes an Oath to reveal all Treasons and Felonies that he knoweth of; and therefore prays a Coroner to enter his Appeal, or Accusation against those that are Partners in the Crime contained in the Indictment, such a one is an Approver. 3 Inst. 129. H. P. C. 192. Though the Approver is sworn to discover all Treasons and Felonies, he is not to be an Approver, but of the Offence whereof he is indicted: And this Accusation of himself, and Oath, makes his Accusation of another of the same Crime to amount to an Indictment; and if his Partners are convicted, the King is to pardon him, as to his Life: But he ought not to be suffered to continue in the Kingdom. Coroners may award Process to the Sheriff against Appellees in the same County, on the Discovery of the Approver: And the Justices of Gaol-Delivery, &c. have Power to award Process in any County to apprehend and try them. 2 Hawk. Pl. Cor. 208. A Man may be an Approver against any Person within the Realm, if there be such a Person, and he be named of the County where he dwells; but if there be no such Person, the Approver shall be hanged for his false Appeal. Ibid. 206. When a Person hath once pleaded Not guilty, he cannot be an Approver. 3 Inst. 129. And Persons attainted of Treason or Felony, shall not be Approvers; their Accusation will not then be of such Credit as to put a Man upon his Trial. 2 Hawk. 205. Infants under Age of Discretion may not be Approvers: And it being in the Discretion of the Court to suffer one to be an Approver, this Method of late hath seldom been practised. But we have, in Cases of Burglary and Robbery on the Highway, what seems to amount to the same, by Statute; it being ordained, that where Persons charged with such Crimes, out of Prison, discover two others concerned in the Crime, they shall have a Pardon, &c. Stat. 5 Ann. c. 31.

Appuare, To take to his own Use or Profit, viz. Domini vasorum & Boscorum, &c. Appuare se possunt de vasitis, &c. W. 2. c. 20.

Appurtenances, (Pertinentia) Derived from the French Appartenir, to belong to, signify Things both Corporeal and Incorporeal appertaining unto another Thing as Principal: As Hamlets to a Chief Manor; and Common of Pasture, Piscary, &c. Also Liberties and Services of Tenants. Brit. cap. 39. If a Man grant Common of Estovers to be burnt in his Manor, these are appurtenant to the Manor; for Things appurtenant may be granted at this Day. Co. Litt. 121. Common appurtenant may be to a House, Pasture, &c. Outhouses, Yards, Orchards, and Gardens are appurtenant to a Messuage; but Lands cannot properly be said to be appurtenant to a Messuage. 1 Lill. Abr. 91. And one Messuage cannot be appurtenant to another. Ibid. Lands cannot, as to the Right of the Words cum Pertinentiis, be appurtenant to the House; but the Word Pertinens may be taken in the Sense of usually letten or occupied with the House. Plowd. 170. Lands shall pass in a Lease or Devise of a House with the Appurtenances, as pertaining to the same, when it hath been used and occupied with it ten Years or more; which is judg'd a sufficient Time to make it appertaining to the House. Cro. El. 704. Lands, a Common, &c. may be appurtenant to a House; though not a Way. 3 Salk. 40. Grant of a Manor, without the Words cum pertinentiis, 'tis said will pass all Things belonging to the Manor. Owen's Rep. 31. Where a Person hath a Messuage, &c. to which Estovers are appurtenant, and it is blown down or burnt by the Act of God; if the Owner re-edify it, in the same Place and Manner as before, he shall have the ancient Appurtenances. 4 Rep. 86. A Turbary may be appurtenant to a House; so a Seat in a Church, &c. but not to Land; for the Things must agree in Nature and Quality. 3 Salk. 40.

Aquage, (Aquagium, quos Aquæ Arum, i. e. Aquæ ductus & Aquægangium) A Water-courte. — Non liceat alicui de cætero facere Dammas vel Fordas aut alia Impedimenta in aliquibus landeis, Watergangiis, Fossatis sive Aquagiis communibus in Marisco prædicto. Ordin. Marif. de Romney fact. temp. Hen. 3. & Ed. 1. p. 72.

Arabant, Ad Curiam Domini, Was intended of those who held by the Tenure of Ploughing and Tilling the Lord's Lands within the Manor. Spelm. Gloss.

Arace, (Angl.) To raise, from the French Arracher, Evellere.

Arabo, In Arabo conjurare, i. e. To make Oath in the Church, or some other Holy Place; for according to the Riparian Laws, all Oaths were made in the Church upon the Relicks of Saints.

Aratrum Terræ, As much as can be tilled with one Plough.—Hoc manerium est 30 Aratorum. Tborn. Anno 616. Aratura Terræ is the Service which the Tenant is to do for his Lord in Ploughing his Land.

Arbitrator, (Lat.) Is a private extraordinary Judge between Party and Party, chosen by their mutual Consents, to determine Controversies between them. West. Symb. Sect. 21. And Arbitrators are so called, because they have an Arbitrary Power; for if they observe the Submission, and keep within due Bounds, their Sentences are definitive, from which there lies no Appeal. 1 Roll. Abr. 251. The Award of Arbitrators is definitive, and being chosen by the Parties, they are not tied to such Formalities of Law as Judges in other Cases are; and yet they have as great Power as other Judges to determine the Matters in Variance; but their Determination must be certain, and it is to be according to the express Condition of the Bond by which the Parties submit themselves to their Judgment. 1 Nels. Abr. 234. Dyer 356. The Chancery will not give Relief against the Award of the Arbitrators, except it be for Corruption, &c. And where their Award is not strictly binding by the Rules of Law, the Court of Equity can decree a Performance. Chanc. Rep. 279. 1 Vern. 24. But when Arbitrators make their Award upon one Day, they cannot make another Award between the Parties on any other Day: Nor can they do it Part at one Time, and Part on another, altho' all the Times are within the Submission. 26 Hen. 6. 52. 39 Hen. 6. 12. Yet the Arbitrators may agree upon a Thing one Day, and of another Thing another Time, and at last make an Award of the whole. 47 Ed. 3. 21. 2 Mod. Entr. Engl. 262. Arbitrators are to award what is equal between the Parties, and not on one Side only; and the Performance of it must be lawful and possible; also the Award must be final. 1 Inst. 206. 1 Roll. Abr. 242, &c. If the Arbitrators make an Award of Money to be paid to a Stranger, &c. unless the Parties have Benefit by it, it will be void. 2 Saund. 122. 1 Lill. 169. And a Party is not to be made a Judge in his own Cause by Award. 1 Salk. 71. Where a Thing is to be done on Payment of Money, a Tender of the Money is as much as an actual Payment. Mod. Caf. 33. Action of Debt may be brought for Money adjudged to be paid by Arbitrators, declaring on the Award; and also Action of Debt upon the Bond for not performing the Award. Brownl. 55. Sometimes Matters are referred by the Judges at the Assizes to the three Foremen of the Jury, in the Nature of Arbitrators; and after their Award is made, the Plaintiff may have Attachment, &c. to oblige Performance. 1 Salk. 84. When there is but one Arbitrator, which happens where the Matter is referred to two, and they cannot agree, but leave it to be determined by a third Person, it is called an Umpirage. 8 Rep. 98. But the Arbitrators are to refuse, and declare they will make no Award, before the Umpire shall proceed: Though an Umpire's Award shall be good where the Arbitrators make a void Award, which is no Award. 1 Lill. Abr. 170. It is said an Umpirage cannot be made till the Arbitrators Time is out; and if any other Power be given to the Umpire it is not good, for two Persons cannot have a several Jurisdiction at one Time: 1 Mod. Rep. 15. Arbitrators are generally where the Parties think it more safe to refer the Matters in Variance, to the Determination of Friends, than to venture a Trial at Law. And the Civilians make a Difference between Arbiter and Arbitrator: An Arbiter is tied to proceed and judge according to Law mingled with Equity; but an Arbitrator is wholly at his own Discretion, without Solemnity of Process or Course of Judgment, to hear and determine the Controversy referred to him; so as it be Juxta Arbitrium boni viri Cowel.

Arbitrament, (Arbitrium) Is the Sentence or Determination pronounced by Arbitrators, and published when they have heard all Parties. And Arbitrament is either General, of all Actions, Demands, Quarrels, &c. or Special, of some certain Matters in Controversy: It may be also Absolute, or Conditional. 8 Rep. 98. To every Arbitrament five Things are incident, 1. Matter of Controversy. 2. Submission. 3. Parties to the Submission. 4. Arbitrators. 5. Giving up the Arbitrament. Hardr. 44. Arbitrators can't refer Arbitraments to others, if the Submission be not so: But an Arbitrament that one shall Release to another, by Advice of a certain Person, this is good: because 'tis a Reference only for the Execution of it. Jenk. Cent. 129. Submissions to Arbitrament, are usually by Bond; and the Parties who bind themselves are obliged to take Notice of the Award, at their Peril: But Things relating to a Freehold; Debts due on Bond; or on certain Contract; Criminal Offences, &c. are not arbitrable. Danv. Abr. 513. 9 Rep. 78. 1 Roll. Abr. 342, 244. See Award.

Arca Cyrographica, Sive Cyrographorum Judæorum, This was a common Chest with three Locks and Keys, kept by certain Christians and Jews, wherein all the Contracts, Mortgages, and Obligations belonging to the Jews were kept, to prevent Fraud; and this by Order of K. Ricb. 1. Hoveden's Annals, p. 745.

Archery, A Service of keeping a Bow, for the Use of the Lord to defend his Castle.—Johannes de, &c. qui tenet de Dom Reg. in capite per Serjantiam Archeriæ. Co. Litt. Sect. 157.

Archbishop, (Archiepiscopus) Is the Chief of the Clergy in his Province, and is that Spiritual Secular Person, who hath supreme Power under the King in all Ecclesiastical Causes: And the Manner of his Creation and Consecration, by an Archiebishop and two other Bishops, &c. You may find in the Stat. 25 Hen. 8. c. 20. An Archiebishop is said to be enthroned, when a Bishop is said to be installed; and there are four Things to compleat a Bishop or Archiebishop, as well as a Parson: First, Election, which resembles Presentation; the next is Confirmation, and this resembles Admission; next Consecration, which resembles Institution; and the last is Installation, resembled to Induction. 3 Salk. 72. In ancient Times the Archiebishop, was Bishop over all England, as Austin was, who is said to be the first Archiebishop here; but before the Saxon Conquest, the Britains had only one Bishop, and not any Archiebishop. 1 Roll. Rep. 328. 2 Roll. 449. The Archiebishop of Canterbury is now stiled Metropolitani & Primas totius Angliæ; and the Archiebishop of York stiled Primas & Metropolitanus Angliæ. They are called Archiebishops in Respect of the Bishops under them; and Metropolitans, because they were consecrated at first in the Metropolis of the Province. 1 Inst. 94. Both the Archiebishops have distinct Provinces, wherein they have Suffragan Bishops of several Dioceses, with Jurisdiction under them. And each hath two concurrent Jurisdictions, one as Ordinary, or the Bishop himself within his Diocese; the other as Superintendant throughout his whole Province of all Ecclesiastical Matters, to correct and supply the Defects of other Bishops. The Archiebishop of Canterbury hath the Privilege to crown all the Kings of England; and to have Prelates to be his Officers; as for Instance; the Bishop of London is his Provincial Dean, the Bishop of Winchester his Chancellor, the Bishop of Lincoln his Vice-Chancellor, the Bishop of Salisbury his Precentor, the Bishop of Worcester his Chaplain, &c. It is the Right of the Archiebishop to call the Bishops and Clergy of his Province to Convocation, upon the King's Writ: He hath a Jurisdiction in Cases of Appeal, where there is a supposed Default of Justice in the Ordinary; and and has a standing Jurisdiction over his Suffragans: He confirms the Election of Bishops, and afterwards consecrates them, &c. And he may appoint Co-adjutors to a Bishop that is grown infirm. He may confer Degrees of all Kinds; and censure and excommunicate, suspend or depose, for any just Cause, &c. 2 Roll. Abr. 223. And he hath Power to grant Dispensations in any Case, formerly granted by the See of Rome, not contrary to the Law of God: But if the Case is new and extraordinary, the King and his Counsel are to be consulted. Stat. 25 H. 8. He may retain eight Chaplains: And during the Vacancy of any See, he is Guardian of the Spiritualities. Stat. Ibid. and 21 H. 8.

Archdeacon, (Archidiaconus) Is one that hath Ecclesiastical Dignity, and Jurisdiction over the Clergy and Laity next after the Bishop throughout the Diocese, or in some Part of it only. Archdeacons had anciently a superintendant Power over all the Parochial Clergy in every Deanery in their Precincts; they being the Chiefs of the Deacons; Though they have no original Jurisdiction, but what they have got is from the Bishop, either by Prescription or Composition; and Sir Simon Degg tells us, that it appears an Archdeacon is a meer Substitute to the Bishop; and what Authority he hath is derived from him, his chief Office being to visit and inquire, and Episcopo Nunciare, &c. In ancient Times, Archdeacons were employ'd in servile Duties of collecting and distributing Alms and Offerings; but at length by a personal Attendance on the Bishops, and a Delegation to examine and report some Causes, and Commissions to visit the remoter Part of the Dioceses, they became as it were Overseers of the Church; and by Degrees advanced into considerable Dignity and Power. Lanfranc, Archbishop of Canterbury, was the first Prelate in England who instituted an Archdeacon in his Diocese, which was about the Year 1075. And an Archdeacon is now allowed to be an Ordinary, as he hath a Part of the Episcopal Power lodged with him. He visits his Jurisdiction once every Year: And he hath a Court, where he may inflict Penance, suspend, or excommunicate Persons, prove Wills, grant Administrations, and hear Causes Ecclesiastical, &c. subject to Appeal to the Bishop of the Diocese. It is one Part of the Office of an Archdeacon to examine Candidates for Holy Orders; and to induct Clerks within his Jurisdiction, upon Receipt of the Bishop's Mandate. 2 Cro. 556. 1 Lev. 193. Wood's Inst. 30.

Archies Court, (Curia de Arcubus) The chief and most ancient Consistory Court belonging to the Archbishop of Canterbury for the Debating of Spiritual Causes. It is so called from the Church in London, commonly called St. Mary le Bow, (where it was formerly held) which Church is named Bow Church from the Steeple which is raised by Pillars, built archwise, like so many bent Bows. Corwel. The Judge of this Court is stiled the Dean of the Arches, or Official of the Arches Court: He hath extraordinary Jurisdiction in all Ecclesiastical Causes, except what belongs to the Prerogative Court; also all Manner of Appeals from Bishops or their Chancellors or Commissaries, Deans and Chapters, Archdeacons, &c. first or last directed hither: He hath ordinary Jurisdiction throughout the whole Province of Canterbury, in Case of Appeals; so that upon any Appeal made, he, without any farther Examination of the Cause, sends out his Citation to the Appellee, and his Inhibition to the Judge from whom the Appeal was made. Of this see more 4 Inst. 337. But he cannot cite any Person out of the Diocese of another, unless it be on Appeal, &c. 23 H. 8. c. 9. In another Sense the Dean of the Arches has a peculiar Jurisdiction of thirteen Parishes in London, called a Deanery, (being exempt from the Authority of the Bishop of London) of which the Parish of Bow is the Principal. The Persons concerned in this Court, are the Judge, Advocates, Registers, Proctors, &c. And the Foundation of a Suit in these Courts, is a Citation for the Defendant to appear; then the Libel is exhibited, which contains the Action, to which the Defendant must answer; whereupon the Suit is contested, Proofs are produced, and the Cause determined by the Judge, upon Hearing the Advocates on the Law and Fact; when follows the Sentence or Decree thereupon.

Archives, (Archiva, from Arca, a Chest) The Rolls, or any Place where ancient Records, Charters and Evidences, belonging to the Crown and Kingdom, are kept; also the Chancery, Exchequer-Office, &c. And it hath been sometimes used for Repositories in Libraries.

Arrestment, Surprise, Affrightment.—To the great Arrestment and Essement of the Common Law. Rot. Parl. 21 Edw. 3.

Arrestan, The Edict of the King, commanding all his Tenants to come into the Army: If they refuse, then to be deprived of their Estates.

Arrentare, To Rent out, or let at a certain Rent. —Richardus de Armestone Ballivus Manerii de Kingsford, malitiose & per violentiam ditto Religiosos de eadem piscaria ejecit, & ipsum Domino suo Arrentari fecit in 12 sol. quos idem Dominus per 6 annos recepit. Consuetud. Domus de Farendon, MS. fol. 53.

Argentum Album, Silver Coin, or Pieces of Bullion that anciently passed for Money. By Domesday Tenure, some Rents to the King were paid in Argento Albo, common Silver Pieces of Money; other Rents in Libris Urfs & Pensatis, in Metal of full Weight and Purity: In the next Age, that Rent which was paid in Money, was called Blanch searm; and afterwards White-Rent; and what was paid in Provision, was termed Black Mail. Spelm. Gloss.

Argentum Dei, God's Money, i. e. Money given in Earnest upon the Making of any Bargain; Hence comes Arles, Earnest.—Adam de Holt vendit quintam partem Manerii de Berterton Henrico Scot, & cepit de predicto Henrico tres Denarios de Argento Dei prae manibus. Placit. apud Cast. 2 Ed. 3.

Argil, or Argoil, Clay, Lime, and sometimes Gravel; also the Lees of Wine, gathered to a certain Hardness. Law Fr. Di.

Argumentosus, A Word which signifies Ingenious, mentioned by our Historian Neubrigenfis. In Pistoria quoque opera Argumentosa vocamus. Lib. 1. c. 14.

Arctetum Levatio, An old sportive Exercise, supposed to be the same with running at the Quintal.

Arma dare, To dub or make a Knight. Anno Dom. 1144. 10 Steph. Ego Brientius filius Comitit, quem bonus Rex Henricus nutrit, & cui Arma dedit & honorem. A. D. 1278. 31 Ed. 3. Arma capere is to be made a Knight. Kennel's Paroch. Antiq. p. 288. And in Walsingham, p. 507. Die Dominica in Vigilia Purificationis Edwardus juvenis suscepit Arma Militaria. The Word Arma in these Places signifies only a Sword; but sometimes a Knight was made by giving him the whole Armour.—Lanfrancus Dorobernensis Episcopus cum lorica induit, & galeam capiti imposuit, eique & Regis filio Militie cingulum in nomine Dei cinxit. Ordericus Vitalis, lib. 8. de Henrico, &c.

Arma Libera, A Sword and a Lance which were usually given to a Servant when he was made free. Leg. Will. cap. 65.

Arma moluta, Sharp Weapons that cut, oppos'd to such as are blunt, which only break or bruise. Braet. lib. 3. Arma moluta plagam faciunt, sicut gladiis & hujusmodi: Ligna vero & lapides, brusuras, Orbes & vetus, qui judicari non possunt ad plagam, ad hoc ut inde venire possit ad Duellum. They are called Arma emolita by Fleta, lib. 1. c. 33. par. 6.

Arma Reversata: This was when a Man was convicted of Treason or Felony: Thus our Historian Knighon, speaking of Hugh Spenser, tells us, Primo vestierunt vestierunt eum uno vestimento cum Armis suis reverfatis. Lib. 3. p. 2546.

Armistate, Is a Sort of Punishment decreed or imposed on an Offender by the Judge. Malmf. lib. 3. p. 97. Walsingham, p. 430. At first it was to carry a Saddle at his Back in Token of Subjection, viz. Nudis vestigiis equestrem sellam ad satisfaciendum humeris ferret. Brompton says, that in the Year 1176, the King of Scots promised K. Hen. 2. at York, Lanceam & sellam suam super Altare Sancti Petri ad perpetuam bujus subjectionis memoriam offerre.

Armigeri, A Title of Dignity, belonging to such Gentlemen that bear Arms: And these are either by Curtesy, as Sons of Noblemen, eldest Sons of Knights, &c. Or by Creation, such as the King's Servants, &c. The Word Armigeri has also been applied to the higher Servants in Convents. Paroch. Antiq. 576. See Esquire.

Armour and Arms, In the Understanding of Law, are extended to any Thing that a Man wears for his Defence, or takes into his Hands, or useth in Anger to strike or cast at another. Crompt. Just. 65. Arms are also what we call in Latin Insignia, Ensigns of Honour; as to the Original of which, it was to distinguish Commanders in War; for the ancient defensive Armour being a Coat of Mail, &c. which covered the Persons, they could not be distinguished, and therefore a certain Badge was painted on their Shields, which was called Arms; but not made hereditary in Families till the Time of King Ricb. 1. on his Expedition to regain Jerusalem from the Turks: And besides Shields with Arms, they had a Silk Coat drawn over their Armour, and afterwards a stiff Coat, on which their Arms were painted all over, now the Herald's Coat of Arms. Sid. Rep. 352. By the Common Law it is an Offence for Persons to go or ride armed with dangerous and unusual Weapons: But Gentlemen may wear common Armour according to their Quality, &c. 3 Inst. The King may prohibit Force of Arms, and punish Offenders according to Law; and herein every Subject is bound to be aiding. Stat. 7 Ed. 1. None shall come with Force and Arms before the King's Justices, nor ride armed in Affray of the Peace, on Pain to forfeit their Armour, and suffer Imprisonment, &c. 2 Ed. 3. c. 3.

Arnalia, Arable Grounds. This Word is mentioned in Domesday. Tit. Essex.

Arnaldia, Arnoldia; A Sort of Disease that makes the Hair fall off, like the Alopecia, or like unto a Distemper in Foxes.—Deinde uterque Rex incidit in agritudinem quam Arnaldiam vocant, in qua ipsi ad mortem usque laborantes pillos suos deposuerunt. Rog. Hoveden, p. 693.

Armatarius, (Lat.) A Word often used for a Grocer, but held not good in Law Proceedings. 1 Vent. 142.

Arpen, or Arpent, Signifies an Acre, or Furlong of Ground: And according to the old French Account in Domesday-Book, 100 Perches make an Arpent. The most ordinary Acre, called l'Arpent de France, is One hundred Perches square: But some account it but half an Acre.—Septem acras terræ & unum Arpentum quæ me contingebant per Eschaietam. Ex Reg. Priorat. de Wormsley, fol. 7. Where Arpen seems to be some Quantity less than an Acre. Arpentator, a Measurer or Surveyor of Land.

Arquebus, (Fr. Arquebuse) A short Hand-Gun, a Caliver or Pistol; mentioned in some of our ancient Statutes. Law Fr. Dic.

Arrack. The same Duty and Excise payable for Brandy and Foreign Spirits, and no more, shall be paid for Arrack imported from the East Indies; and the like Allowance to be made on Exportation, &c. Stat. 7 Geo. 2. c. 14.

Arreatio Peditum, Is used in Pat. 1 Ed. 2. for the Araying of Foot Soldiers.

Arriers, (Arriatores) Such Officers as had the Care of the Soldiers Armour, and whose Business it was to see them duly accoutred. Stat. 12 R. 2. c. 6. In several Reigns Commissioners have been appointed for this Purpose.

Arriain, (from the French Arrianger, to set a Thing in Order) Hath the same Signification in Law: But the true Derivation is from the French Arriaisonner, i. e. Ad rationem ponere, to call a Man to answer in Form of Law. A Prisoner is arriained, when he is indicted and brought to Trial: And to arriain a Writ of Assise, is to cause the Demandant to be called to make the Plaintiff, in such Manner as the Tenant may be obliged to answer. 1 Inst. 262. But no Man is properly arriained but at the Suit of the King, upon an Indictment found against him, or other Record, wherewith he is to be charged: And this Arriainment is to take Care that the Prisoner do appear to be tried, and hold up his Hand at the Bar, for the Certainty of the Person, and plead a sufficient Plea to the Indictment. 1 Inst. 262, 263. The Prisoner is to hold up his Hand only in Treason and Felony; but this is only a Ceremony: If he owns that he is the Person, it is sufficient without it; and then upon his Arriainment his Fetters are to be taken off; and he is to be treated with all the Humanity imaginable. 2 Inst. 315. 3 Inst. 35. If in Action of Slander for calling one Thief, the Defendant justifies that he stole Goods, and Issue is thereon taken; if it be found for the Defendant in B. R. and for Felony in the same County where the Court sits, or before Justices of Assise, &c. he shall be forthwith arriained upon this Verdict of twelve Men, as on an Indictment. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 151. The Pleas upon Arriainment are either the General Issue, Not Guilty; Plea in Abatement, or in Bar; and the Prisoner may demur to the Indictment; also he may confess the Fact, but then the Court has nothing more to do than to proceed to Judgment against him. If he stands mute, and doth not put himself upon Trial, he shall suffer the Penance Pain fort & dure, in Cases of Felony, &c. 3 Inst. 217. By the Common Law, if a Principal is acquitted or is pardoned, or dies, the Accessary shall not be arriained. But vide Stat. 1 Ann. cap. 9. and Word Accessary. For the Solemnity of the Arriainment and Trial of a Prisoner, see Dalt. chap. 185. p. 515.

Arroy, (Arroya, sive Arriamentum) An old Fr. Word signifying the Ranking or setting forth of a Jury of Men impanelled upon a Cause. 18 H. 6. c. 14. And when we say to arroy a Panel, That is, to set forth the Men impanelled one by another. F. N. B. 157. To challenge the Arroy of the Panel, is at once to except against all the Persons arroyed or impanelled, in Respect of Partiality, &c. 1 Inst. 156. If the Sheriff be of Affinity to either of the Parties; or if any one or more of the Jurors are returned at the Nomination of either Party; or for any other Partiality; the Arroy shall be quashed. The Word Arroy also relates in a particular Manner to military Order, as to conduct Persons armed, &c. Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 3.

Arrearages, (Arrearagia) From the French Arriere, retro, behind, is taken for Money unpaid at the due Time, as Rent behind; the Remainder due on an Account, or a Sum of Money remaining in the Hands of an Accountant. When Arrears of Rent are presumed in Law to be satisfied, vide Acceptance.

Arreatatus, One suspected of any Crime.—Si autem aliquis arreatatus fuerit de morte alicujus periclitantis capietur & imprisonetur.—Offic. Coronat. Spelm. Gloss.

Arrenatus, Arriained, accused.—Stephanus Rabax, Vic. Leicest. arrenatus & ad rationem positus de hoc quod, &c. Rot. Parl. 21 Ed. 1.

Arrentation,

Arrentation, (from the Spanish Arrendare) Is as much as Ad certum redditum dimittere; and it signifies the Licencing an Owner of Lands in the Forest, to inclose them with a low Hedge and small Ditch, according to the Assise of the Forest, under a yearly Rent: Saving the Arrentations is a saving Power to give such Licences. Ordin. Forestæ, 34 Ed. 1.

Arrest, (Arrestum) Cometh of the French Word Arrester, to stop, or stay. It is a Restraint of a Man's Person, obliging him to be obedient to the Law: And it is defined to be the Execution of the Command of some Court of Record, or Officer of Justice. An Arrest is the Beginning of Imprisonment, where a Man is first taken, and restrained of his Liberty, by Power or Colour of a lawful Warrant: Also it signifies the Decree of a Court, by which a Person is arrested. 2 Sesp. Abr. 299. None shall be arrested for Debt, Trespas, &c. or other Cause of Action, but by Virtue of a Precept or Commandment out of some Court: But for Treason, Felony, or Breach of the Peace, any Man may arrest without Warrant or Precept. Terms de Ley 54. Persons present at the Committing of a Felony, must use their Endeavours to apprehend the Offender, under Penalty of Fine and Imprisonment. 3 Inst. 117. 4 Inst. 177. The King cannot command any one by Word of Mouth to be arrested; but he must do it by Writ, or Order of his Courts, according to Law: Nor may the King arrest any Man for Suspicion of Treason, or Felony, as his Subjects may; because if he doth wrong, the Party cannot have Action against him. 2 Inst. 186. After Presentment or Indictment found in Felony, &c. the first Process is a Capias, to arrest and imprison the Offender: And if the Offender cannot be taken, an Exigent is awarded in order to Outlawry. H. P. C. 209. When a Person is apprehended for Debt, &c. he is said to be arrested: And Writs express Arrest by two several Words Capias and Attachias, to take and catch hold of a Man; for an Officer must actually lay hold of a Person, besides saying he arrests him, or it will be no lawful Arrest. 1 Lill. Abr. 96. If a Bailiff be kept off from making an Arrest, he shall have an Action of Assault: And where the Person arrested makes Resistance, or assaults the Bailiff, he may justify Beating of him. If a Bailiff touches a Man, which is an Arrest, and he makes his Escape, it is a Rescue, and Attachment may be had against him. 1 Salk. 79. If a Bailiff lays hold of one by the Hand (whom he had a Warrant to arrest) as he holds it out at the Window, this is such a Taking of him, that the Bailiff may justify the Breaking open of the House to carry him away. 1 Vent. 306. When a Person has committed Treason or Felony, &c. Doors may be broke open to arrest the Offender; but not in Civil Cases, except it be in Pursuit of one arrested; or where a House is recovered by Real Action, to deliver Possession to the Person recovering. Plowd. 5 Rep. 91. Action of Trespas, &c. lies for breaking up a House to make Arrest in a Civil Action. Mod. Caf. 105. But if it appears, a Bailiff found an outer Door, &c. open, 'tis said he may open the inner Door to make an Arrest. Comber. 327. An Arrest in the Night, as well as the Day, is lawful. 9 Rep. 66. And every one is bound by the Common Law to assist not only the Sheriff in the Execution of Writs, and making Arrests, &c. but also his Bailiff that hath his Warrant to do it. 2 Inst. 193. A Bailiff upon an Arrest ought to shew at whose Suit, out of what Court the Writ issues, and for what Cause, &c. but this is when the Party arrested, submits himself to the Arrest: A Bailiff sworn and known, need not shew his Warrant, though the Party demands it; nor is any other special Bailiff bound to shew his Warrant, unless it be demanded. 9 Rep. 68, 69. An Arrest without shewing the Warrant, and without telling at whose Suit, until the other demanded it, was held legal; and that this need not to be done until the Party obeyed and demanded the same. Cro. Jac. 485. Sheriffs are not to grant Warrants for Arrests, before the Receipt of the Writs; if they do, they shall forfeit 10 l. and Damages, and pay a Fine to the King. Stat. 43 Eliz. c. 5. And every Warrant to issue upon any Writ to arrest any Person, shall have the same Day and Year set down thereon as on the Writ, under the like Penalty of 10 l. Stat. 6 Geo. 1. c. 21. If an Action is entered in one of the Compters of London, a City Serjeant may arrest the Party without the Sheriff's Warrant. 1 Lill. Abr. 94. And by the Custom of London, a Debtor may be arrested before the Money is due, to make him find Sureties; but not by the Common Law. 1 Nelf. Abr. 258. By Stat. 29 Car. 2. c. 7. No Writ, Process, Warrant, &c. (except in Cases of Treason, Felony, or for Breach of the Peace) shall be served on a Sunday; on Pain that the Person serving them shall be liable to the Suit of the Party grieved, and answer Damages, as if the same had been done without Writ: An Action of False Imprisonment lies for Arrest on a Sunday, and the Arrest is void. 1 Salk. 78. A Defendant was arrested on a Sunday by a Writ out of the Marshalsea; and the Court of B. R. being moved to discharge him, it was denied; and he was directed to bring Action of False Imprisonment. 5 Mod. Rep. 95. The Defendant being taken upon a Sunday, without any Warrant, and locked up all that Day, on Monday Morning a Writ was got against him, by which he was arrested; it was ruled, that he might have an Action of False Imprisonment, and that an Attachment should go against those who took him on the Sunday. Mod. Caf. 96. Attachments have been often granted against Bailiffs for making Arrests on Sunday: But Affidavit is usually made, that the Party might be taken upon another Day. 1 Mod. 56. A Person may be retaken on a Sunday, where arrested the Day before, &c. Mod. Caf. 231. And a Man may be taken on a Sunday on an Escape Warrant; when he goes at Large out of the Rules of the King's Bench or Fleet Prison, &c. Stat. 5 Ann. c. 9. Also Bail may take the Principal on a Sunday, and confine him till Monday, and then render him; tho' a Plaintiff may not arrest the Defendant on a Sunday. 1 Nelf. 258. If a wrong Person is arrested; or one for Felony, where no Felony is done, &c. it will be False Imprisonment, liable to Damages. Attornies, &c. for Vexation, maliciously causing any Person to be arrested, where there is no Cause of Suit, &c. shall suffer six Months Imprisonment, and before discharged pay treble Damages, and forfeit 10 l. Stat. 8 Eliz. c. 2. A Bailiff having a Writ to arrest A. B. comes up to another Person, and asks him if his Name be A. B. and he answers that it is, whereupon the Bailiff arrests him, it will be a False Arrest, for which Action lies. Lane 49. And if a Warrant be to take A. the Son of B. and the Bailiff makes an Arrest on the Son of D. who indeed is the right Person intended, but not the Party within his Warrant, it will be false Imprisonment. Ibid. The Bailiff's Fee for an Arrest, by an ancient Statute, is but Four Pence, and the Sheriff's Twenty Pence: And Bailiffs cannot legally take any Thing but what is allowed by this Statute, and other subsequent Acts. For taking Fees not warranted by Law, they shall render treble Damages to the Party grieved, and incur a Forfeiture of 40 l. Stat. 23 Hen. 6. cap. 10. No Bailiff, or other Officer, shall carry any Person under Arrest, to any Tavern, Alehouse, &c. without his Consent; so as to charge him with any Beer, Ale, Wine, &c. but what he shall freely call for: Nor shall demand or receive more from him for the Arrest or Waiting, than by Law ought to be, until an Appearance procured, Bail found, &c. Nor take or exact any more for keeping such Person out of Prison, than what he shall of his own voluntary Accord truly give; nor take more for Lodging than what is reasonable, or shall be adjudged so by the next Justice of Peace. Stat. 22 & 23 Car.

23 Car. 2. cap. 2. And by a late Act, Bailiffs, &c. are not to carry any Person arrested to a Tavern, Ale-house, &c. or the private House of such Officers, without the free and voluntary Consent of the Party; nor carry such Person to Prison within twenty-four Hours from the Time of the Arrest: or take any Reward for keeping him out of Gaol, &c. Stat. 2 Geo. 2. cap. 22. But if a Person arrested refuse to be carried to some convenient House of his own Nomination, &c. to be kept in safe Custody during the twenty-four Hours before carried to Prison, then the Sheriff's Officer, &c. may immediately convey him to Gaol, to prevent an Escape. 3 Geo. 2. c. 27. Peers of the Realm, Members of Parliament, &c. may not be arrested, unless it be in Criminal Cases; but the Process against them is to be Summons, Distress infinite, &c. 12 W. 3. c. 3. Also Corporations and Companies must be made to appear by Distringas, and cannot be arrested. Finch 353. 3 Salk. 46. Persons attending upon any Courts of Record, on Business there, are to be free from Arrests. 3 Inst. 141. A Clerk of the Court ought not to be arrested for any Thing which is not Criminal, because he is supposed to be always present in Court to answer the Plaintiff. 1 Lill. 94. Arrests are not to be made within the Liberty of the King's Palace: Nor may the King's Servants be arrested in any Place, without Notice first given to the Lord Chamberlain, that he remove them, or make them pay their Debts. Ambassadors Servants, &c. freed from Arrests; vide Ambassador. No Arrests are to be generally in Wales, the Counties Palatine, &c. by Writs issuing from Westminster Hall. If a Debt be under 10 l. on Process out of a superior Court, or 40 s. in an inferior Court, the Defendant shall not be arrested, but be served personally with a Copy of the Process; and if he do not appear at the Return thereof, the Plaintiff may enter an Appearance for him, and proceed, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 29. The Fee for making and serving the Copy of Process, taken by Attornies, Bailiffs, &c. shall be 5 s. out of the Superior Courts, and 1 s. the inferior Courts: And no special Writ shall be sued out, unless the Cause of Action be 10 l. or above, on Pain of 10 l. and the Proceedings thereon to be void, by Stat. 5 Geo. 2. c. 27. This Statute and the Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 29. are made perpetual by the Stat. 21 Geo. 2. c. 3. A Bill was lately brought into Parliament, for the more easy Recovery of small Debts in a summary Way, the Determination to be by the Judges of Assize, &c. without any Writ of Arrest, or Trial by Juries, in like Manner as on the English Bill for recovering Debts under 10 l. in Ireland; but there were many Petitions against this Bill, from Corporations for preserving their ancient Trials, and from Officers of Courts, &c. whereupon it stopp'd in the House of Lords, and did not then pass. Anno 3 Geo. 2.

Arrest of Judgment, To move in Arrest of Judgment, is to shew Cause why Judgment should be staid, notwithstanding Verdict given; for in many Cases, though there be a Verdict, no Judgment can be had. And the Causes of Arrest of Judgment, are Want of Notice of Trial; where the Plaintiff before Trial treats the Jury; the Record differs from the Deed pleaded; for material Defect in Pleading; where Persons are misnamed; more is given and found by the Verdict, than laid in the Declaration; or the Declaration doth not lay the Thing with Certainty, &c. And here all Matters of Fact are to be made out by proper Affidavits. Comp. Attorn. 329, &c. Judgment may be arrested for good Cause in Criminal Cases, as well as Civil; if the Indictment be insufficient, &c. 3 Inst. 210. Four Days are allowed to move in Arrest of Judgment; and the Defendant hath all the Term wherein the Verdict was given to speak any Thing to arrest it, if the Plaintiff hath not given his four Days Rule, and signed his Judgment; after which he is put to his Writ of Error. 12 Lill. 93. On Motion in Arrest of Judgment, if the Court be divided two Judges against two, the Plaintiff must have his Judgment; unless a Rule be made at first to stay all Proceedings, until the Court otherwise order, &c. 2 Lill. Abr. 118. See Jesuits and Judgment. Arrest of Enquest is to plead in Arrest of taking the Enquest, upon the former Issue, and to shew Cause why an Enquest should not be taken. Bro. Tit. Replead.

Arrestandis bonis ne dissipentur, A Writ which lies for a Man whose Cattle or Goods are taken by another, who during the Contest doth or is like to make them away, not being of Ability to render Satisfaction. Reg. Orig. 126.

Arrestando ipsum qui Pecuniam Receipt, &c. Is a Writ that lieth for apprehending a Person who hath taken the King's Preft-Money to serve in Wars, and hides himself when he should go. Reg. Orig. 24.

Arresto factio super bonis Mercatorum Alienigenorum, A Writ which lies for a Denizen against the Goods of Aliens found within this Kingdom, in Recompence of Goods taken from him in a Foreign Country, after Denial of Restitution. Reg. Orig. 129. This the ancient Civilians called Clarigatio; but by the Moderns it is term'd Reprisalia.

Arretted, Arrestatus, quasi, ad reatum vocatus, Is where a Man is conven'd before a Judge, and charged with a Crime. Staundf. Pl. Co. 45. And it is sometimes used for Imputed or laid unto; as no Folly may be arretted to one under Age. Littleton, cap. Remitter. Chaucer useth the Verb Arretted, that is, lays Blame, as it is interpreted. Bracton says, Ad reatum habere Malefactorem, i. e. To have the Malefactor forth-coming, so as he may be charged, and put to his Trial. Bract. lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 10. And in another Place, Reatus de morte hominis, charged with the Death of a Man. From hence it may with some Reason seem, that the Word is the same with Reatum.

Arrows. By an ancient Statute, all Heads for Arrows shall be well brazed, and hardened at the Point with Steel, on Pain of Forfeiture and Imprisonment: And to be marked with the Mark of the Maker. Stat. 7 H. 4. c. 7.

Arura, — In the black Book of Hereford, De operationibus Arruræ, signifies Days Works of Ploughing; for anciently Customary Tenants were bound to plough certain Days for their Lord. Una Arrura, one Day's Work at the Plough: And in Wiltshire, Earing is a Day's Ploughing. Paroch. Antiq. p. 401.

Arson, (from Ardeo to burn) Is House-burning, which is Felony at Common Law. 3 Inst. 66. It must be maliciously and voluntarily, and an actual Burning; not putting Fire only into a House, or any Part of it, without Burning. But if Part of the House is burnt; or if the Fire doth burn, and then goeth out of itself, it is Felony. 2 Inst. 188. H. P. C. 85. The Burning of a Frame of a House, is not accounted House-burning, because the Frame of a House cannot come under the Word Domus, which is necessary in every Indictment for Arson: And it must be the House of another; for if a Man burns his own House only, though with Intention to burn others, it is not Felony, but a great Misdemeanour, punishable with Fine, Pillory, &c. If a House is fired by Negligence or Mischance, it cannot amount to Arson. 3 Inst. 67. H. P. C. 85. Where one burns the House of another, if it be not wilful and malicious, 'tis no Felony, but only Trespass: Therefore if A. shoot unlawfully in a Gun, at the Cattle or Poultry of B. and by Means thereof sets another's House on Fire, this is not Arson; for though the Act he was doing was unlawful, yet he had no Intent to burn the House. 1 Hale's Hist. P. C. 569. By Stat. 23 H. 8. c. 11. Burning of Houses, or Barns wherein any Corn is, is Felony without Benefit of Clergy. And the Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 7. makes makes it Felony to set Barns, Stables, Stacks of Corn, Hay, &c. on Fire in the Night time, or any Out-houses, or Buildings: But the Offender may be transported for seven Years. By 6 Anne, c. 31. Servants through Negligence or Carelessness, setting on Fire any Dwelling house, or Out-house, shall forfeit 100 l. to be levied by Warrant of two Justices, and paid to the Churchwardens of the Parish, to be distributed to the Sufferers by the Fire; or on Default shall be sent to the House of Correction, and there kept to hard Labour eighteen Months, &c.

Form of an Indictment for Arson or House-burning.

THE Jurors, &c. upon their Oath present, that A. B. late of, &c. on the Day, &c. in the Year, &c. with Force and Arms, between the Hours, &c. came unto the House of C. D. of, &c. aforesaid, in the said County, Gentleman, (the said House being in the same County) and with a lighted Candle, which the said A. B. then and there held in his Hand, &c. of his Malice forethought, did feloniously set on Fire the said House, by which Means it was then and there intirely burnt down; and so the said A. B. on the said Day of, &c. in the same Year above-mentioned, at, &c. aforesaid, in the said County, voluntarily and of his forethought Malice, feloniously did set on Fire and burn down the House aforesaid, in the Manner and Form above-mentioned, against the Peace of our said Lord the King, &c.

Arser in le maine, Burning in the Hand, is the Punishment of Criminals that have the Benefit of Clergy. Terms de Ley.

Arura, The Trial of Money by Fire, after it was coined. In Domesday we read, Reddit. 50 l. ad Aruram, which is meant of lawful and approved Money, whose Alloy was tried by Fire.

Art and Part, Is a Term used in Scotland and the North of England; when one charged with a Crime, in committing the same was both a Contriver of, and acted his Part in it.

Arbel, A British Word, and more truly written Arddel, signifying to avouch; as if a Man were taken with stolen Goods in his Hands, he was to be allowed a lawful Arbel (or Vouchee) to clear him of the Felony: It was Part of the Law of Howel Dda; according to whose Laws every Tenant holding of any other than of the Prince or Lord of the Fee, paid a Fine pro defensione Regia, which was called Arian Arbel. The Privilege of Arbel occasioning a Delay and Exemption of Criminals from Justice, Provision was made against it by Statute 26 H. 8. c. 6.

Articuli Cleri, Articles of the Clergy, are Statutes containing certain Articles relating to the Church and Clergy, and Causes Ecclesiastical. 19 E. 2. and 14 E. 3.

Articulus, An Article, or Complaint, exhibited by Way of Libel, in a Court Christian. Sometimes the Religious bound themselves to obey the Ordinary, without such formal Process: As An. Dom. 1300. The Prior and Convent of Burcester submitted themselves to the Official of Lincoln, &c.—Quod passim eos et eorum Successores per omnem censuram Ecclesiasticam ad omnium & singulorum premissorum observationem absque Articulis, seu Libelli, petitione, & quacunq; strepitu judiciali compellerent. Paroch. Antiq. p. 344.

Artificers, Are taken for such as are Masters of their Arts, or whose Calling and Employment doth consist chiefly of bodily Labour. And if Artificers or Workmen conspire not to do any Work but at certain Prices, &c. they are liable to Penalties by the Statute 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 15. A Stranger Artificer in London, &c. shall not keep above two Strangers Servants; but he may have as many English Servants and Apprentices as he can get. Stat. 21 H. 8. Artificers in Wool, Iron, Steel, Brass or other Metal, &c.

Persons contracting with them to go out of this Kingdom into a Foreign Country, shall be fined not exceeding 100 l. and be imprisoned three Months: And English Artificers going abroad, not returning in six Months after Warning given by our Ambassadors, &c. shall be disabled to hold Lands by Descent or Devise, be incapable to take any Legacy, &c. and deem'd Aliens. Stat. 5 Geo. 1. c. 27.

Arundinetum, A Ground or Place where Reeds grow. 1 Inst. 4. And it is mentioned in the Book of Domesday.

Arvil-Supper, A Feast or Entertainment made at Funerals, in the North Part of England: Arvil-Bread is the Bread delivered to the Poor at Funeral Solemnities. Cowel. And Arvil, Arval, Arfal, are used for the Burial or Funeral Rites; as,

Come bring my Jerkin Tibb, I'll to the Arvil,
You Man's dea Seuy Seoun, it makes me Marvil.

Yorkshire Dial. p. 58.

Arcesterium, Archiesterium, Archiesterium, Archiesterium, Archiesterium, Archiesterium, Archiesterium) Is a Greek Word and signifies a Monastery. It often occurs in our old Histories. Du Cange.

Arsh, or Assath, Was a Custom of Purgation, used of old in Wales, by which the Party accused did clear himself by the Oaths of 300 Men. It is mentioned in ancient MSS. and prevailed till the Time of Hen. 5. when it was abrogated. 1 H. 5. c. 6.

Assart, (Assartum) Fr. Assartir, to make plain. Assartum est quod radactum est ad Culturam, Fleta, lib. 4. cap. 21. And the Word Assartum is by Spelman derived from Exertum, to pull up by the Roots, for sometimes 'tis wrote Essart. Others derive it from Exaratum, or Exartum, which signifies to plough or cut up. Manswood, in his Forest Laws, says it is an Offence committed in the Forest, by pulling up the Woods by the Roots, that are Thickets and Coverts for the Deer, and making the Ground plain as arable Land: This is esteemed the greatest Trespass that can be done in the Forest to Vert or Venison, as it contains in it Waste and more; for whereas Waste of the Forest is but the Felling down the Coverts which may grow up again, Assart is a Plucking them up by the Roots, and utterly Destroying them, so that they can never afterwards spring up again. And this is confirmed out of the Red Book in the Exchequer, in these Words.—Assarta vero dicuntur que apud Hydorum occisiones nuncupantur, quando Foreste nemora vel Dumeta, pascuis & latibulis ferarum opportuna, succidantur: Quibus succis & radicibus avulsis, terra subvertitur & excolitur.—But this is no Offence if done with Licence; and a Man may by Writ of Ad quod dampnum sue out a Licence to assart Ground in the Forest, and make it several for Tillage. Reg. Orig. 257. Hence Lands are called assarted: And formerly Assart Rents were paid to the Crown for Forest Lands assarted. Stat. 22 Car. 2. c. 6. Assartments seem to be used in the same Sense in Rot. Parl. Of Assart you may read more in Crompt. Juris. p. 203. And Charia de Foresta, Anno 9 H. 3. c. 4. Manswood, part 1. p. 171.

Assault, (Assultus) From the Fr. Verb Assalter, Signifies a violent Injury offered to a Man's Person, of a more extensive Nature than Battery; for it may be committed by offering a Blow, or by a terrifying Speech. Lamb. Eiren. lib. 1. cap. 3. The Feudists define Assault thus: Assultus est impetus in Personam aut locum, sive hoc pedibus fiat, vel equo, aut machinis aut quacunq; alia re assiliatur. Zafus de Feud. pag. 10. num. 38. And Assilire est vim adferre. Lib. Feud. 1. tit. 5. Sect. 1. Also the Lat. Assultus is used in this Sense in the Laws of Edw. Confess. cap. 12. To strike a Man, though he be not hurt with the Blow, is an Assault: And to strike at a Person, notwithstanding standing he be neither hit nor hurt, hath been so adjudged. 22 Lib. Ass. pl. 60. For Assault doth not always necessarily imply a Hitting, or Blow; because in Trespas for Assault and Battery, a Man may be found Guilty of the Assault, and excused of the Battery. 25 Ed. 3. c. 24. If a Person in Anger lift up or stretch forth his Arm, and offer to strike another; or menace any one with any Staff or Weapon, it is Trespas and Assault in Law: And if a Man threaten to beat another Person, or lie in Wait to do it, if the other is hindered in his Business, and receives Loss thereby, Action lies for the Injury. Lamb. lib. 1. 22 Ass. pl. 60. Where a Man assaults any Person, beats, or doth him any Manner of Violence, either with Hand, Foot, or Weapon; or throws any Thing at him, Drink in his Face, &c. whereby he is hurt; it is such an Assault for which Action may be brought, and Damages recovered. Comp. Astora. 133. But to lay Hands gently upon another, not in Anger, is no Foundation of an Action of Trespas and Assault: The Defendant may justify Molliter manus imposuit. And a Man may justify an Assault in Defence of his Person, or Goods; or of his Wife, Father, Mother, or Master; or for the Maintenance of Justice. Brañ. 9 E. 4. 35 Hen. 6. c. 51. Also in Cases of Assault, for the Assault of the Wife, Child, or Servant, the Husband, Father, and Master, may have Action of Trespas. Where a Man is assaulted, and he hath no Witnesses to prove the same, or in other Cases, the Party assaulted may bring an Information in the Crown-Office; and not have common Action of Trespas. Vide Stat. 4. & 5 W. & M. c. 18. which requires Recognizances to be taken to prosecute with Effect, &c. When any Assault is made on a Member of Parliament, Proclamation shall be made, that the Party offending surrender himself into B. R. &c. 11 H. 6. If any Person assault a Privy Counsellor, in the Execution of his Office, it is Felony. Stat. 9 Ann. c. 16. Assaulting Persons in a forcible Manner, with Intent to commit Robbery, is made Felony and Transportation, by Stat. 7 Geo. 2. c. 21. And Assaulting or Threatning a Counsellor at Law, or Attorney employed in a Cause against a Man; or a Juror giving Verdict against him; his Adversary for suing him, &c. is punishable on an Indictment, by Fine and Imprisonment, for the Contempt. 11 Hawk. 58.

An Indictment for an Assault.

Wilts, ff. THE Jurors, &c. present, that C. D. of the Parish of, &c. in the said County, Blacksmith, on the Day, &c. in the Seventh Year of the Reign, &c. at the Parish aforesaid in the said County, with Force and Arms, made an Assault in and upon A. B. then and there being in the Peace of God, and of our said Sovereign Lord the King; and then and there beat, wounded, and evilly treated the said A. B. so that his Life was despaired of, and other Injuries then and there did to him, to the great Damage of him the said A. B. and against the Peace of our said Lord the now King, his Crown and Dignity.

Asscurare, (Asscurare) To make secure by Pledges, or any solemn Interposition of Faith. In the Charter of Peace between Hen. 2. and his Sons, this Word is mentioned. Hoveden, Anno 1174.

Assembly unlawful, From the Fr. Assembler, i. e. Aggregare, to flock together. It is the Meeting of Three or more Persons to do an unlawful Act, altho' they do it not: As to Assault, or beat any Person; enter into Houses, or Lands, &c. West. Symb. Part 2. Sect. 65. Their Meeting and Abiding together makes the Crime, where they do not execute their Intentions: If the Intention be to redress publick Grievances, and be executed, it is adjudged Treason. 3 Inst. 9. In the Reign of K. Ed. 6. a Law was made declaring it Treason for twelve Persons, or more, to assemble together to attempt to kill any of the King's Council, or to alter the Laws, &c. And that it should be Felony to attempt to destroy Parks, pull down Houses, Inclosures, &c. if they continued together an Hour after Proclamation made by a Justice of Peace, Mayor, or Sheriff: But this Law was soon repealed. Though it seems to have given Rise to the late Riot Act; which ordains, that where twelve Persons, or more, unlawfully assembled, continue together an Hour after Proclamation to depart, they shall be guilty of Felony. Stat. 1 Geo. 1. c. 6. See Rebellious Assembly and Riot.

Assent, or Consent. To a Legacy of Goods, the Assent of the Executor is necessary, before the Legatee may take the same; but to a Devise of Lands that are Freehold, it is not required. Co. Litt. 111. The Assent of an Executor to a Devise of a Legacy, or of any personal Thing, is so necessary, that if the Legatee or Devisee take the Thing without the Delivery and Assent of the Executor, he may have an Action of Trespas against them. Keilw. 128. 1 Nels. Abr. 260. The Common Law takes Notice of the Assent of the Executor to the Legacy, and doth give him Time to consider of the Value of the Goods, and State of the Debts of the Testator, that he may pay a Legacy with Safety; the Executor being to pay Debts before Legacies. Perk. 570. No Property can be transferred to the Legatee without the Assent of the Executor: But if the Executor doth once assent to the Legacy, the Legatee hath such a Property vested in him that he may take it, though the Executor revokes his Assent afterwards. And there may be an Assent implied, as well as express; as if the Executor offers the Legatee Money for what is bequeath'd him; or directs others to the Legatee to buy it, &c. Plowd. 543. 4 Rep. 28. When there are many Executors, the Assent of one to a Legacy is sufficient: And one Executor may take a Legacy without the Assent of his Co-Executors. Perk. 572. Assent may be before or after Probate of the Will. An Infant Executor, at the Age of seven Years, may assent to a Legacy: But it has been doubted, whether an Administrator durante minori Etate can assent. Cro. Eliz. 719. A Husband is to give give Affent where his Wife is Executrix. A Court of Equity, or the Spiritual Court, may compel an Executor to assent to a Legacy. March 97. There are Affessments of Parish-Duties, for raising Money for the Poor, Repairing of Highways, &c. made and levied by Rate on the Inhabitants; as well as Affessments of Publick Taxes, &c. See Affessors.

Affets, (Fr. Affex, i. e. Satis) Signifies Goods enough to discharge that Burden which is cast upon the Executor or Heir, in satisfying the Debts and Legacies of the Testator or Ancestor. Bro. Tit. Affets. Affets are Real, or Personal; where a Man hath Lands in Fee simple, and dies seised thereof, the Lands which come to his Heir, are Affets Real: And where he dies possessed of any Personal Estate, the Goods which come to the Executors, are Affets Personal: Affets are also divided into Affets per Descent, and Affets inter maines; Affets by Descent is where a Person is bound in an Obligation, and dies seised of Lands which descend to the Heir, the Land shall be Affets, and the Heir shall be charged as far as the Land to him descended will extend: Affets inter maines is when a Man indebted made Executors, and leaves them sufficient to pay his Debts and Legacies; or where some Commodity or Profit ariseth to them in Right of the Testator, which are called Affets in their Hands. Terms de Ley 56, 77. By the Common Law, if an Heir had sold or aliened the Lands which were Affets, before the Obligation of his Ancestor was put in Suit, he was to be discharged, and the Debt was lost: But by Statute, the Heir is made liable to the Value of the Land by him sold, in Action of Debt brought against him by the Obligee, who shall recover to the Value of the said Land, as if the Debt was the proper Debt of the Heir; but the Land which is sold or aliened bona fide before the Action brought, shall not be liable to Execution upon a Judgment recovered against the Heir in any such Action. Stat. 3 & 4 W. & M. cap. 14. Where a Man binds himself and his Heirs in a Bond; and dies, leaving Issue two Sons, if the eldest Son enters on the Lands by Descent as Heir to the Father, and die without Issue; and then the youngest Son enters, he shall be charged with Affets as Heir to his Father. Dyer 368. Lands which come to the Heir by Purchase, shall not be Affets; for 'tis only Lands by Descent that are Affets. 1 Danv. Abr. 577. A Reversion in Fee depending upon an Estate-tail, is not Affets; because it lies in the Will of the Tenant in Tail to dock and bar it by Fine, &c. 6 Rep. 56. But after the Tail is spent, it is Affets. 3 Mod. 257. And a Reversion on an Estate for Life or Years shall be Affets. A Reversion expectant upon the Determination of an Estate for Life is Affets, and ought to be pleaded especially by the Heir; and the Plaintiff in such Case may take Judgment of it cum acciderit. Dyer 371. Carthew's Rep. 129. An Advowson is Affets; but not a Presentation to a Church actually void, which may not be sold. Co. Litt. 374. Lands of Cestuy que Trust shall be Affets by Descent. Stat. 29 Car. 2. And Lands by Descent in Ancient Demesne, will be Affets in Debt. But a Copyhold Estate descending to an Heir, is not Affets: Nor is any Right to an Estate Affets, without Possession, &c. till recovered and reduced into Possession. Danv. 577. Leases are Affets to pay Debts, notwithstanding the Assent of the Executor to the Devise of them. 1 Lill. Abr. 99. Where an Executor of Lessee for Years receives the Profits of the Land, they are appropriated to the Use of the Lessor; but what is over and above the Rent shall be Affets. 1 Salk. 79. If an Executor surrenders a Term of Years which he had as Executor, to him in Reversion; or if he purchases the Reversion, 'tis not extinct as to him, but shall still remain Affets in the Executor to satisfy Debts and Legacies. 1 Rep. 87. Equity of Redemption of an Estate mortgaged, and a Term for Years to attend the Inheritance are Affets. 3 Leon. 32. Money decreed in a Court of Equity by Reason of Executorship, or arising by Sale of Lands by Executors; and Damages recovered by Executors; also Interest of the Testator's Money lent by Executors, shall be Affets. 2 Chan. Rep. 152. Those Goods and Chattels which belonged to the Testator at his Death, and which do come to the Hands of the Executor are Affets, to make the Executor chargeable to Creditors, &c. 6 Rep. 47. But such Things as are not valuable, shall not be Affets: And Debts, &c. when recovered by the Executor after the Death of the Testator, shall be accounted Affets; and not before recovered, for the Executor shall not be charged for a Debt, if he cannot recover it. Wood's Inst. 323. A Release of a certain Debt due to the Testator, makes it Affets in the Executor's Hands; because it shall be intended he would not have made the Release, unless the Money had been paid to him. 1 Nelf. Abr. 262. Affets in the Hands of one Executor, is Affets in the Hands of others; and if an Executor hath Goods of the Testator in any Part of the World, he shall be charged in Respect of them. 6 Rep. 47. In Actions against Executors, the Jury must find Affets of what Value; for the Plaintiff shall recover only according to the Value of the Affets found. 1 Roll. Rep. 58. An Heir may plead Riens per Descent, but the Plaintiff may reply that he had Lands from his Ancestor; and special Matter may be given in Evidence, &c. Co. Litt. 5 Rep. 60. A special Judgment against Affets only, shall have Relation to and bind the Lands from the Time of the filing the original Writ or Bill. Carth. Rep. 245.

Affewiare, To draw or drain Water from Marsh Grounds.—Quod ipsi Mariscum prædictum affewiare, & secundum Legem Marisci, Wallis includere & in culturam redigere.—Et Mariscum illum sic affewiatum, inclusum & in culturam redactum tenere. Mon. Ang. 2 Vol. f. 334.

Affidere, or Affidare, To tax equally. Provisum est generaliter quod præd. quadragesima hoc modo affideatur & colligatur. Mat. Paris. Anno 1232. Sometimes it hath been used to assign an Annual Rent, to be paid out of a particular Farm, &c. As, Manerium Rex Stephanus dedit & affedit eis pro centum Marcis.

Assign, (Assignare) Hath two Significations; one General, as to set over a Right to another, or appoint a Deputy, &c. And the other Special, to set forth or point at, as we say to assign Error, assign false Judgment, Waste, &c. And in assigning of Error, it must be shewed where the Error is committed; in false Judgment, wherein the Judgment is unjust; in Waste, wherein especially the Waste is done. F. N. B. 19, 112. Reg. Orig. 72. Also Justices are said to be assigned to take Affises. Stat. 11 H. 6. cap. 2.

Assignee, (Assignatus) Is he that is deputed or appointed by another to do any Act, perform any Business, or enjoy any Commodity. And Assignees may be by Deed, or in Law: Assignee by Deed is when a Lessee of a Term, &c. sells and assigns the same to another, that other is his Assignee by Deed: Assignee in Law, is he whom the Law so makes, without any Appointment of the Person; as an Executor is Assignee in Law to the Testator. Dyer 6. But if there be Assignee in Deed, Assignee in Law is not allowed: If one covenant to do a Thing to J. S. or his Assigns by a Day, and before that Day he dies; if before the Day he name any Assignee, the Thing must be done to his Assignee named: Otherwise to his Executor or Administrator, nistrator, who is Assignee in Law. 27 H. 8. 2. A. leased Lands to B. for nine Years, the Remainder after his Death to the Executors or Assigns of the said B. for forty Years, then B. dies intestate, and his Wife administers to him; in this Case the Administrators are not Assignees. Owen 125. He is called Assignee, who hath the whole Estate of the Assignor: And an Assignee, though not named in a Condition, may pay the Money to save the Land; but he shall not receive any Money, unless he be named. 1 Inst. 215. Assignees may take Advantage of Forfeitures on Conditions, when they are incident to the Reversion, as for Rent, &c. 1 And. 82. And regularly every Assignee of the Land may take Advantage of inherent Covenants; also Assignees are bound by such Covenants, as a Covenant to repair, &c. But if it concerns a Thing not in Being at the Time of the Demise, as to make a new Edifice, &c. the Assignee is not bound, except he be named in exprefs Words; nor is he when named, if the Thing to be done does not concern the Thing demised, but is collateral to it; or in Contracts merely Personal. 1 Cro. 552. 1 Roll. Abr. 915. Plowd. 284. An Assignee is he that possesses or enjoys a Thing in his own Right; and Deputy is he that does it in the Right of another. Perkins.

Assignment, (Assignatio) Is the Setting over or Transferring the Interest a Man hath in any Thing to another. And Assignments may be made of Lands in Fee, for Life, or Years; of an Annuity, Rent-Charge, Judgment, Statute, &c. but as to Lands they are usually of Leases and Estates for Years, &c. And no Estate of Freehold, or Term for Years, shall be assigned but by Deed in Writing signed by the Parties; except by Operation of Law. Stat. 29 Car. 2. c. 3. A Possibility, Right of Entry, Title for Condition broken, a Trust, or Thing in Action, cannot be granted or assigned over. 1 Inst. 214. A Lessee out of Possession cannot make any Assignment of his Term off from the Land; but must first enter, and recontinue his Possession; or seal and deliver the Deed upon the Land, which puts the Assignee into actual Possession. Dalif. 81. If Lessee for Years assigns all his Term in his Lease to another, he cannot reserve a Rent in the Assignment; for he hath no Interest in the Thing by Reason of which the Rent reserved should be paid; and where there is no Reversion there can be no Distress: But Debt may lie upon it, as on a Contract. 1 Lill. Abr. 99. Lessee for Term of Years assigns over his Term and dies, his Executors shall not be charged for Rent due after his Decease. Noy's Max. 71. Where the Executor of a Lessee assigns the Term, Debt will not lie against him for Rent incurred after the Assignment; because there is neither Privity of Contract, nor Estate between the Lessor and Executor: But if the Lessee himself assigns his Lease, the Privity of Contract remains between him and the Lessor, although the Privity of Estate is gone by the Assignment, and he shall be chargeable during his Life; but after his Death, the Privity of Contract is likewise determined. 3 Rep. 14. 1 Nels. Abr. 271. Although a Lessee make an Assignment over of his Term, yet Debt lies against him by the Lessor or his Heir, (not having accepted Rent from the Assignee;) But where a Lessee assigns his Term, and the Lessor his Reversion, the Privity is determined, and Debt doth not lie for the Reversioner against the first Lessee. Moor, cap. 472. And as the Rent issues out of the Land, the Assignee generally who has the Land, and is privy in Estate, is Debtor in Respect thereof. 3 Rep. 32. If an Assignment is made by an Assignee, the first Assignee is not suable for the Rent; for if he be accepted by the Lessor, the Admission of one Assignee is the Admission of Twenty. Comp. Attorn. 491. Assignment by an Assignee discharges him, because he was only chargeable as having the Land; and there is no Occasion for giving Notice to the Lessor of his Assignment over. Comberb. 192.

In Case of Action of Debt for Rent by the Assignee of a Reversion, the Defendant a Lessee may plead that, before any Rent became due, he assigned the Term to another; but he must set forth in his Plea that he gave Notice to the Plaintiff of the Assignment made. Raym. 163. A Man made a Lease, provided that the Lessee or his Assigns, should not alien the Premises without Licence of the Lessor, &c. who after gave Licence to the Lessee to alien; by this the Lessee or his Assigns may alien in infinitum. 4 Rep. 119. The Lessor demised Land, and covenanted with the Lessee, his Executors and Assigns, that if he were disturb'd or forced to pay any Charge, &c. he should retain so much of the Rent; afterwards the Lessee made an Assignment of his Term: And it was held, that his Assignee might have Remedy upon the Covenant by Way of Retainer against the Assignee of the Reversion. Plowd. 72. If the Remainder of a Term of Years be assigned to another, the Assignee shall have the Benefit of a Lessee; and of Re-entry upon a Lease made by the Grantor for fewer Years, &c. by the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 34. And the Assignee of a Reversion of a Term, shall take Advantage of a Covenant against the Lessee of a shorter Term; as where Lessee for twenty Years, makes a Lease for four Years. Moor, ca. 694, 695. The Word Heir, is sufficient to make an Assignee; and the Grantee of a common Person is Assignee to have Benefit of a Covenant, Grant, &c. Plowd. 173. A Lease was made for Years of Lands, excepting the Woods; the Lessor grants the Trees to the Lessee, and he assigns the Land over to another: The Trees do not pass by this Assignment to the Assignee. Goldsb. 188. Lessee for Years rendering Rent, covenants to build a House on the Land in ten Years; within which Time he assigns his Term, Action lies on the Covenant against the Assignee. Godb. 60. But where a Lessee covenanted for himself and his Assigns to rebuild a House before such a Time, which he did not do, but after the Time expired he assigned the Term; adjudged that this Covenant will not bind the Assignee, because it was broken before the Assignment. 1 Salk. 199. Where Tenant for Years assigns his Estate, no Consideration is necessary; for the Tenure being subject to Payment of Rent, &c. is sufficient to vest an Estate in the Assignee: In other Cases some Consideration must be paid. 1 Mod. 263. The Words required in Assignments, are grant, assign, and set over; which may amount to a Grant, Feoffment, Lease, Release, Confirmation, &c. 1 Inst. 301. In these Deeds, the Assignor is to covenant to save harmless from former Grants, &c. That he is Owner of the Land, and hath Power to assign; that the Assignee shall quietly enjoy, and to make further Assurance; and the Assignee may covenant to pay the Rent, and perform the Covenants, &c. Bonds, &c. are assigned by Power of Attorney to receive and sue in the Assignor's Name: But Bills of Exchange are assignable by Indorsement, and the Assignees may recover in their own Names by Stat. 3 & 4 Ann. c. 9.

An Assignment of Chambers in an Inn of Court.

THIS Indenture made the Day, &c. in the Year of our Lord, &c. Between A. B. of, &c. Esq; of the one Part, and C. D. of, &c. Gent. of the other Part: Whereas in and by a certain Writing made and dated, &c. at Lincoln's Inn, the Benchers of the said Inn did order that the said A. B. should have a Lease of All that Chamber up one Pair of Stairs, Number, &c. belonging to Lincoln's Inn aforesaid, for the Term of Twenty-one Years, to commence at, &c. under the yearly Rent of, &c. as by the said recited Writing or Order may more fully appear. And whereas in Pursuance of the said Order, a Lease of the said Chamber hath been since made and granted to the said A. B. for the said Term of Twenty-

Twenty-one Years, &c. Now this Indenture witnesseth, That the said A. B. for and in Consideration of the Sum of Two hundred Pounds of lawful Money of Great Britain, to him in Hand paid by the said C. D. at and before the Sealing and Delivery hereof, the Receipt whereof he doth hereby acknowledge, Hath granted, bargained, sold, assigned and set over; and by these Presents doth grant, bargain, sell, assign and set over unto the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, All that the Chamber aforesaid with the Appurtenances, and all the Estate, Right, Title, Interest, Property, Claim and Demand whatsoever of him the said A. B. of, in and to the same, or any Part thereof: To have and to hold the said Chamber, with the Appurtenances, to the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, from henceforth, for and during all the Rest and Residue of the said Term of Twenty-one Years, therein to come and unexpired. And the said A. B. doth by these Presents, for himself, his Executors and Administrators, covenant and grant to and with the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, in Manner following; (that is to say) that he the said A. B. hath good Right, full Power and lawful Authority, to grant and assign the said Chamber and Premises above mentioned, in Manner and Form aforesaid: And that the same is free and clear of all former Grants, Assignments, Incumbrances, Arrears of Rent, and all other Duties payable to the said Society of Lincoln's Inn, or any the Officers or Ministers thereof, or otherwise howsoever: And also that he the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, shall and lawfully may at all Times hereafter, during the Rest and Residue now to come and unexpired of the said Term of Twenty-one Years; peaceably and quietly have, hold, occupy, possess and enjoy the said Chamber and Premises above mentioned, and hereby granted and assigned, without any Let, Suit, Trouble, Eviction, Ejection, Claim or Demand, of or by the said A. B. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, or any other Person or Persons whatsoever: And further, that he the said A. B. his Executors and Administrators shall and will from Time to Time, and at all Times hereafter, upon the reasonable Request, and at the Costs and Charges of the said C. D. make, do, and execute, or cause to be made, done and executed, all and every such further Acts and Assurances, for the better Assigning and Assuring of the said Chamber and Premises to the said C. D. as by him the said C. D. or his Counsel learned in the Law, shall be reasonably devised, advised or required. In Witness whereof the Parties above named have hereunto put their Hands and Seals, the Day and Year above written.

Form of an Assignment of a Bond.

TO all People to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting: Whereas A. B. of, &c. in and by one Bond or Obligation, bearing Date, &c. became bound to C. D. of, &c. in the penal Sum of, &c. conditioned for the Payment of, &c. and Interest at a Day long since past, as by the said Bond and Condition thereof may appear: And whereas there now remains due to the said C. D. for Principal and Interest on the said Bond, the Sum of, &c. Now know ye, That the said C. D. for and in Consideration of the said Sum of, &c. of lawful British Money to him in Hand paid by E. F. of, &c. the Receipt whereof the said C. D. doth hereby acknowledge; he the said C. D. hath assigned and set over, and by these Presents doth assign and set over unto the said E. F. the said recited Bond or Obligation, and the Money thereupon due and owing, and all his Right and Interest of, in and to the same. And the said C. D. for the Consideration aforesaid, Hath made, constituted and appointed; and by these Presents doth make, constitute and appoint the said E. F. his Executors and Administrators, his true and lawful Attorney and Attornies irrevocable, for him and in his Name, and in the Name and Names of his Executors and Administrators, but for the sole and proper Use and Benefit of the said E. F. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, to ask, require, demand and receive of the said A. B. his Heirs, Executors and Administrators, the Money due on the said Bond; and on Non-payment thereof, he the said A. B. his Heirs, Executors and Administrators, to sue for, and recover the same; and on Payment thereof to deliver up and cancel the said Bond, and give sufficient Releases and Discharges therefore, and one or more Attorney or Attornies under him to constitute; and whatsoever the said E. F. or his Attorney or Attornies, shall lawfully do in the Premises, the said C. D. doth hereby allow and affirm. And the said C. D. doth covenant with the said E. F. that he the said C. D. hath not received, nor will receive the said Money due on the said Bond, or any Part thereof; neither shall or will release or discharge the same, or any Part thereof; but will own and allow of all lawful Proceedings for Recovery thereof; he the said E. F. saving the said C. D. harmless, of and from any Costs that may happen to him thereby. In Witness, &c.

Amulare. To put Highways together: 'Tis mentioned in Leg. Hen. 1. c. 8.

Acta Cadere. This Word signifies to be non-suited; as when there is such a plain and legal Insufficiency in a Suit, that the Complainant can proceed no further on it. Fleta, lib. cap. 15. Brañon, lib. 2. cap. 7.

Acta cadit in Juratam, Is where a Thing in Controversy is so doubtful, that it must necessarily be tried by a Jury. Fleta, lib. 4. c. 15.

Acta continuanda. A Writ directed to the Justices of Assise for the Continuation of a Cause, when certain Records alleged cannot be produced in Time by the Party that has Occasion to use them. Reg. Orig. 217.

Acta Proroganda, Is a Writ directed to the Justices assigned to take Assises, for the Stay of Proceedings, by Reason of the Party's being employed in the King's Business. Reg. Orig. 208.

Assise, (Fr. Assis) According to our ancient Books is defined to be an Assembly of Knights, and other substantial Men, with the Justice, in a certain Place, and at a certain Time appointed. Custum. Normand. cap. 24. This Word is properly derived from the Latin Verb Assido, to sit together; and is also taken for the Court, Place or Time, when and where the Writs and Processes of Assise are handled or taken. And in this Signification Assise is General; as when the Justices go their several Circuits with Commission to take all Assises: Or Special where a special Commission is granted to certain Persons, (formerly oftentimes done) for taking an Assise upon one or two Defendants only. Brañ. lib. 3. Concerning the General Assise, all the Counties of England are divided into six Circuits, and two Judges are assigned by the King's Commission to every Circuit, who hold their Assises twice a Year in every County, (except Middlesex, where the King's Courts of Records do sit, and where his Courts for his Counties Palatines are held) and have five several Commissions. 1. Of Oyer and Terminer, directed to them and many other Gentlemen of the County, by which they are empowered to try Treasons, Felonies, &c. and this is the largest Commission they have. 2. Of Gaol Delivery, directed to the Judges and the Clerk of Assise Associate, which gives them Power to try every Prisoner in the Gaol committed for any Offence whatsoever, but none but Prisoners in the Gaol; so that one Way or other they rid the Gaol of all the Prisoners in it. 3. Of Assise, directed to themselves only and the Clerk of Assise, to take Assises, and do Right upon Writs of Assise brought before them by such as are wrongfully thrust out of their Lands and Possessions: Which Writs were heretofore frequent, but now Men's Possessions are sooner recovered by Ejectments.

ments, &c. 4. Of Nisi prius, directed to the Judges and Clerk of Affise, by which Civil Causes grown to Issue in the Courts above, are try'd in the Vacation by a Jury of twelve Men of the County where the Cause of Action arises; and on Return of the Verdict of the Jury to the Court above, the Judges there give Judgment. 5. A Commission of the Peace, in every County of the Circuits; and all Justices of the Peace of the County are bound to be present at the Affises; and Sheriffs are also to give their Attendance on the Judges, or they shall be fined. Bacon's Elem. 15, 16, &c. There is a Commission of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer and Gaol-Delivery of Newgate, held several Times in a Year, for the City of London and County of Middlesex, at Justice Hall in the Old-Baily, where the Lord Mayor is the Chief Judge. In Wales there are but two Circuits, North and South Wales; for each of which the King appoints two Persons learned in the Laws to be Judges. Stat. 18 Eliz. c. 8. If Justices sit by Force of a Commission, and do not adjourn the Commission, it is determined. 4 Insp. 265. The Constitution of the Justices of Affise, was begun by Hen. 2. though somewhat different from what they now are: And by Magna Charta Justices shall be sent through every County once a Year, who with the Knights of the respective Shires, shall take Affises of Novel Disseisin, &c. in their proper Shires, and what cannot be determined there, shall be ended by them in some other Place in their Circuit; and if it be too difficult for them, it shall be referred to the Justices of the Bench, there to be ended. 9 Hen. 3. cap. 12. Justices of Affise, &c. are to hold their Sessions in the chief Towns of the County; and their Records to be sent into the Exchequer. 6 R. 2. 9 Ed. 3. By the Stat. 21 Geo. 2. c. 12. the Summer Affises in Buckinghamshire shall be held at the Town of Buckingham. Affise is likewise used for a Jury, where Affises of Novel Disseisin are tried: The Panels of Affises shall be arrayed, and a Copy indented delivered by the Sheriff, &c. to the Plaintiffs and Defendants six Days before the Sessions, &c. if demanded, on Pain of 40 l. by Stat. 6 H. 6. cap. 2. And Affise is taken for a Writ for Recovery of Possession of Things immovable, whereof any one and his Ancestors have been disseised. Likewise in another Sense, it signifies an Ordinance or Statute. Reg. Orig. 279. The Writs of Affise are the four Sorts following.

Writ of Novel Disseisin, (Affisa Nova Disseisina)
Lies where Tenant in Fee-simple, Fee-tail, or for Term of Life, is put out and disseised of his Lands, or Tenements, Rents, Common of Pasture, Common Way, or of an Office, Toll, &c. Glanv. lib. 10. Reg. Orig. 197. Affise must be of an actual Freehold in Lands, &c. and not a Freehold in Law: It lieth of Common of Pasture, where the Commoner hath a Freehold in it, and the Lord or other Persons feed it so hard, that all the Grass is eat up; but then the Plaintiff must count and set forth how long the Land was fed, and alledge per quod Proficuum suum ibidem amisit, &c. 9 Rep. 113. One may have an Affise of Land and Rent, or of several Rents, and Offices and Profits in his Soil, all in one Writ: And if it be of a Rent-Charge, or Rent-Seck, it shall be general de libero Tenemento in such a Place, and all the Lands and Tenants of the Tenements charged ought to be named in the Writ; but in Affise for Rent-Service it is otherwise. Dyer 31. An Affise may be brought for an Office held for Life; but then it must be an Office of Profit, not of Charge only: Of the Toll of a Mill, or Market, Affise lieth; though it may not be brought of Suit to a Mill. 8 Rep. 46, 47. By Magna Charta, 9 Hen. 3. cap. 12. Affises of Novel Disseisin, &c. shall be taken in the proper Counties, by the King's Justices: And for Estovers of Wood, Profit taken in Woods, Corn to be received yearly in a certain Place; and for Toll, Tonnage, &c. and of Offices in Fee, an Affise shall be;

also for Common of Turbary, and of Fishing, appendant to Freehold, &c. And in this Suit, if the Defendant fail to make good the Exception which he pleads, he shall be adjudged a Disseisor, without taking the Affise; and shall pay the Plaintiff double Damages, and be imprisoned a Year. Stat. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 25. If in an Affise no Tenant of the Freehold be mentioned, the Defendant may plead it; and where one Defendant pleads, no Tenant of the Freehold named in the Writ, if this is found, the Writ shall abate quoad all. Dyer 207. On such a Plea of the Defendant, the Plaintiff says that he hath made a Feoffment to Persons unknown, and he himself hath continually taken the Profits; if then they are at Issue upon the Taking of the Profits, and it be found against the Defendant, it shall not be inquired of the Points of the Affise, for the Disseisin is acknowledged. 1 Darv. Abr. 584. And if the Deed of the Ancestor of the Plaintiff be pleaded in Bar, and this is denied, and found for the Plaintiff; the Affise shall not inquire of the Points of the Writ, but only of the Damages. Ibid. 585. In Affise the Tenant pleads in Bar, and the Plaintiff makes Title, but the Tenant doth neither answer nor traverse the Title; in this Case the Affise shall be awarded at large. Cro. Eliz. 559. And if any other Title is found for the Plaintiff, he shall recover. Bro. Aff. 281. A Tenant pleads in Abatement in an Affise, he must at the same Time plead over in Bar; and no Imparance shall be allowed, without good Cause: And where there are several Defendants, and any of them do not appear the first Day, the Affise shall be taken against them by Default. Pajcb. 5 W. 9. If Affise be brought against a Lessee, he may not plead Affisa non; for that is the Form of the Plea in Bar for Tenant of the Freehold: He ought to plead the special Matter, viz. his Lease, the Reversion in the Plaintiff, and that he is possessed, and so in without Wrong. Jenk. Cent. 142. An Affise is to be first arraigned, and the Plaintiff's Counsel prays the Court that the Defendant may be called; whereupon he is called; and if the Defendant appears, then his Counsel demand Oyer of the Writ of Affise, and the Return of it; which is granted; and then he prays Leave to imparl to a short Time after, and the Jury is adjourn'd to that Day: At the Day given by the Court, the Defendant is again called, and upon his Appearance, he pleads to the Affise; and upon this an Issue is joined between the Parties, and the Jurors are sworn to try the Issue, the Counsel proceeding to give them their Evidence: After the Trial the Court gives Judgment, and the Plaintiff recovering is to have Writ of Seisin, &c. 1 Lill. Abr. 105, 106. The Trial on Affise is Festinum Remedium; and in this Action, the Land, Damages and Costs are recovered. The Jurors that are to try the Affise, are called Recognitors of the Affise; and they are to view the Thing in Demand: By Writ of Affise, the Sheriff is commanded, Quod faciat duodecim liberos & legales homines de vicineto, &c. Videre tenementum illud, & nomina eorum imbrevari, & quod summoneat eos per bonas summonitiones, quod sint coram Justiciariis, &c. parati inde facere recognitionem, &c. In an Affise, the Plaintiff must prove his Title, then his Seisin and Disseisin: But Seisin of Part of a Rent, is sufficient to have Affise of the whole; and if a Man who hath Title to enter, set his Foot upon the Land and is ousted, that is a sufficient Seisin. Comp. Attorn. 267. Seisin of an Office may be alledged by taking Money for the Business done, and the Place where the Officer sat be put in View. Dyer 114. In Affise, the Defendant shall not esoin, nor cast a Protection, or pray in Aid of any but the King, vouch any Stranger, or Party to the Writ, unless he enter presently into the Warrant. 8 Rep. 50. The Plaintiff need not be so certain in Affise as in other Writs; the Judgment being to recover per Visum Recognitorum; and if the Plaintiff be but so certain as the Recognitors may put the Demand-

ant into Possession, it is sufficient. Dyer 84. The Demandant in an Affise may abridge his Plaint at any Time after the Jury are charged, before Verdict. 1 Daru. 580. For Proceedings in Writ of Affise of Novel Disseisin; see Plowd. 411, 412. If Lessee for Years, or Tenant at Will, be ousted, the Lessor, or he in Remainder, may have Affise, because the Freehold was in him at the Time of the Disseisin. Kel. 109. Affise lies for Tithes, by Stat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 7. Cro. Eliz. 559. But not for an Annuity, Pension, &c. In some Cases an Affise will lie, where Ejectment will not; for Instance, de uno Crofto, because it may be put in View to the Jury. 2 Bull. 214. Ejectment will not lie de Piscaria, by Reason the Sheriff cannot deliver Possession of it; but an Affise will lie for it, as it may be viewed by the Recognitors. Cro. Car. 534. Affise will lie sometimes where Trespafs Vi & Armis doth not; as where a Lord enters and distrains his Tenant so often, when nothing is due, that the Tenant is disturbed in manuring his Lands; in such Case, he may have Affise de forent faitis Distress, but he cannot have Trespafs Vi & Armis against his Lord. 8 Rep. 47. 1 Nelf. Abr. 276. Where an Affise concerns the King and his Prerogative, the Judges may be prohibited to proceed therein, by Writ De non ulterius Prosequendo Rege inconsulto. Ibid. 277. The Court of Common Pleas or King's Bench may hold Plea of Affises of Land in the County of Middlesex, by Writ out of Chancery. 1 Lill. Abr. 105. And in Cities and Corporations an Affise of fresh Force lies for Recovery of Possession of Lands, within forty Days after the Disseisin, as the ordinary Affise in the County. F. N. B. 7.

Form of a Writ of Affise of Novel Disseisin.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting. A. B. hath complained to us, that C. D. unjustly and without Judgment hath disseised him of his Free Tenement or Freehold in, &c. within thirty Years now last past; and therefore we command you, that if the said A. makes you secure in prosecuting his Claim, then that you cause the said Tenement to be re-seised of the Chattels which in it were taken, and the same Tenement with its Chattels to be in Peace, until the next Affises when our Justices into those Parts shall come; and in the mean Time do you cause Twelve free and lawful Men of that Venne or Neighbourhood to view the said Tenement, and their Names to be impanelled, and summon them by good Summoners, that they be before our said Justices at the said Affises, ready to make Recognisance thereof; and put by Sureties and safe Pledges the said C. or his Bailiff, if he shall not be found, that he then be there to bear that Recognisance; and have you there the Summoners, the Names of the Pledges, and this Writ. Witness, &c.

A Count or Declaration, with a Plea, Issue, and Judgment in an Affise.

Wilts, ff. THE Affise come to Recognise, whether C. D. unjustly and without Judgment did disseise A. B. of his Freehold in, &c. within thirty Years now last past, &c. And whereupon the said A. by T. E. his Attorney complains, that he the said C. disseised him of one Messuage, twenty Acres of Land, and, &c. with the Appurtenances, in, &c. And for his Title to the Tenements and Affise aforesaid, the said A. saith, that T. B. Father of him the said A. long before the obtaining of the said Original Writ of Affise, was seised of the Tenements aforesaid with the Appurtenances, in his Demesne as of Fee; and being so seised thereof, the Day and Year, &c. at, &c. aforesaid, by his Indenture, made between him the said T. of one Part, and, &c.

of the other Part, which other Part thereof with the Seal of the said T. affixed thereto and by him signed, the said A. here brings into this Court, the Date whereof is the same Day and Year above, he for himself his Heirs and Assigns did covenant, grant, &c. (here reciting a Deed of Covenants to levy a Fine of the Tenements, among other Things, and the Fine levied accordingly) to the Use of A. and his Heirs, &c. By Virtue of which Fine so levied, the said A. into the said Tenements with the Appurtenances entered, and was thereof seised in his Demesne as of Fee, until the aforesaid C. D. him the said A. thereof unjustly, and without Judgment did disseise as aforesaid; and this he is ready to verify; whereupon he prays the Affise, &c. And the said C. by, &c. his Attorney comes, &c. and saith, that he has nothing in the said Tenements with the Appurtenances, to put in View of the Recognitors of the said Affise, and in the Plaint or Declaration aforesaid specified, nor had at the Day of bringing the original Writ of Affise aforesaid, or ever after, nor any Injury or Disseisin did to the said A. And of this he puts himself upon the Affise; and the said C. does likewise: Therefore let the Affise thereof between them be taken, &c. (here follows the Verdict of the Recognitors or Jury, for the Plaintiff A.) Therefore it is considered, that the said A. do recover against the said C. his Seisin of the Tenements aforesaid, with the Appurtenances, and also, &c. And the said C. is in Mercy, &c. And hereupon the said A. prays the Writ of the Lord the King, to be directed to the Sheriff of the County aforesaid, to cause to be delivered to him full Seisin of the Tenements aforesaid with the Appurtenances; and it is granted to him, returnable here, &c.

Writ of Mort d'Ancestor, (Affise Mortis Antecessoris) Is a Writ that lieth where a Man's Father, Mother, Brother, Sister, Uncle, Aunt, &c. died seised of Lands, Tenements, Rents, &c. that were held in Fee, and after their Deaths a Stranger abateth. Reg. Orig. 223. It is good as well against the Abator, as any other in Possession of the Land: But it lies not against Brothers or Sisters, &c. where there is Privy of Blood between the Person prosecuting and them. Co. Litt. 242. And it must be brought within the Time limited by the Statute of Limitations, or the Right may be lost by Negligence. If the Ancestor were seised the Day that he died, of any Lands, or other Estate in Fee-simple, although a Stranger entereth and disseiseth him of that Land the Day that he dieth, so that he dieth not seised of the said Land; yet the Person who is his Heir shall have the Affise of Mort d'Ancestor, because the Writ doth not suppose that the Ancestor died seised; but saith Parati Sacramento recogn. Si W. B. Pater, &c. fuit seifitus die quo obiit, &c. And the same is sufficient, although he dieth not seised. Fitz. Nat. Br. 433. If a Man go beyond Sea in Pilgrimage, and dieth there; or if he enter into Religion, &c. his Heir shall have a Writ of Affise of Mort d'Ancestor, and it sufficeth that the Ancestor was seised the Day he went out of the Land, although it was not the Day of his Death. Ibid. 434, 435. By the Statute of Gloucester, if Tenant by the Curtesy alien his Wife's Inheritance, and dieth, the Heir of the Wife shall have an Affise of Mort d'Ancestor, if he have not Assets by Descent from the Tenant by the Curtesy; and the same shall be as well where the Wife was not seised of Land the Day of her Death, as where she was seised thereof. 6 Ed. 1. New Nat. Br. 489. A Warden of a College, &c. shall have Affise of Mort d'Ancestor, of Rent where his Predecessor was seised. And a Man may have Affise of Mort d'Ancestor of Rents, against several Persons in several Counties; having in the End of the Writ several Summons against the Tenants: And the Process in this Writ, is Summons against the Party; and if he makes Default at the Day of the Affise returned, then the Plaintiff ought to sue out a Return;

mons; and if he makes Default again, the Affise shall be taken, &c. Bro. Affis. 88. In a Mort d'Ancestor, if the Tenant says, the Plaintiff is not next Heir, and this is found against him, the Points of the Writ shall be inquired of: And in this Case, the Affise may find, that though the Plaintiff be the next Heir, yet he is not next Heir as to this Land; for this is in regard of their Inquiry at large. Br. Mort d'An. 47. 1 Danv. Abr. 584. Damages shall be recovered in the Affise of Mort d'Ancestor; but it lieth not of an Estate-tail, only where the Ancestor was seised in Demesne as of Fee. Bro. Affis. If a Man be barred in Affise of Novel Disseisin, upon shewing a Discent, or other special Matter, he may have Mort d'Ancestor, or Writ of Entry sur Disseisin, &c. 4 Rep. 43.

Form of a Writ of Affise of Mort d'Ancestor.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting: If A. B. shall make you secure, that he will prosecute his Claim, then summon, &c. Twelve free and lawful Men of the Neighbourhood of, &c. that they be before our Justices at the first Assises, when into those Parts they shall come; or before our Justices at Westminster on the Day, &c. or before our trusty and beloved, &c. and those whom to them we shall associate, at a certain Day and Place, which the said Justices shall cause you to know (or to be known to you) ready upon Oath to recognise, if W. B. Father of the said A. &c. was seised in his Demesne as of Fee, of one Messuage, and one Yard Land with the Appurtenances in D. the Day which he dy'd; and whether he dy'd, &c. And if the said A. be his next Heir; and in the mean Time, let them see the said Messuage and Land, and do you cause their Names to be impanel'd; and summons by good Summoners C. D. who now holdeth the said Messuage and Lands, that he be there to bear the Recognition: And have you there the Summoners, and this Writ. Witness, &c.

Affise of Darrein Presentment. (Affisa ultima Presentationis) A Writ lying where a Man and his Ancestors have presented a Clerk to a Church, and after, the Church being void; a Stranger presents his Clerk to the same Church, whereby the Person having Right is disturb'd Reg. Orig. 30. And a Man shall have Affise of Darrein Presentment, although he not his Ancestors did present to the last Avoidance: As if Tenant for Life or Years, or in Dower, or by the Curtesy, suffer an Usurpation into a Church, &c. and die; he in Reversion, who is Heir unto the Ancestor who last presented, shall have Affise of Darrein Presentment, if he be disturb'd: But if a Man present; and then grant the Advowson unto another for Life, and he suffer one Usurpation, or two, or three Usurpations; now at the next Avoidance, he in the Reversion shall not have an Affise of Darrein Presentment, if he be disturb'd to present. 10 Ed. 3. In this Case he is put to his Writ of Right. If a Disturber present to an Advowson, and the Patron bring an Affise of Darrein Presentment, and pendent the Writ, the Incumbent dieth, if the Disturber presenteth again and dies, yet the Patron shall have an Affise of Darrein Presentment upon the first Disturbance against the Heir of the Disturber, by Journeys Accounts. New Nat. Br. 71. Affise of Darrein Presentment doth not lie for one Coparcener against the other: The Church is never litigious between Parceners; for if they cannot agree, the Ordinary ought to admit the Presentee of the Eldest: Contra of Jointenants. Mich. 15 Ed. 3. If a Man present to a Church, and afterwards the Parson doth resign, &c. and the Patron presents again and is disturb'd, he shall have this Writ, although the former Presentee be living; and the Writ shall suppose, that the Defendant doth desorce him of the Advowson; and yet the Plaintiff by his Declaration counteth that he or his Ancestors last presented, by which he supposeth that he is in Possession, &c. New Nat. Br. 74. A Person presents to an Advowson, and after the Incumbent dies, and the Ordinary doth present another by Lapse, on that Incumbent's Death the right Patron shall present; and if he be disturb'd, he shall have an Affise of Darrein Presentment, notwithstanding the mean Presentments: But one cannot make Title to a Presentment in Time of War. Ibid. A Tenant in Tail of an Advowson may have this Writ, as well as Tenant in Fee thereof, and is not put to a Quare Impedit: And 'tis said a Lessee for Years may bring it, if he hath presented before, although he hath no Freehold; for this Affise is not like an Affise of Novel Disseisin. 46 Aff. 4. F. N. B. 31. Though he who will generally bring the Affise of Darrein Presentment, ought to have the same Estate or Part thereof, which he had at the Time of the first Presentment: Therefore if such Lessee for Years of an Advowson presents, and after his Estate is enlarged for Life, or in Fee; and then the Church becomes void, he shall not have this Writ, because he hath a new Estate by Enlargement, and no Part of his former Estate. Ketw. 118. Malkol. Qu. Imped. 162. By Magna Charta 9 H. 3. c. 13. These Affises of Darrein Presentment are to be always taken before the Justices of the Bench, and there shall be determined. In Affise of Darrein Presentment, the Process is Summons and Resummons, Habeas Corpus, &c. And if the Writ be brought in Middlesex, at the Return the Affise shall be there arraigned at the Bar, and the Tenant demanded; if the Tenant doth not appear, a Resummons shall be awarded; and if upon that he appeareth not, the Affise is to be taken against him by Default, &c. In this Affise, six of the Jury ought to have the View of the Church, to the Intent that they may put the Plaintiff in Possession, if he recovers: And the Judgment is to recover the Presentation and Damages, and the Value of the Church for Half a Year; and if Six Months be past, Two Years Value of the Church shall be recovered, by Stat. West. 2. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 5.

Form of a Writ of Affise of Darrein Presentment.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting: If A. B. shall secure you, &c. then do you summon by good Summoners Twelve free and lawful Men of the Venue or Neighbourhood of D. that they be before our Justices, &c. ready to recognise upon their Oaths, what Patron in the Time of Peace presented the last Person, or Incumbent, who is dead, to the Church of, &c. which is vacant, as 'tis said, and the Advowson whereof the said A. saith belongs to him; and in the mean Time the Church let them view, and do you cause their Names to be return'd, and summon C. D. who desorced him of that Advowson, that he be there to bear, &c. And have you then there the Summoners and this Writ. Witness, &c.

Affise de utrum, (Affisa utrum) Lieth for a Parson against a Layman, or a Layman against a Parson; for Lands or Tenements doubtful, whether they be Lay-see, or Free Alms belonging to the Church. Bract. lib. 4. It is a Writ of the highest Nature that a Parson can have: And if a Parson, Prebendary, &c. lose by Default in a real Action, he may have this Writ; for it is his Writ of Right. 6 Rep. 8. These are the four Kinds of Writs of Affise, used in Actions possessory; and are called Petit Affises, in respect of the Grand Affise: For the Law of Fees is grounded upon two Rights, one of Possession, the other of Property; and as the Grand Affise serves for the Right of Property, so the Petit Affise serveth to settle the Right of Possession. Hera's Mirr. At the Common Law there are but two Forms of Writs of Affise, viz. Affise de Libero Tenemento, and Affise de Communia Pasturæ. 8 Rep. 45. The Affises of Novel Disseisin, &c. and De Communia Pasturæ, were instituted by Hen. 2. in the Place of Duels: And therefore Glanville tells us, That Magna Affisa est Regale beneficium, clementia principis de Consilio procerum populis indultum, a quo vitæ boninum & Status integritati tam salubriter consulitur, ut in jure, quod quis in Libero Soli tenemento possidet, retinendo, Duelli casum homines declinare possunt ambiguum, &c. Glanv lib. 2. cap. 7.

Affise of the Forest, (Affisa de Foresta) Is a Statute touching Orders to be observ'd in the King's Forest. Manwood 35. The Statute of View of Frank-Pledge, Anno 18 Ed. 1. is also called the Affise of the King: And the Statute of Bread and Ale 51 Hen. 3. is termed the Affise of Bread and Ale. And these are so called, because they set down and appoint a certain Measure, or Order, in the Things they contain. There is further an Affise of Nufance, Affisa Nocumenti, where a Man maketh a Nufance to the Freehold of another, to redress the same. And besides Littleton's Division of Affises, there are others mentioned by other Writers, viz. Affise at large, brought by an Infant to enquire of a Disseisin, and whether his Ancestor were of full Age, good Memory, &c. when he made the Deed pleaded, whereby he claims his Right. Affise in Point of Affise, (Affisa in modum Affisæ) which is when the Tenant as it were setting Foot to Foot with the Demandant, without any Thing further, pleads directly to the Writ, no Wrong, no Disseisin. Affise out of the Point of Affise, is when the Tenant pleadeth something by Exception; as a Foreign Release, or Foreign Matter triable in a Foreign County; which must be tried by a Jury, before the principal Cause can proceed. Affise of Right of Damages is where the Tenant confesseth an Ouster, and referring it to a Demurrer in Law, whether it were rightly done or not, is adjudged to have done Wrong; whereupon the Demandant shall have a Writ of Affise to recover Damages. Bract lib. 4. F. N. B. 105. Affises are likewise awarded by Default of Tenants, &c.

Affisors, (Affiores) Sunt qui Affisas conduunt, aut Taxationes imponunt.——In Scotland, (according to Skene) they are the same with our Jurors; and their Oath is this:

*We shall leil swith say,
And na swith conceal, for naething we may,
So far as we are charg'd upon this Affise,
Be God himself, and be our Part of Paradise,
And as we will answer to God, upon
The dreadful Day of Dome.*

Affisus, Rented or farmed out for such an Affise, or certain assessed Rent in Money or Provisions, Terra affise was commonly opposed to Terra Dominica; this last being held in Demain, and occupied by the Lord, the other let out to inferior Tenants. So among the Lands of the Knights Templars, belonging to their Preceptory of Sandford. Com. Oxon. Apud Covele de dono Matildis Reginae babentur quatuor bidæ, quarum due sunt in Dominico, & due Affisæ ab hominibus apud, &c.——Kennel's Paroch. Antiq. 141. And hence comes the Word to assess or allot the Proportion and Rates in Taxes and Payments by Affessors.

Affithment, A Wiregeld, or Compensation, by a pecuniary Mulf: From the Preposition Ad, and the Sax. Sitbe, Vice: Quod vice supplicii ad expiandum delictum solvitur.

Association, (Associatio) Is a Writ or Patent sent by the King, either at his own Motion, or at the Suit of a Party Plaintiff, to the Justices appointed to take Affises, or of Oyer and Terminer, &c. to have others associated unto them. And this is usual where a Justice of Affise dies; and a Writ is issued to the Justices alive to admit the Person associated: Also where a Justice is disabled, this is practised. F. N. B. 185. Reg. Orig. 201, 206, 223. The Clerk of the Affise is usually Associate of Course; in other Cases, some learned Serjeants at Law are appointed. It has been holden, that an Association after another Association allowed and admitted, doth not lie; nor are the Justices then to admit other Association in that Writ afterwards, so long as that Writ and Commission stand in Force. Br. Affise 386. Mich. 32 H. 6. The King may make an Association unto the Sheriff upon a Writ of Redisseisin, as well as upon Affise of Novel Disseisin, &c. New Nat. Br. 416, 417.

Association of Parliament. In the Reign of King William III. the Parliament entered into a solemn Association to defend his Majesty's Person and Government against all Plots and Conspiracies: And all Persons bearing Offices Civil or Military, were in-joined to subscribe the Association, to stand by King William, on Pain of Forfeitures and Penalties, &c. By Stat. 7 & 8 W. 3. cap. 27.

Affoile, (Absolvere) To deliver from Excommunication. Stauwdf. Pl. Cr. 72.——The Defendant shall remain in Prison till the Plaintiff is affoiled; that is, delivered from his Excommunication: And in Stat. 1 Hen. 4. c. 10. Mention being made of K. Edw. 3. it is added, whom God affoil.

Assumpfit, (from the Lat. Assumo) Is taken for a voluntary Promise, by which a Man assumes or takes upon him to perform or pay any Thing to another: It comprehends any verbal Promise, made upon Consideration; and the Civilians express it diversly, according to the Nature of the Promise, calling it sometimes Pañum, sometimes Promissionem, or Constitutum, &c. Terms de Ley 60. When one becomes legally indebted to another for Goods sold, the Law implies a Promise that he will pay this Debt; and if it be not paid, Indebitatus Assumpfit lies. 1 Darv. Abr. 26. And Indebitatus Assumpfit lies for Goods sold and delivered to a Stranger ad requisitionem of the Defendant. Ibid. 27. But on Assumpfit for Goods sold, you must prove a Price agreed on, otherwise the Action will not lie; though this is helped by laying a Quantum Meruit with the Indebit. Assumpfit, wherein if you fail in Proof of the Price agreed, you may recover the Value. Wood's Inst. 536. Where Action is brought upon a Contract, if the Plaintiff mistakes the Sum agreed upon, he fails in his Action; but if he brings it upon the Promise in Law, arising from the Debt, there, though he mistakes the Sum, he shall recover. Alley 29. Every Contract made between Parties, implies a mutual Promise for Performance: And yet an Action may be brought on a reciprocal Promise by one against the other, although he who brings it hath not performed on his Side. Dyer 30, 75. When an Assumpfit or Promise is the Ground of the Action, it must be precisely set forth; but in Actions upon mutual Promise, it is sufficient to say generally that the Defendant hath not performed his Part, without assigning of a Breach. 3 Lev. 319. He for whose Benefit a Promise is made, it is said, may have an Action for the Breach of this Promise, although the Promise was not made to him. 2 Lev. 210. If a Promise be made without Limitation of Time for its Performance, reasonable Time shall be allowed, if there be an immediate Consideration for it; and not Time during Life. 1 Lill. Abr. 112. On Promise to deliver a Thing such a Day, the Party is bound to do it without Request. 1 Lev. 284. But if a Promise be to do any Thing upon Request, the Request is necessary to intitle the Action, on which it shall arise. 1 Lev. 48. In every Action upon Assumpfit, there ought to be a Consideration, Promise, and Breach of Promise. 1 Leon. c. 405. A Consideration upon which a Promise begins, cannot be discharged without some other Consideration: And Consideration that if a Person will forbear forbear to sue another upon a Bond, &c. may be a good Consideration to pay the Debt, on Promise to do it. Cro. Jac. 620, 683. Two Persons to go to an Inn-keeper, one hires an Horse, and the other Promises that if the Inn-keeper will deliver the Horse, he will see it forth-coming, this Promise for another, is not good without Note in Writing: But the Person is chargeable upon the special Bailment, and so good without a Note. 1 Lill. 118. An Infant having bought Goods and Wares died, and made his Wife Executrix; she being asked for the Money says, Forbear me till such a Time, and I will pay it you; this was held no good Assumpsit, for it wanted a Consideration. 1 Leon. Ca. 156. But where an Executrix, in Consideration the Plaintiff would not molest her, but give her a Day, promised to pay Money due from the Testator, Action lay without shewing that she had Assets; for that shall be intended, and her Promise, and the Plaintiff's Forbearance of the Suit, was good Cause of Action. 2 Cro. 273. An Administratrix promised to pay the Plaintiff Money, if he would forbear Suit till she had taken out Letters of Administration; this was not a good Assumpsit, for the Defendant was not liable to the Suit as Administratrix till Administration had, so there was no Consideration. Style 248, 395. If a Plaintiff promises to forbear to sue a Stranger, on the Defendant's promising to pay the Debt, and the Time of Forbearance is uncertain, it will be ill; but with an Averment of a certain Time, it may be a good Assumpsit. So where a Man is under an Arrest, and the Plaintiff discharges him, upon another's Promise to pay, &c. Moor Cas. 1167. 1 Cro. 19, 456. The Father was indebted to divers Merchants upon simple Contract, and died seised of Lands that descended to his Son and Heir; the Creditors demand their Debts of him, who saith, If it be so my Father owed it to you, I will pay it; adjudg'd actionable. Moor Ca. 505, 357. An Executor or Administrator regularly may take the same Advantage upon Assumpsits made to the Testator, and on Contracts, &c. as the Testator might have done. Plowd. 82. 2 Cro. 299. Every Executory Contract, and Debt that is not upon Record, or on a Specialty, which may be turned into Damage, imports in it an Assumpsit in Law, and one may have Debt or Action on the Case upon it at his Election; for when a Man doth agree to pay Money, or to deliver any Thing, he thereby promiseth to pay or deliver it. Plowd. 128. 1 Cro. 94. If one, in Consideration I will be bound for him, or for his Friend, promise to save me harmless; this is a good Consideration and Promise: But if one promise to another to save harmless, and say not for what, or against whom, these Assumpsits are uncertain and insensible, and therefore void; though if any Certainty can be made of them, they may be good. 10 Rep. 102. Dyer 356. In case a Promise be, that he who hath the Fee-simple of Land, shall not alien it; or that a Man shall not take the Profit of his Lands, or use the Thing he hath bought; or if it be to save a Man harmless whatsoever he shall do, &c. the Promises so made will not bind or bear an Action. 10 Rep. 101. Co. Litt. 206. Dyer 304. Plowd. 64. If J. S. owes me Money, and another says he will be my Paymaster; or if the Party do not pay me such a Day, he will; or where one has built me a House, if after I promise him 20*l.* these are not good Considerations in Actions of Assumpsit. 44 E. 3. 21. 1 Shep. Abr. 78. Though if where a Man in Consideration that he hath sealed a Release of a Debt due to him from J. S. at the Request of me, I promise to pay it if the other do not, this is a good Assumpsit, although the Consideration be past: As where one doth promise to another, because he became Bail for his Servant, that he will save him harmless; and here the Consideration is continuing. Dyer 272. 1 Cro. 296. In Consideration that I will lend one 10*l.* and accept of such a Bond, &c. and release to him all Actions and Demands; he assumes that if I cannot receive the Money on the Bond, he will pay it me, it is good: But if I prosecute upon it, I must set forth all this to be executed. 2 Cro. 623. So where a Man promises me, that if I will travel with him to London, to help him to search for the Will of J. S. he will pay me 5*l.* for my Pains; if I sue for the Money, I must shew that I did travel with him to London, and help him to search for the Will, &c. 2 Cro. 620. The Assumpsit in an Agreement that will be binding and give Action, must be compleat and perfect, and duly pursued and observed: And if the Party that makes the Assumpsit, and he to whom it is made, agree together, and a Bond is given and taken for what is promised; by this the Assumpsit is discharged. Also where an Assumpsit is to stand to an Award, if the Award made be void; it will make the Assumpsit void. Yelv. 87. 2 Leon. ca. 223. 1 Leon. 170. The Intent of the Parties by and to whom the Promise or Assumpsit is made, is more to be regarded than the Form of Words, and this Intent and Meaning is to be followed, not in the Letter, but the Substance of it: If a Promise be to provide Wedding Clothes for a Woman, this shall be taken for such Clothes to be worn the Wedding or Feast-Day according to the Dignity of the Person. Poph. 182. Yelv. 87. 3 Cro. 53. There may be Action without an Assumpsit, when the Law obliges a Person to agree or act; as against a Victualler for refusing to entertain his Guests. 1 Vent. 72, 333. An Assumpsit may be upon a general Consideration; but it doth not lie where the Plaintiff has an Obligation to pay the Money, which is a stronger Lien than Assumpsit; nor when the Party has a Recognisance for the Duty, &c. Jenk. Cent. 293. Assumpsit lies not for Rent usually reserved on Leases; but if a Man promise to pay, without a Lease, so much a Week as long as A. B. &c. permits him to enjoy a Warehouse, &c. which is a special Cause of Promise, this Action may lie. 2 Cro. 592. And if one receive any Rent on Pretence of Title, Assumpsit lies; as it does also for the Receipt of Profits of an Office, &c. 2 Mod. 260. Where a Person pays Money upon a Mistake; or if he receives more from another in a Reckoning than he ought, or Fees than should be taken, an Assumpsit lies. 1 Salk. 22. Comb. 447. If a Man receives Money for the Use of another Person, Assumpsit may be had against him as Bailiff or Receiver, which supplies the Place of Action of Account: And where Money was deposited on a Wager, an Indebitatus lay for Money received to a Man's Use. Show. 117. Special Indebitatus Assumpsit, as when one having promised to pay if he lost, the other promised to pay in like Manner, lay for Money won at Gaming, before the Statute 9 Ann. which prohibits Gaming, &c. 1 Danv. 28. If where a Promise is made, one Part of it is against Law, and another Part of it lawful, this is Ground sufficient for Assumpsit. 4 Rep. 94. Vide Action upon the Case.

Attach, (Attachiare, from the Fr. Attacher) Signifies to take or apprehend by Commandment of a Writ or Precept. Lamb. Eiren. lib. 1. cap. 16. It differs from Arrest, in that he which arresteth a Man carrieth him to a Person of higher Power to be forthwith disposed of; but he that attacheth keepeth the Party attached, and presents him in Court at the Day assigned; as appears by these Words of the Writ, Præcipimus tibi quod Attachias talem & habeas eum coram nobis, &c. Another Difference there is, that Arrest is only upon the Body of a Man; whereas an Attachment is oftentimes upon his Goods. Kitch. 279. A Capias taketh hold of immoveable Things, as Lands or Tenements, and properly belongs to Real Actions: But Attachment hath Place rather in Personal Actions. Brañ. lib. 4. Attachiammentum est Districio Personalis, & Cape Magnum Districio Realis. Flata, lib. 5. cap. 24. Attachment in the most common Use of the Word, is an Apprehension of a Man by his Body, to bring him to answer the Action of the Plaintiff: And Attachment out of Chancery may be had of Course upon Affidavit made that the Defendant was served with a Subpoena, and appeared, not; or upon Non-performance of any Order or Decree; also after the Return of this Attachment, that the Defendant Non est Inventus, &c. Attachment with Proclamation issues against him, &c. West. Symb. And for Contempts, when a Party appears, he must upon his Oath answer Interrogatories exhibited against him; and if he be found Guilty, he shall be fined. Generally an Attachment doth lie for any Contempt done against the Courts at Westminster: But the Court of B. R. will not grant Attachment against one for disobeying an Order made by Justices of Assise, or a Judge at his Chamber, except it be entered and made a Rule of Court; for it is no Contempt to the Court, but to the Judge that made the Order. 1 Lill. Abr. 121. Attachment lies against Attornies for Injustice, and base Dealing by their Clients, in delaying Suits, &c. as well as for Contempts to the Court. 2 Hawk. 144. If Affidavits to ground an Attachment are full as to the Charge; yet if the Party being an Attorney, &c. deny such Charge by as plain and positive Affidavits, he shall be discharged; but if he takes a false Oath, he may be indicted of Perjury. Mod. Caf. in L. & E. 81. Against Sheriffs making false Returns of Writs, and against Bailiffs for Frauds in Arrests, and exceeding their Power, &c. Attachment may be had. For Contempts against the King's Writs; using them in a vexatious Manner; altering the Teste, or filling them up after sealed, &c. Attachment lies. And for Contempts of an enormous kind, in not obeying Writs, &c. Attachment may be issued against Peers. 2 Hawk. 152, 153. But in some Cases the Court doth not generally grant Attachment against Persons for Misdemeanors, but will send a Tipstaff for them, if they live near the Town. 21 Car. B. R. For persuading Jurors not to appear on a Trial, Attachment lies against the Party, for obstructing the Proceeding of the Court. 1 Lill. 121. The Court of B. R. may award Attachments against any inferior Courts usurping a Jurisdiction, or acting contrary to Justice. Salk. 207. Though 'tis usual first to send out a Prohibition. Attachment lies for Proceedings in an inferior Court, after a Habeas Corpus issued, and a Superfedeas to stay Proceedings. 21 Car. B. R. And Attachment may be granted against Justices of Peace, for proceeding on an Indictment after a Certiorari delivered to them to remove the Indictment. 1 Lill. 121. But it doth not lie against a Corporation. Attachment lies against a Lord that refuses to hold his Court, after a Writ issued to him for that Purpose, so that his Tenant cannot have Right done him. New Nat. Br. 6, 27. Attachment of Privilege is where a Man by Virtue of his Privilege calls another to that Court whereto he himself belongs, and in respect thereof is privileged, there to answer some Action: Or it is a Power to apprehend a Man in a Place privileged. Book Entr. 431. Corporation Courts have sometimes Power by Charter to issue Attachments, and some Courts-Baron grant Attachments of Debt. Kitch. 79. Foreign Attachment is an Attachment of the Goods of Foreigners, found in some Liberty, to satisfy their Creditors within such Places, as London, &c. a Man may attach Money or Goods in the Hands of a Stranger. But a Foreign Attachment cannot be had when a Suit is depending in any of the Courts at Westminster; which makes the Matter not to be meddled with by any other Court. Cro. Eliz. 691. And nothing is attachable but for a certain and due Debt: Though by the Custom of London Money may be attached before due, as a Debt; but not levied before due. Sid. 327. 1 Nels. Abr. 282; 283. Besides these Attachments, there is Attachment of the Forest, issuing out of the Courts of the Forest, against Offenders against the Vert and Venison; and this Attachment is either by the Body, or Goods, Pledges and Mainprize, &c. Manswood 90, 93.

Foreign Attachments in London, upon Plaints of Debt, are made after this Manner: A. oweth B. 100 l. and C. is indebted to A. 100 l. B. enters an Action against A. of 200 l. and by Virtue of that Action a Serjeant attacheth 100 l. in the Hands of C. as the Money of A. to the Use of B. which is returned upon that Action. The Attachment being made and returned by the Serjeant, the Plaintiff is immediately to see an Attorney before the next Court holden for the Compter; or the Defendant may then put in Bail to the Attachment, and nonsuit the Plaintiff: Four Court-Days must pass before the Plaintiff can cause C. the Garnishee, in whose Hands the Money was attached, to shew Cause why B. should not condemn the 100 l. attached in the Hands of C. as the Money of A. the Defendant in the Action (though not in the Attachment) to the Use of B. the Plaintiff: And the Garnishee C. may appear in Court by his Attorney, wage his Law, and plead that he hath no Money in his Hands of the Defendant's, or other special Matter; but the Plaintiff may hinder his Waging of Law, by producing two sufficient Citizens to swear that the Garnishee had either Money or Goods in his Hands of A. at the Time of the Attachment, of which Affidavit is to be made before the Lord Mayor, and being filed may be pleaded by Way of Eshoppel: Then the Plaintiff must put in Bail, that if the Defendant come within a Year and a Day into Court, and he can discharge himself of the Money condemned in Court, and that he owed nothing to the Plaintiff at the Time in the Plaint mentioned, the said Money shall be forth-coming, &c. If the Garnishee fail to appear by his Attorney, being warned by the Officer to come into Court to shew Cause as aforesaid, he is taken by Default for Want of Appearing, and Judgment given against him for the Goods and Money attached in his Hands, and he is without Remedy either at Common Law or in Equity; for if taken in Execution, he must pay the Money condemned, though he hath not one Penny, or go to Prison; but the Garnishee appearing to shew Cause why the Money or Goods attached in his Hands ought not to be condemned to the Use of the Plaintiff, having feed an Attorney, may plead as aforesaid, that he hath no Money or Goods in his Hands of the Party's against whom the Attachment is made, and it will then be tried by a Jury, and Judgment awarded, &c. But after Trial, Bail may be put in, whereby the Attachment shall be dissolved, but the Garnishee, &c. and his Security will then be liable to what Debt the Plaintiff shall make out to be due, upon the Action: And an Attachment is never thoroughly perfected, till there is a Bail and Satisfaction upon Record.

Attachiamenta Bonoꝝum, A Distress taken upon Goods or Chattels, where a Man is sued for Personal Estate or Debt, by the legal Attachiators or Bailiffs, as Security to answer an Action. There is likewise Attachiamenta de Spinis & Bosco, a Privilege granted to the Officers of a Forest, to take to their own Use, Thorns, Brush, and Wind fall, within their Precincts. — John Fitz Nygel Forrester of Bernwood, A. D. 1230. Debet habere Feodum in Bosco Domini Regis; videlicet Attachiamentum de Spinis, de Bosco suo, & de Bosco qui vento profilitur. Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. pag. 209.

Attaint, (AtinBa) Is a Writ that lieth after Judgment against a Jury that have given false Verdict in any Court of Record, in an Action Real or Personal, where the Debt or Damages amount to above 40 s. Stat. 5 & 34 Ed. 3. cap. 7. It is called Attaint, because the Party that obtains it, endeavours thereby to stain or taint the Credit of the Jury with Perjury, by whose Verdict he is grieved: And if the Verdict be found false, then the Punishment by the Common Law was, that the Jurors Meadows should be plough'd up, their Houses broke down, Woods grubbed up, and all their Lands and Tenements be forfeited to the Crown: But if it passed against him that brought the Attaint, then he was to be imprisoned and ransomed at the King's Will. Glanv. lib. 2. By the Statute 23 H. 8. c. 3. the Severity of the Common Law is mitigated, where a Petty Jury is attainted: And now there is a pecuniary Penalty appointed; and also Fine, &c. to be imposed by the Court. Co. Litt. 294. The Party grieved may have Writ of Attaint against the other Party, (whether Plaintiff or Defendant) and against the Jurors, or such of them as shall be then living: It is said any one that is hurt by the false Verdict, may bring this Writ; and if the Verdict be for Matter of Land, the Remedy commonly runs with the Land, so that any Party or Privy, as an Heir or Executor may have it. F. N. B. 109. Co. Litt. 294. This Action must be brought against the Jurors, and the Parties to the first Suit; or if the Parties be dead, their Heirs, or Executors, or any other for the most part that recovered by the first Judgment. Dyer 201. And Attaint may be brought where any material Falshood is found, though some Truth be found with it; as where a Jury shall find a Man guilty of many Trespasses, who is guilty but of one Trespass. So if a Jury find any Thing against the Common or Statute Law, that all Men are to take Notice of, this may make them chargeable in Attaint. Bro. ca. 44. Hob. 227. In an Attaint the Plaintiff shall recover against all the Jurors, Tenants, and Defendants, the Costs and Damages, which he shall sustain by Delay or otherwise in that Suit: And if the Defendant's Plea in Bar be found against him, the Plaintiff will have Judgment to be restored to what he lost, with Damages, by Stat.

11 H. 6. c. 4. and 15 H. 6. In the Court of King's Bench and Common Pleas, and the Court of Hustings of London, Attaint may be brought; and the Plaintiff setting aside the Verdict, shall have Restitution, &c. But if the first Verdict be affirmed, the Plaintiff shall be imprisoned and fined. 11 H. 7. cap. 21. Reversioners may have an Attaint upon a false Verdict, &c. against a particular Tenant, who shall be restored to his Possession, and the Reversioner to his Arrearages. Stat. 9 R. 2. c. 3. The Stat. 23 H. 8. enacts, That upon untrue Verdicts before Judges of Record, the Thing in Demand extending to 40 l. Value, Attaints shall be granted against the Petty Jury; the Process to be Summons, Re summons and Distress infinite, &c. but the Defendants may plead, they gave a true Verdict, &c., to bar the Attaint: And the Grand Jury is to try the Verdict of the Petty Jury on the Attaint; and if such Petty Jury be found to have given an untrue Verdict, they shall each forfeit 20 l. to be divided between the King and Plaintiff, and incur several Fines at the Discretion of the Justices, and be disabled to give Testimony in any Court. Also an Attaint shall lie for a Personal Thing under the Value of 40 l. in Manner as aforesaid; but here the Forfeiture of each petty Juror shall be but 5 l. &c. Stat. ibid. The Plaintiff in Attaint, may not produce more Witnesses, nor give further Matter in Evidence, than what was deposed in the first Action; but the Defendant in Attaint, may give new Matter in Evidence to enforce the first Verdict, and the Plaintiff shall have Time to disprove it. Dyer 59. 1 Nels. Abr. 288. Attaint lies where a Jury gives Verdict contrary to Evidence; and where a Judge declares the Law erroneously, Judgment may be reversed, but in this Case the Jury shall be excused. Vaugh. 145. Attaint lies not for that which is not given in Evidence; nor upon an Inquest of Office, &c. or when the Thing found is impertinent to the Issue. Hob. 53. Co. Litt. 355. And no Attaint lieth where the King is sole Party, and the Jury find for him. 4 Leon. 46. A Nonfuit in Attaint is peremptory: And no Superseas is grantable upon Attaint. Co. Litt. 227. Also if all the Jurors but one are dead, the Action is gone; and no Attaint can be brought; and where any one dies depending the Suit, it is gone; but not by the Death of the Defendant that recovered in the first Action. Dyer 139. Hob. 227. This Writ to attaint so many Men of such a foul Crime is seldom used, unless the Corruption be very gross and apparent: And instead of Attaint, where the Verdict is supposed to be given against Evidence, it is now usual to have new Trials granted: But an Issue found by Verdict shall be always intended true, until reversed by Attaint, according to our old Books. Co. Litt. 227. The Writ of Attaint, is generally to summon a Jury to inquire if the former Jurors made a false Oath, and who were the Jury of the first Inquest, &c. and to have them before the Lord the King, or before the Justices, &c. F. N. B. 252, 253.

Form of a Count in Attaint.

Bedford, ff. A Jury of twenty-four, &c. of the Neighbourhood of C. came to recognise whether the Jurors, by whom a certain Inquisition was, lately summoned before the Lord the King at Westminster, by Bill without the Writ of our said Lord the King, between A. B. and C. D. of a certain Trespass, &c. to the said A. by the said C. done, and afterwards before the beloved and faithful of our said Lord the King, &c. Justices assigned to take the Assises, &c. in the County aforesaid taken, have made a false Oath therein, as the said C. grievously complaining to our said Lord the King sheweth, or not, &c.

Q

Attainted,

Attainted, (Attinatus) Is used particularly for such as are found guilty of some Crime, and especially of Treason or Felony. A Man is attainted by Appearance, or by Process: Attainder on Appearance is by Confession, or Verdict, &c. Confession, when the Prisoner upon his Indictment being asked whether Guilty or Not Guilty, answers Guilty, without putting himself upon his Country; (and formerly Confession was allowed before the Coroner in Sanctuary; whereupon the Offender was to abjure the Realm, and this was called Attainder by Abjuration.) Attainder by Verdict is when the Prisoner at the Bar pleadeth Not guilty, and is found guilty by the Verdict of the Jury of Life and Death. And Attainder by Process, (otherwise termed Attainder by Default or Outlawry) is when the Party flieth, and is not found, until he have been five Times publickly called or proclaimed in the County, on the last whereof he is outlawed upon this Default. Staundf. Pl. Co. 44, 122, 182. Also Persons may be attainted by Act of Parliament. Attainder of a Criminal is larger than Conviction; a Man is convicted when he is found guilty by Verdict, or confesses the Crime, before Judgment had; but not attainted till Judgment is also passed upon him. 1 Inst. 390. A Person attainted of High Treason forfeits all his Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments; his Blood is corrupted, and he and his Posterity are rendered base; and this Corruption of Blood cannot be taken off but by Act of Parliament. Co. Litt. 391. But if one commits Treason, and dies before Attainder, he forfeits nothing: And one slain in open Rebellion, shall forfeit nothing, if he be not attainted by Parliament. 3 Inst. 12. And collateral Blood may inherit on an Attainder; though the lineal Blood is barred. If an attainted Person marries an Heiress, and has Issue by her; 'tis said that Issue shall inherit, for he claims only from the Mother. Jenk. Cent. 3. In the Case of Felony, where Land is given in Tail to A. and the Heirs Male of his Body, under the Statute of Westm. 2. and he commits Murder, or any Felony, his Heir shall have the Land, and the Blood is not corrupted: Though in Case of Treason, where the Father hath Lands, and is attainted, it is otherwise by the 26 H. 8. Ibid. 82. In Treason for counterfeiting the Coin, although by a late Statute Corruption of Blood is saved; yet the Lands of the Offender are forfeited immediately to the King on Attainder, it being a distinct Penalty from Corruption of Blood: For the Corruption may be saved, and the Forfeiture remain, &c. And accordingly so it is provided by some Statutes. 1 Salk. 85. Attainders may be reversed or falsified, (i. e. proved to be false) by Writ of Error, or by Plea; if by Writ of Error, it must be by the King's Leave, &c. And when by Plea, it may be by Denying the Treason, Pleading a Pardon by Act of Parliament, &c. 3 Inst. 232. By a King's Taking the Crown upon him, all Attainders of his Person are ipso facto purged, without any Reversal. 1 Inst. 43. Wood 17. Lands coming to the King by Attainder of Treason, afterwards granted to another, shall be holden as if there were no Attainder. 7 E. 4. c. 5.

Attainder, (Attinza and Attinura) Is when a Man hath committed Treason, &c. and after Conviction Sentence is passed on him: Or where a Person is attainted of Treason, and condemned by Parliament. Acts of Attainder of Criminals have been passed in several Reigns, on the Discovery of Plots and Rebellions, from the Reign of King Charles II. when an Act was made for the Attainder of several Persons guilty of the Murder of King Charles I. to this Time; among which, that for attainting Sir John Fenwick, for conspiring against King William, is the most remarkable; it being made to attaint and convict him of High Treason on the Oath of one Witness, just after a Law had been enacted, That no Person should be tried or attainted of High Treason where Corruption of Blood is incurred, but by the Oath of two lawful Witnesses, unless the Party confess, stand mute, &c. Stat. 7 & 8 W. 3. cap. 3. But in the Case of Sir John Fenwick, there was something extraordinary; for he was indicted of Treason, on the Oaths of two Witnesses; though but one only could be produced against him on his Trial. The 8 W. 3. c. 5. requires Sir George Barclay, Major General Holmes, and other Persons, to surrender themselves to the Lord Chief Justice, or Secretaries of State; or to be attainted. By the 13 W. 3. the pretended Prince of Wales is under Attainder of Treason, &c. And by 1 Geo. 1. c. 16. the late Duke of Ormond and others are attainted. And besides these Acts of Attainder, we have lately had Bills for inflicting Pains and Penalties, as those against the late Bishop of Rochester, &c. Stat. 10 Geo. 1. In passing Bills of Attainder, no Evidence is necessary. See Evidence.

Attal Sarisun, The Inhabitants and Miners of Cornwall, called an old deserted Mine, that is given over, by this Name of Attal Sarisun, i. e. the Leavings of the Sarasins, Saffins, or Saxons. Cowel.

Attegia, (from the Lat. Attegiendo) A little House. 'Tis mentioned in Eitelwerd, lib. 4. Hist. Angl. cap. 3. — Pellunt ingenios passim, Attegas sicut in oppido.

Attendant, (Attendens) Signifies one that owes a Duty or Service to another, or in some Sort depends on him. Where a Wife is endowed of Lands by a Guardian, &c. she shall be attendant on the Guardian, and on the Heir at his full Age. Terms de Ley 63.

Attermining, (from the Fr. Atterminer) Is used for a Time or Term granted for Payment of a Debt. Ordinatio de Libertatibus perquirendis, Ann. 27 Ed. 1. And in the Stat. Westmin. 2. it seems to signify the Purchasing or Gaining a longer Time for Payment of Debts. — Atterminent querentes usque in proximum Parliamentum. West. 2. c. 4.

Attile, (Attilium, Attilamentum) The Rigging or Furniture of a Ship. This Word is mentioned in Fleta, lib. 1. c. 25. Batellus, (i. e. the Boat) cum omni onere & Attilamento.

Attognare Rem, To attorn or turn over Money and Goods, viz. to assign or appropriate them to some particular Use and Service. Kennel's Paroch. Antiq. p. 283.

Attornato faciendo vel recipiendo, A Writ to command a Sheriff or Steward of a County-Court, or Hundred Court, to receive and admit an Attorney, to appear for the Person that owes Suit of Court. F. N. B. 156. Every Person that owes Suit to the County-Court, Court-Baron, &c. may make an Attorney to do his Suit. Stat. 20 H. 3. c. 10.

Attorney, (Attornatus) Is he that is appointed by another Man to do any Thing in his Absence. Westm. Symb. Crompt. Jurisd. 105. An Attorney is either publick, in the Courts of Record, the King's Bench and Common Pleas, &c. and made by Warrant from his Client: Or private, upon Occasion for any particular Business, who is commonly made by Letter of Attorney. In ancient Times those of Authority in Courts had it in their Power whether they would suffer Men to appear or sue by any other but themselves; and the King's Writs were to be obtained for the Admission of Attornies: But since that, Attornies have been allowed by several Statutes. As by 27 Ed. 1. &c. Attornies may be made in such Pleas whereon Appeal lieth not: In Criminal Cases, there will be no Attornies admitted. Stat. 6 Ed. 1. An Infant ought not to appear by Attorney, but by Guardian; for he cannot make an Attorney, but the Court may assign him a Guardian. 1 Lill. Abr. 138. Infants, after they come to full Age, may sue by Attorney, though admitted before by Guardian, &c. In Action against Baron and Feme, the Feme being within Age, she must appear by Guardian: But if they bring an Action, the Husband band shall make Attorney for both. 1 Danv. Abr. 602. And it is said, that where Baron and Feme are sued, though the Wife cannot make Attorney, the Husband may do it for both of them. 2 Sand. 213. One non Compos Mentis being within Age is to appear by Guardian; but after he is of Age, he must do it by Attorney. 1 Inst. 135. An Idiot is not to appear by Attorney, but in proper Person. A Corporation cannot appear otherwise than by Attorney, who is made by Deed under the Seal of the Corporation. Plowd. 91. Persons that owe Suit to County-Courts, &c. making Attornies. See Stat. 20 H. 3.

Attornies at Law, Are those Persons as take upon them the Business of other Men, by whom they are retained. In respect of the several Courts, there are Attornies at large; and Attornies special, belonging to this or that Court only. An Attorney may be a Solicitor in other Courts, by a special Retainer: One may be Attorney on Record, and another do the Business; and there are Attornies who manage Business out of the Courts, &c. Anno 4 H. 4. it was enacted that the Justices should examine Attornies, and remove the unskilful; and Attornies shall swear to execute their Offices truly, &c. The Stat. 33 Hen. 6. 7. was made to restrain the Number of Attornies. And by 3 Jac. 1. cap. 7. Attornies, &c. shall not be allowed any Fees laid out for Counsel, or otherwise, unless they have Tickets thereof signed by them that receive such Fees; and they shall give in true Bills to their Clients of all the Charges of Suits, under their Hands, before the Clients shall be charged with the Payment thereof; if they delay their Clients Suits for Gain; or demand more than their due Fees and Disbursements, the Clients shall recover Costs and treble Damages; and they shall be for ever after disabled to be Attornies: None shall be admitted Attornies in Courts of Record, but such as have been brought up in the said Courts, or are well practised and skilled, and of an honest Disposition; and no Attorney shall suffer any other to follow a Suit in his Name, on Pain of forfeiting 20 l. to be divided between the King and the Party grieved. This Statute as to Fees to Counsel, doth not extend to Matters transacted in inferior Courts, but only to Suits in the Courts of Westminster-Hall. Carth. 147. Attornies, &c. are to take the Oaths to the Government, under Penalties and Disability to Practice. 13 W. 3. cap. 6. By a late Order of all the Judges, Attornies are to be admitted of some Inn of Court or Chancery, except House-keepers in London and Westminster, &c. And none shall be sworn an Attorney until he is thus admitted: No Attorney shall put himself out of the Society he is admitted of, till he is admitted of some other Society, and deliver a Certificate thereof: And all Attornies are to be in Commons the Times ordered by the Society to which they belong; and offending therein, shall be put out of the Roll of Attornies. Ordin. Mich. 3 Ann. Attachments have been granted against those who have disobeyed this Order, in not being admitted of some Inn, &c. after Service of the Order. And Attornies, &c. may be committed for doing any Thing against the express Rules of the Court, having Notice of such Rules: As they may also for any ill Practices. The Act 2 Geo. 2. c. 23. ordains, That all Attornies shall be sworn, admitted and enrolled, before allow'd to sue out Writs in the Courts at Westminster; and after the First of December 1730, none shall be permitted to Practice, but such as have served a Clerkship of Five Years to an Attorney, and they shall be examined, sworn and admitted in open Court; and Attornies shall not have more than two Clerks at one Time, &c. every Writ and Copy of any Process served on a Defendant, and also every Warrant made out thereon, shall be indorsed with the Name of the Attorney by whom sued forth; and no Attornies or Solicitors shall commence any Action for Fees till a Month after the Delivery of their Bills subscribed with their Hands: Also the Parties chargeable may in the mean Time get such Bills taxed, and upon the Taxation the Sum remaining due is to be paid in full of the said Bills, or in Default the Parties shall be liable to Attachment, &c. And the Attorney is to pay the Costs of Taxation, if the Bill be reduced a sixth Part. There is a Penalty of 50 l. inflicted, and Disability to Practice, for acting contrary to this Statute. By the 6 Geo. 2. cap. 27. Persons having served Five Years as Clerks to Attornies, though not bound by Contract; or who had been bound, but not served Five Years; and Sons of Attornies that served that Time with their Fathers, &c. were to be sworn and admitted. By 12 Geo. 2. c. 13. Attornies, &c. that Act in any County-Court, without being admitted according to the Statute 2 Geo. 2. shall forfeit 20 l. recoverable in the Courts of Record: And no Attorney who is a Prisoner in any Prison, shall sue out any Writ, or prosecute Suits; if he doth, the Proceedings shall be void, and such Attorney, &c. is to be struck off the Roll. But Suits commenced before by them, may be carried on. A Quaker serving a Clerkship, and taking his solemn Affirmation instead of an Oath, shall be admitted an Attorney. By the Stat. 22 Geo. 2. c. 46. Persons bound Clerks to Attornies or Solicitors are to cause Affidavits to be made and filed of the Execution of the Articles, Names and Places of Abode of Attorney or Solicitor, and Clerk, and none to be admitted till the Affidavits be produced and read in Court; none having discontinued to take any Clerk. Clerks are to serve actually during the whole Time, and make Affidavits thereof. Persons admitted sworn Clerks in Chancery, or serving a Clerkship to such, may be admitted Solicitors. By the Stat. 12 Geo. 1. cap. 29. If any who hath been convicted of Forgery, Perjury, &c. shall practise as an Attorney or Solicitor in any Suit or Action in any Court, the Judge where such Action shall be brought, hath Power to transport the Offender for seven Years, by such Ways, and under such Penalties as Felons. Attornies of Courts, &c. shall not receive or procure any Blank Warrant for Arrests from any Sheriff, without Writ first delivered, on Pain of severe Punishment, Expulsion, &c. And no Attorney shall make out a Writ with a Clause Ac etiam Bille, &c. where special Bail is not required by Law. Pasch. 15 Car. 2. Attornies are to enter and file Warrants of Attorney in every Suit on Pain of 10 l. and Imprisonment. Stat. 32 H. 8. And the Plaintiff's Attorney is to file his Warrant the Term he declares, and the Defendant his the Term he appears. 4 & 5 Ann. Action upon the Case lies for a Client against his Attorney, if he appear for him without a Warrant; or if he plead a Plea for him, for which he hath not his Warrant. 1 Lill. Abr. 140. But if an Attorney appear without Warrant, and Judgment is had against his Client, the Judgment shall stand, if the Attorney be responsible: Contra, if the Attorney be not responsible. 1 Salk. 88. Action lies against an Attorney for suffering Judgment against his Client by Nil dicit, when he had given him a Warrant to plead the General Issue: This is understood where it is done by Covin. 1 Danv. Abr. 185. If an Attorney makes Default in a Plea of Land, by which the Party loses his Land, he may have a Writ of Deceit against the Attorney, and recover all in Damages. Ibid. An Attorney owes to his Client Secrecy and Diligence, as well as Fidelity; and if he take Reward on the other Side, or cause an Attorney to appear and confess the Action, &c. he may be punished. Hob. 9. But Action lies not against an Attorney retained in a Suit, though he knows the Plaintiff hath no Cause of Action; he only acting as a Servant in Way of his Profession. 4 Inst. 117. 1 Mod. 209. Though where an Attorney or Solicitor is found guilty of a gross Neglect; the Court of Chancery has in some Cases ordered him to pay the Costs. 1 P. Williams 593. He who is At- torney at one Time, is Attorney at all Times, pending the Plea. 1 Danv. 609. And the Plaintiff or Defendant may not change his Attorney, while the Suit is depending, without Leave of the Court, which would reflect on the Credit of Attornies; nor until his Fees are paid. Mich. 14 Car. A Cause is to proceed notwithstanding the Death of an Attorney therein; and not be delayed on that Account: For if an Attorney dieth, the Plaintiff or Defendant may be required to make a new Attorney. 2 Keb. 275. An Attorney, Solicitor, &c. having Fees due to him, may detain Writings until his just Fees are paid: But if there be no Fees due to him, the Court on Motion will compel the Delivery of them. 1 Lill. 148. Any Papers may be detained by an Attorney till the Money is paid for drawing them; but he cannot detain Writings which are delivered to him on a Special Trust, for the Money due to him in that very Business, &c. if he doth, a Rule may be obtained that he shall deliver them by such a Day, or an Attachment shall issue against him. Mod. Caf. in Law and Equity 306. The Court will make a Rule for Delivery of Writings when they come to the Attorney's Hands by Way of his Business; and when they come to him in any other Manner, the Party must bring his Action. 1 Salk 87. Attornies have the Privilege to sue and be sued only in the Courts at Westminster, where they Practise: They are not obliged to put in Special Bail, when Defendants; but when they are Plaintiffs, they may insist upon Special Bail in all Cases. 1 Vent. 299. Wood's Inst. 450. And they shall not be chosen into Offices, against their Wills. See Privilege.

Attorney of the Dutchy Court of Lancaster. (Attornatus Curie Ducatus Lancastriae) Is the second Officer in that Court; and seems for his Skill in Law to be there placed as Assessor to the Chancellor, and chosen for some special Trust reposed in him, to deal between the King and his Tenants. Cowel.

Attorney General, Is a Great Officer under the King, made by Letters Patent. It is his Place to exhibit Informations, and prosecute for the Crown, in Matters Criminal; and to file Bills in the Exchequer, for any Thing concerning the King in Inheritance or Profits; and others may bring Bills against the King's Attorney. His proper Place in Court, upon any special Matters of a Criminal Nature, wherein his Attendance is required, is under the Judges, on the Left Hand of the Clerk of the Crown: But this is only upon solemn and extraordinary Occasions; for usually he does not sit there, but within the Bar in the Face of the Court. Mich. 22 Car. B. Attornment, (Attornamentum, from the Fr. Tourner) Signifies the Tenant's Acknowledgment of a new Lord, on the Sale of Lands, &c. As where there is Tenant for Life, and he in Reversion grants his Right to another; it is necessary the Tenant for Life agree thereto, which is called Attornment. It gives no Interest, but only perfects the Grant of another: And Tenant in Tail is not compellable to attorn, on the Reversion being granted; he having an Estate of Inheritance. 1 Inst. 316, 319. This Attornment is in Decd, or in Law; voluntary and compulsory; and may be made, as set down by Littleton, in these Words, viz. I attorn to you by Force of the Grant, or I agree to the Grant, or I become your Tenant, &c. Or by any Words or Act which import an Assent to the Grant. Litt. 551. 1 Danv. 623. It may be made by Payment of a Penny Rent, &c. to the Grantee. 1 Inst. 309. Where an Estate is granted to one for Life, Remainder to another in Fee, Attornment to the Tenant for Life is good to him in Remainder. 1 Inst. 312. By Feoffment of a Manor, the Services do not pass without Attornment. 1 Danv. Abr. 612. But if a Person comes to an Estate by Recovery; or where a Fine is levied of Lands; or by Deed of Bargain and Sale inrolled, according to the Statute, there needs no Attornment, they being so by the Stat. 27 Hen. 8. cap. 10. And if a Reversion be devised by Will to another, the Estate passeth without Attornments. 8 Hen. 6. This was a large Head in our Common Law; but now much of this Learning is out of Use: And by a late Statute, it is enacted, That all Grants and Conveyances of Manors, Lands, Rents, Reversions, &c. by Fine, or otherwise, shall be good without the Attornment of the Tenants of such Lands, or of the particular Tenant upon whose Estate any such Reversion, &c. shall be expectant or depending: But Notice must be given of the Grant, to the Tenant; before which he shall not be prejudiced by Payment of any Rent to the Grantor, or for Breach of the Condition for Non-payment. Stat. 4 & 5 Annæ. And Attornments of Lands, &c. made by Tenants to Strangers shall be void, and their Landlord's Possession not affected thereby: Though this shall not extend to vacate any Attornment made pursuant to a Judgment at Law, or with Consent of the Landlord; or on a forfeited Mortgage, &c. by 11 Geo. 2. c. 19.

Attrapper, (Fr.) Taken, or seized. Law French Dict.

Avage, or Avisage, A Rent or Payment by Tenants of the Manor of Writtel in Effex, upon St. Leonard's Day, 6 November, for the Privilege of Pannage in the Lord's Woods, viz. For every Pig under a Year old, an Half-penny; for every yearling Pig, one Penny; and for every Hog above a Year old, Two-pence.

Avantagium, Profit and Advantage.—Walterus Cantuar. Archiep. ad sedis firmam tradidit Johanni de B. terras in, &c. cum omnibus suis utilitatibus ac Avantagiis inde provenientibus. Regist. Eccl. Christi Cantuar. MS. Anno 11 Ed. 2.

Auctionarii, Auctionarii, Sellers, Regrators, or Retailers. Placit. Parl. 18 Ed. 1. But more properly Brokers.

Audience Court, (Curia Audientie Cantuariensis) Is a Court belonging to the Archbishop of Canterbury, having the same Authority with the Court of Arches, though inferior to it in Dignity and Antiquity. It is held in the Archbishop's Palace; and in former Times the Archbishops were wont to try and determine a great many Ecclesiastical Causes in their own Palaces; but before they pronounced their definitive Sentence, they committed the Matter to be argued by Men learned in the Law, whom they named their Auditors; and so in Time it grew to one special Man, who at this Day is called Causarum negotiorumque Audientie Cantuariensis Auditor Officialis. And to the Office of Auditor was formerly joined the Chancery of the Archbishop, which meddled not with any Point of contentious Jurisdiction; that is Deciding of Causes between Party and Party, but only such as are of Office, and especially as are voluntarie Jurisdictionis, as the Granting the Custody of Spiritualities, during the Vacancy of Bishopricks, Institutions to Benefices, Dispensations, &c. but this is now distinguished from the Audience. The Auditor of this Court anciently by special Commission was Vicar General to the Archbishop, in which Capacity he executed Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction of every Diocese becoming vacant within the Province of Canterbury. 4 Inst. 337.

Audiendo & terminando, A Writ, or rather a Commission to certain Persons, when any Insurrection or Great Riot is committed in any Place, for the Appearing and Punishment thereof. F. N. B. 110. See Oyer and Terminer.

Audita Querela, Is a Writ that lies where a Man hath any Thing to plead, but hath not a Day in Court to plead it: And it is usually brought where one is bound in a Statute-Merchant, Statute-Staple, or Recognisance, or Judgment is given against him for Debt, and his Body in Execution thereupon, at the Complaint of the Party, upon Suggestion of some just Cause

Cause why Execution should not be granted, as a Release, or other Exception. This Writ is granted, by the Lord Chancellor to the Justices of either Bench, willing them to grant Summons to the County where the Creditor lives, for his Appearance before them at a certain Day. F. N. B. 102. To Writs of Execution the Defendant cannot plead; so that if there be any Matter since the Judgment, to discharge him of the Execution, he is to have Audita Querela; upon which, the Justices shall hear the Complaint, and do Right: And Audita Querela cannot be brought on a Release, until Judgment is entered of Record. 1 Mod. 711. On a Statute, the Conusor or his Heir may bring Audita Querela, before Execution is sued out; but this may not be done by a Stranger to the Statute, or a Purchaser of the Land. 1 Danv. Abr. 630. 3 Rep. 13. An Audita Querela is in Nature of a Suit in Equity, where a Person is charged with a Debt that is paid, or being released, &c. 2 Cro. 29. And there must be a Charge and Burthen come, or coming upon the Party that is to have it, of which he ought by Law to be discharged; and then it is to be in such a Case wherein he hath no other Way to relieve himself. 2 Cro. 29. 1 Cro. 44. And it may be brought against the Prosecutor himself, and sometimes against him and others that ought to bear Part of the Burthen with him. Ketw. 25. If a Lessee covenants for him and his Assigns to repair, and the Lessee assign over, and the Covenant is broken; if the Lessor sues one of them and recovers Damages, and then sues the other, he may bring Audita Querela for his Relief. Bro. cap. 74. And where a Man hath Goods from me by my Delivery, and another takes them from him, so that he is liable to both our Suits; and one of us sue and recover against him, and then the other sues him, his Remedy is this Writ. Dyer 232. One binds himself and his Heirs in an Obligation, if the Obligee recover of the Heir, and after sue the Executors for the same Cause, &c. they may have the Writ Audita Querela. Plowd. 439. If two joint and several Obligors are sued jointly, and both taken in Execution, the Death or Escape of one will not discharge the other, so as to give him this Action; but if such Obligors be prosecuted severally, and a Satisfaction is once had against one of them, or against the Sheriff upon the Escape of one, the other may have it. Hob. 58. 5 Rep. 87. Judgment is had against a Sheriff on an Escape of a Person in Execution, and after the first Judgment is reversed for Error, the Sheriff shall have Relief by Audita Querela. 8 Rep. 142. If the Plaintiff hath had Satisfaction against one Trespasser, and he proceed to require it against the other; he shall have this Writ. Hob. 66. And where there is Judgment against three, and one of them taken in Execution, they may all join in Audita Querela, when they have Cause to have the same. 3 Cro. 443. A Plaintiff that sues an Administrator, has his Letters of Administration revoked; the Defendant must be relieved by Audita Querela, for he cannot plead it. Stile 417. If one accepts of a lesser Sum of Money for a greater Due, and after the Day, and yet sues the Bond; this Writ will not lie, because it lieth only where a Discharge is in Law. Trin. 18. Jac. 1. B. R. It may be brought by an Infant in the King's Bench or Common Pleas, to avoid a Statute acknowledg'd by him whilst he was within Age. 1 Cro. 208. The Writ Audita Querela may be had, where a Recognizance or Statute entered into is defective, and not good; or being upon an usurious Contract, by Durefs or Imprisonment, where there is a Defeasance upon it, &c. Moor, ca. 1097. 1 Brownl. 39. 2 Bull. 320. So upon shewing an Acquittance of the Cognisee, on a Suggestion that he had agreed to deliver up the Statute. 1 Roll. 309. Where one enters into a Statute, and after sells his Lands to divers Purchasers; or Judgment is had against a Man, who leaves his Land to several Heirs, &c. and one of the Purchasers, or one Heir alone is charged, he may have this Writ against the Rest to contribute to him. 3 Rep. 44. 2 Bull. 15. Upon Audita Querela brought, a Superedeas shall go to stay Execution: And the Judgment in this Action is to be discharged of Execution. Hob. 2. If an Audita Querela be unduly gotten, upon a false Surmise, it may be quashed. 1 Bull. 140. This Writ lies not after Judgment upon a Matter which the Party might have pleaded before. Cro. Eliz. 35. A bare Surmise is not sufficient to avoid a Judgment: But generally some Specialty must be shewn. Cro. Jac. 579. Upon a Release or other Deed pleaded, no Superedeas will be granted till the Plaintiff in the Audita Querela hath brought his Witnesses into Court to prove the Deed: And if Execution be executed before, Bail is to be put in by Allowance of the Court. 1 Lill. Abr. 151. On Allowance of Audita Querela, Bail must be given in Court; unless in Cases of Necessity, when it may be put in before two Judges. Palm. 422. And by Bail the Party is in Custody of the Law, and if he make not out his Audita Querela, he must render his Body in Execution again, or pay the Debt for which he is in Execution, or else his Bail must pay it. If after Judgment against Bail, the Judgment against the Principal is reversed, or the Money paid by the Principal; the Bail may have Audita Querela. Cro. Jac. 645. 8 Rep. 143. And it may be brought by the Bail to avoid an Execution against them, where no Process is sued forth against the Principal in his Life-time, &c. Goldsb. 174. If one taken in Execution be set at Liberty by the Plaintiff, and afterwards taken again and detained in Prison upon the same Execution, he may bring Audita Querela to be enlarged; for by the first Enlargement by the Plaintiff the Execution is discharged, and an Execution once discharged is ever discharged, and supposeth a Satisfaction. 1 Lill. 151. Where a Plaintiff in Audita Querela gets Judgment, he shall have Restitution of his Goods, though taken in Execution before the Writ brought. Sid. 74. If an Audita Querela is founded on a Record, or the Person bringing it is in Custody, the Process upon it is a Scire facias; but if founded on Matter of Fact, or the Party is at large, then the Process is a Venire. 1 Salk. 92. A Man nonsuited in an Audita Querela, may have a new Writ. F. N. B. 104. When Lands are extended on any Statute, &c. before the Time, Audita Querela lieth. 22, 46 E. 3. A Writ in the Nature of an Audita Querela, has been made out returnable in B. R. on a special Pardon, setting forth the whole Matter. Jenk. Cent. 109. And in some Cases after a Judgment, the Court will relieve the Party on Motion, without Audita Querela. 1 Salk. 93.

A Writ of Audita Querela.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To our Justices assign'd to hold Pleas before us, Greeting: We having received Information, by the grievous Complaint of A. B. That whereas C. D. in Easter-Term, &c. and now hath to the Damage of the said A. &c. whereas the said A. hath besought us to provide him Relief, and being unwilling that the said A. should be any Ways injured, and desirous that what is right and just should be done in this Case: We command you, that in Order to bear the Complaint of the said A. you call before you the aforesaid Parties, and such others as it shall seem meet to you to convene; and having heard the aforesaid Parties, and their several Reasons, you cause to be done full and speedy Justice to the said Parties, which of Right, and according to the Laws and Customs of our Kingdom, you shall see ought to be done. Witness, &c.

Auditor, (Lat.) Is an Officer of the King, or some other great Person, who examines yearly the Accounts of all Under-Officers, and makes up a General Book, which shews the Difference between their Receipts and Charge, and their several Allowances, commonly called Allocations: As the Auditors of the Exchequer, take the Accounts of those Receivers who collect the Revenues. 4 Inft. 106. Receivers General of Fee-Farm Rents, &c. are also termed Auditors, and hold their Audits for adjusting the Accounts of the said Rents at certain Times and Places appointed. And there are Auditors assigned by the Court to audit and settle Accounts in Actions of Account, and other Cases, who are proper Judges of the Cause, and Pleas are made before them, &c. 1 Brownl. 24.

Auditor of the Receipts, An Officer of the Exchequer, that files the Tellers Bills, and having made an Entry of them, gives the Lord Treasurer, &c. weekly a Certificate of the Money received: He makes Debentures to the Tellers, before they pay any Money; and takes their Accounts: He also keeps the Black Book of Receipts, and the Treasurer's Key of the Treasury, and seeth every Teller's Money locked up in the Treasury. 4 Inft. 107.

Auditors of the Imprest, Are Officers in the Exchequer, who have the Charge of auditing the great Accounts of the King's Customs, Naval and Military Expences, of the Mint, &c. and any Money imprest to Men for his Majesty's Service. Pract. Excheq. 83.

Auditores, Is the same with Audientes, i. e. the Catechumens, or those who were newly instructed in the Mysteries of the Christian Religion before they were admitted to Baptism; and Auditorium is that Place in the Church where they stood to hear, and be instructed. 'Tis what we now call Navis Ecclesie: And in the Primitive Times, the Church was so strict in keeping the People together in that Place, that the Person who went from thence in Sermon Time was excommunicated. Blount.

Avenage, (from the Lat. Avena) A certain Quantity of Oats paid by a Tenant to his Landlord as a Rent, or in Lieu of some other Duties.

Avenoz, (Avenarius, from the Fr. Avoine, i. e. Oats) Is an Officer belonging to the King's Stables, that provides Oats for his Horses: He is mentioned 13 Car. 2. cap. 8.

Aventuræ, Adventures or Trials of Skill at Arms, and signifies Military Exercises on Horseback. — Affisa de Armis 36 Hen. 3. Brady's Append. Hist. Eng. 250. And 'tis mentioned in Addit. Mat. Paris. p. 149. Quod nulli conveniant ad turniandum, vel burbandum nec ad alias quascunque Aventuras.

Aventure, (properly Adventure) A Miscance causing the Death of a Man: As where a Person is suddenly drowned, or killed by any Accident, without Felony. 1 Inft. 391.

Avera, (quasi Overa, from the Fr. Ouvre and ouvrage, velut Operagium) signifies a Day's Work of a Ploughman, formerly valued at 8 d. It is found in Domesday. 4 Inft. 269.

Average, (Averagium) Is said to signify Service which the Tenant owes to his Lord by Horse or Carriage: But it is more commonly used for a Contribution that Merchants and others make towards their Losses, who have their Goods cast into the Sea for the Safeguard of the Ship, or of the other Goods and Lives of those Persons that are in the Ship, during a Tempest. It is in this Sense called Average, because it is proportioned and allotted after the Rate of every Man's Goods carried. Stat. 32 Hen. 1. 14 Car. 2. By the Laws of the Sea, in a Storm, when there is an extreme Necessity, the Goods, Wares, Guns, or whatsoever else is on Board the Ship, may (by consulting the Mariners) be thrown over Board by the Master, for the Preservation of the Ship; and it shall be made good by Average and Contribution. Stat. 49 E. 3. But if the Master takes in more Goods than he ought, without Leave of the Owners and Freighters, and a Storm arise at Sea, and Part of the Freighters Goods are thrown over board, the remaining Goods are not subject to Average; but the Master is to make good the Loss out of his own Estate: And if the Ship's Gear or Apparel be lost by Storm, the same is not within the Average. Leg. Rbod. If Goods are cast over board before half the Voyage is performed, they are to be estimated at the Price they cost: But if they are ejected afterwards, then at the Price as the rest are sold at the Port of Arrival. Leg. Oleron. Where Goods are given to Pirates by Way of Composition to save the rest, there shall be Average, by the Civil Law. Moor 297. — Average is likewise a small Duty, paid to Masters of Ships when Goods are sent in another Man's Ship, for their Care of the Goods, over and above the Freight. — Paying so much Freight for the said Goods, with Primage and Average accustomed. Words in Bills of Lading.

Average of Corn Fields, The Stubble or Remainder of Straw and Grass left in Corn Fields after the Harvest is carried away. In Kent called the Grattens, and in other Parts the Roughings, &c.

Aver Corn, Is a reserved Rent in Corn, paid by Farmers and Tenants to Religious Houses: And signifies by Somer Corn drawn to the Lord's Granary, by the working Cattle of the Tenant. 'Tis supposed that this Custom was owing to the Saxon Cyriac Seat, Church Seed, a Measure of Corn brought to the Priest annually on St. Martin's Day, as an Oblation for the First-fruits of the Earth: Under which Title the Religious had Corn Rent paid yearly; as appears by an Inquisition of the Estate of the Abbey of Glastenbury, A. D. 1201.

Aver Land, Seems to have been such Lands as the Tenants did plough and manure, cum Averis suis, for the proper Use of a Monastery, or the Lords of the Soil. Mon. Angl.

Aver Penny, (or Average Penny) Money paid towards the King's Averages or Carriages, or to be freed thereof. — Aver Penny hoc est, quietum esse de diversis Denariis pro Averagiis Domini Regis. Rastal.

Aver Stibet, A Custom or Rent formerly so called. Cowel.

Averia, Cattle: Spelman deduces the Word from the Fr. Ovre, Work, as if chiefly working Cattle: Though it seems to be more probably from Avoir to have or possess; the Word sometimes including all Personal Estate, as Catalla did all Goods and Chattels. This Word is used for Oxen or Horses of the Plough; and in a general Sense any Cattle. — Homines per Averia sua, viz. Equos & Bovos, & affros graviter distrinxit. W. Tborn. in Ed. 2. 'Tis used in the same Sense in W. 2. c. 18. Averia Elongata; see Elongata.

Averis Captis in Withernam, A Writ for the taking of Cattle to his Use, who hath Cattle unlawfully distrained by another, and driven out of the County where they were taken, so that they cannot be replevied by the Sheriff. Reg. Orig. 82. If the Cattle are put into any strong Place in the same County, the Sheriff may take the Posse Comitatus, and break into it, to make the Replevin. 1 P. & M. But when they are driven out of the County, he hath no Authority to pursue them.

Averment, (Verificatio, from the Fr. Averer, i. e. Verificare, Testari) Is an Offer of the Defendant to make good or justify an Exception pleaded in Abatement or Bar of the Plaintiff's Action: And it signifies the Act, as well as the Offer of justifying the Exception; and not only the Form, but the Matter thereof. Co. Litt. 362. Averment is either General, or Particular; General, which concludes every Plea, &c. or is in Bar of a Replication, or other Pleadings, containing Matter Affirmative, and ought to be with these Words, Et hoc paratus est verificare, &c. Particular Averment is when the Life of Tenant for Life, or of Tenant Tenant in Tail, &c. is averred. Ibid. Where one Thing is to be done in Consideration of another, on Contracts, &c. there must be an Averment of Performance: But where there is Promise against Promise, there needs no Averment; for each Party hath his Action. 1 Lew. 87. The Use of Averment being to ascertain what is alledged doubtfully, Deeds may sometimes be made good by Averment, where a Person is not certainly named; but when the Deed itself is void for Incertainty, it cannot be made good by Averment. 5 Rep. 155. Averment cannot be made against a Record, which imports in its self an uncontrollable Verity. 1 Inst. 26. Nor shall it be admitted against a Will concerning Lands. 5 Rep. 68. And an Averment shall not be allowed where the Intent of the Testator cannot be collected out of the Words of the Will. 4 Rep. 44. One may not aver a Thing contrary to the Condition of an Obligation, which is supposed to be made upon good Deliberation, and before Witnesses, and therefore not to be contradicted by a bare Averment. 1 Lill. Abr. 156. If an Heir is sued on the Bond of his Ancestor, it must be averred that the Heirs of the Obligor were expressly bound. 2 Saund. 136. Another Consideration than mentioned in a Deed, may be averred, where it is not repugnant or contrary to the Deed. Dyer 146. But a Consideration may not be averred, that is against a particular express Consideration; nor may Averment be against a Consideration mentioned in the Deed, that there was no Consideration given. 1 Rep. 176. 8 Rep. 155. No Averment will lie upon a Deed of another Use, against the Uses expressed in the Deed; but where no Use is expressed, or but incertainly, an Averment shall be admitted, and may serve for Addition or Explication. 2 Rep. 75. Averment may be of a Use upon any Fine, or common Recovery; though not of any other Use than what is expressed in it: It may be received to reconcile a Fine, and the Indenture to lead the Uses. Dyer 311. 2 Bull. 235. 1 And. 312. If an Estate is made to a Woman that hath a Husband, by Fine or Deed, for her Life; in this Case it may be averred to be made to her for her Jointure, although there be another Use or Consideration expressed. 4 Rep. 4. If a Piece of Ground was anciently called by one Name, and of late is called by another, and it is granted to me by this new Name; an Averment may be taken that it is all one Thing, and it will make it good. Dyer 37, 44. No Averment lies against any Returns of Writs, that are definitive to the Trial of the Thing return'd; as the Return of a Sheriff upon his Writs, &c. But it may be where such are not definitive; and against Certificates upon Commissions out of any Court: Also against the Returns of Bailiffs of Franchises, so that the Lords be not prejudiced by it. Dyer 348. 8 Rep. 121. 2 Cro. 13. When Certainty is expressed by Argument and Implication in Pleading, there it need not be averred. 2 Bull. 95, 142. A special Averment must be made upon the Pleading of a general Pardon, for the Party to bring himself within the Pardon. Hob. 67. A Person may aver he is not the same Person on Appeal of Death in Favour of Life. 1 Nels. Abr. 305. But Pleas merely in the Negative, shall not be averred, because they cannot be proved: Nor shall what is against Presumption of Law, or any Thing apparent to the Court. 1 Inst. 362, 373. The Statute of Westm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. gives the Averment, not summoned according to Law, &c. on a Bond given to the Sheriff or Gaoler, contrary to the 23 H. 6. there may be Averment by that Statute: Upon Bonds for Usury, the Usury may be averred by Virtue of 13 Eliz. And so in Case of Simony. Stat. 31 Eliz. But there is no Averment of Maintenance. Jenk. Cent. 94, 108, 121. By Statute, no Exception or Advantage shall be taken upon a Demurrer, for Want of Averment of hoc paratus est, &c. except the same be specially set down for Cause of Demurrer. 4 & 5 Ann.

Augmentation, (Augmentatio) The Name of a Court erected 27 H. 8. for determining Suits and Controversies relating to Monasteries and Abbey Lands. The Intent of this Court was, that the King might be justly dealt with touching the Profits of such Religious Houses, as were given to him by Act of Parliament. It took its Name from the Augmentation of the Revenues of the Crown, by the Suppression of Religious Houses: And the Office of Augmentation, which hath many curious Records, remains to this Day, though the Court hath been long since dissolved. Terms de Ley 68.

Avifamentum, Advice, or Counsel.—De Avifamento & consensu Concilii nostri Concessimus, &c. was the common Form of our Kings Grants.

Aula, i. e. A Court Baron, Aula ibidem tent. die, &c. Aula Ecclesie is that which is now termed Naveis Ecclesie. Eadm. lib. 6. p. 141.

Aumone, (Fr. Aumone, Alms) Tenure in Aumone is where Lands are given in Alms to some Church, or Religious House, upon Condition that a Service or Prayers shall be offered at certain Times for the Repose of the Donor's Soul. Brit. 164. Vide Frank-almoign.

Auncel-Weight, (quasi Hand-Sale Weight, or from Ansa, the Handle of the Ballance) An ancient manner of Weighing, by the hanging of Scales or Hooks at each End of a Beam or Staff, which by lifting up in the Middle with one's Finger or Hand, discovered the Equality or Difference between the Weight at one End and the Thing weighed at the other. This Weighing being subject to great Deceit, was prohibited by several Statutes, and the even Ballance commanded in its Stead. 34 Ed. 3. 8 Hen. 6. 22 Car. 2, &c. But notwithstanding it is still used in some Parts of England: And what we now call the Stilliards, a Sort of Hand-weighing among Butchers, being a small Beam with a Weight at one End, (which shews the Pounds by certain Notches) seems to be near the same with the Auncel Weight.

Aunciatus, A Word signifying Antiquated.—Sicut Charta eorum aunciata est & Libertas anterior. Brompton, lib. 2. cap. 24. par. 6.

Avoidance, In the general Signification is when a Benefice is void of an Incumbent; in which Sense it is opposed to Plenary. Avoidances are either in Fact, as by Death of the Incumbent; or in Law: And may be by Cession, Deprivation, Resignation, &c. In the first Case, the Patron must take Notice of the Avoidance at his Peril, so as to present within six Months to prevent Lapse to the Bishop; but in the last Case of Avoidances by Law, the Ordinary must give Notice to the Patron before he can have Title to present by Lapse. Dyer 347. There are Avoidances by Act of Parliament, wherein there must be a judicial Sentence pronounced to make the Living void: If a Man hath one Benefice with Cure, &c. and take another with Cure, without any Dispensation to hold two Benefices, in such Case the first is void by the Act 21 Hen. 8. c. 13, if it was above the Value of 8 l. During an Avoidance, it is said that the House and Glebe of the Benefice are in Abeyance: But by the Stat. 28 Hen. 8. cap. 11. the Profits arising during the Avoidance are given to the next Incumbent, towards Payment of the First-fruits; though the Ordinary may receive the Profits to provide for the Service of the Church, and shall be allowed the Charges of supplying the Cure, &c.

for which Purpose the Churchwardens of the Parish are usually appointed. The next Avoidance of a Church may be granted by Deed, where the Church is full: If a Grant be made of the next Avoidance when it shall happen, and the Church is void at that Time, this will make the Grant void as to that very Avoidance, but it may be good for the next. Turn after that. A Grant of the next Avoidance is no more than a Chattel, and goes to Executors. Right Clerg. 68.

Boirdupois, or Averdupois, (Fr. Avoir du Poids, i. e. Habere pondus, aut juste esse ponderis) Signifies a Weight different from that which is called Troy-Weight, which contains but twelve Ounces in the Pound, whereas this hath sixteen Ounces: And in this Respect it is probably so called, because it is of greater Weight than the other. It also signifieth such Merchandizes as are weighed by this Weight; and is mentioned in divers Statutes, as 9 Ed. 3. 27 Edw. 3. c. 10. 2 R. 2. c. 1. Averium Ponderis, full Weight, or Averdupois. Cart. 3 Ed. 2.

Bovee, Of a Church Benefice Britt. c. 29. See Advowee.

Bovory, (Fr. Advouerie) Is where a Man takes a Distress for Rent or other Thing, and the Party on whom taken sues forth a Replevin, then the Taker shall justify his Plea for what Cause he took it; and if in his own Right, he must shew the same, and avow the Taking; but if he took it in Right of another, when he hath shewed the Cause, he must make Cognisance of the Taking, as Bailiff or Servant to the Person in whose Right he took the same. Terms de Ley 70. If in a Replevin a Man justifies the Taking of Cattle in his own Right, he must say bene advocat captionem averiorum, &c. which is called an Avowry: And where he justifies in the Right of another Person, then he says bene cognovit captionem, &c. which is called a Cognisance. 2 Lill. 454. The Avowry must contain sufficient Matter for Judgment to have Return: But so much Certainty is not required in an Avowry, as in a Declaration; and the Avowant is not obliged to alledge Seisin within the Statute of Limitations. Nor shall a Lord be required to avow on any Person in certain; but he must alledge Seisin by the Hands of some Tenant within forty Years. 21 Hen. 8. c. 19. 1 Inst. 268. In Avowry Seisin in Law is sufficient, so that where a Tenant hath done Homage or Fealty, it is a good Seisin of all other Services to make an Avowry, though the Lord, &c. had not Seisin of them within sixty Years. 32 H. 8. cap. 2. 4 Rep. 9. A Man may distrain and avow for Rent due from a Copyholder to a Lord of a Manor; and also for Heriots, Homage, Fealty, Amercements, &c. 1 Nels. Abr. 315. If a Person makes an Avowry for two Causes, and can maintain his Avowry but for one of them, it is a good Avowry: And if an Avowry be made for Rent, and it appears that Part of it is not due, yet the Avowry is good for the Rest. An Avowry may be made upon two several Titles of Land, though it be but for one Rent; for one Rent may depend upon several Titles. 1 Lill. Abr. 157. Saund. 285. If a Man takes a Distress for Rent reserved upon a Lease for Years, and afterwards accepts a Surrender of the Lands, he may nevertheless avow, because he is to have the Rent due notwithstanding the Surrender. 1 Danv. Abr. 652. Where Tenant in Tail aliens in Fee, the Donor may avow upon him, the Reversion being in the Donor, whereunto the Rent is incident. Ibid. 650. If there be Tenant for Life, Remainder in Fee, the Tenant for Life may compel the Lord to avow upon him: But where there is Tenant in Tail, with such Remainder, and the Tenant in Tail makes a Feoffment, the Feoffee may not compel the Lord to avow upon him. 1 Danv. Abr. 648. 1 Inst. 268. If the Tenant enfeoffs another, the Lord ought to avow upon the Feoffor for the Arrearages before the Feoffment; and not upon the Feoffee. 1 Danv. 650. The Lord may avow upon a Disseisor. 20 Hen. 6. And if a Man's Tenant is disseised, he may be compelled to avow, by such Tenant or his Heir. A Defendant in Replevin may avow, or justify; but if he justifies he cannot have a Return. 3 Lev. 204. The Defendant need not aver his Avowry with an hoc paratus est, &c. And the Avowant shall recover his Damages and Costs, by 21 Hen. 8. By which Statute it is enacted, That if in any Replegiari for Rents, &c. the Avowry, Cognisance or Justification be found for the Defendant, or the Plaintiff be Nonsuit, &c. the Defendant shall recover such Damages and Costs as the Plaintiff should have had, if he had recovered. And by 17 Car. 2. c. 7. when a Plaintiff shall be Nonsuit before Issue in any Suit of Replevin, &c. removed or depending in any of the Courts at Westminster, the Defendant making Suggestion in the Nature of an Avowry for Rent, the Court on Prayer shall award a Writ to inquire of the Sum in Arrear, and the Value of the Distress, &c. Upon Return whereof the Defendant shall recover the Arrears, if the Distress amounts to that Value, or else the Value of the Distress with Costs; and where the Distress is not found to the Value of the Arrears, the Party may distrain for the Residue. The Learning of Avowries is abridged by the Stat. 21 Hen. 8. and the Intricacies of Process in Replevin, &c. much remedied in Cases of Distresses for Rent, by the 17 Car. 2. and 4 & 5 Ann.

Buscultare. Formerly Persons were appointed in Monasteries to hear the Monks read, and direct them how, and in what Manner they should do it with a graceful Tone or Accent, to make an Impression on their Hearers, which was required before they were admitted to read publicly in the Church, and this was called Auscultare, viz. to read or recite a Lesson.

Busturcus and Ostureus, A Goshawk; from whence we usually call a Faulkoner, who keeps that Kind of Hawks, an Ostringer. In ancient Deeds there has been reserved, as a Rent to the Lord, unum Auscurcum.

Buter Droit, Is where Persons sue or are sued in another's Right; as Executors, Administrators, &c.

Buterfoits acquit, Is a Plea by a Criminal, that he was heretofore acquitted of the same Treason, or Felony: For one shall not be brought into Danger of his Life, for the same Offence, more than once. 3 Inst. 213. There is also Plea of Buterfoits convict, and Buterfoits attaint; that he was heretofore convicted, or attainted, of the same Felony. In Appeal of Death, Buterfoits acquit, or Buterfoits attaint, upon Indictment of the same Death, is no Plea. H. P. C. 244. But in other Cases where a Person is attainted, it is to no Purpose that he should be attainted a second Time. And Conviction of Manslaughter, where Clergy is admitted thereon, will bar any subsequent Prosecution for the same Death. 2 Hawk. P. C. 377.

Buthority, Is nothing but a Power to do something: It is sometimes given by Word, and sometimes by Writing: Also it is by Writ, Warrant, Commission, Letter

Letter of Attorney, &c. and sometimes by Law. 11 Rep. The Authority that is given, must be to do a Thing lawful; for if it be for the doing any Thing against Law, as to beat a Man, take away his Goods, or disperse him of his Lands, this will not be a good Authority, to justify him that doth it. Dyer 102. Kelw. 89. An Authority given to another Person, to do that which a Man himself cannot do, is void: And where an Authority is lawful, the Party to whom given must do the Act in the Name of him who gave the Authority. 11 Rep. 87. It is a Rule that every Authority shall be countermandable, and determine by the Death of him, that gives it, &c. But where an Interest is coupled with an Authority, there it cannot be countermanded or determined. And 1 Dyer 190. The King may not give any one Authority or Licence to do any Thing that is Malum in se. 11 Rep. 86. See Licence.

Autumn, Is the Decline of the Summer. Some computed the Years by Autumns; but the English Saxons by Winters; Tacitus says, that the ancient Germans knew the other Divisions of the Year, but did not know what was meant by Autumn. Lindewood tells us, when the several Seasons of the Year begin, in these Lines,

Dat Clemens Hiemem, dat Petrus ver Cathedratus, Æsuat Urbanus, Autumnat Bartholomæus.

Autumnalia, Those Fruits of the Earth which are ripe in Autumn or Harvest.

Auxilium ad Alium Militem faciendum & Aliam Maritandum, A Writ formerly directed to the Sheriff of every County where the King or other Lord had any Tenants, to levy of them an Aid towards the Knighting of a Son, and the Marrying of a Daughter. F. N. B. 82. See Aid.

Auxilium Curie, A Precept or Order of Court for the Citing or Convening of one Party, at the Suit and Request of another, to warrant some Thing.—*Vocat inde ad Warrantiam Johannem Sutton de Dudley Chevalier & Isabellam Uxorem, ut habeat eos hic in Octabis S. Auxilium Regis, The King's Aid, or Money levied for the King's Use, and the Publick Service; as where Taxes are granted by Parliament.

Auxilium Viccomiti, A Customary Aid or Duty anciently payable to Sheriffs, out of certain Manors, for the better Support of their Offices. Prior de Kime Com. Linc. tenet duas carucatas terre in Thorpe per servitium xl. denariorum per annum, ad Auxilium Viccomitis. Mon. Angl. Tom. p. 245. An Exemption from this Duty was sometimes granted by the King: And the Manor of Stretton in Warwickshire was freed from it by Charter. 14 H. 3. M. 4.

Await, Seems to signify what we now call Way-laying, or lying in Wait to execute some Mischief. Stat. 13 R. 2. c. 1. It is ordained that no Charter of Pardon shall be allowed before any Justice for the Death of a Man slain by Await, or Malice pre-pensed, &c.

Award, (from the Fr. Agard) Is the Judgment and Arbitration of one or more Persons, at the Request of two Parties who are at Variance, for ending the Matter in Dispute without publick Authority: And may be called an Award, because it is imposed on both Parties to be observed by them. Ditum, quod ad custodiendum seu observandum partibus imponitur.

Spelm. An Award may be by Word, or in Writing; but is usually in Writing; and must be exactly according to the Submission. If an Award be according to the Submission by Bond, though it is void in Law, if it be not observed, the Obligation will be forfeited. 1 Danv. Abr. 515. Where Arbitrators award a Thing against Law, it is void: If more is awarded than submitted, the Award will be void; but when an Award seems to extend to more than in the Submission, the Words de & super præmissis restrain it to the Thing submitted. Cro. Eliz. 861. An Award may be void in some Part, and good in another Part, if it makes an End of all the Differences submitted: And if an Award be good in Part, and void in Part, the good shall be performed. 10 Rep. 31. 2 Saund. 293. An Award without a Deed of Submission, will be a good Bar of a Trespass. Danv. 548. But the Delivery of the Award in Writing, under Hand and Seal, &c. must be pleaded, and be exactly replied to by the Plaintiff, in Action of Debt on an Award, or it will be ill on Demurrer. Dyer 243. 2 Mod. 77, 78, 269. Debt on Obligation to perform an Award; which was, that the Defendant should enjoy a House of which the Plaintiff was Lessee for Years during the Term, paying to the Plaintiff 20 s. yearly, and for Non payment of this the Action was brought; and it was held to lie. 1 Cro. 211. The Submission to an Award may be by Bond, Covenant, or by an Assumpsit or Promise; or without all this, by a bare Agreement to refer the Matter to such a Person or Persons. 10 Rep. 131. Dyer 270. A Husband may submit to Award for himself and his Wife, for her Goods and Chattels, to bind her. But an Infant may not make any Submission to an Award, or any other for him; for it will be void. Plowd. 189. If several Persons do a Wrong to a Man, and one of these, and he to whom the Wrong is done submit to an Award; the other Persons, who were no Parties to the Submission, may take Advantage of it to extinguish the Wrong. 7 H. 4. 31. And where the Award of Recompence for a Wrong done is performed, that Wrong is altogether determined: Also the Award of a Personal Chattel, doth alter the Property of it, and give it so to the Party to whom awarded, that he may have Detinue for it. Dyer 183. A Submission is of all Actions and Demands, &c. though there be but one Cause or Matter between them, an Award may be made for this: And where two Things are submitted, and the Award but of one, it is good, if the Arbitrators have no further Notice of the other; though if it be of three Things, or some Particulars, with a general Clause of all other Matters, in that Case they must make the Award for the Things particularly named, without any other Notice given. Dyer 216. 2 Cro. 130. Godb. 146. If the Submission be by divers Persons, and the Arbitrators Award between some of them only, this is good: But if a Submission is of certain Things in Special, with a Proviso in the Condition, that the Award be made of the Premises, &c. by such a Day, there the Award must be made of all, or it will be void. 8 Rep. 79. Hob. 49. An Award of all Actions Real, when the Submission is of Actions personal, is not good. Plowd. 306. 10 Rep. 132. Yet if the Submission be of Things personal, and the Award is, that one of the Parties shall do an Act real, in Satisfaction of a personal Injury, &c. or a Submission be of one Thing, and the Award made of something incident to, or necessarily depending upon it; or if the Submission is of all Actions Real and Personal, and the Award only of Matters Personal, &c. it will be good in these Cases; if nothing else is notified to the Arbitrators. Dyer 216. An Award made only on one Side, without any Thing on the other, is void in Law: As that one shall pay or give Bond for Money to the other Party, and he do nothing for it; but if it be to give Bond to pay, or to pay a Debt, and that the other shall be discharged of the Debt, &c. this is good: So where it is, that one Party shall pay Money to the other, and then the other shall release all Actions to him. 8 Rep. 72, 98. If divers Trespasses be referred to Arbitrament, and the Award is, that one of the Parties shall make the other Party Amends, or give a Release, and say not what Amends, or what Release, &c. it is void for Incertainty. 5 Rep. March 18. Award was, that each Party should give to the other a general Release of all Demands; provided, that if either of them dislike the Award within twenty Days after made, and within that Time pay 10s. the Arbitrament to be void: It was held that the first Part of the Award was good, and the Proviso repugnant and void. 1 Cro. 688. Arbitrators are to make their Award secundum allegata & probata, but they may not injoin any Oath to the Witnesses: The Award ought to be published; and no one is bound to perform till he can know what the Award is. 4 Rep. 82. Brownl. 311. A Submission to Award may be revoked and countermanded, before the Award made; where there is no Speciality to abide the Award of J. S. &c. 8 Rep. 81, 78. By Stat. 9 & 10 W. 3. cap. 13. Submissions to Awards, by Agreement of the Parties, may be made a Rule of any of his Majesty's Courts of Record; and on a Rule of Court thereupon, the Parties shall be finally concluded by such Arbitrament: And in Case of Disobedience thereto, the Party refusing to perform the same, shall be subject to the Penalties of contemning a Rule of Court, &c. unless it appears on Oath that such Award was unduly procured, when it shall be set aside: But this Statute extends only to personal Matters, for which there is no other Remedy but by personal Action, or by Suit in Equity. Attachment lies for Non-performance of an Award made a Rule of Court; after personal Demand of Performance. 1 Salk. 83. In making a Submission to an Award a Rule of the Court of Chancery, which the Parties may agree to, it must be done pursuant to the Act of Parliament; and the Method is to move that Court, to confirm the Award, upon the Master's Report: Though if there be such Submission to a Reference, and the Award made is to be confirmed by Decree, without Appeal; yet Exceptions may be taken thereto. 2 Vern. 109. See 1 Mod. 21. And vide Arbitrator.

Form of an Award on a Submission.

TO all People to whom this present Writing indented of Award shall come, Greeting: Whereas there are several Accounts depending, and divers Controversies and Disputes have lately arisen between A. B. of, &c. Gent. and C. D. of, &c. all which Controversies and Disputes are chiefly touching and concerning, &c. And whereas for the putting an End to the said Differences and Disputes, they the said A. B. and C. D. by their several Bonds or Obligations bearing Date, &c. are become bound each to the other of them in the penal Sum of, &c. to stand to, and abide the Award and final Determination of us E. F. G. H. &c. so as the said Award be made in Writing, and ready to be deliver'd to the Parties in Difference on or before, &c. next, as by the said Obligations, and the Conditions thereof may appear. Now know ye, That we the said Arbitrators, whose Names are hereunto subscribed, and Seals affixed, taking upon us the Burthen of the said Award, and having fully examined and duly considered the Proofs and Allegations of both the said Parties, do for the settling Amity and Friendship between them, make and publish this our Award, by and between the said Parties in Manner following, that is to say; Imprimis, We do Award and Order, that all Actions, Suits, Quarrels and Controversies whatsoever had, moved, arisen or depending between the said Parties in Law or Equity for any manner of Cause whatsoever, touching the said, &c. to the Day of the Date hereof, shall cease and be no further prosecuted, and that each of the said Parties shall pay and bear his own Costs and Charges, in any wise relating to, or concerning the said Premises. And we do also Award and Order that the said A. B. shall pay or cause to be paid to the said C. D. the Sum of, &c. within the Space of, &c. And also at his own Costs and Charges do, &c. And further we do Award and Order that the said C. D. shall pay, or cause to be paid, to the said A. B. the Sum of, &c. on or before, &c. or give sufficient Security for the same to the said A. B. &c. And we do Award and order that, &c. And lastly, we do Award and Order that the said A. B. and C. D. on the Receipt of the several Sums, &c. abovementioned, shall in due Form of Law execute each to the other of them general Releases sufficient for the Releasing by each to the other of them, his Executors and Administrators, of all Actions, Suits, Arrests, Quarrels, Controversies and Demands whatsoever touching or concerning the Premises aforesaid, or any Matter or Thing thereunto relating, from the Beginning of the World until the Day of, &c. last. In Witness, &c.

Atom, or Aume, (Teut. Obm, i. e. cadus vel mensura) A Measure of Rhenish Wine, containing forty Gallons; mentioned in the Statute 1 Jac. 1. cap. 33. and 12 Car. 2. cap. 4. This Word is otherwise called Acvame, as you may read in a very old printed Book. — The Rood of Rhenish Wine of Dordrecht is ten Awmes, and every Awme fifty Gallons. The Rood of Antwerp is fourteen Awmes, and every Awme thirty-five Gallons. And by this Account it contains different Quantities, in several Countries.

Axe and Axen, Comes from the Saxon Verb Axian, to demand, and from hence we have our English Word Ask. In Somersetshire and some other Countries of England, in the Country Dialect the Word Axe is made use of for Ask.

Ayel, and Besaiel, A Writ that lies for an Heir dispossessed of his Inheritance left by his Grandfather, or Great Grandfather, &c. See Aile.

Azaldus, Signifies a poor Horse or Jade — Affri, Azaldi, & alii Equi valoris, &c. Claus. 4 Ed. 3.

B.

Baca, A Hook or Link of Iron, or Staple. — In axibus emptis & carreis exandis novem denarios in colariis, bacis & sellis ad idem emptis xiii. den. — Consuetudin. domus de Farendon, MS. penes Wh. Kennet, f. 20.

Baccinium, or Bacina, a Bason or Vessel to hold Water to wash the Hands. — Non topeta, non moun-tergia, non Baccinia, & nil omnino per violentiam exigatur. Simeon Dunelm. Anno 1126. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. p. 191. — Petrus filius Petri Picot tenet medietatem Heydenæ per Serjantiam serviendi de Bacinis. — This was a Service of holding the Bason, or Waiting at the Bason, on the Day of the King's Coronation. Lib. Rub. Scaccar. f. 137.

Bacheloría, The Commonalty as distinguished from Baronage. — Festivitate S. Edmundi Regis & Confessoris, in quindenam S. Michaelis apud Westmonasterium, per Dominum Regem regaliter celebrata Communitas Bacheleria Angliæ significavit Domino Edwardo filio Regis, &c. Annal. Burton. p. 426. sub. an. 1259.

Bacheloz, (Baccalaureus, from the Fr. Bachelier, viz. Tyro, a Learner:) In the Universities there are Bachelors of Arts, &c. which is the first Degree taken by Students, before they come to greater Dignity. And those that are called Bachelors of the Companies of London, are such of each Company, as are springing towards the Estate of those that are employed in Council, but as yet are inferiors; for every of the twelve twelve Companies consists of a Master, two Wardens, the Livery, (which are Assistants in Matters of Council, or such as the Assistants are chosen out of), and the Bachelors. The Word Bachelor is used 13 R. 2. and signifies the same with Knight-Bachelor. By 3 E. 4. c. 5. it is a simple Knight, and not Knight Banneret, or Knight of the Bath. Anno 28 E. 3. a Petition was recorded in the Tower, beginning thus: A nostre Seigneur le Roy monstrent votre simple Bachelor, Johan de Bures, &c. Bachelor was anciently attributed to the Admiral of England, if he were under a Baron. In Pat. 8. R. 2. we read of a Baccalarius Regis. And touching the further Etymology of this Word, Baccalarii (teste Renano) a Bacillo nominati sunt, quia primi studii Auctoritatem quæ per exhibitionem Baculi concedebatur jam consecuti fuissent, &c.

Backberinde, (Sax.) Signifieth bearing upon the Back, or about a Man. Braeton useth it for a Sign or Circumstance of Theft apparent, which the Civilians call Furtum manifestum; for, dividing Furtum into Manifestum & non Manifestum, he denieth the former thus; Furtum vero Manifestum est, ubi latro deprehensus est seiscus de aliquo latrocinio scil. Handhabend & Backberind, & insecutus fuerit per aliquem cujus res illa fuerit. Braet. lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 32. Manwood remarks it as one of the four Circumstances or Cases, wherein a Forester may arrest the Body of an Offender against Vert or Venison in the Forest: By the Affise of the Forest of Lancaster, (says he) taken with the Manner, is when one is found in the King's Forest in any of these four Degrees, Stable-stand, Dog-draw, Backbear, and Bloody-hand. Manw. 2 part, Forest Laws.

Baculle, A Candlestick properly so called, when formerly made ex Baculo of Wood, or a Stick. Hugo Episcopus Dunelmensis fecit in Ecclesia coram Altari tria ex argento Baculia, in quibus lamina die Nostræ perpetuo ardentia lucerent. Clothingham Hist. Dunelm. apud Wartoni Ang. Sac. p. 1, 723.

Badger, (from the Fr. Bagage, a Bundle, and thence is derived Bagagier, a Carrier of Goods) Signifies with us one that buys Corn or Victuals in one Place, and carries them to another to sell and make Profit by them: And such a one is exempted in the Stat. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 14. from the Punishment of an Ingrosser within that Statute. But by 5 Eliz. c. 12. Badgers are to be licensed by the Justices of Peace in the Sessions; whose Licences will be in Force for one Year, and no longer, and the Persons to whom granted must enter into a Recognisance that they will not by Colour of their Licences forestall, or do any Thing contrary to the Statutes made against Forestallers, Ingrossers and Regrators. If any Person shall act as a Badger without Licence, he is to forfeit 5 l. one Moiety to the King, and the other to the Prosecutor, leviable by Warrant from Justices of Peace, &c.

Bag, An uncertain Quantity of Goods and Merchandize, from three to four Hundred. Lex Mercat.

Baga, A Bag or Purse.—Carta Decani Ecclesie Litchfield, in Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. pag. 237. Ducentas Marcas pecunie in quadam Baga de Wballey.

Bagadel, The Citizens of Exeter had granted to them by Charter from K. Edw. 1. a Collection of a certain Tribute or Toll upon all Manner of Wares brought to that City to be sold, towards the Paving of the Streets, Repairing of the Walls, and Maintenance of the City, which was commonly called in Old English Begavel, Beibugavel, and Chipping-gavel. Antiq. of Exeter.

Bagadum, A Chest or Coffer; it is mentioned in Fluta, lib. 2. c. 21.

Bajardour, (Lat. Bajulator) A Bearer of any Weight or Burden.—Offerabant duos Iacifores in sua lapidina, & cariagium petreæ usque ad Navim, & de Navi usque duos Bajardours Servituros ad Ecclesiam. Petr. Blef. Contin. Hist. Croyland, p. 120.

Bail, Ballium, (from the Fr. Bailler, which comes of the Greek βάλλω, and signifies to deliver into Hands) Is used in our Common Law for the Freeing or Setting at Liberty of one arrested or imprisoned upon any Action, either Civil or Criminal, on Surety taken for his Appearance at a Day and Place certain. Braet. lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 8. The Reason why it is called Bail, is because by this Means the Party restrained is delivered into the Hands of those that bind themselves for his forth-coming, in order to a Safe Keeping or Protection from Prison: And the End of Bail is to satisfy the Condemnation and Costs, or render the Defendant to Prison. There is both Common and Special Bail: Common Bail is in Actions of small Concernment, being called Common, because any Sureties in that Case are taken; whereas in Causes of greater Weight, as Actions upon Bonds, or Specialty, &c. where the Debt amounts to 10 l. Special Bail or Surety must be taken, such as Subsidy-Men at least, and they according to the Value. 4 Inst. 179. By a late Statute, none shall be held to Special Bail on Procefs out of any Superior Court, where the Cause of Action doth not amount to 10 l. or upwards; nor out of any Inferior Court where it doth not amount to 40 s. Affidavit is to be made of the Cause of Action, and filed before some Judge, or Commissioner of the Court whence the Writ issues, or before the Officer issuing it, and the Sum specified in the Affidavit indorsed on the Back of the Writ; for which Sum Bail shall be taken, and no more: And if there be no such Affidavit and Indorsement, the Defendant shall not be arrested by his Body, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. c. 29. To make out Common Bail-Pieces; in the Margin you put the County, as Midd. ss. Then you write the Name of the Defendant, and underneath of his Bail, viz. A. B. de Paroch. &c. in Com. præd. Gen. Traditur in Ballium super Cep. Corp. Johan. Doe de Lond. Yeom. & Richardo Roe de eod. Yeom. And in the Margin, at the Bottom, you put the Name of the Attorney, as Edwards Attorn. and on the Right hand at the Bottom, Ad seclam C. D. Herein you are to observe, that the Sureties John Doe and Richard Roe are taken of Course: And in Special Bail, the Bail and their Additions are to be inserted instead of John Doe, &c. which is all the Difference from Common Bail. Præf. Attorn. Edit. 1. These Bail Pieces are written on a small square Piece of Parchment, with the Corners cut off at Bottom; and if Common, they are to be filed in the Office with the Clerk of the Common Bails, within six Days after the End of the Term the Attorney appears: And Special Bail, which is taken before a Judge, or by Commissioners in the Country, when accepted, is to be filed; after Twenty Days Notice given of putting in Special Bail before a Judge, on a Cepi Corpus, if there be no Exception, the Bail shall be filed in four Days. 1 Lill. Abr. 174. Upon a Cepi Corpus Twenty Days are allowed to except against the Bail: So on a Writ of Error; and you need not give Notice; but you cannot take out Execution without giving a Four Days Rule to put in better Bail: In all other Cases, Notice must be given. Upon a Habeas Corpus, Eight and twenty Days are appointed to except against the Bail, and after that, if it be not excepted against, it shall be filed in Four Days. 1 Salk. 98. The Exception to Bail put in before a Judge, must be entered in the Bail-Book, at the Judge's Chamber, at the Side of the Bail there put in, after this Manner: I do except against this Bail, A. B. Attorn. pro Quer. And if there be no such Exception, the Defendant's Attorney may take the Bail-Piece away from the Judge's Chamber, and file it. After the Roll is mark'd to have Special Bail, Common Bail may not be filed; but where the Roll is not thus thus marked, or where the Cause of Action is not expressed in the Writ, Common Bail is to be entered. Bail is not properly such until it is filed, when it is of Record: But it shall be accounted good, till the same is questioned and disallowed. When Cognisors of Bail are questioned, they are to justify themselves in open Court, by Oath of their Abilities; or before one of the Judges of the Court; or by Affidavit before Commissioners as took the Bail: And the Court may adjudge Bail sufficient, when the Plaintiff will not accept of it. Also the Court on Motion, or a Judge at his Chamber, will order a common Appearance to be taken, when Special Bail is not required, on Affidavit made by the Defendant of the Debt due, &c. The Putting in of a Declaration, and the Acceptance of it by the Defendant's Attorney with the Privy of the Plaintiff's Attorney, is an Acceptance of the Bail. If a Plaintiff accepts of an Assignment of the Bail-Bond, and the Defendant puts in the same Bail that were put in to the Sheriff at the Return of the Writ, the Plaintiff cannot except against them; but 'tis otherwise where he hath not taken an Assignment. Farrell. Mod. Caf. 62. When a Sheriff hath taken good Bail of the Defendant, he will on a Rule return a Cepi, and assign the Bail-Bond to the Plaintiff, which may be done by Indorsement without Stamp; so as it be stamp before Action brought thereupon; and then the Defendant and Bail may be arrested on the Bond, by the Plaintiff in his own Name. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. But if the Plaintiff take an Assignment of the Bail-Bond, though the Bail is insufficient, the Court will not amerce the Sheriff. 1 Salk. 99. By the ancient Practice, a Bail-Bond could not be put in Suit till a Rule was had to amerce the Sheriff, for not having the Body at the Return of the Writ; and the Course now is, to stay Proceedings on the Bail-Bond, if there is no Return of a Cepi Corpus. Mod. Caf. 229. 3 Salk. 57. In Case the Defendant doth not find Common or Special Bail, the Attorney for the Plaintiff is to call on the Sheriff for his Return of the Writ; on Default whereof, a Rule being made upon it, the Sheriff shall be amerced, or summoned before a Judge to shew Cause, &c. And if on a Cepi Corpus no Bail is returned, a Rule will be made out to bring in the Defendant's Body. Though a Defendant, with Leave of the Court, may deposit Money in Court instead of Bail; and in such Case the Plaintiff shall be ordered to waive other Bail. Lill. Abr. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. Bail to the Action is to be taken before none but a Judge of the Court; but for Appearance may be before any Officer, and if it be illegally taken, it will not oblige one as Bail. 2 Cro. 94. Sheriffs, &c. are to let to Bail Persons by them arrested by Force of any Writ, in any Personal Action, &c. upon reasonable Sureties, having sufficient within the County to keep their Days in such Place, &c. as the Writs require. Stat. 23 Hen. 6. c. 10. And the Stat. 2 W. & M. provides against excessive Bail. No Defendant arrested by Process shall be compelled to put in Bail for a greater Sum than contain'd in the Writ or Process; and if any Plaintiff shall declare against a Defendant upon any Bail by him put in, for a greater Sum than is expressed in the Process upon which the Defendant was arrested, then that Bail shall not be liable to the Action. 1 Lill. 181. But it is said Bail are liable to all Actions of the Plaintiff the same Term wherein he shall declare against the Defendant: Yet where an Attorney appeared for one in the King's Bench, and Special Bail was entered for his Client to that Action; it was agreed, that the Bail is not bound to stand Bail to all other Actions that shall be declared in against the Party in the By: But the Attorney is obliged to appear for him in all such Actions, and to put in Common Bail. Stile 464. If more Damages, &c. are recovered than mentioned in the Plaintiff, or than the Sum wherein the Bail is bound, the Bail will not be liable. 1 Salk. 102. So where a Declaration is laid in another County, when the Original is sued out in London, and Bail put in there upon it. 3 Lev. 235. An Order of Court was made Anno 22 Car. 2. That in Case of Bail, if the Recovery be for a larger Sum than in the Ac etiam, the Bail shall not be chargeable at all: But by a late Order, Bail is answerable for any less Sum which the Plaintiff shall recover. Ord. Pasch. 5 Geo. 2. In Actions of Battery, Trespass, Slander, &c. though the Plaintiff is like to recover large Damages, Special Bail is not to be had, unless by Order of Court, and the Process is marked for Special Bail: Nor is it required in Actions of Account, or of Covenant, except it be to pay Money; nor against Heirs or Executors, &c. for the Debt of the Testator, unless they have wasted the Testator's Goods. 1 Dav. Abr. 681. And in all Actions brought in B. R. upon any penal Law, the Defendant is to put in but Common Bail. Yelv. 53. In Actions where Damages are uncertain, Bail is to be at the Discretion of the Court: On a dangerous Assault and Battery, upon Affidavit of Special Damages, a Judge's Hand may be procured for Allowance of an Ac etiam in the Writ: And in Action of Scandalum Magnatum the Court on Motion had order'd Special Bail. Raym. 74. Special Bail is ordered, by Rule of Court, in all Causes of Removal, whether by Habeas Corpus, Writ of Privilege, Certiorari, &c. except where the Defendant is sued as Executor or Administrator: And a Caveat is to be entered with the Judges for good Bail. And when Bail is taken by the Chief Justice, or other Judge on a Habeas Corpus, the Bail taken in the inferior Court is dismissed; though the last Bail be not filed presently, nor till the next Term. Yelv. 120, 121. Yet it has been held, where a Cause is removed out of an inferior Court by Habeas Corpus, if the Bail below offer themselves to be Bail above, they shall be taken, not being excepted against below, unless the Cause comes out of London. 1 Salk. 97. If a Cause removed from an inferior Court, be remanded back by Procedendo the same Term, the Original Bail in the inferior Court are chargeable, but not if remanded in another Term. 2 Cro. 363. One in Execution in Custody of the Marshal of B. R. is not compellable to find Bail, if another Action be brought against him. But if he be in the Prison of the Fleet in Execution, on Action brought in B. R. he must be removed into the Custody of the Marshal of that Court, or put in Bail to the Action. Trin. 24 Car. B. R. One taken on a Writ of Execution is not bailable by Law; except an Audita Querela be brought: But where a Writ of Error is brought and allowed, if the Defendant be not in Execution, there shall not be an Execution awarded against him, at the Request of the Bail, though he be present in Court. 1 Nelf. Abr. 331. The Bail ought not to join with the Principal, nor the Principal with the Bail, in a Writ of Error to reverse the Judgment against either. 2 Cro. 295. The Bail upon a Writ of Error cannot render the Party in their Discharge; because they are bound in a Recognizance that the Party shall prosecute the Writ of Error with Effect, and pay the Money if Judgment be affirmed. 1 Lill. Abr. 173. Before a Scire facias taken out against Bail, the Principal may render his Body in Discharge of the Bail: And if the Bail bring in the Principal before the Return of the second Sci. fac. against them; they shall be discharged. 1 Roll. Abr. 250. 1 Lill. 471. Anciently the Bail were to bring in the Principal upon the first Scire fac. or it would not be allowed. 3 Bull. 182. If Bail surrender the Principal at or before the Return of the second Scire facias, it is good, although there be not immediate Notice of it to the Plaintiff; and if through Want of Notice, he is at further Charge against the Bail, that shall not vitiate the Surrender, but the Bail shall not be delivered till they pay such Charges: If at any

Time after the Return of the Capias, the Bail surrender the Principal at a Judge's Chamber, and he thereupon is committed to the Tipstaff, from whom he escapes, &c. this will not be a good Surrender; but if it be before or on a Capias returned, it is otherwise, the one being an Indulgence, and the other Matter of Right. Mod. Caf. 238. When a Person makes his Escape out of Prison, and is retaken and bailed; the Bail shall be discharged on a Writ to the Sheriff commanding him to keep the Prisoner in Discharge of the Bail. Stat. 1 Ann. c. 6. On Capias ad satisfaciendum against the Defendant returned Non est Inventus, Scire facias is to issue against the Bail. Where a Defendant renders his Body in Discharge of the Bail, the Plaintiff is by the Rules of the Court to make his Choice of Proceeding in Execution, whether he will charge Body, Goods, or Lands. 1 Lill. 183. And if the Principal after Judgment renders not himself in Discharge of his Bail; it is at the Election of the Plaintiff to take out Execution either against him or his Bail: But if he takes the Bail in Execution, though he hath not full Satisfaction, he shall never after take the Principal; and if the Principal be taken, he may not after meddle with the Bail. Though where two are Bail, although one be in Execution, the Plaintiff may take the other. 2 Cro. 320. 2 Bulst. 68. If a Principal render himself, and there is none to require his Commitment, the Court is ex officio to commit him: And if the Plaintiff refuse him, he shall be discharged, and an Entry made of it upon the Record. Moor, Caf. 1249. A Defendant having rendered himself to discharge the Bail, and prayed Entry of it; the Court asked the Plaintiff if he would have Execution of his Body, and he said no: The Bail was discharged. 1 Leon. 59. See Hob. 210. There must be an Exoneretur entered, to discharge the Bail. If the Defendant dies before a Capias ad satisfac, against him returned and filed, the Bail will be discharged. 1 Lill. 177. On the Death of the Principal, 'tis impossible for the Bail to bring in his Body: And the Bail stand engaged that the Principal shall render himself, which must be intended upon Process awarded against him in his Life-time. 1 Nels. 328. A Bail cannot be a Witness for the Defendant at the Trial; but the Court, on Motion, will discharge the Bail, upon giving other sufficient Bail. Wood's Inst. 582. In the Court of Common Pleas, when the Plaintiff hath obtained Judgment where Special Bail is given, the Plaintiff may take the Defendant in Execution, or prosecute the Bail: And Part of the Debt may be levied on the Defendant's Goods, and the Remainder on the Bail; but if the Plaintiff take the Defendant's Body in Execution, he may not then meddle with the Bail. Inst. Leg. 91, 229. Execution may be had against the Bail, if the Defendant does not plead: And some of our Books say, that Lands of Bail are bound from the Time of the Recognizance, &c. entered into; and others that they are not but from the Time of the Recovery of the Judgment against the Principal. Cro. 272, 449. If a Defendant puts in Bail by a wrong Name, the Proceedings shall nevertheless be good; for otherwise every Man impleaded, may give a false Name to his Attorney by which he will be bailed, and then plead it in Arrest of Judgment. Goldsb. 138. But it hath been held, that if the Bail be entered in one Name, and the Declaration and all the Proceedings are by a contrary Name, it will be erroneous. 1 Cro. 223. So if these is Bail, and the Bail be taken off the File, the Plaintiff is without Remedy: Though a Habeas Corpus and Bail Piece being lost in B. R. new were ordered to be made out. Styl. 261. There is not only Bail to appear, &c. and on Writs of Error; but also in Audita Querela, a Recognizance of Bail must be acknowledged; and upon a Writ of Attaint, to prosecute, &c. Jenk. Cent. 129. In London 'tis said, Special Bail is to be given in Action of Account, &c. But on Removal by Habeas Corpus into B. R. that Court will accept common Bail. 2 Keb. 404. The Judges of the Courts at Westminster have Power by Statute to appoint Commissioners in every County to take Recognizances of Bail, in Causes depending in their Courts; and to make such Rules for justifying the Bail as they shall think fit, &c. Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. Writs which hold the Defendant to Bail, ought to have the Cause of Action expressed: And where the Cause of Action is not expressed in the Writs, &c. Bail are to enter into Bond for the Defendant's Appearance in a Sum not above 40 l. And on Appearance by Attorney, the Bail shall be acquitted. 13 Car. 2. cap. 2.

At the Suit of C. D.

As to Bail for Crimes, at Common Law Bail was allowed for all Offences except Murder. 2 Inst. 190. And if the Party accused could find sufficient Sureties, he was not to be committed to Prison; for all Persons might be bailed till convicted of the Offence. 2 Inst. 186. But by Statute it was after enacted, that in Case of Homicide the Offender should not be bailed: And by our Statutes, Murderers, Outlaws, House-burners, Thieves openly defamed, &c. are not bailable; but where Persons are guilty of Larceny, are Accessaries to Felony, or guilty of light Suspicion, they may be admitted to Bail. Stat. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 15. This Statute doth not extend to the Judges of B. R. &c. only to Sheriffs and other Inferior Officers. H. P. C. 98, 99. By the Common Law the Sheriff might bail Persons arrested on Suspicion of Felony, or for other Offence bailable; but he hath lost this Power by the Stat. 1 Ed. 4. c. 2. Justices of Peace may let to Bail Persons suspected of Felony, or others bailable, until the next Sessions: Though where Persons are arrested for Manslaughter or Felony, being bailable by Law, they are not to be let to Bail by Justices of Peace but in open Sessions, or where two Justices (Quorum unus) are present; and the same is to be certified with the Examination of the Offender, and the Accusers bound over to prosecute, &c. 3 H. 7. 1 & 2 P. & M. If a Person be dangerously wounded, the Offender may be bailed till the Person is dead; but 'tis usual to have Assurance from some skilful Surgeon, that the Party is like to do well. 2 Inst. 186. A Man arrested and imprisoned for Felony, being bailable, shall be bailed before it appears whether he is guilty guilty or not; but when convicted, or if on Examination he confesseth the Felony, he cannot be bailed. 4 Inst. 178. For where in Manslaughter, Felony, &c. it is certainly known that the Party did it, he ought not to be bailed. To refuse Bail when any one is bailable; or to admit any to Bail who ought not by Law to be admitted, or to take slender Bail, is punishable by Fine, &c. 2 Inst. 191. H. P. C. 97. If where a Felony is committed, one is brought before a Justice on Suspicion, the Person suspected is to be bailed, or committed to Prison; but if there is no Felony done, he may be discharged. H. P. C. 98, 106. The Court of B. R. bails in all Cases, and may bail Murder, &c. If a Man is found guilty of Murder by the Coroner's Inquest, yet B. R. may bail him; for they may examine into the Depositions taken by the Coroner. 1 Salk. 104. But if a Criminal be indicted of Murder, the Court will not bail him, though upon Affidavits of Evidence which might discharge the Prosecution: Nor when a Person is found guilty of any Crime by the Grand Jury, because they cannot have Notice of what Evidence was before the Jury, which by their Oath they are obliged to conceal. 1 Salk. 104. The Courts of King's Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer, in Term-time, and the Chancery in the Term or Vocation, may bail Persons by the Habeas Corpus Act; but not such as are committed for Treason, or Felony specially expressed in the Warrant of Commitment; unless it be where a Sessions is past from the Time of Commitment of the Prisoner, without any Prosecution, when he may be bailed. And B. R. will not admit a Person to bail on the Habeas Corpus Statute, on Commitment for Treason or Felony, without four Sureties. The Court of B. R. may bail Persons committed by the King's Special Command, or by the Privy Council, on the like Circumstances upon which it will grant Bail on other Commitments: This is where the Crime is specified in the Warrant of Commitment; and wherever any Commitment by the Privy Council hath not expressed with some Certainty the Crime alleged against the Party, it has been usual to admit him to Bail on his Habeas Corpus. 2 Hawk. P. C. 107, 109. See Stat. 16 Car. 1. cap. 10. Formerly Persons committed for Treason, by the King's Command, or Order of Council, were not to be delivered without Trial, &c. Upon a Commitment of either House of Parliament, when it stands indifferent on the Return of the Habeas Corpus, whether it be legal, or not, the Court of B. R. ought not to bail a Prisoner; but when it appears to be illegal, they may do it, as well as on an unwarrantable Commitment of the King and Council. 2 Hawk. 110. And a Person committed for a Contempt, by Order of either House of Parliament, may be discharged by B. R. after a Dissolution or Prorogation, which determine all Orders of Parliament: Also 'tis said on an Impeachment, when the Parliament is not Sitting, and the Party has been long in Prison, B. R. may bail him. The Court of B. R. hath bailed Persons committed to the Fleet Prison by the Lord Chancellor; when the Crime of Commitment was not mentioned, or only in general Terms, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 111. And B. R. having the Control of all inferior Courts, may at their Discretion bail any Person unjustly committed by any of those Courts. In admitting a Person to Bail in the Court of B. R. for Felony, &c. a several Recognizance is entered into to the King in a certain Sum from each of the Bail, that the Prisoner shall appear at a certain Day, &c. And also that the Bail shall be liable for the Default of such Appearance, Body for Body. And it is at the Discretion of Justices of Peace, in admitting any Person to Bail for Felony, to take the Recognizance in a certain Sum, or Body for Body: But where a Person is bailed by any Court, &c. for a Crime of an inferior Nature, the Recognizance ought to be only in a certain Sum of Money, and not

Body for Body. 2 Hawk. 115. And the Bail are to be bound in double the Sum of the Criminal. Where Persons are bound Body for Body, if the Offender doth not appear, whereby the Recognizance is forfeited, the Bail are not liable to such Punishment to which the Principal would be adjudged if found guilty, but only to be fined, &c. Wood's Inst. 618. If Bail suspect the Prisoner will fly, they may carry him before a Justice to find new Sureties; or to be committed in their Discharge. 1 Rep. 99.

Bailiff, (Ballivus) From the French Word Bayliff, that is Præfatus Provincia, and as the Name, so the Office itself was answerable to that of France; where there are eight Parliaments, which are high Courts from whence there lies no Appeal, and within the Precincts of the several Parts of that Kingdom which belong to each Parliament there are several Provinces to which Justice is ministered by certain Officers called Bailiffs: And in England we have several Counties in which Justice hath been administered to the Inhabitants by the Officer whom we now call Sheriff or Viscount, (one of which Names descends from the Saxons, the other from the Normans;) and though the Sheriff is not called Bailiff, yet 'tis probable that was one of his Names also, because the County is often called Balliva: As in the Return of a Writ, where the Person is not arrested, the Sheriff saith, Inframinatus A. B. non est Inventus in Balliva mea, &c. Kitch. Ret. Brew. fol. 285. And in the Statute of Magna Charta, cap. 28. and 14 Ed. 3. cap. 9. the Word Bailiff seems to comprise as well Sheriffs, as Bailiffs of Hundreds. As the Realm is divided into Counties, so every County is divided into Hundreds; within which in ancient Times the People had Justice ministered to them by the several Officers of every Hundred, which were the Bailiffs, as those Officers do in France and Normandy, being chief Officers of Justice within their Precincts. Custom. of Normand. cap. 1. And it appears by Bracton, (lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 34.) that Bailiffs of Hundreds might anciently hold Plea of Appeal and Approvers: But since that Time the Hundred Courts, except certain Franchises, are by the Stat. 14 Ed. 3. swallowed in the County-Courts; and now the Bailiff's Name and Office is grown into Contempt, they being generally Officers to serve Writs, &c. within their Liberties. Though in other Respects, the Name is still in good Esteem; for the Chief Magistrates in divers Towns, are called Bailiffs: And sometimes the Persons to whom the King's Castles are committed are termed Bailiffs, as the Bailiff of Dover Castle, &c. Of the ordinary Bailiffs there are several Sorts, viz. Bailiffs of Liberties; Sheriffs Bailiffs; Bailiffs of Lords of Manors; Bailiffs of Husbandry, &c. Bailiffs of Liberties are those Bailiffs who are appointed by every Lord within his Liberty, to execute Process and do such Offices therein, as the Bailiff Errant doth at large in the County; but Bailiffs errant or itinerant, to go up and down the County to serve Process, are out of Use. Bailiffs of Liberties and Franchises, are to be sworn to take Distresses, truly impanel Jurors, make Returns by Indenture between them and Sheriffs, &c. and shall be punished for malicious Distresses, by Fine and treble Damages, by ancient Statutes. 13 Ed. 1. 12 Ed. 2. &c. The Bailiff of a Liberty, may make an Inquisition and Extent upon an Elegit: The Sheriff returned on a Writ of Elegit, that the Party had not any Lands but within the Liberty of St. Edmunds Bury, and that J. S. Bailiff there had the Execution and Return of all Writs, and that he inquired and returned an Extent by Inquisition, and the Bailiff delivered the Moiety of the Lands extended to the Plaintiff, who by Virtue thereof entered, &c. and it was held a good Return. 3 Cro. Rep. 319. These Bailiffs of Liberties cannot arrest a Man without a Warrant from the Sheriff of the County: And yet the Sheriff may not enter the Liberty himself, at the Suit of a Subject, (unless it be on a Quo minus, or Capias utlagatum) without Clause in his Writ, Non omittas propter aliquam Libertatem, &c. If the Sheriff, &c. enters the Liberty without such Power, the Lord of the Liberty may have an Action against him; tho' the Execution of the Writ may stand good. 1 Vent. 406. 2 Inst. 453. Sheriff's Bailiffs are such who are Servants to Sheriffs of Counties to execute Writs, Warrants, &c. Formerly Bailiffs of Hundreds were the Officers to execute Writs; but now it is done by special Bailiffs, put in with them by the Sheriff. A Bailiff of a Liberty is an Officer which the Court takes Notice of; though a Sheriff's Bailiff is not an Officer of the Court, but only the Sheriff himself. Pasch. 23 Car. 1. B. R. The Arrest of the Sheriff's Bailiff is the Arrest of the Sheriff; and if any Rescous be made of any Person arrested, it shall be adjudged done to the Sheriff: Also if the Bailiff permit a Prisoner to escape, Action may be brought against the Sheriff. 1 Inst. 61, 168. Sheriffs are answerable for Misdemeanors of their Bailiffs; and are to have Remedy over against them. 2 Inst. 19. And the Court of B. R. will punish Bailiffs that misbehave themselves in executing Procefs, &c. Bailiffs of Lords of Manors are those that collect their Rents, and levy their Fines and Amercements: But such a Bailiff cannot distrain for an Amercement without a Special Warrant from the Lord or his Steward. Cro. Eliz. 698. He cannot give Licence to commit a Trespass, as to cut down Trees, &c. though he may licence one to go over Land, being a Trespass to the Possession only, the Profits whereof are at his Disposal. Cro. Jac. 337, 377. A Bailiff may himself, or command another to take Cattle Damage feasant upon the Land. 1 Danv. Abr. 685. Yet Amends cannot be tendered to the Bailiff, for he may not accept of Amends, nor deliver the Distress when once taken. 5 Rep. 76. These Bailiffs may do any Thing for the Benefit of their Masters, and it shall stand good till the Master disagrees; but they can do nothing to the Prejudice of their Masters. Litt. Rep. 70. Bailiffs of Courts Baron summon those Courts, and execute the Procefs thereof; they present all Pound-breaches, Cattle strayed, &c. Bailiffs of Husbandry are belonging to private Men of good Estates, and have the Disposal of the Under-Servants, every Man to his Labour; they also fell Trees, repair Houses, Hedges, &c. and gather up the Profits of the Land for their Lord and Master, for which they render Accounts yearly, &c. Besides these there are also Bailiffs of the Forest, of which you may read Mouwood, Part 1. pag. 113.

An Appointment of a Bailiff of a Manor.

K Now all Men by these Presents, That I W. B. of, &c. Esq; Lord of the Manor of D. in the County of G. Have made, ordained, deputed and appointed J. G. of, &c. my Bailiff, for me and in my Name, and to my Use, to collect and gather, and to ask, require, demand and receive of all and every my Tenants, that have held, enjoyed, or now do, or hereafter shall hold or enjoy any Messuages, Lands, or Tenements, from, by or under me, within my said Manor of D. all Rents, and Arrears of Rent, Harlots, and other Profits, that now are, or hereafter shall become payable, due, owing or belonging to me, within the said Manor; and in Default of Payment thereof, to distrain for the same from Time to Time, and such Distress or Distresses to impound, detain and keep, until Payment be made of the said Rents and Profits, and the Arrears thereof. And I do also further empower and authorize the said J. G. to take Care of and inspect into all and every my Messuages, Lands and Woods, within the said Manor, and to take an Account of all Defects, Decays, Wastes, Spoils, Trespases, or other Misdemeanors, committed or permitted within my said Manor, or in any Messuages, Lands or Woods there; and from Time to Time, to give me a just and true Account in Writing thereof: And further to act and do all other Things that to the Office of a Bailiff of the said Manor belongs and appertains during my Will and Pleasure. In Witness, &c.

Bailiwick, (Balliwa) Is not only taken for the County; but signifies generally that Liberty which is exempted from the Sheriff of the County, over which the Lord of the Liberty appointeth a Bailiff with such Powers within his Precinct, as an Under-Sheriff exerciseth under the Sheriff of the County; such as the Bailiff of Westminster, &c. Stat. 27 Eliz. cap. 12. Wood's Inst. 206.

Bailment, (from Bailler, to deliver) Is a Delivery of Things to another, sometimes to be delivered back to the Bailor that delivered them, sometimes to the Use of the Bailee to whom delivered, and sometimes to a third Person. This Delivery is called a Bailment; which may be simple, as to keep for my Use; or conditional, to be redelivered when Money is paid, &c. Upon Bailment or Delivery of Goods, these Things are to be observed: If they are delivered to a Man to be safely kept, and after these Goods are stolen from him; as he undertook to keep them safely, this shall not excuse him; but if he undertook to keep them as his own, he shall be excused. 2 Inst. 89. 4 Rep. 83. 1 Roll. Abr. 338. If where Goods are delivered to one as a Pledge, they are stolen from him, Action lieth not against him; because he hath a Property in them, and therefore ought to keep them no otherwise than as his own. Co. Lit. 89. A Man leaves a Chest locked up with another to be kept, and doth not make known to him what is therein; if the Chest and Goods in it are stolen, the Person who received them shall not be charged for the same, for he was not trusted with them. Ibid. And what is said as to Stealing is to be understood of all other inevitable Accidents: But it is necessary for a Man that receives Goods to be kept, to receive them in a special Manner, viz. To be kept as his own, or at the Peril of the Owner. 1 Lill. Abr. 193, 194. The Case of a Carrier, Innkeeper, &c. is different; for as they have their Hire, and thereby implicitly undertake the safe Delivery of the Goods intrusted with them, they shall answer the Value if they are stolen from them. 1 Roll. Abr. 338. If one deliver his Goods to another Person, to deliver over to a Stranger; the Deliverer may countermand his Power, and require the Goods again, and if the Bailee refuse to deliver them, he may have an Action of Account for them. Co. Lit. 286. And where a Man delivers Goods to another to be redelivered to the Deliverer at such a Day, and before the Bailee doth sell the Goods in Market-Overt; the Bailor may at the Day seize and take his Goods, for the Property is not altered. Godb. 160. One delivers a Ring to another to keep, and he breaks and converts the same to his own Use: If I deliver my Sheep to another to be kept, and he suffers them to be drowned by his Negligence; or if the Bailee of a Horse, or Goods, &c. kill or spoil them, in these Cases Action will lie. F. N. B. 5 Rep. 13. If a Man Bail Goods to one, to Bail over to another, and the Bailee, contrary to the Trust in him, doth not deliver but convert them to his own Use; he shall be chargeable both to the Bailor, and him to whom the Goods ought to have been bailed. 1 Bull. 68, 69.

Bairman, A poor insolvent Debtor left bare and naked. — Bairman qui debet fieri, jurabit in Curia quod nihil habet ultra 5 solidos & 5 denarios. Stat. Will. Reg. Scot. cap. 17.

Bakers, Making Bread under Weight, deficient in Goodness, &c. the same may be seized by Justices of Peace, &c. and Penalties are inflicted by Stat. 1 Geo. 1. So for Selling their large Bread at higher Price than set.

fet. 3 Geo. 2. By the Stat. 22 Geo. 2. c. 46. Bakers are to mark on every Loaf exposed to Sale, as White Bread a large W. as Wheaten Bread a large W. H. as Household Bread a large H. under the Penalty of 20 s. See Mayers.

Balkanifer, or Baldakinifer, i. e. A Standard-Bearer; 'tis mentioned in Matt. Paris. Anno. 1237. — Ed die Balkanifer, qui ut alii, qui ceciderunt, cruentifimam de se reliquit hostibus victoriam, &c.

Balconies, Or open Galleries for People to stand and behold Things, to be to Houses in the chief Streets of London four Foot wide, &c. Stat. 19 Car. 2. c. 23.

Bale, (Fr.) A Pack, or certain Quantity of Goods or Merchandize; as a Bale of Silk, Cloth, &c. This Word is used in the Statute 16 R. 2. and is still in Use.

Balenger, By the Stat. 28 H. 6. cap. 5. seems to have been a Kind of Barge, or Water Vessel. But elsewhere it rather signifies a Man of War. — Tandem pene solus fugiens in Balengario. Walsing. in R. 2. Hostes armaverunt quinque vasa bellica qualia Balingarias appellamur. Ibid.

Baleuga, A Territory or Precinct. Charta Hen. 2. See Bannum & Banleuga.

Balistarius, A Balister or Cross bow Man. Gerard de la Warr is recorded to have been Balistarius Domini Regis &c. 28 & 29 Hen. 3.

Baliva, Is expounded to signify Jurisdiction. Co. Lit. 105.

Balivo amovendo, A Writ to remove a Bailiff from his Office, for Want of sufficient Land in the Bailiwick. Reg. Orig. 78. For if a Sheriff chuse one to be Bailiff of a Hundred; or if the Lord of a Liberty elect one to be Bailiff of the Liberty, who hath not Land sufficient in the County to answer the King and his People, according to the Statute of Westmin. 2. then this Writ shall be sent to the Sheriff to discharge such Bailiff, and chuse another in his Place.

Balkers, Are derived from the Word Balk, because they stand higher, as it were on a Balk or Ridge of Ground, to give Notice of something to others. Sbep. Epitom. vide Conders.

Ballance of Trade, A Computation of the Value of all Commodities which we buy from Foreigners, and on the other Side the Value of our own native Products, which we export into neighbouring Kingdoms; and the Difference or Excess between the one Side and the other of such Account or Computation, is called the Ballance of Trade: Which Excess can be answered by us in nothing but our Coin or Bullion. The Overplus of Goods brought from our Colonies in America, and other Foreign Parts, with which we supply our Neighbours, is computed in Time of Peace at least to Ballance our Trade.

Ballare, Signifies Scopis expurgare. 'Tis mentioned in Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 87.

Ballaſt, Is Gravel or Sand to poise Ships, and make them go upright: And Ships and Vessels taking in Ballaſt in the River Thames, are to pay so much a Tun to Trinity House Deptford; who shall employ Ballaſtmen, and regulate them, and their Lighters to be marked, &c. on Pain of 10 l. Stat. 6 Geo. 2. c. 29.

Ballium, A Sort of Fortrefs or Bullwark—Eam Civitatem cum exteriori Ballio caſtri Bellatorum suorum inſultibus occupavit. Matt. Westm. Anno 1265.

Ban, or Bans, (from the Brit. Ban, i. e. Clamor) Is a Proclamation, or publick Notice; any publick Summons or Edict, whereby a Thing is commanded or forbidden. It is a Word Ordinary among the Feudists; and there is both Bannus and Bannum which signify two several Things. This Word Bans we use here in England, especially in publishing Matrimonial Contracts, which is done in the Church before Marriage, to the End that if any Man can speak against the Intention of the Parties, either in Respect of Kindred, Precontract, or for other just Cause, they may take their Exception in Time, before the Marriage is consummated: And in the Canon Law, Banns sunt Proclamationes sponsi & sponse in Ecclesia fieri solite. But there may be a Faculty or Licence for the Marriage, and then this Ceremony is omitted; and Ministers are not to celebrate Matrimony between any Persons without a Licence, except the Bans have been first published three several Times, upon Pain of Suspension, &c. Can. 62. See the Stat. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 35.

Bancate, A Covering of Ease and Ornament for a Bench, or other Seat; mentioned in the Monasticon, Tom. 1. pag. 222.

Bane, (from the Sax. Bana, a Murderer) Signifies Destruction or Overthrow: As, I will be the Bane of such a Man, is a common Saying; so when a Person receives a mortal Injury by any Thing, we say, it was his Bane: And he who is the Cause of another Man's Death, is said to be Le Bane, i. e. a Malefactor. Bract. lib. 2. tract. 8. cap. 1.

Baneret, (Banerettus, Miles Vexillarius) Sir Theo. Smith, in his Repub. Angl. cap. 18. says, is a Knight made in the Field, with the Ceremony of cutting off the Point of his Standard, and making it as it were a Banner; and accounted so honourable, that they are allowed to display their Arms in the King's Army as Barons do, and may bear Arms with Supporters. Camden, in his Britan. fol. 109. hath these Words, Baneretti, cum Vassalorum nomen jam desierat, a Baronibus secundi erant; quibus inditum nomen a Vexillo; Concessum illis erat Militaris Virtutis ergo quadrato Vexillo (perinde ac Barones) uti, unde & Equites Vexillarii a nonnullis vocantur, &c. 'Tis said that they were anciently called by Summons to Parliament: And that they are next to the Barons in Dignity, appears by the Statute 14 R. 2. c. 11. and 5 R. 2. Stat. 2. cap. 4. William de la Pole was created Baneret by K. Edward the Third, by Letters Patent, Anno Regni sui 13. And those Banerets who are created sub vexillis Regiis, in exercitu Regali, in aperto Bello, & ipse Rege personaliter presentis, explicatis, take Place of all Baronets; as we may learn by the Letters Patent for Creation of Baronets. 4 Inst. 6. Some maintain that Knights Banerets ought to be made in a Civil War: But Hen. 7. made divers Banerets upon the Cornish Commotion, in the Year 1495. See Selden's Titles of Honours, f. 799.

Banishment, (Fr. Bannissement) Exilium, Abjuration, is a Forfaking or Quitting of the Realm; and a Kind of Civil Death, inflicted on an Offender: There are two Kinds of it, one voluntary and upon Oath, whereof you may read Abjuration; and the other upon Compulsion, for some Offence. Staunf. Pl. Cr. f. 117. By Magna Charta, None shall be outlawed or banished his Country, but by lawful Judgment of his Peers, or according to the Law of the Land. 9 Hen. 3. c. 29. And by the Common Law no Person shall be banish'd, but by Authority of Parliament; or in Case of Abjuration for Felony, &c. but this is taken away by Statute. 3 Inst. 115. Stat. 21 Jac. 1. c. 28. See Abjuration.

Bank, (Lat. Bancus, Fr. Banque) In our Common Law, is usually taken for a Seat or Bench of Judgment; as Bank le Roy, the King's Bench, Bank le Common Pleas, the Bench of Common Pleas, or the Common Bench; called also in Latin Bancus Regis, and Bancus Communium Placitorum. Crompt. Just. 67, 91. Jus Banci, or the Privilege of the Bench, was anciently allowed only to the King's Judges, qui summam administrant justitiam; for inferior Courts were not allowed that Privilege. There is another Sort of Bank, which signifies a Place where a great Sum of Money is let out to Use, returned by Exchange, or otherwise disposed of to Profit: And a Bank of England managed by a Governor and Directors, established by Parliament, with Funds for maintaining thereof, appropriated to such Persons as were Subscribers; and the Capital Stock, which is enlarged by divers Statutes, is exempted from Taxes, accounted a Personal Estate assignable over, not subject to Forfeiture; and the Company make Dividends of the Profits Half-yearly, &c. The Funds are redeemable by the Parliament, on paying the Money borrowed: And the Company of the Bank, is to continue a Corporation, and enjoy Annuities till redeemed, &c. During the Continuance of the Bank, no Body Politick, &c. other than the Company, shall borrow any Sums on Bills payable at Demand; and Forging or Altering Bank Notes, or tendering such forged Notes in Payment, demanding to have them exchanged for Money, &c. is Felony. And Officers or Servants of the Company, that embezzle any Bank Note, &c. wherewith they are intrusted, being duly convicted shall suffer Death as Felons. Vide the Statutes 5 & 6, and 8 & 9 W. 3. and 7 Anne, &c. See also 1 Geo. 1. c. 12. and 3 and 11 Geo. 1. c. 8. and 15 Geo. 2. c. 13.

Bankers, The money'd Goldsmiths first got the Name of Bankers in the Reign of K. Charles the Second, as by the Words of an Act of Parliament, Anno 22 & 23 Car. 2. appears,—Whereas several Persons, being Goldsmiths, and others, by taking up or borrowing great Sums of Money, and lending out the same again for extraordinary Hire and Profit, have gain'd and acquired to themselves the Reputation and Name of Bankers, &c. thus runs the Statute: But Bankers of late are those Goldsmiths and private Persons in whose Hands Money is lodged and deposited for Safety, to be drawn out again as the Owners have Occasion for it; and the Bankers, instead of lending abroad the Money thus deposited, usually traffick with it in Exchange-Alley on the Stocks, &c. oftentimes to their great Advantage, they being generally Men of great Estates.

Bankrupt, (Bankus ruptus) Is so called, because when the Bank or Stock is broken or exhausted, the Owner is said to be a Bankrupt. And this Word Bankrupt is derived from the Fr. Banqueroute, which signifies a Breaking or Failing in the World: Banque in French is as much as Mensa in Latin, and route is the same as Vestigium; and this Term is said to be taken originally from the Roman Mensarii, which were set in publick Places, and when a Tradefman slipp'd away, with an Intention to deceive his Creditors, he left only some Vestigia or Sigas of his Table or Shop behind him. Covell. But a Bankrupt with us signifieth generally either Man or Woman, that Living by Buying and Selling hath gotten other Mens Goods into his or her Hands, and hideth himself in Places unknown, or in his own House, in order to deceive and defraud his Creditors. 4 Inst. 277. And by Stat. 1 Jac. 1. c. 15. a Bankrupt is thus described, viz. All and every Person who shall use the Trade of Merchandise, by Way of Bargaining, Exchange, Bartering or otherwise in Gros, or by seeking his or her Living by Buying and Selling, who shall depart his House, or absent himself, or suffer himself to be arrested for any Debt, or other Thing not grown due, for Money delivered, Wares sold, or other good Consideration; or shall suffer himself to be outlawed, or go to Prison, or fraudulently procure himself to be arrested, or his Money or Goods attached; or make any fraudulent Conveyance of his Lands, Goods, or Chattels, whereby his Creditors may be defeated in the Recovery of their just Debts; or being arrested for Debt shall lie in Prison six Months, or more, upon such Arrest or Detention, shall be adjudged a Bankrupt. The 21 Jac. 1. c. 19. hath other Descriptions of a Bankrupt; but they are all declared void by a late Statute. It is not Buying and Selling of Land, but of personal Things, that will make a Man liable to be a Bankrupt; nor is it Buying only, or Selling only, but both Buying and Selling. Every one that gets his Living by Buying and Selling in Trade and Merchandise, may come under the Denomination of a Bankrupt, upon his Failing therein. But Adventurers in the East-India Company, Members of the Bank of England, of the South-Sea Company, and other Societies, shall not be adjudged Bankrupts, in Respect of their Stock, &c. Also no Person concerned as Receiver General of Taxes, &c. shall be a Bankrupt: And Farmers, Graziers, &c. are excepted out of the Statutes; as Buying and Selling is not their only or principal Means of Livelihood. 14 Car. 2. 9 & 10 W. 3. 7 Anne, &c. An Inn-keeper is not within the Statutes, for though he buys Provision to be spent in his House, yet he doth not properly sell it, but utters it to his Guests at no certain Price. Cro. Car. 395. And a Taylor is not within the Statute of Bankrupts, because he lives by Making of Garments, and not by Buying and Selling. A Shoemaker hath been adjudged within the Statutes, as he lives by his Credit in buying Leather, and selling it again in Shoes, &c. And Carpenters in London, Weavers, Dyers, Tanners, Bakers, Brewers, Vintners, &c. may be Bankrupts: But Handicraftmen, Husbandmen, Labourers, &c. are not within the Statutes. Cro. Car. 21. Cro. Jac. 585. 3 Mod. 330. A Feme sole Merchant in London may be a Bankrupt. If a Merchant gives over his Trade, and some Years after becomes non solvent for Money he owed while a Merchant, he is a Bankrupt: But if it be for new Debts, or old Debts continued on new Security, it is otherwise. 1 Vent. 5. 29. A Banker who hath many Peoples Money in his Hands refuses Payment, yet keeps his Shop open, and as often as he is arrested gives Bail; by this Means he may give Preference of Payment to his Friends; and if when he hath done he runs away, such Payment shall stand against a Commission of Bankruptcy. Farest. Rep. 139. If after a plain Act of Bankruptcy, one goes abroad and is a great Dealer, yet this will not purge the first Act of Bankruptcy; though if he pays off or compounds with his Creditors, he is become a new Man. Trin. 2 Ann. 1 Salk. 110. A Man born in England goes over to Ireland, and there trades and buys Goods in England, and sells them in Ireland, and being indebted in England becomes Bankrupt, adjudged a Bankrupt in England. Raym. 375. A Gentleman of the Temple went to Lisbon, and traded to England and broke; it was adjudged he was a Bankrupt by Reason of his Trading hither and back again, which gain'd him Credit here, though he was out of the Realm. Salk. 110. Where there are two Partners in Trade, and one breaks, you shall not charge the other with the Whole; but the Estate belonging to the joint Trade ought to be divided, &c. Mod. Rep. 45. And if one of them becomes a Bankrupt, it will not affect his Companion. 3 Salk. 61. Acts discharging Bankrupts, shall not discharge any Partner in Trade, or one jointly bound with the Bankrupt. 1 Dawd. Abr. 686. A Merchant Trader indebted, keeps in another Man's House, or on Ship-board, adjudged a Keeping in his House: But a Withdrawing must be on Purpose to defraud Creditors; and if a Man goes sometimes at large, so as he may be met with one Time or other, it will excuse him. The Commissioners of Bankrupts have the Power to adjudge a Man a Bankrupt; yet in an Action the Jury must find whether he was so, or not. 1 Dawd. 687. He that is a Bankrupt to one Creditor, is accounted in Law a Bankrupt to all the Creditors; and being once adjudged so, is always so to the rest of the Creditors. 22 Car. 1. B. R. Commissioners may commit a Bankrupt refusing to be examined, &c. till he submit himself to be examined. 1 Salk. 151. But the Commissioners are not to commit a Bankrupt for not discovering his Estate, without examining him on Interrogatories. 1 Lill. Abr. 202. They are to examine the Bankrupt upon Interrogatories; and they have Power to examine others, as to what they know of any Persons carrying away any Part of the Bankrupt's Estate. 5 Mod. 309. Commissioners of Bankrupt have Power to sell, grant and assign, but they cannot bring an Action; for their Assignees must generally bring all Actions. 1 Mod. 30. The Creditors have a Right to the Bankrupt's Goods; by the Act of Bankruptcy, and thereby they are bound: Though until Assignment by the Commissioners, the Property is not transferred out of the Bankrupt. 1 Salk. 108. The Commissioners are to sell all the Bankrupt's Lands in Fee, for Life, or Years, &c. and it will be binding against the Bankrupt and his Issue, &c. 1 Lill. Abr. 204. They may sell all entailed Lands in Possession, Reversion, or Remainder, except entailed in the Crown, of the Gift of the King; and this shall bind the Issue in Tail, and all others, which a Common Recovery might cut off. Ibid. 205. But Sales of the Bankrupt's Land by Commissioners, are to be by Deed inrolled. If a Bankrupt grant his Lands or Goods in the Names of other Persons, the Commissioners notwithstanding may make Sale of them: But not Lands, &c. convey'd Bona fide before the Party became a Bankrupt. Wood's Inst. 310. And no Purchase of Lands shall be impeached, unless the Commission of Bankrupt be sued out within five Years after a Man becomes Bankrupt. Lands held by a Bankrupt in Jointenancy, may be sold as to the Moiety: Also Lands which a Person hath in Right of his Wife, (but not her Dower) Lands devised to a Bankrupt, the Commissioners may sell. The Commissioners have Power to sell Lands mortgaged, on Tender and Payment of the Mortgage-Money. 2 Rep. 25. And Assignees of the Commissioners, have the Benefit of Covenants of Re-entry, &c. on Lands. If a Bankrupt commits Felony, it is said his Lands shall not escheat, but the Commissioners may sell it: And his Creditors shall have his Goods, not the King. Stone 126, 130. All the Goods and Chattels of the Bankrupt, which he was possess'd of at the Time of his becoming Bankrupt, may be sold by the Commissioners; and notwithstanding the Bankrupt sell them in Market overt. Sale of Goods by a Bankrupt, after an Act of Bankruptcy, may be avoided by the Commissioners of Bankruptcy; and they may in this Case bring Trover for the Goods, or Debt, or Assumpsit for the Value, &c. 3 Salk. 60. Offices of Inheritance may be sold; but not Offices of Trust, annexed to the Person for Life. Assignees may bring Actions for Debts due to the Bankrupt in their own Names, &c. But if the Commission be not taken out within six Years, directed by Law for Suing of Debts, and the Assignment made within that Time, a Defendant in an Action may plead the Statute of Limitations: If the Commission be taken out in six Years, the Statute preserves the Debt, being to relieve the Creditors against Fraud, &c. 1 Saund. 37. When Money is obtained by Judgment in Action of Debt, and the Plaintiff becomes Bankrupt, and a Commission of Bankrupt is taken out against him, though the Sheriff may bring the Money into Court, it shall be delivered to the Plaintiff, and not the Assignee of the Commission, unless he take out a Scire facias against the Defendant, in order to try the Bankruptcy. 1 Vent. 193. A Plaintiff that hath a Defendant's Body in Execution, who becomes Bankrupt, shall not come in to be relieved by the Statutes: But if the Plaintiff recovers Damages, &c. against the Defendant, and hath Judgment, and then the Defendant becomes Bankrupt, the Plaintiff is a Creditor; for it is a Debt due to him, and Action of Debt lies on the Judgment. 1 Cro. 166. If a Debtor to a Bankrupt pays him his Debt voluntarily, he must pay it over again; but 'tis otherwise in Case of Payment by Compulsion of Law. 2 Vent. 258. Where one trusts a Bankrupt after he becomes such, he shall not be relieved as a Creditor. Sureties or Bail, when they have paid the Debt, may come in as Creditors: But Mortgagees, or Persons that have a Pledge of the Bankrupt's Goods, having Security for their Debts in their Hands, are not Creditors within the Statutes. Those that attach Goods of the Bankrupt, are to come in as Creditors. If an Executor becomes Bankrupt, a Legatee is to be Creditor. And Aliens as well as Denizens may come in as Creditors; for all Statutes concerning Bankrupts extend to Aliens, who shall be subject to the Laws against Bankrupts, &c. Hob. 287. Stat. 21 Jac. 1. The Commissioners, after Sale of the Bankrupt's Estate, are to make Distribution among the Creditors contributing to the Commission, first making the Bankrupt his Allowance, &c. And in the Distribution of the Bankrupt's Estate, no Respect is to be had to Debts upon Judgment, Recognizances, or Specialties, beyond other Debts. After four Months, and Distribution made, no Creditor can come in to disturb it; but he may come in for the Residue, of which no Distribution is made. 1 Dawson. 693. And the Court of Chancery hath sometimes allowed Creditors to come in after Distribution, upon particular Circumstances which have happened; and the Lord Chancellor ordered the Execution of the Commission to be suspended. Chan. Rep. 307. If Commissioners refuse to pay a Creditor his proportionable Part, he may bring Action of Debt, or be more properly relieved in Chancery: Where the Commissioners do not pursue the Acts of their Commission, the Party injured must bring his Action, and set forth the Finding of the Commissioners, that the Debtor is a Bankrupt. But if a Commission is not duly obtained against a Person, he may traverse, by Saying he is not a Bankrupt. 8 Rep. 121. By 1 Jac. 1. c. 15. In Actions against Commissioners, or others under them, executing any Matter by Force of the 13 Eliz. or that Statute, the Defendants may plead Not guilty, or justify that it was done by the Authority of those Acts, &c. without shewing forth the Commission; to which the Plaintiff may reply, that the Defendant did the Fact of his Wrong, &c. 1 Dawson. 694. The Statutes concerning Bankrupts are 34 H. 8. 13 Eliz. 1 Jac. 1. 21 Jac. 1. 4 & 5 Anna. 5, 6 & 7 Geo. 1. 3 & 5 Geo. 2. By the 34 Hen. 8. cap. 4. The Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, &c. is to take Order with the Bankrupt's Body, Lands and Goods. The 13 Eliz. c. 7. gives Power to the Lord Chancellor, upon Complaint in Writing against a Bankrupt, to appoint Commissioners to sell the Bankrupt's Lands, as well Copyhold as Free, Annuities, Goods, Chattels, Debts, &c. By 1 Jac. 1. cap. 15. Commissioners may assign Debts, &c. to the Creditors, and proceed to Execution, though the Bankrupt dies; Persons suspected to detain any of the Bankrupt's Goods or Estate may be arrested, and still refusing to deliver them, shall be committed; Creditors will be received if they come within four Months: And the Commissioners are to render the Bankrupt an Account, &c. The 21 Jac. 1. c. 19. inflicts a Punishment of Pillory on Bankrupts fraudulently concealing their Effects; and gives the Commissioners Power to break open the Bankrupt's House, Chests, &c. for Discovery of Goods; and another Person's Goods in the Bankrupt's Possession, as his own to sell, &c. shall be disposed of by the Commissioners. The 4 & 5 Ann. enacts, That Bankrupts are to surrender themselves to be examined in thirty Days, and discover and deliver up to the Commissioners all their Goods, Papers and Estate, or suffer as Felons; but the Lord Chancellor may enlarge the Time to sixty Days. Upon the Certificate of the Commissioners, the Bankrupt is to be apprehended: And the Commissioners are to assign the Bankrupt's Effects to such Persons as shall be chosen by a major Part of the Creditors; who may compound with Debtors, &c. By the 5 Geo. 1. c. 24. it is ordained, that Bankrupts within thirty Days after Notice, (which is to be given in the Gazette) shall surrender themselves to the Commissioners, and conform to the Acts, or they will be guilty of Felony: Also their Concealing Goods to the Value of 20l. is made Felony. The Commissioners are to call before them Persons as can give an Account of Acts of Bankruptcy: And

Trustees

Trustees for the Bankrupt, and others concealing his Estate, shall discover Trusts, &c. or forfeit 100 l. and double the Value. But Persons discovering the Bankrupt's Estate are allowed 3 l. per Cent. for such Discovery. There shall be three several Meetings appointed by the Commissioners; and the Commissioners are to certify to the Lord Chancellor, that the Bankrupt hath conform'd, and four Parts in Five, in Number and Value, of the Creditors must sign the Bankrupt's Certificate. None are to vote for the Choice of Assignees, whose Debt doth not amount to 10 l. and no Commission shall issue, except the Debt of one Creditor petitioning amounts to 100 l. of two Creditors 150 l. or of three Creditors to 200 l. And Bond is to be given of 200 l. Penalty for proving the Party a Bankrupt. Bankrupts conforming are to have an Allowance of 5 l. per Cent. not exceeding 200 l. where their Estates pay 8 s. in the Pound, &c. The 6 Geo. 1. c. 21. empowers any Judge of the Court wherein Judgment has been obtained against a Bankrupt, for any Debt owing before he became Bankrupt, the Bankrupt being in Prison in Execution on such Judgment, to discharge such Bankrupt on producing his Certificate. And by 7 Geo. 1. cap. 31. Persons having Bills, Notes, &c. upon Bankrupts, payable at a Day to come, shall be admitted to prove them as if due presently, and be intitled to a Dividend of the Bankrupt's Estate, allowing a Discount of 5 l. per Cent. and Bankrupts shall be discharged from such Notes: But no Creditor in Respect of such Debt shall join in any Petition for suing forth any Commission of Bankruptcy, till the Debt is actually due. By the 3 Geo. 2. c. 22. the Act 5 Geo. 1. was revised; and Persons declared Bankrupts before the Expiration of this Statute, were intitled to Relief and Discharge from Debts, and the Lord Chancellor to proceed, and allow of Certificates, &c. as if that Act was in Force; so as they obtained their Certificates before the 25th of March 1732. The 5 Geo. 2. c. 30. ordains, that if Bankrupts do not, after Notice in the Gazette, surrender to the Commissioners in forty-two Days, to be examined, and discover and deliver up all their Estates Real and Personal, they shall be adjudg'd guilty of Felony; but the Lord Chancellor may enlarge the Time for Surrendering, not exceeding fifty Days further: They are to deliver all Books of Account, Writings, &c. on Oath to the Assignees; and shall be allowed 5 l. per Cent. so as not to exceed 200 l. if they pay 10 s. in the Pound, 7 l. 10 s. per Cent. not above 250 l. if pay 12 s. 6 d. per Pound, and 10 l. per Cent. not exceeding 300 l. if they pay 15 s. in the Pound; but no Advantage is given to any Bankrupt, who hath lost 5 l. a Day, or 100 l. in a Year at Gaming, or 100 l. by Stockjobbing, &c. And the Body of the Bankrupt only, not his future Estate, to be discharged, except he pay 15 s. per Pound. Four Parts in five in Number and Value of Creditors, not for less than 20 l. are to sign Certificates, and consent to the Bankrupt's Discharge, &c. of which Oath is to be made, and other Creditors may be heard against it: Bonds or Notes given to any Creditor to consent to a Certificate, shall be void; and if the Person issuing any Commission have privately more than the other Creditors, the Commission may be superse- ded, and he shall lose his Debt. No Commission of Bankrupt shall be granted, unless the Debt of one Creditor amount to 100 l. or of two Creditors to 150 l. or of three to 200 l. And Affidavit must be made thereof, &c. Bankrupts are to be apprehended, on a Commission issued and certified, by Virtue of a Justice's Warrant, and refusing to be examined, the Commissioners may commit them: Notice shall be given to Creditors to meet and chuse Assignees, and prove Debts, &c. which they may do without paying Contribution. Persons discovering a Bankrupt's Estate, to be allowed 5 l. per Cent. Concealing Trusts, to forfeit 100 l. and double Value. New Assignees may be chosen by the Creditors; and the old ones shall deliver up Effects to them, under the Penalty of 200 l. Assignees may compound for Debts due to the Bankrupt, &c. And after the End of four Months within twelve Months are to account, and then a Dividend shall be made; and there may be a second Dividend in eighteen Months, if the Estate be not wholly divided on the first, which shall be final, unless any Law-Suit is depending, or the Effects are not disposed of, &c. On Petition to the Lord Chancellor, Proceedings may be entered on Record, and Copies given in Evidence. The Commissioners to take an Oath for faithful Execution of their Trusts; to be allowed 20 s. a Day, and nothing for Expences; and Attornies and Solicitors Bills, are to be adjusted by a Master in Chancery. Bankers, Brokers and Factors are subject to the Statutes of Bankrupts; but no Receiver General of Taxes, &c. shall have any Benefit by this Act. In Order to the Taking out a Commission of Bankrupt, it is usual first for a Creditor to make Affidavit before a Master in Chancery, that the Party is indebted in a Sum sufficient to make him a Bankrupt; then to petition the Lord Chancellor for the Commission; give Bond to prove the Person a Bankrupt, &c. within some or one of the Statutes: And next follows the Commission, directed to five Commissioners, (whereof two are to be Esquires of the Quorum;) And when the Commission is executed, and the Party hath conform'd to the Statutes, his Certificate is granted and allowed, &c. By the Stat. 19 Geo. 2. c. 32. no Creditor bona fide of a Bankrupt for or in Respect of any Goods really sold to such Bankrupt, or of any Bill of Exchange really and bona fide drawn, negotiated, or accepted by such Bankrupt, shall be liable to refund to the Assignees any Money, which before the Suing forth of the Commission was really and bona fide, and in the usual Course of Trade, received by such Person of any Bankrupt before Notice that he was become a Bankrupt, or in insolvent Circumstances. And where a Commission issues against the Obligor in a Bottomree or Respondentia Bond, or the Under-Writer or Assurer in an Assurance, before Loss of the Ship or Goods, the Obligee or Assured may claim, and after Loss prove his Debt in like Manner as if the Loss had happened before the Suing forth the Commission; and have a proportionable Dividend. And the Bankrupt shall be discharged from the Debt due by the Bond or Policy, and have all Advantages of the Statutes now in Force, as if the Contingency had happened before the Suing forth the Commission.

Affidavit of a Debt to make the Party a Bankrupt.

A. B. of, &c. maketh Oath that C. D. of, &c. is truly and justly indebted to him this Deponent (one of the Creditors) in the Sum of 100 l. and upwards; and that he is become a Bankrupt within the Meaning of one or some of the Statutes made against Bankrupts, as this Deponent believes.

A. B.

A Petition to the Lord Chancellor for a Commission.

Humbly complaining, Sheweth unto your Lordship, your Orator, A. B. of, &c. as well for himself, as all other the Creditors of C. D. of, &c. That whereas the said C. D. using and exercising the Trade of, &c. by Way of Bargaining, Selling, Exchanging and Bartering, &c. and seeking his Living by Buying and Selling, upon just and good Causes, for Wares and Merchandizes to him sold and delivered, and also for ready Money to him lent, &c. being indebted to your Orator in the Sum of 100 l. and upwards, of late, that is to say, on or about, &c.

last past, to the Intent to defraud and binder your said Orator, and other his Creditors of their just Debts and Duties to them due and owing, did become Bankrupt within the several Statutes made against Bankrupts, viz. within the Statute made in the Parliament begun and holden at Westminster, the Day, &c. in the thirteenth Year of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth concerning Bankrupts; and within the Statute made in the Parliament, begun and holden, &c. (here set forth all the Statutes of Bankrupts) or within some or one of them: In tender Consideration whereof, may it please your Lordship to grant unto your Orator his Majesty's most gracious Commission, to be directed to such and so many honest and discreet Persons, as to your Lordship shall seem meet, authorizing them thereby not only concerning the said Bankrupt, his Body, Lands and Tenements, Goods and Chattels, Debts and other Things whatsoever, but also concerning all other Persons, who by Concealment, Claim, or otherwise, do or shall offend touching the Premises, or any Part thereof, contrary to the true Intent and Meaning of the said Statutes, or any of them: And also to do and execute all and every Thing and Things whatsoever, as well for and towards Satisfaction and Payment of the said Creditors, as towards and for all other Intents and Purposes, according to the Direction and Provision of the said Statutes.

A Bond to the Lord Chancellor on granting the Commission.

K Now all Men by these Presents, That I A. B. of, &c. am held and firmly bound to the Right Honourable Charles Lord Talbot, Baron of, &c. Lord Chancellor of Great Britain, in two hundred Pounds of good and lawful Money of this Kingdom, to be paid to the said Lord Chancellor or to his certain Attorney, his Executors, Administrators or Assigns; for which Payment well and truly to be made, I bind myself, my Heirs, Executors and Administrators, firmly by these Presents sealed with my Seal. Dated this Day of, &c. in the Year of the Reign of the Lord George the Second, &c. and in the Year of our Lord, &c.

The Condition of this Obligation is such, That if the above bound A. B. do and shall before the major Part of the Commissioners to be appointed in a Commission of Bankrupt against C. D. of, &c. prove that the said C. D. is justly indebted unto the said A. B. in the Sum of 100*l.* And in like Manner prove that the said C. D. is become a Bankrupt within some or one of the Statutes made against Bankrupts; then this Obligation to be void, or else to remain, &c.

Form of a Commission of Bankrupt.

G EORGE the Second, by the Grace of God, King of Great Britain, &c. To our Trusty and well beloved R. C. H. S. H. B. J. T. J. C. &c. Greeting: Whereas we are informed that C. D. of, &c. using and exercising the Trade of, &c. by Way of Bargaining, Exchange, Bartery, &c. seeking his Living by Buying and Selling, did about six Months since become Bankrupt within the several Statutes made against Bankrupts, to the Intent to defraud and binder A. B. of, &c. and other his Creditors of their just Debts and Duties to them due and owing: We therefore minding the due Execution as well of the Statute touching Orders for Bankrupts made in the Parliament, begun and holden at Westminster, the Day, &c. in the thirteenth Year of the Reign of Elizabeth Queen of England made and provided, as of the Statute made in the Parliament, begun and holden at Westminster, the Day, &c. in the first Year of King James of England, &c. intituled, An Act, &c. And also of the Statute made in the Parliament, begun and holden, &c. in the twenty-first Year of the said King James of England, &c. And also of the Statute made in the Parliament, holden, &c. in the fourth Year of the Reign of her late Majesty Queen Anne, intituled, &c. And also of the Statute made, &c. in the fifth Year of our Reign, &c. Upon Trust of and in the Wisdom and Fidelity which we have conceived in you, do by these Presents assign, appoint, constitute and ordain you our special Commissioners for the Purpose aforesaid, giving full Power and Authority unto you, or four or three of you, to proceed according to the said Statutes, and every or any of them, not only concerning the said Bankrupt, his Body, Lands and Tenements, Goods, Chattels, Debts, and other Things whatsoever; but also concerning all other Persons, who by Concealment, Claim or otherwise do or shall offend touching the Premises, or any Part thereof, contrary to the Intent and Meaning of the said Statutes, or any of them: And to do and execute all and every Thing and Things whatsoever, as well for and towards Satisfaction and Payment of the said Creditors, as towards and for all other Intents and Purposes, according to the Ordinances and Provisions of the same Statutes; willing and commanding you, four or three of you, to proceed to the Execution of this our Commission, according to the true Intent and Meaning of the said Statutes, with all Diligence and Effect. Witness our self at Westminster, the Day, &c. in the, &c. Year of our Reign.

Form of a Bankrupt's Certificate.

To the Right Honourable Charles Lord Talbot, Baron of Henfoll, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain.

W E R C. H. S. H. B. &c. the major Part of the Commissioners assigned and authorized in and by a Commission of Bankrupt awarded against C. D. of, &c. bearing Date at Westminster, the Day of, &c. last past, having begun to execute the said Commission, and found that the said C. D. became a Bankrupt before the Date and Suing out of the said Commission, within the true Intent and Meaning of one or some of the Statutes made against Bankrupts, do humbly certify to your Lordship that the said C. D. did on, &c. surrender himself to us, and submit himself to be examined on Oath before us, from Time to Time, and in all Things to conform himself to an Act made in the fourth and fifth Years of her late Majesty Queen Anne, intituled, An Act to prevent Frauds frequently committed by Bankrupts, &c. And to the several other Statutes made against Bankrupts: Whereupon and for the better Discovery of the said Bankrupt's Estate, and putting in Execution the said Acts, We the said R. C. H. S. H. B. &c. have had several Meetings for the Examination of the said C. D. and caused due Notice to be published in the Gazette of the Time and Place when and where we intended to finish his said Examination, to the Intent that the Creditors of the said C. D. might be heard against the Making of this present Certificate, and also admitted to prove their Debts: And several Creditors having proved their Debts, and none shewn any Cause against the Making of this Certificate: We do therefore further certify to your Lordship, that the said C. D. hath upon such Examination made a Discovery of his Estate and Effects, and in all Things conformed himself according to the Direction of the said late Acts; and that there doth not appear to us any Reason to doubt the Truth of such Discovery, or that the same is not a full Discovery of all the Estate and Effects of the said C. D. And the rather, for that the Persons who have signed this Certificate, testifying their Consents to the same, are full four Parts in five, in Number and Value, of the Creditors of the said C. D. who have have duly proved their said Debts. Witness our Hands and Seals, &c.

Bargain and Sale, Is an Instrument whereby the Property of Lands and Tenements is for valuable Consideration granted and transferred from one Person to another: It is called a Real Contract upon a valuable Consideration, for passing of Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, by Deed indented and inrolled, 2 Inst. 612. Accom. Conv. 1 Vol. 62. And it is also where a Recompence is given by both the Parties to the Bargain; as if one bargains and sells his Land to another for Money; here the Land is a Recompence to him for the Money, and the Money a Recompence to the other for the Land. 1 Lill. Abr. 206. Bargains and Sales of Lands are to be in Writing indented, and inrolled in one of the Courts at Westminster, or in the County where the Lands lie, before the Custos Rotulorum, Justices of the Peace, &c. And the Inrolment shall be made within Six Months after the Date of the Deeds. Stat. 27 H. 8. cap. 16. But this Statute extends to Bargains and Sales of Inheritance and Freehold only; and not to Bargains and Sales for Terms of Years, &c. for they are good though not inrolled, nor by Deed indented. 2 Rep. 36. Houses and Lands in London, and any City, &c. are exempted out of the Statute of Inrolments. 2 Inst. 676. 1 Nels. Abr. 342. If two Bargains and Sales are made of the same Land to two several Persons, and the last Deed is first in-rolled; if afterwards the first Deed is also inrolled within six Months, the first Buyer shall have the Land; for when the Deed is inrolled, the Bargainee is seized of the Land from the Delivery of the Deed, and the Inrolment shall relate to it. Hob. 165. Wood's Inst. 259. Neither the Death of the Bargainer or Bargainee, before the Inrolment of the Deed of Bargain and Sale, will hinder the Passing of the Estate to the Bargainee: But the Estate of Freehold is in the Bargainee, until the Deed is inrolled; so that the Bargainee cannot bring any Action of Trespass before Entry had; though 'tis said he may surrender, assign, &c. 2 Cro. 52. 1 Inst. 147. A Bargainee shall have Rent which incurs after the Bargain and Sale, and before the Inrolment. Sid. 310. Upon the Inrolment of the Deed, the Estate settles ab initio, by the Stat. 27 H. 8. And the Statute of Inrolment says, that it shall not vest, except the Deed be inrolled; and when it is inrolled, the Estate vests presently, by the Statute of Uses. 1 Davv. Abr. 696: Every Deed may be inrolled at Common Law, for its Security. If several seal a Deed of Bargain and Sale, and but one acknowledge it, and thereupon the Deed is inrolled; this is a good Inrolment within the Statute. Style 462. None can make a Bargain and Sale of Lands that hath not the actual Possession thereof at the Time of the Sale; if he hath not the Possession, the Deed must be sealed upon the Land, to make it good. 2 Inst. 672. 1 Lill. 209. Bargain and Sale of Lands, passes the Freehold, and likewise Reversions and Remainders, without Livery and Seisin. 8 Rep. 93. But a Bargain and Sale of Lands for Money, may not be made to one Man, to the Use of another, but only to the Bargainee. A Man bargains and sells his Land for Money by Deed inrolled to another, to hold to the Bargainee in Fee, to the Use of the Bargainer for Life, &c. or to the Use of any other, this Limitation of the Uses is void, and it shall be to the Use of the Bargainee in Fee, because the Consideration and Sale implies the Use to be to him only. Benl. Rep. 61. There must be a good Consideration given, or at least said to be given for Lands in these Deeds; and for a competent Sum of Money, is a good Consideration; but not the general Words for divers Considerations, &c. Mod. Ca. 777. Where Money is mentioned to be paid in a Bargain and Sale, and in Truth no Money is paid, some of our Books tell us this may be a good Bargain and Sale; because no Averment will lie against that which is expressly affirmed by the Deed, except it comes to be questioned whether fraudulent or no, upon the Statute against fraudulent Deeds. Dyer 90. If no Consideration of Money is expressed in a Deed of Bargain and Sale, it may be supplied by an Averment that it was made for Money: And after a Verdict on a Trial, it shall be intended that Evidence was given at the Trial of Money paid. 1 Ventr. 108. If Lands are bargained and sold for Money only, the Deed is to be inrolled according to the Statute; but if it be in Consideration of Money, and natural Affection, &c. the Estate will pass without it. 2 Inst. 672. 1 Lev. 56. All Things, for the most part, that are grantable by Deed in any other Way, are grantable by Bargain and Sale, and Lands, Rents, Advowsons, Tithes, &c. may be granted by it, in Fee-simple, Fee-tail, for Life, &c. 1 Rep. 176. 11 Rep. 25. But if Tenant for Life bargains and sells his Land by Deed inrolled, it will be a Forfeiture of his Estate. 4 Leon. 251. A Bargain and Sale of the Profits of Land, is a Bargain and Sale of the Land it self; for the Profits and the Lands are the same Thing in Substance. Dyer 71. One bargains and sells all his Woods, and Underwoods, that have been accustomedly used to be felled, growing and being in the Manor of D. to hold for Life; it was held, that the Vendee shall cut but once by this, and not again. Bro. Abr. 55. If the Deed of Bargain and Sale be not inrolled within the Six Months (which use to be reckoned after Twenty-eight Days to the Month, the Day of the Date taken exclusive) it is of no Force; so that if a Man bargains and sells his Land to me, and the Trees upon it, although the Trees might be sold by Deed without Inrolment, yet in this Case if the Deed be not inrolled, it will be good neither for the Trees nor the Land. Dyer 90. 7 Rep. 40. 2 Bull. 8. A Bargain and Sale of a Manor to which an Advowson is appendant by Indenture not inrolled, will not pass the Advowson or the Manor, for it was to go as appendant. Bro. Cas. 240. And if two Jointenants are of Land, and one of them bargains and sells it all by such a Deed indented, and then the other Jointenant dieth, and the Deed is inrolled; here but a Moiety of the Land shall pass by this Deed. 2 Cro. 53. A bargains his Lands to B. and his Heirs, by Indenture inrolled, but before the Inrolment B. bargains and sells all his Estate to C. and the Deed was after inrolled; adjudged, that nothing did pass by the Deed from B. to C. 2 Cro. 52. But in some Cases, where a Deed will not enure by Way of Bargain and Sale, by Reason of some Defect therein, it may be good to another Purpose. Dyer 90. The very Words Bargain and Sell are not of absolute Necessity in this Deed, for other Words equivalent will suffice; as if a Man seized of Land in Fee by the Words Alien or Grant, sell the same to another, the Deed being made in Consideration of Money, and indented and inrolled, will be an effectual Bargain and Sale. 9 Rep. 94. 7 Rep. 40. And the Words Demise and Grant, in Consideration of Money paid, amount to a Bargain and Sale. Warranty and Covenants may be inserted in a Bargain and Sale; but the Deed is good without any such Addition. In pleading these Deeds, the Deed itself must be shown under Seal. 1 Inst. 225. And it must be set forth that the Inrolment was within Six Months, or secundum formam Statuti, &c.

Form of a Bargain and Sale of Lands.

THIS Indenture made the Day and Year, &c. Between A. B. of, &c. of the one Part, and C. D. of, &c. of the other Part, Witnesseth, That the said A. B. for and in Consideration of the Sum of, &c. to him in Hand paid by the said C. D. the Receipt whereof the said A. B. doth hereby acknowledge, He the said A. B. hath granted, bargained and sold, aliened and confirmed, and by these Presents doth grant, bargain and sell, alien and confirm unto the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns for ever, All that Messuage or Tenement, situate, &c. and also all Lands, Trees, Woods, Underwoods, Tithe, Commons, Common of Pasture, Profits, Commodities, Advantages, Hereditaments, Ways, Waters, and Appurtenances whatsoever to the said Messuage or Tenement, Lands and Tenements abovementioned, belonging or any wise appertaining; And also the Reversion and Reversions, Remainder and Remainders, Rents and Services of the said Premises, and of every Part thereof; And all the Estate, Right, Title, Interest, Claim and Demand whatsoever of him the said A. B. of, in and to the said Messuage, Tenement, and Premises, and every Part thereof; To have and to hold the said Messuage or Tenement, and all and singular the said Premises abovementioned, and every Part and Parcel thereof, with the Appurtenances unto the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns, to the only proper Use and behoof of the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns for ever: And the said A. B. for him and his Heirs, the said Messuage or Tenement, and Premises, and every Part thereof against him and his Heirs, and against all and every other Person and Persons whatsoever, to the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns, shall and will warrant, and for ever defend by these Presents. In Witness, &c.

The Manner of Inrolling a Bargain and Sale.

IT is to be remembered, That the Day, &c. either in the same Term before the Lord the King at Westminster, came A. B. of, &c. in the County of M. Gentleman, in his proper Person, and brought here into the Court of the said Lord the now King, before the King himself at Westminster, a certain Indenture, which he hath acknowledged to be his Deed: And he desired that that Indenture in the Court of the Lord the now King before the said Lord the King at Westminster, might be of Record inrolled: And it is inrolled in Form following, that is to say, This Indenture made, &c. (And so inrol it verbatim.)

Afterwards is indorsed on the Back of the Deed,

Inrolled in the Court of the Lord the King, before the King himself at Westminster, of the Term of the Holy Trinity, &c. in the Sixth Year of the Reign of the Lord George the Second now King of Great Britain, &c.

Roll

There is a Bargain and Sale of Goods, for which vide Contract, &c.

Barbary, (Barkaria, corticulus) A Tan-house or Place to keep Bark in for the Use of Tanners. New Book Ent. Tit. Affise, Corp. Polit. 2.

Baron, (Baro) Is a French Word, and hath divers Significations here in England. First it is taken for a Degree of Nobility next to a Viscount. Bracton, lib. 1. cap. 8. says, they are called Barones, quasi robur Belli. In which Signification it agrees with other Nations, where Baronia are as much as Provinciae: So that Barons are such as have the Government of Provinces, as their Fee holden of the King; some having greater, and others less Authority within their Territories. It is probable, that formerly in this Kingdom, all those were called Barons that had such Seigniories as we now call Courts-Baron; as they are at this Day called Seigneurs in France, who have any Manor or Lordship: And soon after the Conquest, all such came to Parliament, and sat as Peers in the Lords House. But when by Experience it appeared that the Parliament was too much thronged by these Barons, who were very numerous, it was in the Reign of King John ordained that none but the Barones Majores should come to Parliament, who for their extraordinary Wisdom, Interest, or Quality, should be summoned by Writ. After this, Men observing the Estate of Nobility to be but casual, and depending merely upon the King's Will, they obtained of the King Letters Patent of this Dignity to them and their Heirs Male, who were called Barons by Letters Patent, or by Creation, whose Posterity are now by Inheritance those Barons that are called Lords of the Parliament; of which Kind the King may create at his Pleasure. Nevertheless there are still Barons by Writ, as well as Barons by Letters Patent: And those Barons who were first by Writ, may now justly also be called Barons by Prescription, for that they and their Ancestors have continued Barons beyond the Memory of Man. The Calling up by Writ is at this Day seldom practised unless it be to summon the Son of some Lord to Parliament, in the Life-time of his Ancestor; for Creation by Letters Patent is almost altogether in Use. 2 Inst. 48. The Original of Barons by Writ, Camden refers to King Hen. 3. and Barons by Letters Patent, or Creation, commenced 11 R. 2. Camb. Brit. pag. 109. To these is added a third Kind of Barons, called Barons by Tenure, which are some of our ancient Barons; and likewise the Bishops, who by Virtue of Baronies annexed to their Bishopricks, always had Place in the Lord's House of Parliament, as Barons rons by Succession. Seager of Honour, lib. 4. cap. 13. There are also Barons by Office; as the Barons of the Exchequer, Barons of the Cinque Ports, &c. of which you may read under their proper Heads. In ancient Records, the Word Baron included all the Nobility of England, because regularly all Noblemen were Barons, though they had a higher Dignity; and therefore the Charter of King Ed. 1. which is an Exposition of what relates to Barons in Magna Charta, concludes Testibus Archiepiscopis, Episcopis, Baronibus, &c. And the Great Council of the Nobility, when they consisted of, besides Earls and Barons, Dukes, Marquesses, &c. were all comprehended under the Name De la Councell de Baronage. Glanv. cap. 4. These Barons have given them two Ensigns to remind them of their Duties; first a long Robe of Scarlet, in Respect whereof they are accounted De Magno Concilio Regis; and secondly, they are girt with a Sword, that they should ever be ready to defend their King and Country. 2 Inst. 5. A Baron is Vir Notabilis & Principalis: And the Chief Burgesses of London were in former Times Barons, before there was a Lord Mayor, as appears by the City Seal, and their ancient Charters — Henricus 3. Rex. Sciatis nos concessisse & hac presenti Charta nostra confirmasse Baronibus nostris de Civitate nostra London quod Eligant sibi Mayor de seipsis singulis annis, &c. Spelm. Gloss. The Earl Palatines and Marches of England, had anciently their Barons under them; but no Barons but those as held immediately of the King, were Peers of the Realm. 'Tis certain the King's Tenants were called Barons; as we may find in Mat. Paris. and other Writers: And in Days of old, all Men were stiled Barons; but this, I take it, was only a Term in the Law, not a Title of Nobility.

Barony, (Baronia) Is that Honour and Territory which gives Title to a Baron; comprehending not only the Fees and Lands of Temporal Barons, but of Bishops also who have two Estates; one as they are spiritual Persons, by Reason of their spiritual Revenues and Promotions; the other grew from the Bounty of our English Kings, whereby they have Baronies and Lands added to their spiritual Livings and Preferments. The Baronies belonging to Bishops are by some called Regalia, because ex sola liberalitate Regum eis olim concessa & a Regibus in feudum tenentur. Blount. Barony, Brañon says, (lib. 2. cap. 34.) is a Right indivisible; and therefore, if an Inheritance be to be divided among Coparceners, though some capital Messuages may be divided, yet si capitale Messuagium sit Caput Comitatus vel caput Baronie, they may not be parcelled. In some Cases a Barony may be aliened, or entailed, and the Honour pass accordingly. In ancient Times thirteen Knights Fees and a Quarter made a Tenure per Baroniam, which amounted to 400 Marks per Annum.

Baronet, (Baronetus) Is a Dignity or Degree of Honour, which hath Precedency before all Knights, as Knights of the Bath, Knights Bachelors, &c. except Bannerets, made Sub vexillis Regis in exercitu Regali in aperto Bello, & ipso Rege personaliter presente. This Order of Baronets was instituted by King James 1. in the Year 1611. with such Precedency as aforesaid, and other Privileges, &c. Their Number at first was but two Hundred; but now they are without Limitation: They are created by Patent with an Habendum sibi & Heredibus masculis, &c. And their Dignity, on its first Institution, was a Kind of purchased Honour, by Men of great Estates qualified for Titles.

Baron and Feme, Are Husband and Wife, by our Law; and they are adjudged but one Person. Brañon saith, Vir & Uxor sunt quasi unica persona, quia caro una & sanguis unus. Brañ. lib. 5. fol. 416. A Wife cannot be a Witness against or for her Husband, nor he against or for her, (except in Case of High Treason) because they are duæ animæ in una Carne. 1 Nelf. Abr. 349. At Common Law a Man could neither in Possession, Reversion or Remainder, limit an Estate to his Wife; but by Stat. 27 H. 8. A Man may covenant with other Persons to stand seised to the Use of his Wife; or may make any other Conveyance to her Use; but he may not covenant with his Wife to stand seised to her Use, for they are one Person in Law. A Man may devise Lands by Will to his Wife, because the Devise doth not take Effect till after his Death. Co. Litt. 112. Agreements between Baron and Feme before Marriage, are by the Marriage generally extinguished: But if a Person, in Consideration of Marriage, promise to leave his Wife worth so much at his Death, this being no Duty in the Life-time of the Husband, is not extinguished by the Marriage. Cro. Jac. 571, 623. A Wife cannot devise Lands to her Husband: For a Feme Covert cannot make a Will, as she is so entirely under the Power of her Husband; that what she doth cannot be called her Will. Nelf. Abr. 347. The Will of the Wife is subject to that of the Husband; so that if they commit a Felony together, she shall be neither Principal nor Accessary: And if a Wife doth Damage to another, she can make no Satisfaction during the Coverture, but the Husband must do it. F. N. B. 188. Every Gift, Grant, or Disposition of Goods, Lands, or other Thing whatsoever, and all Obligations and Feoffments made by a Feme Covert, without her Husband's Consent, are void. 1 H. 5. 125. Fitz. Covert. 18. Where a Statute or obligation is made to a Baron and Feme, or to her during Coverture; the Husband only can make a De-feasance of it, and conclude the Wife. 1 Inst. 351. In Case Money be due to the Husband by Bill or Bond, or for Rent on a Lease, and it is paid to the Wife; this shall not prejudice him, if after Payment he publicly disagrees to it. 19 Jac. 1. B. R. 2 Shep. Abr. 426. A Wife is sub Potestate viri, and therefore her Acts shall not bind her, unless she levy a Fine, &c. when she is examined in Private whether she doth it freely or by Compulsion of the Husband: If Baron and Feme levy a Fine, this will bar the Feme: And where the Feme is examined by Writ, she shall be bound; else not. 1 Danv. Abr. 708. Therefore where Baron and Feme acknowledge a Deed to be inrolled, or a Statute, &c. this will not bind the Feme, because she is not examined by Writ. A Wife is disabled to make Contracts, &c. 3 Inst. 110. And if a Married Woman enters into Bond as Feme sole, if she is sued as Feme sole, she may plead Non est factum, and the Coverture will avoid her Bond. 1 Lill. Abr. 217. A Feme Covert may plead Non Assumpsit, and give Coverture in Evidence, which makes it no Promise, &c. Raym. 395. By Marriage the Husband hath Power over his Wife's Person; and he may correct his Wife. Dalt. 284. But if he threaten to kill her, &c. she may make him find Surety of the Peace. F. N. B. 80. He hath likewise Power over his Wife's Estate; and if she have Fee, he gaineth a Freehold in her Right; he also gaineth her Chattels Real, as Terms for Years, &c. and all Chattels Personal, in Possession of the Wife, are the Husband's: But where the Wife is out of Possession, or is possessed only as Executrix, or the Chattels are Debts and Things in Action, if they are not recovered by him and his Wife, the Husband shall not have them. 1 Inst. 299, 351. Though Money charged on Lands, is not in Nature of a Charge in Action, but of Rent, and is given to the Husband by the Intermarriage. 1 Chan. Rep. 189. If Lands be given to a Man, and such a Woman who shall be his Wife, the Man shall have the Whole: But if a Feoffment be made to the Use of the Feoffee, and his Wife that shall be, the Wife he afterwards marries shall take jointly with him. 1 Rep. 101. If Baron and Feme are Jointenants for Years, the Baron may dispose of the Whole: And if the Baron hath a Term Term in the Right of his Feme, he may grant over the Whole. 1 Danv. 702. But he cannot dispose of it by Will, if he doth not survive her. 1 Inst. 46, 184. And as the Husband surviving the Wife shall enjoy her Term, against her Executors: So if the Wife survive her Husband, she shall have her Term for Years, or other Chattels Real again, if the Husband hath not altered the Property. 1 Inst. 351. And if the Husband charges the Chattel Real of his Wife with a Rent, &c. if she survives him, it will not bind her; for she shall hold it discharged, as she comes in Paramount the Charge. A Husband possessed of a Term in his Wife's Right, may make a Lease for Years of the Land, rendering Rent to his Executors or Assigns, to commence after his Death. 1 Nels. Abr. 344. But if a Lease be conveyed by a Feme sole, in Trust for the Use of herself, if she afterwards marries, it cannot be disposed of by the Husband: If she dies, he shall not have it, but the Executors of the Wife. March 44. See 2 Vern. 270. A Legacy is given to a Feme sole to be paid presently, or at a Day to come, if she marry and die, before any Release or Disposal thereof by her Husband; in that Case, her Executor or Administrator, it has been held, shall have it: And if a Promise, or Bond be to a Feme, or the Baron and Feme, and the Husband dies before he recovers, or releases the same, the Wife, and not his Executors, shall be intitled to it. F. N. B. 121. 7 Hen. 6. 2. Mich. 17 Jac. 1. A Man and his Wife covenanted by Indenture, but the Wife did not seal it; and it was held, that if the Baron sealed and delivered it in the Name of the Feme, it would be the Deed of the Wife, during the Life of the Husband: But if Land is given to Husband and Wife, and the Heirs of their two Bodies, and the Husband alone suffer a common Recovery; this will not bind the Estate Tail, although the Husband survive his Wife. 1 Cro. 769. 3 Rep. 5, 34. The Wife shall be received to defend her Right, on the Default of the Husband, and he cannot prejudice his Wife, as to her Freehold and Inheritance. Jenk. Cent. 79. A Husband cannot alien the Wife's Lands but by Fine wherein she joins; if he doth, she may recover them after his Death by Cui in vita. And by Statute, where a Husband makes Leases of his Wife's Lands, for twenty-one Years, &c. she is to be made a Party, and the Rent reserved to Husband and Wife, and the Heirs of the Wife, &c. This is of Leases of Lands of the Wife's Inheritance. Stat. 32 H. 8. cap. 28. If a Feme having a Rent for Life takes Husband, the Baron shall have Action of Debt for the Rent incurred during the Coverture, after the Death of the Feme. 1 Danv. 719. And Arrears due in the Life time of the Husband, after his Death, shall survive to the Wife, if she outlives him, and her Administrators after her Death. 2 Lut. 1151. A Feme Lessee for Life, rendering Rent, takes Husband and dies, the Baron shall be charged in Action of Debt for the Rent which was grown due during the Coverture, because he took the Profits out of which the Rent ought to issue. Keilw. 125. Raym. 6. But if such a Feme Lessee takes Baron and dies, 'tis said the Baron shall not be charged for Waste during the Coverture; for he was never Lessee. 1 Danv. 718. If a Lease is made to Baron and Feme, and the Husband dies, and the Wife accepts of the Land, though she may be obliged to pay the Rent, or to perform a Condition on the Part of the Lessor; yet she is not bound to perform Collateral Covenants, as to do no Waste, or to repair Houses, &c. 1 Brownl. 31. The Baron may have an Action alone upon the Stat. 5 R. 2. for Entering into the Land of the Feme; Trespafs and taking Charters of the Inheritance of the Feme; Quare Impedit, &c. But for Personal Torts, they must join, though the Baron is to have the Damages. 1 Danv. 709. 1 Roll. Rep. 360. The Husband is to join in Actions for Battery to the Wife: And a Wife may not bring any Action for Wrong to her, without her Husband; though when they join in any Action, Damage is to be laid only to the Husband. 1 Inst. 326, 132. For an Injury done to the Wife alone, Action cannot be maintained by the Husband alone, without her; but for Assault and Debauching or Lying with the Wife, or for a Loss and Injury done to the Husband in depriving him of the Conversation and Service of his Wife, he alone may bring an Action; and these last Actions are laid for Assault, and detaining the Wife, Per quod Consortium amisit, &c. 2 Cro. 538. For taking any Thing from the Wife, the Husband only is to bring the Action, who has the Property; for the Wife hath not the Property. In all Cases where the Feme shall not have the Thing recovered, but the Husband only, he alone is to bring the Action. 1 Roll. Rep. 360. For a Personal Duty to the Wife, the Baron only may bring the Action: And the Husband is intitled to the Fruits of his Wife's Labour, for which he may bring Quantum Meruit. 1 Lill. Abr. 227. 1 Salk. 114. Baron and Feme ought to join in Actions for Debt due to the Feme before Coverture: And where an Action will survive to the Wife, and she may recover Damages, she must join with the Husband in the Action. 2 Mod. 269. By the Custom of London, a Feme Covert trading there, may sue and be sued as a Feme sole Merchant. 2 Inst. 236. And if an Husband is an Alien Enemy, the Wife may be charged as a Feme Sole. 1 Salk. 116. In Case, before Marriage, a Feme enters into Articles concerning her Estate, she is as a separate Person; and the Husband may be Plaintiff in Equity against the Wife. Preced. Canc. 24. A Man must answer for the Trespasses of his Wife: If a Feme Covert slander any Person, &c. the Husband and Wife must be sued for it, and Execution is to be awarded against him. 11 Rep. 62. But where a Feme Covert commits a Trespass Vi & Armis, and Action is brought against Baron and Feme, if the Jury find the Wife guilty, and the Husband not; here the Wife shall be imprisoned, until the Husband pays the Fine. Jenk. Cent. 23. If Husband and Wife commit Treason or Murder, they shall be both found guilty; and the Wife not be discharged, on Presumption it was by Coercion of the Husband. 1 Hale's Hist. P. C. 47. And a Wife for her own Crimes, may be indicted without her Husband; and she may sue and be sued without her Husband, in the Spiritual Court. 9 Rep. 72. 2 Roll. Abr. 298. A Feme sole indebted takes Husband; it is then the Debt of the Husband and Wife, and both are to be sued for it; but the Husband is not liable after the Death of the Wife, unless there be a Judgment against both during the Coverture. 1 Roll. Abr. 351. Where there is Judgment against a Feme sole, who marries and dies, the Baron shall not be charged therewith: Though if the Judgment be had upon Scire facias against Baron and Feme, and then the Feme dies, he shall be charged. 3 Mod. 186. In Action brought against a Feme sole, if pending the Action she marries, this shall not abate the Action; but the Plaintiff may proceed to Judgment and Execution against her, according as the Action was commenced. 1 Lill. 217. Trin. 12 W. 3. And if Habeas Corpus be brought to remove the Cause, the Plaintiff is to move for a Procedendo on the Return of the Habeas Corpus: Also the Court of B. R. may refuse it, where brought to abate a just Action. 1 Salk. 8. But if a Feme sole gives a Warrant of Attorney to confess Judgment, and before entered she marries, it is a Countermand of the Warrant, and Judgment shall not be had against Husband and Wife, to charge him. 1 Salk. 399. When Baron and Feme are sued, the Husband must make an Attorney for himself and his Wife. 2 Saund. If a Wife be arrested, she shall be discharged on Common Bail, let the Cause of Action be what it will: But if Baron and Feme be arrested, the Husband shall not be discharged, unless he give Bail for his Wife as well as himself.

himself. Mod. Caf. 17. Both Husband and Wife, 'tis said, may be taken in Execution. 1 Nelf. Abr. 365. Though if it be a Contrivance to charge the Wife, she shall be discharged upon Motion. 1 Lev. 51. The Baron in an Account shall not be charged by the Receipt of his Wife, except it came to his Use. 1 Danv. 707. Yet if she usually receives and pays Money, it will bind him in Equity. Abr. Caf. Eq. 61. For Goods sold to a Wife, to the Use of the Husband, the Husband shall be charged, and be obliged to pay for the same. Sid. 425. If a Woman buys Things for her necessary Apparel, though without the Consent of the Husband, yet her Husband shall be bound to pay for it. Brownl. 47. And if the Wife buys any Thing for herself, Children, or Family, and the Baron does any Act precedent or subsequent whereby he shews his Consent, he may be charged thereupon. 1 Sid. 120. The Husband is obliged to maintain his Wife in Necessaries: But they must be according to his Degree and Estate, to charge the Husband; and Necessaries may be suitable to a Husband's Degree of Quality, but not to his Estate; also they may be Necessaries, but not ex Necessitate to charge the Husband. 1 Mod. 129. 1 Nelf. Abr. 354. Though a Wife is very lewd, if she cohabits with her Husband, he is chargeable for all Necessaries for her, because he took her for better for worse; and so he is if he runs away from her, or turns her away: But if she goes away from her Husband, then as soon as such Separation is notorious, whoever gives her Credit doth it at his Peril, and the Husband is not liable, unless he take her again. 1 Salk. 119. Although a Husband be bound to pay his Wife's Debts for her reasonable Provision, yet if she parts from him, especially by Reason of any Misbehaviour, and he allows her a Maintenance, he shall never after be charged with her Debts, till a new Cohabitation: But if the Husband receive her, or come after her, and lie with her but for a Night, that may make him liable to the Debts. Pafcb. 3 Ann. Mod. Caf. 147, 171. And if there be an Agreement in Writing between Husband and Wife to live separate, and that she shall have a separate Maintenance, it shall bind them both till they both agree to cohabit again; and if the Wife is willing to return to her Husband, she may, but it has been adjudged that the Husband hath no coercive Power over the Wife to force her, though he may visit her, and use all lawful Means, in order to a Reconciliation. Micb. Geo. 1. Mod. Caf. in L. & E. 22. Where there is a Separation by Consent, and the Wife hath a separate Allowance, those who trust her do it upon her own Credit. 1 Salk. 116. If a Husband makes his Wife an Allowance for Clothes, &c. which is constantly paid her, 'tis said he shall not be charged. 1 Sid. 109. And if he forbids particular Persons to trust her, he will not be chargeable: But a Prohibition in general, by putting her in the News-Papers, is no legal Notice not to trust her. 1 Vent. 42. A Wife may use the Goods of her Husband, but she may not dispose of them: And if she takes them away, it is not Felony, for she cannot by our Law steal the Goods of her Husband; but if she delivers them to an Adulterer, and he receives them, it will be Felony in him. 3 Inst. 308, 310. If Baron and Feme are divorced Causa Adulterii, which is a Divorce a Mensa & Thoro, they continue Baron and Feme: It is otherwise in Divorce a Vinculo Matrimonii, which dissolves the Marriage. A Man within the Age of Fourteen (his Age of Consent to marry) takes a Woman to Wife, they are Baron and Feme, so that he may have Trespas de muliere abduza cum bonis viri, &c.

Bar or Barr, (Lat. Barra, and in Fr. Barre) In a legal Sense is a Plea or peremptory Exception of a Defendant sufficient to destroy the Plaintiff's Action. And it is divided into Bar to common Intendment, and Bar Special; Bar Temporary, and Perpetual: Bar to a common Intendment is an Ordinary or General Bar, which usually disableth the Declaration of the Plaintiff: Bar Special is that which is more than ordinary, and falls out upon some special Circumstance of the Fact, as to the Case in Hand. Terms de Ley 77. Bar Temporary is such a Bar that is good for the Present, but may afterwards fail: And Bar Perpetual is that which overthroweth the Action of the Plaintiff for ever. Plowd. 26. But a Plea in Bar, not giving a full Answer to all the Matter contained in the Plaintiff's Declaration, is not good. 1 Lill. Abr. 211. If one be barred by Plea to the Writ, or to the Action of the Writ, he may have the same Writ again, or his right Action: But if the Plea in Bar be to the Action itself, and the Plaintiff is barred by Judgment, &c. it is a Bar for ever in personal Actions. 6 Rep. 7. And a Recovery in Debt is a good Bar to Action on the Case for the same Thing: Also a Recovery on Assumpsit in Case, is a good Bar in Debt, &c. Cro. Jac. 110. 4 Rep. 94. In all Actions Personal, as Debt, Account, &c. a Bar is perpetual, and in such Case the Party hath no Remedy, but by Writ of Error or Attaint; but if a Man is barred in a Real Action by Judgment, yet he may have an Action of as high a Nature, because it concerns his Inheritance; as for Instance, if he is barred in a Formedon in Descender, yet he may have a Formedon in the Remainder, &c. 6 Rep. 7. It has been resolved, That a Bar in any Action Real or Personal by Judgment upon Demurrer, Verdict, or Confession, is a Bar to that Action, or any Action of like Nature for ever: But according to Pemberton Chief Justice, this is to be understood, when it doth appear that the Evidence in one Action would maintain the other; for otherwise the Court shall intend that the Party hath mistaken his Action. Skin. 57, 58. Bar to a common Intent is good: And if an Executor be sued for his Testator's Debt, and he pleadeth that he had no Goods left in his Hands at the Day the Writ was taken out against him, this is a good Bar to a common Intendment, till it is shewn that there are Goods: But if the Plaintiff can shew by Way of Replication that more Goods have fallen into his Hands since that Time, then, except the Defendant alledge a better Bar, he shall be condemned in the Action. Plowd. 26. Kitch. 215. Bro. Tit. Barre. There is a Bar Material, and Bar at Large: Bar Material may be also called Special Bar; as when one in Stay of the Plaintiff's Action, pleadeth some particular Matter, viz. a Descent from him that was Owner of the Land, &c. a Feoffment made by the Ancestor of the Plaintiff, or the like: A Bar at Large is, when the Defendant by Way of Exception, doth not traverse the Plaintiff's Title, by Pleading, nor confess, or avoid it, but only makes to himself a Title in his Bar. Kitch. 68. 5 H. 7. 29. This Word Bar is likewise used for the Place where Serjeants and Counsellors at Law stand to plead the Causes in Court; and Prisoners are brought to answer their Indictments, &c. whence our Lawyers, that are called to the Bar, are termed Barristers. 24 H. 8. c. 24.

Barrafter, Barrister, (Barrafterius) Is a Counsellor learned in the Law, admitted to plead at the Bar, and there to take upon him the Protection and Defence of Clients. They are termed Juriconsulti; and in other Countries called Licentiatii in Jure: And anciently Barristers at Law were called Apprentices of the Law, in Lat. Apprenticii Juris Nobiliores. Forstef. The Time before they ought to be called to the Bar, by the ancient Orders, was eight Years, now reduced to seven; and the Exercises done by them (if they were not called Ex gratia) were twelve Grand Moots performed in the Inns of Chancery in the Time of the Grand Readings, and twenty-four Petty Moots in the Term Times, before the Readers of the respective Inns: And a Barrafter newly called is to attend the six next long Vacations the Exercise of the House, viz. in Lent and Summer, and is thereupon for those three Years stiled a Vacation Barrister. Also they are called Utter Barristers, i. e. Pleaders Ouster the Bar, to distinguish them from Benchers, or those that have been Readers, who are sometimes admitted to plead within the Bar, as the King, Queen, or Prince's Counsel are. Barristers who constantly attend the King's Bench, &c. are to have the Privilege of being sued in Transitory Actions in the County of Middlesex. But it hath been questioned, whether an Action of Debt doth lie for their Fees, unless it be upon special Retainer; for a Counsellor's Fee is Honorarium quiddam, not Mercenarium, as that of an Attorney or Solicitor. 2 Inst. 213, 214, &c. Wood's Inst. 448.

Barretor, or Barretor, (Lat. Barraclator, Fr. Barrateur) A common Mover of Suits and Quarrels, either in Courts, or elsewhere in the Country, that is himself never quiet, but at Variance with one or other. Lambert derives the Word Barretor from the Lat Balatro, a vile Knave; but the proper Derivation is from the Fr. Barrateur, i. e. a Deceiver, and this agrees with the Description of a common Barretor in my Lord Coke's Reports, viz. That he is a common Mover and Maintainer of Suits in Disturbance of the Peace, and in taking and detaining the Possession of Houses and Lands, or Goods by false Inventions, &c. And therefore it was adjudged, that the Indictment against him ought to be in these Words, viz. That he is Communis Malefactor, calumniator & seminator litium & Discordiarum inter vicinos suos, & pacis Regis perturbator, &c. And there it is said that a common Barretor is the most dangerous Oppressor in the Law; for he oppresseth the Innocent by Colour of Law, which was made to protect them from Oppression. 8 Rep. 37. No one can be a Barretor in respect of one Act only; for every Indictment for such Crime must charge the Defendant with being Communis Barraclator, and conclude Contra Pacem, &c. And it hath been holden, that a Man shall not be adjudged a Barretor for bringing any Number of Suits in his own Right, though they are vexatious; especially if there be any Colour for them; for if they prove false, he shall pay the Defendant Costs. 1 Rol. Abr. 355. 3 Mod. 98. A Barrister at Law entertaining a Person in his House, and bringing several Actions in his Name, where nothing was due, was found guilty of Barretory. 3 Mod. 97. An Attorney is in no Danger of being convicted of Barretory, in Respect of his maintaining another in a groundless Action, to the Commencing whereof he was no Way privy. Ibid. A common Solicitor who solicits Suits, is a common Barretor, and may be indicted thereof, because it is no Profession in Law. 1 Danv. Abr. 725. Barretors are punished by Fine and Imprisonment, bound to the good Behaviour, &c. And belonging to the Profession of the Law, they ought to be further punished by Disability to practice. 34 Ed. 3. c. 1. Hawk. P. C. 244.

An Indictment for Barretory.

South'ton, ff. THE Jurors for our Sovereign Lord the King upon their Oath present, that A. B. of, &c. in the said County, Yeoman, on the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. at H. in the said County, was and yet is a Common Barretor, and continual Disturber of the Peace of our said Lord the King; and also on the Day and Year, and at the Place above mentioned, was and still is a common and troublesome Slanderer, Railer, and Sower of Discord among his Neighbours, and that he hath procured and caused divers Suits and Quarrels then and there and elsewhere in the County aforesaid, amongst divers Subjects of our Lord the King, to the great Contempt of our Sovereign Lord the King, and the bad Example of other Offenders, and against the Peace of our said Lord the King, &c.

Barrel, (Barillum) Is a Measure of Wine, Ale, Oil, &c. Of Wine it contains the eighth Part of a Tun, the fourth Part of a Pipe, and the Moiety of a Hoghead, that is thirty one Gallons and a Half. 1 R. 3. c. 13. Of Beer it contains thirty-six Gallons; and of Ale, thirty-two Gallons. Anno 23 H. 8. c. 4. and 12 Car. 2. c. 23. It is declared that the Assise of Herring Barrels is thirty-two Gallons Wine Measure, containing in every Barrel usually a Thousand full Herrings. Anno 13 El. c. 11. The Eel Barrel contains thirty Gallons. 2 H. 6. c. 13.

Barriers, (Fr. Barrieres) Signifies that which the French call Jeu de Barres, i. e. Palæstra, a Martial Exercise of Men armed and fighting together with short Swords, within certain Bars or Rails, which separated them from the Spectators: It is now disused here in England. There are likewise Barrier Towns, or Places of Defence on the Frontiers of Kingdoms.

Barrow, (from the Sax. Boerg, a Heap of Earth) A large Hillock or Mount, raised or cast up in many Parts of England, which seem to have been a Mark of the Roman Tumuli, or Sepulchres of the Dead. The Sax. Beora, was commonly taken for a Grove of Trees on the Top of a Hill. Kennet's Gloss.

Barter, (from the Fr. Barreire, Circumvenire) Signifies in our Books to exchange one Commodity for another, or truck Wares for Wares. Anno 1 R. 3. c. 9. And the Reason may be, because they that exchange in this Manner, do endeavour for the most part one to over-reach and circumvent the other.

Barton, Is a Word used in Devonshire, for the Demesne Lands of a Manor; sometimes for the Manor-House itself; and in some Places for Out-houses, and Fold-Yards. In the Stat. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 12. Barton Lands, and Demesne Lands, are used as Synonyma's. See Berton.

Bas Chevaliers, Low or inferior Knights by Tenure of a bare Military Fee, as distinguished from Bannerets, the Chief or Superior Knights: Hence we call our simple Knights, viz. Knights Bachelors, Bas Chevaliers. Kennet's Gloss. to Paroeb. Antiq.

Base Court, (Fr. Cour Basse) Is any inferior Court, that is not of Record, as the Court Baron, &c. Kitch. fol. 95, 96.

Base Estate, (Fr. Bas Estat) Is that Estate which Base Tenants have in their Lands. And Base Tenants, according to Lambert, are those who perform villainous Services to their Lords; Kitch. fol. 41. makes Base Tenure and Frank Tenure to be Contraries, and puts Copyholders in the Number of Base Tenants; where it may be gathered that every Base Tenant holds at the Will of the Lord: But there is a Difference between a Base Estate and Villanage; for to hold in pure Villanage is to do all that the Lord will command him; and if a Copyholder have but a Base Estate, he not holding by the Performance of every Commandment of his Lord, cannot be said to hold in Villanage: And Copyholders are by the Customs of Manors, and Continuance of Time, grown out of that extreme Servitude wherein they were first Created.

Base Fee, Is a Tenure in Fee at the Will of the Lord, distinguished from Socage free Tenure: But the Lord Coke says, that Base Fee is what may be defeated by Limitation, or on Entry, &c. Co. Litt. 1. 18. Bassa Tenura, or Base Tenure, was a Holding by Villanage, or other customary Service, opposed to Allia Tenura, the higher Tenure in Capite, or by Military Service, &c. — Manerium de Cheping Farendon cum pertinentiis est de antiquo Dominico coronæ Domini Regis, unde omnia prædicta tenementa sunt parcella, & de Bassa Tenura ejusdem manerii. Consuetud. Domus de Farendon, MS. 44.

Bas Uitle, The Suburbs or inferior Town, as used in France.

Bafels, (Basselli) A Kind of Coin abolished by King Hen. 2. Anno 1158. Hollingshed's Chron. p. 67.

Bafelard, or Bafillard, In the Stat. 12 Rich. 2. c. 6. Signifies a Weapon, which Mr. Speight in his Exposition upon Chaucer, calls Pugionem vel ficam, a Poinard; Arrepto Bafillardo transfixit, &c. Cum alio Bafillardo penetravit latera ejus, &c. Knighton, lib. 5. pag. 2731.

Bafleus, A Word mentioned in several of our Historians signifying King, and seems peculiar to the Kings of England. Monasticon, Tom. 1. pag. 65. Ego Edgar totius Angliæ Bafleus Confirmavi—In many Places of the Monasticon this Word occurs; and also in Ingulphus, Malmesbury, Mat. Paris, Hoveden, &c.

Bafnetum, A Bajnet, or Helmet. By Inqu. 22 Ed. 4. After the Death of Laurence de Hastings Earl of Pembroke it was found thus—Quod quidem Manerium, (i. e. de Aston Cantlore) per se tenetur de Domino Rege in Capite, per servitium inveniendi unum Hominem peditem, cum arcu sine chorda, cum uno Bafneto, sive Coppa, per xl. dies sumptibus suis propriis quotiens fuerit guerra in W.ilia.

Bafinet, A Skin with which the Soldiers covered themselves. Blount.

Bafard, (Bastardus) From the Brit. Bastaerd, i. e. Notbus or Spurius, is one that is born of any Woman not married, so that his Father is not known by the Order of Law; and therefore is called Filius Populi, the Child of the People:

Cui Pater est Populus, Pater est sibi nullus & omnis; Cui Pater est Populus, non habet ipse Patrem.

The learned Spelman derives the opprobrious Name of Bastard from the Norman Bas, and Saxon Steort, Rife or Original; as a Person of a base and vile Birth: Such Bastard cannot inherit Land as Heir to his Father; nor can any Person inherit Lands as Heir to him, but one that is Heir of his Body. Lit. Sect. 401. A Bastard by the Common Law is made incapable of any Ecclesiastical Benefice; for the Sacraments ought not be committed to infamous Persons: And it is the Law of Nature, that a Bastard who is born out of lawful Marriage, (unless there be some particular Law to the contrary) has not any Relation to his Father, who begot him, but shall rely on his Mother, that bore him. Fortescue 88, 89. Bastard is Terminus a quo, he is the first of his Family; for he hath no Relation of which our Law takes any Notice; yet this must be understood as to Civil Purposes, there being a Relation as to Moral Purposes; for he cannot marry his own Mother, or Bastard Sitter. 3 Salk. 66, 67. If a Woman be with Child by a Man, who afterwards marries her, and then the Child is born, this Child is no Bastard: But if a Man hath Issue by a Woman before Marriage, and after they marry, the Issue is a Bastard by our Law; but Legitimate by the Civil Law. 2 Inst. 96, 97. If a Man marries a Woman grossly big with Child by another, and within three Days after she is delivered, in our Law the Issue is no Bastard. 1 Danv. Abr. 729. And where a Child is born within a Day after Marriage between Parties of full Age, if there be no apparent Impossibility that the Husband should be the Father of it, the Child is no Bastard, but supposed to be the Child of the Husband. 1 Rol. Abr. 358. But if the Husband be but eight or nine Years of Age, or if he be within the Age of fourteen, the Issue is a Bastard: So where a Husband is Gelt, or hath lost his Genitals, &c. which shews an Impossibility to get a Child, the Issue of his Wife, though born within Marriage, is a Bastard. 1 Inst. 244. 1 Danv. 278. By the Law of the Land, a Person cannot be a Bastard who is born after Espousals, unless it be by Special Matter. If a Woman elope from her Husband, so as he be within the four Seas, her Issue shall not be a Bastard by our Law; though by the Spiritual Law he shall: And if the Wife continues in Adultery and hath Issue, this is a Bastard in our Law. 1 Danv. 730. By the Common Law, if the Husband be infra quatuor maria, so that by Intendment he may converse with his Wife, and the Wife hath Issue, the Child will not be a Bastard: But he is a Bastard who is born of a Woman when her Husband, at and from the Time of the Begetting to the Birth, is extra quatuor maria. 1 Inst. 244. 2 Salk. 483. If a Woman hath Issue, the Husband being over Sea so long before the Birth of the Issue, which his Wife hath in his Absence, that the Issue cannot be his, this is a Bastard. 1 Danv. 729. If the Husband be only over in Ireland, it is otherwise. A Divorce causa Pracontractus, causa Affinitatis, causa Frigiditatis, &c. bastardises the Issue; not for Cause subsequent to the Marriage: But if the Man and Woman continue Husband and Wife for all their Lives, the Issue cannot be a Bastard by Divorce after their Death. 1 Danv. Where a Woman, on Divorce a Mensa & Thoro, lives in Adultery with another, her Children by such other are Bastards; for Children born in Adultery, are born out of the Limits of Matrimony. Though if Husband and Wife consent to live separate, the Children born after such Separation shall be Legitimate, because the Access of the Husband shall be presumed; but if it be found there was no Access, then they are Bastards. 1 Salk. 122. If a Woman hath a Child forty Weeks and eight Days after the Death of her Husband, it shall be Legitimate; the Law having appointed no exact certain Time for Birth of Legitimate Issues. 1 Danv. 726. 2 Lill. Abr. 236. If a Man or Woman marry a second Wife or Husband, the first being Living, and have Issue by such second Wife or Husband, the Issue is a Bastard. 39 Ed. 3. cap. 14, &c. Before the Statute 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 21. One was adjudged a Bastard, Quia filius sacerdotis. He that gets a Bastard in the Hundred of Middleton, in the County of Kent, forfeits all his Goods and Chattels to the King. MS. de Temp. Ed. 3. By Statute, a Woman with Child of a Bastard, must be first examined by a Justice of Peace, and the Fact of her being with Child proved by her Oath, and then the Justice is to send his Warrant for the reputed Father; when the Party is brought before the Justice, he must enter into a Recognizance with sufficient Sureties for his Appearance at the next Sessions, &c. and he may be continued on the Recognizance till the Woman is delivered of the Child: After the Child is born, two Justices (Quorum unus) residing nearest the Place, are to examine the Matter by Witnesses, &c. and make their Order for Relief of the Parish from the Bastard: And if the two Justices cannot agree, they may refer it to the Sessions; also the putative Father may appeal from the Order of the two Justices; or may give Security to the Parish, &c. Stat. 18 Eliz. c. 3. 3 Car. 1. The two next Justices of Peace (one being of the Quorum) may make Orders for punishing the Mother and Father of a Bastard Child: And by Order of the Justices, the Churchwardens and Overseers of the Poor may seize Goods, &c. of the Father and Mother to discharge the Parish: And Justices of the Peace have Power to commit lewd Women having Bastards to the House of Correction, for one Year, &c. But Persons able to keep them, are not within the Statute. It is adjudged Murder to conceal the Death of a Bastard Child when born, unless there be Proof to the contrary that it was still born. 18 Eliz. c. 3. 13 & 14 Car. 2. 7 & 21 Jac. 1. By a late Statute, If a Woman declares herself to be with Child of a Bastard, and on Oath before a Justice charge any Person with getting it; he may grant his Warrant to apprehend the Person charged, and for bringing him before any Justice, &c. who may commit him to Gaol or the House of Correction, unless he give Security to indemnify the Parish, Parish, or enter into Recognizance with Sureties to appear at the next Quarter-Sessions, and perform such Order as shall be made, pursuant to the Statute 18 Eliz. But in Case the Woman shall die, or be married, or miscarry, &c. or if no Order is made in due Time, the Man shall be discharged: And no Justice may send for, or compel any Woman before she is delivered, and one Month after, to answer Questions, &c. Stat. 6 Geo. 2. c. 31. If any one conspire to charge another to be the Father of a Bastard Child, he may be indicted and punished with publick Whipping, &c. It is only in the Power of the King and Parliament to make a Bastard Legitimate. Dav. Rep. 37. See 13 Geo. 2. c. 29.

Bastardy, (Bastardia) Signifies a Defect of Birth, objected to one born out of Wedlock. Bract. lib. 5. c. 19. And as to Pleading of Bastardy, see Rassal. Entr. The Stat. 9 H. 6. cap. 11. and Kitch. fol. 64. mention Bastardy General and Special; the Difference whereof is, that Bastardy General is a Certificate from the Bishop of the Diocese to the King's Justices, after Inquiry made, that the Party enquired of is a Bastard, or not a Bastard, upon some Question of Inheritance: Bastardy Special is a Suit commenced in the King's Court, against him that calls another Bastard, so termed, because Bastardy is the Principal Case in Trial, and no Inheritance contended for. And by this it appears that in both these Significations, Bastardy is an Examination or Trial, whether a Man's Birth be defective or legitimate. Bastardy is of Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction; but it must be intended General Bastardy, as whether he that is charged with Bastardy were born in lawful Matrimony, and his Father and Mother were ever joined in lawful Marriage, which is triable by the Bishop's Certificate: Special Bastardy, as whether the Defendant was born before Marriage, &c. where the Matrimony is confessed; and where an Action is brought for calling a Man Bastard, &c. is triable in the Temporal Courts, by the Country. 1 Inst. 134. 1 Nels. Abr. 367. Hob. 117. The Question of Bastardy ought to be first moved in the Temporal Courts; and after Issue joined thereupon, the same is transmitted by Writ to the Ecclesiastical Court, to be examined and certified. Dav. Rep. 52. But the Judges shall not award a Writ to the Ordinary to certify whether a Person be a Bastard or not, till Proclamation is issued for all Persons having Interest therein to make their Objections before the Ordinary against the Party; and any Certificate of the Ordinary concerning Bastardy without such Proclamation shall be void. Stat. 9 H. 6. A Certificate by the Bishop duly made, the Law gives intire Credit to; And if a Man be certified a Bastard by the Ordinary, he shall be perpetually bound, because it is the highest Trial thereof. Doctor and Student 68. But if a Person be certified to be a Bastard, this doth not bind before Judgment in the Action between him and the other Party; neither doth it bind if the Plaintiff be after nonsuited. 18 E. 3. 34. 1 Dav. Abr. 733. A Bastard is a good Name of Purchase; for Bastards having gotten Names by Reputation, may purchase by such Names to them and their Heirs: And a Limitation to them when in esse, and known, is good; but not before they are born. Likewise a Remainder may be made to such, by the Name of Son of the reputed Father; though not by the Name of Issue, which must be lawful, nor may a Use be tailed to such a reputed Son; but a Man may devise all his Estate by Will to a Bastard, by his reputed Name. 1 Inst. 3. 6 Rep. 65. Dyer 374. A Man devised Lands to the Use of J. his Daughter, who was a Bastard, and this was resolved to be good. Jenk. Cent. 239.

Bastardetigue, (Fr.) Is where the eldest Child of a Person is a Bastard, who is so called. Law Fr. Dict.

Baston, (Fr.) A Staff, or Club; and by our Statutes it signifies one of the Warden of the Fleet's Servants or Officers who attends the King's Courts with a red Staff for taking such into Custody who are committed by the Court. 1 R. 2. c. 12. 5 Eliz. c. 23. See Tipstaff.

Batum, Per Batum tolnetum capere, To take Toll by Strike, and not by Heap; per batum, being opposed to in cumulo vel cantello—Tolnetus ad molendinum fit secundum consuetudinem regni; mensura per quas tolnetus capi debet sint concordantes mensuris Domini Regis, & capiatur tolnetus per Batum, & nichil in cumulo vel cantello. Consuetud. Domus de Farendon, MS. f. 42.

Batable Ground, Is taken for the Land that lay between England and Scotland, heretofore in Question, when they were distinct Kingdoms, to which it belong'd. Anno 23 H. 8. c. 6. and 32 H. 8. cap. 6. It seems to mean, as if we should say, litigious or Debatable Ground, i. e. Land about which there is Debate; and by that Name Stene calls Ground that is in Controversy. Camb. Britan. Tit. Cumberland.

Bath, (Lat. Balneum, called by the Britons Badixia) Has been termed the City of Sickmen: It is a Place of Resort in Somersetshire famous for its Medicinal Waters. The Chairmen are there to be licensed by the Mayor and Aldermen, for carrying Persons to and from the hot Baths, &c. under the Penalty of 10 s. by Statute 7 Geo. 1. cap. 19. And a publick Hospital or Infirmary for Poor is established in the City of Bath, the Governors whereof have Power to hold all Charities, &c. and appoint Physicians, Surgeons and other Officers: Any Persons not able to have the Benefit of the Bath Waters, may be admitted into this Hospital, their Case being attested by some Physician, and the Poverty of the Patients certified by the Minister and Churchwardens of the Place where they live, &c. Every Person so admitted, shall have the Use of the Old Hot Bath, and be entertained and relieved in the Hospital; and when cured or discharged, such Persons shall be supplied with 3 l. each, to defray the Expence of removing them back to their Parishes, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 2. c. 31.

Battel, (Fr. Bataille) Signifies a Trial by Combat, which was anciently allowed of in our Laws, where the Defendant in Appeal of Murder or Felony may fight with the Appellant, and make Proof thereby whether he be culpable or innocent of the Crime. Glanv. Lib. 14. c. 1. When an Appellee of Felony wages Battel, he pleads that he is Not guilty, and that he is ready to defend the same by his Body, and then flings down his Glove; and if the Appellant will join Battel, he replies, That he is ready to make good his Appeal by his Body upon the Body of the Appellee, and takes up the Glove: And then the Appellee lays his right hand on the Book, and with his left Hand takes the Appellant by the Right, and swears thus: Hear this thou who callest thyself John by the Name of Baptism, that I who call myself Thomas by the Name of Baptism, did not feloniously murder thy Father W. by Name, on the Day and Year of, &c. at B. as you surmise, nor am any Way guilty of the said Felony; so help me God. And then he shall kiss the Book, and say; And this I will defend against thee by my Body, as this Court shall award. Then the Appellant lays his right Hand on the Book, and with his left Hand takes the Appellee by the Right, and swears to this Effect: Hear this thou who callest thyself Thomas by the Name of Baptism, that thou didst feloniously on the Day, and in the Year, &c. at B. murder my Father W. by Name; so help me God. And then he shall kiss the Book, and say; And this I will prove against thee by my Body, as this Court shall award. This being done, the Court shall appoint a Day and Place for the Battel, and in the the mean while the Appellee shall be kept in Custody of the Marshal, and the Appellant find Sureties to be ready to fight at the Time and Place, unless he be an Approver, in which Case he shall also be kept by the Marshal: And the Night before the Day of Battel, both Parties shall be arraigned by the Marshal, and shall be brought into the Field before the Justices of the Court where the Appeal is depending, at the rising of the Sun, bare-headed, and bare legg'd from the Knee downwards, and bare in the Arms to the Elbows, armed only with Bastons an Ell long, and four corner'd Targets; and before they engage, they shall both make Oath, That they have neither eat nor drunk, nor done any Thing else by which the Law of God may be depressed, and the Law of the Devil exalted: And then, after Proclamation for Silence under Pain of Imprisonment, they shall begin the Combat, wherein if the Appellee be so far vanquished that he cannot or will not fight any longer, he may be adjudged to be hanged immediately; but if he can maintain the Fight till the Stars appear, he shall have Judgment to be quit of the Appeal: And if the Appellant becomes a crying Coward, the Appellee shall recover his Damages, and may plead his Acquittal in Bar of a subsequent Indictment or Appeal; and the Appellant shall for his Perjury lose his Liberam legem. If an Appellant becomes blind by the Act of God after he has waged Battel, the Court will discharge him of the Battel; and in such Case it is said that the Appellee shall go free. This Trial by Battel is at the Defendant's Choice; but if the Plaintiff be under an apparent Disability of fighting, as under Age, maimed, &c. he may counterplead the Wager of Battel, and compel the Defendant to put himself upon his Country: Also any Plaintiff may counterplead a Wager of Battel, by alledging such Matters against the Defendant, as induce a violent Presumption of Guilt; as in Appeal of Death, that he was found lying upon the Deceased with a bloody Knife in his Hand, &c. for here the Law will not oblige the Plaintiff to make good his Accusation in so extraordinary a Manner, when in all Appearance he may prove it in the ordinary Way. It is a good Counterplea of Battel that the Defendant hath been indicted for the same Fact; when if Appeal be brought, the Defendant shall not wage Battel. And if a Peer of the Realm bring an Appeal, the Defendant shall not be admitted to wage Battel, by Reason of the Dignity of the Appellant. 2 Hawk. P. C. 426, 427. This Trial by Battel is before the Constable and Marshal; but with all its Ceremonies is now disused. See Glanv. lib. 14. Bracton, lib. 3. Britton, c. 22. Smith de Rep. Angl. lib. 2. Co. Litt. 294, &c. Vide Combat.

Battery, (from the Fr. Batre to strike, or Sax. Batte, a Club) Is an Injury done to another in a violent Manner; as by striking or beating of a Man, pushing, jolting, filiping upon the Nose, &c. And it is also defined by our Law to be a Trespass committed by one Man upon another Vi & armis, & contra Pacem, &c. This Offence is punishable by Action and Indictment; on Action for the Injury at the Suit of the Party, the Offender shall render Damages, &c. And on Indictment at the Suit of the King, for a Breach of the Peace, he shall be fined according to the Heinousness of the Offence. Dalt. 282. 1 Hawk. P. C. 134. For here the Person offending is subject to a twofold Punishment, viz. a Fine to the King, and Damages to the Party; though it is usual only to bring an Action for Damages, which in Battery and Maim the Court may increase upon View of the Record and the Person. 2 Roll. Abr. 572. But a Man may beat another who first assaults him, in his own Defence, and justify in an Action of Special Pleading, or that the Battery was occasioned by his own Assault; or the Defendant may give that in Evidence upon Not Guilty to an Indictment: And the Record of the Conviction of the Offender by Indictment may serve afterwards for Evidence in Action of Trespass for the same Assault and Battery. Terms de Ley 81, 82. 2 Roll. Abr. 546. By Holt Chief Justice the least touching of another in Anger, is a Battery: If two or more meet in a narrow Passage, and without any Violence or Design of Harm, the one touches the other gently, it will be no Battery: But if any of them use Violence to force his Way in a rude Manner, or any Struggle is made about the Passage to that Degree as to do Hurt, it will be a Battery. Mod. Caf. 149. The Beating of another, in a moderate Manner, is lawful in some Cases; as the Parent of his Child, a Master his Servant, or Apprentice, &c. See Assault.

Batus, (Lat. from the Sax. Bat) A Boat, and Battelus a little Boat. — Concessit etiam eidem Hugo Wake pro se & Hered. suis, quod prædictus Abbas & successores sui, & Ecclesia sua de Croyland habeat tres Batellos in Harnolt, &c. Chart. Ed. 1. 20 Julii 18 Regni. Hence we have an old Word Boatswain, for such as we now call Boatswain of a Ship.

Baubella, (Baubles) A Word mentioned in Hoveden in R. 1. and signifies Jewels or precious Stones. — Tres partes Theauri sui & omnia Baubella sua divisi.

Baudekin, (Baldicum, and Baldekinum) Cloth of Baudekin, or Gold: It is said to be the richest Cloth, now called Brocade, made with Gold and Silk, or Tissue upon which Figures in Silk, &c. were embroidered. Anno 4 Hen. 8. c. 6. Erat pannus auro rigidus, plumatoque opere intertextus: But some Writers account it only Cloth of Silk.

Bawdy-House, (Lupanar, Fornix) A House of ill Fame, kept for the Resort and Commerce of lewd People of both Sexes. The keeping of a Bawdy-House comes under the Cognisance of the Temporal Law, as a Common Nuisance, not only in Respect of its endangering the publick Peace, by drawing together dissolute and debauched Persons, and promoting Quarrels, but also in Respect of its Tendency to corrupt the Manners of the People, by an open Profession of Lewdness. 3 Inst. 205. 1 Hawk. P. C. 196. Those who keep Bawdy-Houses are punished with Fine and Imprisonment; and also such infamous Punishment, as Pillory, &c. as the Court in Discretion shall inflict: And a Lodger who keeps only a single Room for the Use of Bawdry, is indictable for keeping a Bawdy-House. 1 Salk. 382. Persons resorting to a Bawdy-House, are punishable, and they may be bound to the good Behaviour, &c. But if one be indicted for keeping or frequenting a Bawdy-House, it must be expressly alledged to be such a House, and that the Party knew it; and not by Suspicion only. Popb. 208. A Constable, upon Information, that a Man and Woman are gone to a lewd House, or about to commit Fornication or Adultery, may, if he finds them together, carry them before a Justice of Peace without any Warrant, and the Justice may bind them over to the Sessions. Dalt. 214. Constables in these Cases may call others to their Assistance, enter Bawdy-Houses, and arrest the Offenders for a Breach of the Peace: In London they may carry them to Prison; and by the Custom of the City, Whores and Bawds may be carted. 3 Inst. 206. It was always held infamous to keep a Bawdy-House; yet some of our Historians mention Bawdy-Houses publickly allowed here in former Times till the Reign of Hen. 8. and assign the Number to be eighteen thus allowed on the Bankside in Southwark. Mod. Just. 227. See Stews and Brotbel-Houses.

Form of an Indictment for keeping a Bawdy-House.

THE Jurors, &c. That A. B. of, &c. the Day and Year, &c. and at divers Times before and afterwards, at H. in the County aforesaid, held and kept, and often made use of, and still holds and keeps, &c. in his House there, a common Bawdy-House, Entertainments for Lechery and Fornication, and permits Men and other suspected Persons, and not of Good Behaviour or Fame, carnally to lie with Whores, to the great Detriment of all the People of our Sovereign Lord the King there near dwelling, and to the ill Example of all other Offenders in such Cases, and against the Peace, &c.

Bay, or Pen, Is a Pond-Head made up of a great Height, to keep in Water for the Supply of a Mill, &c. so that the Wheel of the Mill may be driven by the Water coming thence through a Passage or Floodgate. A Harbour where Ships ride at Sea near some Port, is also called a Bay: And this Word is mentioned Anno 27 Eliz. c. 19.

Beacon, (from the Sax. Beacen, i. e. signum) A Signal well known; being a Fire maintained on some Eminence near the Coasts of the Sea, to prevent Invasions, &c. 4 Inst. 148. 8 Eliz. c. 13. Hence Beaconage (Beaconagium) Money paid towards the Maintenance of Beacons: And we still use the Word Beckon to give Notice unto. See Stat. 5 Hen. 4, &c.

Bead, or Rede, (Sax. Bead, Oratio) A Prayer; so that to say over Beads, is to say over one's Prayers. They were most in Use before Printing, when poor Persons could not go to the Charge of a Manuscript Book: Though they are still used in many Parts of the World, where the Roman Catholick Religion prevails. They are not allowed to be brought into England, or any superstitious Things, to be used here, under the Penalty of a Præmunire, by Stat. 13 Eliz. c. 2.

Beam, Is that Part of the Head of a Stag where the Horns grow, from the Sax. Beam, i. e. Arbor; because they grow out of the Head as Branches out of a Tree. Beam is likewise used for a common Balance of Weights in Cities and Towns. Stat. 13 Ed. 1.

Beams and Ballance, for weighing Goods and Merchandise in the City of London. See Tronage.

Bearers, Signifies such as bear down or oppress others, and is said to be all one with Maintainers. — Justices of Assize shall inquire of, hear, and determine Maintainers, Bearers, and Conspirators, &c. Stat. 4 Ed. 3. c. 11.

Beasts of Chase (Feræ Campestris) Are five, viz. The Buck, Doe, Fox, Marten and Roe. Manw. part 1. pag. 342. Beasts of the Forest (Feræ Silvestres) otherwise called Beasts of Venary, are the Hart, Hind, Bear and Wolf. Ibid. par. 2. c. 4. Beasts and Fowls of the Warren, are the Hare, Concy, Pheasant, and Partridge. Ibid. Reg. Orig. 95, 86, &c. Co. Litt. 233.

Beau-pleader, (Pulbre Placitando, Fr. Beauplaidier, i. e. to plead fairly) Is a Writ upon the Statute of Marlbridge, 52 Hen. 3. c. 11. whereby it is enacted, That neither in the Circuit of Justices, nor in Counties, Hundreds, or Courts-Baron, any Fines shall be taken for Fair Pleading, viz. for not pleading fairly or aptly to the Purpose; upon which Statute, this Writ was ordained, directed to the Sheriff, Bailiff, or him who shall demand such Fine, and it is a Prohibition not to do it; whereupon an Alias and Pluries and Attachment may be had, &c. New Nat. Br. 596, 597. And Beau-pleader is as well in Respect of vi-cious Pleadings, as of the fair Pleading, by way of Amendment. 2 Inst. 122.

Bedel, (Bedellus, Sax. Bydel) A Cryer or Messenger of a Court, that cites Men to appear and answer: And is an inferior Officer of a Parish, or Liberty, very well known in London, and the Suburbs. There are likewise University Bedells, and Church Bedells; now called Summoners and Apparators: And Manwood in his Forest Laws, saith there are Forest Bedells, that make all Manner of Garnishments for the Courts of the Forest, and all Proclamations, and also execute the Process of the Forest, like unto Bailiffs Errant of a Sheriff in his County. — Edgarus interdicat omnibus Ministris, id est, viccomitibus, Bedellis & Bailivis, &c. Ne introeant fines & limites dicti Marisci. Ingulph. Hist. Croyl.

Bedelary, (Bedelaria) Is the same to a Bedel, as Bailiwick to a Bailiff. Lit. lib. 3. cap. 5. — Will. filius Adæ tenet Bedelarium Hundredi de Macclesfield, &c. Ex. Rot. Antiq.

Bederepe, alias Biderepe, (Sax.) Is a Service which certain Tenants were anciently bound to perform, viz. To reap their Landlord's Corn at Harvest; as some yet are tied to give them one, two, or three Days Work, when commanded. This customary Service of inferior Tenants was called in the Latin Præcaria, Bedrepium, &c. — Debent venire in Autumno ad Præariam quæ vocatur a le Bederepe. Plac. in Craft. Pur. 10 H. 3. Rot. 8. Surrey. See Magna Præcaria.

Bedeburri, Those which we now call Banditi, profligate and excommunicated Persons. The Word is mentioned in Mat. Paris. Anno 1258.

Beer, It is lawful to export Beer, &c. paying a Custom Duty. Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2.

Beggars, Pretending to be blind, lame, &c. found begging in the Streets, are to be removed by the Constables; and refusing to be removed, shall be whipped, &c. Stat. 12 Ann. And our Statutes have been formerly so strict for punishing of Beggars, that in the Reign of King Hen. 8. a Law was enacted, That Sturdy Beggars convicted of a second Offence, should be executed as Felons: But this Statute was afterwards repealed. See Regue.

Behaviour of Persons. Vide Good Behaviour.

Belgæ, The Inhabitants of Somerfetshire, Wiltshire, and Hamptshire. Blount.

Benefice, (Beneficium) Is generally taken for any Ecclesiastical Living or Promotion; and Benefices are divided into elective and donative: So also it is used in the Canon Law. 3 Inst. 155. Duarenus de Beneficiis, lib. 2. c. 3. All Church Preferments and Dignities, are Benefices; but they must be given for Life, not for Years, or at Will. Deaneries, Prebendaries, &c. are Benefices with Cure of Souls, though not comprehended as such within the Stat. 21 H. 8. c. 13. of Residence: But according to a more strict and proper Acceptation, Benefices are only Rectories, and Vicarages. Beneficia were formerly Portions of Land, &c. given by Lords to their Followers for their Maintenance; but afterwards as these Tenures became Perpetual and Hereditary, they left their Name of Beneficia to the Livings of the Clergy, and retained to themselves the Name of Feuds. And Beneficium was an Estate in Land at first granted for Life only, so called, because it was held ex mero Beneficio of the Donor; and the Tenants were bound to swear Fealty to the Lord, and to serve him in the Wars, those Estates being commonly given to Military Men: But at Length by the Consent of the Donor, or his Heirs, they were continued for the Lives of the Sons of the Possessors, and by Degrees past into an Inheritance; and sometimes such Benefices were given to Bishops, and Abbots, subject to the like Services, viz. to provide Men to serve in the Wars; and when they as well as the Laity had obtained a Property of those Lands, they were called Regalia when given by the King; and on the Death of a Bishop, &c. returned to the King till another another was chosen. Spelm. of Feuds, c. 2. Blunt, Verb. Beneficium. Lands were anciently held in Beneficio; and then granted in Alodium perpetuo jure, &c.

Beneficio primo Ecclesiastico habendo, A Writ directed from the King to the Chancellor, to bestow the Benefice that shall first fall in the King's Gift, above or under such a Value, upon such a particular Person. Reg. Orig. 307.

Beneficth, An ancient Service which the Tenant rendered to his Lord with his Plough and Cart. Lamb. Tit. p. 222. Co. Litt. 86.

Benefolence, (Benefolentia) Is used in the Chronicles and Statutes of this Realm for a voluntary Gratuity given by the Subjects to the King. Stow's Annals, p. 701. And Stow saith, that it grew from Edward the Fourth's Days: You may find it also Anno 11 Hen. 7. c. 10. yielded to that Prince in Regard of his great Expences in Wars, and otherwise. 12 Rep. 119. And by Act of Parliament 13 Car. 2. c. 4. it was given to his Majesty K. Char. 2. but with a Proviso that it should not be drawn into future Example: So that all Supplies of this Nature are now by way of Taxes. In other Nations Benefolencies are given sometimes to Lords of the Fee, by their Tenants, &c. Cassand. de Consuet. Burg. p. 134, 136.

Benefolentia Regis habenda, The Form of Purchasing the King's Pardon and Favour, in ancient Fines and Submissions, to be restored to Estate, Title, or Place.——Thomas de St. Waterico dat Regi mille marcas, pro habenda Benefolentia Regis & pro habendis Terris suis unde Dissistis fait. Paroch. Antiq. p. 172.

Berbicaria, A Sheep Down, or Ground to feed Sheep. Leg. Affreni, c. 9. Et quod de Berbicaria, &c. Monasticon Tom. 1. p. 308.

Bercaria, (Berchery, from the Fr. Bergeria) A Sheep-Fold, or other Inclosure for the Keeping of Sheep: In Domesday it is written Berquarium. 2. Inf.

476.——Mandatam est Roberto de Lextinton, quod Abbati de Miraval faciat unam Bercariam in Pastura de Fairfield ad oves suas Custodiendas. Claus. 9 Hen. 3. m. 12.——Dedi sexaginta acras terre ad unam Bercariam faciendam.——Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 599. Bercarius is taken for a Shepherd: And Bercaria is said to be abbreviated from Berbicaria, and Berbex; hence comes Berbicus, a Ram, Berbica, an Ewe, Caro Berbicina, Mutton. Corwel.

Bercellarii: There were seven Churchmen so called, anciently belonging to the Church of St. John of Beverley.——Sed quia eorum turpe nomen Bercellariorum patens visui remanebat, ditos septem de caetero non Bercellarios sed Personas voluit nuncupari. Pat. 21 R. 2. par. 3. m. 10. per Inspex.

Berewicha or Berwica, Villages or Hamlets belonging to some Town or Manor. This Word often occurs in Domesday: Iste sunt Berewichæ ejusdem Manerii——

Berghmaster, (from the Sax. Berg a Hill, Mons, quasi Master of the Mountains) Is a chief Officer among the Derbyshire Miners, who also executes the Office of a Coroner.——Juratores dicunt, quod in Principio quando Mineratores veniunt in Campum Minerarum quarentes, inventa Minera, veniunt ad Ballivum, qui dicitur Berghmayster, & petunt ab eo duas Metas, &c.——Esc. de An. 16 Ed. 1. num. 34. in Turri London. The Germans call a Mountaineer, or Miner, a Bergman.

Berghmoth or Berghmote, Comes from the Sax. Berg, a Hill, and Gemote, an Assembly; and is as much as to say an Assembly or Court upon a Hill, which is held in Derbyshire for deciding Pleas and Controversies among the Miners.——Juratores etiam dicunt quod Plecita del Berghmoth debent teneri de tribus septimanis in tres septimanas super Mineram de Peco. Esc. 16 Ed. 1. And on this Court of Berghmote, Mr. Mantowe in his Treatise of the Customs of the Miners, hath a Copy of Verfes, with References to Statutes, &c.

3 E. 6. Art. 9.	And Suit for Oar must be in Berghmote Court.
16 E. 1. c. 2.	Thither for Justice Miners must resort:
3 E. 6. Art. 10.	And two great Courts of Berghmote ought to be, In every Year upon the Minery:
3 & 4 P. & M. Art. 19.	To punish Miners that Transgress the Law,
26 Bd. 4. c. 1. &c.	To curb Offences, and keep all in awe:
	To fine Offenders that do break the Peace,
	Or shed Man's Blood, or any Tumults raise:
	To swear Berghmasters that they faithfully Perform their Duty on the Minery:
	And make Arrests, and eke impartially Inpanel Jurors, Causes for to try:
	And see that Right be done from Time to Time Both to the Lord and Farmers on the Mine.

Beria, Berie, Berre. A large open Field; and those Cities and Towns in England which end with that Word, are built in plain and open Places, and do not derive their Names from Boroughs, as Sir Henry Spelman imagines. Most of our Glossographers in the Names of Places have confounded the Word Berie, with that of Bury, and Borough, as if the Appellative of ancient Towns; whereas the true Sense of the Word Berie is a flat wide Campain, as is proved from sufficient Authorities by the learned Du Fresne, who observes that Beria Sancti Edmundi mentioned by Mat. Paris. sub ann. 1174. is not to be taken for the Town, but for the adjoining Plain. To this may be added, that many flat and wide Meads, and other open Grounds, are called by the Name of Beries, and Beryfields: The spacious Meadow between Oxford and Iffey was in the Reign of King Atbelsian called Bery.

B. Twine, MS. As is now the largest Pasture Ground in Quarendon in the County of Buckingham, known by the Name of Beryfield. And though these Meads have been interpreted Demesne or Manor Meadows, yet were they truly any flat open Meadows, that lay adjoining to any Vill or Farm.

Berra, A plain open Heath. Berras affartare, to grub up such barren Heaths.

Bernct, Incendium, comes from the Sax. Byran, to burn: It is one of those Crimes which by the Laws of Hen. 1. cap. 15. Emendari non possunt. Sometimes it is used to signify any capital Offence. Leges Canuti apud Brompt. c. 90. Leg. Hen. 1. c. 12, 47.

Bersa, (Fr. Bers) A Limit or Bound——Pasturam duorum Taurorum per totam Bersam in foresta nostra de Chipenham, &c. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. pag. 210. A Park Pale.

Bersare,

Bersare, (Germ. Bersen, to shoot) Bersare in foresta mea ad tres Arcus. Chart. Ranulf. Comit. Cestr. ann. 1218. viz. To hunt or shoot with three Arrows in my Forest. Bersarii were properly those that hunted the Wolf.

Berfelet, (Berfeleta) A Hound.—Ad Berfandum in foresta cum novem arcibus & sex Berfeletis. Chart. Rog. de Quincy.

Berton, or Barton, (Bertona) Is that Part of a Country Farm where the Barns and other inferior Offices stand, and wherein the Cattle are foddered, and other Business is managed. See Claus. 32 Ed. 1. m. 17. It also signifieth a Farm, distinct from a Manor: In some Parts of the West of England, they call a great Farm a Berton; and a small Farm a Living.—Bertonarii were such as we now call Farmers or Tenants of Bertons; Husbandmen that held Lands at the Will of the Lord.—Cum Bertona terris & tenementis, que Bertonarii modo tenent ad voluntatem. Chart. Johan. Episc. Exon. 24 Dec. Ann. 1337.

Berwick, Merchandize carried into or brought out of Scotland, or the Isles thereof, shall be brought first to Berwick, on Pain of Forfeiture: And the Merchants and Freemen there shall have the Farm of the Waters Royal and Fishings within the Seigniorie. Stat. 22 Ed. 4. c. 8. The Liberties of Berwick are declared, by the Stat. 1 Jac. 1. c. 28.

Bery, or Bury, The Vill or Seat of Habitation of a Nobleman, a Dwelling or Mansion-House, being the Chief of a Manor; from the Sax. Beorg, which signifies a Hill or Castle; for heretofore Noblemens Seats were Castles, situate on Hills, of which we have still some Remains. As in Heresfordshire, there are the Beries of Stockton, Hope, &c. It was anciently taken for a Sanctuary.

Besatte, (Fr. Bisaveul, Proavus) The Father of the Grandfather: And in the Common Law it signifies a Writ that lies where the Great Grandfather was seized the Day that he died of any Lands or Tenements in Fee-simple; and after his Death a Stranger entereth the same Day upon him, and keeps out the Heir. F. N. B. 222.

Bescha, (from the Fr. Bescher, fodere, to dig) A Spade or Shovel.—In communi Pastura turbas, cum una sola Besca, fodient & nihil dabunt. Prior. Lew. Customar. de Hecham, pag. 15. Hence perhaps, una Bescata terra inclusa—Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. fol. 642. may signify a Piece of Land usually turned up with a Spade, as Gardeners fit and prepare their Grounds; or may be taken for as much Land as one Man can dig with a Spade in a Day.

Bestials, (Fr. Bestial) Beasts or Cattle of any Sort: Anno 4 Ed. 3. c. 3. it is written Bestail; and is generally used for all Kinds of Cattle, though it has been restrained to those purveyed for the King's Provision. 12 Car. 2. c. 4.

Betaches, Laymen using Giebe Lands. Parl. 14 Ed. 2.

Beverches, Bed-works, or Customary Services, done at the Bidding of the Lord by his inferior Tenants—Inter servitia Customaria Tenentium in Blebury, de Domino Abbatis & Conventus Reading—predicatus Abbas habebit de eis duas precarias carrucarum per Annum, que vocantur Beverches, & cum qualibet carruca duos homines qualibet die ad Prandium Abbatis. Cartular. Rading. MS. f. 223.

Bewared, An old Saxon Word signifying Expended; for before the Britons and Saxons had Plenty of Money, they traded wholly in Exchange of Wares.

Bidall, or Bidale, (Precaria potaria, from the Sax. Biddan, to pray or supplicate) Is the Invitation of Friends to drink Ale at the House of some poor Man, who thereby hopes a charitable Contribution for his Relief: It is still in Use in the West of England; and is mentioned 26 Hen. 8. c. 6. And something like this seems to be what we commonly call House-warming, when Persons are invited and visited in this Manner on their first beginning House-keeping.

Bidding of the Beads, Bidding from the Sax. Biddan, To pray or desire; and Bead from the Sax. Bead a Prayer, was anciently a Charge or Warning given by the Parish-Priest to his Parishioners at some special Times to come to Prayers, either for the Soul of some Friend departed, or upon some other particular Occasion. And at this Day our Ministers, on the Sunday preceding any Festival or Holiday in the following Week, give Notice of them, and desire and exhort their Parishioners to observe them as they ought; which is required by our Canons. See Stat. 27 Hen. 8. c. 26.

Bidentes, Two Yearlings, or Sheep of the second Year—Will. Longspe A. D. 1234. granted to the Prior and Canons of Burcester, Pasturam ad quinquaginta Bidentes, cum Dominicis Bidentibus meis ibidem pasendis. Paroch. Antiq. p. 216.

Biduana, A Fasting for the Space of two Days. Matt. Westm. p. 135.

Biga, Bigata, A Cart, or Chariot drawn with two Horses, coupled Side to Side; but it is said to be properly a Cart with two Wheels, sometimes drawn by one Horse; and in our ancient Records it is used for any Cart, Wain or Waggon.—Et quod eant cum Bigis & Carris cum ceteris phaleris super Tenementum suum, &c. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. fol. 256.

Bigamus, Is a Person that hath married two or more Wives, successively after each other, or a Widow; for the Canonists account a Man that hath married a Widow, to have been twice married. It is mentioned in the Statutes 18 Ed. 3. c. 2. 1 Ed. 6. c. 12. And 2 Inst. 273.

Bigamy, (Bigamia) Signifies a double Marriage, or Marriage of two Wives; it is used in our Law, for an Impediment to be a Clerk, by Reason he hath been twice married. 4 Ed. 1. c. 5. Which seems to be grounded upon the Words of St. Paul to Timothy, Epist. 1. cap. 5. vers. 2. Oportet ergo Episcopum irreprehensibilem esse & unius uxoris virum: Upon which it is said the Canonists have founded their Doctrine, that he that hath been twice married, may not be a Clerk; so that they do not only exclude such from Holy Orders, but also deny them all Privileges that belong to Clerks: But this Law is abolished by 1 Ed. 6. and see the Stat. 18 Eliz. cap. 7. The Statute called the Statute de Bigamis, is the 4 Ed. 1. and the 1 Jac. 1. c. 11. calls it Bigamy, where a Person marries the second Wife, &c. the first being living, which is Felony; but this is properly Polygamy, and not Bigamy, which last is not where a Person hath two Wives together, but where he hath two Wives one after another. 2 Inst. 273.

Bigot, Is a Compound of several old English Words, and signifies an obstinate Person; or one that is wedded to an Opinion, in Matters of Religion, &c. It is recorded that when Rollo the first Duke of Normandy, refused to kiss the King's Foot, unless he held it out to him, it being a Ceremony required in Token of Subjection for that Dukedom, with which the King invested him; those who were present taking Notice of the Duke's Refusal, advised him to comply with the King's Desire, who answered them Ne se Bigot; whereupon he was in Derision called Bigot, and the Normans are so called to this Day.

Bigagines, (Lat.) Bilaws of Corporations, &c. See By-Laws.

Bilantiis deferendis, A Writ directed to a Corporation, for the carrying of Weights to such a Haven, there to weigh the Wool that Persons by our ancient Laws were licensed to transport. Reg. Orig. 270.

Bilinguis,

Bilinguals, Signifies generally a double-tongued Man; or one that can speak two Languages: But it is used in our Law for a Jury that passeth between an Englishman and a Foreigner, whereof Part ought to be English, and Part Strangers. Though this is properly a Jury de medietate Linguae. 28 Ed. 3. c. 13.

Bill, (Billa) Is diversly used: In Law Proceedings, it is a Declaration in Writing, expressing either the Wrong the Complainant hath suffered by the Party complained of, or else some Fault committed against some Law or Statute of the Realm: And this Bill is sometimes addressed to the Lord Chancellor of England, especially for unconscionable Wrongs done to the Complainant; and sometimes to others having Jurisdiction, according as the Law directs. It contains the Fact complained of, the Damage thereby sustained, and Petition of Process against the Defendant for Redress; and it is made use of as well in Criminal as Civil Matters. In Criminal Cases, when a Grand Jury upon a Presentment or Indictment find the same to be true, they indorse on it Billa vera; and thereupon the Offender is said to stand indicted of the Crime, and is bound to make Answer unto it: And if the Crime touch the Life of the Person indicted, it is then referred to the Jury of Life and Death, viz. the Petty Jury, by whom if he be found guilty, then he shall stand convicted of the Crime, and is by the Judge condemned to Death. Terms de Ley 86. 3 Inft. 30. See Ignoramus and Indictment.

Bill is also a common Engagement for Money given by one Man to another; and being sometimes with a Penalty, called Penal Bill, and sometimes without a Penalty, though the latter is most frequently used. By a Bill we ordinarily understand a single Bond, without a Condition; and it was formerly all one with an Obligation, save only it's being called a Bill when in English, and an Obligation when in Latin. West. Symbol. lib. 2. sect. 146. A Bill has been defined to be a Writing, wherein one Man is bound to another, to pay a Sum of Money on a Day that is Future, or presently on Demand, according to the Agreement of the Parties at the Times it is entered into, and the Dealings between them: And it is divided into several Sorts, as a Bill that is single, a Bill that is Penal, &c. Where there is a Bill of 100 l. to be paid on Demand, it is a Duty presently, and there needs no actual Demand. Cro. Eliz. 548. And a single Obligation or Bill, upon the Sealing and Delivery, is Debitum in presenti, though Solvendum in futuro. On a collateral Promise to pay Money on Demand, there must be a special Demand; but between the Parties it is a Debt, and said to be sufficiently demanded by the Action: It is otherwise where the Money is to be paid to a third Person; or where there is a Penalty. 3 Keb. 176. If a Person acknowledge himself by Bill obligatory to be indebted to another in the Sum of 50 l. and by the same Bill binds him and his Heirs in 100 l. and says not to whom he is bound, it shall be intended he is bound to the Person to whom the Bill is made. Rol. Abr. 148. A Bill obligatory written in a Book, with the Party's Hand and Seal to it, is good. Cro. Eliz. 613. And if a Man makes a Bill thus: *I do owe and promise to pay to A. B. 50 l. &c. for Payment thereof, I bind myself to C. D. &c.* another Person; it is good by the Words of the first Part, and the Words obligatory to another Person are void. A Man says by his Deed: *Memorandum, That I A. B. have received of C. D. the Sum of 20 l. which I promise to pay to E. F. In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my Seal, &c. Or if the Bill be, I shall pay to C. D. 20 l. In Witness, &c.* and the same be sealed: Or if it runs as follows, *I owe to C. D. 20 l. to be paid at, &c. Or, I had of C. D. 20 l. &c. to be repaid him again: Or, I A. B. do bind myself to C. D. that he shall receive 20 l. &c.* All these are said to be obligatory. 2 Rol. 146. 22 E. 4. c. 22.

Form of a single Bill for Money.

K Now all Men by these Presents, That I A. B. of, &c. do owe and am indebted to C. D. of, &c. the Sum of Fifty Pounds of lawful Money of Great Britain, which I promise to pay unto the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, at and upon the first Day of October next ensuing the Date of these Presents. In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my Hand and Seal the 10th Day of August, Anno Domini 1733.

A Penal Bill for Payment of Money.

K Now all Men by these Presents, That I A. B. of, &c. do owe unto C. D. of, &c. the Sum of One hundred Pounds of lawful Money of Great Britain, to be paid unto the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, on, &c. next ensuing the Date hereof; for which Payment well and truly to be made, I bind myself, my Heirs, Executors, and Administrators, to the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns in Two hundred Pounds of like lawful Money firmly by these Presents. In Witness, &c.

Bill of Exchange, Is a Security among Merchants, given for Money, and by the Credit of the Drawer generally passeth as Money: These Bills are drawn either payable at Sight; or in so many Days, Weeks, or Months; or at one or two Usances, &c. And the Space of one Month from the Date of the Bill is called Usance, and two or three Months double or treble Usance. There is an Inland Bill of Exchange, and Foreign Bill; an Inland Bill has been said to be only in the Nature of a Letter, but an Outland Bill is more regarded in the Eye of the Law, because it is for the Advantage of Commerce with other Countries, which makes it of a more publick Concern: And a Foreign Bill being refused to be accepted, by the Law of Merchants Action lies against the Drawer, and if the Person to whom directed subscribes the Bill, it is Assumpsit to pay it. 1 Rol. Abr. 6. 1 Ventr. 152. 2 Cro. 307. Every Indorfor of a Bill is liable as the first Drawer; the Indorfor is answerable, because the Indorsement is in Nature of a new Bill. 1 Salk. 125. But by the Custom of Merchants, the Indorsee is to receive the Money of the first Drawer if he can; and if he cannot, then the Indorfor is to answer. The Indorfor of a Bill is not liable to pay it, till Endeavour has been used to find the Drawer. Salk. 126. But an Indorfor is not discharged without actual Payment of the Bill; unless there be some Neglect or Default in the Indorsee, as where he doth not endeavour to receive the Money in convenient Time, and then the first Drawer becomes insolvent. Ibid. 132. An Indorfor charges himself in the same Manner as if he had originally drawn the Bill: And a Plaintiff need not prove the Drawer's Hand, as the Indorfor is a new Drawer; but he must prove that he demanded the Money of the Drawer or Drawee, or that he sought and could not find them, in convenient Time, which is three Days after the Indorsement, &c. 1 Salk. 127. In Case a Bill be bought at Discount, it is an absolute Purchase; and if the same be again Indorsed, the Indorfor warrants the whole Bill. See 2 Shorr. 442. A blank Indorsement doth not transfer the Property of a Bill of Exchange; though the Person to whom indorsed may fill up the Indorsement, so as to charge the Indorfor; for where one indorses his Name on a Bill, the Indorsee may make what Use of it he pleases, by Way of Assignment, Acquittance, &c. 1 Salk. 126. A Bill of Exchange payable to a Person, or Bearer, is not assignable to enable the Indorsee to bring an Action, if the Drawer refuse Payment:

But by Bill to a Person, or Order, an exprefs Power is given to the Party to assign, and the Indorsee may maintain an Action: And the first is a good Bill between Indorfor and Indorsee. Ibid. 125. Where a Bill is drawn payable to A. B. or Bearer, an Assignee must sue in the Name of him to whom it is made payable, and not in his own Name; otherwise a Stranger finding the Bill, might recover: If it be made payable to A. B. or Order, there an Assignee may sue in his own Name, because the Order must be made by Indorsement, &c. Also the latter is within the Custom of Merchants, and may be negotiated and assigned by Custom; but the former is not. 3 Salk. 67. If a Bank Bill payable to A. B. or Bearer, be lost, and it is found by a Stranger, Payment to him would indemnify the Bank; yet A. B. may have Trover against the Finder, though not against his Assignee for valuable Consideration, which creates a Property. 3 Salk. 71. If a Man gives a Note in these Words, viz. I promise to Account with T. S. or his Order for 50 l. Value receiv'd, it shall be construed as a Promise to pay the Money, and be a good Bill indorrible over to another, who may bring an Action for the same. Pasch. 11 Geo. 1. Mod. Caf. in L. & E. 362, 363. The Acceptance of a Bill, although after the Money is payable, is binding to the Party accepting, and Action is maintainable thereon; the Effect of the Bill being the Payment of the Money, and not the Day of Payment. Cartberw's Rep. 460. When a Bill of Exchange is accepted, it is a good Ground for a Special Action upon the Case; but it doth not make a Debt, &c. 2 Shew. 1. Indebitatus Assumpsit doth not lie against the Acceptor of a Bill of Exchange, because his Acceptance is a collateral Engagement; though it will lie against the Drawer. 1 Salk. 23. And a general Indebitatus Assumpsit will not lie on a Bill of Exchange, for want of a Consideration; and therefore there must be a Special Action upon the Custom of Merchants, or an Indebitatus Assumpsit against the Drawer for Money by him received to the Plaintiff's Use. Ibid. 125. A Bill once accepted, may not be revoked by the Party that accepted it, though immediately after and before the Bill becomes due, he hath Advice that the Drawer is broke. The Servant of a Merchant cannot accept a Bill of Exchange for his Master, without plain Evidence that he hath Authority to do it; as where the Master allows the Payment of Bills drawn by his Servant, &c. Lex Mercat. 265. Mod. Ca. 36. But another Person may accept the Bill for the Honour of the Drawer; and if he pays the Money in Default of the Party, he is to make a Protest with Declaration that he hath paid the same for the Drawer's Honour. If one Merchant having a right Understanding with another says, Leave your Bill with me, and I will accept it, by the Custom of Merchants it obliges him as effectually as if he had signed it. If a Bill be accepted, and the Person who accepted the same happens to die before the Time of Payment, there must be a Demand made of his Executors or Administrators; and on Non-payment, a Protest is to be made, although the Money becomes due before there can be Administration, &c. A Bill may be accepted for Part, the Party on whom drawn having no more Effects in his Hands; and there may be a Protest for the Residue. If a Man be not to be found, or being found, is not to be met with afterwards, it is Cause sufficient for a Protest: Which is a Sort of Summons to a Person to accept or pay a Bill, with Protestation against the Refuser for Exchange, Interest, and all Charges, Damages and Losses that may be sustained or occasioned by such Refusal. Lex Mercat. Where any Bill is negotiated, if the same be to be paid at a certain Day, and accepted, the Protest must be on the Day of Payment; but if payable at Sight, it must be protested the third Day of Grace: And when such Bill of Exchange is not paid, the Interest thereon commences only from the Time of Demand. 2 Shew. 164. 6 Mod. 138. Before the Stat. of 9 W. 3. if a Bill was Foreign, one could not resort to the Drawer to charge him for Non-acceptance or Non-payment, without a Protest, and reasonable Notice thereof; but in Case of an Inland Bill it was otherwise. The Protest was ordered for the Benefit of the Drawer, to give Notice that the Bill is not accepted, &c. though it is to subject to answer. Mod. Ca. 80.

Form of a Protest of a Bill of Exchange.

K Now all Men, That I A. B. on the Day, &c. at the usual Place of Abode of C. D. have demanded Payment of the Bill of which the above is a Copy, which the said C. D. did not pay, whereof I the said A. B. do hereby protest the said Bill. Dated, &c.

In Drawing Bills of Exchange, the Signing of one Partner in Merchandize for Self and Company, obliges the others. A Gentleman travelling for Education, draws a Bill of Exchange, this is negotiating the Bill, and makes him a Merchant, &c. Shew. 127. A Bill of Exchange directed to one to pay so much for Value received, shall be a good Discharge of the Debt, if the Bill be not returned back to the Drawer in Time, although it be not paid; for Keeping the Bill long, is Evidence that he hath agreed to take the Merchant as Debtor. Ibid. 126. If a Man pays a Bill of Exchange before due, and the Person to whom paid fails before the Time of Payment, he shall be obliged to pay it again to the Deliverer; because the Drawer might have countermanded the same, or ordered the Bill to be made payable to another Person. A Person gives a Bill of Exchange, &c. upon a third Person to another in Payment, and he takes it absolutely, if he knew the third Person to be breaking or in a failing Condition, and the Receiver of the Bill uses all Diligence to get Payment, but cannot, this is a Fraud and no Payment: Though if a Man takes a Note or Bill, and after it is payable makes no Demand, so that he might be paid if he had been diligent enough, then if the Party on whom the Bill is drawn fails, it is at the Peril of him that took it. Mod. Caf. 147. A Drawer of a Bill of Exchange is always answerable, by the Value received, though there be no Tender of the Bill for Payment, or it be not protested, unless the Person on whom drawn break, and then it is otherwise, for in that Case, the Party who paid the Money for the Bill loseth it. 2 Shew. 319. Though it is said the Words Value received, are now not absolutely necessary to a Bill of Exchange: For when they are mentioned therein, the Drawer must answer it at Common Law; and if not, then by the Custom of Merchants. 1 Shew. 5. Mod. Caf. L. & E. 267. If a Possessor of a Bill by any Accident loses it, he must cause Intimation to be made by a Notary Publick before Witnesses, that the Bill is lost or mislaid, requiring that Payment be not made of the same to any Person without his Privy. And if any Bill of Exchange drawn in, or dated at and from any Place of this Kingdom, shall be lost, the Drawer of the Bill shall give another Bill of the same Tenor, Security being given to indemnify him in Case the Bill so lost be found again. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 17. A Bill of Exchange, though it be in Writing, is but as a Simple Contract; but it was urged to be equal to a Specialty, by the Law of Merchants: A Person may plead the Statute of Limitations to an Action upon a Bill of Exchange; and it is no good Replication, that it was on Account between Merchants, where it appears to be for Value received. Comber. 392. 190. There are not only Bills of Exchange, but Bills of Credit between Merchants, the Forms whereof are as follow:

Form of a Bill of Exchange.

250 l. Sterling. London, 10 August 1725.

A T double Ufance pay this my first Bill of Exchange to Mr. C. D. Merchant, or Order, the Sum of Two hundred and fifty Pounds Sterling, for the Value here received of the said C. D. And place it to Account as by Advice from Yours, &c. A. B.

To Mr. E. F. Merchant, in Amsterdam.

Form of a Bill of Credit.

THIS present Writing witnesseth, That I A. B. of London, Merchant, do undertake, to and with C. D. of, &c. Merchant, his Executors and Administrators, that if he the said C. D. do deliver, or cause to be delivered unto E. F. of, &c. or to his Use, any Sum or Sums of Money amounting to the Sum of, &c. of lawful British Money, and shall take a Bill under the Hand and Seal of the said E. F. confessing and shewing the Certainty thereof; that then I, my Executors or Administrators bearing the same Bill delivered to me or them, shall and will immediately, upon the Receipt of the same, pay, or cause to be paid, unto the said C. D. his Executors or Assigns, all such Sums of Money as shall be contained in the said Bill, at, &c. For which Payment in Manner and Form aforesaid, I bind myself, my Executors, Administrators and Assigns by these Presents. In Witness, &c.

By the Statute 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 17. All Bills of Exchange dated at, or from any Place in England, of the Sum of 5 l. or upwards, upon any Person in London, or other trading City, Town or Place, drawn payable at a certain Time after the Date thereof, and in which Bills the Value shall be expressed to be received, may, after their Acceptance in Writing, and the Expiration of three Days after the same shall be due, be protested by a Notary Publick; or if there be none such, by any other substantial Person of the Place before two Witnesses, on a Refusal or Neglect of Payment; which Protest shall be made under a Copy of the said Bill, and be notified within fourteen Days after to the Party from whom the Bills were received, who (upon producing the said Protest) is to repay the Bills with Interest and Charges from the Protasting: And in Default of such Protest, or Notice to be given as aforesaid, the Person failing shall be liable to all Costs, Damages and Interest thereupon. And by 3 & 4 Ann. c. 9. All Notes signed by any Person, &c. whereby such Person shall promise to pay to any other Person or Order, &c. any Sum of Money; the Money mentioned in such Note shall be due and payable to the Person to whom made, and the Note shall be assignable over as Inland Bills of Exchange; whereupon the Person to whom such Note is payable or assigned, may maintain an Action for the same, against the Person who sign'd, or any who indorsed the Note, as in Cases of Inland Bills, and recover Damages and Costs of Suit, &c. If the Party, on whom any Inland Bill of Exchange shall be drawn, refuses to accept it by Under-writing under his Hand, the Person to whom payable is to cause such Bill to be protested, as Foreign Bills: But no Acceptance shall charge any Person unless the Bill be underwritten or indorsed; and if it be not so underwritten or indorsed, no Drawer shall be obliged to pay Costs, Damages or Interest thereon, unless Protest be made for Non-acceptance, and within fourteen Days after the same be sent, or Notice thereof given to the Party from whom the Bill is received, or left in Writing at his usual Place of Residence. The Bill being accepted, and not paid within three Days after due, Protest must be made, and Notice given as aforesaid, to charge the Drawer, &c. Though no Protest shall be necessary, except the Value shall be expressed to be received in such Bill; and the Bill be drawn for 20 l. at least. There is a Proviso in the Act, that nothing therein shall discharge any Remedy any Person may have against the Drawer, Acceptor or Indorsor of any Bill. It has been held, that the Consideration implied in the Statute is, when a Man promises by Bill or Note to pay so much Money on his own Account, it must be presumed he is indebted: 'Tis otherwise where the Promise is for another Person. Pafib. 8 Ann. A Paper Bill or Note is no Payment where there was an original and precedent Debt due, but shall be intended to be taken upon Condition that the Money be paid in convenient Time; but the Taking a Note in Writing for Goods sold, may amount to Payment of the Money, because 'tis Part of the original Contract. Mitch. 2 Ann. 3 Salk. 118. Stealing of Bills of Exchange, Notes, &c. is Felony in the same Degree, as if the Offender had robb'd the Owner of so much Money, &c. And the Forging Bills of Exchange, or Notes for Money, Indorsements, &c. is Felony, by Stat. 2 Geo. 2. c. 25. Also Forging the Acceptance of any Bill of Exchange, or the Number or principal Sum of any accountable Receipt, is made Felony. Stat. 7 Geo. 2. c. 22.

A common Bill or Note for Money.

I Promise to pay to Mr. C. D. or Order, the Sum of One hundred Pounds (for Value received) within twenty-one Days after the Date hereof, or on Demand, &c. Witness my Hand this twentieth Day of August 1738.

It was of two Sorts, Gold and Silver; both which were current in England. Chaucer represents the Gold Besantine to have been equivalent to a Ducket; and the Silver Besantine was computed generally at two Shillings. In some old Leases of Land, there have been reserved by Way of Rent, unum Bisantium, vel duos solidos.

Bi-scot, At a Session of Sewers held at Wigenbale in Norfolk, 9 Ed. 3. it was decreed, That if any one should not repair his Proportion of the Banks, Ditches and Causeys by a Day assign'd, XII d. for every Perch unrepair'd should be levied upon him, which is called a Bilaw: And if he should not by a second Day given him, accomplish the same, then he should pay for every Perch 2 s. which is called Bi-scot. Hist. of Imbanking and Draining, f. 254.

Bishop, (Episcopus) Is the chief of the Clergy in his Diocese, and the Archbishop's Suffragan or Assistant. He is elected by the King's Conge d'Esire, or Licence to elect the Person named by the King, directed to the Dean and Chapter; and if they fail to make Election in twenty Days, they incur the Penalty of a Premunire, and the King may nominate, &c. by Letters Patent. Stat. 25 H. 8. The Dean and Chapter having made their Election certify it to the King, and the Archbishop, &c. And then the King gives the Royal Assent under the Great Seal directed to the Archbishop, commanding him to confirm and consecrate the Bishop elect: And on Confirmation, a Bishop hath Jurisdiction in his Diocese; but he hath not a Right to his Temporalities till Consecration. The Consecration of Bishops, &c. is confirmed by Act of Parliament. It is held a Bishop hath three Powers; 1st, His Power of Ordination, which is gain'd on his Consecration, and not before; and thereby he may confer Orders, &c. in any Place throughout the World. 2. His Power of Jurisdiction, which is limited and confined to his Fee. 3. His Power of Administration and Government of the Revenues; both which last Powers he gains by his Confirmation: And some are of Opinion, that the Bishop's Jurisdiction as to ministerial Acts, commences on his Election. Palm. Rep. 473, 474, 475. The King may not seize into his Hands the Temporalities of Bishops but upon just Cause, and not for a Contempt, which is only finable. Bishops are allow'd four Years for Payment of their first Fruits, by a late Statute: And every Bishop may retain four Chaplains. Stat. 14 & 25 Ed. 3. 21 Hen. 8. 8 Eliz. 6 Ann. A Bishop hath his Consistory Court, to hear Ecclesiastical Causes; and is to visit the Clergy, &c. He consecrates Churches, ordains, admits, and institutes Priests; confirms, suspends, excommunicates, grants Licences for Marriage, makes Probate of Wills, &c. 1 Inst. 96. 2 Roll. Abr. 236. He hath his Archdeacon, Dean and Chapter, Chancellor, and Vicar General, to assist him: May grant Leases for three Lives, or twenty one Years of Land usually letten, reserving the accustomed yearly Rents. Stat. 32 H. 8. And make concurrent Leases for twenty-one Years, upon Leases for the like Term, with Confirmation of Dean and Chapter. Bishops are Barons and Lords of Parliament.

Black-Rod, The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, is chief Gentleman Usher to the King: He belongs to the Garter, and hath his Name from the Black-Rod, on the Top whereof sits a Lion in Gold, which he carrieth in his Hand. He is called in the Black Book, fol. 255. Latw virge nigra, & Hostiaris; and in other Places Virgi bajulus. His Duty is Ad portandum Virgam coram Domino Rege ad Festum Sancti Georgii infra Castrum de Windfore: And he hath the Keeping of the Chapter-house Door, when a Chapter of the Order of the Garter is sitting; and in the Time of Parliament, he attends on the House of Peers. His Habit is like to that of the Register of the Order, and Garter King at Arms; but this he wears only at the solemn Times of the Festival of St. George, and on the Holding of Chapters. The Black-Rod he bears, is instead of a Mace, and hath the same Authority; and this Officer hath anciently been made by Letters Patent under the Great Seal, he having great Power; for to his Custody all Peers, called in Question for any Crime, are first committed.

Blackwell-Hall. The Publick Market of Blackwell-Hall is to be kept every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, at certain Hours appointed; and the Hall-keepers not to admit any Buying or Selling of Woollen Cloth at the said Hall upon any other Days or Hours, on Penalty of 100 l. Factors selling Cloth out of the Market, shall forfeit 5 l. &c. Registers of all the Cloths bought and sold are to be Weekly kept: And Buyers of Cloth otherwise than for ready Money, shall give Notes to the Sellers for the Money payable; and Factors are to transmit such Notes to the Owners in twelve Days, or be liable to forfeit double Value, &c. Stat. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 9.

Buyers

Bladarius, A Cornmonger, Meal-Man, or Corn-Chandler. It is used in our Records for such a Retailer of Corn. Pat. 1 Ed. 3. par. 3. m. 13.

near Oxford, which with the Manor of Woodstock is settled on the Duke and his Heirs, in Consideration of the eminent Services by him performed to the Publick; and for Building of which House the Sum of 500,000 l. was granted by Parliament, &c. Stat. 3 & 5 Ann. 12 Ann. cap. 11.

Bleta, (Fr. Bleche) Pete, or combustible Earth dug up and dry'd for Burning. — Minister & Fratres de Knareborough petant quod ipsi & eorum Tenentes fodiant Turbas & Bletas in Foresta de Knareborough. Rot. Parl. 35 Ed. 1.

Blinks, Boughs broken down from Trees, and thrown in a Way where Deer are likely to pass.

Blissom, Corruptly called Blossom, is when a Ram goes to the Ewe, from the Teuton. Bletz, the Bowels; or from Bletzen, to accommodate.

Bloated fish of Herring, Are those which are half dried. Anno 18 Car. 2. c. 2.

Blodeus, (Sax. Blod) Deep red Colour; from whence comes Bloat and bloated, viz. Sanguine and high coloured, which in Kent is called a Bloufing Colour; and a Bloufe is there a red-fac'd Wench. The Prior of Burcester, A. D. 1425. gave his Liveries of this Colour. Paroch. Antiq. 576.

Blood, (Sanguis) Is regarded in Descents of Lands; for a Person is to be the next and most worthy of Blood to inherit his Ancestor's Estate. 1 Inst. 13. See Jenk. Cent. 203.

Bloodwit, or Bloudwit, (compounded of the Sax. Blod, i. e. Sanguis and Wyte, an old English Word signifying Misericordia) Is often used in ancient Charters of Liberties for an Amercement for Bloodshed. Skene writes it Bloudveit, and says Veit in English is Injuria; and that Bloudeveit is an Amerciament or Unlaw (as the Scotch call it) for Wrong or Injury, as Bloodshed is: For he that hath Bloodveit granted him, hath free Liberty to take all Amerciaments of Courts for Effusion of Blood. Fleta saith, Quod significat quantitatem Misericordiae pro Effusione sanguinis. Lib. 1. cap. 47. And according to some Writers, Bloudwite was a customary Fine paid as a Composition and Attonement for shedding or drawing of Blood; for which the Place was answerable, if the Party were not discovered: And therefore a Privilege or Exemption from this Fine or Penalty, was granted by the King, or supreme Lord, as a special Favour. So King Henry II. granted to all Tenants within the Honour of Willingford, Ut quieti sint de Hidagio, & Blodewite, &c. — Paroch. Antiq. 114.

Bloody-Hand, Is one of the four Kinds of Circumstances by which an Offender is supposed to have killed Deer in the King's Forest: And it is where a Trespasser is apprehended in the Forest, with his Hands or other Parts Bloody, though he be not found chasing or hunting of the Deer. Manwood. In Scotland, in such like Crimes, they say taken in the Fact, or with the Red-band. See Backberind.

Blubber, Is Whale Oil, before it is thoroughly boiled and brought to Perfection. It is mentioned Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 18.

Book-board, or Book-board, (Librorum borream) A Place where Books, Evidences or Writings are kept.

Bookland, (Sax. quasi Bookland) A Possession or Inheritance held by Evidence in Writing. Bookland vero ea possidendi transferendique lege coercetatur, ut nec dari licuit nec vendi, sed haeredibus relinquenda erat, in scriptis aliter permitteretur; Terra inde Haereditaria nuncupata. LL. Aluredi, cap. 36. Bookland signifies Dead Land; and it commonly carried with it the absolute Property of the Land, wherefore it was preserved in Writing, and possessed by the Thanes or nobler Sort, as Pradium nobile, liberum & immune a servitibus vulgaribus & servilibus, and was the same as Allodium, descendable unto all the Sons, according to the common Course of Nations and of Nature, and therefore called Gavel-kind; devisable also by Will, and thereupon termed Terra Testamentales. Spelm. of Feuds. This was one of the Titles which the Engliſh Saxons had to their Lands, and was always in Writing: There was but one more, and that was Falkland, i. e. Terra Popularis, which paſſed from one to another without any Writing. See Charterland.

Boia, Chains or Fetters, properly what we call Bernicles. Quidam a dolore capitis liberatus eſt, adjuvatus gene ſua Boias, quibus S. Britſtanus ligatus fuit. Hiſt. Elien. apud Whartoni Angl. Sac. part 1. p. 618.

Bois, (Fr.) Wood, and Sub-bois, Underwood. See Bofcus.

Bolbagium, or Boldogium, A little Houſe or Cottage. Blount.

Bolt, A Bolt of Silk or Stuff, ſeems to have been a long narrow Piece: In the Accounts of the Priory of Rurceſter, it is mentioned. Paroch. Antiq. p. 574.

Bolting, A Term of Art uſed in our Inns of Court, whereby is intended a private Arguing of Caſes. The Manner of it at Gray's Inn is thus: An ancient and two Barrifters ſit as Judges, three Students bring each a Caſe, out of which the Judges chuſe one to be argued, which done, the Students firſt argue it, and after them the Barrifters. It is inferior to Mooting, and may be derived from the Sax. Balt, a Houſe, becauſe done privately in the Houſe for Inſtruction. In Lincoln's Inn, Mondays and Wedneſdays are the Bolting Days, in Vacation Time; and Tueſdays and Thuſdays the Moot Days.

Bona fide. That we ſay is done Bona fide, which is done really, with a good Faith, without any Fraud or Deceit. Stat. 13 Eliz. c. 5. 12 Car. 2. c. 18, &c.

Bona geſtura, Good Abearing, or good Behaviour—Et ſi per ſurorem vel aliquos manutentores renuerit invenire ſufficientem ſecuritatem de ſua Bona geſtura erga Balivos & Comburgens, &c. a prædicto Burgo ejiciatur. MS. Codex de LL. Statutis & Conſuetud. Burgi villæ Montgomer. fol. 15.

Bonaght, or Bonaghty, was an Exaction in Ireland, impoſed on the People at the Will of the Lord, for Relief of the Knights called Bonaghty, who ſerved in the Wars. Antiq. Hibern. p. 60.

Bona Notabilia. Where a Perſon dies having at the Time of his Death Goods in any other Dioceſe, beſides his Goods in the Dioceſe where he dieth, amounting to the Value of 5 l. at leaſt, he is ſaid to have Bona Notabilia, and then Probate of his Will, or Granting Adminiſtration, belongs to the Archbiſhop of the Province: But this doth not prejudice thoſe Dioceſes where, by Compoſition or Cuſtom, Bona Notabilia are rated at a greater Sum. Can. 92, 93. Perkins, Sect. 489. And in the City of London Bona Notabilia are 10 l. by Compoſition. 4 Inſt. 335. One that hath a Debt upon Bond or Specialty, &c. in another Dioceſe, hath Bona Notabilia. 1 Roll. Abr. 908. Though if a Perſon happens to die in another Dioceſe, than that wherein he lives, on a Journey, what he hath about him above the Value of 5 l. &c. ſhall not be Bona Notabilia. Can. 93. There muſt be ſeveral Adminiſtrations, where a Perſon dies leaving Bona Notabilia in each Province of Canterbury and York; for Adminiſtration granted in one Province doth not extend to Goods in the other, becauſe the Archbiſhops have diſtinct ſupreme Jurifdictions; but then there is to be Bona Notabilia in ſeveral Dioceſes in each Province. Dyer 305. 2 Lew. 86. If a Man dies in one Dioceſe, without any Goods, and leaves to the Value of 5 l. in another Dioceſe, the Archbiſhop of that Province may grant Adminiſtration, as he hath a general Jurifdiction there: though ſuch Adminiſtration is voidable by Sentence. Cro. Eliz. 457. But where a Biſhop grants Adminiſtration, and there are Bona Notabilia, ſuch Adminiſtration is merely void, for he had no Jurifdiction out of his Dioceſe. 5 Rep. 30. 1 Neſt. Abr. 381.

Bona Patria. An Aſſiſe of Country-men or good Neighbours: It is ſometimes called Aſſiſa bonæ Patriæ, when twelve or more Men are choſen out of any Part of the Country to paſs upon an Aſſiſe; otherwiſe called Jurators, becauſe they are to ſwear judicially in the Preſence of the Party, &c. according to the Practice of Scotland. Skene. See Aſſiſors.

Bona peritura, Goods that are perifhable. The Stat. 13 E. 1. cap 4. which enaſts, That where any Thing eſcapes alive out of a Ship caſt away, the Ship ſhall not be adjudged Wreck, but the Cargo ſhall be ſaved and kept by the View of the Sheriff, &c. in the Hands of thoſe of the Town where the ſame was found, ſo that if any one within a Year and a Day can make Proof that the Goods are his, they ſhall be reſtored to him, &c. Ordains that if the Goods within the Ship be Bona Peritura, ſuch Things as will not endure for a Year and a Day, the Sheriff ſhall ſell them, and deliver the Money received to anſwer it.

Boncha, A Bunch, Is derived from the old Lat. Bonna or Bunna, a riſing Bank, for the Bound of Fields: And hence Brown is uſed in Norfolk, for Swelling or Riſing up in a Bunch or Tumour, &c.

Bond, Is a Deed or obligatory Inſtrument in Writing, whereby one doth bind himſelf to another, to pay a Sum of Money, or do ſome other Act; as to make a Release, ſurrender an Eſtate, for quiet Enjoyment to ſtand to an Award, ſave harmleſs, perform a Will, &c. It contains an Obligation, with a Penalty: And a Condition, which expreſly mentions what Money is to be paid, or other Thing to be performed, and the limited Time for the Performance thereof; for which the Obligation is peremptorily binding. It may be made upon Parchment or Paper, though it is uſually on Paper; and be either in the firſt or third Perſon; and the Condition may be either in the ſame Deed, or in another, and ſometimes it is included within, and ſometimes indorſed upon the Obligation: But it is commonly at the Foot of the Obligation. Bro. Obl. 67. A Memorandum on the Back of a Bond may reſtrain the ſame, by Way of Exception. Moor 675. A Bond may be made by any Words, in a Writing ſealed and delivered, wherein a Man doth declare himſelf to have another Man's Money, or to be indebted to him; but the beſt Form of making it, is that which is moſt uſed. 2 Shep. Abr. 477. If a Bond be thus: Know all Men by theſe Preſents, that I W. R. am bound to J. S. in the Sum of, &c. for Payment of which, I give full Power to him to levy the ſame upon the Profits of ſuch Lands yearly till it be paid; in this Caſe, the Obligee may ſue upon the Obligation, or levy the Money according to the ſaid Claufe. 3 Leon. ca. 299. Where a Bond is made, Obligo me, &c. leaving out the Words Hæredes, Executores & Adminiſtratores, this is good; and the Executors and Adminiſtrators ſhall be bound by it. Dyer 13. An Obligation made to one, to the Uſe of J. S. will be good for him in Equity. Bro. Oblig. 72. The Condition of a Bond muſt be to do a Thing lawful; and Bonds not to uſe Trades, till or ſow Ground, &c. are unlawful, for they are againſt the Good of the Publick, and the Liberty of a Freeman; and therefore void: And a Condition of a Bond to do any Act Malum in ſe, as to kill a Perſon, &c. is void; ſo alſo Bonds made by Dureſs, by Infants, Feme Coverts, &c. And if a Woman through Thircats or Flattery, be prevailed upon to enter into a Bond, ſhe may be relieved in Chaucery. 11 Rep. 53. If an Infant ſeal a Bond, and be ſued thereon, he is not to plead Non eſt factum, but muſt avoid the Bond by ſpecial Pleading; for this Bond is only voidable, and not in itſelf void. 5 Rep. 119. But if a Bond be made by a Feme Covert, ſhe may plead her Coverture, and conclude Non eſt factum, &c. her Bond being void. 10 Rep. 119. If a Bond depends upon ſome other Deed, and the Deed becomes void, the Bond is alſo void.

void. A Bond made with Condition not to give Evidence against a Felon, &c. is void; but the Defendant must plead the Special Matter. 1 Leon. Condition of a Bond to indemnify a Person from any legal Prosecution, is against Law, and void. 1 Lutw. 667. And if a Sheriff takes a Bond as a Reward for doing of a Thing, it is void. 3 Salk. 75. Conditions of Bonds are to be not only lawful, but possible; and when the Matter or Thing to be done, or not to be done by a Condition, is unlawful or impossible, or the Condition itself repugnant, infensible or uncertain, the Condition is void, and in some Cases the Obligation also. 10 Rep. 120. But sometimes an Obligation may be single, to pay the Money, where the Condition is impossible, repugnant, &c. 2 Mod. 285. If a Thing be possible at the Time of entering into the Bond, and afterwards becomes impossible by the Act of God, the Act of the Law, or of the Obligee, it is become void; as if a Man be bound to appear next Term, and dies before, the Obligation is saved. A Condition of a Bond was that J. S. should pay such a Sum upon the 25th of December, or appear in Hillary Term after in the Court of B. R. He died after the 25th of December, and before Hillary Term, and had paid Nothing: In this Case, the Condition was not broken for Non-payment, and the other Part is become impossible by the Act of God. 1 Mod. Rep. 265. And when a Condition is doubtful, it is always taken most favourably for the Obligor, and against the Obligee; but so as a reasonable Construction be made as near as can be according to the Intention of the Parties. Dyer 51. If no Time is limited in a Bond for Payment of the Money, it is due presently, and payable on Demand. 1 Brownl. 53. But the Judges have sometimes appointed a convenient Time for Payment, having regard to the Distance of Place, and the Time wherein the Thing may be performed. And if a Condition be made impossible in Respect to Time, as to make Payment of Money on the 30th of February, &c. it shall be paid presently; and here the Obligation stands single. Jones 140. Though if a Man be bound in a Bond with Condition to deliver so much Corn upon the 29th Day of February next following, and that Month hath then but twenty-eight Days; it has been held, that the Obligor is not obliged to perform the Condition till there comes a Leap-Year. 1 Leon. 101. If the Condition of a Bond be, that the Obligor shall make a sufficient Estate of Land by such a Time, by the Advice of others; and they advise an Insufficient Estate, which he makes accordingly, this 'tis said is a good Performance of the Condition: But if it is, that the Obligor do make a good and suæ Estate, and he by Advice of Counsel makes an Estate that is not good; this will be no Performance thereof. Park. Stat. 776. Kelw. 95. A Bond made to enfeoff two Persons, if one dies before the Time is past, wherein it should be done; the Obligor must enfeoff the Survivor of them, or the Condition will be broken: And if it be that B. and others shall enjoy Land, and the Obligor and B. the Obligee do disturb the rest; by this the Condition is broke. 4 Hen. 7. 1. Co. Litt. 384. Where one is bound to do an Act to the Obligee himself, the doing it to a Stranger by Appointment of the Obligee, will not be a Performance of the Condition. 2 Buff. 149. If the Act be to be done at a certain Place, where the Obligor is to go to Rome, &c. And he is to do the sole Act without Limitation of Time, he hath Term during Life to perform the same: If the Concurrence of the Obligor and Obligee is requisite, it may be hastened by Request of the Obligee. 6 Rep. 30. 1 Roll. Abr. 437. Where no Place is mentioned for Performance of a Condition, the Obligor is obliged to find out the Person of the Obligee, if he be in England, and tender the Money, otherwise the Bond will be forfeited: But when a Place is appointed, he need seek no farther.

1 Inst. 270. Litt. 340. And if where no Place is limited for Payment of Money due on a Bond, the Obligor at or after the Day of Payment meets with the Obligee, and tenders him the Money, but he goes away to prevent it, the Obligor shall be excused. 8 E. 4. The Obligor, or his Servant, &c. may tender the Money to save the Forfeiture of the Bond, and it shall be a good Performance of the Condition, if made to the Obligee, though refused by him; yet if the Obligor be afterwards sued, he must plead that he is still ready to pay it, and tender the Money in Court. Co. Litt. 208. The Condition of a Bond being for Payment of Money, it may be performed by giving any other Thing in Satisfaction, because the Value of Money is certain, and therefore may be satisfied by a collateral Thing, if the Obligee accepts it; but if the Condition is to do a collateral Thing, there 'tis otherwise, and paying Money, is no good Satisfaction. 3 Bull. 148. The Acceptance of a new Bond will not discharge the old one, as a Judgment may. Hob. 68. One Bond cannot be given in Satisfaction of another; but this is where given by the Obligor himself, for it may be by others. 1 Mod. 221. If a Bond be to pay Money on such a Time, &c. It is no Plea for the Obligor to say that he did pay it; he must shew at what Time, or else it may be taken that the Performance was after the Time limited. Noy's Max. 15. If a Bond be of twenty Years standing, and no Demand be proved thereon, or good Cause of so long Forbearance shewn to the Court, upon pleading Solvit ad Diem, it shall be intended paid. Mod. Ca. 22. Payment of Money, without Acquittance, is an ill Plea to Action of Debt upon a single Bill; but 'tis otherwise upon a Bond with Condition. Dyer 25. If several Days are mentioned for Payment of Money on a Bond, the Obligation is not forfeited, nor can be sued until all the Days are past: But in some Cases, the Obligee may prosecute for the Money due by the Bond presently, though it be not forfeit; and by special wording the Condition, the Obligee may be able to sue the Penalty on the first Default. 1 Inst. 292. In a Bond where several are bound severally, the Obligee is at his Election to sue all the Obligors together, or all of them apart, and have several Judgments and Executions; but he shall have Satisfaction but once, for if it be of one only, that shall discharge the Rest. If an Obligation is joint, and not several, all the Obligors must be sued that are bound; and if one be prosecuted, he is not obliged to answer, unless the Rest are sued likewise. Dyer 19, 310. Where two or more are bound in a joint Bond, and only one is sued, he must plead in Abatement, that two more sealed the Bond, &c. and aver that they are living, and so pray Judgment de Billa, &c. And not demand to the Declaration. Sid. 420. If a Bond is made to three, to pay Money to one of them, they must all join in the Action, because they are but as one Obligee. Yelv. 177. If Action be brought upon a Bond against two joint and several Obligors jointly, and both are taken by Capias, here the Death or Escape of one, shall not release the other; but the same Kind of Execution must be taken forth against them: 'Tis otherwise when they are sued severally. Hob. 50. When the Condition of a Bond is to do two Things, or has divers Points, and the Obligee supposing a Breach of one of them, doth sue the Obligor; if Issue being joined upon that, it is found against him, and he is barred, the whole Obligation is discharged: And so long as that Judgment is in Force, he can never prosecute upon any other Point. Dyer 371. 2 Shep. Abr. 487. If a drunken Man gives his Bond, it binds him; and a Bond without Consideration is obligatory, and no Relief shall be had against it, for it is voluntary, and as a Gift. Jenk. Cent. 109. A Person enters voluntarily into a Bond, though there was not any Consideration for it, if there be be no Fraud used in obtaining the same, the Bond shall not be relieved against in Equity: But a voluntary Bond may not be paid in a course of Administration, so as to take Place of real Debts, even by simple Contract; yet it shall be paid before Legacies. 1 Chan. Caf. 157. An Heir is not bound, unless he be named expressly in the Bond; though the Executors and Administrators are. And if an Obligation be made to a Man, his Heirs or Successors, the Executors and Administrators shall have the Advantage of it, and not the Heir or Successor, by Reason it is a Chattel. Dyer 14, 271. A Declaration need not be according to the Letter of the Bond, where there is any Omission, &c. but according to the Operation of Law upon it. Mod. Caf. 228. In Bonds to save harmless, the Defendant being prosecuted is to plead Non Damnificatus, &c. A Bond may be from one to one, one to two, three, or more Persons; or from two or more Persons to one, two, three, &c. And the Name of the Obligor subscribed, 'tis said, is sufficient, though there is a Blank for his Christian Name in the Bond. 2 Cro. 261. But where another Christian Name is in the Bond, and the Bond signed by the right Name, though the Jury find it to be his Deed, the Obligee cannot have Judgment; for the Name subscribed is no Part of the Obligation. 2 Cro. 558. 1 Mod. 107. In these Cases, though there be a Verdict, there shall not be Judgment. Where an Obligor's Name is omitted to be inserted in the Bond, and yet he signs and seals it; the Court of Chancery may make good such an Accident; and in Case a Person takes away a Bond fraudulently, and cancels it, the Obligee shall have as much Benefit thereby, as if not cancelled. 3 Chan. Rep. 99, 184. If a Bond has no Date, or a false Date, if it be sealed and delivered, it is good. A Plaintiff may suggest a Date in a Bond, where there is none, or it is impossible, &c. where the Parties and Sum are sufficiently expressed. 5 Mod. 282. A Bond dated on the same Day on which a Release is made of all Things usque Diem datus, &c. is not thereby discharged. 2 Roll. Rep. 255. And where a Bond is made to another's Use; it must be so laid in the Obligation, or he cannot release it, &c. Jenk. Cent. 222. A Person shall not be charged by a Bond, though signed and sealed, without Delivery, or Words, or other Thing, amounting to a Delivery. 1 Leon. 140. A Bond may be good, though it contains false Latin, or false English, if the Intent appears, for they do not make the Bond void. 2 Roll. Abr. 146. Moor 864. By the Condition of a Bond, the Intent of what Sum was in the Obligation, may be more easily known, and explained. 2 Roll. 146. And the Condition of the Bond may be recorded, and then the Plaintiff demur, &c. 1 Lut. 422. Likewise the Conditions of Bonds may expound to whom an Obligor is bound to pay Money; as if A. binds himself to B. to be paid to A. whereas it should be to B. which Obligation is good, and the Solvendum void. 1 Inst. 108, 209. Interlineation in a Bond in a Place not material, will not make the Bond void; but if it be altered in a Part material, it shall be void. 1 Nels. Abr. 391. And a Bond may be void by Rasure, &c. As where the Date, &c. is rased after Delivery; which goes through the Whole. 5 Rep. 23. Such Words whereby the Intention of the Parties may appear, are sufficient to make the Condition of a Bond good, though they are not proper; and it shall not be construed against the express Words. 1 Saund. 66. If the Words in a Bond at the End of the Condition, That then this Obligation to be void, are omitted, the Condition will be void; but not the Obligation: But if the Words or else shall stand in Force be left out, it has no Effect to hurt either the Condition or the Obligation. The stealing of any Bond or Bill, &c. for Money, being the Property of any one, made Felony as if Offenders had taken other Goods of like Value. See Stat. 2 Geo. 2. c. 25. See Penalty.

Form of a Bond for Payment of Money.

K NOW all Men by these Presents, That I A. B. of the Parish, &c. in the County &c. Gentleman, am held and firmly bound to C. D. of, &c. in the County aforesaid, Esquire, in one hundred Pounds of good and lawful Money of Great Britain, to paid to the said C. D. or his certain Attorney, his Executors, Administrators or Assigns; To which Payment well and truly to be made, I bind myself, my Heirs, Executors and Administrators, firmly by these Presents, sealed with my Seal: Dated the sixth Day of May in the Thirteenth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Second, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith, &c. and in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Forty.

The Condition of this Obligation is such, That if the above bound A. B. his Heirs, Executors or Administrators do and shall well and truly pay, or cause to be paid unto the above-named C. D. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, the full Sum of Fifty-two Pounds and Ten Shillings of lawful Money of Great Britain, on or before the sixth Day of November next ensuing the Date hereof; Then this Obligation to be void, or otherwise to be and remain in full Force and Virtue. Or it may be thus: That if the said A. B. &c. do pay to the said C. D. &c. the full Sum of Fifty Pounds, with Interest for the same after the Rate of Five Pounds per Centum per Ann. (or with lawful Interest) on the Day; Then, &c.

Bondage, Is Slavery; and Bondmen in Domesday are called Servi, but rendered different from Villani — Et de toto tenemento, quod de ipso tenet in Bondagio in foca de Nortone cum pertin. Mon. Angl. 2 par. fol. 609. Bonda is said to be a Master of a Family. See Nativus.

Booting or Botting Corn, Rent Corn, anciently so called. The Tenants of the Manor of Haddenham in Com. Bucks, formerly paid Booting Corn to the Prior of Rochester, Antiq. of Purveyance, fol. 418. It is thought to be so called, as being paid by the Tenants by Way of Bote, or Boot, viz. as a Compensation to the Lord for his making them Leases, &c.

Bozdagium, The Tenure called Bordlands. See Ordin. Just. Min. in insula de Jersey.

Bozdarii, or Bozdbanni, These Words often occur in Domesday, and some think they mean Boors, Husbandmen, or Cottagers. In the Domesday Inquisition they were distinct from the Villani; and seemed to be those of a less servile Condition, who had a Bord or Cottage, with a small Parcel of Land allowed to them, on Condition they should supply the Lord with Poultry Poultry and Eggs, and other small Provisions for his Board or Entertainment. Some derive the Word Bordarii from the old Gall. Bordi, the Limits or extreme Parts of any Extent; as the Borders of a Country, and the Borderers Inhabitants in those Parts.—Dicuntur Bordarii, vel quod in tuguriis (quæ Cottagia vocant) habitabant; seu villarum limitibus, quasi Borderers. Spelm.

Worð-blaſpeny, Signifies a small Toll, by Custom paid to the Lord of the Town for setting up Boards, Tables, Booths, &c. in Fairs and Markets: It is derived from three Saxon Words, Bræd, i. e. Board, beſve, in Behalf of, and penning, a Toll; which in the Whole makes a Toll for, or in Behalf of Boards.

Worðlands, The Demefnes which Lords keep in their Hands for the Maintenance of their Board or Table. Et Dominicum quod quis habet ad menſam ſuam eſt proprie, ſicut ſunt Bordlands, i. e. Dominicum ad menſam. Braſt. lib. 4. Tract. 3. c. 9.

Worðlode, Was a Service required of Tenants to carry Timber out of the Woods of the Lord to his Houſe: Or it is ſaid to be the Quantity of Food or Proviſion, which the Bordary or Bordmen paid for their Bord-Lands. The old Scots had the Term of Burd, and Meet-burd for Viſtuals, and Proviſions; and Burden-fack, for a Sack full of Provender: From whence it is probable comes our Burden at firſt.

Worð-ſervice, A Tenure of Bord-lands; by which ſome Lands in the Manor of Fulham in Com. Mid. and elſewhere, are held of the Biſhop of London, and the Tenants do now pay Six-pence per Acre in lieu of finding Proviſion, anciently for their Lord's Board or Table. Blount.

Worð-ſwicht, Borg-bryce, or Burg-brych, (Sax.) a Breach or Violation of Surety-ſhip, Pledge-breach, or of mutual Fidelity.

Worrough, (Fr. Burg, Lat. Burgus, Sax. Borboe) Signifies a Corporate Town, which is not a City; and alſo ſuch a Town or Place as ſends Burgeſſes to Parliament, the Number whereof you may find in Cromp. Jurisd. f. 24. Verſtegan ſaith, that Burg or Burgh, whereof we take our Borough, metaphorically ſignifies a Town having a Wall, or ſome Kind of Incloſure about it: And all Places that in old Time had among our Anceſtors the Name of Borough, were one Way or other fenced or fortified. Lit. Seſſ. 164. But ſometimes it is uſed for Villa inſignior, or a Country-Town of more than ordinary Note, not Walled. Lindewood upon the Provincial (ut ſingula de ſenſibus) ſays to this Effect, Aliqui interpretantur Burgum eſſe Caſtrum, vel locum ubi ſunt crebra caſtra, vel dicitur Burgus ubi ſunt per limites habitacula plura conſtituta: But he afterwards thus defines it; Burgus dicitur poteſt villa quæcunque, alia a Civitate, in qua eſt Univerſitas approbata. A Borough is a Place of Safety, Protection and Privilege, according to Sommer; and in the Reign of King Hen. 2. Burghs had ſo great Privileges, that if a Bondman or Servant remained in a Borough a Year and a Day, he was by that Reſidence made a Freeman. Glanville. And why theſe were called Free-Burghs, and the Tradesmen in them Free Burgeſſes, was from a Freedom to buy and ſell, without Diſturbance, exempt from Toll, &c. granted by Charter: And Parliament Boroughs are ſaid to be either by Charter, or Towns holden of the King in Ancient Demefne. Brady. It is conjectured that Borboe or Borough, was alſo formerly taken for thoſe Companies conſiſting of ten Families, which were to be Pledges for one another; and we are told by ſome Writers that it is a Street or Row of Houſes cloſe to one another. Braſt. lib. 3. Tract. 2. cap. 10. Lamb. Duty of Conſt. p. 8.

Worrough-holders, or Wurtholders, quafi Borboe-ealders, Are the ſame Officers with Borough heads, or Head-Boroughs; who (according to Lambert) were the Head Men, or chief Pledges of Boroughs, choſen by the reſt to ſpeak and act in their Names in thoſe Things that concerned them. See Headborough.

Worrough-Engliſh, (Sax. Borboe Engliſe) Is a cuſtomary Deſcent of Lands, in ſome ancient Boroughs, and Copyhold Manors, that Eſtates ſhall deſcend to the youngeſt Son; or if the Owner hath no Iſſue, to his younger Brother, as in Edmunton, &c. Kitch. 102. It has been obſerved, that the Original of this old Cuſtom, proceeded from the Lords of certain Lands having the Privilege to lie with their Tenants Wives the firſt Night after Marriage; wherefore in Time the Tenants obtained this Cuſtom, on purpoſe that their eldeſt Sons (who might be their Lord's Baſtard) ſhould be incapable to inherit their Eſtates. Praf. 3 Mod. Rep. But the Reaſon of the Cuſtom of Borough Engliſh (Littleton ſays) is becauſe the youngeſt is preſumed in Law to be leaſt able to provide for himſelf. Litt. 163. This Cuſtom goes with the Land, and guides the Deſcent to the youngeſt Son, although there be a Deſiſe to the contrary. 2 Lev. 138. If a Man ſeiſed in Fee of Lands in Borough Engliſh, make a Feoffment to the Uſe of himſelf and the Heirs Male of his Body, according to the Courſe of the Common Law; and afterwards die ſeiſed, having Iſſue two Sons, the youngeſt Son ſhall have the Lands by Virtue of the Cuſtom, notwithstanding the Feoffment. Dyer 179. If a Copyhold in Borough Engliſh be ſurrendered to the Uſe of a Perſon and his Heirs, the Right will deſcend to the youngeſt Son according to the Cuſtom. 1 Mod. 102. And a youngeſt Son ſhall inherit an Eſtate in Tail in Borough Engliſh. Noy 106. But an Heir at Common Law ſhall take Advantage of a Condition annexed to Borough Engliſh Land; tho' the youngeſt Son ſhall be intitled to all Actions in Right of the Land, &c. 1 Neſf. Abr. 396. And the eldeſt Son ſhall have Tithes ariſing out of Land Borough Engliſh; for Tithes of Common Right are not Inheritances deſcendable to an Heir, but come in Succeſſion from one Clergyman to another. Ibid. 347. Borough Engliſh Land being deſcendable to the youngeſt Son, if a younger Son dies without Iſſue Male leaving a Daughter, ſuch Daughter ſhall inherit Jure repreſentationis. 1 Salk. 243. It hath been adjudged, where a Man hath ſeveral Brothers, the youngeſt may inherit Lands in Borough Engliſh: Yet it is ſaid where the Cuſtom is that Land ſhall go to the youngeſt Son, it doth not give it to the youngeſt Uncle, for Cuſtoms ſhall be taken ſtrictly; and thoſe which fix and order the Deſcents of Inheritances, can be altered only by Parliament. Dyer 179. 4 Leon. 384. Jenk. Cent. 220.

Worrough Goods, deviſable. As before the Statutes of 32 & 34 Hen. 8. no Lands were deviſable at the Common Law, but in ancient Baronies; ſo at the making of the Statute of Alton Burnel, 11 Ed. 1. c. 1. it was doubted whether Goods were deviſable but in ancient Boroughs: For by the Writ De Rationabili parte bonorum, anciently the Goods of a Man were partible between his Wife and Children. By the Common Law Lands could not be deviſed from the Heir; and here it ſeems as if Goods were alſo not deviſable from the Wife and Children, before the Statute 11 Ed. 1.

Worrel-folk, i. e. Country People, from the Fr. Bourre, floccus, becauſe they covered their Heads with ſuch Stuff. Blount.

Worroughing, A Man borrows Money, Corn, or ſuch Thing of another; he may not expect the ſame again, but the like, or ſo much: But if one lend me a Horſe, &c. he muſt have the ſame reſtored. If a Thing be uſed to any other End or Purpoſe, than that for which it was borrowed, the Party may have his Action of the Caſe for it, tho' the Thing be never the worſe; and if what is borrowed be loſt, altho' it be not by any Negligence of mine, as if I be robbed of it; or where the Thing is impaired or deſtroyed by my neglect, admitting I put it to no more Service than that for which borrowed, I must make it good: So where I borrow a Horse, and put him in an old rotten House ready to fall, which falls on and kills him, I must answer for the Horse. But if such Goods borrowed perish by the Act of God in the right Use of them; as where I put the Horse, &c. in a strong House, and it fall and kill him, or it dies by Disease, or by the Default of the Owner, I shall not be charged. Co. Litt. 89. 29 Aff. 28. 2 H. 7. 11.

Boilage, (Boscagium) Is that Food which Wood and Trees yield to Cattle, as Mast, &c. from the Ital. Bosco, Sikva: But Manwood observes, to be quit de Boscagio, is to be discharged of paying any Duty of Wind-fall Wood in the Forest.

Boiscaria, Wood-Houses from Bofcus; or Ox-Houses from Bos—Ut ipsi possunt Domos & Boiscaria satis competentia edificare. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. fol. 302.

Boiscus, An ancient Word used in our Law, signifying all Manner of Wood: The Italians make use of Bosco in the same Sense; as the French do Bois. Boiscus is divided into High-Wood or Timber, Haut-bois, and Coppice or Under-Woods, Sub-bois: But the High Wood is properly called Saltus; and in Fleta we read it Maeremium.—Cum una Carecta de mortuo Bosco. Pat. 10 H. 6.

Bofinnus, A certain rustical Pipe, mentioned in ancient Tenures. By Inquisition after the Death of Laurence Hastings Earl of Pembroke, 22 E. 3. The Manor of Aston Cantlow in Com. Warw. is returned to be held of the King in Capite by these Words; Quod quidem manerium per se tenetur de Domino Rege in Capite per servitium inveniendi unum hominem Peditem, cum quadam Arcu sine Corda, cum uno Bofinno sine cappa, &c. Ex Record. Tur. Lond.

Boflar, An Ox-Stall. This Word occurs in Mat. Paris. Anno 1234. And in Ingulphus.—Fecit tum borrea, Boflaria, ovilia, &c.

Bote, (Sax.) Signifies a Recompence, Satisfaction or Amends: Hence comes Manbote, Compensation, or Amends for a Man slain, &c. In King Ina's Laws is declared what Rate was ordained for Expiation of this Offence, according to the Quality of the Person slain. Lamb. cap. 99. From hence likewise we have our common Phrase, To Boot, i. e. Compensationis gratia. There are House bote, Plough bote, &c. Privileges to Tenants in cutting of Wood, &c. Vide those Words, and Skene verbo Bote.

Boteless, sine remedio. In the Charter of H. 1. to Tho. Archbishop of York, it is said, that no Judgment or Sum of Money shall acquit him that commits Sacrilege; but he is in English called Boteless, viz. without Emendation. Lib. Albus penes Cap. de Subnet. Int. Plac. Trin. 12 Ed. 2. Ebor. 48. We retain the Word still in common Speech; as it is Bootless to attempt such a Thing; that is, it is in vain to attempt it.

Botellaria, A Buttery or Cellar, in which the Butts and Bottles of Wine, and other Liquors are deposited. — Veniet ad Palatium Regis, & ibit in Botellariam, & extrahet a quocunque vase in dicta Botellaria invento, vinum quantum viderit necessarium pro factura unius picberi claretti. Anno 31 Ed. 1.

Botha, A Booth, Stall, or Standing in a Fair or Market. — Et duas mensuras liberas ad Bothas suas faciendas. Mon. Angl. 2. par. fol. 132.

Bothagium, Boothage, or customary Dues paid to the Lord of the Manor or Soil, for the pitching and standing of Booths in Fairs or Markets. — Picagium, Stallagium, Bothagium & Tollagium, &c. de novo Mercato infra villam de Burcestor, Com. Oxon. Paroch. Antiq. p. 680.

Bothna, or Butbna, seems to be a Park where Cattle are inclosed and fed. Hector Boetius, lib. 7. cap. 123. Botbena, also signifies a Barony, Lordship, &c. Skene.

Botiler of the King, (Pincerna Regis) Is an Officer that provides the King's Wines, who (according to Fleta) may by Virtue of his Office take out of every Ship laden with Sale Wines, Unum dolium eligere in prora navis ad opus Regis & aliud in poppe, & pro qualibet pecia reddere tantum 20 solid. Mercatori. Si autem plura inde habere voluerit, bene licebit, dum tamen pretium fide dignorum iudicio pro Rege apponatur. Fleta lib. 2. cap. 21. This Officer shall not take more Wine than he is commanded, of which Notice shall be given by the Steward of the King's House, &c. on Pain of forfeiting double Damages to the Party grieved; and also to be imprisoned and ransomed at the Pleasure of the King. Stat. 25 Ed. 3. cap. 21. 45 Ed. 3. c. 3.

Bottomry, (Fœnus Nauticum) Is when the Master of a Ship borrows Money upon the Keel or Bottom of his Ship, and binds the Ship itself; that if the Money be not paid by the Day assigned, the Creditor shall have the Ship. But it is generally where a Person lends Money to a Merchant, who wants it to Traffick, and is to be paid a greater Sum at the Return of the Ship, standing to the Hazard of the Voyage; in Regard to which, though the Interest be greater than five per Cent. or what is allowed by Law, it is not Usury. For Money lent to Sea is allowed a larger Interest than Money advanced on Land, by Reason 'tis furnished at the Hazard of the Lender, and if the Ship perishes, the Lender shares in the Loss; so that there is no real Security, as in Case of Lands, &c. And the greater the Danger is, the greater may be the Profit reasonably required for the Money advanced. Lex Mercat. 122. Money lent on Bottomry is either on the bare Ship, (the usual Way) or upon the Person of the Borrower, and sometimes upon both: The first is where a Man takes up Money, and obliges himself, that if such a Ship shall arrive at such a Port, then to repay perhaps in long Voyages near double the Sum lent; but if the Ship happens to miscarry, then nothing. But when Money is lent at Interest, it is delivered at the Peril of the Borrower, and the Profit of this is merely the Price of the Loan; whereas the Profit of the other, is a Reward for the Danger and Adventure of the Sea, which the Lender takes upon himself, and makes the Interest lawful. Sea Laws 206, 207. Then there is usura Marina, joining the advanced Money, and the Danger of the Sea together; and this is obligatory sometimes to the Borrower's Ship, Goods and Person. Where Bonds or Bills of Bottomry are sealed, and the Money is paid, if the Ship receives Injury by Storm, Fire, &c. before the Beginning of the Voyage, then the Person borrowing only runs the Hazard, unless it be otherwise provided; as that if the Ship shall not arrive at such a Place, at such a Time, &c. there the Contract hath its Beginning from the Time of the Sealing: But if the Condition be, that if such a Ship shall sail from London to any Port abroad, and shall not arrive there, &c. then, &c. there the Contingency hath not its Beginning till the Departure. A Master of a Ship may not take up Money on Bottomry, in Places where his Owners reside, except he be a Part-Owner, and then he may only take up so much as his Part will answer in the Ship; for if he exceeds that, his own Estate is liable to make Satisfaction; but when a Master is in a strange Country, where there are no Owners, nor any Goods of theirs, nor of his own; and for Want of Money he cannot perform his Voyage, there he may take up Money upon Bottomry, and all the Owners are chargeable thereto; but this is understood where Money cannot be procured by Exchange, or any other Means: And in the first Case, the Owners are liable by their Vessel, though not in their Persons; but they have their Remedy against the Master of the Ship. Leg. Oleron, l. 4. Some Masters of Ships who had insured or taken up Money upon Bottomry to a greater Value than their Adventure, having made it a Practice to cast away and destroy the Ships under their Charge;

Charge; by Stat. 10 Car. 2. c. 6. it is made Felony, and the Offenders shall suffer Death. Vide 1 Ann. By the Stat. 19 Geo. 2. c. 37. every Sum lent on Bottomree or at Respondentia upon any Subjects Ships to or from the East Indies, shall be lent only on the Ship, or the Merchandise laden on board her, and so expressed in the Condition of the Bond, and the Benefit of Salvage shall be allowed to the Lender, who alone shall have Right to make Assurance on the Money lent. And no Borrower of Money, on Bottomree or at Respondentia as aforesaid, shall recover more on any Assurance than the Value of his Interest, exclusive of the Money borrowed. And if the Value of his Interest doth not amount to the Money borrowed, he shall be responsible to the Lender for the Surplus, notwithstanding the Ship and Merchandise be totally lost.

Form of a Bill of Bottomry.

TO all People to whom these Presents shall come, I A. B. of, &c. Owner and Master of the Ship called, &c. of the Burden of two hundred Tons, now riding at, &c. and bound for, &c. in the West Indies, send Greeting: Whereas I the said A. B. am at this Time necessitated to take up upon the Adventure of the said Ship, called, &c. the Sum of 100 l. for setting forth the said Ship to Sea, and furnishing her with Provisions for the said Voyage, which C. D. of, &c. Merchant, hath on Request lent unto me, and supplied me with at the Rate of 20 l. for the said 100 l. during the said Voyage: Now know ye, That I the said A. B. do by these Presents, for me, my Executors and Administrators, covenant and grant to and with the said C. D. that the said Ship shall with the first fair Wind after the Day, &c. depart from the River Thames, and shall, as Wind and Weather shall serve, proceed in her Voyage to, &c. in the West-Indies; and having there tarried until, &c. and the Opportunity of a Convoy, or being sooner dispatched (which shall first happen) shall return from thence, and shall as Wind and Weather shall serve, directly sail back to the River of Thames to finish her said Voyage: And I the said A. B. in Consideration of the said Sum of 100 l. to me in Hand paid by the said C. D. at and before the Sealing and Delivery of these Presents, do hereby bind myself, my Heirs, Executors and Administrators, my Goods and Chattels, and particularly the said Ship, with the Freight, Tackle, and Apparel of the same, to pay unto the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns, the Sum of 120 l. of lawful British Money, within one and twenty Days next after the Return and safe Arrival of the said Ship, in the said River of Thames, from the said intended Voyage. And I the said A. B. do for me, my Executors and Administrators, covenant and grant, to and with the said C. D. his Executors and Administrators by these Presents, That I the said A. B. at the Time of Sealing and Delivery of these Presents, am true and lawful Owner and Master of the said Ship, and have Power and Authority to charge and engage the said Ship as aforesaid; and that the said Ship shall at all Times after the said Voyage, be liable and chargeable for the Payment of the 120 l. according to the true Intent and Meaning of these Presents. And lastly, it is hereby declared and agreed, by and between the said Parties to these Presents, that in Case the said Ship shall be lost, miscarry, or be cast away before her next Arrival in the said River of Thames, from the said intended Voyage, that then the said Payment of the said 120 l. shall not be demanded, or be recoverable by the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns; but shall cease and determine, and the Loss thereby be wholly born and sustained by the said C. D. his Executors and Administrators: And that then and from thenceforth every Act, Matter and Thing herein contained on the Part and Behalf of the said A. B. shall be void; any Thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding. In Witness, &c.

Bovata Terra, As much Land as one Ox can plough.—Cujus singula Bovata sunt quindecim acre terra. Mon. Angl. par. 3. fol. 91. See Ofgang.

Bouche of Court, Commonly called Budge of Court, was a certain Allowance of Provision from the King, to his Knights and Servants, that attended him in any military Expedition. The French Avoir bouche a Court is to have an Allowance at Court, of Meat and Drink: From Bouche, a Mouth. But sometimes it extended only to Bread, Beer, and Wine. And this was anciently in Use as well in the Houses of Noblemen, as in the King's Court, as appears by the following Indenture.—*Ceste Endenture fait parentre Lui Nobles Hommes Monsieur Tho. Beauchamp, Comte de Warwick; d'une part, Et Monsieur Johan. Russel de Strengesham Chevalier, de autre part, resmoigne que le dit Johan. est, &c. Et Avera pur la pees, &c. Bobicula, An Heifer, or young Cow; which in the East-Riding of Yorkshire is called a Wbee, or Wbey.

Bound, or Boundary, (Bunda) The utmost Limits of Land, whereby the same is known and ascertained.—Secundum metas, Meras, Bundas, Et Marchias Foresta. 18 Ed. 3. Itin. Pick. fol. 6. See 4 Inst. 318.

Bounty of D. Tunn, for maintaining poor Clergymen. Stat. 2 Ann. See First Fruits.

Bow-bearer, An under Officer of the Forest, whose Office is to oversee, and true Inquisition make, as well of sworn Men as unsworn in every Bailiwick of the Forest; and of all Manner of Trespases done, either to Vert or Venison, and cause them to be presented, without any Concealment in the next Court of Attachment, &c. Crompt. Jurif. fol. 201.

Bowyers, One of the ancient Companies of the City of London. A Bowyer dwelling in London, was to have always ready fifty Bows of Elm, Witch-Halle, or Ash, well made and wrought, in Pain of 10 s. for every Bow wanting; and to sell them at certain Prices, under the Penalty of 40 s. Stat. 8. Eliz. c. 10. And Parents and Masters were to provide for their Sons and Servants, a Bow and two Shafts, and cause them to exercise Shooting, on Pain of 6 s. and 8 d. &c. by our ancient Statutes. 12 Ed. 4. 33 H. 8.

Braccetus,

Braccetus, A Hound: Brachetus is in Fr. Brabet, Braco Canis sagax, indagator Leporum: So as Braco was properly the large fleet Hound; and Brachetus, the smaller Hound; and Brabete the Bitch in that Kind.—Concedo eis duos Leporarios & quatuor Bracetos ad Leporem capiendum. Monastic. Ang. Tom. 2. pag. 283.

Bracium, A Brewing: The whole Quantity of Ale brewed at one Time, for which Tolfeſtor was paid in some Manors. Bracina a Brew-house. MS. penes Will. Dugdale, &c.

Brandy, A Liquor made chiefly in France, and extracted from the Lees of Wine. In the Stat. 20 Car. 2. cap. 1. upon an Argument in the Exchequer Anno 1668. whether Brandy were a Strong-water or Spirit, it was resolved to be a Spirit: But in the Year 1669, by a Grand Committee of the whole House of Commons, it was voted to be a Strong-water perfectly made. See the Stat. 22 Car. 2. cap. 4. In lieu of Custom Duties, granted by 7 & 8 W. 3. on Brandy imported from France, there shall be paid by the Importer for every Gallon of single Proof 1 s. and double Proof 2 s. &c. by Stat. 6 Geo. 2. c. 27. See Custom.

Brasium, Signifies Malt: In the ancient Statutes Brasfator is taken for a Brewer, from the Fr. Brasfear; and at this Day is used for a Maltster or Malt-maker. It was resolved 18 Ed. 2. Quod venditio Brasii non est venditio viſualium, nec debet puniri ſicut venditio Panis, Vini & Cerviſiæ, & hujusmodi, contra formam Statuti. To make Malt was a Service paid by some Tenants to their Lords.—In Manerio de Pidington quilibet virgatarius præparabit Domino unum quarterium Brasii per Annum, ſi Dominus inveniet Boſcum ad ſiccandum. Paroch. Antiq. p. 496.

Brass, Is to be sold in open Fairs and Markets, or in the Owners Houses, on Pain of 10 l. and to be worked according to the Goodness of Metal wrought in London, or shall be forfeited: Also Searchers of Brass and Pewter are to be appointed in every City and Borough by Head Officers, and in Counties by Justices of Peace, &c. and in Default thereof, any other Person skilful in that Myſtery, by Oversight of the Head Officer, may take upon him the Search of defective Brass, to be forfeited, &c. Stat. 19 H. 7. c. 6. Brass and Pewter, Bell-metal, &c. shall not be sent out of the Kingdom, on Pain of Forfeiting double Value, &c. 33 Hen. 8. c. 7. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. c. 37.

Breach of Promise, (Violatio Fidei) A Breaking or Violating a Man's Word. And Breach signifies where a Person commits any Breach of the Condition of a Bond, or his Covenant, &c. entered into, on Action upon which the Breach must be assigned. In Debt on Bond, conditioned to give Account of Goods, &c. a Breach must be alledged, or the Plaintiff will have no Cause of Action. 1 Saund. 102. And when a Breach is assigned it must not be general, but must be particular; as in Action of Covenant for not repairing of House, the Breach ought to be assigned particularly, what is the Want of Reparation. If one covenants he was seised, and Breach is assigned that he was not seised, it must be set forth who is seised, &c. Cro. Jac. 369. But on mutual Promise for one to do an Act, and in Consideration thereof another to do some Act, as to sell Goods, &c. for so much Money, a general Breach that the Defendant hath not performed his Part, is well assigned. 3 Lev. 319. If the Condition of a Bond consists of several Parts, the Defendant in Pleading is to shew that he hath performed the several Matters contained in the Condition: But where a Covenant consists of several Parts in the Affirmative, Performance generally is a good Plea. Sid 215. In Case of a Bond for Performance of an Award, if the Defendant pleads any Matter by which he admits a Non-performance, and excuses it, the Plaintiff in his Replication must shew the Award, and assign the Breach, that the Court may see an Award was made, and judge whether it was good or not; for if it should be of a void Part thereof, it need not be performed. 1 Salk. 138. Breaches assigned ought to be according to the very Words of the Condition or Covenant; when they may be well enough though too general. 1 Lutw. 326. Where a Thing is to be done by a Person or his Assigns, the Breach is to be that it was done neither by the one or the other. 5 Mod. 133. If a Person is to tender a Conveyance, &c. to another, his Heirs or Assigns, Breach assigned that the Defendant did not tender a Conveyance to the Plaintiff, without the Words his Heirs or Assigns, is good: But if the Tender be to be made by another Man, his Heirs, &c. and not to him, it is otherwise. 1 Salk. 139. Where a Lessee for Years is to leave all the Timber on the Land, which was growing there at the Time of the Lease, and he cuts down any Trees, though he leaves the Timber on the Land at the End of his Lease, this is a Breach of Covenant: For in Contracts the Intention of Parties is chiefly to be considered. Raym. 464. If Lands are only excepted out of a Lease, and a Person is disturbed in enjoying them by the Lessee, this is no Breach of Covenant; though it is said it might be otherwise if a Way, Common, &c. be excepted. Moor. 553. A Person brings an Action for a Covenant broken, he ought to assign the Breach of it in such a Manner, that the Defendant may take an Issue. 1 Lill. Abr. 240. If several Breaches are assigned, and the Defendant demurs upon the whole Declaration, the Plaintiff shall have Judgment for all that are well assigned, for they are as several Actions. Cr. Jac. 557. Where a Declaration assigns no particular Breach of Covenant, it is cured by Verdict, though ill upon Demurrer. 1 Vent. 114, 126. Formerly a Plaintiff could assign but one Breach in Action of Debt upon a Bond for Performance of Covenants, though several Things were broken, for one Breach being proved, was a Forfeiture of the Bond: But in Action of Covenant, as many Breaches might be assigned as the Plaintiff would, because the Plaintiff might have a particular Damage upon each Covenant broken; and a several Issue must be taken upon every Breach. 1 Nelf. Abr. 406. And now by Statute, in Action on Bond for Performance of Covenants, the Plaintiff may assign as many Breaches as he pleases, and the Jury shall assess Damages and Costs for such Covenants as are proved to be broken. Stat. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 10. And where Judgment shall be given for the Plaintiff in such Action on a Demurrer, Nil dicit, &c. he may suggest on the Roll as many Breaches as he thinks fit; upon which a Writ of Enquiry shall go, &c. And if before Execution executed, the Defendant brings the Costs and Damages into Court, Execution shall be stayed; and the Plaintiff shall acknowledge Satisfaction, if the Execution be executed: But the Judgment shall still stand as a Security to answer the future Breach of any Covenant in the Deed; for which the Plaintiff or his Executors, &c. may have a Scire facias upon such Judgment against the Defendant. Stat. Ibid.

Bread and Beer, The Assise of Bread, Beer and Ale, &c. is granted to the Lord Mayor of London and other Corporations: Bakers, &c. not observing the Assise, to be set in the Pilory. Stat. 51 H. 3.

Bread of Trect, or Trite, (Panis Tritici) Is Bread mentioned in the Statute 51 Hen. 3. of Assise of Bread and Ale; wherein are particularised Wastel Bread, Cocket Bread, and Bread of Trect, which answer to the three Sorts of Bread now in Use, called White, Wheaten, and House-hold Bread. In religious Houses they heretofore distinguished Bread by these several Names, Panis Armigerorum, Panis Conventualis, Panis Puerorum, & Panis Famulorum. Antiq. Not.

Brecca,

Brecca, (from the Fr. Breche) A Breach or Decay. In some ancient Deeds there have been Covenants for repairing Muros & Breccas, Portas & Fossata, &c. — De Brecca Aquæ inter Woolwich & Greenwich superuidend. Pat. 16 Ric. 2. A Duty of 3d. per Ton on Shipping was granted for amending and Stopping of Dagenham Breach, by Stat. 12 Ann. c. 17.

Brede, A Word used by Brañon for Broad; as too large and too Brede, is proverbially too long and too broad. Brañ. lib. 3. trañ. 2. c. 15. There is also a Sax. Word Brede, signifying Deceit. Leg. Canut. c. 44.

Bredwitt, (Sax Bread and White) A Fine or Penalty imposed for Defaults in the Assise of Bread: To be exempt from which, was a special Privilege granted to the Tenants of the Honour of Wallingford by King Hen. 2. Paroch. Antiq. 114.

Brehon. In Ireland the Judges and Lawyers were anciently stiled Brehons; and thereupon the Irisb Law called the Brehon Law. 4 Inst. 358.

Brestna, Wether-Sheep. — Concedo Deo & Monachis 30 Breinas singulis Annis. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. cap. 406.

Brenagium, A Payment in Bran, which Tenants anciently made to feed their Lords Hounds. Blount.

Bretoyfe, or Bretois, The Law of the Marches of Wales, in Practice among the ancient Britains. — Ego Henricus de Penebrugge dedi omnibus liberis Burgensibus meis Burgi mei de Penebrugge omnes Libertates & liberas consuetudines secundum Legem de Bretoyfe, &c. Pat. sine Dat. Here Legem de Bretoyfe is said to signify Legem Marchiarum; for Penebrugge, now called Pembridge, is a Town in Heresfordshire which borders upon Wales.

Breve, Is any Writ by which a Man is summoned or attached to answer an Action, or whereby any Thing is commanded to be done in the King's Courts, in order to Justice, &c. It is called Breve from the Brevity of it; and is directed either to the Chancellor, Judges, Sheriffs, or other Officers, whose various Forms you may see in the Register. — Breve, quia breviter & paucis Verbis intentionem proferentis exponit & explanat, &c. Brañ. lib. 5. Trañ. 5. cap. 17. See Skene de verb. Breve. Vide Writ.

Breve perquirere, To purchase a Writ or Licence of Trial, in the King's Courts, by the Plaintiff, qui Breve perquisivit: And hence comes the Usage of paying 6s. 8d. Fine to the King, where the Debt is 40l. and of 10s. where the Debt is 100l. &c. in Suits and Trials for Money due upon Bond.

Breve de Retto, A Writ of Right, or Licence for a Person ejected out of an Estate, to sue for the Possession of it when detained from him. Vide Retto.

Brevibus & Rotulis liberandis, A Writ or Mandate to a Sheriff to deliver unto his Successor the County, and the Appurtenances, with the Rolls, Briefs, Remembrances, and all other Things belonging to that Office. Reg. Orig. fol. 295.

Brewers, Are to put their Drink in Vessels mark'd by a Cooper, or forfeit 3s. 4d. a Barrel; and not selling it at reasonable Rates, appointed by Justices of Peace, incur a Forfeiture of 6s. for every Barrel, Kilderkin 3s. 4d. &c. by Stat. 23 H. 8. cap. 4. And Brewers are to make an Entry at the Excise-Office once a Week of Liquors brewed, under Penalties, &c. 12 & 15 Car. 2. 7 & 8 W. 3. If Brewers mix any Sugar, Molasses, &c. in brewing Beer or Ale, they shall forfeit 20l. Stat. 1 Ann. cap. 3. See Excise.

Bribery, (from the Fr. Briber, to devour or eat greedily) Is a high Offence, where a Person in a judicial Place takes any Fee, Gift, Reward or Brocade, for doing his Office, but of the King only. 3 Inst. 145. But taken largely it signifies the Receiving, or Offering, any undue Reward, to or by any Person concerned in the Administration of publick Justice, whether Judge, Officer, &c. to act contrary to his Duty; and sometimes it signifies the Taking or Giving a Reward for a publick Office. 3 Inst. 149. Hob. 9. A Bribe of Money though small, the Fault is great; and Judges Servants may be punished for receiving Bribes. If a Judge refuses a Bribe offered him, the Offerer is punishable. Fortescue, cap. 51. Bribery in judicial or ministerial Officers is punished by Fine and Imprisonment. Before the Statute 25 Ed. 3. Bribery in a Judge was looked upon as so heinous an Offence, that it was sometimes punished as High Treason; and it is at this Day punishable, with Forfeiture of Office, Fine and Imprisonment. In the Reign of King James I. the Earl of M. Lord Treasurer of England, being impeached by the Commons, for refusing to hear Petitions referred to him by the King, 'till he had received great Bribes, &c. was by Sentence of the Lords, deprived of all his Offices, and disabled to hold any for the Future, or to sit in Parliament; also he was fined fifty thousand Pounds, and imprisoned during the King's Pleasure. 1 Hawk. P. C. 170. In the eleventh Year of King George I. the Lord Chancellor M. had a milder Punishment: He was impeached by the Commons with great Zeal, for Bribery, in selling the Places of Masters in Chancery for exorbitant Sums, and other corrupt Practices, tending to the great Loss and Ruin of the Suitors of that Court; and the Charge being made good against him, being before de-vested of his Office, he was sentenced by the Lords to pay a Fine of thirty thousand Pounds, and imprisoned 'till it was paid. Vide the Trial. By Statute, the Chancellor, Treasurer, Justices of both Benches, Barons of the Exchequer, &c. shall be sworn not to ordain or nominate any Person in any Office for any Gift, Brocade, &c. 12 R. 2. c. 2. And the Sale of Offices concerning the Administration of publick Justice, &c. is prohibited on Pain of Forfeiture and Disability, &c. by 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 16. In the Construction of the last mentioned Statute, it has been resolved that the Offices of the Ecclesiastical Courts are within the Meaning of that Act, as well as the Offices in the Courts of Common Law; and been adjudged, that one who contracts for an Office, contrary to the Purport of the said Statute 5 & 6 E. 6. is so disabled to hold the same, that he cannot be restored to a Capacity of holding it by any Grant or Dispensation whatsoever. Cro. Jac. 269, 386. Hawk. P. C. 171. Officers of the Customs, &c. taking any Bribe or Reward, whereby the Crown shall be defrauded, shall forfeit 100l. and be rendered 'incapable of any Office. Stat. 14 Car. 2. c. 11. But there is a saving Clause for the first Offence, acknowledging it in two Months. No Person setting up for Member of Parliament, shall after the Teste of the Writ of Election, or after any Place becomes vacant, give any Bribe of Money, Meat, Drink, Gift, Reward, &c. in order to be elected, on Pain of Disability to serve in Parliament. 7 W. 3. cap. 4. And Electors taking Bribes, are disabled to vote, and to hold any Office or Franchise, and shall also forfeit 500l. &c. by Stat. 2 Geo. 2. c. 24. If Money is given to a Man to be disposed of in Bribes, the Giver may recover it back again in an Action; and where one gave a Bribe to a Custom-house Officer, for exempting Goods from the Payment of Duties, this being found out, and the Goods seized, the Party recovered his Money. 1 Ld. Ray. 89.

Bribeur, (Fr. Bribeur) Seems to Signify in some of our old Statutes, one that pilfers other Men's Goods. 28 Ed. 2. cap. 1.

Brictolls, An Engine mentioned in Blount, by which Walls were beat down.

Bricks, Are to be made between the 1st Day of March and 29th of September, and shall be burnt either in Kilns, or distinct Clamps, &c. Also Place-Bricks when burnt, must not be less than nine Inches long, two Inches and a half thick, and four and a quarter wide, on Pain of forfeiting 20s. a Thousand, &c.

Searchers of Bricks and Tiles shall be appointed by Justices of Peace in their Quarter-Sessions, who are to make Presentments, and may be fined 10*l.* for Defaults: Combinations to advance the Price of Bricks, Ingrossing them, &c. incurs a Penalty of 20*l.* And mixing Mould, Soil or Mud with Brick Earth, is liable to Penalties. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. cap. 33. 2 Geo. 2. cap. 15. But Bricks may be made of Brick Earth and Sea-Coal Ashes sifted not exceeding a certain Quantity; and Cinders or Breeze may be used with Coal in the Burning of Bricks, and Stock-Bricks and Place-Bricks burnt in the same Clamp, being set in distant Parcels, &c. by 3 Geo. 2. cap. 22.

Bridge, (Pons) A Building of Stone or Wood erected across a River, for the common Ease and Benefit of Travellers. At Common Law those who are bound to repair publick Bridges, must make them of such Height and Strength, as shall be answerable to the Course of the Water; and they are not Trespassers if they enter on any Land adjoining to repair them, or lay the Materials necessary for the Repairs thereon. Dalt. cap. 16. Common Bridges being built for the common Ease of the People, of common Right ought to be repaired by the County; but a particular Person, Town, &c. may be bound to repair them by Tenure, or Prescription. 6 Mod. 307. And if a Man erects a Bridge for his own Use, and the People travel over it as a common Bridge, he shall notwithstanding repair it: Though a Person shall not be bound to repair a Bridge, built by himself for the common Good and publick Convenience, but the County must repair it. 2 Inst. 701. 1 Salk. 359. Where Inhabitants of a County are indicted for not repairing a Bridge, they must set forth who ought to repair the same, and traverse that they ought. 1 Vent. 256. A Vill may be indicted for a Neglect in not repairing a Bridge; and the Justices of Peace in their Sessions may impose a Fine for Defaults. And any particular Inhabitant of a County, or Tenant of Land charged to Repairs of a Bridge, may be made Defendants to an Indictment for not repairing it, and be liable to pay the Fine assessed by the Court for the Default of the Repairs; who are to have their Remedy at Law for a Contribution from those who are bound to bear a proportionable Share of the Charge. 6 Mod. 307. If a Manor is held by Tenure of repairing a Bridge, or Highway, which Manor afterwards comes into several Hands, in such Case every Tenant of any Parcel of the Demesnes and Services, is liable to the whole Charge, but shall have Contribution of the Rest; and this though the Lord may agree with the Purchasers to discharge them of such Repairs, which only binds the Lord, and doth not alter the Remedy which the Publick hath. 1 Danv. Abr. 744. 1 Salk. 358. Indictments for not repairing of Bridges, will not lie but in Case of common Bridges on Highways; though it hath been adjudged they will lie for a Bridge on a common Footway. Mod. Caf. 256. Not keeping up a Ferry, being a common Passage for all the King's People, is indictable, as well as not keeping up Bridges. 1 Salk. 12. All Householders dwelling in any County or Town, whether they occupy Lands or not; and all Persons who have Land in their own Possession, whether they dwell in the same County or not, are liable to be taxed as Inhabitants, towards the Repairs of a publick Bridge, by the Stat. 22 H. 8. cap. 5. Where it cannot be discovered who ought to repair a Bridge, it must be presented by the Grand Jury in Quarter-Sessions; and after their Inquiry, and the Order of Sessions upon it, the Justices may send for the Constables of every Parish, to appear at a fixed Time and Place, to make a Tax upon every Inhabitant, &c. But it has been usual, in the levying of Money for Repairs of Bridges, to charge every Hundred with a Sum in Gross, and to send such Charge to the High Constables of each Hundred, who send their Warrants to the Petty Constables, to gather it, by Virtue whereof they assess the Inhabitants of Parishes in particular Sums, according to a fixed Rate, and collect it; and then they pay the same to the High Constables, who bring it to the Sessions. This Method of raising Money, though it be contrary to the Statute 22 H. 8. has been observed some Years past; but by the 1 Ann. cap. 18. Justices in Sessions, upon Presentment made of Want of Reparations, are to assess every Town, Parish, &c. in Proportion towards the Repairs of a Bridge; and the Money assessed is to be levied by the Constables of such Parishes, &c. and being demanded, and not paid in ten Days, the Inhabitants shall be distrained; and when the Tax is levied, the Constables are to pay it to the High Constable of the Hundred; who is to pay the same to such Persons as the Justices shall appoint, to be employed according to the Order of the Justices, towards Repairing of the Bridge: And the Justices may allow any Person concerned in the Execution of the Act 3*d. per* Pound out of the Money collected. All Matters relating to the Repairing and Amending of Bridges, are to be determined in the County where they lie, and no Presentment or Indictment shall be removed by Certiorari. And by the Statute, the Evidence of the Inhabitants of those Places where the Bridges are in Decay, shall be admitted at any Trial upon an Information or Indictment, &c. By 14 Geo. 2. c. 33. the Justices at their General Sessions, may purchase or agree with Persons for any Piece of Land, not above one Acre, near to any County Bridge, in order to enlarge or more conveniently rebuild it; and the Ground shall be paid for out of the Money raised by Virtue of 12 Geo. 2. for better assessing, collecting, and levying of Country Rates, &c. No Persons are compellable to make a new Bridge but by Act of Parliament: And the Inhabitants of the whole County cannot of their own Authority change a Bridge from one Place to another. If a Man has Toll for Men and Cattle passing over a Bridge, he is to repair it; and Toll may be paid in these Cases, by Prescription, or Statute. The Stat. 12 Geo. 1. cap. 36. for Building a Bridge cross the River Thames at Falham, appoints a Toll or Pontage to be paid for Coaches, Horses, Carts, Foot Passengers, &c. and burning or pulling down the Bridge, is Felony. And by 9 Geo. 2. c. 29. A Bridge is to be built on the Thames, from New Palace-yard, Westminster, to the Shore in Surrey, for which Purpose Commissioners are appointed, &c. They are to leave a Passage through the Arches of 760 Feet, and may remove Shelves of Gravel or Sand, to make the River deeper; this Bridge shall not be deemed a County Bridge, and 100,000*l.* is ordered for Building it. 10 & 11 Geo. 2. Another Act since made grants 325,000*l.* and a subsequent Statute 275,000*l.* for finishing this Bridge, to be raised by Way of Lottery; also the Commissioners are empowered to lay out new Ways, Streets and Passages on each Side of the Thames, to and from the said Bridge, &c. See 13, 14, 15, 17 & 18 Geo. 2. By the Stat. 20 Geo. 2. c. 22. Samuel Dicker, Esq; is enabled to build a Bridge cross the Thames from Walton in Surrey to Shepperton in Middlesex, to have free and open Passage within the Banks for the Water to flow through the Arches of 212 Foot at the least. Tolls to be paid to Mr. Dicker, his Heirs and Assigns, viz. for every Coach, &c. drawn by six or more Horses 2*s.* drawn by four or more Horses 1*s.* 6*d.* drawn by less than four Horses 1*s.* for every Waggon, &c. drawn by four or more Horses 1*s.* 6*d.* by less than four 1*s.* for every Horse, &c. 1*d.* for every Foot-Passenger One Half-penny, for every Score of Oxen, &c. 1*s.* for every Score of Calves, &c. 6*d.* See also County-Rates.

Bridgemasters. There are Bridgemasters of London Bridge, chosen by the Citizens, who have certain Fees and Profits belonging to their Office, and the Care of the said Bridge, &c. Lex London. 283.

Brief, (Brevis) An Abridgment of the Client's Case, made out for the Instruction of Counsel, on a Trial at Law; wherein the Case of the Plaintiff, &c. is to be briefly but fully stated, the Proofs must be placed in due Order, and proper Answers made to whatever may be objected against the Client's Cause, by the opposite Side; and herein great Care is requisite, that nothing be omitted to endanger the Cause. Form of a Brief, see Praes. Solic. p. 311.

Brief al Ovesque, A Writ to the Bishop, which in Q. Impedit shall go to remove an Incumbent, unless he recover or be presented pendente lite. 1 Keb. 386.

Briga, (Fr. Brigue) Debate, or Contention.—Et posuit terram illam in Brigam & intricavit terram, scilicet, per diversa fraudulenta Feoffamenta; Ideo committitur Marsc. Ebor. Hill. 18 Ed. 3. Rot. 28.

Brigandine, (Fr. in Lat. Lorica) Is a Coat of Mail or ancient Armour, consisting of many jointed and scale like Plates, very pliant and easy for the Body. This Word is mentioned in 4 & 5 P. & M. cap. 2. and some confound it with Haubergeon; and others with Brigantine, a long but low-built Vessel, swift in sailing, used at Sea.

Brigantes, A Word used for Yorkshire, Lancashire, Bishoprick of Durham, Westmorland and Cumberland. Blount.

Brigbote, or Brug-bote, Signifies to be freed from the Reparation of Bridges. It is compounded of the Sax. Brig, a Bridge, and Bote, which is a Yielding of Amends, or Supplying a Defect: But this is more properly Bruck-bote, from the Germ. Bruck, i. e. a Bridge, and Bote, a Compensation; and it is used for the Liberty or Exemption of being free from Tribute or Contribution towards the Mending or Re-edifying of Bridges. Fleta, lib. 1. c. 47. Selden's Titles of Honour, fol. 622.

Bristol, A great City, famous for Trade: The Mayor, Burgeses and Commonalty of the City of Bristol, are Conservators of the River Avon from above the Bridge there to King-Road, and so down the Severn to the two Islands called Holmes; and the Mayor and Justices of the said City, may make Rules and Orders for preserving the River, and regulating Pilots, Masters of Ships, &c. Also for the Government of their Markets: And the Streets are to be kept clean and paved; and Lamps or Lights hung out at Night. Stat. 11 & 12 W. 3. c. 23. No Person shall act as a Broker in the City of Bristol, till admitted and licensed by the Mayor and Aldermen, &c. on Pain of forfeiting 50*l.* and those who employ any such, to forfeit 50*l.* &c. by Stat. 3 Geo. 2. c. 31. By the Stat. 22 Geo. 2. c. 20. the Stat. 11 & 12 W. 3. is rendered more effectual so far as it relates to the Paving and Enlightning the Streets; and divers Regulations are made in relation to the Hackney Coachmen, Halliers, Draymen and Carters, and the Markets and Sellers of Hay and Straw, within the said City and Liberties thereof.

Brocage, (Broccagium) The Wages or Hire of a Broker; which is also termed Brokerage. 12 R. 2. c. 2. and 11 H. 4.—Ex Broccagio, vel alio sinistro passu. Rot. Stat. 31 Ed. 3.

Broccella. This Word, as interpreted by Dr. Tbo-roten, signifieth a Wood; and it is said to be a Thicket or Covert of Bushes and Brush-wood, from the obsolete Lat. Brusca, terra Bruscosa, & Brocia, Fr. Broce, Broccelle: And hence is our Brouce of Wood, and Broufing of Cattle.—Dedi unam Brocellam vocat. &c. Reg. de Thurgaton, MS.

Brocha, (From the Fr. Broche) An Awl, or large Packing Needle, the Use whereof is very well known. A Spit in some Parts of England is called a Broche; and from this Word comes to pierce or broach a Barrel. That it was an Iron Instrument, you may learn from the following Authority.—Henricus de Havering tenet Manerium de Norton in Com. Essex, per Serjeantiam inveniendi unum hominem, cum uno equo, &c. & uno sacco de corio, & una Brochia ferrea. Anno 13 Ed. 1.

Brochia, A great Can or Pitcher. Braes. lib. 2. tract. 1. cap. 6. Where it seems that he intends Saccus to carry dry, and Brochia liquid Things.

Brodehalspeny, or Broadhalspeny. See Bord-halspeny.

Brokers, (Broccatores, Broccarii & Auxionarii) Are those that contrive, make and conclude Bargains and Contracts between Merchants and Tradefmen, in Matters of Money and Merchandize, for which they have a Fee or Reward. These are Exchange Brokers; and by the Statute 10 R. 2. cap. 1. they are called Brogers; also Brogers of Corn is used in a Picclamation of Queen Elizabeth for Badgers. Baker's Chron. fol. 411. The Original of the Word is from a Trader broken, and that from the Sax. Broc, which signifies Misfortune, which is often the true Reason of a Man's Breaking; so that the Broker came from one who was a broken Trader by Misfortune, and none but such were formerly admitted to that Employment; and they were to be Freemen of the City of London, and allowed and approved by the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, for their Ability and Honesty. By the Stat. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 20. they are to be licensed in London by the Lord Mayor, who gives them an Oath, and takes Bond for the faithful Execution of their Offices: If any Persons shall act as Brokers, without being thus licensed and admitted, they shall forfeit the Sum of 500*l.* And Persons employing them 50*l.* And Brokers are to register Contracts, &c. under the like Penalty: Also Brokers shall not deal for themselves, on Pain of forfeiting 200*l.* They are to carry about them a Silver Medal, having the King's Arms and the Arms of the City, &c. and pay 40*s.* a Year to the Chamber of the City. Stat. 6 Ann. c. 16. A Penalty of 500*l.* is inflicted on lawful Brokers selling Shares of Stock not authorized by Act of Parliament, by Stat. 6 Geo. 1. cap. 18. Brokers negotiating or transacting Contracts, on Premiums to accept or refuse Stock, or in the Nature of Wagers, &c. relating to the Value, incur the like Penalty of 500*l.* And negotiating Agreements knowingly, for the Sale of Stock, where the Seller is not actually possessed of the same, &c. shall forfeit 100*l.* And Brokers shall keep a Book called the Broker's Book; in which they shall enter all Contracts and Agreements, with the Names of the Buyers and Sellers, and Day of making Contracts, &c. to be produced when required, on Pain of 50*l.* Stat. 7 Geo. 2. cap. 8. There are likewise Pawn brokers, who commonly keep Shops, and let out Money to poor necessitous People upon Pawns, for the most part on Extortion; but these are more properly Pawn-takers, and are not of that Antiquity or Credit as the former; nor do the Statutes allow them to be Brokers, though now commonly so called. These Brokers often deal in stolen Goods, as they buy them cheap, and are a great Nufance: Notwithstanding there is a Law declaring that wrongful Sale of Goods stolen, &c. to and by Brokers, shall not alter the Property; and if they do not discover such Goods at the Request of the Owner, they are to forfeit double Value. 1 Jac. 1. cap. 21. The Reason of exorbitant Interest being taken by these Brokers, is the Want of Witnesses to prove the Contract, or other Proof of the Money taken but the Party's own Evidence; but they may be punished for their Extortion on an Action, Qui tam, &c. See Pawn.

Bzuckstall, A Toil to take Deer, which by the Stat. 19 Hen. 7. is not to be kept by any Person that hath not a Park of his own, under Penalties. There is a Privilege of being quit of Amerciaments for Bzuckstalls.—Et sint quieti de Cbevagio, Hondpeny, & Bzuckstall, & de omnibus Misericordiis, &c. Privileg. de Semplingham. See 4 Inst. 306.

Bzuckwheat, Is the same with French Wheat, used in many Counties of this Kingdom: In Essex it is called Brank; and in Worcestershire, Crap. It is mentioned in the Stat. 15 Car. 2. c. 5.

Bzucinus, A military Weapon for a Footman.—Petrus de Chetwood tenet—per Serjantiam inveniend. unum hominem peditem, cum una lancea, & uno Bucino ferreo, &c. Tenures, pag. 74.

Bzuggery, or Sodomy, comes from the Italian Bzuggere, to bzugg; and is defined to be a carnal Copulation against Nature, and this is either by the Confusion of Species; that is to say, a Man or a Woman with a brute Beast; or of Sexes, as a Man with a Man, or Man unnaturally with a Woman. 12 Co. Rep. 36. This Sin against God, Nature, and the Law, 'tis said was brought into England by the Lombards. Rot. Parl. 50 Ed. 3. numb. 58. Stat. 25 H. 8. cap. 6. And in antient Times, according to some Authors, it was punishable with Burning, though others say with burying alive: But at this Day it is Felony excluded Clergy, and punished as other Felonies. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 6. and 5 Eliz. 17. And it is Felony both in the Agent and Patient consenting, except the Person on whom committed be a Boy under the Age of Discretion; when 'tis Felony only in the Agent: Also Persons present, aiding and abetting to this Crime, are all Principals; and the Statutes make it Felony generally: There may be Accessaries before and after the Fact; but though none of the principal Offenders shall be admitted to Clergy, the Accessaries are not excluded it. 1 Hale's Hist. P. C. 670. For many Years past, the Crime of Bzuggery has been greatly practised in this Kingdom, without any exemplary Punishment: of the Committers of it; till Anno 12 Geo. 1. a great Number of these Wretches were convicted of the most abominable Practices, and three of them put to Death; which seasonable Justice seems to have given a Check to the before growing Evil. In Every Indictment for this Offence, there must be the Words, Rem habuit veneream & carnaliter cognovit, &c. and of Consequence some Kind of Penetration and Emission must be proved; but any the least Degree is sufficient. 1 Haruk. 6. The general Words of these Indictments are, that A. B. on such a Day, at, &c. with Force and Arms, made an Assault upon C. D. and then and there wickedly, devilishly, feloniously, and against the Order of Nature, committed the Venereal Act with the said C. D. and carnally knew him, and then and there wickedly, &c. did with him that sodomitical and detestable Sin called Bzuggery, (not to be named among Christians) to the great Displeasure of God, and Disgrace of all Mankind, &c. This Crime is excepted out of our Acts of General Pardon.

Bzuildings. If a House new built exceeds the ancient Foundation, whereby that is the Cause of hindering the Lights or Air of another House, Action lies against the Bzuilder. Hob. 131. In London a Man may place Ladders or Poles upon the Ground, or against Houses adjoining for building his own; but he may not break Ground: And Bzuilders of Houses ought to have Licence from the Mayor and Aldermen, &c. for a Hourd in the Streets, which are not to be incumbered. Cit. Lib. 30, 146. In new building of London, it was ordained that the Outfides of the Bzuildings be of Brick or Stone, and the Houses for the principal Streets to be four Stories high, having in the Front Balconies, &c. by Stat. 19 Car. 2. If any Person build any new House in London, he must erect a Party-Wall of Brick or Stone between House and House, of the Thickness of two Bricks in Length in the Ground Story, &c. or he shall forfeit 50 l. leviable by Warrant of Justices of Peace. And Party-pipes are to be fixed on the Sides of such Houses, for conveying Water falling from the Tops thereof into the Channels, &c. Stat. 6 Ann. c. 30. 11 Geo. 1. c. 28.

Bzull, (Bulla) A Brief or Mandate of the Pope or Bishop of Rome, from the Lead, or sometimes Gold Seal affixed thereto; which Mat. Paris, Anno 1237. thus describes: In Bulla Domini Papæ stat Imago Pauli a dextris Crucis in medio Bullæ figurata, & Petri a sinistris. These Decrees of the Pope are often mentioned in our Statutes, as 25 Ed. 3. 28 H. 8. cap. 16. 1 & 2 P. & M. c. 8. and 13 Eliz. cap. 2. And have been heretofore used, and of Force in this Land: But by the Statute 28 Hen. 8. it was enacted, That all Bzulls, Briefs and Dispensations had or obtained from the Bishop of Rome, should be void. And by 13 & 23 Eliz. If any Person shall obtain from Rome any Bull or Writing to absolve or reconcile such as forsake their due Allegiance, or shall give or receive Absolution by Colour of such Bull, or use or publish such Bull, &c. it is High Treason.

Bzull and Boar, By the Custom of some Places, a Parson may be obliged to keep a Bull and a Boar for the Use of the Parishioners, in Consideration of his having Tithes of Calves and Pigs, &c. 1 Roll. Abr. 559. 4 Mod. 241.

Bzullio Salis, As much Salt as is made at one Wealing or Boiling: A Measure of Salt, supposed to be twelve Gallons. Mon. Ang. Tom. 2.

Bzullion,

Bullion, (Fr. Billon) The Ore or Metal whereof Gold is made; and signifies with us Gold or Silver in Billet, in the Mass before it is Coined. Anno 9 Ed. 3. c. 2.

Bultet, Is the Bran or Refuse of Meal after dressed by the Baker; also the Bag wherein it is dressed is called a Balter or rather Boulter. The Word is mentioned in the Statute de Affisa panis & Cervisie, Anno 51 Hen. 3. Hence comes Bulted or Boulted-Bread, being the coarsest Bread.

Bundles, A Sort of Records of the Chancery lying in the Office of the Rolls; in which are contained, the Files of Bills and Answers, of Hub. Cor. cum Causa, Certiorari, Attachments, &c. Scire facias, Certificates of Statute-Staple, Extents and Liberates, Superjedaas, Bails on Special Pardons, Bills from the Exchequer of the Names of Sheriffs, Letters Patent surrendered and Deeds cancelled, Inquisitions, Privy Seals for Grants, Bills signed by the King, Warrants of Escheators, Customers, &c.

Burcheta, (From the Fr. Borche) A kind of Gun used in Forests.

Burcifer Regis, Purse-bearer, or Keeper of the King's Privy Purse. Pat. 17 Hen. 8.

Burgage, (Burgagium) An ancient Tenure proper to Boroughs, whereby the Inhabitants by Custom hold their Lands or Tenements of the King, or other Lord of the Borough, at a certain yearly Rent. Old Tenures. It is a Kind of Socage Tenure, and signifieth the Service whereby the Borough is holden; and the King hath nothing to do with Heirs of this Land, whether they be under fourteen, or above that Age, and under twenty-one. 1 Inst. 109. Jenk. Cent. 127. Swinburn ranks it inter ignobiles Tenuras. And 37 Hen. 8. c. 20. Item non Usumur facere fidelitatem vel Servicium forinsecum Dominis Feodorum pro terris & Tenementis nostris, nisi tantummodo redditus nostros de eisdem terris exeuntes; quia tenemus terras & tenementa nostra per Servicium Burgagii, ita quod non habemus Medium inter nos & Dominum Regem. MS. Codex de LL. Statutis & Consuetud. Burgi villæ Montgomer. à temp. Hen. 2.—Anciently a Dwelling-house in a Borough-Town, was called a Burgage.—Sciant Quod Ego Editha, &c. Dedi—In liberam, puram & perpetuam Elemosynam totum illud Burgagium cum Edificiis & pertin. suis quod jacet in Villa Leominstr. Ex libro Chartarum Priorat. Leom'.

Burgh, A small walled Town, or Place of Privilege, &c. See Borough.

Burg-bote, (from Burg, Castellum, and Bote, Compensatio) Is a Tribute or Contribution towards the Building or Repairing of Castles, or Walls of a Borough or City: From which divers had Exemption by the ancient Charter of the Saxon Kings. Rassal. Burg bote significat quietantiam Reparationis murorum Civitatis vel Burgi. Fleta, lib. 1. c. 47.

Burgesses, (Burgarii & Burgenses) Are properly Men of Trade, or the Inhabitants of a Borough or walled Town; but we usually apply this Name to the Magistrates of such a Town, as the Bailiff and Burgesses of Leominster, &c. In Germany, and other Countries, they confound Burgess and Citizen; but we distinguish them as appears by the Stat. 5 R. 2. c. 4. where the Classes of the Commonwealth are thus enumerated, Count, Baron, Banneret, Chivalier de Countee; Citizein de Citee; Burgess de Burgh. See Co. Lit. 80. We now also call those Burgesses, who serve in Parliament, for any Borough or Corporation: And no Man is qualified to be such a Burgess, that hath not an Estate of 300*l.* a Year, clear of all incumbrances. Stat. 9 Ann. cap. 7. Vide Borough.

Burgh-breche, A Fine imposed on the Community of a Town, for the Breach of the Peace, &c. Angli omnes decemvirali olim fidejussione pacem Regiam stipulati sunt, quod autem in hanc Commissum est, Burgh brech dicitur, &c. Leg. Canuti, cap. 55.

Burghware, (quasi Burgivir) A Citizen or Burgess.—Willielmus Rex Salut. Willielmum Episcopum, & Godfredum Portgrefum, & omnem Burghware infra London. Charta Willielmi sen. Londinensibus constituta.

Burglary, (Burglaria, from the Sax. Burgh, Domus, or Arx, & Laron, furtum) Is where a Man breaketh and entereth the House of another in the Night-time, to the Intent to commit some Felony, whether the Intention be executed or not. 4 Co. 39. In the natural Signification, Burglary is nothing but the Robbing of a House; but our Law restrains it to Robbing a House by Night, or Breaking in with an Intent to rob, or do some other Felony: And the like Offence committed by Day is called House-breaking, to distinguish it from Burglary. It is an Offence excluded the Benefit of Clergy, and may be committed a great many Ways: And if a Man hath two Houses, and resides sometimes in one of the Houses, and sometimes in the other, if the House he doth not inhabit is broken by any Person in the Night, it is Burglary. Poph. 52. And when several come with a Design to commit Burglary, and one does it, while the rest watch near the House, here his Act is by Interpretation the Act of all of them. Wood 377. If Thieves pretend Business to get into a House by Night, and thereupon the Owner of the House opens his Door, and they enter and rob the House, this is Burglary. Kel. 42. Also if a Person be within the House, and steal Goods, and then open the House on the Inside, and go out with the Goods, this is Burglary, though the Thief did not break the House. 3 Inst. 64. If a Thief unlocks a Door, or draws the Latch of a Room, to rob, &c. Or if one comes down a Chimney, opens a Window, breaks a Hole in the Wall, &c. all these are a Breaking: And if the Thief set his Foot over the Threshold of the Door of the House, or put his Hand, Pistol, &c. within the Door or Window, it is an Entry sufficient to make it Burglary. H. P. C. 80, 81. Though the House is to be a Mansion-house, and the Out-houses adjoining to the Mansion-house are Part thereof, wherein this Crime may be committed; but not a Barn, Stable, &c. at any Distance from the House. 4 Rep. 40. Part of a House divided from the rest, having a Door of its own to the Street, this is a Mansion-house of him who hires it. Kel. 84. A Chamber in an Inn of Court, where one usually lodges is a Mansion-house; for every one hath a several Property there. But a Chamber where any Person doth lodge as an Inmate, cannot be called his Mansion; though if a Burglary be committed in his Lodgings, the Indictment may lay the Offence to be in the Mansion-house of him that let them. 3 Inst. 65. Kel. 83. If the Owner of the House breaks into the Rooms of his Lodgers, and steals their Goods, it cannot be Burglary to break into his own House; but it is Felony to steal their Goods. Wood's Inst. 378. A Lodger in an Inn, hath a special Interest in his Chamber; so that if he opens his Chamber Door, and takes Goods in the House, and goes away, it seems not to be Burglary. And where A. enters into the House of B. in the Night, by the Doors open, and breaks open a Chest, and steals Goods without breaking an inner Door; it is no Burglary by the Common Law, because the Chest is no Part of the House: Though it is a Felony ousted of Clergy by Statute; and if one break open a Counter or Cupboard, fixed to a House it is Burglary. 1 Hale's Hist. P. C. 554. See 3 & 4 W. & M. The Intention to commit Felony to make Burglary must be of such a Fact, as was Felony at Common Law; and not of a Felony newly made by Act of Parliament: But the Offences of Burglary and Felony may be joined in the same Indictment, and where a Man commits Burglary, and at the same Time steals Goods out of the House, if he be acquitted of the Burglary, he may notwithstanding be indicted of the Larceny. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 245. Taking away Goods from a Dwelling-house in the Night or Day, where any Person is therein; and breaking any Shop, Ware-house, &c. and taking away Goods privately to the Value of 5 s. though no Person be therein, is Burglary, by Stat. 3 & 4 W. & M. c. 9. 10 & 11 W. 3. cap. 23. And a Reward of 40 l. is given by the Statute for apprehending a Burglar, and prosecuting him to Conviction. 5 Ann. cap. 31. See Stat. 12 Ann. cap. 7.

An Indictment for Burglary.

Dorset, ff. THE Jurors, &c. upon their Oath present, that A. B. of, &c. in the said County, Labourer, on the Day of, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. with Force and Arms, did feloniously break and enter the Mansion-house of C. D. Esquire, at, &c. in the County aforesaid, in the Night-time, that is to say, between the Hours of ten and eleven of the Clock in the Evening of the same Day, (one E. F. then being in the same House in the Peace of God and of our Sovereign Lord the King) and then and there feloniously did steal, take and carry away Twenty Pounds of lawful Money, and also, &c. of the Goods and Chattels of the said C. D. then and there found in the said House, against the Peace of our said Lord the King, his Crown and Dignity.

Buri, A Word signifying Husbandmen. — In Upton sunt 18 Villani, 11 Bordarii, & duo Buri, &c. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. p. 183.

Burials, Persons dying are to be buried in Woolen, on Pain of forfeiting 5 l. And Affidavit is to be made of such Burying before a Justice, &c. under the like Penalty. Stat. 30 Car. 2. c. 3.

Burneta, Cloth made of dy'd Wool. A Burnet Colour must be dy'd; but Brunus Color may be made with Wool without Dying, which we call Medleys or Ruffets. Differentia inter Brunum Colorem & Burnetam; Brunus enim color potest fieri ex lana absque tinctura, viz. Ruffetum: Burnetum vero requirit tincturam & artificium hominis quoad colorem. Lyndewood. Thus much is mentioned because this Word is sometimes wrote Bruneta.

Burning of Houses, Outhouses, &c. Vide Arson.

Bursa, A Purse. Reddendo inde ad Bursam Abbatibus vi. d. ad Festum Sancti Michaelis, &c. Ex. lib. Chart. Priorat. Leominstr.

Bursaria, The Bursery, or Exchequer of Collegiate and Conventual Bodies; or the Place of Receiving and Paying, and accounting by the Bursarii, or Bursers. A. D. 1277. Computaverunt Patres Radulphus de Meriton, & Stephanus de Oxon. de Bursaria Domus Berneestre coram Auditoribus. Paroch. Antiq. pag. 288. But the Word Bursarii did not only signify the Bursars of a Convent or College; but formerly Stipendiary Scholars were called by the Name of Bursarii, as they lived on the Burse or Fund, or publick Stock of the University. At Paris, and among the Cistercian Monks, they were particularly termed by this Name: And — In ea Universitate (scil. Oxon) sunt clara Collegia a Regibus, Reginis, Episcopis, & Principibus fundata, & ex Stipendiis eorum Scholastici plurimi utuntur, quos Parisiis Bursarios vocamus. Johan. Major, Gest. Scot. lib. 1. c. 5.

Burse, (Bursa, Cambium, Boflica) An Exchange or Place of Meeting of Merchants.

Bursholders. See Borough holders.

Busones & omitatus: They are mentioned in Bracton. — Justitiarum vocatis ad se quatuor vel sex, vel pluribus de Majoribus comitatus, qui dicuntur Busones Comitatus. & ad quorum nutum dependent vota aliorum, &c. Bract. lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 1. Mr. Blount says Busones is used for Barones.

Bussellus, A Bushel; from Buzza, Butta, Butti, a standing Measure: And hence Butticella, Butticellus, Bussellus, a less Measure. Some derive it from the old Fr. Bouss, Leather Containers of Wine; whence comes our Leather Budget and Bottles. Kenner's Gloss.

Busta and Bustus, Busca, and Buscus, &c. The same with Brasica and Brasula.

Bustard, A large Bird of Game, usually found on Downs and Plains, mention'd in the Stat. 25 Hen. 8. c. 11.

Butchers, Are to sell their Meat at reasonable Prices, or shall forfeit double the Value, to be levied by Warrant of two Justices of Peace, &c. And conspiring to sell their Meat at certain Rates; or selling Flesh of Cattle dying of the Murrain, &c. are liable to divers Penalties by Statute 7 Ed. 2. 23 Ed. 3. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. Butchers are not to kill Meat in their Scalding Houses, or within the Walls of London, &c. Nor buy any fat Cattle to sell again, on Pain of forfeiting the Value; but this shall not extend to selling Calves, Lambs, or Sheep dead, from one Butcher to another. Stat. 4 Hen. 7. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. 5 & 7 Ann.

Butt, (Butticum) A Measure of Wine, &c. well known among Merchants, and containing 126 Gallons of Malmsey Wine, by Stat. 1 R. 3. c. 13.

Butter and Cheese. Justices of Peace in Sessions may restrain Retailing Butter and Cheese; which is to be sold in open Shop, and not above a Barrel of Butter or Wey of Cheese at one Time, under Penalties. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. cap. 21. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 22. Every Kilderkin of Butter shall contain 112 Pounds, the Firkin 56, and Pot 14 Pounds of good Butter, besides the Casks and Pots; and old bad Butter shall not be mixed with good, nor shall Butter be repacked for Sale, which incurs Forfeiture of double Value, &c. And Sellers and Packers of Butter shall pack it in good Casks, and set their Names thereon, with the Weight of the Cask and Butter, in Pain of 10 s. Stat. 13 & 14 Car. 2. cap. 26. Butter and Cheese may be transported: Buyers of Butter are to put Marks on Casks; and Persons opening them afterwards, or putting in other Butter, &c. shall forfeit 20 s. 22 Car. 2. cap. 13. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 7.

Buttons, Made of Hair, or other Foreign Buttons, shall not be Imported, on Pain of Forfeiture, &c. Also Buttons are not to be made of Cloth, Stuff, or Wood, under Penalties. Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. 10 W. 3. c. 2. 4 Geo. 1. Vide Taylors.

Butts, The Place where Archers meet with their Bows and Arrows to shoot at a Mark, which we call Shooting at the Butts. Also Butts are the Ends or short Pieces of Land in arable Ridges and Furrows: Buttum terræ, a Butt of Land. — Dedi decem acras & unum Buttum terræ, &c. Cart. M. de Sibbsford, penes Will. Dugdale, Mil. See Abbatales.

Butlerage of Wines, Signifies that Imposition upon Wine brought into the Kingdom, which the King's Butler may take of every Ship, viz. 2 s. for every Ton of Wine imported by Strangers. Rot. Parl. 11 Hen. 4. Anno 1 H. 8. c. 5. See Botiler of the King and Prisage.

Butts, Butts

Bye, Words ending in By or Bee, signify a Dwelling Place or Habitation, from the Sax. Bye.

By-Laws, (Bilagines, from the Goth. By, pagus, and Lagen, Lex) Are Laws made obiter, or by the By; such as Orders and Constitutions of Corporations, for the Governing of their Members; of Courts-Leet, and Court-Baron; Commoners or Inhabitants in Villis, &c. made by Common Assent, for the Good of those that made them, in particular Cases whereunto the publick Law doth not extend; so that they bind farther than the Common or Statute Law: Guilds and Fraternities of Trades, by Letters Patent of Incorporation, may likewise make By-Laws, for the better Regulation of Trade among themselves, or with others. Kitch. 45, 72. 6 Rep. 63. In Scotland those Laws are called Laws of Birlaw or Burlaw; which are made by Neighbours elected by common Consent in the Birlaw Courts, wherein Knowledge is taken of Complaints betwixt Neighbour and Neighbour; which Men so chosen are Judges and Arbitrators, and stiled Birlaw men. And Birlaws, according to Skene, are Leges Rusticorum, Laws made by Husbandmen, or Townships, concerning Neighbourhood amongst them. Skene, pag. 33. The Inhabitants of a Town, without any Custom, may make Ordinances or By-Laws, for repairing of a Church, or Highway, or any such Thing, which is for the general Good of the Publick; and in such Cases, the greater Part shall bind all: Though if it be for their own private Profit, as for the well Ordering of their Common, or the like, they cannot make By-Laws without a Custom to warrant it; and if there be a Custom, the greatest Part shall not bind the Rest in these Cases, unless it be warranted by the Custom. 5 Rep. 63. Every City and Town Corporate hath Power to make By-Laws, for the better Government of the Body Politick. Hob. 211. 5 Mod. 429. But a Corporation cannot make a By-Law to bind Strangers which are not of their Body, or to extend to Places out of the Jurisdiction of the Makers: Nor may By-Laws be made in the Form of Acts of Parliament. 1 Nels. Abr. 411. Also By-Laws may not be made to restrain a Person from setting up his Trade, it being against the Common Law to restrain Men from Trades: A By-Law that no Person who is not a Freeman of a Corporation shall set up a Trade, under a Penalty, hath been adjudged void and against Law; as it excludes those who have served Apprenticeships in the Corporations, who by Law may use Trades. 1 Lutw. 562. By-Laws ought to be for the common Good and Benefit of all those who live in the Place where made; and restraining Men from using Trades, cannot be for common Good, so that such By-Laws have been condemned: But such a By-Law warranted by particular Custom, as that no strange Artificer who is not free of that Place shall use any Art within the same, hath been held good. Nels. Lutw. 175. A Custom that no Foreign Tradesman shall use or exercise a Trade in a Town, &c. will warrant that which a Grant cannot do; and where Custom has restrained, a By-Law may be made that upon Composition Foreigners may exercise a Trade. Cart. 120. A By-Law by a Corporation may inflict a Penalty, recoverable by Distress, or Action of Debt, and be good. 1 Danv. Abr. 738. But 'tis said it cannot be made under a certain Penalty to be levied by Distress, and Sale of the Offender's Goods.

2 Vent. 182. For a By-Law may not be made on Pain of Forfeiture of Goods: Nor may it inflict Imprisonment; being contrary to Magna Charta. 2 Inst. 54. Where By-Laws are good, Notice of them is not necessary, because they are presumed for the better Government and Benefit of all Persons living in those particular Limits where made; and therefore all Persons therein are bound to take Notice of them. 1 Lutw. 404. The Freeholders in a Court-Leet, may make By-Laws relating to the Publick Good, which shall bind every one within the Leet. 2 Danv. 457. And a Court-Baron may make By-Laws, by Custom, and add a Penalty for the Non-performance of them. But all By-Laws are to be reasonable; and ought to be for the common Benefit, and not private Advantage of any particular Persons; and must be consonant to the Publick Laws and Statutes, as subordinate to them. Goldsb. 79. And by Stat. 19 Hen. 7. c. 7. By-Laws made by Corporations are to be approved by the Lord Chancellor, or Chief Justices, if against the Publick Good, &c. on Pain of 40 l. Vide the Statute.

Cabal, (Cabala) A Junto or private Meeting; from a Doctrine or Science practised by the Jews, in fetching out Mysteries from the Numbers that Letters of Words make.

Caballa, (from the Lat. Caballus) Belonging to a Horse. Domesday.

Cablith, (Cablicium) Signifies Brushwood, according to the Writers of the Forest-Laws: But Sir Henry Spelman thinks it more properly Windfall-wood, because it was written of old Cadibulum, from Cadere: Or if derived from the Fr. Chablis, it also must be Windfall wood.—Item dicunt, quod Ceppeg & Cablicia vento prostrat. valenc. &c. Inq. de an. 47 H. 3.

Domus de Farendon MS.* fol. 23.—And in Thorn, Cacherellos are mentioned, viz. Senecballus & Custodes nostri diligenter inquirant de Injuris per Cacherellos Vicecomitis, &c.

Cade, Of Herrings is 500, of Sprats 1000. Book of Rates, fol. 45. But it is said, that anciently 600 made the Cade of Herrings, and six Score to the Hundred, which is called Magnum Centum.

Cadet, The younger Son of a Gentleman; particularly applied to a Voluntier in the Army, waiting for some Post.

Carp Gildum, The Restring Goods or Cattle. Blount. See Ceapgild.

Cagia, A Cage or Coop for Birds.—Mandatum est Vicecom. Wilts. quod emat in Baliva sua 300 Gallinas, &c. cum Cagiis, in quibus eadem Galline poni possunt. Ex. Rot. Claus. 38 H. 3.

Calamus, A Cane, Reed, or Quill; comprised among Merchandise or Drugs to be garbled. 1 Jac. 1. cap. 19.

Calangium and Calangia, A Challenge, Claim, or Dispute.—Sciant quod Ego Godfridus, &c. Dedi, &c. Sine aliqua reclamacione seu Calangio, &c. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. fol. 252.

Calcetum, Calcea, A Causey or common hard Way, maintained and repaired with Stones and Rubbish, from the Lat. Calx, Chalk, Fr. Chaux, whence their Chaussee and our Causeway, or Path railed with Earth, and and paved with Chalk-stones, or Gravel. Calcarnum operationes were the Work and Labour done by the adjoining Tenants: And Calcagium was the Tax or Contribution paid by the neighbouring Inhabitants towards the Making and Repairing such common Roads; from which some Persons were especially exempted by Royal Charter. Kennet's Gloss.

Calcagium, A Word signifying a Right to take Fuel yearly.—Confirmamus panagium, Herbogium & Calcagium in Foresta nostra. Blount.

Calends, (Calenda) Among the Romans was the first Day of every Month, being spoken of it by it self, or the very Day of the New Moon, which usually happen together: And if Pridie, the Day before, be added to it, then it is the last Day of the foregoing Month; as Pridie Calend. Septemb. is the last Day of August. If any Number be placed with it, it signifies that Day in the former Month, which comes so much before the Month named; as the tenth Calends of October is the 20th Day of September; for if one reckons backwards, beginning at October, that 20th Day of September, makes the 10th Day before October. In March, May, July, and October, the Calends begin at the sixteenth Day, but in other Months at the Fourteenth; which Calends must ever bear the Name of the Month following, and be numbered backwards from the first Day of the said following Months. Hopton's Concord. p. 69. In the Dates of Deeds, the Day of the Month, by Nones, Ides, or Calends, is sufficient. 2 Inst. 675. See Ides.

The Wearer excused on discovering and giving sufficient Proof against the Vender, if sold after the 24th of June, 1748. The Importation of Cambricks and French Lawns prohibited but on Security of exporting them within three Years.

Cambridge. The Statute 14 Hen. 8. cap. 2. to restrain Alien Artificers, and requiring more of them than Denizens, is not to be extended to Strangers dwelling in Cambridge. See Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 16.

Camera, From the old Germ. Cam, Cammer, crooked; whence comes our English Kembo, Arms in Kembo. But Camera at first signified any Winding or crooked Plat of Ground; as anam Cameram terra, i. e. A Nook of Land. Du Fresne. Afterwards the Word was applied to any vaulted or arched Building; and by Degrees more particularly restrained to an upper Room or Chamber: And it is now often used in the Law, in the Business of a Judge, where Persons are to be brought before him apud Cameram suam ſuat. in Serjeants-Inn, &c. The present Irish use Cama for a Bed. See Kennet's Gloss.

Candles and Chandlers. If any Chandlers mix with their Wares any Thing deceitfully, &c. the Candles shall be forfeited. Stat. 23 Eliz. And a Tax or Duty is granted on Candles, of 4 d. per Pound for those made with Wax, and one Half-penny a Pound for all other Candles, (besides a Duty upon Tallow) by 8 Ann. cap. 9. The Makers of Candles are not to use Melting-Houses without making a true Entry, on Pain of 100 l. and to give Notice of making Candles to the Excise Officer for the Duties, and of the Number, &c. or shall forfeit 50 l. Stat. 11 Geo. 1. cap. 30. See Wax-Chandlers.

Candlemas-Day, The Feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary, being the second Day of February instituted in Memory and Honour of the Purification of the said Virgin in the Temple of Jerusalem, the fortieth Day after her happy Child-birth, according to the Law of Moses, and the Presentation of our blessed Lord. It is called Candlemas, or a Mass of Candles, because before Mas was said that Day, the Church consecrated and set apart for sacred Use, Candles for the whole Year, and made a Procession with hallowed Candles in Remembrance of the Divine Light, wherewith Christ illuminated the whole Church at his Presentation in the Temple, when by old Simon stiled, A Light to lighten the Gentiles, and to be the Glory of his People Israel, St. Luke, cap. 2. ver. 32. This Festival is no Day in Court, for the Judges sit not; and it is the Grand Day in that Term of all the Inns of Court, whereon the Judges usually observe many ancient Ceremonies, and the Societies which seem to vie with each other, have sumptuous Entertainments, accommodated with Musick, and almost all Kinds of Diversions.

Canon, Is a Law or Ordinance of the Church; and the Greek Word Canon, from whence is derived the Canon Law, signifies a Rule, because it leads a Man straight, neither drawing him from one Side or the other, but rather correcting him. The Canon Law consists partly of certain Rules taken out of the Scripture; partly of the Writings of the ancient Fathers of the Church; partly of the Ordinances of General and Provincial Councils; and partly of the Decrees of the Popes in former Ages. And it is contained in two principal Parts, the Decrees and the Decretals: The Decrees are Ecclesiastical Constitutions made by the Pope and Cardinals, and were first gathered by Ivo Bishop of Carnat, who lived about the Year 1114, but afterwards perfected by Gratian, a Benedictine Monk, in the Year 1149, and allowed by Pope Eugenius to be read in Schools, and alledged for Law. They are the most ancient, as having their Beginning from the Time of Constantine the Great, the first Christian Emperor of Rome. The Decretals are Canonical Epistles written by the Pope, or by the Pope and Cardinals, at the Suit of some or more Persons for the Ordering and Determining of some Matter of Controversy, and have the Authority of a Law; and of these there are three Volumes, the first whereof was compiled by Raymundus Barcinus, Chaplain to Gregory the Ninth, and at his Command, about the Year 1231. The second Volume is the Work of Boniface the Eighth, collected in the Year 1298. And the third Volume, called the Clementines, was made by Pope Clement the Fifth, and published by him in the Council of Vienna, about the Year 1308. And to these may be added some novel Constitutions of John the 22d, and some other Bishops of Rome. As the Decrees set out the Origin of the Canon Law, and the Rights, Dignities and Degrees of Ecclesiastical Persons with their Manner of Election, Ordination, &c. So the Decretals contain the Law to be used in the Ecclesiastical Courts; and the first Title in every of them, is the Title of the Blessed Trinity, and of the Catholick Faith, which is followed with Constitutions and Customs, Judgments and Determinations in such Matters and Causes as are liable to Ecclesiastical Cognifance, the Lives and Conversation of the Clergy, of Matrimony and Divorces, Inquisition of criminal Matters, Purgation, Penance, Excommunication, &c. But some of the Titles of the Canon Law are now out of Use, and belong to the Common Law: And others are introduced, such as Trials of Wills, Bastardy, Defamation, &c. Trials of Tithes were anciently in all Cases had by the Ecclesiastical Law; though at this Time this Law only takes Place in some particular Cases. Thus much for the Canon Law in General; and as to the Canon Laws of this Kingdom, by the Statute 25 Hen. 8. c. 19. it is declared, that all Canons not repugnant to the King's Prerogative, nor to the Laws, Statutes, and Customs of the Realm, shall be used and executed. By this Statute, Canons made in Convocation are to be confirmed by the King, and have the Royal Assent: And it has been adjudged that Canons made in Convocation, and confirmed by the King, do bind as firmly in all Ecclesiastical Causes, as Acts of Parliament do in other Cases; for by the Common Law, every Bishop in his Diocese, and each Archbishop in his Province, and the Convocation may make Canons, which shall be binding within their Jurisdictions. The Convocation for the Province of Canterbury was held at London, Anno 1603. in the first Year of the Reign of King James I. by the King's Writ, and they had a Licence under the Great Seal, to consult and agree to such Canons as they should think fit; whereupon they made several Canons concerning the Government of the Church, Religion, the Clergy, &c. which had the Royal Assent, and were ratified and confirmed by that King, for him, his Heirs and Successors, pursuant to the Statute 25 H. 8. which Canons thus warranted by Act of Parliament, are the Laws of the Land to this Day. See my Treatise of Laws, p. 402, &c. 1 Nelf. Abr. 416. The general Canon Law is no further in Force here than it hath been receiv'd, and is consistent with the Common or Statute Law.

Canon Religiosorum, A Book wherein the Religious of Convents had a fair Transcript of the Rules of their Order, which were frequently read among them as their local Statutes; and this Book was therefore called Regula and Canon. The publick Books of the Religious were the four following. 1. Missale, which contained all their Offices of Devotion. 2. Martyrologium, a Register of their peculiar Saints and Martyrs, with the Place and Time of Passion. 3. Canon or Regula, the Institution and Rules of their Order. 4. Necrologium or Obituarium, in which they entered the Deaths of their Founders and Benefactors, to observe the Days of Commemoration of them. Kennel's Gloss.

Canter, (Canellum) Seems to signify the same with what we now call Lump, as to buy by Measure, or by the Lump: But according to Blount it is that which is added above Measure.—Nullum genus bladi vendatur per cumulum seu Cantellum, præter Avenam, Brahum & farinam. Stat. de Pistor. cap. 9. Also a Piece of any Thing, as a Canter of Bread, and the like.

Cantered, (Canteredus) A British Word from Cant, or Cantré, which in the British Tongue signifies Centum, and Tret, a Town or Village, is in Wales an hundred Villages: For the Welsh divide their Counties into *Cantered*s, as the English do into Hundreds. This Word is used 28 H. 8. c. 3.

Capacity, (Capacitas) An Ability, or Fitness to receive: And in Law it is where a Man or Body Politick, is able to give or take Lands, or other Things, or to sue Actions. Our Law allows the King two Capacities, a Natural and a Politic: In the First, he may purchase Lands to him and his Heirs; in the latter, to him and his Successors. An Alien born hath sufficient Capacity to sue in any Personal Actions, and is capable of Personal Estate; but he is not capable of Lands of Inheritance; and in a Real Action, it is a good Plea of the Defendant to say, the Plaintiff is an Alien born, and pray if he shall be answered. Dyer 3. Persons attainted of Treason or Felony, Ideots, Lunaticks, Infants, Feme Coverts without their Husbands, &c. are not capable to make any Deed of Gift, Grant, or Conveyance, unless it be in some special Cases. But all other Persons, void of Impediments, are capable of making Grants and Conveyances, and to sue and be sued, being twenty-one Years of Age; and at fourteen, their Age of Discretion, they are capable by Law to marry, be a Witness, &c. 1 Inst. 171, 172.

Cape, (Lat.) Is a Writ judicial, touching Plea of Lands or Tenements; so termed, as most Writs are, of that Word in it, which carries the chief Intention or End thereof: And this Writ is divided into Cape Magnum and Cape Parvum, both of which take hold of Things immoveable.

Cape Magnum, or the Grand Cape, Is a Writ that lies before Appearance, to summon the Tenant to answer swer the Default, and also over to the Demandant: And in the Old Nat. Brev. it is defined to be, where a Man hath brought a Præcipe quod reddat of a Thing touching Plea of Land, and the Tenant makes Default at the Day to him given in the Original Writ, then this Writ shall go for the King to take the Land into his Hands; and if the Tenant come not at the Day given him thereby, he loseth his Land, &c. See Reg. Jud. fol. 1. Brañ. lib. 3. trañ. 3. c. 1.

Capē Hartum, or Petit Cape, Is where the Tenant is summoned in Plea of Land, and comes on the Summons, and his Appearance is recorded; if at the Day given him he prays the View, and having it granted, makes Default; then shall issue this Writ for the King, &c. Old Nat. Brev. 162. The Difference between the Grand Cape and Petit Cape is, that the Grand Cape is awarded upon the Tenant's not appearing or demanding the View in such Real Actions, where the Original Writ does not mention the Particulars demanded; and the Petit Cape is after Appearance or View granted: And whereas the Grand Cape summons the Tenant to answer for the Default, and likewise over to the Demandant; Petit Cape summons the Tenant to answer the Default only: And therefore it is called Petit Cape; though some say it hath its Name, not because it is of small Force, but by Reason it consists of few Words. Reg. Jud. fol. 2. Fleta, lib. 2. c. 44.

Capē ad Valentiam, This is a Species of Cape Magnum, and is where I am impleaded of Lands, and vouch to warrant another, against whom the Summons ad Warrantizandum hath been awarded, and he comes not at the Day given; then if the Demandant recover against me, I shall have this Writ against the Vouchee, and recover so much in Value of the Lands of the Vouchee, if he hath so much; if not, I shall have Execution of such Lands and Tenements as shall after descend to him in Fee; or if he purchases afterwards, I shall have against him a Refummons, &c. And this Writ lies before Appearance. Old Nat. Br. 161.

Capella, Before the Word Chapel was restrain'd to an Oratory, or depending Place of Divine Worship, it was used for any Sort of Chest, Cabinet, or other Repository of precious Things, especially of Religious Reliques. Kennet's Parcb. Antiq. p. 580.

Capellus, A Cap, Bonnet, or other Covering for the Head.—Capite discooperto, sine Capello, cum una Garlanda de Latitudine, &c. Tenures, p. 32.—Capellus ferreus, an Helmet, or Iron Head-piece, Quicumque laicus habuerit in Catallis ad Valentiam decem Mercatorum habeat Halbergellum & Capellum ferri & lanceam. Hoveden, pag. 61.—Capellus Militis is likewise an Helmet or military Head-piece. Consuetud. Demus de Farendon, MS. fol. 21.

Capias, Is a Writ or Process of two Sorts; one whereof is called Capias ad Respondendum, before Judgment, where an Original is sued out, &c. to take the Defendant and make him answer the Plaintiff: And the other a Writ of Execution, after Judgment, being of divers Kinds, as Capias ad satisfaciendum, Capias Utlagatum, &c. The Capias ad Respondendum in C. B. is drawn from the Præcipe, which serves both for the Original and Capias, and the Return of the Original is the Teste of the Capias. If a Capias be special, in Debt, Covenant, &c. the Cause of Action must be recited at large, and you are to set forth the Substance of your intended Declaration, as you are also in your Original. The usual Course is to take out the Capias, and sue out the Original after, although it is supposed to be sued out before, because the Original cannot be so speedily sued out at all Times: And where the Cause of Action is for Debt, and requires Bail, the best Way is to make out an Ac etiam Capias, the Original to which is only a bare Clausum fregit; and when you come to Judgment, you may file a new Original to warrant such Judgment. If a Capias be special, by Præcipe quod reddat, &c. And there is any Mistake in the Name, Alias dictus, or Sum, it may be pleaded in Abatement, and a new Original afterwards will not cure it; but you are forced to discontinue your Action, paying Costs, and to begin de novo. There may be an Alias and a Pluries Capias, bearing Teste from the Return of each other, if the Defendant be not taken on the first Writ. See Pract. Solic. p. 290.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of S. Greeting: We command you, that you take C. D. late of, &c. So that you have his Body before our Justices at Westminster on the Octaves of St. Hillary, to answer to A. B. Gent. of a Plea, &c. To the Damage of him A. 50l. And have you there then this Writ. Witness, &c.

The Words Sicut Alias, and Sicut Pluries, distinguish the Alias and Pluries from the Capias.

Capias ad Satisfaciendum, A judicial Writ which issues out of the Record of a Judgment, where there is a Recovery in the Courts at Westminster, of Debt, Damages, &c. And by this Writ the Sheriff is commanded to take the Body of the Defendant in Execution, and him safely to keep, so that he hath his Body in Court at the Return of the Writ, to satisfy the Plaintiff his Debt and Damages. And it is said the Sheriff cannot upon this Writ take the Money, and discharge the Prisoner; because the Writ is Quod Habeas Corpus ejus die, &c. coram Domino Rege apud Westm. ad satisfaciendum the Plaintiff, &c. 1 Lill. Abr. 249. It is usual to take out this Writ, where the Defendant hath no Lands nor Goods, whereof the Debt recovered may be levied: And when the Body is taken upon a Ca. sa. and the Writ is returned and filed, it is an absolute and perfect Execution against the Defendant, and no other Execution can be against his Lands and Goods. But this is unless the Defendant escape, or die in Execution, &c. for where a Person dies in Execution, his Lands and Goods are liable to satisfy the Judgment, by Statute 21 Jac. 1. c. 24. See Roll. Abr. 904. In Case two Persons are bound jointly and severally, and prosecuted in two Courts, whereupon the Plaintiff hath Judgment and Execution by Cap. ad satisfaciendum against one of them; if he after have an Elegit against the other, and his Lands and Goods are delivered upon it, then he that is in Prison shall have Audita Querela. Hob. 2. 57. Where one taken on a Cap. ad satisfaciendum escapes from the Sheriff, and no Return is made of the Writ, nor any Record of the Award of the Capias; the Plaintiff may bring a Scire fac. against him, and on that what Execution he will. Roll. 904. And if the Defendant rescue himself, the Plaintiff shall have a new Capias, the first Writ not being returned. Ibid. 901. A Defendant being brought into Court by Virtue of a Cap. ad satisfaciendum, the Plaintiff was asked, whether he would pray that the Prisoner might be committed? who answered he would not; because the Party was not able to pay, and had escaped from the Sheriff, against whom he intended to bring his Action; Therefore the Defendant was discharged. 1 And. ca. 166. A Capias ad Satisfaciendum lieth not against a Peer; nor against Executors or Administrators, but where a Devastavit is returned by the Sheriff, &c. 1 Lill. 250. If the Defendant cannot be taken upon a Capias in the County where the Action is laid, there may issue a Testatum Ca. sa. into another County; and so of the other Writs.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of W. Greeting. We command you, that you take A. B. if he shall be found in your Bailiwick, and safely keep him, so that you have his Body before us at Westminster on this Day, &c. to make Satisfaction to C. D. of a Debt of thirty Pounds, which the said C. D. lately recovered against him in our Court, before us; and also for Forty Shillings, which in our said Court before us, were awarded to the said C. D. for his Damages which he hath sustained, as well by Occasion of the detaining the said Debt, as for his Expences and Costs laid out by him in and about his Suit, in that behalf: Wherefore the said A. B. is convicted, as appears to us of Record. And have you then there this Writ. Witnesses, &c.

Capias Utlagatum, Is a Writ that lies against a Person who is outlawed in any Action, by which the Sheriff apprehends the Party outlawed, for not appearing upon the Exigent, and keeps him in safe Custody till the Day of Return, and then presents him to the Court, there to be ordered for his Contempt; who, in the Common Pleas, was in former Times to be committed to the Fleet, there to remain till he had sued out the King's Pardon, and appeared to the Action. And by a special Capias Utlagatum in the same Writ, the Sheriff is commanded, and may seize all the Defendant's Lands, Goods and Chattels, for the Contempt to the King; and the Plaintiff, (after an Inquisition taken thereupon, and returned into the Exchequer) may have the Lands extended, and a Grant of the Goods, &c. whereby to compel the Defendant to appear; which when he shall do, if he reverse the Outlawry, the same shall be restored to him. Old Nat. B. R. 154. A Defendant may appear in Person, and reverse an Outlawry: And in B. R. one may appear by Attorney, &c. Also when a Person is taken upon a Capias Utlagatum, the Sheriff is to take an Attorney's Engagement to appear for him, where Special Bail is not required; and his Bond with Sureties to appear, where 'tis required. Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 18. This Writ is either general, against the Body; or, as I have before observed, it is Special, against the Body, Lands and Goods. See Outlawry.

Form of a Capias Utlagatum.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of S. Greeting: We command you, That you omit not, by Reason of any Liberty within your County, but that you take C. D. late of, &c. Outlawed in London the Day, &c. last past, at the Suit of A. B. in a Plea of Trespass on the Case, if he shall be found in your Bailiwick, and him safely keep, so that you have his Body before us, on the Day, &c. wherefore we shall be than in England; so do and receive that which our Court before us shall consider of in this Case: And have you there this Writ. Witnesses, &c.

Capias pro Fine, Is where one, who is fined to the King for some Offence committed against a Statute, does not discharge the Fine according to the Judgment: Whereupon his Body is to be taken by this Writ, and committed to Prison until he pay the Fine. It is used in other Cases, for not making out some Pleas in Civil Actions. 3 Rep. 12. By the Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. Capiatur Fines are taken away in several Cases. See Fines for Offences.

Capias in Withernam, A Writ lying for Cattle in Withernam; which is, where a Distress taken is driven out of the County, so that the Sheriff cannot make Deliverance in Replevin, when this Writ issues to the Sheriff to take as many Beasts of the Distrainer, &c. Reg. Orig. 82, 83. Vide Withernam.

Capitale, Signifies a Thing which is stolen, or the Value of it. Leg. H. 1. cap. 59.

Capitate vivens, Hath been used for live Cattle.—Reddam de meo proprio d. cimas Deo, tam in Vivente Capitali, quam in mortuis fructibus terrarum. Leg. Athelstan.

Capite, (from Caput, i. e. Rex, unde tenore in Capite, est Tenere de Rege, omnium terrarum Capite). An ancient Tenure, whereby a Man holds Lands of the King immediately as of his Crown, whether by Knight's Service, or in Socage. This Tenure was likewise called, Tenure holding of the Person of the King: And a Person might hold of the King, and not in Capite; that is, not immediately of the Crown, but by Means of some Honour, Castle, or Manor belonging to it. According to Kitchin, one might hold Land of the King by Knights Service, and not in Capite; because it might be held of some Honour in the King's Hands, descended to him from his Ancestors, and not immediately of the King, as of his Crown. Kitch. 129. Dyer 44. F. N. B. 5. The very ancient Tenure in Capite, was of two Sorts; the one Principal and General, and the other Special or Subaltern; the Principal and General was of the King as Caput Regni, & Caput Generalissimum omnium Feodorum, the Fountain whence all Feuds and Tenures have their main Original: The Special was of a particular Subject, as Caput Feudi, seu terræ illius, so called from his being the first that granted the Land in such Manner of Tenure; from whence he was stiled Capitalis Dominus, &c. But Tenure in Capite is now abolished; and by Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24. All Tenures are turned into free and common Socage: So that Tenures hereafter to be created by the King are to be in common Socage only; and not by Capite, Knight's Service, &c. Blount.

Capitulum, A Word used to signify what we now call Poll-Money.

Capitulum, A Covering for the Head. 'Tis mentioned in the Statute 1 Hen. 4. and other old Statutes, which prescribe what Dresses shall be wore by all Degrees of Persons.

Capituli Agræ, The Head lands, Lands that lie at the Head or upper End of the Lands or Furrows.—Canonici (Burcester) concesserunt hominibus de Wrechwike duas acras patri pro Capitibus suarum crostarum tenus Rivulum versus Molendinum, &c. Kenet's Paroch. Antiq. p. 137.

Capitula Ruralia, Assemblies or Chapters held by Rural Deans and Parochial Clergy within the Precinct of every distinct Deanery; which at first were every three Weeks, afterwards once a Month, and more solemnly once a Quarter. Cowel.

Caption, (Captio) Is when a Commission is executed, the Commissioners subscribe their Names to a Certificate, declaring when and where the Commission was executed; which in Law is called a Caption. And these Captions relate chiefly to Business of three Kinds, i. e. to Commissions to take Fines of Lands, to take Answers in Chancery, and Depositions of Witnesses: On the Taking of a Fine it is thus: Capt. & Cogn. die & anno, &c. apud, &c. And on the Back, Executio istius Comm. patet in quadam Schedul. eidem Comm. Annex. On the Taking of an Answer in Chancery, the Caption is at Bottom as follows: Capt. fuit hæc Respons. Super sacram. supra-nominat. Def. Willielmi B. die & anno, &c. apud, &c. coram nobis, &c. And on the Back of the Commission, Executio istius Com. &c. On the Taking Depositions of Witnesses, only the Execution on the Back is indorsed, as Executio istius Com. in quad. Schedul. &c. The Caption being included in the Title of the Depositions. Sometimes it is usual to add to the Caption, Virtut. Commi'con. Dom. Regis nobis & al. directi, directi, &c. These Captions and the Executions of the Commissions must be now in Englisch, by the late Statute, 4 Geo. 2.

Captain, (Capitaneus) One that leadeth or hath the Command of a Company of Soldiers: And is either General, as he that hath the Governance of the whole Army: Or Special, he that leads but one Band. — There is also another Sort of Captains, Qui Urbium praesidi sunt, &c. Blount.

Captives, An Act was made for Relief of Captives taken by Turkish, Moorish, and other Pirates, and to prevent Taking of others in Time to come. Stat. 16 & 17 Car. 2. c. 24.

Capture, (Captura) The Taking of a Prey, an Arrest, or Seizure: And it particularly relates to Prizes taken by Privateers, in Time of War, which are to be divided between the Captors, &c. Stat. 14 Car. 2. c. 14. and 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 25.

Caput Baroniz, Is the Castle or Chief Seat of a Nobleman; which descends to the eldest Daughter, if there be no Son, and must not be divided among the Daughters like unto Lands, &c.

Caput Anni, New Year's Day, upon which of old was observed the Festum Stultorum.

Caput Jejunii, In our Records is used for Abstinence, being the Head, or first Day of the Beginning of the Lent Fast. Paroch. Antiq. p. 132.

Caput loci, The Head or upper End of any Place; ad Caput Villæ, at the End of the Town.

Galli conducebant classem magnarum navium Carricarium, &c. qua Regnum Angliæ molestarent.*

Carrier, (Gestator) Is a Person that carries Goods for others, for his Hire: And Justices of Peace have Power to assess the Price of Carriage of Goods yearly at their Easter Sessions, and if any Carrier shall take above the Rates and Prices so assess'd, he shall forfeit 5 l. Stat. 3 & 4 W. & M. cap. 12. A common Carrier having the Charge and Carriage of Goods, is to answer for the same, or the Value to the Owner. Co. Litt. 78. And where Goods are delivered to a Carrier, and he is robbed of them, he shall be charged, and answer for them, because of the Hire. 1 Roll. Abr. 338. One brought a Box to a Carrier, in which there was a large Sum of Money, and the Carrier demanding of the Owner what was in it, he answered, it was filled with Silks, and such like Goods, upon which the Carrier took it, and was robbed; and adjudged, that the Carrier was liable to make it good: But a special Acceptance, as provided there is no Charge of Money, would have excused the Carrier. 1 Vent. 238. 4 Rep. 83. A Person delivered to a Carrier's Book keeper two Bags of Money sealed up, to be carried from London to Exeter, and told him that it was 200 l. and took his Receipt for the same, with Promise of Delivery for 10 s. per Cent. Carriage and Risque: Though it be proved that there was 400 l. in the Bags, if the Carrier be robbed he shall answer only for 200 l. because there was a particular Undertaking for the Carriage of that Sum and no more, and his Reward which makes him answerable, extends no farther. Carters's Rep. 486. If a common Carrier loses Goods he is intrusted to carry, a Special Action on the Case lies against him, on the Custom of the Realm; and not Trover: And so of a common Carrier by Boat. 1 Roll. Abr. 6. An Action will lie against a Porter, Carrier or Bargeman, upon his bare Receipt of the Goods, if they are lost by Negligence. 1 Sid. 36. Also a Ligherman spoiling Goods he is to carry, by letting Water come to them, Action of the Case lies against him on the common Custom. Palm. 528. If one be not a common Carrier, and takes Hire, he may be charged on a special Assumpsit; for where Hire is taken, a Promise is implied. Cro. Jac. 262. A common Carrier may have Action of Trover or Trespass for Goods taken out of his Possession by a Stranger; he having a Special Property in the Goods, and being liable to make Satisfaction for them to the Owner: And

And where Goods are stolen from a Carrier, he may bring an Indictment against the Felon as for his own Goods, though he has only the Possessory, and not the absolute Property; and the Owner may likewise prefer an Indictment against the Felon. Kel. 39. If a Carrier be robbed of Goods, also either he or the Owner may bring an Action against the Hundred, to make it good. 2 Saund. 380. Where a Carrier entrusted with Goods, opens the Pack, and takes away and disposes of Part of the Goods, this shewing an Intent of Stealing them, will make him guilty of Felony. H. P. C. 61. And it is the same if the Carrier receives Goods to carry them to a certain Place, and carrieth them to some other Place, and not to the Place agreed. 3 Inst. 367. If a Carrier after he hath brought Goods to the Place appointed, take them away privately, he is guilty of Felony; for the Possession which he received from the Owner being determined, his second Taking is in all Respects the same as if he were a meer Stranger. 1 Hawuk. P. C. 90. See Larceny, &c. By the Stat. 3 W. & M. c. 12. The Justices are to assess the Price of Land Carriage of Goods to be brought into any Place within their Jurisdiction, by any common Carrier, who is not to take more under the Penalty of 5 l. And by the Stat. 21 Geo. 2. c. 28. A Carrier is not to take more for carrying Goods from any Place to London, than is settled by the Justices for the carrying Goods from London to such Place, under the same Penalty. And Carriers and Waggoners are to write or paint on their Waggon or Carts their Names and Places of Abode.

Carts. By the Stat. 2 W. & M. Stat. 2. c. 8. §. 19. & 18 Geo. 2. c. 33. The Wheels of every Cart or Dray for the Carriage of any Thing from and to any Place where the Streets are paved, within the Bills of Mortality, &c. shall contain six Inches in the Felly, not be shod with Iron, nor be drawn with above two Horses, under the Penalty of 40 s. By the Stat. 18 Geo. 2. c. 33. They may be drawn with three Horses and not more, and the Wheels being of six Inches Breadth, when worn may be shod with Iron, if the Iron be of the full Breadth of six Inches, made flat, and not set on with rose-headed Nails: And no Person shall drive any Cart, &c. within the Limits aforesaid, unless the Name of the Owner and Number of such Cart, &c. be placed in some conspicuous Place of the Cart, &c. and his Name be entered with the Commissioners of Hackney Coaches, under the Penalty of 40 s. and every Person may seize and detain such Cart till the Penalty be paid. By the Stat. 1 Geo. 1. c. 57. The Driver of any such Cart, &c. riding upon such Cart, &c. not having a Person on foot to guide the same, shall forfeit 10 s. And by the Stat. 6 Geo. 1. c. 6. In London, or within ten Miles, no Person shall carry in any Waggon or Cart, having the Wheels shod with Iron, more than twelve Sacks of Meal, containing five Bushels each, nor more than twelve Quarters of Malt, or seven Hundred and an half of Bricks, nor one Chaldron of Coals, under Penalty of forfeiting one of the Horses to any Person who shall seize the same, in manner as by Stat. 5 Geo. 1. c. 12. See Waggoners.

Caruca, (Fr. Charrue) A Plough; from the old Gallic Carr, which is the present Irish Word for any Sort of wheel'd Carriage: Hence Charl, and Carl, a Ploughman or Rustick. Vide Karle.

Carucage, (Carucagium) Is a Tribute imposed on every Plough, for the Publick Service: And as Hidage was a Taxation by Hides, so Carucage was by Carucates of Land. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. f. 294.

Carucate, or Carve of Land, (Carucata Terra) A Plough-Land; which in a Deed of Thomas de Arden, 19 Edw. 2. is declared to be One hundred Acres, by which the Subjects have sometimes been taxed; whereupon the Tribute so levied was called Carvagium, or Carucagium. Brañ. lib. 2. cap. 26. But Skene says, it is as great a Portion of Land as may be tilled in a Year and a Day by one Plough; which also is called Hilda, or Hida terræ, a Word used in the old British Laws. And now by Statute 7 & 8 W. 3. a Plough-Land, which may contain Houses, Mills, Pasture, Meadow, Wood, &c. is 50 l. per Annum. Littleton, in his Chapter of Tenure in Socage, saith, that Soca idem est quod Carucata, a Soke or Plough-Land are all one. Stow says, King Hen. 3. took Carvage, that is, two Marks of Silver of every Knight's Fee, towards the Marriage of his Sister Isabella to the Emperor. Stow's Annals, pag. 271. And Rastal, in his Exposition of Words, tells us, Carvage is to be quit, if the King shall tax all the Lands by Carves; that is, a Privilege whereby a Man is exempted from Carvage. The Word Carve is mentioned in the Stat. 28 Ed. 1. of Wards and Reliefs, and in Magna Charta, c. 5. And Anno 1200. Facta est Pax inter Johannem Regem Angliæ & P. Regem Franciæ, &c. Et mutuavit Regi Franciæ 30 Millia Marcarum, pro quibus collectum est Carvagium in Angliæ scil. 111 s. pro quolibet aratro. Ex Reg. Priorat. de Dunttable in Bibl. Cotton. See Co. Litt. 69. and Kennet's Gloss.

Castel, or Castle, (Castellum) Is well known to be a Fortres in a Town; and with us is a Principal Mansion of a Nobleman. In the Time of H. 2. there were in England 1115 Castles; and every Castle contained a Manor: But during the Civil Wars in this Kingdom, these Castles were demolished, so that there is generally only the Ruins or Remains of them at this Day. 2 Inst. 31.

Castellain, (Castellanus) The Lord Owner or Captain of a Castle, and sometimes the Constable of a fortified House. Brañ. lib. 5. tract. 2. c. 16. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 7. It hath likewise been taken for him that hath the Custody of one of the King's Mansion-Houses, called by the Lombards Curtes, in English Courts; though they are not Castles or Places of Defence. 2 Inst. 31. And Marrwood in his Forest Lawes, says there is an Officer of the Forest called Castellanus.

Castellarium, Castellaris, The Precinct or Jurisdiction of a Castle.—Et unum Toftum juxta Castellarium. Mon. Ang. Tom. 2. f. 402.

Castellorum Operatio, Castle-work, or Service and Labour done by inferior Tenants, for the Building and Upholding of Castles of Defence; toward which some gave their personal Assistance, and others paid their Contribution. This was one of the three necessary Charges, to which all Lands among our Saxon Ancestors were expressly subject—Liberi ab omni servitio, excepta trimoda necessitate; Pontis, &c. Arcis constructione, & expeditione contra hostem—And after the Conquest an Immunity from this Burden was sometimes granted: As King Hen. 2. granted to the Tenants within the Honour of Wallingford—Ut sint quieti quieti de Operationibus Castellorum. Paroch. Antiq. pag. 114. It was unlawful to build any Castle without Leave of the King, which was called Castellatio: Hæc mittant hominem in Misericordia Regis, viz. Infractio pacis, Infidelitas & proditio, despectus de eo, Castellatio sine Licentia. Du Fresne.

Castle-ward, (Castelgardum, vel Wardum Castris) An Imposition laid upon such Persons as dwell within a certain Compass of any Castle, towards the Maintenance of such a Watch and Ward the Castle. Magn. Chart. cap. 20. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 48. It is sometimes used for the Circuit itself, which is inhabited by those that are subject to this Service. Castle-guard Rents were paid by Persons dwelling within the Liberty of any Castle, for the Maintaining of Watch and Ward in the same. Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2.

Caſter, and Cheſter: The Names of Places ending in these Words, are derived from the Lat. Caſtrum; for this Termination at the End, was given by the Romans to those Places where they built Castles.

Casu Conſimili, Is a Writ of Entry, granted where Tenant by the Curtesy, or Tenant for Life, aliens in Fee or in Tail, or for another's Life; And is brought by him in Reversion against the Party to whom such Tenant so aliens to his Prejudice, and in the Tenant's Life-time. It takes its Name from this; that the Clerks of the Chancery did, by their common Assent, frame it to the Likeneſs of the Writ called In caſu Proviſo, according to the Authority given them by the Stat. Westminster. 2. cap. 24. which Statute, as often as there happens a new Caſe in Chancery something like a former, yet not specially fitted by any Writ, authorizes them to frame a new Form answerable to the new Caſe, and as like the former as they may. 7 Rep. 4. See Fitz. Nat. Br. fol. 206.

Casu Proviſo, A Writ of Entry given by the Statute of Gloucester, cap. 7. where a Tenant in Dower aliens in Fee, or for Life, &c. and lies for him in Reversion against the Alienee. Fitz. N. B. 205. This Writ and the Writ of Casu Conſimili ſuppoſes the Tenant to have aliened in Fee, though it be for Life only: And a Casu Proviſo may be without making any Title in it, where a Lease is made by the Demandant himself to the Tenant that doth alien; but if an Ancestor lease for Life, and the Tenant alien in Fee, &c. the Heir in Reversion must have this Writ with the Title included therein. F. N. B. 206, 207.

Caurſines, (Caurſini) Were Italians that came into England about the Year 1235, terming themſelves the Pope's Merchants, but driving no other Trade than letting out Money; and having great Banks in England, they differed little from Jews, ſave (as Hiſtory ſay:) that they were rather more mercileſs to their Debtors. Some will have them called Caurſines, quasi, Cauſa urſini, bearish and cruel in their Cauſes; others Caurſini, or Corſini, as coming from the Iſle of Corſica: But Cowel ſays, they have their Name from Caorſum, Caorſi, Caorsi, a Town in Lombardy, where they first practised their Arts of Usury and Extortion; from whence spreading themselves, they carried their cursed Trade through most Parts of Europe, and were a common Plague to every Nation where they came. The then Bishop of London excommunicated them: And King Hen. 3. banished them from this Kingdom in the Year 1240. But being the Pope's Solicitors and Money Changers, they were permitted to return in the Year 1250; though in a very short Time after, they were driven out of the Kingdom again for their intollerable Exactions. Matt. Paris. p. 403.

Causa Matrimonii prælocuti, Is a Writ which lies where a Woman gives Land to a Man in Fee-simple, &c. to the Intent he shall marry her, and he refuseth to do it in any reasonable Time, being thereunto required. Reg. Orig. 66. If a Woman makes a Feoffment to a Stranger of Land in Fee, to the Intent to enfeoff her, and one who shall be her Husband; if the Marriage shall not take Effect, she shall have the Writ of Causa Matrimonii prælocuti against the Stranger, notwithstanding the Deed of Feoffment be absolute. New Nat. Br. 455. A Woman enfeoffed a Man upon Condition that he should take her to Wife, and he had a Wife at the Time of the Feoffment; and afterwards the Woman for not performing the Condition, entered again into the Land, and her Entry was adjudged lawful, though upon a second Feoffment. Lib. Aff. Anno 40 Ed. 3. The Husband and Wife may sue the Writ Causa Matrimonii prælocuti against another who ought to have married her: But if a Man give Lands to a Woman to the Intent to marry him, although the Woman will not marry him, &c. he shall not have his Remedy by Writ Causa Matrimonii prælocuti. New Nat. Br. 455.

Causæ and Effects. In most Cases the Law hath Respect to the Cause, or Beginning of a Thing, as the principal Part on which all other Things are founded: And herein the next, and not the remote Cause is most looked upon, except it be in Covinous and Criminal Things: And therefore that which is not good at first, will not be so afterwards; for such as is the Cause, such is the Effect. Plowd. 208, 268. If an Infant or Feme Covert make a Will, and publish it, and after die of full Age, or Sole, the Will is of no Force, by Reason of the original Cause of Infancy and Coverture. Finch 12. A Lord distrains his Tenant for Rent before due, the Tenant may justify to make Rescous, the Lord having no just Cause to distrain. Co. Litt. 106. And if a Man acknowledge a Statute by Dares, &c. he may have an Audita Querela to avoid it. Fitz. Abr. 104. Where the Cause ceaseth, the Effect or Thing will cease: As Wedlock or Matrimony ceasing, the Dower ceases, &c. 1 Co. Inst. 13.

Cautione admittenda, Is a Writ that lies against a Bishop, who holds an excommunicated Person in Prison for Contempt, notwithstanding he offers sufficient Caution or Security to obey the Orders and Commandment of Holy Church for the Future. Reg. Orig. 66. And if a Man be excommunicated, and taken by a Writ Significavit, and after offers Caution to the Bishop to obey the Church, and the Bishop refuseth it; the Party may sue out this Writ to the Sheriff to go against the Bishop, and to warn him to take Caution, &c. But if he stand in Doubt whether the Sheriff will deliver him by that Writ, the Bishop may purchase another Writ, directed to the Sheriff reciting the Case, and in the End thereof; Tibi præcipimus, quod ipsum A. B. a Prisona prædictæ.

nisi in præsentia tua cautionem pignorat. ad minus eidem Episc. de satisfaciend. obtulerit, nullatenus deliberes absque mandato nostro, seu ipsius Episcopi in hac parte speciali, &c. When the Bishop hath taken Caution, he is to certify the same into the Chancery, and thereupon the Party shall have a Writ unto the Sheriff to deliver him. New Nat. Br. 142.

Cæpplide, A Word derived from the Sax. Cæp, signifying Pecus, Cattle; and Gild, i. e. solutio; and hence it is solutio Pecudis: From this Saxon Word Gild, 'tis very probable we have our English Word Yield; as Yield, or Pay. Corwel.

Censure, A Custom called by this Name (from the Lat. Census, which has been expounded to be a Kind of personal Money, paid for every Poll) observed in divers Manors in Cornwall and Devon, where all Persons residing therein above the Age of sixteen are cited to swear Fealty to the Lord, and to pay 11 d. per Poll, and 1 d. per Ann. ever after; and these thus sworn are called Censers.—Item erat quedam Custuma quæ vocatur Censure proveniens de illis qui manent in Burgo de Lestreythiel. Survey of the Dutchy of Cornwall.

Centenarii, Were petty Judges under Sheriffs of Counties, that had Rule of an Hundred, and judged smaller Matters among them. 1 Vent. 211.

Cept Coppus, Is a Return made by the Sheriff, upon a Capias, or other Process to the like Purpose, that he hath taken the Body of the Party. F. N. B. 26.

Cæppagium, The Stumps or Roots of Trees which remain in the Ground after the Trees are felled.—Qui forestarii ceperint coopertiones, Cæppagia & Eschaestas quercuum sive aliarum arborum, &c. Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 41.

Ceragium, Cerage, a Payment to find Candles in the Church. Matt. Paris. See Waxscot.

Certainty, Is a plain, clear and distinct setting down of Things, so that they may be understood. 5 Rep. 121. A convenient Certainty is required in Writs, Declarations, Pleadings, &c. But if a Writ abate for want of it, the Plaintiff may have another Writ: 'Tis otherwise if a Deed become void by In-certainty, the Party may not have a new Deed at his Pleasure. 11 Rep. 25, 121. Dyer 84. That has Certainty enough, that may be made certain; but not like what is certain of itself. 4 Rep. 97. See Uncertainty.

Certificando de recognitione Stapulæ, Is a Writ commanding the Mayor of the Staple to certify to the Lord Chancellor a Statute Staple taken before him, where the Party himself detains it, and refuseth to bring in the same. Reg. Orig. 152. There is the like Writ to certify a Statute-Mercant; and in divers other Cases. Ibid. 148, 151, &c.

Certificate, Is a Writing made in any Court to give Notice to another Court of any Thing done therein, which is usually by way of Transcript, &c. And sometimes it is made by an Officer of the same Court, where Matters are referred to him, or a Rule of Court is obtained for it; containing the Tenor and Effect of what is done. The Clerks of the Crown, Assize and Peace, are to make Certificates into B. R. of the Tenor of Indictments, Convictions, &c. under Penalties, by the Stat. 34 & 35 Hen. 8.

Certification of Issue of Novel Disseisin, (Certificatio Assise Novæ Disseisnæ, &c.) Is a Writ granted for the Re examining of a Matter passed by Assise before Justices: And this is used where a Man appearing by his Bailiff to an Assise brought by another hath lost the Day; and having something more to plead for himself, which the Bailiff did not, or might not plead for him, desires a farther Examination of the Cause, either before the same Justices, or others, and obtains Letters Patent to them to that Effect; whereupon, he brings a Writ to the Sheriff to call both the Party for whom the Assise passed, and the Jury that was impanelled on the same, before the said Justices at a certain Day and Place, when the same is to be examined: And it is called a Certificate, because therein Mention is made to the Sheriff, that upon the Party's Complaint of the defective Examination, as to the Assise passed, the King hath directed his Letters Patent to the Justices for the better Certifying of themselves, whether all Points of the said Assise were duly examined. Reg. Orig. 200. F. N. B. 181. Bracton, lib. 4. c. 13. Horn's Mirr. lib. 3.

Certiorari, A Writ issuing out of the Chancery to an inferior Court, to call up the Records of a Cause there depending, that Justice may be done therein, upon Complaint that the Party who seeks the said Writ hath received hard Usage, or is not like to have an indifferent Trial in the said Court. Fitz. N. B. fol. 242. This Writ is either returnable in the King's Bench, and then hath these Words, Nobis mittatis; or in the Common Bench, and then has Iusticiariis nostris de Banco; or in the Chancery, and then hath in Cancellaria nostra, &c. A Certiorari issues sometimes out of Chancery, and sometimes out of the King's Bench, and lies where the King would be certified of a Record, in any Court of Record; and the King may send such Writ to any of the said Courts, to certify such Record before him in Banco, or in the Chancery, or before such other Justices, where he pleases to have the same certified. F. N. B. 245. Certiorari lies to the Courts of Wales; and the Cinque Ports, Counties Palatine, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 287. Indictments from inferior Courts, and Proceedings of the Quarter-Sessions of the Peace, &c. may be removed into B. R. by Certiorari: And 'tis said a Certiorari to remove an Indictment is good, although it bear Date before the Taking thereof: But on a Certiorari the very Record must be returned, and not a Transcript of it; for if so, then the Record will still remain in the inferior Court. 2 Lill. 253. In B. R. the very Record itself of Indictments, is removed by Certiorari; but usually in Chancery, if a Certiorari be returnable there, it removes only the Tenor of the Record, and therefore if it be sent from thence into the King's Bench, they cannot proceed either to Judgment or Execution, because they have but such Tenor of the Record before them. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 215. And altho' on a Habeas Corpus to remove a Person, the Court may bail or discharge the Prisoner; they can give no Judgment upon the Record of the Indictment against him, without a Certiorari to remove it, but the same stands in Force as it did, and new Process may issue upon it: But 'tis otherwise in Civil Causes. Ibid. 211. If an Indictment be one, but the Offences several, where four Persons are indicted together; a Certiorari to remove this Indictment against two of them, removes it not as to the others, but as to them the Record remains below. 2 Hale's Hist. 214. Where a Certiorari is by Law grantable for an Indictment, at the Suit of the King, the Court is bound to award it, or it is the King's Prerogative to sue in what Court he pleases: But it is at the Discretion of the Court to grant it or not, at the Prayer of the Defendant: And the Court will not grant it for the Removal of an Indictment before Justices of Gaol Delivery, without some special Cause; or where there is much Difficulty in the Case; that the Judge desires it may be determined in B. R. &c. Also Indictments of Perjury, Forgery, or for heinous Misdemeanors, the Court will not grant a Certiorari to remove at the Instance of the Defendant. 2 Hawk. P. C. 287. Where Issue is joined in the Court below, it is a good Objection against Granting a Certiorari: And if a Person doth not make use of this Writ till the Jury are sworn, he loses the Benefit of it. Mod. Ca. 16. Stat. 43 Eliz. c. 5. After Conviction, a Certiorari may not be had to remove an Indictment, &c. unless there be special Cause; as if the Judge below is doubtful what Judgment is proper to be given, when it may: And after Conviction, &c. it lies in such Cases where Writ of Error will not lie. 1 Salk. 149. The Court on Motion in an extraordinary Case will grant a Certiorari to remove a Judgment given in an inferior Court; but this is done where the ordinary Way of taking out Execution is hindered in the inferior Court. 1 Lill. Abr. 253. In common Cases a Certiorari will not lie to remove a Cause out of an inferior Court, after Verdict. It is never sued out after a Writ of Error, but where Diminution is alleged: And when the Thing in Demand doth not exceed 5 l. a Certiorari shall not be had, but a Writ of Error or Attaint. Stat. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 23. A Certiorari is to be granted on Matter of Law only: And in many Cases there must be a Judge's Hand for it. 1 Lill. 252. Certiorari's to remove Indictments, &c. are to be signed by a Judge: And to remove Orders, the Fiat for making out the Writ, must be signed by some Judge. 1 Salk. 150. In Vacation Time, a Certiorari may be granted by any of the Judges of B. R. and Security is to be found before it is allowed. By Statute no Certiorari is to be granted out of B. R. to remove an Indictment before Justices of Peace at the Sessions, before Trial, unless Motion be made in open Court, and the Party indicted find Security by two Persons in 20 l. each to plead to the Indictment in B. R. &c. And if the Defendant prosecuting the Certiorari be convicted, the Court of B. R. shall order Costs to the Prosecutor of the Indictment. Stat. 5 & 6 W. & M. cap. 11. If on a Certiorari to remove an Indictment the Party do not find Manucaptors in the Sum of 20 l. to plead to the Indictment, and try it, according to the Statute, it is no Superfedeas. Mod. Ca. 33. And a Procedendo may be granted where Bail is not put in before a Judge, on a Certiorari. It has been ruled that a Certiorari ought not to be granted to remove any Order of Justices, where an Appeal lies to the Sessions, before the Matter is determined on the Appeal. 1 Salk. 147. Yet Certiorari lies to Justices of Peace, &c. even in Cases where they are impowered by Statute finally to hear hear and determine. 1 Mod. 44. But Things may not be removed from before Justices of Peace, which cannot be proceeded in by the Court where removed; as in Case of refusing to take the Oaths, &c. which is to be certified and inquired into, according to the Statute. 1 Salk. 145. And where the Court which awards the Certiorari cannot hold Plea on the Record, there but a Tenor of the Record shall be certified; for otherwise if the Record was removed into B. R. as it cannot be sent back, there would be a Failure of Right afterwards. 1 Dawd. Abr. 792. But a Record sent by Certiorari into B. R. may be sent after by Mittimus into C. B. Ibid. 789. And a Record into B. R. may be certified into Chancery, and from thence be sent by Mittimus to an inferior Court; where an Action of Debt is brought in the inferior Court, and the Defendant pleads that the Plaintiff hath recovered in B. R. and the Plaintiff replies Nul tiel Record, &c. 1 Saund. 97, 99. If a Certiorari be prayed to remove an Indictment out of London, or Middlesex, three Days Notice must be given the other Side, or the Certiorari shall not be granted. Raym. 74. The Court of B. R. will grant a new Certiorari to affirm a Judgment, &c. Though generally one Person can have but one Certiorari. Cro. Jac. 369. Returns of Certiorari's are to be under Seal: And the Person to whom a Certiorari is directed, may make what Return he pleases, and the Court will not stop the Filing of it, on Affidavits of its Falsity, except where the Publick Good requires it: The Remedy for a false Return, is Action on the Case, at the Suit of the Party injured; and Information, &c. at the Suit of the King. 2 Hawk. P. C. 295. A Certiorari being once delivered, makes all subsequent Proceedings on the Record erroneous; whether the Proceedings are before or after its Return. It is said the Lord Chancellor, or any Judge of the Courts of Record at Westminster, may bring a Record to one another, without a Certiorari; but not a Judge of an inferior Court, &c. 1 Nels. 417, 418. A Certiorari may be had to inferior Courts; but not to a Court Superior, or that has equal Jurisdiction, in which Case Day is given to bring in the Record, &c. And on a Certiorari to remove a Record out of an inferior Court, the Stile of their Court, and Power to hold Plea, and before whom, ought to be shewn on their Certificate. Jenk. Cent. 114, 232. If a Cause be removed from an inferior Court by Certiorari, the Pledges in the Court below are not discharged; because a Defendant may bring a Certiorari, and thereby the Plaintiff may lose his Pledges. Stin. Rep. 244, 246.

Form of a Certiorari to certify the Record of a Judgment.

GEORGE the Second, &c. to the Mayor and Sheriffs of our City of E. and to every of them, in our Court at the Guildhall there, Greeting: Whereas A. B. hath lately in our said Court in the said City, according to the Custom of the same Court, impleaded C. D. late of, &c. in an Action of Debt upon Demand of Thirty Pounds; and thereupon in our said Court before you, obtained Judgment against the said C. for the Recovery of the said Debt: And we being desirous for certain Reasons, that the said Record should by you be certified to us, do Command you, that you send under your Seals the Record of the said Recovery, with all Things touching the same, into our Court before us at Westminster, on the Day, &c. plainly and distinctly, and in as full and ample Manner as it now remains before you; together with this Writ; so that we on the Part of the said A. may be able to proceed to the Execution of the said Judgment, and do what shall appear to us of Right ought to be done. Witnes, &c.

Cert-Money, (quasi certain Money) Is Head-Money, paid yearly by the Refiants of several Manors to the Lords thereof, for the certain Keeping of the Leet; and sometimes to the Hundred: As the Manor of Hook in Dorsetshire, pays Cert-Money to the Hundred of Egerdon. In antient Records this is called Certum Letæ. See Common Fine.

Cervisarii. The Saxons had a Duty called Drinclean, that is retributio Potus, payable by their Tenants; and such Tenants were in Domesday called Cervisarii, from Cerwista, Ale, their chief Drink: Tho' Cerwisarius vulgarly signifies a Beer or Ale Brewer.

Cessat Executio. In Trespafs against two Persons, if it be tried and found against one, and the Plaintiff takes his Execution against him, the Writ will abate as to the other; for there ought to be a Cessat Executio 'till it is tried against the other Defendant. 10 Ed. 4. 11. See Execution, &c.

Cessavit, Is a Writ that lies in divers Cases, upon this general Ground, that he against whom it is brought, hath for two Years neglected to perform such Service, or to pay such a Rent, as he is tied to by his Tenure, and hath not upon his Lands or Tenements sufficient Goods or Chattels to be distrained. F. N. B. 280. And if a Tenant for Years of Land at a certain Rent, suffers the Rent to be behind two Years, and there is no such Distress to be had upon the Land; then the Landlord shall recover the Land: But if the Tenant come into Court before Judgment given, and tender the Arrearages and Damages, and find Security that he shall cease no more in Payment of the Rent, then the Tenant shall not lose his Land. Terms de Ley 107. By Statute, if a Fee-Farmer cease to pay his Rent two Years, the Lessor may have a Cessavit, and recover the Land: And in this Case, the Heir of the Demandant may maintain a Cessavit against the Heir or Assign of the Tenant. 6 Ed. 1. cap. 4. But in other Cases, the Heir may not bring this Writ for Cessure in the Time of his Ancestor: And it lies not but for annual Service, Rent, and such like; not for Homage or Fealty. If a Man cease to pay his Rent and Services for two Years, and inclose the Land, so as the Lord cannot distrain, if he lay not open the Gates or Hedges of the Land which make the Inclosure, the Lord shall have a Cessavit, although the Tenant hath sufficient Cattle upon the Land to be distrained for the Rent: For the Land ought to be open, and likewise there should be sufficient to distrain for the Rent, &c. And where the Tenant suffereth the Land to lie fresh, not occupied for two Years together, it is said this Writ will lie. New Nat. Br. 463, 464. The Lord shall have a Writ of Cessavit against Tenant for Life, where the Remainder is over in Fee to another: But the Donor of an Estate tail shall not have a Cessavit against the Tenant in Tail: Tho' if a Man make a Gift in Tail, the Remainder over in Fee to another, or to the Heirs of the Tenant in Tail, there the Lord of whom the Lands are holden immediate, shall have a Cessavit against the Tenant in Tail, because that he is Tenant to him, &c. Ibid. If the Lord distrains pendant the Writ of Cessavit against his Tenant, the Writ shall abate. The Writ Cessavit is directed to the Sheriff, To command A. B. that, &c. he render to C. D. one Messuage, which he holds by certain Services, and which ought to come to the said C. by Force of the Statute, &c. because the said A. in doing those Services has ceased two Years, &c.

Cessavit de Cantaria, Lies where a Man gives Land to any House of Religion or Parson, to say Divine Service, provide Alms for the Poor, &c. If the said Services be not done in two Years, the Donor or his Heirs shall have this Writ against him that holds the Land thus given, after such Cessure. Stat. Westm. 2. c. 41.

Cesse, Signifies an Assessment, or Tax, and is mentioned in the Stat. 22 Hen. 8. cap. 3. Cesse or Ceasse, in Ireland, is an Exaction of Victuals, at a certain Rate, for Soldiers in Garrison. Antiq. Hibernia.

Cession, (Cessio) A Ceasing, Yielding up, or Giving over. And is when an Ecclesiastical Person is created Bishop, or a Parson of a Parsonage takes another Benefice, without Dispensation, or otherwise not qualified, &c. In both Cases their first Benefices are become void, and are in the Law said to be void by Cession: And to those Benefices that the Person had who was created Bishop, the King shall present for that Time, whoever is Patron of them; and in the other Case the Patron may present. Cowel. Not only a Benefice with Cure, may be said to be void by Cession, when the Incumbent thereof accepts of another Benefice, but also when such Incumbent is made a Bishop; for thereby all his Ecclesiastical Preferments which he had before, whether with, or without Cure, are actually void. Vaugb. 19. But it is not the Election of any one to be a Bishop, and Confirmation thereof, that doth void his former Preferments, until Consecration be also had: And by Dispensation of Retainer, a Bishop may retain some, or all of those Preferments he was intitled to before he was Bishop. Dyer 223. The Cession on Promotion of a Bishop, not making an Avoidance in the common Way, and it being by the King's Means that the Livings are void, whose Presentation in such a Case is only as it were an Exchange of one Life for another, intitles the King to present to those Livings, and as he is Supreme Patron. Cession makes a Living void, without any Resignation, Deprivation, &c.

Cessor, (Lat.) A Loiterer; but more particularly used for him who ceaseth, or neglects so long to perform a Duty, as he thereby incurs the Danger of the Law. Old. Nat. Br. 136.

Cessure, or Cesser, Is used for ceasing, giving over; or departing from. Stat. Westm. 2. c. 1.

Cestui que Trust, Is he who hath a Trust in Lands or Tenements, committed to him for the Benefit of another. Anno 12 Car. 2. cap. 30. And Lands of Cestui que Trust may be delivered in Execution, where any Person is seized in Trust for another. 29 Car. 2. If the Person intrusted doth not perform his Trust, he is compellable in the Chancery, &c.

Cestui que Use, (Fr. Cestui à l' use de qui) Signifies him to whose Use any other Man is entailed of Lands or Tenements. 1 Rep. 133. Feoffees to Uses were formerly deemed Owners of the Lands; but now the Possession is adjudged in Cestui que Use, and without any Entry he may bring Assise, &c. Stat. 27 Hen. 8. Cro. Eliz. 46. See Use.

Cestui que Vie, Is he for whose Life any Lands or Tenements are granted. Perk. 97. And if Tenant for Term of another's Life dieth, while Cestui que Vie is living; now, by the Common Law, he that first entereth, shall hold the Land as Occupant during such other Person's Life. 1 Inst. 41, 388. But this is prevented by making Leases for the Lives of others to the Lessees, their Heirs or Executors, during the Life of Cestui que Vie, &c. And the Stat. 29 Car. 2. cap. 3. charges such Lands for Debt. See Occupant.

Chaces, Is a Station of Game, more extended than a Park, and less than a Forest: And is sometimes taken for the Liberty of chafing or hunting within such a District. And according to Blount it hath another Signification, i. e. The way through which Cattle are drove to Pasture, commonly called in some Places a Drove Way; Ut si quis omnium viam obstruit vel Chaceam per quam ingredi solet pasturæ. Bracton lib. 4. c. 44. Vide Chase.

Chaccare ad Lepores, vel vulpes: To hunt Hare or Fox.—Licet, &c. Chaccare ad Lepores & vulpes in Manerio suo de Donbam. Cartular. Abbat. Glasston. MS. 87.

Chacurus, (from the Fr. Chasseur) A Horse for the Chase; or rather a Hound or Dog, a Courser. Rot. 7 Joban.

Chafe, from the Fr. Chauser to heat, whence our Chafing Dish.

Chafemay, An Officer in Chancery, that fetcheth the Wax for sealing of the Writs, and such other Instruments as are there made to be issued out: So in France, Calculatores ceræ sunt, qui Regiis literis in Cancellaria ceram imprimunt. Corasius.

Chaffers, Seem to signify Wares or Merchandise; and we yet use Chaffering for buying and selling, though I take it to be generally a Kind of bartering of one Thing for another; it is mentioned in the Stat. of 3 Ed. 4. c. 4.

Chaldron or Chalder of Coals, contains thirty-six Bushels heaped up, according to the Bushel sealed for that Purpose at Guildball, London. Stat. 16 & 17 Car. 2. c. 2.

Chalking. The Merchants of the Staple require to be eased of divers new Impositions, as Chalking, Ironage, Wharfage, &c. Rot. Parl. 50 Ed. 3.

Challenge, Calumnia (from the Fr. Chalenger) is used in the Law for an Exception to Jurors, who are returned to pass on a Trial. And this Challenge to Jurors is either made to the Array, or to the Polls: To the Array is, when Exception is taken to the whole Number impanelled; and to the Polls is, when some one or more are excepted against, as not indifferent. Challenge to Jurors is also divided into Challenge Principal or Peremptory; and Challenge per Cause, i. e. upon Cause or Reason; Challenge Principal or Peremptory, is that which the Law allows without Cause alledged, or further Examination; as a Prisoner at the Bar, arraigned for Felony, may Challenge peremptorily the Number allowed him by Law, one after another, alledging no Cause, but his own Dislike, and they shall be put off, and new taken in their Places: But yet there is a Difference between Challenge Principal, and Challenge Peremptory; this being used only in Matters Criminal, and barely without Cause alledged; whereas that is in Civil Actions for the most part, and by assigning some such Cause of Exception, as being found true the Law allows. Staundf. P. C. 124, 157. Lamb. Eiren. lib. 4. cap. 14. In Treason, and Petit Treason, the Number of thirty-five Jurors may be peremptorily challenged, without shewing any Cause, in Favour of Life; and in Murder and Felony, twenty: And more may be challenged shewing Cause. 1 Inst. 155. 22 H. 8. cap. 14. 1 P. & M. cap. 10. A Person indicted of Treason may challenge thirty-five of those returned on the Panel of Jurors to try him, without Cause shewn; and if two or more are to be tried, they may challenge so many each, but then they are to be tried singly, or all may challenge that Number in the Whole, and be tried jointly. 3 Salk. 81. By the Stat. 3 Hen. 7. c. 14. In Treason for compassing to kill the King, &c. no Challenge shall be allowed, but for Malice. If a Prisoner challenge peremptorily more than allowed, he is to be dealt with as one standing Mute, &c. And some Statutes which take away the Benefit of Clergy from Felons, exclude those their Clergy who peremptorily challenge more than twenty, whereby they are liable to Judgment of Death. 2 Hawk. P. C. 414. 3 & 4 W. & M. c. 9. But if the Offence be within the Benefit of the Clergy, the Challenge shall be over-ruled, and the Party put upon his Trial. The King cannot challenge peremptorily in Murder, &c. without shewing

ing cause. Moor 595. And by Stat. 33 E. 1. if those who prosecute for the King challenge a Juror, they shall assign the Cause; and if they allege not a good Cause, the Inquest shall be taken. All Peremptory Challenges are to be taken by the Party himself; and where there are divers Challenges, they must be taken all at once. But there can be no Challenge till the Jury is full; and then the Array is to be challenged before one of them is sworn. Hob. 235. Where the King is Party, if the other Side challenges a Juror above the Number allowed by Law, he ought to shew the Cause of his Challenge immediately. 1 Bull. 191. A Defendant shall shew all Causes of Challenge, before the King shall shew any. 2 Hawk. 413. And the King ought not to shew his Cause of Challenge before all the Jurors are called over; for if there are enough besides those challenged, there will be no Occasion to shew any Cause why he challenged the Rest; But if there are not enough, then he must shew the Cause of his Challenge. Raym. 473. There may be a Principal Cause of Challenge to the Array, and a Challenge to the Favour: A Principal Cause of Challenge is in Respect of Partiality or Default of the Sheriff, &c. and not in Respect of the Persons returned; and this Partiality in the Sheriff, may be by Reason of Kindred, or Affinity to the Plaintiff or Defendant; or if one of the Jury is returned at the Nomination of the Plaintiff or Defendant; if a Knight be not returned, when a Peer is Party, &c. 1 Inst. 156, 157. Challenge to the Favour is where the Plaintiff or Defendant is Tenant to the Sheriff, or if the Sheriff's Son hath married the Daughter of the Party, &c. and is also when either Party cannot take any Principal Challenge, but sheweth Cause of Favour; and Causes of Favour are infinite. But where the King is Party, one shall not challenge the Array for Favour, though the King may do it. Wood's Inst. 592. Where Challenge is to the Favour, by Reason of Kindred to the Sheriff, you must shew how Kin, and then the Challenge is good. 1 Nels. Abr. 423. If one of the Parties is of Affinity to a Juror, the Juror hath married the Plaintiff's Daughter, &c. If a Juror hath given a Verdict before in the Cause, Matter or Title; if one labours a Juror to give his Verdict; if after he is returned, a Juror eats and drinks at the Charge of either Party; if the Plaintiff, &c. be his Master, or the Juror hath any Interest in the Thing demanded, &c. these are Challenges to the Favour. 2 Roll. Abr. 636. Hob. 294. If the Juror is convicted and attainted of Treason, Felony, Perjury, adjudged to the Pillory, or other Punishment, whereby he becomes infamous, or is outlawed, or excommunicate; these are all Principal Challenges; But in these Cases and others, he that challenges, is to shew the Record, if he will have it take Place as a Principal Challenge; otherwise he must conclude to the Favour, unless it be a Record of the same Court. 1 Inst. 157. A Person under Prosecution for any Crime, may before indicted, challenge any of the Grand Jury, as being outlawed, &c. or returned at the Instance of the Prosecutor, or not returned by the proper Officer, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 215. As a Peer ought not to be sworn on Juries, he may be challenged: But a Peer of the Realm tried for Treason or Felony, shall not challenge any of his Peers. Trials per pais 130. A Juror may be challenged for Defect, as well as for any Crime; as Defect of Birth, where he is an Alien born; of Age, because a Minor; or of Estate, for Want of ten Pounds per Annum Freehold, &c. in the same County, or a Taleman five Pounds a Year, by Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 24. In Corporation Towns Freemen worth forty Pounds in Goods, are qualified to be Jurors for trying of Felonies. Stat. 23 Hen. 8. But on Trials in London for High Treason, every Juror ought to have such Freehold, &c. as is required by 4 & 5 W. & M. And common Jurors there, are to have Lands or Goods of One hundred Pounds Value, &c. by Stat.

3 Geo. 2. A Principal Challenge, being found true, is sufficient without leaving it to Triers: But if some of a Jury are challenged for Favour, they shall be tried by the Rest of the Jury, whether indifferent. 1 Inst. 158. And where a Challenge is made to the Array, the Court appoint two Triers, who are sworn, and then the Cause of Favour is shewed to them, which may be called the Issue they are to try; and if 'tis proved, then they give their Verdict that they are not indifferently impanelled, and this is entered of Record: But if the Favour is not proved, then they say that the Jury was indifferently impanelled, and so the Trial goes on, without making any Entry of the Matter. 1 Bull. 114. If one take a Principal Challenge against a Juror, he cannot afterwards challenge that Juror for Favour, and waive his former Challenge: But a Challenge may be made to the Polls, after made to the Array. Wood 592. A new Jury is to be impanelled by the Coroner, where the Array is qualified for Partiality, &c. of the Sheriff. If there be Cause of Challenge against the Sheriff, the Process is to be directed to the Coroners; and if there is Cause of Challenge against them, the Court will appoint certain Elisors, against whose Return no Challenge can be taken to the Array, though it may be to the Polls. Trials per pais 15. If a Plaintiff or Defendant have Action of Battery, &c. against the Sheriff, or the Sheriff against them, it is Cause of Challenge: And if either of the Parties have Action of Debt against the Sheriff; or if the Sheriff hath any Parcel of Land depending on the same Title as the Parties; or if he, or his Bailiffs who returned the Jury, be under the Distress of either Party, &c. These are good Causes of Challenge. Ibid. 154. Where one of the Jurors hath a Suit of Law depending with the Plaintiff, tis good Challenge. Stile 129. An Action depending betwixt either of the Parties and a Juror, implying Malice, is Cause of Challenge: And a Juror may be challenged for holding Lands by the same Title as the Defendant. 2 Leon. 40. If a Person owes Suit of Court, &c. to a Lord of a Hundred who is Plaintiff, it is a Principal Challenge, as he is within the Distress of the Plaintiff. Dyer 176. But it is said to be no Challenge that a Person is in Debt to either Party. 1 Nels. Abr. 426. A Juror returned by a wrong Name, may be challenged and withdrawn, so that the Jury shall not be taken; yet a Tale may be granted. 1 Littl. Abr. 260. And if a Juror declares the Right of either of the Parties, &c. it is Cause of Challenge: Though it hath been ruled that it is not sufficient Cause of Challenge, that a Juror delivered his Opinion touching the Title of the Land in Question; because his Opinion may be altered on hearing the Evidence. Pafch. 23 Car. B. R. If there are two Demandants in a real Action, or two Tenants, and one challenge a Juror, and the other will not, the Juror (the Challenge being allowed) shall be drawn against the Rest. 11 H. 6. 15. Jenk. Cent. 114. To say of a Person to be tried for any Crime, that he is Guilty, or will be banded, &c. is good Cause of Challenge; but the Prisoner must prove it by Witnesses, and not out of the Mouth of the Juryman, who may not be examined: And though a Juryman may be asked upon a Voire dire whether he hath any Interest in the Case, or whether he hath a Freehold, &c. yet a Juryman or a Witness, shall not be examined, whether he hath been convict of Felony, or guilty of any Crime, &c. which would make a Man discover that of himself which tends to make him infamous, and the Answer might charge him with a Misdemeanor. 1 Salk. 153. Default of Hundredors is Cause of Challenge by the Common Law; but by Statute 4 & 5 Ann. c. 16. every Venire facias for Trial of Issues in any Court of Record, shall be awarded of the Body of the proper County; though this extends only to Civil Causes, and not to Appeals of Felony, Indictments, &c. In a Writ of Right, four Knights were returned; they must appear with with their Swords, or it will be good Cause of Challenge. Moor 67. If one challenge a Juror, and the Challenge is entered, he may not afterwards have him sworn on the Jury. And if the Defendant do not appear at the Trial when called, he loseth his Challenge to the Jurors, though he afterwards appear. 1 Lill. Abr. 259. When the Jury appear at a Trial, before the Secondary calls them to be sworn, he bids the Plaintiff and Defendant to attend their Challenges, &c. See Jury.

Chamberdekins, or Chamber-Deacons, were certain poor Irish Scholars, clothed in mean Habit, and living under no Rule; banished England by Stat. 1 Hen. 5. cap. 7, 8.

Chamberlain, (Camerarius) Is variously used in our Laws, Statutes and Chronicles: As first there is Lord Great Chamberlain of England, to whose Office belongs the Government of the Palace at Westminster, and upon all solemn Occasions the Keys of Westminster-Hall, and the Court of Requests are delivered to him: He disposes of the Sword of State to be carried before the King when he comes to the Parliament, and goes on the Right Hand of the Sword next to the King's Person: He has the Care of providing all Things in the House of Lords in Time of Parliament; to him belongs Livery and Lodgings in the King's Court, &c. And the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, Yeoman Usher, &c. are under his Authority. The Lord Chamberlain of the Household has the Oversight and Government of all Officers belonging to the King's Chamber, (except the Bed-chamber, which is under the Groom of the Stole) and also of the Wardrobe; of Artificers retained in the King's Service, Messengers, Comedians, Revels, Musick, &c. The Serjeants at Arms are likewise under his Inspection; and the King's Chaplains, Physicians, Apothecaries, Surgeons, Barbers, &c. And he hath under him a Vice-Chamberlain, both being always Privy Counsellors. There were formerly Chamberlains of the King's Courts. 7 Ed. 6. cap. 1. And there are Chamberlains of the Exchequer, who keep a Controlment of the Pells of Receipts and Exitus, and have in their Custody the Leagues and Treaties with foreign Princes, many ancient Records, the two famous Books of Antiquity called Domesday, and the Black Book of the Exchequer; and the Standards of Money, and Weights, and Measures are kept by them. There are also Under-Chamberlains of the Exchequer, who make Searches for all Records in the Treasury; and are concerned in making out the Tallies, &c. The Office of Chamberlain of the Exchequer is mentioned in the Stat. 34 & 35 H. 8. cap. 16. Besides these, we read of a Chamberlain of North Wales. Stow. p. 641. A Chamberlain of Chester, to whom it belongs to receive the Rents and Revenues of that City; and when there is no Prince of Wales, and Earl of Chester, he hath the Receiving and Returning of all Writs coming thither out of any of the King's Courts. The Chamberlain of London, who is commonly the Receiver of the City Rents payable into the Chamber; and hath great Authority in making and determining Rights of Freemen, concerning Apprentices, Orphans, &c.

Chambers of the King, (Regie Camera) The Havens or Ports of the Kingdom are so called in our ancient Records. Mare Claus. fol. 242.

Chambre depinté, Anciently St. Edward's Chamber, now called the Painted Chamber.

Champerty, or Champerty, (from the Fr. Champ, a Field, and Parti divided, or the Lat. Campus, and Partitio, because the Parties in Champerty agree to divide the Thing in Question) Signifies a Bargain with the Plaintiff or Defendant in any Suit, to have Part of the Land, Debt, or other Thing sued for, if the Party that undertakes it prevails therein. 1 Inst. 368. This seems to have been an ancient Grievance in our Nation; for notwithstanding the several Statutes of 3 Ed. 1.

cap. 25. 13 Ed. 1. c. 49. 28 Ed. 1. cap. 11. and 33 Ed. 1. &c. and a Form of a Writ framed to them; yet 4 Ed. 3. cap. 11. and 33 Hen. 8. enacted, That whereas former Statutes provided Redress for this Evil in the King's Bench only, from henceforth it should be lawful for Justices of the Common Pleas, Justices of Assize, and Justices of Peace in their Quarter-Sessions, to inquire, hear and determine this and such like Cases, as well at the Suit of the King, as of the Party: And this Offence is punishable by Common Law and Statute; the Stat. 33 Ed. 1. makes the Offenders liable to three Years Imprisonment, and a Fine at the King's Pleasure. By the Stat. 28 E. 1. c. 11. it is ordained, that no Officer, nor any other, shall take upon him any Business in Suit, to have Part of the Thing in Plea; nor none upon any Covenant, shall give up his Right to another; and if any do, and be convicted thereof, the Taker shall forfeit to the King so much of his Lands and Goods as amounts to the Value of the Part purchased, &c. for such Maintenance. In the Construction of these Statutes, it hath been adjudged, that under the Word Covenant, all Kinds of Promises and Contracts are included, whether by Writing, or Parol: That Rent granted out of Land in Variance, is within the Statute of Champerty: And Grants of Part of the Thing in Suit made merely in Consideration of the Maintenance, are within the Meaning of this Statute; but not such as are made in Consideration of a precedent honest Debt, which is agreed to be satisfied with the Thing in Demand when recovered. F. N. B. 172. 2 Inst. 209. 2 Roll. Abr. 113. It is said not to be material, whether he who brings a Writ of Champerty, did in Truth suffer any Damage by it; or whether the Plea wherein it is alleged be determined or not. 1 Hawk. 257. A Conveyance executed hanging a Plea, in Pursuance of a Bargain made before, is not within the Statutes against Champerty: And if a Man purchase Land of a Party, pending the Writ, if it be Bona fide, and not to maintain, it is not Champerty. F. N. B. 272. 2 Roll. Abr. 113. But it hath been held, that the Purchase of Land while a Suit of Equity concerning it is depending, is within the Purview of the Statute 28 E. 1. Moor 655. A Lease for Life, or Years, or a voluntary Gift of Land, is within the Statutes of Champerty; but not a Surrender made by a Lessee to his Lessor: Or a Conveyance relating to Lands in Suit, made by a Father to his Son, &c. 1 Hawk. P. C. 258. The Giving Part of the Lands in Suit, after the End of it, to a Counsellor for his Wages, is not Champerty, if there be no precedent Bargain relating to such Gift: But if it had been agreed between the Counsellor and his Client before the Action brought, that he should have Part for his Wages, then it would be Champerty. Bro. Champert. 3. And it is dangerous to meddle with any such Gift, since it carries with it a strong Presumption of Champerty. 2 Inst. 564. If any Attorney follow a Cause to be paid in gross, when the Thing in Suit is recovered, it hath been adjudged that this is Champerty. Hob. 117. Every Champerty implies Maintenance; but every Maintenance is not Champerty; for Champerty is but a Species of Maintenance. Crom. Jur. 39. 2 Inst. 208.

Form of an Indictment for Champerty.

Wilt, ff. THE Jurors, &c. present, That whereas by the Common Council of the Kingdom of England, or by a Statute made, &c. it is provided, That no Officer of our Sovereign Lord the King, nor any other shall maintain Pleas, Suits, or Matters depending in the King's Courts, for Lands, Tenements, or other Things whatsoever, to have Part of the Thing in Variance, or any Profit by Covenant made for that Purpose, nor shall any under such Covenant give up his Right to another, another, as in the said Statute is fully contained: Nervet belets one E. F. on the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. at M. in the said County, hath undertaken to maintain, and hath maintained a certain Suit, (which was depending in the King's Court, before the King himself, by a Writ of our said Lord the King, between A. B. and C. D. in a Plea of Debt for, &c. which the said A. B. demanded of the said C. D.) to have Part of the Debt and Damages recovered in that Suit, that is to say, to have half of the said Debt and Damages, by Covenant made between the said E. F. and A. B. against the Peace of our said Lord the now King, his Crown and Dignity, and against the Form of the Statute aforesaid in such Case made and provided.

Champertors, By Statute, are they who move Pleas or Suits, or cause them to be moved, either by their own Procurement, or by others, and sue them at their proper Costs, to have Part of the Land in Variance, or Part of the Gain. 33 Ed. 1. — Champertores, vel Campi Participes, sunt qui per se vel per alios placita movent, vel movere faciunt, & ea suis sumptibus prosequuntur ad Campi partem, vel pro parte lucri habenda. Stat. 2. Artic. super Chart. 11.

Champion, (Campio) Is taken in the Law not only for him that fights a Combat in his own Cause, but also for him that doth it in the Place or Quarrel of another. Braç. lib. 3. Traç. 2. cap. 21. And in Sir Edward Bispe's Notes on Upton, fol. 36. you will find that Henry de Ferneberg for 30 Marks Fee, did by Charter covenant to be Champion to Roger Abbot of Glasenbury. An. 42 Hen. 3. These Champions, mentioned in our Law Books and Histories, were usually hired; and any one might hire them, except Parricides, and those who were accused of the highest Offences: Before they came into the Field, they shaved their Heads, and made Oath that they believed the Persons who hired them, were in the Right, and that they would defend their Cause to the utmost of their Power; which was always done on Foot, and with no other Weapon than a Stick or Club, and a Shield: And before they engaged, they always made an Offering to the Church, that God might assist them in the Battle. When the Battle was over, the Punishment of a Champion overcome, and likewise the Person for whom he fought, was various: If it was the Champion of a Woman for a Capital Offence, she was burnt, and the Champion hanged: If it was of a Man, and not for a Capital Crime, he not only made Satisfaction, but had his Right Hand cut off; and the Man was to be close confined in Prison, till the Battle was over. Braç. lib. 2. c. 35. See Combat.

Champion of the King, (Campio Regis) Is an ancient Officer, whose Office it is at the Coronation of our Kings, when the King is at Dinner, to ride armed Cap a pe into Westminster-Hall, and by the Proclamation of a Herald make a Challenge, That if any Man shall deny the King's Title to the Crown, he is there ready to defend it in single Combat, &c. Which being done, the King drinks to him, and sends him a gilt Cup, with a Cover, full of Wine, which the Champion drinks, and hath the Cup for his Fee. This Office, ever since the Coronation of King Richard II. when Balawin Freville exhibited his Petition for it, was adjudged from him to Sir John Dymocke his Competitor, (both claiming from Marmion) and hath continued ever since in the Family of the Dymockes; who hold the Manor of Scrivesby in Lincolnshire, Hereditary from the Marmions, by Grand Serjeanty, viz. That the Lord thereof shall be the King's Champion, as aforesaid. Accordingly Sir Edward Dymocke performed this Office at the Coronation of King Charles II.

Chancellor, (Cancellarius) Was at first only a chief Notary or Scribe under the Emperor, and was called Cancellarius, because he sat infra Cancellos, to avoid the Crowd of the People. This Word is by some derived from Cancelli, and by others from Chancellis, an inclosed or separated Place, or Chancel, encompassed with Bars, to defend the Judges, and other Officers from the Press of the Publick. And Cancellarius originally, as Lupanus thinks, signified only the Register in Court; Grabaros, scil. qui conscribendis & excipiendis Judicium adis dant aperam: But this Name and Officer is of late Times greatly advanced, not only in this, but in other Kingdoms; for he is the chief Administrator of Justice, next to the Sovereign, who anciently heard equitable Causes himself. All other Justices in this Kingdom are tied to the strict Rules of the Law, in their Judgments; but the Chancellor hath the King's absolute Power to moderate the written Law, governing his Judgment by the Law of Nature and Conscience, and ordering all Things juxta equam & bonum: And having the King's Power in these Matters, he hath been called the Keeper of the King's Conscience. According to a late Treatise, the Chancellor originally presided over a Political College of Secretaries, for the Writing of Treaties, Grants, and other Publick Business; and that the Court of Equity under the old Constitution was held before the King and his Counsel in the Palace, where one Supreme Court for Business of every Kind was kept: And at first the Chancellor became a Judge to hear and determine Petitions to the King, which were referred to him; and in the End as Business increased, the People intitled their Suits to the Chancellor, and not the King: And thus the Chancellor's equitable Power had by Degrees Commencement by Prescription. Hist. Chan. p. 3, 10, 44, &c. Stauford says, the Chancellor hath two Powers; one absolute, the other ordinary; meaning, that although by his ordinary Power, in some Cases, he must observe the Form of Proceeding as other inferior Judges, in his absolute Power he is not limited by the Law, but by Conscience and Equity, according to the Circumstances of Things. And though Polydore Virgil, in his History of England makes William the First, called the Conqueror, the Founder of our Chancellors; yet our Antiquary Mr. Dugdale has shewn that there were many Chancellors of England long before that Time, which are mentioned in his Origines Juridicales, and Catalogues of Chancellors; and Sir Edward Coke in his fourth Institute saith, it is certain, That both the British and Saxon Kings had their Chancellors, whose great Authorities under their Kings, were in all Probability drawn from the reasonable Customs of neighbouring Nations, and the Civil Law. He that bears this Chief Magistracy, is stiled the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, which is the highest Honour of the long Robe; being made so Per traditionem magni sigilli sibi per Dominum Regem, and by taking his Oath: And a Chancellor may be made so at Will, by Patent, but 'tis said not for Life, for being an ancient Office, it ought to be granted as has been accustomed. 2 Inst. 87. But Sir Edward Hide, afterwards Earl of Clarendon, had a Patent to be Lord Chancellor for Life, though he was dismissed from that Office, and the Patent declared void. 1 Sid. 338. By the Stat. 5 Eliz. cap. 18. the Lord Chancellor and Keeper have one and the same Power; and therefore since that Statute, there cannot be a Lord Chancellor and Lord Keeper at the same Time; before there might, and hath been. 4 Inst. 78. King Hen. 5. had a great Seal of Gold, which he delivered to the Bishop of Durban, and made him Lord Chancellor, and alio another of Silver, which he delivered to the Bishop of London to keep; but at this Day there being but one Great Seal, there cannot be a Lord Chancellor and Lord Keeper at once, and because they are but one Office, as is declared by 5 Eliz. and the Taking away the Seal determines the Office. 1 Sid. 338. But the Lord Bridgeman was Lord Keeper, and Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, at the same Time; which Offices were held not to be inconsistent. Ibid. By 1 W. & M. cap. 21. Commissioners appointed to execute the Office of Lord Chancellor, may exercise all the Authority, Jurisdiction, and Execution of Laws, which the Lord Chancellor, or Lord Keeper, of Right ought to use and execute, &c. since which Statute, this High Office hath been several Times in Commission; though generally on the Dismission of a Chancellor, till another was appointed. The Lord Chancellor, now there is no Lord High Steward, is accounted the first Officer of the Kingdom; and he not only keeps the King's Great Seal, but all Patents, Commissions, Warrants, &c. from the King, are perused by him before signed: And he has the Disposal of all Ecclesiastical Benefices in the Gift of the Crown under 20 l. a Year in the King's Books, which has occasioned this Office to be formerly possessed by a Clergyman. He by his Oath swears well and truly to serve the King, and to do Right to all manner of People, &c. In his judicial Capacity, he hath divers Assistants and Officers, viz. The Master of the Rolls, the Masters in Chancery, &c. And in Matters of Difficulty, he calls one or more of the Chief Justices, and Judges to assist him in making his Decrees; though in such Cases they only give their Advice and Opinion, and have no Share of the judicial Authority. As to the Master of the Rolls, he hath judicial Power; and is an Assistant to the Lord Chancellor when present, and his Deputy when absent, but he has certain Causes assigned him to hear and decree, which he usually doth on certain Days appointed at the Chapel of the Rolls, being assisted by one or more Masters in Chancery: He is, by Virtue of his Office, chief of the Masters in Chancery, and chief Clerk of the Petty-Bag Office. The twelve Masters in Chancery, sit some of them in Court, and take Notice of such References as are made to them, to be reported to the Court, relating to Matters of Practice, the State of the Proceedings, Accounts, &c. And they also take Affidavits, acknowledge Deeds and Recognizances, &c. The Six Clerks in Chancery transact and file all Proceedings by Bill and Answer; and also issue out some Patents that pass the Great Seal; which Business is done by their Under Clerks, each of which has a Seat there, and whereof every Six Clerk has a certain Number in his Office, usually about ten. The Carriers of the Court, four and twenty in Number, make out all original Writs in Chancery, which are returnable in C. B. &c. and among these the Business of the several Counties is severally distributed. The Register is a Place of great Importance in this Court, and he hath several Deputies under him to take Cognizance of all Orders and Decrees, and enter and draw them up, &c. The Master of the Subpœna Office issues out all Writs of Subpœna. The Examiners are Officers in this Court, who take the Depositions of Witnesses, and are to examine them, and make out Copies of the Depositions. The Clerk of Affidavits files all Affidavits used in Court, without which they will not be admitted. The Clerk of the Rolls sits constantly in the Rolls to make Searches for Deeds, Offices, &c. and to make out Copies. The Clerks of the Petty-Bag-Office, in Number three, have great Variety of Business that goes through their Hands, in making out Writs of Summons to Parliament, Conged' Esliors for Bishops, Patents for Customers; Liberates upon Extents of Statute Staple, and Recovery of Recognizances forfeited, &c. And also relating to Suits for and against Privileged Persons, &c. And the Clerks of this Office have several Clerks under them. The Usher of the Chancery had formerly the Receiving and Custody of all Money ordered to be deposited in Court, and paid it back again by Order: But this Business hath been of late assumed by the Masters in Chancery. And Anno 12 Geo. 1. A new Officer was appointed by Statute, called Accountant General, to receive the Money lodged in Court, and convey the same to the Bank, to be there kept for the Suitors of the Court. Then there is a Serjeant at Arms, to whom Persons standing in Contempt are brought up by his Substitutes as Prisoners. A Warden of the Fleet, who receives such Prisoners as stand committed by the Court, &c. And besides these Officers, there is a Clerk of the Crown in Chancery; Clerk and Controller of the Hanaper; Clerk for Inrolling Letters Patent, &c. not employed in Proceedings of Equity, but concerned in making out Commissions, Patents, Pardons, &c. under the Great Seal, and collecting the Fees thereof. A Clerk of the Faculties, for Dispensations, Licences, &c. Clerk of the Presentations, for Benefices of the Crown in the Chancellor's Gift; Clerk of Appeals, on Appeals from the Courts of the Archbishop to the Court of Chancery: And divers other Officers, who are constituted by the Chancellor's Commission.

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, A great Officer, whose Office is principally to determine Controversies between the King and his Tenants of the Duchy Land, and otherwise to direct all the King's Affairs belonging to that Court. The Chancellor is the chief Judge of the Duchy Court, who in difficult Points of Law is usually assisted by two Judges of the Common Law, out of one Court or other, to decide the Matter in Question: This Court is held in Westminster Hall, and was formerly much used in Relation to Suits between Tenants of Duchy Lands, and against Accountants and others for the Rents and Profits of the said Lands. Under the Chancellor of the Duchy, are an Attorney of the Court, one Chief Clerk or Register, and several Auditors, &c. This Officer is mentioned in the Stat. 3 Ed. 6. c. 1. and 5 Ibid. c. 26.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, Is likewise a great Officer, who 'tis thought by many was originally appointed for the qualifying Extremities in the Exchequer: He sometimes sits in Court, and in the Exchequer-Chamber; and with the Judges of the Court, orders Things to the King's best Benefit. He hath by the Stat. 33 H. 8. c. 39. Power with others, to compound for the Forfeitures upon Penal Statutes, Bonds and Recognizances entered into to the King: He hath also great Authority in the Management of the Royal Revenue, &c. which seems of late to be his chief Business, being commonly the first Commissioner of the Treasury. And though the Court of Equity in the Exchequer Chamber, was intended to be holden before the Treasurer, Chancellor, and Barons; it is usually before the Barons only. When there is a Lord Treasurer, the Chancellor of the Exchequer is Under-Treasurer.

Chancellor of the Order of the Garter, Stow's Annals, pag. 706. Chancellor of the Universities. See 9 Hen. 5. c. 8. Chancellor of the Diocese, 32 H. 8. c. 15. Chancellor in Cathedral Churches: His Office is thus described in the Monasticon, and the Statute of Litchfield, viz. — Leziones legendas in Ecclesia per se vel per suum Vicarium audire, male legentes emendare, Scholas conferre, sigilla ad causas conferre, literas capituli facere & consignare, libros servare, quotiescunq; voluerit predicaciones in Ecclesia vel extra Ecclesiam predicare, & cui voluerit predicacionis Officium assignare. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. p. 24, 339.

Chancery, (Cancellaria) Is the highest Court of Judicature in this Kingdom next to the Parliament, and of very ancient Institution. The Jurisdiction of this Court is of two Kinds; ordinary, or legal; and extraordinary, or absolute. The Ordinary Jurisdiction, is that wherein the Lord Chancellor in his Proceedings and Judgments, is bound to observe the Order and Method of the Common Law; and in such Cases the Proceedings have been usually in Latin, and filed or inrolled in the Petty-Bag Office: And the extraordinary or unlimited Power, is that Jurisdiction which this Court exercises in Cases of Equity, wherein Relief is to be had by Way of English Bill and Answer. The Ordinary Court holds holds Plea of Recognizances acknowledged in the Chancery, Writs of Scire facias for Repeal of Letters Patent, Writs of Partition, &c. and also of all Personal Actions, by or against any Officer of the Court; and by Acts of Parliament of several Offences and Causes: All original Writs; Commissions of Bankrupts; of Charitable Uses; of Ideots, and Lunacy, &c. issue out of this Court, for which it is always open; and sometimes a Superfedeas or Writ of Privilege, hath been here granted to discharge a Person out of Prison: One from hence may have an Habeas Corpus, Prohibition, &c. in the Vacation, which are to be had out of the other Courts only in Term-time; and here a Subpoena may be had to force Witnesses to appear in other Courts, when they have no Power to call them. 4 Inst. 79. 1 Danv. Abr. 776. But in prosecuting Causes, if the Parties descend to Issue, this Court cannot try it by Jury; but the Lord Chancellor delivers the Record into the King's Bench to be tried there; and after Trial had, it is to be remanded into the Chancery, and there Judgment given: Though if there be a Demurrer in Law, it shall be argued and adjudged in this Court. When there is Demurrer upon Part, and Issue upon Part, the Record being in B. R. that Court ought to give Judgment, because there can be but one Execution; and if the Record come thither entirely, they cannot send it back again. 1 Mod. Rep. 29. But see 4 Inst. 80. Upon a Judgment given in this Court, a Writ of Error lies returnable in B. R. 4 Inst. 80. The Extraordinary Court, or Court of Equity, proceeds by the Rules of Equity and Conscience, and moderates the Rigour of the Common Law, considering the Intention rather than the Words of the Law. It gives Relief for and against Infants, notwithstanding their Minority: And for and against married Women, notwithstanding their Coverture: In some Cases a Woman may sue her Husband for Maintenance; she may sue him when he is beyond Sea, &c. and be compelled to Answer without her Husband: All Frauds and Deceits, for which there is no Redress at Common Law; All Breaches of Trust and Confidences; and Accidents, as to relieve Obligors, Mortgagors, &c. against Penalties and Forfeitures, where the Intent was to pay the Debt, are here remedied: For in Chancery, a Forfeiture, &c. shall not bind, where a Thing may be done after, or Compensation made for it. 1 Danv. 752. 2 Vent. 352. 1 Roll. Abr. 373. Also this Court will give Relief against the Extremity of unreasonable Engagements, entered into without Consideration; oblige Creditors that are unreasonable, to compound with an unfortunate Debtor: And make Executors, &c. give Security and pay Interest for Money that is to lie long in their Hands. 2 Vent. 346. Here Executors may sue one another, or one Executor alone be sued without the Rest: Order may be made for performance of a Will: It may be decreed who shall have the Tuition of a Child: This Court may confirm Title to Lands, though one hath lost his Writings; Render Conveyances defective through Mistake, &c. good and perfect; but not Defects in a voluntary Conveyance, unless where intended as a Provision for younger Children. 2 Vent. 265. In Chancery, Copyholders may be relieved against the ill Usage of their Lords: Inclosures of Lands that are Common be decreed; and this Court may decree Money or Lands given to Charitable Uses: Things in Action, upon Assignment on Consideration: Oblige Men to account with each other: Avoid the Bar of Actions, by the Statute of Limitations, &c. for Debts thus barred, are still Debts in Equity, and the Duty remains. 1 Danv. Abr. 749, 750, &c. 1 Salk. 154. But in all Cases, where the Plaintiff can have his Remedy at Law, he ought not to be relieved in Chancery: And a Thing which may be tried by a Jury, is not triable in this Court. Danv. 763. Also long Leases, as for 1000 Years; naked Promises; verbal Agreements not executed; Estates deriv'd under conceal'd Titles; &c. have been refused Relief in this Court: And Mortgages are not relievable in Equity after twenty Years, where no Demand has been made, or Interest paid; or there are not other particular Circumstances; &c. 2 Vent. 340: A Bond, when neither the Principal nor Interest hath been demanded in 20 Years; will be presumed in Equity to be satisfied, and be decreed to be cancelled; and a perpetual Injunction may be granted to stay Proceedings thereon. 1 Cb. Rep. 79. Finch Rep. 78. A Deed appearing to be cancelled, has been Decreed to be a good Deed, on special Circumstances: And a Defendant having suppressed a Settlement, whereby a Remainder in Tail was limited, &c. upon Proof that the Deed came to his Hands, the Plaintiff had a Decree in Chancery to hold the Estate. 1 Cb. Cas. 249. 2 Vern. Rep. 380. Articles of Agreement upon Marriage reduc'd into Writing, though not sign'd by either Party; being proved to be agreed to, were decreed to be perform'd. 2 Vern. 200. Also an Agreement in Writing made since the Statute of Frauds, has been Decreed to be discharged by Parol. 1 Vernon's Rep. 240. An underhand Agreement may be set aside as fraudulent: And Articles, a Deed of Conveyance executed, and a Fine in Pursuance thereof, were set aside in Chancery for Fraud, where the Party was impos'd upon. Ibid. 205. A Deed not fraudulent at first, may become so afterwards; and if one add a Seal to a Note, which is good without it, he will lose his Security; and a Bill of Exchange being gained by Fraud, Equity will relieve against it, and Decree that the Money shall be repaid, &c. 2 Vern. 162, 123. A Release shall be avoided for Fraud, where there is suppresso veri, or suggestio falsi, and a Release may be set aside in Chancery by reason of the Misapprehension of the Party that gave it. 1 Vern. Rep. 20, 32. A Will concerning Lands, may be avoided in a Court of Equity when obtained by Fraud: A Mortgage made by a Man subsequent to his Will shall be a Revocation pro tanto only in Equity, and not of the whole Will, &c. 2 Cb. Rep. 97. An Heir may be relieved in Equity against a contingent Contract, made during his Father's Life, to pay a large Sum of Money, if he outlives his Father, when it is unconscionable. 2 Chan. Rep. 397. And a Broker who had made it his Business to sell Goods at extravagant Rates to young Persons, to be paid five for one upon the Deaths of their Fathers, was Decreed to deliver up Securities thus obtain'd for great Sums, on Payment of what he had really paid to the Plaintiff, and for his Use, &c. 1 Vern. 467. A Purchaser of Land, without Notice of an Incumbrance, shall not be hurt thereby in Equity; and in Pleading a Purchase, the Defendant ought to deny Notice of Incumbrances, &c. No Interest will be allowed in Chancery for Book-Debts; nor shall Interest Money be allowed to be made Principal on Securities, so as to make Interest upon Interest, unless it be where Interest Money is reduced to a stated Sum, &c. 3 Cb. Rep. 65. 1 Vern. 169. 2 Cb. Rep. 286. It has been held, That the Court of Chancery cannot assess Damages for a Trespass, &c. but it ought to be ascertained by a Jury at Law, and not otherwise. 1 Cb. Rep. 230. A Bill may be brought for discovering the Contents of a Letter, which would discharge the Plaintiff of an Action at Law, before Verdict. 3 Cb. Rep. 17. Indentures of Apprenticeship have been Decreed to be delivered up, and the Money given with the Apprentice to be paid back by the Master, on ill Usage of the Apprentice, &c. Finch Rep. 125. Charity Lands being Let at a great Under-value, as was found by Inquisition, on a Commission of Charitable Uses, the Lease was avoided in Equity, and the Lessee Decreed to pay the Arrears in Rent according to the full Value, and to yield up the Possession. 2 Vern. 415. A Grazier's Cattle driving to London, were distrained in Grounds for the Innkeeper's Rent, and in Replevin the the Landlord had Judgment at Law; but the Grazier was relieved in Equity against it. 2 Vern. Rep. 129. Trials and Issues at Law are frequently directed out of the Court of Chancery; and sometimes it is ordered, that after Trial, the Parties shall resort to the Court on the Equity reserved, &c. This Court will not retain a Suit for any Thing under 10*l.* Value, except it be in Cases of Charity; nor for Lands, &c. under 40*s. per Annum*: And refuses Relief in Suits where the Substance of them tends to the Overthrow of an Act of Parliament; or any fundamental Point of the Common Law. If a Man loses his Obligation, he shall not be relieved for his Debt, being against a Maxim in Law. 1 Danv. 754. And an Executor in a Court of Equity ought not to be compelled to pay Legacies before Bonds, &c. for this is against the Common Law: So in many other Cases. Ibid. 756. And where a Man by his own Act destroys his Remedy at Law, he shall not be relieved in Equity: But in Case of an apparent Fraud, or in a dubious Case in Law, of which the Party could not have Cognizance, Relief may be had in Equity against a Statute. Ibid. 755, 759. Defendants may not be regularly relieved in Chancery, after Judgment at Law; though Decrees are made in such Cases: But on Persons being committed for Non-performance, they have been formerly discharged by Habias Corpus. Cro. Eliz. 220. 1 Roll. Rep. 252. 1 Nels. Abr. 432. It is common to give Relief in Chancery, notwithstanding there is an Agreement between the Parties that there shall be no Relief in Law or Equity. 1 Mod. 141, 305. And where a Party hath both Law and Equity on his Side, it will prevail against Equity only. 1 Danv. Abr. 773. If a Portion be given to a Woman, provided she marries not without Consent of a certain Person, although she marries without such Consent, she shall be relieved in Chancery, and have her Portion: But if the Portion, on such Marriage, had been limited over to another, it would be otherwise. 1 Danv. 752. 1 Mod. 300. If a Father, on the Marriage of his Son, take a Bond of the Son that he shall pay him so much, &c. this is void in Equity, being adjudged by Coercion while he is under the Awe of the Father. 1 Salk. 158. Also where a Son, without Privity of the Father, treating the Match, gives Bond, to return any Part of the Portion, in Equity it is void. Ibid. 156. A Man is not bound to discover the Consideration of a Bond generally given, which in itself implies a Consideration. Hard. 200. If a Factor to a Merchant hath Money in his Hands, it shall be accounted his own; for Equity cannot follow Money; but it may Goods to make them the Merchant's, which may be known, though Money cannot. 1 Salk. 260. Money articed to be laid out in Land, shall be taken as Land in Equity, and descend to the Heir. Ibid. 154. Personal Estate in the Hands of Executors, shall be applied in Discharge of the Heir, where there is sufficient Assets to pay the Debts and Legacies. 1 Danv. 770. There shall be no Bill in Equity against an Executor, to discover Assets before a Suit commenced at Law. Hard. 115. Legal Assets shall be applied in a Course of Administration; but Equitable Assets amongst all the Creditors proportionably, on a Bill brought, &c. 2 Vern. Ch. Rep. 62. Where Trustees convert Money raised out of Land for Payment of Debts, to their own Use, the Heir shall have the Land discharged, which hath born its Burden, and the Trustees are liable to the Debts in Equity. 1 Salk. 153. If Lessee for Years, without Impeachment of Waste, about the End of his Term cuts down Timber-Trees, the Court of Chancery by Injunction may stop the Cutting down of the Trees, it being against the Publick Good to destroy Timber. 1 Roll. Abr. 380. And Tenant after Possibility of Issue extinct, or for Life, punishable of Waste, may be stopped in Equity from pulling down Houses, &c. 1 Danv. 761. The King cannot create a Court of Equity at this Day; but the same must be done by Act of Parliament. 4 Infl. 84. And though the Power of the Chancery is very great, and it may restrain other Courts that exceed their Jurisdiction, and remove Suits to itself by Certiorari, yet it is no Court of Record; and therefore 'tis said can bind the Person only, and not the Estate of the Defendant, &c. And if he will not obey the Decree of the Court, he must be committed to the Fleet till he does. 1 Danv. Abr. 749. By Statute, the Court of Chancery is to follow the King. 28 Ed. 1. c. 5. And whosoever shall find himself grieved with any Statute, he shall have his Remedy in the Chancery. 36 Ed. 3. c. 9. No Subpœna or other Process of Appearance, shall issue out of Chancery, &c. till after a Bill is filed, (except Bills for Injunctions to stay Waste, or Suits at Law commenced) and a Certificate thereof brought to the Subpœna Office. 4 & 5 Ann. c. 16. And for preventing vexatious Suits, it is enacted, That upon the Plaintiff's dismissing his own Bill, or the Defendant's dismissing the same for Want of Prosecution, the Plaintiff shall pay to the Defendant full Costs, &c. Stat. Ibid. Persons in Remainder, or Reversion of any Estate, after the Death of another, on making Affidavit in the Court of Chancery, that they have Cause to believe such other Person dead, and his Death concealed by the Guardian, Trustees or others, may move the Lord Chancellor to order such Guardian, Trustees, &c. to produce the Person suspected to be concealed; and if he be not produced, he shall be taken to be dead, and those in Reversion, &c. may enter upon the Estate: And if such Person be abroad, a Commission may be issued for his being viewed by Commissioners. Stat. 6 Ann. c. 18. Infants under the Age of twenty one Years, seized of Estates in Trust, or by Way of Mortgage, are enabled by Statute to make Conveyances thereof; or they may be compelled thereto, by Order of the Court of Chancery, &c. upon Petition and Hearing of the Parties concerned. 7 Ann. c. 9. See the Statute of King George 2. whereby Ideots and Lunaticks seized of Estates in Trust, &c. may make Conveyances by Order of the Chancery, &c. 4 Geo. 2. c. 10. The Stat. 13 Car. 2. relates to the Masters in Chancery, Ordering that one publick Office be kept near the Rolls for the said Masters, where they shall attend, and limits and appoints their Fees, &c. And by a late Act, the Power of the Masters was abridged, on their misemploying the Suitors Money, which is now to be paid into the Bank of England: And an additional Stamp-Duty, on Writs, Processes, &c. is granted for Relief of the Suitors, and as a common Stock of the Court of Chancery. 12 Geo. 1. c. 33. All Orders and Decrees made and signed by the Master of the Rolls, shall be deemed and taken to be good and valid Orders and Decrees of the Court of Chancery; but not to be inrolled till Signed by the Lord Chancellor, and subject to Reversal, &c. by him. Stat. 3 Geo. 2. c. 30. A Defendant not appearing after Subpœna issued, but keeping out of the Way to avoid being served with the Process; on Affidavit that he is not to be found, and suspected to be gone beyond Sea, or to abscond, &c. the Court of Chancery may make an Order for his Appearance at a certain Day, a Copy of which is to be published in the Gazette, &c. and then if he do not appear, the Plaintiff's Bill shall be taken pro Confesso, and Defendant's Estate sequestred, &c. But Persons out of the Kingdom, returning in seven Years, may have a Rehearing in six Months, and be admitted to Answer; otherwise to be barred, by final Decree. 5 Geo. 2. c. 25.

The Proceedings in Chancery, Are first to file the Bill of Complaint, signed by some Counsel, setting forth the Fraud or Injury done, or Wrong sustained, and praying Relief: After the Bill is filed, Procefs of Subpœna issues to compel the Defendant to appear; and when the Defendant appears, he puts in his Answer to the Bill of Complaint, if there be no Cause for Plea to the Jurisdiction of the Court, in Disability of the Person, or in Bar, &c. Then the Plaintiff brings his Replication, unless he files Exceptions against the Answer as insufficient, referring it to a Master to report, whether it be sufficient or not; to which Report Exceptions may be also made. The Answer, Replication, and Rejoinder, &c. being settled, and the Parties come to Issue, Witnesses are to be examined upon Interrogatories, either in Court, or by Commission in the Country, wherein the Parties usually join; and when the Plaintiff and Defendant have examined their Witnesses, Publication is to be made of the Depositions, and the Cause is to be set down for Hearing, after which follows the Decree. If the Plaintiff dismisseth his own Bill, or the Defendant dismisseth it by Reason of Want of Prosecution, as I have already observ'd, or if the Decree is in Behalf of the Defendant; the Bill is dismissed with Costs to be taxed by a Master. If the Defendant doth not appear, on being served with the Process of Subpœna, in Order to answer, upon Affidavit of the Service of the Writ, an Attachment will issue out against him; and if a Non est inventus is returned, an Attachment with Proclamation goes forth against him; and if he stands further out in Contempt, then a Commission of Rebellion may be issued, for apprehending him, and bringing him to the Fleet Prison, in the Execution whereof the Persons to whom directed may justify breaking open Doors. If the Defendant stands further in Contempt, a Serjeant at Arms is to be sent out to take him; and if he cannot be taken, a Sequestration of his Land may be obtained till he appears. And if a Decree, when made, be not obeyed, being served upon the Party under the Seal of the Court, all the aforementioned Processes of Contempt will issue out against him, for his Imprisonment till he yields Obedience to it. If a Bill in Chancery be exhibited against a Peer, the Course is for the Lord Chancellor to write a Letter to him; and if he doth not put in his Answer, then a Subpœna issues, and then an Order to shew Cause why a Sequestration should not go forth; and if he still stands out, then a Sequestration shall be had; for there can be no Process of Contempt against his Person. Where there is any Error in a Decree in Matter of Law, there may be a Bill of Review, which is in Nature of a Writ of Error; or an Appeal to the House of Lords. A Party grieved with a Decree in Chancery, on Petition to the King, it hath been adjudged that the Matter might be referred by the King to the Judges, who may reverse the Decree, &c. 3 Bulst. 116. But it is now usual to Appeal to the House of Lords; which Appeals are to be signed by two noted Counsels, and exhibited by Way of Petition: The Petition or Appeal is lodged with the Clerk of the House of Lords, and read in the House, whereon the Appellée is ordered to put in his Answer, and a Day fixed for Hearing the Cause; and after Counsel heard and Evidence given on both Sides, the Lords will affirm or reverse the Decree of the Chancery, and finally determine the Cause by a Majority of Votes, &c. Though it is observed on an Appeal to the Lords, from a Decree in Chancery, no Proofs will be permitted to be read as Evidence, which were not made use of in the Chancery. Preced. Canc. 212. If a Bill be brought where the Lord Chancellor is Party to the Suit, it must be directed to the King's Majesty; for no Man may be both Judge and Party in a Cause.

Form of a Bill in Chancery.

To the Right Honourable Philip Lord Hardwick, Baron of Hardwicke, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain.

Humbly Complaining, sheweth unto your Lordship, your Orator A. B. of, &c. That whereas about, &c. Years last past, T. B. of, &c. did grant to L. M. all that Messuage or Tenement called, &c. and the Lands, situate, &c. And afterwards, that is to say, on, &c. be the said L. M. by his Deed bearing Date, &c. under his Hand and Seal, in Consideration of the Sum of, &c. to him paid, did bargain, sell, assign and set over the said Premises, &c. unto J. D. of, &c. which said J. D. not long after, viz. on, &c. did, in Consideration of, &c. by your Orator to him in Hand paid, bargain, sell, assign, transfer and set over unto your Orator, all and singular the said Premises above-mentioned, and every Part thereof; upon which Bargain, Sale, and Assignment of the said Premises so made as aforesaid, your Orator well hoped to have peaceably and quietly entered into the said Premises, and to have held, occupied and enjoyed the same accordingly: But now so it is, may it please your Lordship, that one L. E. of, &c. pretending to have a Lease for divers Years, yet to come, of Part of the said Premises made unto him by the said J. D. &c. long before any such Sale or Assignment made thereof to your Orator as aforesaid, hath kept, and doth still keep your Orator out of the Possession of the said Premises, upon which Lease be the said L. E. pretends a certain yearly Rent is reserved to the said J. D. his Executors or Assigns, which Rent, if any be, your Orator hath heard of, &c. And which your Orator, by Reason of the lawful Conveyance to him made, as aforesaid, ought in Equity and Good Conscience, to have and enjoy during such Term as the said L. E. shall hold and enjoy the Premises aforesaid, by Reason of the said Lease which he so pretendeth to have; but forasmuch as your Orator doth not certainly know whether the said L. E. hath any such Lease, or if he hath any such Lease, what Date the same beareth, nor what Term the said L. E. hath therein unexpired, nor what Rent is thereby reserved, or what Covenants are therein contained: And for that the said L. E. doth not only Use and Occupy the said Premises to his own Profit and Advantage, without Yielding or Prying any Rent therefor to your Orator, but doth also utterly refuse to shew his said Lease, whereby he pretendeth to claim the Premises aforesaid, either to your Orator, or to any other Person; and for that the said L. E. in Confederacy with, &c. giveth out, &c. All which Actions and Doings of the said L. E. &c. are contrary to all Right, Equity and Good Conscience, and tend to the manifest Wrong, Injury, and Oppression of your Orator: In tender Consideration whereof, and forasmuch as your Orator is Remediless save in this honourable Court, and for that your Orator cannot by the ordinary Course of the Common Law enter into the Premises, nor commence any Action against the said L. E. either for the Recovery of the said Land, or the Rent aforesaid, or to enforce the said L. E. to produce or shew to your Orator such Writings as he hath for the Holding and Occupying the Premises aforesaid; but is altogether destitute of the Means to obtain or have a Sight of the same, but by the Assistance of this Honourable Court: To the End therefore, that the said L. E. may be obliged upon his Oath to discover what Right he hath to the Premises, or any Part thereof; and what Rent or Rents be hath paid for the same, and to whom, and that he may also set forth in his Answer upon Oath a true Copy of such Lease or other Writings whereby he claimeth the Premises aforesaid, or any Part thereof; and that the said L. E. may truly and directly Answer all the Matters and Things herein before contained, as fully and perfectly as if the same had been here again repeated and interrogated, and may particularly set forth upon Oath, whether, &c. And may come to account for, and pay, &c. And that your Orator may be relieved in the Premises according to Equity and Good Conscience.

May it please your Lordship, the Premises considered, to grant to your Orator his Majesty's Writ or Writs of Subpoena to be directed to the said L. E. and other his Confederates when discovered, thereby commanding them and every of them at a certain Day, and under a certain Pain therein limited, personally to be and appear before your Lordship in this Honourable Court, then and there to answer all and singular the Premises, and to stand to, perform and abide such Order and Decree therein, as to your Lordship shall seem meet.

And your Orator shall ever pray, &c.

The Answer of L. E. Defendant to the Bill of Complaint of A. B. Complainant.

THIS Defendant now, and at all Times hereafter, saving to himself all Manner of Benefit and Advantage of Exception to the many Incertainties, Insufficiencies and Imperfections in the said Complainant's Bill of Complaint contained; for Answer thereunto, or unto so much thereof as this Defendant is advised is any Ways material for him to make Answer unto, he answereth and saith, That the said J. D. named in the Complainant's said Bill, was possessed for divers Years yet to come of the said Messuage or Tenement, Lands and Hereditaments in the said Bill mentioned, called, &c. by Virtue of a Lease thereof made by, &c. in the said Bill named unto the said J. D. long before, &c. mentioned in the said Bill of Complaint; and the said J. D. so being thereof possessed, had in such Manner as in the said Complainant's Bill is supposed, made a lawful Demise of the said Messuage and Lands unto the said Defendant for divers Years to come; upon which Lease the said J. D. reserved an yearly Rent of, &c. to be paid during the Continuance of the said Lease, by Force of which Lease the Defendant entered into the said Lands, &c. and was and is yet lawfully possessed thereof accordingly, and ever since hath and yet doth enjoy the same by Virtue of the said Lease and Demise, and is thereby to have and enjoy the same during the Continuance of the said Lease, of which there are at this Time about, &c. Years to come, and unexpired; and saith, that the Plaintiff is a Person altogether unknown to this Defendant, being one he this Defendant never had any Dealings or Correspondence with; and therefore this Defendant cannot but admire at this Suit commenced by the said Complainant against this Defendant touching the Premises: And this Defendant saith that he humbly conceives and is advised, that he, this Defendant, is for the Payment of his Rent chargeable, and ought by the Law to pay the Rent so reserved unto the said J. D. and not the said Complainant, which said J. D. this Defendant doth verily think is his lawful Landlord, during the said Term of Years yet to come, and not the Complainant, who is altogether a Stranger to this Defendant; and saith, that the said Complainant never at any Time heretofore demanded any Rent for the said Messuage, or Tenement and Lands, that this Defendant hath and occupieth by Virtue of the said Lease for Years; and also saith, &c. and therefore the said Defendant is the more surprized at this Suit brought against him by the said Complainant touching the Premises, whereby this Defendant is wrongfully vexed and sued without any just Cause; without that there is any such Bargain and Sale made by, &c. as in the said Bill is set forth, or that the said, &c. bargained and sold the Premises to the Complainant; or that the said Complainant ought to have and enjoy the said Premises, to the Knowledge of this Defendant; and this Defendant denies all Combination in the Bill charged; without that, that there is any other Matter or Thing in the Complainant's said Bill of Complaint contained, material or effectual for this Defendant to make Answer unto, and not herein and hereby sufficiently answered unto, confessed or avoided, traversed or denied, is true, to the Knowledge and Belief of this Defendant; all which Matters and Things this Defendant is ready to aver and prove as this Honourable Court shall award; and humbly prays to be hence dismissed with his reasonable Costs and Charges in this Behalf wrongfully sustained.

Form of a Replication to an Answer.

The Replication of A. B. Complainant, to the Answer of L. E. Defendant, put in to the said Repliant's Bill of Complaint.

THE said Repliant, saving to himself all Advantages of Exception to the Defendant's said Answer, for Replication thereunto said, That all and every the Matters and Things in and by his said Bill of Complaint already said, he will justify, maintain and prove to be good, certain, and sufficient in the Law, to be answered unto in such Manner as the same are therein or thereby set forth and declared; and that the Answer of the said Defendant is untrue, and insufficient in the Law to be by this Repliant replied unto, for divers manifest Imperfections and Incertainties therein contained; the Benefit of Exception whereunto being now and at all Times saved to this Repliant: This Repliant for farther Replication saith, That, &c. and that the Matters contained in the said Bill of Complaint are altogether relievable in this Honourable Court, &c. Without that, that any other Matter or Thing in the said Defendant's Answer contained, material or effectual in the Law to be replied unto, and herein and hereby not well and sufficiently replied unto, confessed, or avoided, traversed or denied, is true; all which Matters and Things this Repliant is ready to aver, maintain and prove, as this Honourable Court shall award; and humbly prays, as in and by his said Bill he hath already prayed.

A Rejoinder to a Replication in Chancery.

The Rejoinder of L. E. Defendant to the Replication of A. B. Complainant.

THE said Defendant, now, and at all Times hereafter, saving and reserving to himself all Manner of Benefit and Advantages of Exception to the Incertainty and Insufficiency of the said Replication; for Rejoinder saith, That the Defendant's said Answer is true, certain, and sufficient in the Law to be replied unto; and saith, as in and by his said Answer he hath already said, and doth and will aver and maintain all and every Thing and Things therein to be true and certain, in such Manner as therein is alleged and expressed; and this Defendant also saith, That the said Replication of the said Complainant is uncertain and insufficient in the Law to be rejoined unto by the said Defendant, for divers Defects and Imperfections therein contained; and for that, &c. and without that, that, &c. in the said Replication material or effectual in the Law to be rejoined unto, &c. All which Matters this Defendant is ready to aver and prove, as this Honourable Court shall award: And therefore prays, as before in his said Answer he hath prayed.

Form

Form of a Decree in Chancery.

WHereas heretofore, that is to say, about, &c. Term, which was in the Year, &c. A. B. Complainant did exhibit his Bill of Complaint into this High and Honourable Court of Chancery, against L. E. Defendant, thereby setting forth, &c. (Here recite the Bill briefly) for Relief wherein, &c. the Complainant humbly prayed the Aid and Assistance of this Honourable Court, and that Process of Subpoena might be awarded against the said Defendant to compel him to appear and answer the said Bill; which being granted, and the Defendant served therewith, he appeared accordingly, and answered the said Bill; and by his said Answer confessed and set forth, &c. (Here recite the Substance of the Answer.) To which Answer the Complainant replied, and the Defendant rejoined, and so the Parties being at Issue, divers Witnesses were examined in the Cause, and their Depositions duly taken and published, according to the usual Course of this Court, as by the said Bill, Answer, Replication, Deposition of Witnesses, and other Proceedings remaining upon Record in this Honourable Court may more at large appear; and the said Cause thus standing in Court, the Day of, &c. was by this Court appointed for the Hearing thereof, on which Day the same coming to be heard and debated accordingly in Presence of Counsel learned on both Sides, the Substance of the Complainant's Bill and the Defendant's Answer appeared to be as is herein before recited and set forth; whereupon, and upon Debate of the Matter, and bearing what could be alleged on all Sides, this Court did think fit to order and decree, and accordingly it is this present Day, that is to say, the Day, &c. in the Year, &c. by the Right Honourable, &c. Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, &c. ordered, adjudged and decreed, that, &c. And that, &c.

Chancemedley, (From the Fr. Chance, Lapsus, and Messer, Miscere) Signifies the casual Killing of a Man, not without the Killer's Fault, though without any evil Intention; and is where a Person is doing a lawful Act, and a Person is killed by Chance thereby: For if the Act be unlawful, it is Felony. If a Person casts a Stone, which happens to hit one, whereof he dies: Or shoots an Arrow in a Highway, and another that passeth by is killed therewith: Or if a Workman, in throwing down Rubbish from a House, after Warning to take Care, kills a Person: Or a Schoolmaster in Correcting his Scholar, a Master his Servant, or an Officer in Whipping a Criminal, in a reasonable Manner, happens to occasion his Death; it is Chancemedley and Misadventure. 3 Inst. 56. Dalt. 351. But if a Man throws Stones in a Highway, where Persons usually pass: Or shoot an Arrow, &c. in a Market-place, among a great many People: Or if a Workman cast down Rubbish from a House, in Cities and Towns, where People are continually passing: Or a Schoolmaster, Master, &c. correct his Servant or Scholar, &c. exceeding the Bounds of Moderation, it is Manslaughter; and if with an improper Instrument of Correction, as with a Sword or Iron Bar, or by a Kicking, Stamping, &c. in a cruel Manner, it is Murder. Terms de Ley 113. H. P. C. 58, 31, &c. Kel. 40, 65, 113. If a Man whips his Horse in a Street to make him gallop, and the Horse runs over a Child and kills it, it is Manslaughter: But if another whips the Horse, 'tis Manslaughter in him, and Chancemedley in the Rider. H. P. C. 48, 59. And if two are Fighting, and a third Person coming to part them is killed by one of them, without any evil Intent, yet this is Murder in him; and not Manslaughter by Chancemedley, or Misadventure: And if they were met with prepened Malice, the one intending to kill the other, then it is Murder in both. Terms de Ley 113. In Chancemedley the Offender forfeits his Goods; but hath a Pardon of Course. Stat. 6 Ed. 1. c. 9.

Changer, An Officer belonging to the King's Mint, whose Office consists chiefly in exchanging Coin for Bullion brought in by Merchants or others: It is written after the old Way, Cbaunger. Stat. 2 Hen. 6. cap. 12.

Chanter, (Cantator) A Singer in the Choir of a Cathedral Church; and is usually applied to the Chief of the Singers. This Word is mentioned in 13 Eliz. c. 10. At St. David's Cathedral in Wales, the Chanter is next to the Bishop; for there is no Dean. Camb. Britan.

Chantry, or Chauntry, (Cantaria), Is a little Church, Chapel, or particular Altar, in some Cathedral Church, &c. endowed with Lands, or other Revenues, for the Maintenance of one or more Priests, daily to Sing Mass, and officiate Divine Service for the Souls of the Donors, and such others as they appointed. Stat. 37 Hen. 8. cap. 4. 1 Ed. 6. cap. 14. and 15 Car. 2. cap. 9. Of these Chantries Mention is made of forty-seven belonging to St. Paul's Church in London, by Dugdale, in his History of that Church. I find in an ancient MS. this Record—Sciant, &c. quod Ego Reginaldus Seuard dedi Willielmo Crumpe Capellano Cantariz beatæ Mariæ de Yarpol, unam parcellam pasture, &c. Dat. apud Leominstre die Martis prox. post Festum Sancti Hillarii, An. 7 Hen. 5.

Chapel, (Capella, Fr. Chapelle) Is either adjoining to a Church, for performing Divine Service; or separate from the Mother-Church, where the Parish is wide, which is commonly called a Chapel of Ease. And Chapels of Ease are built for the Ease of those Parishioners who dwell far from the Parochial Church, in Prayer and Preaching only; for the Sacraments and Burials ought to be performed in the Parochial Church. 2 Roll. Abr. 340. — Ad Capellam non pertinet Baptisterium neque Sepultura. Selden of Tithes, p. 265. These Chapels are served by inferior Curates, provided at the Charge of the Rector, &c. And the Curates therefore removeable at the Pleasure of the Rector or Vicar: But Chapels of Ease may be Parochial, and have a Right to Sacraments and Burials, and to a distinct Minister, by Custom; (though subject in some Respects to the Mother-Church:) And Parochial Chapels differ only in Name from Parish Churches, but they are small, and the Inhabitants within the District are few. In some Places Chapels of Ease are endowed with Lands or Tithes, and in other Places by voluntary Contributions; and in some few Districts there are Chapels which baptize and administer the Sacraments, and have Chapel-Wardens; but these Chapels are not exempted from the Visitation of the Ordinary, nor the Parishioners who resort thither from contributing to the Repairs of the Mother-Church; especially if they bury there; for the Chapel generally belongs to, and is as it were a Part of the Mother-Church, and the Parishioners are obliged to go to the Mother-Church, but not to the Chapel. 2 Roll. Abr. 289. And hence it is said, that the Offerings made to any Chapel are to be rendered to the Mother-Church; unless there be a Custom that the Chaplain shall have them. Publick Chapels, annexed to Parish-Churches, shall be repaired by the Parishioners, as the Church is; if any other Persons be not bound to do it. 2 Inst. 489. Besides the fore-mentioned Chapels, there are Free Chapels, perpetually maintained and provided with a Minister, without Charge to the Rector or Parish; or that are free and exempt from all ordinary Jurisdiction; and these are where some Lands or Rents are charitably bestowed on them. Stat. 37 Hen. 8. cap. 4. 1 Ed. 6. c. 14. Then there are Private Chapels, built by Noblemen, and others, for private Worship, in or near their own Houses, maintained at the Charge of those noble Persons to whom they belong, and provided with Chaplains and Stipends by them; which which may be erected without Leave of the Bishop, and need not be consecrated, though they anciently were so, nor are they subject to the Jurisdiction of the Ordinary. And also Chapels in the Universities, belonging to particular Colleges, which though they are consecrated, and Sacraments are administered there, yet they are not liable to the Visitation of the Bishop, but of the Founder. 2 Inst. 363.

Chapelry, (Capellania) Is the same Thing to a Chapel, as a Parish to a Church; being the Precinct and Limits thereof: It is mentioned in the Statute 14 Car. 2. cap. 9.

Chaperon, (Fr.) A Hood or Bonnet, anciently worn by the Knights of the Garter, as Part of the Habit of that noble Order: But in Heraldry it is the little Escutcheon fixed in the Forehead of the Horses that draw a Hearse at a Funeral. See Stat. 1 R. 2. cap. 17.

Chapters, (Lat. Capitula, Fr. Chapitres, i. e. Chapters of a Book) Signifies in our Common Law a Summary of such Matters as are to be enquired of, or presented before Justices in Eyre, Justices of Assize, or of Peace, in their Sessions. Briton, cap. 3. useth the Word in this Signification: And Chapters are now most commonly called Articles, and delivered by the Mouth of the Justice in his Charge to the Inquest; whereas, in ancient Times, (as appears by Bracton and Briton) they were, after an Exhortation given by the Justices for the good Observation of the Laws and the King's Peace, first read in open Court, and then delivered in Writing to the Grand Inquest, for their better Observance; and the Grand Jury were to answer upon their Oaths to all the Articles thus delivered them, and not put the Judges to long and learned Charges to little or no Purpose, for Want of Remembling the same, as they now do, when they think their Duty well enough performed, if they only present those few of many Misdemeanors which are brought before them by Way of Indictment. It is to be wished that this Order of delivering written Articles to Grand Juries were still observed, whereby Crimes would be more effectually punished; and in some inferior Courts, as the Court Leet, &c. in several Parts of England, it is usual at this Day for Stewards of those Courts to deliver their Charges in Writing to the Juries sworn to enquire of Offences. Horns, in his Mirror of Justices, expresses what these Articles were wont to contain. Lib. 3. cap. Des Articles in Eyre. And an Example of Articles of this Kind, you may find in the Book of Assizes, f. 138.

Chaplain, (Capellanus) Is most commonly taken for one that is depending upon the King, or other noble Person, to instruct him and his Family, and say Divine Service in his House, where there is usually a private Chapel for that Purpose. The King, Queen, Prince, Princess, &c. may retain as many Chaplains as they please; and the King's Chaplains may hold any Number of Benefices of the King's Gift, as the King shall think fit to bestow upon them. An Archbishop may retain eight Chaplains; a Duke or a Bishop Six; Marquess or Earl, Five; Viscount, Four; Baron, Knight of the Garter, or Lord Chancellor, Three: A Dutches, Marchioness, Countess, Baroness, the Treasurer, and Controller of the King's House, the King's Secretary, Dean of the Chapel, Almoner, and Master of the Rolls, each of them Two; the Chief Justice of the King's Bench, &c. One; all which may purchase a Licence or Dispensation, and take two Benefices with Cure of Souls. Stat. 22 Hen. 8. cap. 13. Also every Judge of the King's Bench, and Common Pleas; and Chancellor and Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and the King's Attorney and Solicitor General, may each of them have one Chaplain, attendant on his Person, having one Benefice with Cure, who may be non-resident on the same, by Statute 25 Hen. 8. cap. 16. And the Groom of the Stole, Treasurer of the King's Chamber, and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, may retain each one Chaplain. Stat. 33 Hen. 8. cap. 28. If a Nobleman hath his full Number of Chaplains allowed by Law, and retains one more, who has Dispensation to hold Plurality of Livings, it is not good. 1 Cro. 723. A Person retaining a Chaplain, must not only be capable thereof at the Time of Granting the Instrument of Retainer, but he must continue capable of Qualifying till his Chaplain is advanced: And therefore if a Duke, Earl, &c. retain a Chaplain, and die; or if such a noble Person be attainted of Treason; or if an Officer qualified to retain a Chaplain, is removed from his Office, the Retainer is determined: But where the Chaplain hath taken a second Benefice before his Lord dieth, or is attainted, &c. the Retainer is in Force to qualify him to enjoy the Benefices. And if a Woman that is noble by Marriage, afterwards marries one under the Degree of Nobility, her Power to retain Chaplains will be determined; Though 'tis otherwise where a Woman is noble by Descent, if she marry under Degree of Nobility, for in such Case her Retainer before or after Marriage is good. A Baroness, &c. during the Coverture, may not retain Chaplains; if she doth, the Lord, her Husband, may discharge them, as likewise her former Chaplains, before their Advancement. 4 Rep. 118. A Chaplain must be retained by Letters testimonial, under Hand and Seal, or he is not a Chaplain within the Statute; so that it is not enough for a Spiritual Person to be retained by Word only to be a Chaplain, by such Person as may qualify by the Statutes to hold Livings, &c. although he abide and serve as Chaplain in the Family. And where a Nobleman hath retained and thus qualified his Number of Chaplains, if he dismisses them from their Attendance upon any Displeasure, after they are preferred, yet they are his Chaplains at large, and may hold their Livings during their Lives; and such Nobleman, though he may retain further Chaplains in his Family, merely as Chaplains, he cannot qualify any others to hold Pluralities whilst the First are living: For if a Nobleman could discharge his Chaplain when advanced, to qualify another in his Place, and qualify other Chaplains during the Lives of Chaplains discharged, by these Means he might advance as many Chaplains as he would, whereby the Statutes would be evaded. 4 Rep. 90.

Form of a Retainer of a Nobleman's Chaplain.

K Now all Men by these Presents, That I the Right Honourable T. Lord A. Baron of, &c. Have admitted, constituted and appointed, and by these Presents do admit, constitute and appoint C. D. of, &c. Clerk, my Domestic Chaplain; To have, hold and enjoy all and singular the Benefits, Privileges, Liberties and Advantages, due and of Right granted to the Chaplains of Nobility, by the Laws and Statutes of this Realm. In Witness, &c.

Chapter, (Capitulum) Is a Congregation of Clergymen under the Dean in a Cathedral Church: Congregationem Clericorum in Ecclesia Cathedrali, Conventuali, Regulari vel Collegiata. This Collegiate Company is metaphorically termed Capitulum, signifying a little Head, it being a Kind of Head, not only to govern the Diocese in the Vacation of the Bishoprick, but also in many Things to advise and assist the Bishops when the See is full, for which, with the Dean, they form a Council. 1 Inst. 103. The Chapter consists of Prebends or Canons, which are some of the chief Men of the Church, and therefore are called Capita Ecclesie: They are a Spiritual Corporation Aggregate, which they cannot surrender without Leave of the Bishop, because he hath an Interest in them; they, with the Dean, have Power to confirm the Bishop's shop's Grants; during the Vacancy of an Archbishoprick, they are Guardians of the Spiritualities, and as such have Authority by the Stat. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 21. to grant Dispensations; likewise as a Corporation they have Power to make Leases, &c. When the Dean and Chapter confirm Grants of the Bishop, the Dean joins with the Chapter, and there must be the Consent of the major Part; which Consent is to be expressed by their Fixing of their Seal to the Deed, in one Place, and at one Time, either in the Chapter-House, or some other Place; and this Consent is the Will of many joined together. Dyer 233. A Chapter is not capable to take by Purchase or Gift, without the Dean, who is the Head of the Body: But there may be a Chapter without a Dean, as the Chapter of the Collegiate Church of Southwell; and Grants by or to them are as effectual as other Grants by Dean and Chapter. Yet where there are Chapters without Deans, they are not properly Chapters: And the Chapter in a Collegiate Church, where there is no Episcopal See, as at Westminster and Windsor, is more properly called a College. Chapters are said to have their Beginning before Deans; and formerly the Bishop had the Rule and Ordering of Things without a Dean and Chapter, which were constituted afterwards; and all the Ministers within his Diocese were as his Chapter, to assist him in Spiritual Matters. 2 Roll. Rep. 454. 3 Co. 75. The Bishop hath a Power of Visiting the Dean and Chapter: But the Dean and Chapter have nothing to do with what the Bishop transacts as Ordinary. 3 Rep. 75. Though the Bishop and Chapter are but one Body, yet their Possessions are for the most part divided; as the Bishop hath his Part in Right of his Bishoprick; the Dean hath a Part in Right of his Deanery; and each Prebendary hath a certain Part in Right of his Prebend; and each too is incorporated by himself. And Deans and Chapters have some of them Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction in several Parishes, (besides that Authority they have within their own Body) executed by their Officials; also temporal Jurisdiction in several Manors belonging to them, in the same Manner as Bishops, where their Stewards keep Court, &c. 2 Roll. Abr. 229. It has been observed, that though the Chapter have distinct Parcels of the Bishop's Estate assigned for their Maintenance, the Bishop hath little more than a Power over them in his Visitations, and is scarce allowed to nominate Half of those to their Prebends, who were originally of his Family: But of common Right it is said he is their Patron. Roll. Ibid.

Charge of Justices in Sessions, &c. See Chapitres, or Chapitres.

Charge and Discharge, A Charge is said to be a Thing done that bindeth him that doth it, or that which is his, to the Performance thereof: And Discharge is the Removal, or taking away of that Charge. Terms de Ley. Land may be charged divers Ways; as by Grant of Rent out of it, by Statutes, Judgments, Conditions, Warranties, &c. Lands in Fee-simple, may be charged in Fee; and where a Man may dispose of the Land itself, he may charge it by a Rent, or Statute, one way or other. Litt. Sect. 648. Moor Ca. 129. Dyer 10. If one charge Land in Tail, and Land in Fee-simple, and die; the Land in Fee only shall be chargeable. Bro. Cba. 9. Lands intailed may be charged in Fee, if the Estate-tail be cut off by Recovery: If Tenant in Tail charge the Land, and after Levy a Fine or suffer a Recovery of the Lands, to his own Use; this confirms the Charge, and it shall continue. 1 Co. Rep. 61. A Tenant for Life charges the Land, and then makes a Feoffment to a Stranger, or doth Waste, &c. whereby it is forfeited, he in Reversion shall hold it charged during his Life: And if one have a Lease for Life or Years of Land, and grant a Rent out of it; if after he surrenders his Estate, yet the Charge shall continue so long as the Estate had endured, in case it had not been surrendered. 1 Rep. 67, 145. Dyer 10. If a Feme Sole Lessee for Years takes Husband, and he charges the Land and dies, she may avoid it; for the Husband might have given or forfeited, but he may not charge it. Bro. Cba. 41. If one Jointenant charge Land, and after release to his Companion and die, the Survivor shall hold it charged: But if it had come to him by Survivorship, it would be otherwise. 6 Rep. 76. 1 Slep. Abr. 325. He that hath a Remainder or Reversion of Land, may charge it; because of the Possibility that the Land will come into Possession, and then the Possession shall be charged. But where one leases Land for Life, and grants the Reversion or Remainder over to A. B. who charges the Land, and dies, and the Tenant for Life is Heir to the Fee; in this Case, he shall hold it discharged, for he had the Possession by Purchase, though he had the Fee by Descent. Bro. 11, 16. 1 Rep. 62. If a Rent be issuing out of a House, &c. and it falls down, the Charge shall remain upon the Soil. 9 E. 4. 20. But when the Estate is gone upon which the Charge was grounded, there generally the Charge is determined. Co. Litt. 349. And in all Cases where any Executory Thing is created by Deed, there by Consent of all the Parties it may be by Deed defeated and discharged. 10 Rep. 49. Vide Discharge.

Charitable Corporation. A Society of Persons in the late Reign obtained a Statute to lend Money to Industrious Poor, at 5 l. per Cent. Interest on Pawns and Pledges, to prevent their falling into the Hands of the Pawn-brokers, and therefore they were called the Charitable Corporation: But they likewise took 5 l. per Cent. for the Charge of Officers, Warehouses, &c. And in the fifth Year of King Geo. 2. the chief Officers of this Corporation, by Connivance of the Principal Directors, absconded and broke, and defrauded the publick Proprietors of great Sums; for Relief of the Sufferers wherein, as to Part of their Losses, several Statutes were made and enacted. See Stat. 5 Geo. 2. cap. 31, 32. 7 Geo. 2. cap. 11.

Charitable Uses, Where any Lands, &c. are given to Charitable Uses, Commissions of Inquiry, and Deeds how made and taken, &c. See Chancery and Mortmain. Stat. 9 Geo. 2.

Charas, Are Pit coal when charred or charked, so called in Worcestershire; as Sea-coal thus prepared at Newcastle is called Coke.

Charge of Lead, Is a Quantity of Lead consisting of thirty Pigs, each Pig containing six Stone wanting two Pounds, and every Stone being twelve Pounds.

—La Charre de Plumbo constat ex 30 sotinellis, & qualibet sotinella continet 6 Petras, exceptis duabus libris, & qualibet Petra constat ex 12 libris. Assisa de Ponderibus. Rob. 3. R. Scot. cap. 22.

Charta, A Word made Use of not only for a Charter, for the Holding an Estate; but also a Statute. See Magna Charta.

Charte, A Card or Plain which Mariners use at Sea, mentioned 14 Car. 2. c. 33.

Chartel, (Fr. Cartel) A Letter of Defiance, or Challenge to a single Combat; in Use heretofore to decide difficult Controversies at Law, which could not otherwise be determined. Blount.

Charter, (Lat. Charta, Fr. Chartres, i. e. Instrumenta) Is taken in our Law for written Evidence of Things done between Man and Man: Whereof Bracton, lib. 2. cap. 26. says thus, Fiunt aliquando Donationes in Scriptis, sicut in Chartis, ad perpetuam rei memoriam, propter brevem hominum vitam, &c. And Briton in his 39th Chapter divides Charters into those of the King, and those of private Persons. Charters of the King are those whereby the King passeth any Grant to any Person or Body Politick; as a Charter of Exemption, of Privilege, &c. Charter of Pardon, whereby a Man is forgiven a Felony, or other Offence committed against the King's Crown and Dignity;

nity; and of these there are several Sorts, viz. Charta Pardonationis Utilagarie, Charta Pardonationis se Defendendo, &c. and others mentioned in Reg. Writs, 287, 288, &c. Charter of the Forest, wherein the Laws of the Forest are comprised, such as the Charter of Canutus, &c. Kitch. 314. Fleta, lib. 3. c. 14. Charters of Private Persons are Deeds and Instruments for the Conveyance of Lands, &c. And the Purchaser of Lands, shall have all the Charters, Deeds and Evidences as incident to the same, and for the Maintenance of his Title. Co. Litt. 6. Charters belong to a Feoffee, although they be not sold to him, where the Feoffor is not bound to a general Warranty of the Land; for these they shall belong to the Feoffor, if they be sealed Deeds or Wills in Writing: But other Charters go to the Tertenant. Moor. Ca. 687. The Charters belonging to the Feoffor in case of Warranty the Heir shall have, though he hath no Land by Discent, for the Possibility of Discent after. 1 Rep. 1.

CHARTERER, In Cheshire, a Freeholder is called by this Name. Sir P. Ley's Antiq. fol. 356.

CHARTER-LAND, (Terra per Chartam) Is such as a Man holds by Charter, that is by Evidence in Writing otherwise called Freehold. Anno 19 H. 7. cap. 13. This in the Time of the Saxons was called Backland, which was held (according to Lombard) with more commodious and easy Conditions than Folkland was, i. e. Lands held without Writing; because that was Hereditaria, libera atque immunis; whereas, Fundus sine scripto censum pensitabat annuum, atque officiorum quodam servitute est obligatus: Priorem viri plerumque nobiles, atque ingenui; posteriorem Rustici fere & pagani possidebant: Illum nos vulgo Freehold & per Chartam; hanc ad voluntatem Domini appellamus. Lamb.

CHARTER-PARTY, (Lat. Charta partita, Fr. Charter parti, i. e. a Deed or Writing divided) Is what among Merchants and Sea-faring Men, we commonly call a Pair of Indentures, containing the Covenants and Agreements made between them, touching their Merchandise and maritime Affairs. 2 Inst. 673. And Charter-parties of Affreightment settle Agreements, as to the Cargo of Ships, and bind the Master to deliver the Goods in good Condition at the Place of Discharge, according to Agreement; and the Master sometimes obliges himself, Ship, Tackle and Furniture for Performance. The Common Law construes Charter-parties, as near as may be, according to the Intention of them, and not according to the literal Sense of Traders, or those that merchandise by Sea, but they must be regularly pleaded. In Covenant by Charter party, that the Ship should return to the River of Tbames, by a certain Time, Dangers of the Sea excepted, and after in the Voyage, and within the Time of the Return, the Ship was taken upon the Sea by Pirates, so that the Master could not return at the Time mentioned in the Agreement; it was adjudged that this Impediment was within the Exception of the Charter-party, which extends as well to any Danger upon the Sea by Pirates and Men of War, as Dangers of the Sea by Shipwreck, Tempest, &c. Stile 132. 2 Roll. Abr. 248. A Ship is freighted at so much per Month that she shall be out, covenanted to be paid after her Arrival at the Port of London; the Ship is cast away coming up from the Downs, but the Lading is all preserved, the Freight shall in this Case be paid; for the Money becomes due Monthly by the Contract, and the Place mentioned is only to ascertain where the Money is to be paid, and the Ship is intitled to Wages, like a Mariner that serves by the Month, who if he dies in the Voyage, his Executors are to be answered pro rata. Molloy de Jur. Maritim. 260. If a Part owner of a Ship refuse to join with the other Owners in setting out of the Ship, he shall not be entitled to his Share of the Freight; but by the Course of the Admiralty, the other Owners ought to give Security if the Ship perish in the Voyage, to make good to the Owner standing out his Share of the Ship. Sir Lionel Jenkins, in a Case of this Nature, certified that by the Law Maritime and Course of the Admiralty, the Plaintiff was to have no Share of the Freight; and that it was so in all Places, for otherwise there would be no Navigation. Lex Mercat. 100. See Freight.

Form of a Charter party of Affreightment.

THIS Charter-party indented, made, &c. between A. B. of, &c. Mariner, Master and Owner of the good Ship or Vessel called, &c. now riding at Anchor at, &c. of the Burden of two hundred Tons, or thereabouts, of the one Part, and C. D. of, &c. Merchant of the other Part, Witnesseth, That the said A. B. for the Considerations herein after mentioned, hath granted and to Freight letten, and by these Presents doth grant and to Freight let unto the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, the whole Tonnage of the Hold, Stern-fores and Half deck of the said Ship or Vessel, called, &c. from the Port of London, to, &c. in a Voyage to be made by the said A. B. with the said Ship, in Manner hereafter mentioned; (that is to say) to sail with the first fair Wind and Weather that shall happen after, &c. next from the said Port of London, with the Goods and Merchandise of the said C. D. his Factors or Assigns on Board to, &c. aforesaid, (the Dangers of the Sea excepted) and there unlade and make Discharge of the said Goods and Merchandise: And also shall there take into and aboard the said Ship again, the Goods and Merchandise of the said C. D. his Factors or Assigns, and shall then return to the Port of London with the said Goods, in the Space of, &c. limited for the End of the said Voyage. In Consideration whereof the said C. D. for himself, his Executors, and Administrators, doth covenant, promise and grant to and with the said A. B. his Executors, Administrators, and Assigns, by these Presents, that the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators, Factors or Assigns, shall and will well and truly pay or cause to be paid, unto the said A. B. his Executors, Administrators or Assigns for the Freight of the said Ship and Goods, the Sum of, &c. (or so much per Ton) within twenty-one Days after the said Ship's Arrival, and Goods returned and discharged at the Port of London aforesaid, for the End of the said Voyage: And also shall and will pay for Demorage, (if any shall be by the Default of him the said C. D. his Factors or Assigns) the Sum of, &c. per Day, daily and every Day, as the same shall grow due. And the said A. B. for himself, his Executors and Administrators, doth covenant, promise and grant, to and with the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, by these Presents, that the said Ship or Vessel shall be ready at the Port of London, to take in Goods by the said C. D. on or before, &c. next coming. And the said C. D. for himself, his, &c. doth covenant and promise, within ten Days after the said Ship, or Vessel shall be thus ready, to have his Goods put on Board the said Ship, to proceed on in the said Voyage: And also on the Arrival of the said Ship at, &c. within, &c. Days, to have his Goods ready to put on Board the said Ship, to return on the said Voyage. And the said A. B. for himself, his Executors and Administrators, doth further covenant and grant to and with the said C. D. his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, that the said Ship or Vessel now is, and at all Times during the said Voyage, shall be to the best Endeavours of him the said A. B. his Executors, and Administrators, and at his and their own proper Costs and Charges, in all Things made and kept stiff, staunch, strong, well apparelled, furnished and provided, as well with Men and Mariners, sufficient and able to sail, guide and govern the said Ship, as with all Manner of Rigging, Boats, Tackle, Apparel, Furniture, Provision and Appurtenances, fitting and necessary for the said Men and Mariners, and for the said Ship during the Voyage aforesaid. In Witness, &c.

Chartis

Chartis Reddendis, Is a Writ which lies against him that hath Charters of Feoffment entrusted to his Keeping, and refuseth to deliver them. Reg. Orig. 159.

Chafe, (Fr. Chasse) In its general Signification is a great Quantity of woody Ground lying open, and privileged for wild Beasts, and wild Fowl: And the Beasts of Chafe properly extend to the Buck, Doe, Fox, &c. and in common and legal Sense to all the Beasts of the Forest. 1 Inst. 233. But if one have a Chafe within a Forest, and he kill or hunt any Stag or Red Deer, or other Beasts of the Forest, he is fineable. 1 Jones's Rep. 278. A Chafe is of a middle Nature, between a Forest and a Park, being commonly less than a Forest, and not endowed with so many Liberties, as the Courts of Attachment, Swainmote and Justice-Seat; though of a larger Compass, and stored with greater Diversity both of Keepers, and wild Beasts or Game, than a Park. A Chafe differs from a Forest in this, because it may be in the Hands of a Subject, which a Forest in its proper and true Nature cannot; and from a Park, in that it is not enclosed, and hath a greater Compass, and more Variety of Game, and Officers likewise. Crompt. in his Jurisdia. fol. 148. says, A Forest cannot be in the Hands of a Subject, but it forthwith loseth its Name, and becomes a Chafe: But fol. 197. he says, A Subject may be Lord and Owner of a Forest, which though it seems a Contradiction, yet both sayings are in some Sort true: For the King may give or alienate a Forest to a Subject, so as when it is once in the Subject, it loseth the true Property of a Forest, because the Courts called the Justice-Seat, Swainmote, &c. do forthwith vanish, none being able to make a Lord Chief Justice in Eyre of the Forest, but the King, yet it may be granted in so large a Manner, as there may be Attachment, Swainmote, and a Court equivalent to a Justice-Seat. Manwood, part 2. c. 3, 4. A Forest and a Chafe have different Officers and Laws: Every Forest is a Chafe, Et quiddam amplius; but any Chafe is not a Forest. A Chafe is ad communem Legem, and not to be guided by the Forest Laws; and it is the same of Parks. 4 Inst. 314. A Man may have a free Chafe as belonging to his Manor in his own Woods, as well as a Warren and a Park in his own Grounds; for a Chafe, Warren and Park are collateral Inheritances, and not issuing out of the Soil; and therefore if a Person hath a Chafe in other Men's Grounds, and after purchaseth the Grounds, the Chafe remaineth. Ibid. 318. If a Man have Freehold in a free Chafe, he may cut his Timber and Wood growing upon it, without View or License of any; though it is not so of a Forest: But if he cut so much that there is not sufficient for Covert, and to maintain the Game, he shall be punished at the Suit of the King: And so if a common Person hath a Chafe in another's Soil, the Owner of the Soil cannot destroy all the Covert, but ought to leave sufficient thereof, and also Browiewood, as hath been accustomed. 11 Rep. 22. And it has been adjudged, that within such Chafe, the Owner of the Soil by Prescription may have Common for his Sheep, and Warren for his Conies; but he cannot surcharge with more than has been usual, nor make Coney-Burrows in other Places than has been used. Ibid. If a free Chafe be inclosed, it is said to be a good Cause of Seizure into the King's Hands. It is not lawful to make a Chafe, Park or Warren, without Licence from the King under the Broad Seal.

Chastelaine, A noble Woman: Quasi castelli Domina.

Chattels or Catals, (Catalla) Comprehend all Goods moveable and immoveable, except such as are in Nature of Freehold, or Parcel of it. The Normans call moveable Goods only Chattels; but this Word by the Common Law extends to all moveable and immoveable Goods: And the Civilians denominate not only what we call Chattels, but also Land, all under Bona. But no Estate of Inheritance or Freehold, can be termed in our Law Goods and Chattels; though a Lease for Years may pass as Goods. Chattels are either Personal or Real: Personal, as Gold, Silver, Plate, Jewels, Household-Stuff, Goods and Wares in a Shop, Corn sown on the Ground, Carts, Ploughs, Coaches, Saddles, &c. Cattle, as Horses, Oxen, Kine, Bullocks, Sheep, Pigs, and all tame Fowls and Birds, Swans, Turkeys, Geese, Poultry, &c. and these are called Personal in two Respects, one because they belong immediately to the Person of a Man; and the other, for that being any Way injuriously withheld from us, we have no means to recover them but Personal Action. Chattels Real are such as either appertain not immediately to the Person, but to some other Thing by Way of Dependency, as a Box with Charters of Land, &c. or such as are issuing out of some immoveable Thing to a Person, as a Lease, or Rent for Term of Years: And Chattels Real concern the Realty, Lands and Tenements, Leases for Years, Interest in Advowsons, in Statutes-Merchant, &c. And also include Corn cut, Trees cut, &c. 1 Inst. 118. Noy's Max. 49. But Deeds relating to a Freehold, Obligation, &c. which are Things in Action, are not reckoned under Goods and Chattels; though if Writings are pawned, they may be Chattels: And Money hath not been accounted Goods or Chattels; nor are Hawks or Hounds such, being sera Natura. 8 Rep. 33. Terms de Ley 103. Kitch. 32. Personal Estate is usually taken for Money, Goods, Bonds, Leases for Years, &c. Chebage, (Chevagium, from the Fr. Ches, i. e. Caput) Is a Tribute or Sum of Money formerly paid by such as held Lands in Villenage to their Lords in Acknowledgment, and was a Kind of Head or Poll Money. Of which Bracton, lib. 1. cap. 10. says thus; Chevagium dicitur recognitio in signum Subjectionis & Domini de capite suo. Lambar writes this Word Chewage; but it is more properly Chesage: And anciently the Jews, whilst they were admitted to live in England, paid Chebage or Poll-Money to the King, as appears by Pat. 8 Ed. 1. par. 1. It seems also to be used for a Sum of Money, yearly given to a Man of Power for his Protection, as a Chief Head or Leader: But the Lord Coke says, that in this Signification, it is a great Misprision for a Subject to take Sums of Money, or other Gifts yearly of any, in Name of Chebage, because they take upon them to be their Chief Heads or Leaders. Co. Litt. 140.

Children, Are in Law a Man's Issue begotten on his Wife. In Case Land be given by Will to a Man and his Children, who has such alive, the Devisee takes only an Estate for Life; but if there be no Child living, it is held to be an Estate-Tail. 1 Vent. 214, 225. A Devise to one's Children, prima facie refers only to those as are alive at the Time of Making the Will; though were the same to Children living at his Death, a Child in Ventre sa Mere, may be looked upon as living. 1 Peer Williams 342, 244. Also a Son, with which a Wife is priviment ensent, is adjudg'd living at the Time of the Testator's Death, to prevent an Estate going over to another, &c. Ibid. 486. If a Sum of Money is given in Trust for the Children of another Person, and he had only one Child and several Grandchildren, the Child only shall take; yet it is said if such Person had not any Child living, the Grandchildren might have taken by the Name of Children. 2 Vern. 106. Abr. Cas. Eq. 202. A Father being about to make his Will, and thereby intended to have made Provisions for his younger Children; his Son and Heir dissuaded him from doing it, and promised that he would take Care his Brothers and Sisters should have the Provisions; upon which the Father forbore making them, and they were decreed in Chancery against the Heir; his Promise being by Fraud. *Preced. Childwit, (Sax.) Is a Fine or Penalty of a Bond-Woman unlawfully begotten with Child: Prior habens Gersumam de Nativa sua impragnata sine Licentia maritalandi. Ex Reg. Priorat' de Cokesford. Cowel says, it signifieth a Power to take a Fine of your Bond-Woman gotten with Child without your Consent: And within the Manor of Writtel in Comp. Essex, every reputed Father of a base Child, pays to the Lord for a Fine 3 s. 4 d. where it seems to extend as well to Free as Bond-Women; and the Custom is there called Childwit to this Day.

Chimin, (Fr. Chemin, i. e. Via) In Law Phrase is a Way; which is of two Sorts; the King's Highway, and a private Way. The King's Highway, (Chiminus Regius) is that in which the King's Subjects, and all others under his Protection, have free Liberty to pass, though the Property of the Soil where the Way lies, belongeth to some private Person. A Private Way is that in which one Man or more have Liberty to pass through the Ground of another, by Prescription or Charter; and this is divided into Chimin in Gross, and Chimin appendant. Chimin in Gross is where a Person holds a Way principally and solely in itself; Chimin appendant is that Way which a Man hath as appurtenant to some other Thing: As if he rent a Close or Pasture, with Covenant for Ingress and Egress through some other Ground in which otherwise he might not pass. Kitch. 117. Co. Litt. 56. It is said a Way may not be claimed by Prescription as appendant or appurtenant to an House, because it is only an Easement and no Interest; but a Person may prescribe for a Way from his House through a certain Close, &c. to Church, though he himself hath Lands next adjoining to his said House, through which of Necessity he must first pass; for the general Prescription shall be applied only to the Lands of others. Yelv. 159. 1 Danv. Abr. 785. See Highway.

Chiminage, (Chiminagium) Is a Toll due by Custom for having a Way through a Forest; and in ancient Records it is sometimes called Pedagium. Crompt. Jurisd. 189. Co. Litt. 56.—Telonium quod in Forestis exigebant Chimney-Money, Otherwise called Heart-Money, a Duty to the Crown on Houses. By Statute 14 Car. 2. cap. 2. Every Fire-Hearth and Stove of every Dwelling and other House within England and Wales, (except such as pay not to Church and Poor) shall be chargeable with 2s. per Annum, payable at Michaelmas and Lady-Day, to the King and his Heirs, and Successors, &c. which Payment was commonly called Chimney-Money. This Tax being much complained of, as burthenfome to the People, hath been long since taken off, and others imposed in its Stead; among which that on Windows of Houses, laid 7 & 8 W. 3. has by some Persons been esteemed almost equally grievous. See Fuage.

Chirograph, Chirographum, or Scriptum Chirographatum) Any publick Instrument of Gift or Conveyance, attested by the Subscription and Crosses of Witnesses, was in the Time of the Saxons called Chirographum; which being somewhat changed in Form and Manner by the Normans, was by them stiled Charta: In following Times, to prevent Frauds and Concealments, they made their Deeds of mutual Covenant in a Script and Rescript, or in a Part and Counter-part, and in the Middle between the two Copies, they drew the Capital Letters of the Alphabet, and then tallied or cut asunder in an indented Manner, the Sheet or Skin of Parchment; which being delivered to the two Parties concerned, were proved authentick by matching with and answering to one another: And when this prudent Custom had for some Time prevailed, then the Word Chirographum was appropriated to such bipartite Writings or Indentures. Anciently when they made a Chirograph or Deed, which required a Counterpart, they ingrossed it twice upon one Piece of Parchment contrariwise, leaving a Space between, in which they wrote in great Letters the Word Chirograph; and then cut the Parchment in two, sometimes even and sometimes with Indenture, through the Midst of the Word: This was afterwards called Dividenda, because the Parchment was so divided or cut; and 'tis said the first Use of these Chirographs was in Henry the Third's Time. Chirograph was of Old used for a Fine; the Manner of Ingrossing whereof, and cutting the Parchment in two Pieces, is still observed in the Chirographer's Office: But as to Deeds; that was formerly called a Chirograph, which was subscribed by the proper Hand-writing of the Vendor or Debtor, and delivered to the Vendee or Creditor: And it differed from Syngraphus, which was in this Manner, viz. Both Parties, as well the Creditor as Debtor, wrote their Names and the Sum of Money borrowed, on Paper, &c. and the Word Syngraphus in Capital Letters in the Middle thereof, which Letters were cut in the Middle, and one Part given to each Party, that upon comparing them (if any Dispute should arise) they might put an End to the Difference. The Chirographs of Deeds have sometimes concluded thus,—Et in hujus rei Testimonium huic scripto in modum Chirographi confecto vicissim sigilla nostra apposuimus. The Chirographs were called Chartae Divisae, Scripta per Chirographum Divisa, Chartae per Alphabetum Divisae: as the Chirographs of all Fines are at this Time. Kent's Antiq. 177. Mon. Ang. Tom. 2. p. 94.

Chirographer of Fines (Chirographus Finium & Concoordinatorum, of the Greek Χειρογράφος, a Compound of Χειρ, Manus a Hand, and γράφω, Scripto, to write; a Writing of a Man's Hand) Signifies that Officer in the Common Pleas which ingrosseth Fines acknowledgd in that Court into a perpetual Record, after they are examined and passed in the other Offices, and that writes and delivers the Indentures of them to the Party: And this Officer makes out two Indentures, one for the Buyer, another for the Seller; and also makes one other indented Piece, containing the Effect of the Fine, which he delivers to the Custos Brevium, which is called the Foot of the Fine. The Chirographer likewise, or his Deputy, proclaims all the Fines in the Court every Term, according to the Statute; and endorses the Proclamation upon the Backside of the Foot thereof; and always keeps the Writ of Covenant, and Note of the Fine: And the Chirographer shall take but 4s. Fee for a Fine, in Pain to forfeit his Office, &c. Stat. 2 Hen. 4. c. 8. 23 Eliz. cap. 3. 2 Inst. 468.

Chivalry, (Servitium Militare) Comes from the Fr. Chevalier, and in our Law is used for a Tenure of Lands by Knights Service; whereby the Tenant was bound to perform Service in War unto the King, or the mesne Lord of whom he held by that Tenure. And Chivalry was either General or Special; General, where it was only in the Feoffment that the Tenant held per servitium militare, without any Specification of Serjeanty, Escuage, &c. Special, when it was declared particularly by what Kind of Knight-Service the Land was held. For the better Understanding of this Tenure, it has been observed, that there is no Land but is holden mediately or immediately of the Crown by some Service; and therefore all our Freeholds that are to us and our Heirs, are called Feuda or Feoda, Fees, as proceeding from the King, for some small yearly Rent, and the Performance of such Services as were originally laid upon the Land at the Donation thereof; for as the King gave to the great Nobles, his immediate Tenants, large Possessions for ever, to hold of him for this or that Service or Rent, so they in Time parcelled out to such others as they liked the same Lands, for Rents and Services as they thought good: And these Services were by Littleton divided into two Sorts, Chivalry and Socage; the First whereof was Martial and Military, the other Rustical; Chivalry therefore was a Tenure of Service, whereby the Tenant was obliged to perform some noble or military Office unto his Lord, being of two Kinds, either Regal, that is held only of the King, or common, where held of a common Person: That which might be held only of the King was called Servitium or Serjeantia, and was again divided into Grand and Petit Serjeanty; the Grand Serjeanty was where one held Lands of the King by Service, which he ought to do in his own Person, as to bear the King's Banner or Spear, to lead his Hoste, or to find a Man at Arms to fight, &c. Petit Serjeanty was when a Man held Lands of the King, to yield him annually some small Thing towards his Wars, as a Sword, Dagger, Bow, &c. Chivalry that might be holden of a common Person, was termed Scutagium, Escuage, that is Service of the Shield, which was either uncertain or certain; Escuage uncertain was likewise twofold, first, where the Tenant was bound to follow his Lord, going in Person to the King's Wars, either himself or sending a sufficient Man in his Place, there to be maintained at his Cost so long as was agreed upon between the Lord and his first Tenant, at the Granting of the Fee; and the Days of such Service seem to have been rated by the Quantity of Land so holden, as if it extended to a whole Knight's Fee, then the Tenant was to follow his Lord forty Days; and if but to Half a Knight's Fee, then twenty Days; if a fourth Part, then ten Days, &c. and the other Kind of this Escuage was called Castleward, where the Tenant was obliged by himself or some other, to defend a Castle, as often as it should come to his Turn; and these were called Efcuage uncertain; because it was uncertain how often a Man should be called to follow his Lord to the Wars, or to defend a Castle, and what his Charge would be therein. Efcuage certain was where the Tenant was set at a certain Sum of Money to be paid in Lieu of such Service; as that a Man should pay yearly for every Knight's Fee twenty Shillings, for Half a Knight's Fee ten Shillings, or some like Rate; and this Service, because it is drawn to a certain Rent, groweth to be of a mixt Nature, not merely Socage, and yet Socage in Effect, being now neither Personal Service nor uncertain. Littleton. The Tenure called Cbtivaby had other Conditions annexed to it: But there is a great Alteration made in these Things by the Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 24. which enacts that Tenures by Knights-Service of the King, or any other Person, in Capite, &c. and the Fruits and Consequences thereof happened, or which shall or may happen or arise thereupon, or thereby, are taken away and discharged; and all Tenures shall be construed and adjudged to be free and common Socage, &c.
M m where

Chop-church, (Ecclesiarum Permutatio) Is a Word mentioned in a Statute of King Hen. 6. by the Sense of which, it was in those Days a Kind of Trade, and by the Judges declared to be lawful: But Broke in his Abridgment says, it was only permissible by Law: It was without Doubt a Nick-name given to those that used to change Benefices; as to chop and change is a common Expression. 9 Hen. 6. cap. 65. Vide Litera missa omnibus Episcopis, &c. contra Choppe-Churches, Anno 1391. Spelm. de Conc. vol. 2. p. 642.

Choral, (Choralis) Signifies any Person that by Virtue of any of the Orders of the Clergy, was in ancient Time admitted to fit and serve God in the Choir; which in Latin is termed Chorus: And Mr. Dugdale in his History of St. Paul's Church says, that there was formerly six Vicars Choral belonging to that Church.

Chorepiscopi, Suffragan or Rural Bishops, anciently delegated by the Prime Diocesan; their Authority was restrained by some Councils, and their Office by Degrees abolished; after whom the Rural Deans were so commissioned to exercise Episcopal Jurisdiction, till inhibited by Pope Alexander the Third. Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. 639.

Chose, (Fr.) A Thing; used in the Common Law with divers Epithets; as Chose Local, Chose Transitory, and Chose in Action. Chose Local is such a Thing as is annexed to a Place, as a Mill, and the like: And Chose Transitory is that Thing which is moveable, and may be taken away, or carried from Place to Place: Chose in Action is a Thing incorporeal, and only a Right; as an Annuity, Obligation for Debt, &c. And generally all Causes of Suit for any Debt, Duty, or Wrong, are to be accounted Choses in Action: And it seems Chose in Action may be also called Chose in Suspence, because it hath no real Existence or Being, nor can properly be said to be in our Possession. Bro. Tit. Chose in Action. When a Man may bring an Action for some Duty, viz. Debt upon Bond, or for Rent; or Action of Covenant, or Trespals for Goods taken away, or such like; these are Choses in Action: And as they are Things whereof a Person is not possessed, but is put to his Action for Recovery of them, they are therefore called Choses in Action. 1 Lill. Abr. 264. A Person disseises me of Land, or takes away my Goods; my Right or Title of Entry into the Lands, or Action and Suit for it, and so for the Goods, is a Chose in Action: So a Debt on an Obligation, and Power and Right of Action to sue for the same. 1 Brownl. 33. And a Condition and Power of Re-entry into Land upon a Feoffment, Gift or Grant, before the Performance of the Condition, is of the Nature of a Chose in Action. Co. Litt. 214. 6 Rep. 50. Dyer 244. If one have an Advowson, when the Church becomes void, the Presentation is but as a Chose in Action, and not grantable: But 'tis otherwise before the Church is void. Dyer 296. Where a Man hath a Judgment against another for Money, or a Statute, these are Choses in Action. An Annuity in Fee to a Man and his Heirs, is grantable over: But it has been held, that an Annuity is Chose in Action, and not grantable. 5 Rep. 89. Fitz. Grant, 45. A Chose in Action cannot be transferred over; nor is it devisable: Nor can a Chose in Action be a Satisfaction, as one Bond cannot be pleaded to be given in Satisfaction for another; but in Equity Choses in Action may be assignable; and the King's Grant of a Chose in Action is good. Cro. Jac. 170, 371. Chan. Rep. 169. When Bonds are assigned, it is done with Power of Attorney to receive and sue in the Assignor's Name; so that though in this Case a Chose in Action is said to be assignable over, yet it amounts to little more than a Letter of Attorney to sue for the Debt. Wood's Inst. 282. A Man may authorise another to sue for a Debt due by Specialty in his Name, and by Agreement promise it to him when recovered; or he may give, grant or assign the Writing, and so deprive himself of the Means to recover the Debt, though such a Debt itself being a Chose in Action, cannot be regularly assigned over. 1 Shep. Abr. 337. Charters, where the Owner of the Land hath them in Possession, are grantable: A Possibility of an Interest or Estate in a Term for Years, is near to a Chose in Action, and therefore may not be granted; but a Possibility joined with an Interest, may be a grantable Chattel. Co. Litt. 265. 4 Rep. 66. Moor Ca. 1128. And this the Law doth provide to avoid Multiplicity of Suits, and the Subversion of Justice, which would follow if these Things were grantable from one Man to another. Dyer 30. Plowd. 185. But by Release Choses in Action may be released and discharged for ever; but then it must be to Parties and Privies in the Estate, &c. Church;

Church, (Ecclesia) Is a Temple or Building consecrated to the Honour of God and Religion, and anciently dedicated to some Saint, whose Name it assumed; or it is an Assembly of Persons united by the Profession of the same Christian Faith, met together for Religious Worship; and if it hath Administration of the Sacraments and Sepulture, it is in Law adjudged a Church. If the King founds a Church, he may exempt it from the Ordinary's Jurisdiction; but 'tis otherwise in Case of a Subject. The Manner of founding Churches in ancient Times was, after the Founders had made their Applications to the Bishop of the Diocese, and had his Licence; the Bishop or his Commissioners set up a Cross, and set forth the Church-yard where the Church was to be built; and then the Founders might proceed in the Building of the Church, and when the Church was finished, the Bishop was to consecrate it, and then and not before the Sacraments were to be administered in it. Stillingfleet's Ecclesiast. Cases. But by the Common Law and Custom of this Realm, any Person who is a good Christian, may build a Church without Licence from the Bishop, so as it be not prejudicial to any ancient Churches; though the Law takes no Notice of it as a Church, till consecrated by the Bishop, which is the Reason why Church and no Church, &c. is to be tried and certified by the Bishop. And in some Cases, though a Church has been consecrated, it must be consecrated again; as in Case any Murder, Adultery, or Fornication be committed in it, whereby it is defiled; or if the Church be destroyed by Fire, &c. The ancient Ceremonies in consecrating the Ground on which the Church was intended to be built, and of the Church itself after it was built, were thus: When the Materials were provided for Building, the Bishop came in his Robes to the Place, &c. and having prayed, he then perfumed the Ground with Incense, and the People sung a Collect in Praise of that Saint to whom the Church was dedicated; then the Corner-Stone was brought to the Bishop, which he crossed, and laid for the Foundation: And a great Feast was made on that Day, or on the Saint's Day to which it was dedicated; but the Form of Consecration was left to the Discretion of the Bishop, as it is at this Day. Some Bishops, who have consecrated Churches, on entering into them have pronounced the Place to be holy, In the Name of the Father, &c. then with their Reticue of grave Divines went round the Church, repeating the Hundredth Psalm, and a Form of Prayer, concluding, We consecrate this Church, and set it apart to Thee, O Lord Christ, as Holy Ground, &c. After which, turning to the Communion Table, and having bowed to it several Times, they pronounced Blessings on those who should be Benefactors, and Curses against those who should prophane that Place: And then a Sermon hath been preached, and the Sacrament administered with more than common Ceremony of Bowing, Kneeling, &c. A Church in general consists of three principal Parts, that is, the Belfrey or Steeple, the Body of the Church with the Isles, and the Chancel: And not only the Freehold of the whole Church, but of the Church-yard, are in the Parson or Rector; and the Parson may have an Action of Trespas against any one that shall commit any Trespas in the Church or Church-yard; as in breaking of Seats annexed to the Church, or the Windows, taking away the Leads, or any of the Materials of the Church, cutting the Trees in the Church-yard, &c. The Property of the Bells, Books, and other Ornaments, and the Goods of the Church, is in the Parishioners; but in the Custody of the Church-wardens, who may maintain Action of Trespas against such as shall wrongfully take them away. 1 Roll. Rep. 255. If a Man erect a Pew in a Church, or hang up a Bell, &c. therein, they thereby become Church Goods, though not expressly given to the Church; and he may not afterwards remove them. Stat. 10 H. 4. The Parson only is to give Licence to bury in the Church; but for defacing a Monument in a Church, &c. the Builder or Heir of the Deceased may have an Action. 2 Cra. 367. And a Man may be indicted for digging up the Graves of Persons buried, and taking away their Burial Dresses, &c. The Property whereof remains in the Party who was the Owner when used, and 'tis said an Offender was found guilty of Felony in this Case, but had his Clergy. Co. Litt. 113. Though the Parson hath the Freehold of the Church, he hath not the Fee-simple, which is always in Abeyance; but in some Respects the Parson hath a Fee-simple qualified. Litt. 644, 645. The Use of the Body of the Church, and the Seats fixed to the Freehold, is common to all the Parishioners that pay to the Repairs thereof. The Chancel of the Church is to be repaired by the Parson, unless there be a Custom to the contrary; and for these Repairs, the Parson may cut down Trees in the Church-yard, but not otherwise. 35 Ed. 1. The Church-wardens are to see that the Body of the Church and Steeple are in Repair; but not any Isle, &c. which any Person claims by Prescription, to him or his House: Concerning which Repairs the Canons require every Person who hath Authority to hold Ecclesiastical Visitation, to view their Churches within their Jurisdictions once in three Years, either in Person, or cause it to be done; and they are to certify the Defects to the Ordinary, and the Names of those who ought to repair them; and these Repairs must be done by the Church-wardens, at the Charge of the Parishioners. Can. 86. 1 Mod. 236. By the Common Law, Parishioners of every Parish are bound to repair the Church: But by the Canon Law, the Parson is obliged to do it; and so it is in Foreign Countries. 1 Salk. 164. In London the Parishioners repair both the Church and the Chancel. The Spiritual Court may compel the Parishioners to repair the Church, and excommunicate every one of them till it be repaired; but those that are willing to contribute shall be absolved till the greater Part agree to a Tax, when the Excommunication is to be taken off; but the Spiritual Court cannot assess them towards it. 1 Mod. 194. 1 Vent. 367. For though this Court hath Power to oblige the Parishioners to repair by Ecclesiastical Censures; yet they cannot appoint in what Sum, or set a Rate, for that must be settled by the Church-wardens, &c. 2 Mod. 8. Where a Church is so much out of Repair, that 'tis necessary to pull it down, in such Case, upon a general Warning to the Parishioners, the major Part meeting may make a Rate for pulling it down, and rebuilding it on the old Foundation, and it shall be good; and if any Parishioner refuse to pay his Proportion, they may libel against him in the Ecclesiastical Court. 2 Mod. 222. And if a Church be down, and the Parish is increased, the greater Part of the Parish may raise a Tax for the necessary Inlarging it, as well as the Repairing thereof, &c. 1 Mod. 237. But in some of our Books it is said, that if a Church falls down, the Parishioners are not obliged to rebuild it; though they ought to keep it in due Repair. 1 Ventr. 35. In a Case where Church-wardens made a Rate for Repairs of the Church, it was adjudged that the Parishioners ought to assess the Rate, and they are bound to repair the Church. 1 Salk. 165. Church Rates for Repairs, are to be made by the Church-wardens and the major Part of the Parishioners, which shall bind the others, after a general Notice given; and if the Parishioners refuse or neglect to meet, upon such Notice; or if on Meeting they refuse to make a Rate, then the Church-wardens and Overseers of the Poor may make a Rate, and levy it upon the Inhabitants, being first confirmed by the Ordinary or Archdeacon. And Rates for repairing of Churches, &c. are of Ecclesiastical Cognifance; and to be recovered in the Ecclesiastical Court:

Alfo

Also if a Parish is unequally rated, those who are grieved must plead it in the Spiritual Court, being sued there. 1 Ventr. 367. 2 Roll. Abr. 291. These Rates must be made upon the whole Parish, and not on particular Persons; and the Charge is in Respect of the Land, upon every Occupier, &c. If the Owner lives in another Parish, he shall be rated for Repairs in the Parish where the Lands lie, and not where he liveth; for though the Charge is upon the Person, yet 'tis in Regard of his Lands: If he let the same by Lease, then he shall be charged in Respect of the Rent reserved, and the Farmer shall make up the Rest. 2 Roll. Rep. 270. For Church Ornaments, Utensils, &c. the Charge is upon the Personal Estates of the Parishioners; and for this Reason Persons must be charged for these where they live: But though generally Lands ought not to be taxed for Ornaments, yet by special Custom, both Lands and Houses may be liable to it. 2 Inst. 489. Cro. Eliz. 843. Hutley 131. It has been resolved that no Man shall be charged for his Land to contribute to the Church Reckonings, if he do not reside in the same Parish. Moor 554. The Communion Tables are to be kept in Repair in Churches, and covered in Time of Divine Service with a Carpet, &c. And the Ten Commandments to be set up at the East End of every Church or Chapel, and other chosen Sentences of Scripture upon the Walls. And at the common Charge shall be provided a strong Chest with a Hole in the upper Part thereof, having three Keys, of which one shall be kept in the Custody of the Parson, and the other two by the Churchwardens severally; which Chest is to be fixed in a proper Place in the Church, to collect the Alms for the Poor; and the Alms shall be Quarterly distributed to the Poor, in the Presence of the Chief of the Parish. Can. 82, 83. By Statute, Churches not above six Pounds a Year in the King's Books, by Assent of the Ordinary, Patron and Incumbent, may be united: And in Cities and Corporations, &c. Churches may be united by the Bishop, Patrons, and Chief Magistrates, unless the Income exceeds 100 l. per Ann. and then the Parishioners are to consent, &c. 37 Hen. 8. cap. 21. 17 Car. 2. cap. 3. For completing of St. Paul's Church, and repairing Westminster Abbey, a Duty of 2 s. per Chaldron on Coals is granted; and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Bishop of London, Lord Mayor, &c. are appointed Commissioners: And the Church-yard is to be inclosed, and no Persons build thereon, except for the Use of the Church. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 14. 1 Ann. cap. 2. Fifty new Churches are to be built in or near London and Westminster, for the Building whereof a like Duty is granted upon Coals, and Commissioners appointed to purchase Lands, ascertain Bounds, &c. The Rectors of which Churches shall be appointed by the Crown, and the first Churchwardens and Vestrymen, &c. are to be elected by the Commissioners. 9 Ann. cap. 22. A Duty is also granted on Coals imported in London, to be appropriated for maintaining of Ministers for the Fifty new Churches. Stat. 1 Geo. 1. cap. 23. A Minister by Ordination of Priesthood receives Authority to preach in the Church, though he is nevertheless to have a Licence from the Bishop of the Diocese, &c. If a Layman be admitted and instituted to a Benefice, and doth administer the Sacraments, marry, &c. these Acts performed by him during the Time he continues Parson in Fact, are good. 3 Cro. 775. Ministers are to declare their Assent to the Thirty-nine Articles of Religion, &c. and are bound to read Morning and Evening Prayers, on every Holyday, on the 5th of November, the 30th of January, and on the 29th of May, as on the Lord's Day. And if any Minister shall use any Form of Church Service but such as is in the Book of Common Prayer, &c. he shall forfeit a Year's Profit of his Living, and suffer six Months Imprisonment for the first Offence; and for the second Offence be deprived, &c. Stat. 1 Eliz.

c. 2. And if a Parson in reading Prayers, stand or sit when he is appointed to kneel, or kneel when he should stand, &c. he is punishable by this Statute. If any Persons deprave the Book of Common Prayer, &c. they shall be imprisoned six Months, and forfeit 100 Marks. 13 & 14 Car. 2. cap. 4. Every Person is to repair to his Parish Church every Sunday, on Pain of forfeiting 1 s. for every Offence; and being present at any Form of Prayer used contrary to the Book of Common Prayer, is punished with six Months Imprisonment, &c. 1 Eliz. cap. 2. 23 Eliz. cap. 1. Persons above sixteen Years of Age, who absent from Church above a Month, are to forfeit 20 l. per Month, &c. But Protestant Dissenters are exempted from Penalties, by 1 W. & M. And a Person is not so bound to go to his Parish Church, but upon reasonable Excuse he may go to another; of which Excuse the Spiritual Courts are Judges. 2 Roll. Rep. 438, 455. No Man shall cover his Head in the Church, in Time of Divine Service, except he have some Infirmary, and then with a Cap; and all Persons are to kneel and stand, &c. as directed by the Common Prayer during Service. Can. 18. No ill Language is to be used, or Noise made in Churches or Church yards; and Persons striking others there, are to be excommunicated, and lose one of their Ears: And a Man may not lawfully return Blows in his own Defence in these Cases. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. cap. 4. Disturbing Ministers officiating Divine Service, incurs three Months Imprisonment, and a Forfeiture of 20 l. by Stat. 1 M. cap. 3. and 1 W. & M. Any Person may be indicted for indecent or irreverent Behaviour in the Church; and those that offend against the Acts of Uniformity, are Punishable either by Indictment upon the Statutes, or by the Ordinary, &c.

An Indictment for not coming to Church.

Wilts, ff. THE Jurors, &c. That A. B. of M. in the said County, Gent. on the Day of, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. being of the Age of sixteen Years and upwards, did not repair to his Parish Church of M. aforesaid, or to any other Church, Chapel, or usual Place of Common Prayer and Divine Service, at any Time within the Space of one Month next after the said Day of, &c. in the Year above mentioned, but did willingly and obstinately, without any lawful or reasonable Excuse, forbear to do the same, contrary to the Form of the Statute in such Case made and provided, in Contempt of our said Lord the now King and his Laws, and against the Peace, &c.

Churchwardens, (Ecclesie Guardiani) Are ancient Officers chosen yearly in Easter Week, by the Minister and Parishioners of every Parish, to look to and take Care of the Church and Church-yard, and the Things belonging to the same. They are to be chose by the joint Consent of the Parishioners and Minister; and by Custom the Minister may chuse one, and the Parishioners another; or by Custom the Parishioners alone may elect both, though it be against the Canon. 1 Vent. 267. They are sworn into their Offices by the Archdeacon; and if the Archdeacon refuseth to swear a Churchwarden, a Mandamus shall issue to compel him. 3 Cro. 551. As the Parishioners chuse Churchwardens, who have a Trust reposed in them by the Parish as Temporal Officers, they are the proper Judges of their Ability to serve, and not the Archdeacon who swears them. 5 Mod. 325. In the City of London, by special Custom, the Churchwardens with the Minister make a Corporation for Lands as well as Goods; and may as such, hold, purchase and take Lands for the Use of the Church, &c. And there is another Custom in London, for the Parishioners to chuse both Churchwardens exclusive of the Minister; who is also also there excused from repairing the Chancel of the Church. 2 Cro. 325. 1 Inst. 3. 1 Roll. Abr. 339. Church-wardens are a Corporation to sue and be sued for the Goods of the Church; and they may purchase Goods, but not Lands, except it be in London, by Custom. And they may have Appeal of Robbery for stealing the Goods of the Church. 1 Roll. Abr. 393. Cro. Eliz. 179. But Church-wardens cannot release to the Prejudice of the Church: Nor can they dispose of the Church Goods, without the Consent of the Vestry. If they waste the Goods of the Church, the new Church-wardens may have Actions against them, or call them to account before the Ordinary; though the Parishioners cannot have an Action against them for wasting the Church Goods, for they must make new Church-wardens, who must prosecute the former, &c. 1 Davv. Abr. 788. 1 Cro. 145. Bro. Account 1. The Church-wardens are to take Care of the Repairs of the Church; and if they erect, or add any Thing new to the same, they must have the Consent of the Parishioners or Vestry; and if in the Church the Licence of the Ordinary. 2 Inst. 489. 1 Vent. 367. They have with the Consent of the Minister, the Placing the Parishioners in the Seats of the Body of the Church, appointing Gallery Keepers, &c. referring to the Ordinary a Power to correct the same: And in London, the Church-wardens have this Authority in themselves. Particular Persons may prescribe to have a Seat, as belonging to them by Reason of their Estates, as being an ancient Messuage, &c. and the Seats having been constantly repaired by them: Also one may prescribe to an Isle in the Church, to sit and bury there, always repairing the same. 3 Inst. 202. 2 Cro. 366. If the Ordinary displaces a Person claiming a Seat in a Church by Prescription, a Prohibition shall be granted, &c. 12 Rep. 106. The Parson impropriate has a Right to the chief Seat in the Chancel; but by Prescription another Parishioner may have it. Nov's Rep. The Church-wardens shall suffer no Man to preach within their Churches, without producing his Licence: And they are to keep the Keys of the Bellstey, and take Care that the Bells be not rung without good Cause, to be allowed of by the Minister and themselves. Can. 50, 88. Church-wardens are to see that all the Parishioners duly resort to their Parish-Church, and there continue during the Time of Divine Service; they are not to permit any to stand idle, walk, or make any Noise in the Church, or to contend for Places, &c. they may apprehend those that disturb the Minister, &c. and justify the Appealing any Disorder in the Church or Church-yard; they are to chastise disorderly Boys, and take off the Hats of those who would irreverently keep them on. 1 Saund. 13. Further, they must search Ale-houses on Sundays, that there be no Persons therein, during the Divine Service; and execute Warrants against those who profane the Lord's Day, &c. Also levy Penalties on Persons not coming to Church, against Profaners of the Sabbath in Pastimes, Tipling, &c. and for Drunkenness, Cursing and Swearing, &c. by divers Statutes. And they are to present to the Ordinary all Things presentable by the Ecclesiastical Laws, which relate to the Church, the Parson, and Parishioners: These Presentments are made upon Oath, and usually twice a Year, especially at the Visitation: And what relates to the Church, is chiefly of Repairs, and whether there be a Box for Alms in the Church, a Bible, Common Prayer Book, and Book of Canons, a Desk for the Reader, Cushion for the Pulpit, a Communion Table, Table Cloth, Cups and Covers for Bread, Flagons and Font, a Register-Book, King's Arms set up, Lord's Prayer, Creed and Commandments in fair Letters, &c. What concerns the Parson, is whether he reads the thirty-nine Articles twice a Year, and the Canons once in the Year, Preaches every Sunday good Doctrine, reads the Common Prayer, celebrates the Sacraments, preaches in his Gown, visits the Sick, catechises Children, marries according to Law, &c. And what relates to the Parishioners, is whether they come to Church, and duly attend the Worship of God, if Baptism be neglected, Women not church'd, Persons Marrying in prohibited Degrees, or without Banns or Licence, Alms-houses or Schools abused, Legacies given to pious Uses, &c. They must likewise present Crimes and Offences, such as Drunkenness, Fornication, Adultery, Incest, Blasphemy, &c. and by Statute Popish Recusants: And if they refuse to make Presentments, the Parsons or Vicars, &c. may present to the Bishop all Crimes committed in their Parishes. Can. 117. 3 Cro. 291. 1 Vent. 114. At the End of the Year, the Church-wardens are to yield just Accounts to the Minister and Parishioners, and deliver what remains in their Hands to the Parishioners, or to the new Church-wardens: In Case they refuse, they may be presented at the next Visitation, or the new Officers may by Process call them to Account before the Ordinary, or sue them by Writ of Account at Common Law. And if all the Parish have allowed their Accounts of the Church Goods, the Ordinary may nevertheless call them to Account before him too, and punish them if he find Cause; but in laying out their Money, they are punishable for Fraud only, not Indiscretion. If their Receipts fall short of their Disbursements, the succeeding Church-wardens may pay them the Ballance, and place it to their Account. 1 Rol. Abr. 121. Can. 89, 109, &c. Disputes arising about Church-wardens Accounts are to be decided before the Ordinary: And for Disbursements of any Sum not exceeding 40*s.* the Church-wardens Oath alone is a sufficient Proof; but for all Sums above, Receipts are to be produced, &c. If Church-wardens through Improvidence, Indiscretion or Negligence, either waste the Church Goods in their Custody, or much damnify the Parish; on Proof thereof, they may be removed at any Time, by the Authority of the Ordinary. 8 El. 4. 6. 13 Co. 70. Besides their Ordinary Power, the Church-wardens have the Care of the Benefice during its Vacancy; and as soon as there is any Avoidance, they are to apply to the Chancellor of the Diocese for a Sequestration; which being granted, they are to manage all the Profits and Expences of the Benefice for him that succeeds, plough and sow his Glebes, gather in Tithes, thrash out and sell Corn, repair Houses, &c. and they must see that the Church be duly served by a Curate approved by the Bishop, whom they are to pay out of the Profits of the Benefice. 2 Inst. 489. And they are to join with the Overseers of the Poor, in making Rates for Relief of the Poor, setting up Trades for employing them, placing out poor Apprentices, settling poor Persons, &c. And in the Execution of their whole Office, by Statutes 43 Eliz. 14 Car. 2. 3 & 4 W. & M. &c. It is their Duty to collect the Charity Money upon Briefs, which are to be read in Churches, and the Sums collected, &c. to be indorsed on the Briefs in Words at Length, and signed by the Minister and Church-wardens; after which, they shall be delivered, with the Money collected to the Persons undertaking them, in a certain Time, under the Penalty of 20*l.* A Register is to be kept of all Money collected, &c. Also the Undertakers in two Months after the Receipts of the Money, and Notice to Sufferers, are to account before a Master in Chancery, appointed by the Lord Chancellor. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. They are to sign Certificates of receiving the Sacrament by Persons, to qualify them to bear Offices, &c. And in London and within the Bills of Mortality, they must fix Fire-Cocks, keep Engines, &c. in their Parishes, under the Penalty of 10*l.* For the Maintenance whereof, the Parish is to be assessed: And the first Person who brings in a Parish Engine, or other large Engine with a Socket, &c. when any Fire happens, shall be paid as an Encouragement 30*s.* the Person that brings in the second Engine 20 s. and the Third 10 s. &c. Stat. 6 Ann. & 7. There may be select Vestries elected in Parishes to make Rates, and take the Church-wardens Accounts, &c. But those that do not pay to any Church Rates have no Votes, except the Parson or Vicar. See Church.

Church-reeve, Is the same with Church-warden, (Reve in the Sax. being as much as Guardian in the French) the Guardian or Overseer of the Church: The Word is now out of Use, but is mentioned by Chaucer on the Jurisdiction of Archdeacons, viz.

Of Church-Reves, and of Testaments,
Of Contrails and of Lack of Sacraments.

Churcheslet, or Chirchset, Ciricseat, A Saxon Word used in Domesday, which is interpreted Quasi semen Ecclesie, Corn paid to the Church. Fleta says, it signifies a certain Measure of Wheat, which in Times past every Man on St. Martin's Day gave to Holy Church, as well in the Times of the Britains as of the Englsh; yet many great Persons after the Coming of the Romans, gave that Contribution according to the ancient Law of Moses, in the Name of First-Fruits; as in the Writ of King Canutus sent to the Pope is particularly contained, in which they call it Chirchsed, as one would say Church seed. Selden's Hist. Tithes, pag. 216.

Church-scot, Customary Oblations paid to the Parish-Priest; from which Duty the Religious sometimes purchased an Exemption for themselves and their Tenants.

Churle, Coerle Carl, Was in the Saxon Time a Tenant at Will, of free Condition, who held some Land of the Thanes, on Conditions of Rents and Services: Which Coerles were of two Sorts; one that hired the Lord's tenementary Estate, like our Farmers; the other that tilled and manured the Demesnes, (yielding Work and not Rent) and were thereupon called his Sockmen or Ploughmen. Spelm.

Cinque Ports, (Quinque Portus) Are those special Havens that lie towards France, and therefore have been thought by our Kings to be such as ought to be vigilantly guarded and preserved against Invasion: In which Respect they have an especial Governor, called Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, and divers Privileges granted them, as a peculiar Jurisdiction; their Warden having not only the Authority of an Admiral among them, but sending out Writs in his own Name, &c. Stat. 32 Hen. 8. c. 48. 4 Inst. 222. Camden tells us, that Kent is accounted the Key of England; and that William, called the Conqueror, was the first who made a Constable of Dover Castle, and Warden of the Cinque Ports, which he did to bring that Country under a stricter Subjection to his Government; but King John was the first who granted the Privileges to those Ports, which they still enjoy: However, it was upon Condition that they should provide a certain Number of Ships at their own Charge for forty Days, as often as the King should have Occasion for them in the Wars, he being then under a Necessity of having a Navy for passing into Normandy, to recover that Dukedom which he had lost. And this Service the Barons of the Cinque Ports acknowledged and performed, upon the King's Summons, attending with their Ships the Time limited at their proper Costs, and staying as long after as the King pleased at his own Charge. Somner of Rom. Ports in Kent. The Cinque Ports, as we now account them, are, Dover, Sandwich, Rumney, Winchelsea and Rye; and to these we may add Hythe and Hastings, which are reckoned as Part or Members of the Cinque Ports: Though by the first Institution, it is said that Winchelsea and Rye, were added as Members, and that the others were the Cinque Ports; there are also several other Towns adjoining that have the Privileges of the Ports. These Cinque Ports have certain Franchises to hold Pleas, &c. and the King's Writs do not run there: But on a Judgment in any of the King's Courts, if the Defendant hath no Goods, &c. but in the Ports; the Plaintiff may get the Record certified into Chancery, and from thence sent by Mittimus to the Lord Warden to make Execution. 4 Inst. 223. 3 Leon. 3. The Constable of Dover Castle, is Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports. And there are several Courts within the Cinque Ports; one before the said Constable, others within the Ports themselves, before the Mayors and Jurats; another which is called Curia quinque Portuum apud Shepway: There is likewise a Court of Chancery in the Cinque Ports, to decide Matters of Equity; but no original Writs issue thence. 1 Danv. Abr. 793. The Jurisdiction of the Cinque Ports is general, extending to Personal, Real and Mix'd Actions: And if any erroneous Judgment is given in the Cinque Ports before any of the Mayors and Jurats, Writ of Error lies not in B. R. but it shall be redressed, according to the Custom, by Bill in Nature of a Writ of Error, Coram Domino Custode seu Guardiano Quinque Portuum apud Curiam suam, &c. And in these Cases the Mayor and Jurats may be fined, and the Mayor removed, &c. 4 Inst. 224. Crompt. Jurisd. 138. It has been observed, that the Cinque Ports are not Jura Regalia, like Counties Palatine, but are Parcel of the County of Kent: So that if a Writ be brought against one for Land within the Cinque Ports, and he appears and pleads to it, and Judgment is given against him in the Common Pleas, this Judgment shall bind him; for the Land is not exempted out of the County, and the Tenant may waive the Benefit of his Privilege. Wood's Inst. 519. The Cinque Ports cannot award Process of Outlawry. Cro. Eliz. 910. And a Quo Minus lies to the Cinque Ports. Ibid. 911. If a Man is imprisoned at Dover by the Lord Warden, an Habeas Corpus may be issued; for the Privilege that the King's Writ lies not there is intended between Party and Party, and there can be no such Privilege against the King; and an Habeas Corpus is a Prerogative Writ, by which the King commands an Account of the Liberty of the Subjects. Cro. Jac. 543. 1 Nelf. Abr. 447. Certiorari lies to the Cinque Ports to remove Indictments; and the Jurisdiction that Brev. Dom. Regis non currit there, is only in Civil Causes between Party and Party: But this has been held to extend only to Indictments before the Mayors, Barons, &c. as Justices of Peace, on late Statutes, &c. Cro. Car. 252, 253. 2 Harok. P. C. 286, 287.

Circada, A Tribute anciently paid to the Bishop or Archdeacon for visiting the Churches. Du Fresne.

Circuit, or Circuitry of Action, (Circuitus Actionis) Is a longer Course of Proceeding to recover a Thing sued for than is needful: As if a Person grant a Rent-charge of 10 l. per Annum out of his Manor of B. and after the Grantee disseiseth the Grantor of the same Manor, who brings an Assise, and recovers the Land, and 20 l. Damages; which being paid, the Grantee brings his Action for 10 l. of his Rent due during the Time of the Disseisin, which he must have had if no Disseisin had been: This is called Circuitry of Action, because as the Grantor was to receive 20 l. Damages, and pay 10 l. Rent, he might have received but 10 l. only for Damages, and the Grantee might have kept the other 10 l. in his Hands by Way of Retainer for his Rent, and so saved his Action, which appears to be needless. Terms de Ley 128. This Example shews that an Action may be rightfully brought for a Debt or Duty, and yet be wrong; for that it might have been as well otherwise answered and determined.

Circumspecte Agatis, Is the Title of a Statute made Ann. 13 Ed. 1. relating to Prohibitions, prescribing certain Cases to the Judges, wherein the King's Prohibition lies not. 2 Inst. 487.

Circumstantibus, By-Standers; and signifies in our Law the Supply or making up the Number of Jurors, if any impanelled appear not, or appearing are challenged by either Party, by adding to them so many of those that are present or standing by that are qualified as will serve the Turn. Stat. 35 H. 8. cap. 6. The Act of Supplying is usually called a Tales de Circumstantibus. See Tales.

Citation, (Citatio) A Summons to appear, applied particularly to Process in the Spiritual Court. The Ecclesiastical Courts proceed according to the Course of the Civil and Canon Laws, by Citation, Libel, &c. A Person is not generally to be cited to appear out of the Diocese, or peculiar Jurisdiction where he lives; unless it be by the Archbishop, in Default of the Ordinary; where the Ordinary is Party to the Suit, in Cases of Appeal, &c. And by Law a Defendant may be sued where he lives, though 'tis for substracting Tithes in another Diocese, &c. 1 Nels. 449. By the Stat. 23 Hen. 8. cap. 9. Every Archbishop may cite any Person dwelling in any Bishop's Diocese within his Province for Heresy, &c. if the Bishop or other Ordinary consents, or if the Bishop or Ordinary, or Judge, do not his Duty in punishing the Offence. Where Persons are cited out of their Diocese, and live out of the Jurisdiction of the Bishop, a Prohibition or Consultation may be granted: But where Persons live in the Diocese, if when they are cited they do not appear, they are to be excommunicated, &c. The above Statute was made to maintain the Jurisdiction of inferior Dioceses; and if any Person is cited out of the Diocese, &c. where the Civil or Canon Law doth not allow it, the Party grieved shall have double Damages. If one defame another within the Peculiar of the Archbishop, he may be punished there; although he dwell in any remote Place out of the Archbishop's Peculiar. Godb. 190.

Citatio ad instantiam Partis, Is mentioned in 22 & 23 Car. 2. for laying Impositions on Proceedings at Law.

City, (Civitas) By Cowel is a Town Corporate, which hath a Bishop and Cathedral Church, which is called Civitas, Oppidum and Urbs; Civitas in Regard it is governed by Justice and Order of Magistracy; Oppidum, for that it contains a great Number of Inhabitants; and Urbs, because it is in due Form begirt about with Walls. But Crompton in his Jurisdictions, where he reckons up the Cities, leaveth out Ely, although it hath a Bishop and Cathedral Church; and puts in Westminster, though it hath at present no Bishop: And Sir Edward Coke makes Cambridge a City; yet there is no Mention that it ever was an Episcopal See. Indeed it appears by the Stat. 35 H. 8. cap. 10. that there was a Bishop of Westminster; since which, by 27 Eliz. cap. 5. it is termed a City, or Borough: And notwithstanding what the Lord Coke observes of Cambridge, by the Stat. 11 H. 7. c. 4. Cambridge is called only a Town. Kingdoms have been said to contain as many Cities as they have Seats of Archbishops and Bishops: But according to Blount, City is a Word which hath obtained since the Conquest; for in the Time of the Saxons there were no Cities, but all great Towns were called Burghs, and even London was then stiled Lunden Burgh; as the Capital of Scotland is now called Edinburgh. And long after the Conquest the Word City is used promiscuously with the Burgh, as in the Charter of Leicester 'tis call'd both Civitas and Burgus; which shews that those Writers were mistaken, that tell us every City was or is a Bishop's See: And though the Word City signifies with us such a Town Corporate as hath usually a Bishop and Cathedral Church; yet 'tis not always so.

Citizens, (Cives) Of London, are either Freemen, or such as reside and keep a Family in the City, &c. and some are Citizens and Freemen; and some are not, who have not so great Privileges as the others: The Citizens of London may prescribe against a Statute, because their Liberties are reinforced by Statute. 1 Roll. Rep. 105.

Civil Law, Is defined to be that Law which every particular Nation, Commonwealth or City, has established peculiarly for itself: Jus Civile est, quod quisque Populus sibi constituit. But more strictly the Civil Law is that which the old Romans used, compiled from the Laws of Nature and of Nations. The twelve Tables were also the Foundation of this Law; which for its great Wisdom is as it were the Common Law, or the Foundation of it, in all well governed Kingdoms, a very few only excepted; and no other Laws are esteemed comparable to it for its Equity. The Civil Law is either written or unwritten; and the written Law is Publick or Private: Publick, which immediately regards the State of the Commonwealth, as the Enacting and Execution of Laws, Consultations about War and Peace, Establishment of Things relating to Religion, &c. Private, that more immediately has Respect to the Concerns of every particular Person. The unwritten Law is Custom introduced by the tacit Consent of the People only, without any particular Establishment: The Authority of it is great, and it is equal with a written Law, if it be wholly uninterrupted, and of a long Continuance. The whole Civil Law, is contained in four Books or Tomes, 1. The Code. 2. The Pandects or Digests. 3. The Institutes. 4. The Novels or Authenticks. The Code is divided into twelve Books, and was the first Book of the Civil Law, which the Emperor Justinian ordered to be collected: It was published in the Year 529, and contains the Constitutions, &c. of fifty-six Emperors, and their wise Councils. The first Book of it treats of Religion, Priests, &c. Other Books are upon Trade, Merchandise, the Exchequer, &c. The Digest or Pandects, was collected from the Works and Commentaries of the ancient Lawyers, some whereof lived before the Coming of our Saviour: This Tome is divided into fifty Books; and upon a more particular Division, the whole Digest is divided into seven Parts: The first Part contains the Elements of the Law, as what is Justice, Right, &c. The second Part treats of Judges and Judgments: The third Part of personal Actions, &c. The fourth Part of Contracts, Pawns and Pledges: The fifth Part of Wills, Testaments, &c. The sixth Part of the Possession of Goods: The seventh Part of Obligations, Crimes, Punishments, &c. The Institutes, contain a System of the whole Body of Law, and are an Epitome of the Digest divided into four Books; but sometimes they correct the Digest: They are called Institutes, because they are of Instruction, and shew an easy Way to the obtaining a Knowledge of the Civil Law: But they are not so distinct and comprehensive as they might be, nor so useful at this Time as they were at first. The Novels or Authenticks were published at several Times without any Method: They are termed Novels as they are new Laws, and Authenticks, being authentically translated from the Greek into the Latin Tongue; and the whole Volume is divided into nine Collations, Constitutions or Sections, and they again into 168 Novels, which also are distributed into certain Chapters: The first Collation relates to Heirs, Executors, &c. The second, the State of the Church, The third is against Bawds: The fourth concerns Marriages, &c. The fifth forbids the Alienation of the Possessions of the Church: The sixth shews the Legitimacy of Children, &c. The seventh determines who shall be Witnesses: The eighth ordains Wills to be good, though imperfect, &c. And the ninth contains Matter of Succession in Goods, &c. To these Tomes

Tomes of the Civil Law we may add the Book of Feuds, which contains the Customs and Services that the Subject or Vassal doth to his Prince or Lord, for such Lands or Fees as he holdeth of him. The Constitutions of the Emperor, are either by a Rescript, which is the Letter of the Emperor in Answer to particular Persons who enquire the Law of him; or by Edict, which the Emperor establishes of his own Accord, that it may be generally observed by every Subject; or by Decree, which the Emperor pronounces between Plaintiff and Defendant, upon hearing a particular Cause. The Power of issuing forth Rescripts, Edicts and Decrees, was given to the Prince by the Lex Regia, wherein the People of Rome wholly submitted themselves to the Government of one Person, viz. Julius Cæsar, after the Defeat of Pompey, &c. And by this Submission the Prince could not only make Laws, but was esteemed above all coercive Power of them. The Matters wherein the whole Civil Law is generally exercised, relate either to Persons in the Common-wealth; or the Things belonging or not belonging to them; or to the Actions whereby Men claim such Things as are due to them by the Law, &c. The Civil Law is allowed in this Kingdom in the two Universities, for the training up of Students, &c. In Matters of foreign Treaties between Princes; marine Affairs Civil and Criminal; in the Ordering of Martial Causes; the Judgments of Ensigns and Arms, Rights of Honour, &c. Vide my Treatise of Laws, pag. 243, 396.

Civil List, To defray the extraordinary Charge of the Civil List, viz. for paying Debts and Arrears due to his Majesty's Servants, Tradesmen, &c. and other Uses of his Civil Government, 1,000,000 l. was granted by Parliament, by Stat. 11 Geo. 1. c. 16. Vide King's Household.

Clack Wool, Is to cut off the Sheep's Mark, which makes it weigh lighter; as to force Wool, signifies to clip off the upper and hairy Part thereof; and to bard it, is to cut the Head and Neck from the Rest of the Fleece. Stat. 8 Hen. 6. cap. 22.

Clades, Clida, Cleta, Cleia, from the Brit. Clic, and the Irish Clia. A Wattle or Hurdle: and a Hurdle for penning or folding of Sheep, is still in some Counties of England called a Cley. Paroch. Antiq. p. 575.

Claretum, A Liquor made of Wine and Honey, clarified or made clear by Decoction, &c. which the Germans, French and English, called Hippocras: And it was from this, the Red Wines of France were called Claret.—Ad hæc etiam in tanta abundantia vinum hic videas, & ficram, Pigmentum, & Claretum mustum & medonem. Girald. Camb. apud Wharton. Ang. Sax. Par. 2. p. 480.

Claim, (Clameum) Is a Challenge of Interest in any Thing that is in the Possession of another, or at least out of a Man's own, as Claim by Charter, by Descent, &c. And Claim is either verbal, where one doth by Words claim and challenge the Thing that is so out of his Possession; or it is by an Action brought, &c. and sometimes it relates to Lands, and sometimes to Goods and Chattels. Litt. Sect. 420. Where any Thing is wrongfully detained from a Person, this Claim is to be made; and the Party making it, may thereby avoid Descents of Lands, Disseisins, &c. and preserve his Title, which otherwise would be in Danger of being lost. Co. Litt. 250. A Man which hath present Right or Title to enter, must make a Claim; and in Case of Reversions, &c. one may make a Claim where he hath Right, but cannot enter on the Lands: When a Person dares not make an Entry on Land, for Fear of being beaten or other Injury, he may approach as near as he can to the Land, and claim the same; and it shall be sufficient to vest the Seisin in him. 1 Inst. 25. If nothing doth hinder a Man having Right to Land, from entering or making his Claim; there he must do so, before he shall be said to be in Possession of it, or can grant it over to another: But where the Party who hath Right, is in Possession already, and where an Entry or Claim cannot be made, it is otherwise. 1 Rep. 157. A Claim will devert an Estate out of another when the Party must enter into some Part of the Land; but if it be only to bring him into Possession, he may do it in View. By Claim of Lands in most Cases is intended a Claim with an Entry into Part of the Land, or by a near Approach to it. Co. Litt. 252, 254. Popb. 67. One in Reversion after an Estate for Years, or after a Statute-Merchant, Staple, or Elegit, may enter and make a Claim to prevent a Descent, or avoid a collateral Warranty. And Claim of a Remainder by Force of a Condition must be upon the Land, or it will not be sufficient. Co. Litt. 202. If a Man seised of Lands in Right of his Wife, make a Feoffment in Fee on Condition, and the Husband dieth, and then the Condition is broken, and the Heir enters; in this Case the Wife need not claim to get Possession of her Estate, for the Law doth vest it in her without any Claim. Co. Litt. 202. 8 Rep. 43. The Claim of the particular Tenant, shall be good for him in Reversion or Remainder; and of him in Reversion, &c. for particular Tenant: So Claim of a Copyholder, will be good for the Lord, &c. But if Tenant for Years, in a Court of Record claim the Fee of his Land, it is a Forfeiture of his Estate. Plowd. 359. Co. Litt. 251. A Claim may be made by the Party himself; and sometimes by his Servant or Deputy: And a Guardian in Socage, &c. may make a Claim or enter in the Name of the Infant that hath Right, without any Commandment. Co. Litt. 245. Claim or Entry should be made as soon as may be; and by the Common Law it is to be within a Year and a Day after the Disseisin, &c. and if the Party who hath unjustly gained the Estate, do afterwards occupy the Land, in some Cases an Assise, Trespass, or Forcible Entry may be had against him. Litt. Sect. 426, 430. If a Fine is levied of Lands, Strangers to it are to enter and make a Claim within five Years, or be barred: Infants after their Age, Feme Coverts after the Death of their Husbands, &c. have the like Time, by Stat. 1 R. 3. cap. 7. If a Disseisor levy a Fine, and the Disseisee enters his Claim in the Record of the Foot of the Fine, this is not such a Claim as shall avoid the Statute. 4 Hen. 7. cap. 24. 1 Litt. Abr. 270. See the Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. and Continual Claim.

Claim of Liberty, Is a Suit or Petition to the King in the Court of Exchequer, to have Liberties and Franchises confirmed there by the King's Attorney General. Co. Ent. 93.

Clamea admittenda in Itinere per Attornatum, A Writ by which the King commands the Justices in Eyre to admit a Person's Claim by Attorney who is employed in the King's Service, and cannot come in his own Person. Reg. Orig. 19.

Clap-board, Is Board cut in order to make Casks or Vessels; which shall contain three Foot and two Inches at least in Length: And for every six Ton of Beer exported, the same Cask, or as good, or 200 of Clap-boards shall be imported, by Statute 35 El. c. 11.

Claustura, Brushwood for Hedges and Fences. King Henry 3. gave to the Prior and Canons of Cbetwode, quinque carucatas Clausturæ ad prædictæ terræ Clausturam sustinendam. Paroch. Antiq. 247.

Clausum fregit, Signifies in our Law as much as Action of Trespass; and it is a Writ so called, because the Defendant is summoned thereby to answer Quare Clausum fregit of the Plaintiff, that is why he did such a Trespass. It is the Course of the Common Pleas, to declare in Actions (especially upon an Assumpsit or the like) upon a Quare Clausum fregit, as they do on a Latitat in the King's Bench. 2 Vent. 192, 259. But by the Lord Clarendon's Orders in Chancery, Curstors of that Court are not to make Writs of Clausum fregit, &c. in London, without special Warrant from the Lord Chancellor, or Master of the Rolls, unless it appear by Affidavit that the same is the proper Cause of Action, &c. In C. B. a Pone in Trespass, (and here the Proceedings are by Præcipe or Pone) according to the ancient Course, is made out thus: Wilts, ff. Si A. B. fec. &c. tunc Pone C. D. nuper de, &c. de Placito quare Vi & Armis Clausum & Domum ipsius A. fregit & alia enormia ei intulit, Ad grave Dampn. ipsius A. Et contra pacem, &c. This is delivered to the Filizer of the County to draw out the Capias, &c. And Debt may be added to it, *viz. Pone, &c. C. D. nuper de, &c. in Com. tuo Clausum freg. apud, &c. Cleptor. This Word is taken for a Rogue or Thief. Hoveden Anno 946.

Clergy, (Clerus) Signifies the Assembly or Body of Clerks, or Ecclesiastics, being taken for the whole Number of those who are De Clero Domini, of our Lord's Lot or Share, as the Tribe of Levi was in Judea; and are separate from the Noise and Bustle of the World, that they may have Leisure to spend their Time in heavenly Meditation and Prayer. And sometimes Clergy is used for a Plea to an Indictment of Felony, &c. being an ancient Privilege of the Church, where a Priest or one in Orders is arraigned of Felony, before a secular Judge, who may pray his Clergy; which is as much as if he prayed to be delivered to his Ordinary, to purge himself of the Offence objected against him. Staundf. P. C. lib. 2. cap. 41. Anciently the Clergy strongly insisted that by the Law of God their Persons were so sacred that they could not, without a Violation of that Law, be convened before, and much less be punished by any secular Judge; but it hath been observed that this is not warranted by Scripture: Though all Persons in Holy Orders have this Privilege from the Canon Law. 2 Hawk. P. C. 337. It is said by Lord Chief Justice Hale, that anciently Princes converted to Christianity, in Favour of the Clergy, and for encouraging them in their Offices and Employments, did grant to them very bountiful Privileges; as 1st, an Exemption of Places consecrated to religious Duties from Arrests for Crimes, which was the Original of Sanctuaries. 2dly, The Exemption of their Persons from criminal Proceedings, in some Cases capital before secular Judges; and this was the true Original of the Privilegium Clericale: The Clergy increasing in Wealth, Power and Interest afterwards set up for themselves; and that which they obtained by the Favour of Princes and States at first, they now began to claim as their Right, and that of the highest Nature Jure Divino; and by their Canons and Constitutions, procured vast Extensions of those Exemptions. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 323. As to the Clergy in general, they are Regular or Secular: Those are Regular, which live under certain Rules, being of some Religious Order, and are called Men of Religion, or the Religious: Such as all Abbots, Priors, Monks, &c. The Secular are those that live not under any certain Rules of the Religious Orders; as Bishops, Deans, Parsons, Vicars, &c. And although the Clergy claimed an Exemption from all secular Jurisdiction, yet Mat. Paris tells us, that soon after William the First had conquered Harold, he subjected the Bishopricks and Abbeys who held per Baroniam, that they should be no longer free from military Service; and for that Purpose he in an arbitrary Manner registred how many Soldiers every Bishoprick and Abbey should provide, and send to him and his Successors in Time of War; and having placed these Registers of Ecclesiastical Servitude in his Treasury, those who were aggrieved, departed out of the Realm: But the Clergy were not, till then, exempted from all secular Service; because by the Laws of King Edgar they were bound to obey the secular Magistrate in three Cases, viz. Upon any Expedition to the Wars, and to contribute to the Building and Repairing of Bridges, and of Castles for the Defence of the Kingdom. 'Tis probable that by Expedition to the Wars, it was not at that Time intended they should personally serve, but contribute towards the Charge: One they must do; as appears by the Petition to the King, Anno 1267, viz. Ut omnes Clerici tenentes per Baroniam vel feudum laicum, personaliter armati procederent contra Regios Adversarios, vel tantum servitium in Expeditione Regis invenirent, quantum pertineret ad tantam terram vel Tenementum. But their Answer was, That they ought not to fight with the Military, but with the Spiritual Sword, that is with Prayers and Tears; that they were to maintain Peace and not War, and that their Baronies were founded in Charity; for which Reason they ought not to perform any Military Service. Blount. That the Clergy had greater Privileges and Exemptions at Common Law than the Laity is certain; for they are confirmed to them by Magna Charta, and other ancient Statutes; but these Privileges are in a great Measure lost, the Clergy being included under general Words in later Statutes; so that Clergymen are liable to all publick Charges imposed by Act of Parliament, where they are not particularly excepted. Indeed they are not at this Day to undergo temporal Offices, as the Office of Sheriff, Constable, &c. (though they are sometimes in the Commission of the Peace, in which Commission they may either act as Justices, or not act at their Pleasure) nor are they to serve on Juries, or obliged to appear at Turns and Leets; or to be pressed to serve in the Wars in Person, although by Statutes they are compellable to contribute to the Charge of a War, and to Musters of the Militia: Their Bodies are not to be taken upon Statutes Merchant or Staple, &c. for the Writ to take the Body of the Conusor is Si laicus sit; and if the Sheriff or any other Officer arrest a Clergyman upon any such Process, it is said an Action of false Imprisonment lies against him that does it, or the Clergyman arrested may have a Superedeas out of the Chancery. In Action of Trespass, Account, &c. against a Person in Holy Orders, wherein Process of Capias lies, if the Sheriff return that the Defendant is Clericus Beneficiatus nullum habens Laicum feodum ubi Summoneri potest; in this Case the Plaintiff cannot have a Capias to arrest his Body; but the Writ ought to issue to the Bishop, to compel him to appear, &c. But on Execution had against such Clergyman, a Sequestration shall be had of the Profits of his Benefice. Clergymen may not be arrested in the Church, or Church-yard, while attending on Divine Service, &c. on Pain of Imprisonment, and Ranom at the King's Pleasure, and likewise to make Agreement with the Party; And he that beats a Clergyman, may be obliged to do Penance in the Spiritual Court. But these are all the Privileges remaining on Civil Accounts: Though by the Common Law, they were to be free from the Payment of Tolls, in all Fairs and Markets, as well for all the Goods gotten upon their Church Livings, as for all Goods and Merchandises by them bought to be spent upon their Restories; and they had several other Exemptions, &c. These Privileges, for the most part, have been allowed the Clergy, that they might with the more Freedom attend the Service of God and Religion, and be respected as they ought; and therefore they are not to undertake any secular Business, by which they may be diverted from their Duty, or be brought into Contempt. They are used like other Men in criminal Cases; except as to Burning in the Hand for Felony, from which upon producing of their Orders, or the Ordinary's Certificate, they ought to be freed: And though they have had the Privilege of the Clergy for a Felony, yet they may again have their Clergy, and so cannot a Layman. But see Stat. 28 H. 8. c. 1. In ancient Times Clergymen convicted of Crimes, were delivered over to the Ordinary, to be punished by the Ecclesiastical Laws; but this Privilege is long since abolished, nor was it ever allowed in Treason or Sacrilege. Wood's Inst. 24. Parson's Counc. 145, &c. 2 Inst. 4, 58, &c.

Benefit of Clergy, I have already said is an ancient Privilege, where one in Orders claimed to be delivered to his Ordinary to purge himself of a Felony. And this Purgation was to be by his own Oath affirming his Innocency, and the Oaths of twelve Compurgators as to their Belief of it, before a Jury of twelve Clerks: If the Clerk failed in his Purgation, he was deprived of his Character, whereby he became a mere Laymen, or he was to be kept in Prison till a Pardon was obtained: But if he purged himself, he was set at Liberty. Sometimes the Delivery to the Ordinary was without Purgation, as upon Attainder by Confession of the Felony, or by Verdict, where the Felony was notorious, and then the Clerk was to be degraded, or kept in Prison by the Ordinary, &c. though in these Cases the Ordinaries would frequently proceed to Purgation. But Purgation is now taken away by Stat. 18 Eliz. cap. 7. which enacts that where an Offender is admitted to his Clergy, after Burning in the Hand, he shall not be delivered to the Ordinary, but shall be enlarged by the Court, &c. And the Benefit of Clergy, and Burning in the Hand, comes in the Place of Purgation at Common Law. In ancient Times in the King's Courts where Felonies were determined, the Bishop or his Deputy were to attend to inform the Court whether the Felon could read as a Clerk or not; but the Court was still to judge of his Sufficiency. Since the Stat. 18 Eliz. Every Man to whom Benefit of Clergy was granted, hath been put to read at the Bar after found guilty, and convicted of Felony, and so burnt in the Hand, and set free for the first Time, if the Ordinary's Commissioner or Deputy standing by did say, — Legit ut Clericus; or otherwise he was to be hanged. But Reading at last, as well as Purgation, is wholly laid aside; for by the 5 Ann. c. 6. if any Person convicted of such Felony, for which he ought to have the Benefit of the Clergy, doth pray the Benefit of this Act, he shall not be required to read, but shall be punished as a Clerk convicted. A Lord of Parliament shall have the Benefit of his Clergy, though he cannot read, and without Burning in the Hand, for the first Time only; and the King may pardon the Burning of the Hand in others, which is not so much in Nature of a Punishment, as a Mark to notify that the Person may have his Clergy but once. The Privilege of Clergy is said to have its beginning from an Encroachment of the Pope upon the temporal Power, in Behalf of the Clergy, whom he endeavoured to exempt from the Jurisdiction of lay Judges in Case of Life and Member; which the temporal Courts would not yield to, but only in Part: And first they would indict Clerks for Felony, as well as others, and proceed thereon till the Ordinary did demand them; and if the Ordinary would not demand them, the King's Courts proceeded to Conviction, Attainder and Execution; and if the Ordinary did claim Clerks before Conviction, then an Inquisition was taken, whether the Party was guilty or not; and if acquitted, he was discharged; but if found guilty, then delivered to the Ordinary, &c. The Privilege so restrained was confirmed and established by the Statute of Westm. 1. cap. 2. and allowed by divers other Acts of Parliament: And though originally the Clergy never intended that any should have that Privilege, but those who were in Holy Orders; yet afterwards they extended it to those who were not strictly in Orders, but were Assistants to them in doing Divine Offices. And as to Laymen being admitted to this Privilege, it has been observed that in those Days few were bred to Literature, but those who were actually in Orders, or educated for that Purpose; and therefore the Way of Trial whether one was a Clerk or no, was by reading, of which the Court was judge; for if he could not read, the Court would not deliver him as a Clerk, though the Ordinary did claim him; and if he did read, he should be allowed as a Clerk, though the Ordinary refused him: And Reading being the Way of Trial, whether a Man was a Clerk or not, without further Examination into any other Qualification, by an equitable Construction of the Statutes that established and extended this Privilege, all Persons that so approved themselves by Reading, were allowed to be Clerks. Linwood 92, 100. Kel. 180. It appears by our Books that Laymen that could read ever had the Privilege of Clergy since the 25 Ed. 3. which Allowance never was condemned in Parliament, or complained of as a Grievance, but rather approved of: And by the 18 Eliz. all Persons as well Lay as Spiritual, have a Right to the Benefit of that Statute, for the first Offence, in the same Manner as Clergymen. Ibid. Though it was anciently the usual Method for the Ordinary to demand the Criminal as his Clerk, before the Court allowed him the Benefit of his Clergy; yet there was no Necessity for such Demand, but the Court might without it admit a Person to the Benefit of Clergy, on sufficient Evidence of his being a Clerk, as upon producing Letters of Orders, or reading as a Clerk, &c. except he appeared to have been guilty of Sacrilege, or of breaking of Prison of the Ordinary, in which Cases it is said to have been at the Discretion of the Ordinary, whether he should have his Clergy or not: And as there is no Necessity that the Ordinary should demand the Benefit of the Clergy for a Clerk; so neither is there any that the Prisoner himself should demand it, where it sufficiently appears to the Court that he hath a Right to it, in Respect of his being in Orders, &c. In which Case; if the Prisoner does not demand it, it is left to the Discretion of the Judge, either to allow, or not allow it him.

2 Hawk. P. C. 359. Those who demand the Benefit of Clergy, are to plead, and put themselves upon Trial; but after a Clerk hath put himself upon Trial, and the Inquest are charged with him, some Writers tell us, that he may, if he desire it, be admitted to his Clergy before the Jury come back; and shall not forfeit his Goods, unless they find him guilty. Ibid. 358. This Claim of Clergy might formerly be made on Arraignment, or as soon as the Prisoner was brought to the Bar: Afterwards it could not be claimed till after Conviction, because it is for the Advantage of the King as to the Forfeiture of the Lands and Goods of the Criminal Convict, and for the Advantage of the Party himself to make his Challenges to the Inquest; and perhaps he may be acquitted, and then he will not need this Privilege. 2 Inst. 164, 633. At Common Law, if the Party had not demanded his Clergy before Conviction, he lost it: But in the Time of H. 6. an Alteration was made in the Method of allowing Clergy, viz. That the Party indicted or appealed, was to answer to the Felony, and after Conviction, upon his Demand the Judge to allow him his Clergy; which Course has been ever since observed. Kel. 100. Clergy may be demanded after Judgment given against a Person, whether of Death, &c. And even under the Gallows, if there be a proper Judge there who has Power to allow it. 2 Hawk. 357. Clergy is never allow'd by the Civil Law; so that Pirates, &c. shall not have Clergy. 1 Nels. Abr. 449. The Common Law did not deny Clergy but in certain Cases; as in High Treason, or Sacrilege; where a Person was convict of Heresy; was a Turk, Jew, or Infidel, &c. Also Women were not allow'd it; but this is alter'd by Stat. 3 W. & M. By Statutes, Clergy is denied in a great many Felonies; though it is allowed in all Cases where not expressly taken away. And where Clergy is taken away expressly by any Statute, the Offence must be laid in the Indictment to be against that very Statute, and the Words of it, or the Offender shall have his Clergy. Kel. 104. H. P. C. 231.

Clergy is taken away by Statutes, in the following Cases; where Persons are convicted of Petit Treason, Murder, Robbing of Churches, Dwelling-Houses, or burning of Dwelling-Houses, Barns, &c. 23 H. 8. c. 1. 1 Ed. 6. &c. Also from Accessories to these Crimes. 4 & 5 P. & M. Persons guilty of Buggery. 25 H. 8. c. 6. Of Horse stealing. 1 Ed. 6. Robbing in Tents or Booths, in Fairs or Markets. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. Forging of false Deeds or Writings, the second Offence. 5 Eliz. 14. Taking of Money or Goods privately from the Person of another, without his Knowledge: And if any admitted to Clergy, hath before committed any other Offence where Clergy is not allowed, he may be tried for such Offence, as though there were no Admission of Clergy. 8 El. c. 4. Rapes of Women: And Stealing of them having Lands, &c. or being Heirs apparent. 18 El. cap. 7. 39 Eliz. cap. 9. Stabbing any Person, if he die of the Wound within six Months. 1 Jac. 1. c. 8. Acknowledging any Fine, Recovery, Deed enrolled, Statute or Recognisance, Bail or Judgment in the Name of another, not privy and consenting. 21 Jac. 1. c. 26. Concealing the Death of a Bastard Child, whether born alive or not. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 27. Cutting, taking, and stealing away Cloth from the Rack or Tenters, in the Night-Time; and purloining or embezzling Armor, Ordnance, or Habiliments of War, Naval Stores, &c. to the Value of 20 s. but the Judges may cause such Offenders to be transported. 22 Car. 2. c. 5. Cutting out, or disabling the Tongue, putting out any Eye, slitting or cutting off a Nose or Lip, or cutting off any Limb or Member, with a malicious Intent to maim or disfigure. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 1. Persons who shall rob any Dwelling-House in the Day-time, any Person being therein, or shall abet, or command any one in such Robbery; or break any Dwelling-House, Shop or Warehouse thereunto belonging, in the Day-time, and feloniously take away any Money or Goods, to the Value of 5 s. although no Person be therein, &c. 3 & 4 W. & M. c. 9. If any Person indicted of an Offence for which he would be excluded Clergy, shall stand mute, not answer directly, or challenge peremptorily above twenty Jurors, or shall be outlawed on the Indictment. Stat. Ibid. And where any Person hath once had the Benefit of Clergy, the Certificate of the Clerk of the Crown, Clerk of the Peace, or of the Assizes, shall be a sufficient Proof. Ibid. Forging or Counterfeiting the Seal of the Bank of England, or any Bank Bills. 7 & 8 W. 3. c. 31. Persons that by Night or Day, in any Shop, Warehouse, Coach-house or Stable, privately steal any Goods or Merchandises of the Value of 5 s. although the Shop be not broke, &c. 10 & 11 W. 3. c. 23. Setting forth Pirates, assisting or advising any Piracy; and receiving, entertaining or concealing such Pirate, or Vessels, Goods, &c. piratically taken. 11 & 12 W. 3. cap. 7. If any Master or Mariner shall cast away, burn or destroy any Ship: Or if any Person shall make a Hole in the Bottom of a Ship, steal any Pump, or do any Thing which tends to the Loss of the Ship. 1 Ann. c. 9. 12 Ann. c. 18. Where a Person convicted of Theft, shall have Benefit of Clergy, and be burnt in the Hand; the Court may commit the Offender to the House of Correction for any Time not under six Months, or above a Year, there to be kept at hard Labour. 5 Ann. c. 6. Counterfeiting Exchequer-Bills, or any Indorsement, &c. or tending any such counterfeit Bill, or demanding the same to be exchanged for Money knowing thereof. 7 Ann. c. 17. Unlawfully attempting to kill, or assaulting and striking, or wounding any one of the Privy Council, in the Execution of his Office. 9 Ann. c. 16. Forging the common Seal of the South-Sea Company; or forging or counterfeiting any Bond under the Seal of the said Company, or offering to dispose of any counterfeited Bond knowingly. 9 Ann. cap. 21. Forging or Counterfeiting any Stamp or Mark on Vellum, Paper, &c. to defraud the Crown of her Duty, or uttering Parchment, &c. with such counterfeit Stamp. 10 Ann. cap. 19. Forging or Counterfeiting any Lottery Order, or Altering the Number, or Sum of such Order. 12 Ann. c. 2. Servants stealing or purloining Goods, &c. of 40 s. Value from their Masters: But this is not to extend to Apprentices under 15 Years of Age, who shall rob their Masters. 12 Ann. c. 7. If any Persons to the Number of twelve, unlawfully and riotously assembled to the Disturbance of the Peace, required by a Justice of Peace, Mayor, &c. by Proclamation to disperse, continue together an Hour after; or if they obstruct such Proclamation, and then continue an Hour after the same. 1 Geo. 1. c. 5. Soldiers enlisted in his Majesty's Service, exciting or joining in any Mutiny or Sedition, or deserting the Service, &c. 3 Geo. 1. c. 2. If any Person shall be convicted of Grand or Petit Larceny, who by Law would be intitled to Clergy, (except Persons receiving or buying stolen Goods) the Court instead of ordering the Offender to be burnt in the Hand or Whipt, may order him to be sent to the Plantations for seven Years, &c. 4 Geo. 1. c. 11. Where any Person shall take any Money or Reward for helping another to stolen Goods, unless he cause the Felon to be apprehended, and brought to his Trial, and give Evidence against him. Ibid. If any one who shall become a Bankrupt, or any by his Order, shall remove, conceal, or imbezil any Goods whereof he or any Person in Trust for him was possessed or intitled to at the Time of the Bankruptcy, to the Value of 20 l. or any Books of Account, Bonds, Bills, Notes, Papers, &c. relating thereto. 5 Geo. 1. cap. 14. Forging, Counterfeiting or Altering any Receipt, or Warrant, &c. of the South-Sea Company upon Subscriptions for

Cognisance, (Fr. Connusance, Lat. Cognitio) Is used diversly in our Law: Sometimes it is an Acknowledgment of a Fine, or Confession of a Thing done; and there is a Cognisance of taking a Distress: Sometimes it is the Hearing of a Matter judicially; as to take Cognisance of a Cause: And sometimes it signifies a Jurisdiction, as Cognisance of Pleas is a Power to call a Cause or Plea out of another Court; which none can but the King, or by Charter. This Cognisance of Pleas is a Privilege granted by the King to a City or Town, to hold Plea of all Contracts, &c. within the Liberty of the Franchise; and when any Man is impleaded for such Matters in the Courts of Westminster, the Mayor, &c. of such Franchise may ask Cognisance of the Plea, and demand that it shall be determined before them: But if the Courts at Westminster be possessed of the Plea before Cognisance is demanded, it is then too late. Terms de Ley 178, 179. See Stat. 9 H. 4. c. 5. Cognisance of Pleas extends not to Affises; and when granted, the Original shall not be removed: It lies not in a Quare Impedit, for they cannot write to the Bishop; nor of a Plea out of the County-Court, which cannot award a Resummons, &c. Jenk. Cent. 31, 34. This Cognisance should be demanded the first Day: And if the Demandant in a Plea of Land counterpleads the Franchise, and the Tenant joins with the Claim of the Franchise, and it is found against the Franchise, the Demandant shall recover the Land; but if it be found against the Demandant, the Writ shall abate. Ibid. 18.—Cognisance also signifies the Badge of a Waterman or Servant, which is usually the Giver's Crest, whereby he is known to belong to this or that Nobleman or Gentleman.

Cognisor and Cognissee, Cognisor, Is he that passeth or acknowledgeth a Fine of Lands or Tenements to another; and Cognissee is he to whom the Fine of the said Lands, &c. is acknowledged. Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 5.

Cognitionibus Mittendis, Is a Writ to one of the King's Justices of the Common Pleas, or other that hath Power to take a Fine, who having taken the Fine defers to certify it, commanding him to certify it. Reg. Orig. 68.

Cognovit Actionem, Is where a Defendant acknowledges or confesses the Plaintiff's Cause against him to be just and true, and after Issue suffers Judgment to be entered against him without Trial. And here the Confession generally extends no further than to what is contained in the Declaration; but if the Defendant will confess more, he may. 1 Roll. 929. Hob. 178.

Cogware, Is said to be a Sort of coarse Cloths, made in divers Parts of England, of which Mention is made in the 13 R. 2. cap. 10.

Cobuagium, A Tribute paid by those who meet promiscuously in the Market or Fair; Cobua signifying a promiscuous Multitude of Men in a Fair or Market. — Quieti ab omni Tbeloneo, Passagio, Pontagio, Cohuagio, Pallagio, &c. Du Cange.

Coif, (Coifa) A Title given to Serjeants at Law; who are called Serjeants of the Coif, from the Lawn Coif they wear on their Heads under their Caps, when they are created. The Use of it was anciently to cover Tonsuram Clericalem, otherwise called Corona Clericalis; because the Crown of the Head was close shaved, and a Border of Hair left round the lower Part, which made it to look like a Crown. Blount.

Coit, (Cuna Pecunia) Seems to come from the Fr. Coign, i. e. Angulus, a Corner, whence it has been held, that the ancientest Sort of Coin was square with Corners, and not round as it now is: It is any Sort of Money coined. Crompt. Jurisd. 220. Coin is a Word collective, which contains in it all Manner of the several Stamps and Species of Money in any Kingdom: And this is one of the Royal Prerogatives belonging to every Sovereign Prince, that he alone in his own Dominions may order and dispose the Quantity and Value, and Fashion of his Coin. But the Coin of one King is not current in the Kingdom of another, unless it be at great Loss; though our King by his Prerogative may make any Foreign Coin lawful Money of England at his Pleasure, by Proclamation. Terms de Ley 136. If a Man binds himself by Bond to pay one hundred Pounds of lawful Money of Great Britain, and the Person bound, the Obligor, pays the Oblige the Money in French, Spanish, or other Coin, made current either by Act of Parliament, or the King's Proclamation, the Obligation will be well performed. 1 Inst. 207. But 'tis said a Payment in Farthings, is not a good Payment. 2 Inst. 517. When a Person has accepted of Money in Payment from another, and put the same into his Purse, it is at his Peril after his Allowance; and he shall not then take Exception to it as bad, notwithstanding he presently reviews it. Terms de Ley. By Statute any Person may break or deface Pieces of Silver Money suspected to be counterfeit or diminished, otherwise than by wearing: But if such Pieces on breaking, &c. are found to be good Coin, it will be at the Breaker's Peril, who shall stand to the Loss of it. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 21. Coins of Gold and Silver are to pass notwithstanding some of them are crack'd, or worn, but not if they are clipt. 19 H. 7. c. 5. Counterfeiting, Impairing, or Clipping of the King's Coin, is made High Treason. 25 Ed. 3. c. 14. and 18 Eliz. cap. 7. It is also Treason to make any Stamp, Dye, Mould, &c. for coining, except by Persons employed in the Mint, &c. Conveying such out of the Mint, is the same; and so is colouring Metal resembling Coin of Gold or Silver, marking it on the Edges, &c. And if any Persons mix blanched Copper with Silver, to make it heavier, and look like Gold, or receive, or pay counterfeit milled Money, it is Felony. 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 26. Counterfeiting Broad Pieces of Gold, &c. is declared to be Treason. Stat. 6 Geo. 2. cap. 26. Persons that wash or gild any Shilling, or Six Pence, or alter the Impression, so as to make them resemble a Guinea, Half Guinea, &c. are adjudged guilty of High Treason; and those who tender in Payment, any counterfeit Coin, knowingly, shall be imprisoned six Months for a first Offence, two Years for the second, and a Third suffer as Felons. 15 Geo. 2. c. 28. The Statutes which ordain milled Money to be made, give Liberty to any Person to refuse hammered Silver Coin, as not being the lawful Coin of this Kingdom. 9 W. 3. c. 2. Counterfeiting of the Coin extends only to Gold and Silver Coin; for the Coining of Farthings or Half-pence, or Pieces to go for such, of Copper, incurs a Penalty of 5 l. for every Pound Weight, by Stat. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 33. This Offence is now punished with two Years Imprisonment, and Surety to be given by the Offenders for good Behaviour two Years more. 15 Geo. 2. Persons apprehending Money Coiners, Clippers, &c. are to have 40 l. Reward; and a guilty Person discovering two others, to be pardoned, &c. 6 & 7 W. 3. By the late Statute, 10 l. is also given as a Reward, for apprehending and convicting Coiners of Copper Money. In the seventh Year of King William III. an Act was made for calling in all the old Coin of the Kingdom, and to melt it down and recoin it; the Deficiencies whereof were to be made good at the publick Charge: And in every Hundred Pound coined, 40 l. was to be Shillings, and 10 l. Sixpences, under certain Penalties. Persons bringing Plate to the Mint to be coined, were to have the same Weight of Money delivered out, as an Encouragement, and Receivers General of Taxes, &c. were to receive Money at a large Rate per Ounce. Our Guineas have been raised and fallen, as Money has been scarce or plenty, several Times by Statute: And Ann. 3 Geo. 1. on a Scarcity of Silver Coin, for Remedy, Guineas were sunk to 21 s. at which they now pass by Proclamation. See Money.

An Indictment for Coining of Money.

Somerset, ff. THE Jurors, &c. That A. B. of &c. not having God before his Eyes, but being seduced by the Insigation of the Devil, on the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. at the Parish of, &c. in the said County, did falsely and traiterously forge, counterfeit and Coin twenty Pieces of Brass and Copper, and other mixed Metals, to the Resemblance and Likeness of good, lawful and current Money of the King of this Kingdom of England, called Shillings; and knowing the said twenty Pieces, so to be falsely and traiterously counterfeited and coined, the said A. B. afterwards, that is to say, on the said Day of, &c. in the &c. Year above said, at, &c. in the said County, and elsewhere, deceitfully, falsely, and traiterously did expose, pay and utter six Pieces thereof, to divers Subjects of our said Sovereign Lord the King, for the true, lawful and current Money of England, to the great Prejudice and Deceit of the Subjects of our said Lord the King, and against the Peace, &c. and also against the Form of the Statute, &c.

Coinage, (Cunagium) Is the Stamping and Making of Money, by the King's Authority. And there is a Duty of 10 s. per Ton on Wine, Beer, and Brandy imported, called the Coinage Duty, granted for Expence of the King's Coinage, but not to exceed 3000 l. per Ann. Stat. 18 Car. 2. cap. 5. This Duty for Coinage hath been continued and advanced, by divers Statutes, as 4 & 5 Ann. c. 22. 1 Geo. 1. c. 43. 9 Geo. 1. &c. The Coinage Duties are continued for seven Years, by a late Statute; and the Commissioners of the Treasury, out of the Money arising by this Act, or other publick Supplies, shall defray the Expence of the Mints of England and Scotland, not exceeding 15000 l. a Year. Stat. 4 Geo. 2. c. 12.

Coliberts, (Coliberti) Were Tenants in Socage; and particularly such Villeins as were manumitted or made Freemen. Domesday. But they had not an absolute Freedom; for though they were better than Servants, yet they had superior Lords to whom they paid certain Duties, and in that Respect they might be be called Servants, though they were of middle Condition, between Freemen and Servants.—Libertate carens Colibertus dicitur esse. Du Cange.

Collateral, (Collateralis) From the Lat. Lateralis, Sideways, or that which hangeth by the Side, not direct: As Collateral Assurance is that which is made over and above the Deed itself: Collateral Security, is where a Deed is made of other Land, besides those granted by the Deed of Mortgage: And if a Man covenants with another, and enters into Bond for Performance of his Covenant, the Bond is a Collateral Assurance; because it is external, and without the Nature and Essence of the Covenant. If a Man hath Liberty to pitch Booths or Standings, for a Fair or Market in another Person's Ground; it is Collateral to the Ground. The private Woods of a common Person, within a Forest, may not be cut down without the King's Licence; it being a Prerogative Collateral to the Soil. And to be subject to the Feeding of the King's Deer, is Collateral to the Soil of a Forest. Crompt. Jurisd. 185. Manwood, p. 66.

Collateral Discent, and Collateral Warranty. See Discent and Warranty.

Collatio Honorum, Is in Law where a Portion or Money advanced by the Father to a Son or Daughter, is brought into Hotchpot, in order to have an equal distributory Share of his personal Estate, at his Death, according to the Intent of the Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 10. Abr. Caf. Eq. p. 254. See Hotchpot.

Collation of a Benefice, (Collatio Beneficii) Signifies the Bestowing of a Benefice by the Bishop, when he hath Right of Patronage. And it differs from Institution in this, that Institution is performed by the Bishop upon the Presentation of another, and Collation is his own Act of Presentation; and it differeth from a common Presentation, as it is the Giving of the Church to the Parson, and Presentation is the Giving or Offering of the Parson to the Church. But Collation supplies the Place of Presentation and Institution; and amounts to the same as Institution, where the Bishop is both Patron and Ordinary. 1 Lit. Abr. 273. Anciently the Right of Presentation to all Churches, was in the Bishop; and now if the Patron neglects to present to a Church, then this Right returns to the Bishop by Collation: And if the Bishop neglects to collate within six Months after the Lapse of the Patron, then the Archbishop hath a Right to do it; and if the Archbishop neglects, then it devolves to the King; the one as Superior, to supply the Defects of Bishops, the other as Supreme, to reform all Defects of Government. As a Bishop may neglect to collate, so it may happen that he may make his Collation without Title; but such a wrongful Collation doth not put the true Patron out of Possession; for after the Collatee of the Bishop is instituted and inducted, he may present his Clerk: And Collation in this Case, shall be intended only as a provisional Incumbency to perform Divine Service till Presentment is made by the true Patron. 1 Inst. 344. By Collation the Church is not full; and a right Patron may bring his Writ at any Time to remove the Person collated; except his Right be likewise to collate, when Plenary by Collation may be pleaded. Wood's Inst. 159. Where a Bishop gives a Benefice as Patron, he collates to it Jure Pleno; and when by Lapse, he doth it Jure devoluto. The Collation by Lapse, is in Right of the Patron, and for his Turn: And in Assise of Darrein Presentment, &c. it shall be laid as his Possession. 24 Ed. 3. 26. F. N. B. 31.

Collatione facta uni post Mortem alterius, Is a Writ directed to the Justices of the Common Pleas, commanding them to issue their Writ to the Bishop, for the Admission of a Clerk in the Place of another presented by the King; who died during the Suit between the King and the Bishop's Clerk: For Judgment once passed for the King's Clerk, and he dying before Admittance, the King may bestow his Presentation on another. Reg. Orig. 31.

Collatione Heremitagii, A Writ whereby the King conferred the Keeping of an Hermitage upon a Clerk. Reg. Orig. 303, 308.

Collation of Seals, This was when upon the same Label, one Seal was set on the Back or Reverse of the other.—Ad majorem securitatem Præmissorum Sigillum discreti viri Officialis Domini Batho Well. Episcopi sibi medio per modum Collationis, sigillo meo apponi procuravi. Cartular. Abbat. Glaston. MS. 105.

Collectors, of Money due to the King, not paying the same to whom it ought to be paid, shall answer so much per Cent. to his Majesty till Payment. Stat. 20 Car. 2. c. 2. See Receivers.

College, (Collegium) A particular Corporation, Company or Society of Men, having certain Privileges, founded by the King's Licence: And for Colleges in Reputation, see 4 Rep. 106, 108. Vide Leases.

Collegiate Church, Is that which consists of a Dean and secular Canons; or more largely, it is a Church built and endowed for a Society, or Body Corporate, of a Dean or other President, and secular Priests, as Canons or Prebendaries in the said Church. There were many of these Societies distinguished from the Religious or Regulars, before the Reformation: And some are established at this Time; as Westminster, Windsor, Winchester, Southwell, Muncaster, &c.

Colloquium, (a Colloquendo) A Talking together, or affirming of a Thing, laid in Declarations for Words in Actions of Slander, &c. Mod. Caf. 203. Cartberw 90.

Collusion, (Collusio) Is a deceitful Agreement or Contract between two, or more Persons, for the one to bring an Action against the other, to some evil Purpose, as to defraud a third Person of his Right, &c. This Collusion is either apparent, when it shews itself in the Face of the Act; or which is more common, it is secret, where done in the Dark, or covered over with a Shew of Honesty. And 'tis a Thing the Law abhors; wherefore when found, it makes void all Things dependant upon the same, though otherwise in themselves never so good. Co. Litt. 109, 360. Plowd. 54. Collusion may sometimes be tried in the same Action wherein the Covin is, and sometimes in another Action, as for Lands aliened in Mortmain by a Quale jus: And where it is apparent there needs no Proof of it; but when it is secret, it must be proved by Witnesses, and found by a Jury like other Matters of Fact. 9 Rep. 33. The Statute of Westm. 2. 13 Ed. 1. c. 33. gives the Writ Quale jus, and Inquiry in these Cases: And there are several other Statutes relating to Deeds, made by Collusion and Fraud. The Cases particularly mentioned by the Statute of Westm. 2. are of Quare Impedit, Affise, &c. which any Corporation brings against another, with Intent to recover the Land or Advowson, for which the Writ is brought, held in Mortmain, &c. Vide the Statute.

Colonus, An Husbandman or Villager, who was bound to pay yearly a certain Tribute, or at certain Times in the Year to plough some Part of the Lord's Land; and from hence comes the Word Clown; who is called by the Dutch Boor.

Colour, (Color) Signifies a probable Plea, but what is in Fact false; and hath this End, to draw the Trial of the Cause from the Jury to the Judges: And therefore Colour ought to be Matter in Law, or doubtful to the Jury. This Colour is used in Assises, or Action of Trespas; and every Colour ought to have these Qualities following: 1. It is to be doubtful to the Lay-Gens, as in Case of a Deed of Feoffment pleaded, and it is a Doubt whether the Land passeth by the Feoffment, without Livery, or no. 2. Colour ought to have Continuance, though it wants Effect. 3. It should should be such Colour, that if it were effectual, would maintain the Nature of the Action; as in Assise, to give Colour of Freehold, &c. 10 Rep. 88, 91. Colour must be such a Thing, which is a good Colour of Title, and yet is not any Title. Cro. Jac. 122. If a Man justifies his Entry for such a Cause as binds the Plaintiff or his Heirs for ever, he shall not give any Colour: But if he pleads a Descent in Bar, he must give Colour, because this binds the Possession, and not the Right; so that when the Matter of the Plea bars the Plaintiff of his Right, no Colour must be given. When the Defendant entitles himself by the Plaintiff; where a Person pleads to the Writ, or to the Action of the Writ; he who justifies for Tithes, or where the Defendant justifies as Servant: In all these Cases no Colour ought to be given. 10 Rep. 91. Lutw. 1343. Where the Defendant doth not make a Special Title to himself, or any other, he ought to give Colour to the Plaintiff. Cro. Eliz. 76. In Trespass for Taking and Carrying away Twenty Loads of Wood, &c. the Defendant says, that A. B. was possess'd of them, ut de bonis propriis, and that the Plaintiff claiming them by Colour of a Deed after made, took them, and the Defendant retook them; and adjudged that the Colour given to the Plaintiff, makes a good Title to him, and confesseth the Interest in him. 1 Lill. Abr. 275. Colour is for this Cause, viz. Where the Defendant justifies by Title in Trespass or Assise, if he do not give the Plaintiff Colour, his Plea amounteth only to Not guilty; for if the Defendant hath Title, he is not guilty. 7 Rep. 79, 108. Terms de Ley 140.

Colour of Office, (Color Officii) Is when an Act is evilly done by the Countenance of an Office; and always taken in the worst Sense, being grounded upon Corruption, to which the Office is as a Shadow and Colour. Plowd. Comment. 64. See Extortion.

Colpiers, (Colpicium, Colpicis) Young Poles, which being cut down, make Leavers or Lifters; and in Warwickshire they are called Colpius to this Day. Blount.

Colpo, A small Wax-Candle, à Copo de Cera: We read in Hoveden, that when the King of Scots came to the English Court, as long as he staid there, he had every Day, De Liberatione triginta sol. & duodecim vascellos Dominicos, & quadraginta grossos longos Colpones de Dominica Candela Regis, &c. Anno 1194.

Combarones, The Fellow Barons, or Commonality of the Cinque Ports: King Hen. 3. grants to the Barons, or Freemen of the Port of Feverham, quietantiam de omni Thelonia, & Consuetudine, sicut ipsi & antecessores sui, & Combarones sui de quinque Portibus eam melius & plenius habuerunt tempore Regis Edwardi. Placit. temp. Ed. 1. & Ed. 2. But the Title of Barons of the Cinque Ports is now given to their Representatives in Parliament; and the Word Combaron is used for a Fellow Member, the Baron and his Combaron.

Comba terræ, From Sax. Cumbe, Brit. Kurn, Eng. Comb, a Valley or low Piece of Ground or Place between two Hills; which is still so called in Devonshire and Cornwall: Hence many Villages in other Parts of England have their Names of Comb, as Wickcomb, &c. from their Situation. Kennet's Gloss.

Combat, (Fr.) Is taken with us for a formal Trial between two Champions, of a doubtful Cause or Quarrel, by the Sword or Baltons. The last Trial by Combat in this Kingdom was Anno 6 Car. 1. between Donald Lord Rey, Appellant, and David Ramsey, Esq; Defendant, both Scotchmen, before Robert Earl of Lindsey, Lord High Constable, Thomas Earl of Arundel, Earl Marshal, with other Lords; when after the Court had met several Times in the Painted Chamber, and other Formalities, it was at last referred to the King's Will and Pleasure, who was inclined to favour Ramsey. Co. Litt. 294. Orig. Juridical. fol. 65. See Battel.

Combinations to do unlawful Acts, are punishable before the unlawful Act is executed; this is to prevent the Consequence of Combinations, and Conspiracies, &c. 9 Rep. 57. See Confederacy.

Combustio Pecuniæ, The ancient Way of Trying mixt and corrupt Money, by melting it down upon Payments into the Exchequer. In the Time of King Henry 2. a Constitution was made called the Trial by Combustion; the Practice of which differed little or nothing from the present Method of assaying Silver. But whether this Examination of Money by Combustion, was to reduce an Equation of Money only of Sterling, viz. a due Proportion of Allay with Copper; or to reduce it to a fine pure Silver with Allay, doth not appear. On making the Constitution of Trial, it was considered, that though the Money did answer Numero & Pondere, it might be deficient in Value; because mix'd with Copper or Brass, &c. Vide Lowndes's Essay upon Coins, p. 5.

Comitatus, A County. Inghelphus tells us, That England was first divided into Counties by King Afred; and Counties into Hundreds, and these again into Tithings: And Fortescus writes, that Regnum Angliæ per Comitatus ut Regnum Franciæ per Ballivatus distinguitur. Sometimes it is taken for a Territory or Jurisdiction of a particular Place, as in Mat. Paris. Anno 1234. Infra Metas illas continentur quedam prædia & etiam Civitates & Castra, quas Comitatus suo assignare præsumunt. And in Charta H. 2. apud Hoveden: Castellum de Nottingham cum Comitatu, &c. And, De firmis mortuis & debitis, de quibus non est spes, fiat unus Rotulus, & intitulatur Comitatus, & legatur singulis Annis super Computum Vicariorum. Clauſ. 12 Ed. 1. See County.

Comitatu Commissio, Is a Writ or Commission whereby a Sheriff is authorised to take upon him the Charge of the County. Reg. Orig. 295.

Comitatu & Castro Commissio, A Writ by which the Charge of a County, together with the Keeping of a Castle, is committed to the Sheriff. Reg. Orig. Ibid.

Comitibus, A Companion or Fellow Traveller; 'tis mentioned in Brompton, Regn. H. 2. And sometimes it signifies a Troop or Company of Robbers; as in Walsingham, Anno 1366. Interpellaverunt auxilium Regis Angliæ contra Magnos Comitibus, &c.

Commandry, (Præceptoria) Was any Manor or Chief Messuage, with Lands and Tenements thereto appertaining, which belonged to the Priory of St. John of Jerusalem in England; and he who had the Government of such a Manor or House was stiled the Commander, who could not dispose of it but to the Use of the Priory, and only taking thence his own Sustainance, according to his Degree. New Eagle in Lincolnshire was and still is called the Commandry of Eagle, and did anciently belong to the said Priory of St. John: So Selbach in Pembrokeshire, and Sbingy in Cambridgeshire, were Commandries in the Time of the Knights Templers, says Camden: And these in many Places of England are termed Temples, because they formerly belonged to the said Templers. Stat. 26 H. 8. c. 2. The Manors and Lands belonging to the Priory of St. John of Jerusalem, were given to King Hen. 8. by the Stat. 32 H. 8. about the Time of the Dissolution of Abbies and Monasteries; so that the Name only of Commandries remains, the Power being long since extinct.

Commandment, (Præceptum) Is diversly taken; as the Commandment of the King, when upon his own Motion he hath cast any Man into Prison. Commandment of the Justices, Absolute or Ordinary; Absolute, where upon their own Authority they commit a Person for Contempt, &c. to Prison, as a Punishment; Ordinary is when they commit one rather for safe Custody, than for any Punishment: And a Man committed upon such an ordinary Commandment is repleviable.

vifable. Staufd. P. C. 72, 73. Persons committed to Prison by the Special Command of the King, were not formerlyailable by the Court of King's Bench; but at this Day the Law is otherwise declared and settled, as appears under Bail. 2 Hawk. P. C. 96. In another Sense of this Word; Magistrates may Command others to assist them in the Execution of their Offices, for the doing of Justice; and so may a Justice of Peace to suppress Riots, apprehend Felons; an Officer to keep the King's Peace, &c. Bro. 3. A Master may Command his Servant to drive another Man's Cattle out of his Ground, to enter into Lands, seize Goods, distrain for Rent, or do other Things; if the Thing be not a Trespas to others. Fitz. Abr. The Commandment of a Thing is good, where he that Commands hath Power to do it: And a verbal Command in most Cases is sufficient; unless it be where it is given by a Corporation, or when a Sheriff's Warrant is to a Bailiff to arrest, &c. Bro. 288. Dyer 202. Commandment is also used for the Offence of him that willet another Man to transgress the Law, or do any Thing contrary to it: And in the most common Signification, it is taken where one willet another to do an unlawful Act; as Murder, Theft, or the like: Which the Civilians call Mandatum. BraEt. lib. 3. c. 19. He that commandeth any one to do an unlawful Act, is Accessary to it and all the Consequences, if it be executed in the same Manner as commanded: But if the Commander revoke the Command; or if the Execution varies from it, or in the Nature of the Offence, in such Case he will not be Accessary. 3 Inst. 51, 57. 2 Inst. 182. If a Man command another to commit a Felony on a particular Person, and he doth it on another, as to kill A. and he kills B. or to burn the House of A. and he burns the House of B. or to steal one Thing, and he steals another; or to commit a Felony of one Kind, and he commits another; it is said that the Commander is not an Accessary, because the Act done varies in Substance from that which was commanded. H. P. C. 217. Plowd. 475. But where a Person commands or advises another to kill such a one in the Night, and he kills him in the Day; or to kill him in the Fields, and he kills him in the Town; or to poison him, and he stabs or shoots him; these Acts being the same Felony in Substance with that which was intended, and varying only in Circumstances, in Respect to Time, Place, &c. the Commander is as much an Accessary as if there had been no Variance at all between the Command and the Execution of it. 2 Hawk. 316. If I command a Man to rob another, and he kills him in the Attempt, though he doth not rob him, I am guilty of the Murder; it being the direct and immediate Effect of an Act done in Execution of my Command to commit a Felony: And if the Command be to beat a Person, and the Person commanded beat him in such a Manner that he dies thereof, I am an Accessary before to the Felony; because it happened in the Execution of a Command, which tended to endanger the Life of the other. Also it is said, that if one command another to burn the House of a certain Person, and he by Burning it burn likewise the House of another, the Commander is equally accessary to the subsequent Felony, as to that which was directly commanded. Ibid. 315, 316. To Command or Counsel any one to commit Burglary, is Felony without Benefit of Clergy. Stat. 3 & 4 W. & M. In Forcible Entries, &c. an Infant or Feme Covert may be guilty in Respect of actual Violence done by them in Person; though not in Regard to what shall be done by others at their Command, because all such Commands of theirs are void. Co. Litt. 357. 1 Hawk. 147. In Trespas, &c. the Master shall be charged criminally for the Act of the Servant, done by his Command; but Servants shall not be excused for committing any Crime, when they act by Command of their Masters; who have no Authority over them to give such Command. DoE. & Stud. c. 42. H. P. C. 66. Kel. 13. And if a Master commands his Servant to distrain, and he abuseth the Distress, the Servant shall answer it to the Party injured, &c. Kitch. 372.

Commarchio, The Confines of the Land; from whence probably comes the Word Marches.—Imprimis de nostris Landimeris, Commarchionibus. Du Cange.

Commendam, (Ecclesia Commendata, vel Custodia Ecclesie alicui commissa) Is the Holding of a Benefice or Church-Living, which being void, is commended to the Charge and Care of some sufficient Clerk, to be supplied until it may be conveniently provided of a Pastor: And he to whom the Church is commended, hath the Profits thereof only for a certain Time, and the Nature of the Church is not changed thereby, but is as a Thing deposited in his Hands in Trust, who hath nothing but the Custody of it, which may be revoked. When a Parson is made Bishop, there is a Cession or Voidance of his Benefice by the Promotion; but if the King by Special Dispensation gives him Power to retain his Benefice, notwithstanding his Promotion, he shall continue Parson, and is said to hold it in Commendam. Hob. 144. Latch 236. As the King is the Means of Avoidances on Promotions to Dignities, and the Presentations thereon belong to him, he often on the Creation of Bishops grants them Licences to hold their Benefices in Commendam; but this is usually where the Bishopricks are small, for the better Support of the Dignity of the Bishop promoted: And it must be always before Consecration; for afterwards it comes too late, because the Benefice is then absolutely void. A Commendam, founded on the Statute 25 H. 8. is a Dispensation from the supreme Power, to hold or take an Ecclesiastical Living contra jus Positivum: And there are several Sorts of Commendams, as a Commendam Semestris, which is for the Benefit of the Church without any Regard to the Commendatory, being only a Provisional Act of the Ordinary, for Supplying the Vacation of six Months, in which Time the Patron is to present his Clerk; and is but a Sequestration of the Cure and Fruits until such Time as the Clerk is presented: A Commendam Retinere, which is for a Bishop to retain Benefices, on his Preferment; and these Commendams are granted on the King's Mandate to the Archbishop, expressing his Consent, which continues the Incumbency, so that there is no Occasion for Institution. A Commendam Recipere is to take a Benefice de Novo in the Bishop's own Gift, or in the Gift of some other Patron, whose Consent must be obtained. Dyer 228. 3 Lev. 381. Hob. 143. Dav. 79. A Commendam may be Temporary for six or twelve Months; two or three Years, &c. or it may be perpetual, i. e. for Life, when it is equal to a Presentation, without Institution or Induction. But all Dispensations beyond six Months, were only permissive at first, and granted to Persons of Merit: The Commendam Retinere is for one or two Years, &c. and sometimes for three or six Years, and doth not alter the Estate which the Incumbent had before: A Commendam Retinere, as long as the Commendatory should live and continue Bishop, hath been held good. Vaugb. 18. The Commendam Recipere must be for Life, as other Parsons and Vicars enjoy their Benefices; and as a Patron cannot present to a full Church, so neither can a Commendam Recipere be made to a Church that is then full. Sbow. 414. A Benefice cannot be commended by Parts, any more than it may be presented unto by Parts; as that one shall have the Glebe, another the Tithes, &c. Nor can a Commendatory have a Juris Utrum, or take to him and his Successors, sue or be sued, in a Writ of Annuity, &c. But a Commenda perpetua may be admitted to do it. 1 H. 4. Compl. Incumb. 360. See Nels. Abr. 454.

Commendatoꝝ, (Commendatarius) Is he that hath a Church-Living or Preferment in Commendam.

Commendatoꝝ Letters, Are such as are writ by one Bishop to another, in Behalf of any of the Clergy, or others of his Dioceſe, travelling thither, that they may be received among the Faithful: Or that the Clerk may be promoted; or Neceſſaries adminiſtered to the others, &c. ſeveral Forms of theſe Letters may be ſeen in our Hiſtorians, as in Bede, lib. 2. c. 18.

Commendatus, One that lives under the Protection of a Great Man. Spelm. Commendati Homines were Perſons who by voluntary Homage put themſelves under the Protection of any ſuperior Lord: For ancient Homage was either Predial, due for ſome Tenure; or Perſonal, which was by Compulſion, as a Sign of neceſſary Subjection; or voluntarily, with a Deſire of Protection: And thoſe, who by voluntary Homage put themſelves under the Protection of any Men of Power, were ſometimes call'd Homines ejus Commendati; and ſometimes only Commendati, as often occurs in Domeſday. Commendati Dimidii were thoſe who depended on two ſeveral Lords, and paid one Half of their Homage to each: And Sub-Commendati were like Under-Tenants, under the Command of Perſons that were Dependants themſelves on a ſuperior Lord: Alſo there were Dimidii ſub-commendati, who bore a double Relation to ſuch depending Lords. Domeſday. This Phraſe ſeems to be ſtill in Uſe, in the uſual Compliment, Commend me to ſuch a Friend, &c. which is to let him know, I am his humble Servant. Spelm. of Feuds, cap. 20.

Commerce, (Commercium) Traffick, Trade or Merchandiſe in Buying and Selling of Goods. See Merchant.

Commiſſary, (Commiſſarius) Is a Title in the Eccleſiaſtical Law, belonging to one that exerciſeth Spiritual Jurisdiction, in Places of a Dioceſe which are ſo far from the Episcopall City, that the Chancellor cannot call the People to the Biſhop's Principal Conſiſtory Court, without their too great Inconvenience. This Commiſſary was ordained to ſupply the Biſhop's Jurisdiction and Office in the Out-places of the Dioceſe; or in ſuch Places as are peculiar to the Biſhop, and exempted from the Jurisdiction of the Archdeacon: For where, either by Preſcription or Compoſition, Archdeacons have Jurisdiction within their Archdeaconries, as in moſt Places they have, this Commiſſary is ſuperfluous and oftentimes vexatious, and ought not to be; yet in ſuch Caſes a Commiſſary is ſometimes appointed by the Biſhop, he taking Preſtation-Money of the Archdeacon yearly pro exteriori Jurisdictione, as it is ordinarily called. But this is held to be a Wrong to Archdeacons and the poorer Sort of People. Cowell's Interp. 4 Inſt. 338.

Commiſſion, (Commiſſio) Is taken for the Warrant or Letters Patent, which all Men exerciſing Jurisdiction either ordinary or extraordinary, have to authoriſe them to hear or determine any Cauſe or Action: As the Commiſſion of the Judges, &c. Commiſſion is with us as much as Delegatio with the Civilians: And this Word is ſometimes extended farther than to Matters of Judgment; as the Commiſſion of Purveyance, &c. Commiſſions of Inquiry ſhall be made to the Juſtices of one Bench or the other, &c. and to do lawful Things, are grantable in many Caſes: Alſo moſt of the great Officers, Judicial and Miniſterial, of the Realm, are made by Commiſſion. And by ſuch Commiſſions, Treasons, Felonies, and other Offences, may be heard and determined; by this Means likewise, Oaths, Cogniſance of Fines, Answers are taken, Witneſſes examined, Offices found, &c. Bro. Abr. 12. Rep. 39. Stat. 42 E. 3. c. 4. Commiſſion of Anticipation, Was a Commiſſion under the Great Seal to collect a Tax or Subſidy before the Day. 15 H. 8.

Commiſſion of Association, Is a Commiſſion to associate two or more learned Perſons with the Juſtices in the ſeveral Circuits and Counties of Wales, &c. 18 Eliz. c. 9.

Commiſſion of Bankrupts, Where any Perſon is become a Bankrupt within any of the Statutes againſt Bankrupts, on Security given to prove the Party a Bankrupt, &c. this Commiſſion iſſues from the Lord Chancellor to certain Commiſſioners appointed to take Order with the Bankrupt's Lands and Goods, for the Satisfaction of the Creditors. Stat. 34 H. 8. 13 Eliz. c. 7. 1 Jac. 1, &c.

Commiſſion of Charitable Uſes, Goes out of the Chancery to the Biſhop and others, where Lands given to Charitable Uſes are miſemploy'd, or there is any Fraud or Diſputes concerning them, to enquire of and redreſs the Abufe, &c. 43 Eliz. c. 4.

Commiſſion of Delegates, Is a Commiſſion under the Great Seal to certain Perſons, uſually two or three Temporal Lords, as many Biſhops, and two Judges of the Law, to ſit upon an Appeal to the King in the Court of Chancery, where any Sentence is given in any Eccleſiaſtical Cauſe by the Archbiſhop. Stat. 25 H. 8. c. 19.

Commiſſion to enquire of Faults againſt the Law, Was an ancient Commiſſion ſent forth on extraordinary Occaſions and Corruptions.

Commiſſion of Lunacy, A Commiſſion out of Chancery to enquire whether a Perſon repreſented to be Lunatick be ſo or not, that if Lunatick the King may have the Care of his Eſtate, &c. 17 Ed. 2. c. 10.

Commiſſion of Rebellion, Otherwiſe called a Writ of Rebellion, iſſues when a Man after Proclamation made by the Sheriff, upon a Proceſs out of the Chancery, on Pain of his Allegiance, to preſent himſelf to the Court by a Day aſſign'd, makes Default in his Appearance: And this Commiſſion is directed to certain Perſons, to the End they, Three, Two, or One of them apprehend the Party, or cauſe him to be apprehended as a Rebel and Contemner of the King's Laws, whereſoever found within the Kingdom, and bring or cauſe him to be brought to the Court on a Day therein aſſigned: This Writ or Commiſſion goes forth after an Attachment returned, Non eſt inventus, &c. Terms de Ley 144.

Commiſſion of Sewers, Is directed to certain Perſons to ſee Drains and Ditches well kept and maintained in the marſhy and ſenny Parts of England, for the better Conveyance of the Water into the Sea, and preſerving the Graſs upon the Land. Stat. 23 H. 8. c. 5. 13 Eliz. c. 9.

Commiſſion of Treaty with Foreign Princes, Is where Leagues and Treaties are made and tranſacted between States and Kingdoms, by their Ambaſſadors and Miniſters, for the mutual Advantage of the Kingdoms in Alliance.

Commiſſion to take up Men for War, Was a Commiſſion to preſs or force Men into the King's Service.

Commiſſioner, (Commiſſionarius) Is he that hath a Commiſſion, Letters Patent, or other lawful Warrant, to examine any Matters, or to execute any publick Office, &c. And ſome Commiſſioners are to hear hear and determine Offences, without any Return made of their Proceedings; and others to Inquire and Examine, and certify what is found. 4 H. 4. 9. Commissioners by the Common Law must pursue the Authority of the Commission, and perform the Effect thereof; and they are to observe the ancient Rules of the Courts whence they come; and if they do any Thing for which they have not Authority, it will be void. 2 Co. Rep. 25. Co. Litt. 157. The Office of Commissioners is to do what they are commanded; and it is necessarily implied, that they may do that also, without which what is commanded cannot be done: Their Authority when appointed on any Statute Law, must be used as the Statutes prescribe. 12 Rep. 32. If a Commission is given to Commissioners to execute a Thing against Law, they are not bound to accept or obey it: Commissioners not receiving a Commission may be discharged; upon Oath before the Barons of the Exchequer, &c. and the King by Superjedas out of Chancery, may discharge Commissioners. Besides Commissioners relating to judicial Proceedings; there are Commissioners of the Treasury, of the Customs, Wine-Licences, Alienations, &c. of which there is an infinite Number.

Committee, Are they to whom the Consideration or Ordering of any Matter is referred, by some Court, or by Consent of Parties to whom it belongs: As in Parliament, a Bill either consented to and passed, or denied, or neither, but referred to the Consideration of certain Persons appointed by the House farther to examine it, who are thereupon called a Committee. And when a Parliament is called, and the Speaker and Members have taken the Oaths, and the standing Orders of the House are read, Committees are appointed to sit on certain Days, viz. The Committee of Privileges and Elections, of Religion, of Grievances, of Courts of Justice, and of Trade; which are the standing Committees. But though they are appointed by every new Parliament, they do not all of them act, only the Committee of Privileges; and this being not of the whole House, is first called in the Speaker's Chamber, from whence it is adjourned into the House, every one of the House having a Vote therein, though not named, which makes the same usually very numerous: And any Member may be present at any select Committee; but is not to vote unless he be named. The Chairman of the Grand Committee, who is always some leading Member, sits in the Clerk's Place at the Table, and writes the Votes for and against the Matter referred to them; and if the Number be equal, he has a casting Voice, otherwise he hath no Vote in the Committee; and after the Chairman hath put the Question for Reporting to the House, if that be carried, he leaves the Chair, and the Speaker being called to his Chair, (who quits it in the Beginning, and the Mace is laid under the Table) he is to go down to the Bar, and so bring up his Report to the Table. After a Bill is read a second Time in the House of Commons, the Question is put, whether it shall be committed to a Committee of the whole House, or a Private Committee; and the Committees meet in the Speaker's Chamber, and report their Opinion of the Bill with the Amendments, &c. And if there be any Exceptions against the Amendments reported, the Bill may be recommitted: Eight Persons make a Committee, which may be adjourned by Five, &c. Lex Constitutionis 147, 150. There is a Committee of the King, mentioned in Wess's Symb. Tit. Chancery, Sect. 144. And this hath been used, though improperly, for the Widow of the King's Tenant being dead, who is called the Committee of the King, that is, one committed by the ancient Law of the Land to the King's Care and Protection. Kitch. fol. 160. See Parliament.

Commitment, Is the sending of a Person to Prison, by Warrant or Order, who hath been guilty of any Crime: And it may be by the King and Council, by the Judges of the Law, Justices of Peace, and other Magistrates, who have Authority by the Laws and Statutes of the Realm to do it, which must be exactly pursued. Every Commitment to Prison ought generally to be made by Warrant under the Hand and Seal of him that commits the Party, and the Cause of Commitment is to be expressed in the Warrant, &c. And where a Man is committed as a Criminal, it must be until he is discharged according to due Course of Law; but if it be for Contumacy, then 'tis only until he comply and perform the Thing required. Cartber's Rep. 153. If the Words of a Statute are not pursued in a Commitment, the Party shall be discharged by Habeas Corpus. Ibid. 291. See Bail, Imprisonment.

Commoigne, (Fr.) A Word signifying a Fellow Monk, that lives in the same Convent. 3 Inst. 15.

Commonalty, (Populus, Plebs, Communitas) In Art. super Chartas, 28 Ed. 1. c. 1. Tout le Commune d'Engleterre signifies all the People of England. 2 Inst. 539. But this Word is generally used for the middle Sort of the King's Subjects, such of the Commons as are raised beyond the ordinary Sort, and coming to have the Managing of Offices, by that Means are one Degree under Burgesses, which are superior to them in Order and Authority; and in Companies incorporated they are said to consist of Masters, Wardens, and Commonalty, the first Two being the Chief, and the others such as are usually called of the Livery. The ordinary People, and Freeholders, or at best Knights and Gentlemen, under the Degree of Baron, having been of late Years called Communitas Regni, or Tota terra Communitas; but anciently the Barons and Tenants in Capite, or military Men, were the Community of the Kingdom; and those only were reputed as such in our most ancient Histories and Records. Brady's Gloss. to his Introduct. to Engl. Hist.

Common, Communia, (i. e. Quod ad omnes pertinet) Signifies that Soil whereof the Use is common to this or that Town or Lordship. Or it is a Profit that a Man hath in the Land of another Person, usually in Common with others; or a Right which a Person hath to put his Cattle to Pasture into Ground that is not his own. And there is not only Common of Pasture; but also Common of Fishing; Common of Estovers; Common of Turbary, &c. and in all Cases of Common, the Law doth much respect the Custom of the Place, for there the Rule is Consuetudo loci est observanda. 7 Rep. 5. Common of Pasture is divided into Common in Gros, Common Appendant, Common Appurtenant, and Common pur Cause de Vicinage. Common in Gros is a Liberty to have Common alone, without any Lands or Tenements, in another Person's Land, granted by Deed to a Man and his Heirs, or for Life, &c. F. N. B. 31, 37. 4 Rep. 30. Common Appendant is a Right belonging to a Man's arable Land, of putting Beasts commonable into another's Ground. And Common Appurtenant is belonging to an Estate for all Manner of Beasts commonable or not commonable. 4 Rep. 37. Plowd. 161. Common Appendant and Appurtenant, are in a Manner confounded, as appears by Fitzherbert; and are there defined to be a Liberty of Common appertaining to or depending on a Freehold; which Common must be taken with Beasts commonable, as Horses, Oxen, Kine and Sheep; and not with Goats, Hogs and Geese. But some make this Difference, that Common Appurtenant may be severed from the Land whereto it pertains; but not Common Appendant, which, according to Sir Edward Coke, had this Beginning: When a Lord enfeoffed another of arable Land, to hold of him in Socage, the Feoffee to maintain the Service of his Plough, had at first by the Curtesy or Permission of the Lord, Common in his Wastes for necessary Beasts to ear and compost his Land, and that for two Causes; one, for that it was tacitly implied in the Feoffment, by Reason the Feoffee could not till or compost compoſt his Land without Cattle, and Cattle could not be ſuitained without Paſture; ſo by Conſequence the Feoffee had, as a Thing neceſſary and incident, Common in the Waſte and Lands of the Lord: And this may be collected from the ancient Books and Statutes: And the ſecond Reaſon of this Common was, for the Maintenance and Advantage of Tillage, which is much regarded and favoured by the Law. F. N. B. 180. 4 Rep. 37. Common pur Cauſe de Vicinage, Common by Reaſon of Neighbourhood, is a Liberty that the Tenants of one Lord in one Town have to Common with the Tenants of another Lord in another Town: It is where the Tenants of two Lords have uſed Time out of Mind to have Common promiſcuouſly in both Lordſhips, lying together and open to one another. 8 Rep. 78. And thoſe that challenge this Kind of Common, which is uſually called Intercommoning, may not put their Cattle in the Common of the other Lord, for then they are diſtrainable; but they may turn them into their own Fields, and if they ſtray into the Neighbour Common, they muſt be ſuffered. Terms de Ley 146. The Inhabitants of one Town or Lordſhip may not put in as many Beaſts as they will, but with Regard to the Freehold of the Inhabitants of the other; for otherwiſe it were no good Neighbourhood, upon which all this depends. Ibid. If one Lord encloſes the Common, the other Town cannot then common; but though the Common of Vicinage is gone, Common Appendant remains. 7 Rep. 5. 4 Rep. 38. Every Common pur Cauſe de Vicinage is a Common Appendant. 1 Darv. Abr. 799. Common Appendant is only to ancient arable Land; not to a Houſe, Meadow, Paſture, &c. It is againſt the Nature of Common Appendant, to be appendant to Meadow or Paſture: But if in the Beginning Land be arable, and of late a Houſe hath been built on ſome Part of the Land, and ſome Acres are employ'd to Meadow and Paſture, in ſuch Caſe it is appendant; though it muſt be plead- ed as appendant to the Land, and not to the Houſe, Paſture, &c. 1 Nelf. Abr. 457. This may be Common Appendant, though it belongs to a Manor, Farm, or Plough land: And Common Appendant is of Common Right; but it is not Common Appendant, unleſs it has been appendant Time out of Mind. 1 Darv. 746. It may be upon Condition; be for all the Year, or for a certain Time, or for a certain Number of Beaſts, &c. by Uſage: Though it ought to be for ſuch Cattle as plough and compoſt the Land, to which it is appendant. Ibid. 797. Common Appendant may be to Common in a Field after the Corn is ſever'd, till the Ground is reſown: So it may be to have Common in a Meadow after the Hay is carried off the ſame till Candlemas, &c. Yelv. 185. This Common, which is in its Nature without Number, by Cuſtom may be limited as to the Beaſts: Common Appurtenant ought always to be for thoſe Levant and Couchant, and may be Sans Number. Plowd. 161. A Man may preſcribe to have Common Appurtenant for all Manner of Cattle, at every Seaſon in the Year. 25 Aff. 8. Common by Preſcription for all Manner of Commonable Cattle as belonging to a Tenement, &c. muſt be for Cattle Levant and Couchant upon the Land, (which is ſo many as the Land will maintain) or it will not be good: And if a Perſon grants common ſans Number, the Grantee cannot put in ſo many Cattle, but that the Grantor may have ſufficient Common in the ſame Land. 1 Darv. Abr. 798, 799. He who hath Common Appendant or Appurtenant, can keep but a Number of Cattle proportionable to his Land; for he can common with no more than the Lands to which his Common belongs is able to maintain. 3 Salk. 93. Common Appurtenant may be to a Houſe, Paſture, &c. though Common Appendant cannot; but it ought to be preſcribed for as againſt Common Right: And uncom- monable Cattle, as Hogs, Goats, &c. are appurtenant: This Common may be created by Grant at this Day; ſo may not Common appendant. 1 Inf. 122. 1 Roll. Abr. 398. If a Man grant Common to another in Land wherein he hath nothing, if he afterwards purchaſes the Land, this ſhall be a good Common appurtenant: And it is not neceſſary that he ſhould have the Land at the Time of the Grant. 1 Darv. 800. If A. hath Common in the Lands of B. as appurtenant to a Meſſuage, and after B. enfeoffs A. of the ſaid Lands, whereby the Common is extinguished; and then A. leaſes to B. the ſaid Meſſuage and Lands, with all Commons, &c. Occupat' vel uſitat' cum præd. Meſſuagio; this is good Grant of a new Common for the Time. Cro. Eliz. 570. Where a Perſon Purchaſes Part of the Land wherein he hath Common, the whole Common is extinct and gone. Cro. Eliz. 594. If ſeveral Perſons are ſeiſed of ſeveral Parts of a Common, and a Commoner purchaſes the Inheritance of one Part, his entire Common is extinct. 1 And. 159. When a Man hath Common Appendant for a certain Number of Cattle, and to a certain Parcel of Land, if he ſell Part of it, the Common is not extinguished; for the Purchaſer ſhall have Common pro rata: But 'tis otherwiſe in Common Appurtenant. 8 Rep. 78. 1 Nelf. 460. Common Appurtenant for a certain Number of Beaſts may be granted over. 1 Darv. 802. A Man may uſe Common Appurtenant to his Manor, with Cattle which are for his Houſehold; though it is ſaid he cannot uſe it with Cattle which are to ſell. Lords of Manors may depaſture in Commons where their Tenants put in Cattle; and a Preſcription to exclude the Lord is againſt Law. 1 Inf. 122. The Commoner cannot uſe Common but with his own proper Cattle: But if he hath not any Cattle to manure the Land, he may borrow other Cattle to manure it, and uſe the Common with them; for by the Loan, they are in a Manner made his own Cattle. 1 Darv. 798. Grantee of Common Appurtenant, for a certain Number of Cattle, cannot Common with the Cattle of a Stranger: He that hath Common in Grofs, may put in a Stranger's Cattle, and uſe the Common with ſuch Cattle. Ibid. 803. Common Appendant or Appurtenant, cannot be made Common in Grofs: And Approvement extends not to Common in Grofs. 2 Inf. 86. The Lord may agiſt the Cattle of a Stranger in the Common by Preſcription: And he may Licence a Stranger to put in his Cattle, if he leaves ſufficient Room for the Commoners. 1 Darv. 795. 2 Mod. 6. Alſo the Lord may ſurcharge, &c. an Overplus of the Common: And if, where there is not an Overplus, the Lord ſurcharges the Common, the Commoners are not to diſtrain his Beaſts; but moſt commence an Action againſt the Lord. F. N. B. 125. But it is ſaid, if the Lord of the Soil put in Cattle into a Cloſe, contrary to Cuſtom, when it ought to lie freſh, a Commoner may take the Cattle Damage ſeazant: Otherwiſe it is a general Rule that he cannot diſtrain the Cattle of the Lord. 1 Darv. 807. A Commoner may diſtrain Beaſts put into the Common by a Stranger, or every Commoner may bring Action of the Caſe, where Damage is received. 9 Rep. 112. But one Commoner cannot diſtrain the Cattle of another Commoner, though he may thoſe of a Stranger, who hath no Right to the Common. 2 Lutw. 1238. The Lord may diſtrain where the Common is ſurcharged; and bring Action of Trespas for any Trespas done in the Common. 9 Rep. 113. Where a Commoner ſurcharges the Common, the other Commoners may have a Writ of Admeaſurement; and Admeaſurement is to be according to the Quality and Quantity of the Freehold, and for all the Cattle which are upon the Land. It lies only by one Commoner againſt another; but not againſt a Commoner ſans Number; nor againſt the Lord, in which Caſe there muſt be an Aſſiſe. 1 Darv. 809. If a Man be diſſeiſed of his Common, he ſhall have an Aſſiſe. New Nat. Br. 399. If any Commoner incloſes, or builds on the Common, every Commoner may have an

an Action for the Damage. Where Turf is taken away from the Common, the Lord only is to bring the Action: But 'tis said the Commoners may have an Action for the Trespass, by entering on the Common, &c. 1 Roll. Abr. 89, 398. 2 Leon. 201. If a Commoner who hath a Freehold in his Common be ousted of, or hindered therein, that he cannot have it so beneficially as he used to do; whether the Interruption be by the Lord or any Stranger, he may have an Assise against him: But if the Commoner hath only an Estate for Years, then his Remedy is by Action on the Case. And if it be only a small Trespass, that is little or no Loss to the Commoner, but he hath Common enough besides; the Commoner may not bring any Action. 8 Rep. 79. 4 Rep. 37. Dyer 316. A Commoner cannot dig Clay on the Common, which destroys the Grass, and carrying it away doth Damage to the Ground: So that the other Commoners can't enjoy the Common in tam amplo modo as they ought. Godb. 344. Also a Commoner may not cut Bushes, dig Trenches, &c. in the Common, without a Custom to do it. 1 Nels. 462. If he makes any Thing de novo, he is a Trespasser: He can do nothing to impair the Common; but may reform a Thing abused, fill up Holes, dig down Mole-hills, &c. for Improvement. 1 Brownl. 208. A Lord may make a Pond on the Common: Though the Lord cannot dig Pits for Gravel or Coal; the Statutes of Approvement being only by Inclosure. 3 Inst. 204. 1 Sid. 106. If the Lord makes a Warren on the Common, the Commoners may not kill the Conies; but are to bring their Action, for they may not be their own Judges. 1 Roll. 90, 405. The Property of the Soil in the Common is intirely in the Lord; and the Use of it, jointly in him and the Commoners. No Commoner can take the Grass that grows on the Common, otherwise than by depasturing it; nor can he meddle with the Soil: But if the Owner of the Soil, set up a Hedge on the Common, the Commoner may throw it down. 15 H. 7. A Commoner may abate Hedges erected on a Common; for though the Lord hath an Interest in the Soil, by abating the Hedges, the Commoner doth not meddle with it. 2 Mod. 65. Any Man may by Prescription have Common and feeding for his Cattle in the King's Highway, although the Soil doth belong to another. Hill. 42 Elis. But the Occupation of Common by Usurpation, will not give Title to him that doth Occupy it, unless he hath had it Time beyond Memory. And if a Man enfeoffed of Land, by reason of which he hath Right to Common, aliens it to one who doth not take or use the Common; and then he makes an Alienation to another, the last Feeoffee may not have it, for he shall not have a better Estate in the Land than his Feoffor had. Fitz. Abr. Comm. 255. By Statute, Lords may approve against their Tenants, viz: inclose Part of the Waste, &c. and thereby discharge it from being Common, leaving Common sufficient; and Neighbours as well as Tenants claiming Common of Pasture, shall be bound by it. 20 H. 3. c. 4. If the Lord encloses on the Common, and leaves not Common sufficient, the Commoners may not only break down the Inclosures; but may put in their Cattle, although the Lord ploughs and sows the Land. 2 Inst. 88. 1 Roll. Abr. 406. Upon Agreement between two Commoners to enclose a Common, a Party having Interest not privy to the Agreement, will not be bound; but one or two wilful Persons shall not hinder the publick Good. Chan. Rep. 48. Commons must be driven yearly at Michaelmas or within fifteen Days after; infected Horses, and Stone-Horses under Size, &c. are not to be put into Commons under Forfeitures, by Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 13. New erected Cottages, though they have four Acres of Ground laid to them ought not to have Common in the Waste. 2 Inst. 740. In Law Proceedings, where there are two distinct Commons, the two Titles must be shewn: Cattle are to be alleged commonable; and Common ought to be in Lands commonable: And the Place is to be set forth where the Messuage and Lands lie, &c. to which the Common belongs. 1 Nels. 462, 463.

Common of Estovers, Is a Right of taking Wood out of another Man's Woods, for House bote, Plough-bote, and Hay bote. What Botes are necessary, Tenants may take, notwithstanding no Mention be made thereof in their Leases; but if a Tenant take more House bote than is needful, he may be punished for Waste. Terms de Ley 387, 396. Tenants for Life may take upon the Land demised reasonable Estovers, unless restrained by Special Covenant: And every Tenant for Years hath three Kind of Estovers incident to his Estate. 1 Inst. 41. When a House having Estovers appendant or appurtenant, is blown down by Wind, if the Owner rebuilds it in the same Place and Manner as before, his Estovers shall continue: So if he alters the Rooms and Chambers, without making new Chimnies; but if he erect any new Chimnies he will not be allowed to spend any Estovers in such new Chimnies. 4 Rep. 87. 4 Leon. 383. If one have a Dwelling-house whereunto Common of Estovers doth belong, and the House by Fire is burnt down, and a new one built near to the Place, or in the Place in another Form, the Estovers are gone: But if the old House be only some of it down, it is otherwise; and in all Cases where the Alterations to a House do no Prejudice to the Tertenant or Owner of the Land or Wood, the Estovers will remain. F. N. B. 180. Where a Man hath Estovers for Life, if the Owner cut down all the Wood, that there is none left for him, he may bring an Assise of Estovers; and if the Tenant have but an Estate for Years, or at Will, he may have Action of the Case. Moor Ca. 65. 9 Rep. 112. If the Tenant who hath Common of Estovers, shall use them to any other Purpose than he ought, he that owns the Wood may bring Trespass against him: As where one grants twenty Loads of Wood to be taken yearly in such a Wood, ten Loads to burn, and ten to repair Pales; here he may cut and take the Wood for the Pales, though they need no amending, but then he must keep it for that Use. 9 Rep. 113. F. N. B. 58, 159.

Common of Piscary, Is a Liberty of Fishing in another Man's Water. Common of Piscary to exclude the Owner of the Soil, is contrary to Law: Though a Person by Prescription may have a separate Right of Fishing in such Water, and the Owner of the Soil be excluded; for a Man may grant the Water; without passing the Soil: And if one grant Separalem Piscariam, neither the Soil nor the Water pass, but only a Right of Fishing. 1 Inst. 4, 122, 164. 5 Rep. 34. No Person shall fish in any River without the Owner's Consent, under Penalties: And Nets, Angles, &c. shall be seized and destroyed, by Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. c. 25. See Fish and Fishing.

Common of Turbary, Is a Licence to dig Turf upon the Ground of another, or in the Lord's Walle. This Common is appendant or appurtenant to an House, and not to Lands; for Turfs are to be burnt in the House: And it may be in Gross; but it does not give any Right to the Land, Trees, or Mines. It cannot exclude the Owner of the Soil. 1 Inst. 4. 4 Rep. 37.

There is a Common or Liberty of digging Coals, and Gravel, Sand, &c. as well as Turf.

Common Bench, (Bancus Communis, from the Sax. Banc, Bank, and thence metaphorically a Bench, high Seat or Tribunal.) The Court of Common Pleas was anciently called Common Bench, because Communia Placita inter subditos ex jure nostro, quod Commune vocant, in hoc disceptantur: That is, the Pleas or Controversies between common Persons are there tried and determined. Camb. Britan. 113. In Law Books and References the Court of Common Pleas is writ C. B. from Communi Banco. And the Justices of that Court are stiled Justiciarii de Banco. See Common Pleas.

Common Day in Plea of Land, Signifies an ordinary Day in Court, as Olebis Hillarii, Quindena Pascha, &c. It is mentioned in the Stat. 51 H. 3. concerning general Days in Bank.

Common Fine, (Finis Communis) A small Sum of Money, which the Resiants within the Liberty of some Leets pay to the Lords, called in divers Places Head Silver or Head-Pence, in others Cert Money; and was first granted to the Lord, towards the Charge of his Purchase of the Court Leet, whereby the Resiants have the Ease to do their Suit within their own Manors, and are not compellable to go to the Sheriff's Turn: In the Manor of Sbeapthead in the County of Leicester, every Resiant pays 1 d. per Poll to the Lord at the Court held after Michaelmas, which is there called Common Fine. For this Common Fine the Lord may distrain; but he cannot do it without a Prescription. 11 Rep. 44. There is also Common Fine of the County. — Quod Communes Misericordiae, vel Fines Comitatum amerciatorum in Finibus itinerum Jusficiariorum, &c. Fleta, lib. 7. c. 48. See Stat. 3 Ed. 1. c. 18.

Commons House of Parliament, Is the Lower Houle of Parliament, so called, because the Commons of the Realm, that is, the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeses returned to Parliament, representing the whole Body of the Commons, do sit there. Crompt. Jurisd. See Parliament.

Common Intendment, Is common Meaning or Understanding, according to the Subject Matter, not strained to any extraordinary or foreign Sense: Bar to Common Intendment is an ordinary or general Bar, which commonly disables the Plaintiff's Declaration. There are several Cafes in the Law where Common Intendment, and Intendment take Place: And of Common Intendment a Will shall not be supposed to be made by Collusion. Co. Litt. 78.

Common Law, (Lex Communis) Is taken for the Law of this Kingdom simply, without any other Laws; as it was generally holden before any Statute was enacted in Parliament to alter the same: And the King's Courts of Justice are called the Common Law Courts. The Common Law is grounded upon the general Customs of the Realm; and includes in it the Law of Nature, the Law of God, and the Principles and Maxims of the Law: It is founded upon Reason; and is said to be the Perfection of Reason, acquired by long Study, Observation and Experience, and refined by Learned Men in all Ages. And it is the Common Birthright, that the Subject hath for the Safe-guard and Defence, not only of his Goods, Lands, and Revenues; but of his Wife and Children, Body, Fame, and Life also. Co. Litt. 97, 142. Treatise of Lawus, p. 2. According to Hale, the Common Law of England, is the common Rule for administering Justice, within this Kingdom, and asserts the King's Royal Prerogatives, and likewise the Rights and Liberties of the Subjects: 'Tis generally that Law, by which the Determinations in the King's Ordinary Courts are guided; and this directs the Course of Descents of Lands; the Nature, Extent and Qualification of Estates; and therein the Manner and Ceremonies of conveying them from one to another; with the Forms, Solemnities and Obligation of Contracts; the Rules and Directions for the Exposition of Deeds, and Acts of Parliament: The Process, Proceedings, Judgments and Executions of our Courts of Justice; also the Limits and Bounds of Courts, and Jurisdictions; the several Kinds of Temporal Offences and Punishments; and their Application, &c. Sir Matthew Hale's Hist. of the Law. pag. 44, 45, and 24. As to the Rise of the Common Law, this Account is given by some ancient Writers: After the Decay of the Roman Empire, three Sorts of the German People invaded the Britons, viz. the Saxons, the Angles, and the Jutes; from the last sprung the Kentish Men, and the Inhabitants of the Isle of Wight; from the Saxons came the People called East, South, and West Saxons; and from the Angles, the East Angles, Mercians and Northumbrians: These People having different Customs, they inclined to the different Laws by which their Ancestors were governed; but the Customs of the West-Saxons and Mercians, who dwelt in the Midland Counties, being preferred before the Rest, were for that Reason called Jus Anglorum; and by these Laws those People were governed for many Ages: But the East Saxons having afterwards been subdued by the Danes, their Customs were introduced, and a third Law was substituted, which was called Dane-Lage; as the other was then stiled West Saxon Lage, &c. At length the Danes being overcome by the Normans, William called the Conquerer, upon Consideration of all those Laws and Customs, abrogated some, and established others; to which he added some of his own Country Laws, which he judged most to conduce to the Preservation of the Peace: And this is what we now call the Common Law. But though we usually date our Common Law from hence, this was not the Original of the Common Law; for Eitelbert, the first Christian King of this Nation, made the first Saxon Laws, which were published by the Advice of some wise Men of his Council: And King Alfred, who lived 300 Years afterwards, being the first sole Monarch after the Heptarchy, collected all the Saxon Laws into one Book, and commanded them to be observed through the whole Kingdom, which before only affected certain Parts thereof; and it was therefore properly called the Common Law, because it was common to the whole Nation; and soon after it was called the Folk Right, i. e. the People's Right. Alfred was stiled Anglicarum Legum Conditor: And when the Danes had introduced their Laws on the Conquest of the Kingdom, they were afterwards destroyed; and Edward the Confessor out of the former Laws composed a Body of the Common Law; wherefore he is called by our Historians Anglicarum Legum Restitutor. Bloynt. In the Reign of Edw. 1. Britton wrote his learned Book of the Common Law of this Realm, which was done by the King's Command, and runs in his Name, answerable to the Institutions of the Civil Law, which Justinian assumes to himself, though composed by others. Staudf. Prerog. 6, 21. This Britton is mentioned by Gwyn to be Bishop of Hertford. Bracon, a great Lawyer, in the Time of Hen. 3. wrote a very learned Treatise of the Common Law of England, held in great Estimation; and is said to be Lord Chief Justice of the Kingdom. And the famous and learned Glanvil, Lord Chief Justice in the Reign of Hen. 2. wrote a Book of the Common Law, which is said to be the most ancient Composition extant on that Subject. Besides these, in the Time of Ed. 4. the renowned Lawyer Littleton wrote his excellent Book of English Tenures. In King James the First's Reiga, the great Oracle of the Law, Sir Edward Coke, published his learned and laborious Institutes of our Law, and Commentaries on Littleton. About the same Time likewise Dr. Cowel, a Civilian, wrote a short Institute of our Laws. And in the Reign of King George the First, Dr. Tho. Wood, a Civilian and Common Lawyer; and at last Divine, wrote an Institute of the Laws of England, which is something after the Manner of the Institutes of the Civil Law.

Common Pleas, (Communia Placita) Is one of the King's Courts now constantly held in Westminster-Hall; but in ancient Time was moveable, as appears by Magna Charta, cap. 11. Gwyn, in the Preface of his Reading, says, 'That till Hen. 3. granted the Great Charter there were but two Courts, called the King's Courts, viz. the King's Bench and the Exchequer, which were then stiled Curia Domini Regis, and Aula Regis, because they followed the Court or King; and that upon the Grant of that Charter, the Court of

Common

Common Pleas was erected and settled in one certain Place, i. e. Westminster-Hall; and after that, all the Writs ran Quod fit coram Justiciariis meis apud Westm. whereas before, the Party was required by them to appear, Coram me vel Justiciariis meis, without any Addition of Place, &c. as he observes out of the Writings of Glanvil and Bracon. But Sir Edward Coke is of Opinion in his Preface to the eighth Report, that the Court of Common Pleas was constituted before the Conquest; and was not created by Magna Charta, at which Time there were Justicarii de Banco, &c. Though before this Act, Common Pleas might have been held in Banco Regis; and all original Writs were returnable there. Writs returnable in this Court, are now coram Justiciariis nostris apud Westm. But Writs returnable in B. R. are, Coram nobis ubicunque fuerimus in Anglia. The Jurisdiction of this Court is general, and extends itself throughout England: It holds Plea of all Civil Causes at Common Law, between Subject and Subject, in Actions real, personal, and mixed; and it seems to have been the only Court for Real Causes. In personal and mixed Actions it hath a concurrent Jurisdiction with the King's Bench: But it hath no Cognisance of Pleas of the Crown; and Common Pleas are all Pleas that are not such. This Court cannot regularly hold Plea in any Action, real or personal, &c. but by Writ out of Chancery returnable here; except it be by Bill for or against an Officer, or other privileged Person of the Court. All Actions belonging to this Court, come hither either by Original, as Arrests and Outlawries; or by Privilege or Attachment, for or against privileged Persons; or out of inferior Courts, not of Record, by Pone, Recordare, Accedas ad Curiam, Writ of False Judgment, &c. Actions popular, and Actions penal, of Debt, &c. upon any Statute, are cognisable by this Court: And besides having Jurisdiction for Punishment of its Officers and Ministers; the Court of Common Pleas may grant Prohibitions to keep Temporal and Ecclesiastical Courts within due Bounds. 4 Inst. 99, 100, 118. In this Court are four Judges, created by Letters Patent; of whom the Chief Justice is a Lord by his Office: The Seal of the Court is committed to the Custody of the Chief Justice. The other Officers of the Common Pleas are, the Custos Brevium, three Prothonotaries and their Secondaries, the Clerk of the Warrants, Clerk of the Effoins, fourteen Filazers, four Exigenters, a Clerk of the Juries, the Chirographer, Clerk of the King's Silver, the Clerk of the Treasury, Clerk of the Seal, of Outlawries, and the Clerk of the Inrolment of Fines and Recoveries, Clerk of the Errors, &c. The Custos Brevium is the Chief Clerk in this Court, who receives and keeps all Writs returnable therein; and all Records of Nisi Prius, which are delivered to him by the Clerks of the Assize of every Circuit, &c. and he files the Rolls together, and carries them into the Treasury of Records: He also makes out Exemplifications, and Copies of all Writs and Records, &c. The Prothonotaries enter and inrol all Declarations, Pleadings, Judgments, &c. and they make out all judicial Writs, Writs of Execution, Writs of Privilege, Procedendi, &c. The Secondaries are Assistants to the Prothonotaries in the Execution of their Offices; and they take Minutes, and draw up all Orders and Rules of Court. The Filazers, who have the several Counties of England divided among them, make out all mesne Process, as Capias, Alias, Pluries, &c. between the Original Writ and the Declaration; and they make all Writs of View, &c. The Exigenters, appointed for several Counties, make out all Exigents and Proclamations in order to Outlawry. The Clerk of the Warrants, enters all Warrants of Attorney; inrols Deeds of Bargain and Sale; and estreats all Issues. The Clerk of the Effoins, keeps the Roll of the Effoins, wherein he enters them, and Nonuits, &c. The Clerk of the Juries makes out all Writs of Habeas Corpora Jurator, for Juries to appear; and he enters the Continuances till the Verdict given. The Clerk of the Treasury, keeps the Records of the Court, and makes Exemplifications of Records, Copies of Issues, Judgments, &c. The Clerk of the Seals, seals all Writs and mesne Process; also Writs of Outlawry and Superfedat, and all Patents. The Clerk of the Outlawries, makes out the Writs of Capias Urlegatum. The Clerk of the Errors is for the Allowance of Writs of Error, &c. The Clerk of the Inrolments of Fines and Recoveries, returns all Writs of Covenant, Writs of Entry and Seisin, and inrols and exemplifies Fines, &c. The Clerk of the King's Silver enters the Substance of the Writ of Covenant: And the Chirographer ingrosseth all Fines, and delivers the Indentures to the Parties, &c. And to these Officers may be added, a Proclamator; a Keeper of the Court; Cryer; and Tipstaffs; besides the Warden of the Fleet. There are also Attornies of this Court, whose Number is unlimited; and none may plead at the Bar of the Court, or sign any special Pleadings, but Serjeants at Law.

Common Prayer, (Preces Publicæ) Is the Liturgy; or Prayers used in our Church. It is the particular Duty of Clergymen every Sunday, &c. to use the publick Form of Prayer prescribed by the Book of Common Prayer: And if any Incumbent be resident upon his Living, as he ought to be, and keep a Curate, he is obliged by the Act of Uniformity once every Month at least, to read the Common Prayers of the Church, according as they are directed by the Book of Common Prayer, in his Parish Church, in his own Person, or he shall forfeit 5 l. for every Time he fails therein. Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 4. Also by that Statute the Book of Common Prayer is to be provided in every Parish, under the Penalty of 3 l. a Month: And the Common Prayer must be read before every Lecture; the Whole appointed for the Day, with all the Circumstances, and Ceremonies, &c. And by one of the Canons of the Church; Ministers before all Sermons, are to move the People to join in a short Prayer, for the Catholick Church; and the whole Congregation of Christian People, &c. for the King and Royal Family; the Ministers of God's Word, Nobility, Magistrates, and whole Commons of the Realm, &c. and conclude with the Lord's Prayer. Can. 55. Refusing to use the Common Prayer; or using any other open Prayers, &c. is punishable by Stat. 1 Eliz. c. 2. See Church.

Common Weal, Is understood in our Law to be Bonum publicum, and is a Thing much favoured; and therefore the Law doth tolerate many Things to be done for Common Good, which otherwise might not be done: And hence it is that Monopolies are void in Law; and that Bonds and Covenants to restrain free Trade, Tillage, or the like, are adjudged void. 11 Co. Rep. 50. Plowd. 25. Skep. Epit. 270.

Commorancy, (Commorantia, from Commoro) An Abiding, Dwelling or Continuing in any Place; as an Inhabitant of a House in a Vill, &c. And Commorancy for a certain Time, may make a Settlement in a Parish. Dalt. See Poor.

Commoroth, or Comoroth, (Comortha) From the Brit. Cymmorth, i. e. Subsidium; a Contribution which was gathered at Marriages, and when young Priests said or sung the first Masses, &c. 4 H. 4. c. 27. But the 26 H. 8. c. 6. prohibits the Levying any such in Wales, or the Marches, &c.

Commote, In Wales is Half a Cantred or Hundred, containing fifty Villages. Stat. Walliæ, 12 Ed. 1. Wales was anciently divided into three Provinces; and each of these were again subdivided into Cantreds, and every Cantred into Commotes. Doderige's Hist. Wal. fol. 2. Commote also signifies a great Seignory or Lordship, and may include one or divers Manors. Co. Litt. 5.

Communance. The Commoners, or Tenants and Inhabitants, who had the Right of Common, or Commoning moning in open Fields, &c. were formerly called the Commance. Cowel.

Commune Concilium Regni Angliæ, The Common Council of the King and People Assembled in Parliament.

Communia placita non tenenda in Scaccario, Is an ancient Writ directed to the Treasurer and Barons of the Exchequer, forbidding them to hold Plea between common Persons in that Court, where neither of the Parties belong to the same. Reg. Orig. 187.

Communi Custodia, A Writ which anciently lay for the Lord, whose Tenant holding by Knight's Service died, and left his eldest Son under Age, against a Stranger that entered the Land, and obtained the Ward of the Body. F. N. B. 89. Reg. Orig. 161. Since the Statute 12 Car. 2. c. 24. hath taken away Wardships, this Writ is become of no Use.

Community of the Kingdom. Vide Commonalty.

Companage, (Fr.) Is all Kind of Food, except Bread and Drink: And the learned Spelman interprets it to be Quicquid cibi cum pane sumitur. In the Manor of Feskerton in the County of Nottingham, some Tenants when they performed their Boons or Work days to the Lords, had three Boon Loaves with Companage allowed them. Reg. de Turgarton cited in Antiq. Nottingham.

Companion of the Garter, Is one of the Knights of that most noble Order; at the Head of which is the King, as Sovereign. 24 H. 8. c. 13.

Compellativum, An Adversary or Accuser.—Episcopus in Compellativum adlegationem docere ne quis alium perperam cogat iurjurando vel in Ordalio. Leg. Athelstan.

Compertorium, A Judicial Inquest in the Civil Law, made by Delegates, or Commissioners to find out and relate the Truth of a Cause. Paroch. Antiq. 575.

Compositio, (Compositio) An Agreement or Contract between a Parson, Patron and Ordinary, &c. for Money or other Thing in Lieu of Tithes. Land may be exempted from the Payment of Tithes, where Compositions have been made: And Real Compositions for Tithes are to be made by the concurrent Consent of the Parson, Patron and Ordinary. Real Compositions are distinguished from Personal Contracts; for a Compositio called a Personal Contract is only an Agreement between the Parson and Parishioners, to pay so much instead of Tithes; and though such Agreement is confirmed by the Ordinary, yet that doth not make it a Real Compositio, because he ought to be a Party to the Deed of Compositio. Marsh's Rep. 87. The Compositions for Tithes made by the Consent of the Parson, Patron and Ordinary, by Virtue of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. shall not bind the Successor, unless made for twenty-one Years, or three Lives, as in Case of Leases of Ecclesiastical Corporations, &c. Compositions were at first for a valuable Consideration, so that though in Process of Time, upon the Increase of the Value of the Lands such Compositions do not amount to the Value of the Tithes, yet Custom prevails, and from hence arises what we call a Modus decimandi. Hob. 29. The Word Compositio hath likewise another Meaning, i. e. Decisio Litis.

Compositio Mensurarum, Is the Title of an ancient Ordinance for Measures, not printed, mentioned in the Stat. 23 H. 8.

Compostum, Dung, Soil or Compost laid on Lands. Regist. Eccl. Cantuar. MS.

Comprint, Intends a surreptitious Printing of another Bookseller's Copy, to make Gain thereby, which is contrary to the Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 33. and other Statutes.

Compromise, (Compromissum) Is defined to be a mutual Promise of two or more Parties at Difference, to refer the Ending of their Controversy to Arbitrators: And West says it is the Faculty or Power of pronouncing Sentence between Persons at Variance, given to Arbitrators by the Parties private Consent. West's Symb. Sect. 1. Matters compromised, are also Matters of Law referred, or made an End of.

Compurgator, One that by Oath justifies another's Innocence. See Oath.

Computation, (Computatio) Is the true Account and Construction of Time; and to the End neither Party to an Agreement, &c. may do Wrong to the other, nor the Determination of Time be left at large, it is to be taken according to the just Judgment of the Law. A Deed dated the 20th Day of August, to hold from the Day of the Date, shall be construed to begin on the 21st Day of August: But if in the Habendum it be to hold from the Making, or from thenceforth, it shall begin on the Day delivered. 1 Inst. 46. 5 Rep. 1. If an Indenture of Lease dated the 4th Day of July, made for three Years from thenceforth, be delivered at Four of the Clock in the Afternoon of the said 4th Day of July, the Lease shall end the 3d Day of July in the third Year: And the Law in this Computation rejects all Fractions or Divisions of the Day. But some have held that Rent is not due on the Day limited to be paid till the Middle of the Day, and after Noon; in Case a Tenant for Life dies at such a critical Juncture, &c. See Day and Month.

Computation of Miles, after the English Manner, is allowing 5280 Feet, or 1760 Yards to each Mile; and the same shall be reckoned not by strait Lines, as a Bird or Arrow may fly, but according to the nearest and most usual Way. Cro. Eliz. 212.

Computo, (Lat.) Is a Writ to compel a Bailiff, Receiver or Accountant, to yield up his Accounts: It is founded on the Statute of Westm. cap. 12. And also lies against Guardians, &c. Reg. Orig. 135.

Concealers, (Concealatores, so called à concelando, as Mons à movendo, by an Antiphrasis) Are such as find out concealed Lands, i. e. such Lands as are privily kept from the King by common Persons, having nothing to shew for their Title or Estate therein. 39 Eliz. cap. 22. There were Concealers of Crimes; and Concealing Treason, &c. when Misprision, see Misprison.

Concessi, A Word of frequent Use in Conveyances, creating a Covenant in Law; as Dedi makes a Warranty. Co. Litt. 384. This Word is of a general Extent, and said to amount to a Grant, Feoffment, Lease and Release, &c. 2 Saund. 96.

Concionatores, Common-Council-Men, Freemen called to the Hall or Assembly, as most worthy.—Quodam tempore cum convenissent Concionatores apud London, &c. Histor. Elien. Edit. Gale, c. 46.

Conclusion, (Conclusio) Is when a Man by his own Act upon Record hath charged himself with a Duty or other Thing, or confessed any Matter whereby he shall be concluded: As if a Sheriff returns that he hath taken the Body upon a Capias, and hath not the Body in Court at the Day of the Return of the Writ; by the Return, the Sheriff is concluded from Plea of Escape, &c. Terms de Ley 153. In another Sense this Word Conclusion signifies the End of any Plea, Replication, &c. and a Plea to the Writ is to conclude to the Writ; a Plea in Bar, to conclude to the Action, &c. Conclusion of Plea in Bar shall be, Et hoc paratus est verificare: Of other Places, Et de hoc ponit se super Patriam. Kitch. 219, 220.

Concord, (Concordia) Is an Agreement made between two or more, upon a Trespass committed; and is divided into Concord executory, and Concord executed: And according to Plowden, one binds not, as being imperfect, but the other is absolute, and ties the Party. Though by some Opinions, Agreements executory are perfect, and bind no less than Agreements executed. Plowd. 5, 6, 8. These Concords and Agreements are by Way of Satisfaction for the Trespass, &c. Concord is also an Agreement between Parties, Parties, who intend the Levying of a Fine of Lands one to the other, how and in what Manner the Lands shall pass: It is the Foundation and Substance of the Fine, taken and acknowledged by the Party before one of the Judges of C. B. or by Commissioners in the Country, and in Latin begins thus: Et est Concordia talis scilicet quod præd. A. B. recogn. Tenementa præd. cum pertin' esse jus ipsius C. D. ut ill. quæ idem C. D. habet de Dono præd. A. B. Et ill. remisit. Et quiet. clam. de se Et Hæred. suis præfat. C. Et Hæred. suis imperpetuum, &c.

Concubinage, (Concubinatus) In common Acceptation is the Keeping of a Whore or Concubine: But in a legal Sense, it is used as an Exception against her that sueth for Dower, alledging thereby that she was not a Wife lawfully married to the Party, in whose Lands she seeks to be endowed, but his Concubine. Brit. c. 107. Brañ. lib. 4. tract. 6. cap. 8. There was a Concubinage allowed in Scripture to the Patriarchs, secundum legem Matrimonii, &c. Blount.

Conduers, (from the Fr. Conduire, to conduct) Are such as stand upon high Places near the Sea-Coast, at the Time of Herring-Fishing, to make Signs with Boughs, &c. to the Fishermen at Sea, which Way the Shore of Herrings passeth; for this may be better discovered by such as stand upon some high Cliff on the Shore, by Reason of a kind of blue Colour which the Herrings cause in the Water, than by those that are in the Ships or Boats for Fishing. These are otherwise called Huers and Balkers, Directors and Guiders, as appears by the Stat. 1 Jac. c. 23.

Condition, (Conditio) Is a Restraint or Bridle annexed to a Thing, so that by the Non-performance, the Party to it shall receive Prejudice and Loss; and by the Performance, Commodity and Advantage: Or it is a Restriction of Men's Acts, qualifying or suspending the same, and making them uncertain whether they shall take Effect or not; also 'tis defined to be what is referred to an uncertain Chance, which may happen or not happen: Wess's Symb. part 1. lib. 2. sect. 156. And of Conditions there are divers Kinds, viz. Conditions in Deed, and in Law; Conditions Precedent, and Subsequent; Conditions Inherent, and Collateral, &c. A Condition in Deed is that which is joined by express Words to a Feoffment, Lease or other Grant; as if a Man makes a Lease of Lands to another, reserving a Rent to be paid at such a Feast, upon Condition if the Lessee fail in Payment, at the Day, then it shall be lawful for the Lessor to enter. Condition in Law is when a Person grants another an Office, as that of Keeper of a Park, Steward, Bailiff, &c. for Term of Life; here though there be no Condition expressed in the Grant, yet the Law makes one, which is if the Grantee do not justly execute all Things belonging to the Office, it shall be lawful for the Grantor to enter and discharge him of his Office. Lit. lib. 3. c. 5. These Conditions are also called Condition expressed, and Condition implied. Condition Precedent is when a Lease or Estate is granted to one for Life, upon Condition that if the Lessee pay to the Lessor a certain Sum at such a Day, then he shall have Fee-simple: In this Case the Condition precedes the Estate in Fee, and on Performance thereof gains the Fee simple. Condition subsequent is when a Man grants to another his Manor of Dale, &c. in Fee, upon Condition that the Grantee shall pay to him at such a Day such a certain Sum, or that his Estate shall cease; here the Condition is subsequent, and following the Estate, and upon the Performance thereof continues and preserves the same: So that a Condition Precedent doth get and gain the Thing or Estate made upon Condition by the Performance of it; as a Condition Subsequent keeps and continues the Estate, by the Performance of the Condition. 1 Inst. 201, 327. Terms de Ley 156. If one agree with another to do such an Act, and for the Doing thereof the other shall pay so much Money; here the Doing the Act is a Condition Precedent to the Payment of the Money, and the Party shall not be compelled to pay 'till the Act is done: But where a Day is appointed for the Payment of Money, which Day happens before the Thing contracted for can be performed, there the Money may be recovered before the Thing is done; for here it appears that the Party did not intend to make the Performance of the Thing a Condition Precedent. 3 Salk. 95. Inherent Conditions are such as descend to the Heir, with the Land granted, &c. And Collateral Condition is that which is annexed to any collateral Act. Conditions are likewise Affirmative, which consist of doing; Negative, and consist of not doing: Some are further said to be Restrictive, for not doing a Thing; and some Compulsory, as that the Lessee shall pay the Rent, &c. Also some Conditions are single, to do one Thing only; some Copulative, to do divers Things; and others Disjunctive, where one Thing of several is required to be done. Co. Litt. 201. Conditions may be to any Estate, whether in Fee-simple, Fee tail, for Life or Years: They run with the Estate, and bind in whosoever Hands they come. Lit. Rep. 128. But a Condition may not be made but on the Part of the Lessor, Donor, &c. For no Man may annex a Condition to an Estate, but he that doth create the Estate itself. Conditions are good to enlarge or limit Estates: And there are four Incidents, which Conditions to create and increase an Estate ought to have. 1. They should have a particular Estate, as a Foundation whereupon the Increase of the greater Estate shall be built. 2. Such particular Estate shall continue in the Lessee or Grantee, until the Increase happens. 3. It must vest at the Time the Contingency happens; or it shall never vest. 4. The particular Estate and Increase must take Effect by the same Deed, or by several Deeds delivered at the same Time. 8 Rep. 75. Conditions to create Estates shall be favourably construed: But Conditions which tend to destroy, or restrain an Estate, are to be taken strictly. A Feoffment upon Condition, that the Feoffee shall not alien, is void: But a Condition in a Feoffment not to alien for a particular Time, or to a particular Person, may be good. Hob. 13, 261. And if a Condition is, that Tenant in Tail shall not alien in Fee, &c. or Tenant for Life or Years not alien during the Term, these Conditions are good: Where the Reversion of an Estate is in the Donor, he may restrain an Alienation by Condition. 10 Rep. 39. 1 Inst. 222. If one make a Gift in Tail, on Condition that the Donee or his Heirs shall not alien; this is good to some Intents, and void to others: For if he make a Feoffment in Fee, or any other Estate by which the Reversion is discontinued tortiously, the Donor may enter; but 'tis otherwise if he suffer a common Recovery. 1 Inst. 223. A Liberty inseparable from an Estate, cannot be restrained; and therefore a Condition that a Tenant in Tail shall not levy a Fine, within the Stat. 4 H. 7. or suffer a Recovery; or not make a Lease, within the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. is void and repugnant. But if the Condition restrain levying a Fine at Common Law, it may be good. 2 Dav. Abr. 22. A Gift in Tail, or in Fee, upon Condition that a Feme shall not be endowed; or Baron be Tenant by the Curtesy, is repugnant and void. So is a Condition in a Lease, &c. that the Lessee shall not take the Profits: And where a Man grants a Rent-charge out of Land, provided it shall not charge the Lands. Co. Litt. 146. Conditions repugnant to the Estate, impossible, &c. are void: And if they go before the Estate, the Estate and Condition are void; if to follow it, the Estate is absolute, and the Condition void. 1 Inst. 206. 9 Rep. 128. But if at the Time of entering into a Condition, a Thing be possible to be done, and become afterwards impossible by the Act of God, the Estate of a Feoffee (created by Livery) shall not be avoided. 2 Mod. 204. A Feoffment in Fee is made upon Condition, that the Feoffee shall within a Year go to Rome, &c. If the Feoffee dies before the Year ended, yet the Estate of the Feoffee is become absolute; for the Estate once vested by the Livery, shall not be divested without Default in the Feoffee. Ibid. Where a Condition is of two Parts, one possible, and the other not so, it is a good Condition for performing that Part which is possible. Cro. Eliz. 780. Though if a Condition is of two Parts disjunctive, and one Part becomes impossible by the Act of God, the Person bound is not obliged to perform the other. 5 Rep. If a Condition be in the Copulative, and is not possible to be performed, 'tis said it may be taken in the Disjunctive. 1 Daru. Abr. 73. Where an Estate is to be wholly created upon a Condition impossible to be performed, there the Estate shall never come in esse. 1 Leon. cap. 311. A Woman makes a Feoffment to a Man that is married, upon Condition that he shall marry her; this Condition is not impossible, for the Man's Wife may die, and then he may marry her. 2 Daru. 25. A Reversion may be granted in Tail upon Condition, that if the Grantee pays so much, he shall have Fee. 8 Rep. 73. But if a Man grants Land, &c. for Years, upon Condition that if the Lessee pay 20 s. within one Year, that he shall have it for Life; and that if he after the Year pay 20 s. he shall have Fee: Though both Sums are paid, he shall have but an Estate for Life; the Estate for Life, at the Time of the Grant, being only in Contingency, and a Possibility cannot increase upon a Possibility, nor can the Fee increase upon the Estate for Years. 8 Rep. 75. If a Lease be made to two, with Condition to have Fee, and one dies, the Survivor may perform the Condition, and have the Fee; but if they make Partition, the Condition is destroyed. 8 Rep. 75, 76. If a Feoffee grant the Reversion of Part of the Land, on a Lease for Years, on which a Rent upon Condition is reserved, all the Condition is confounded and gone; though if the Lessee assign Part, the Condition remains, for he cannot discharge the Estate of the Condition. 2 Daru. Abr. 119. A Man makes a Feoffment upon Condition, and afterwards levies a Fine to a Stranger, the Condition is gone. Ibid. 120. If a Feoffee upon Condition to infeoff another, infeoff a Stranger; or if it be to reinfeoff the Feoffor, and he grant the Land to another Person, upon Condition to perform the Condition, the Condition is broke, because the Feoffee hath disabled himself to do it: So where such Feoffee upon Condition to reinfeoff, &c. takes a Wife, that the Land is subject to the Dower of the Wife; and so if the Land is recovered, and Execution sued out by another, the Condition is broke. Co. Litt. 221. 1 Daru. 79. If one disseise the Feoffee, or any other who hath Land by just Title, and thereof infeoff a Stranger on Condition, and the Land is lawfully recovered from him that hath the Title; by this the Condition is destroyed: And if a Disseisor make a Feoffment in Fee upon Condition; and after the Disseisee doth enter upon the Feoffee, this doth extinguish the Condition. Perk. Sect. 821. If the Feoffee makes a Feoffment of all or Part of the Land to the Feoffor, before the Condition is broke; the Condition is gone for ever: And if he make a Lease for Life or Years only, then the Condition will be suspended for that Time. Co. Litt. 218. But 'tis otherwise where the Feoffment, or Lease for Life or Years, are made to any other but the Feoffor. Ibid. Where the Condition of a Feoffment is, that if the Feoffor or his Heir pay a certain Sum of Money to the Feoffee such a Day, and before that Day the Feoffor dieth without Heir: Or if the Feoffment be made by a Woman on Condition to pay her 10 l. or that the Feoffee infeoff her by a certain Day, and they intermarry before the Day, and the Marriage doth continue till after it; in these Cases the Condition is gone. Perk. Sect. 763, 764. A Condition may be well performed, when it is done as near to the Intent as may be: For if the Condition of a Feoffment be that the Feoffee shall make an Estate back to the Feoffor and his Wife, and the Heirs of their two Bodies, Remainder to the right Heirs of the Feoffor; in this Case, if the Feoffor die before, the Estate shall be made to the Wife without Impeachment of Waste, the Remainder to the Heirs of the Body of the Husband begotten on the Wife, &c. Ca. Litt. 219. 8 Rep. 69. If a Condition be performed in Substance and Effect, it is good although it differs in Words; as where it is to deliver Letters Patent, and the Party bound having lost them, delivers an Exemplification, &c. 2 Daru. 40. Though Payment of the Money before the Day, is Payment at the Day, in Performance of a Condition; yet a Feoffor, &c. cannot re-enter, and revert his old Estate by Force of the Condition, till the Day whereon the Condition gives him Power to re enter. Ibid. 121. If a Man seized of Land in Right of his Wife, make a Feoffment in Fee on Condition, and dies; if the Heir of the Feoffor enters for the Condition broken, and defeats the Feoffment, his Estate vanishes, and presently it is vested in the Wife. Co. Litt. 202. And if a Person seized of Land, as Heir on the Part of his Mother, makes a Feoffment on Condition and dieth; though the Heir on the Part of the Father, who is Heir at Common Law, may enter for the Condition broken, the Heir of the Part of the Mother shall enter upon him, and enjoy the Land. Ibid. 12. Where there is a Condition in a Feoffment or Lease, that if no Distress can be found, the Feoffor, &c. shall re-enter; if the Place is not open to the Distress, as if there be only a Cupboard in the House which is locked, &c. it is all one as if there were no Distress there, and the Feoffor, &c. may enter. 2 Daru. 46. When a Rent is to be paid upon Condition at a certain Day, the Lessor cannot enter for the Condition broke, before Demand of the Rent. Ibid. 98. And the Lessor ought to demand the Rent at the Day, or the Condition shall not be broke by the Nonpayment of the Rent. A Re-entry may be given on a Feoffment, &c. though none be reserved: If one make a Lease for Life, or Feoffment upon Condition, that if the Feoffee or Lessee does such an Act, the Estate shall be void: Now although the Estate cannot be void before Entry, this is a good Condition, and shall give an Entry to the Lessor, &c. by Implication. 1 Roll. Abr. 408. A Lease for Life on Condition, being a Freehold, cannot cease without Entry; but if it be a Lease for Years, the Lease is void ipso facto, on Breach of the Condition, without any Entry. 1 Inst. 214. If a Lease for Years is that on Breach of the Condition, the Term shall cease, the Term is ended without Entry; but where the Words are that the Lease shall be void, it is otherwise. Cro. Car. 511. 3 Rep. 64. Regularly, where one will take Advantage of a Condition, if he may enter, he must do it; and if he cannot enter, he must make a Claim. Co. Litt. 218. No one can reserve the Power or Benefit of Re entry, on Breach of a Condition, to any other but himself, his Heirs, Executors, &c. Parties and Privies, in Right and Representation: Privies in Law, Grantees of Reversions, &c. are to have no Advantage by it. But by Statute 32 H. 8. Grantees of Reversions may take Advantage against Lessees, &c. by Action. 1 Inst. 214, 215. Plowd. 175. Where one doth enter for a Condition broken, it generally makes the Estate void ab initio, and the Party comes in of his first Estate; and he shall have the Land in the same Manner it was when he departed with it, and his Possession at the Time of making the Condition: Therefore he shall avoid all subsequent Charges on the

the Lands. 4 Rep. 120. Plowd. 186. Co. Litt. 233. If one enters on a Condition performed; he shall avoid all Incumbrances upon the Land after the Condition made: And a Condition when broken, or performed, &c. will defeat the whole Estate. So that if there be a Lease for Life, Remainder in Fee, on Condition that the Lessee for Life shall pay 20*l.* to the Lessor; if he pay not this Money, the Estate in Remainder will be avoided also. Dyer 127. 8 Rep. 90. But this may be otherwise by special Limitation to an Use: And if Tenant for Life, and he in Remainder join in a Feoffment on Condition, that if, &c. then the Tenant for Life shall re-enter, this may be good without defeating the whole Estate; though regularly a Condition may not avoid Part of an Estate, and leave another Part entire, nor can the Estate be void as to some Persons, and good as to others. 8 Rep. 190. 1 Inst. 214. Lessee for Life makes a Feoffment on Condition, and enters for the Condition broken; by this he shall be restored to his Estate for Life, and reduce the Reversion to the Lessor; and the Rent due to the Lessor shall be revived: But in this Case the Lessee will not be in the same Course as he was before, for his Estate is subject to Forfeiture, though he be Tenant for Life still. Rol. 474. Shep. Abr. 405. Tenants by the Curtesy, Tenant in Tail after Possibility of Issue extinct, Tenant in Dower, for Life, or Years, &c. hold their Estates subject to a Condition in Law, not to grant a greater Estate than they have, nor to commit Waste, &c. 1 Inst. 233. And Estates made by Deed to Infants, and Feme Coverts, upon Condition, shall bind them, because the Charge is on the Land. 2 Danv. 30. A Release of all a Man's Right, may be upon Condition: A Lessee may surrender upon Condition; a Contract may be upon Condition, &c. But a Parson cannot resign upon Condition, any more than be admitted upon Condition: And a Condition cannot be released on Condition. 9 Rep. 85. A Condition that would take away the whole Effect of a Grant, is void; and so it is if it be contrary to the express Words of it. Conditions against Law are void; but what may be prohibited by Law, may be prohibited by Deed. 1 Inst. 223, 206. He that taketh an Estate in Remainder, is bound by Condition in a Deed, though he doth not seal it. No Person shall defeat any Estate of Freehold upon Condition without shewing the Deed wherein the Condition is contained: But of Chattels Real or Personal, &c. a Man may plead that such Grants or Leases were made upon Condition without shewing the Deeds; and is the Case of a Condition to avoid a Freehold, though it may not be pleaded without the Deed, it may be given in Evidence to a Jury, and they may find the Matter at large. Lit. 374. 5 Rep. 40. A Condition may be apportioned by Act of the Law, or the Lessee. 4 Rep. 120. But a Man cannot by his own Act divide, or apportion a Condition, which goes to the Destruction of an Estate. 1 Nels. Abr. 474. A Condition in a Will is a Thing odious in Law, which shall not be created without sufficient Words. 2 Leon. 40. A Devise to the Heir at Law, provided he pay to A. B. 20*l.* is a void Condition, because there is no Person to take Advantage of the Nonperformance. 1 Lutw. 797. Yet Conditional Devises, as well of Lands as of Goods, are allowed by our Law, and not being performed, the Heir or Executors, shall take Advantage of them. 1 Nels. 467. The Word Si will not always make a Condition; but sometimes it makes a Limitation, as where a Lease is made for Years, if A. B. lives so long. And this is contrary to a Condition, for a Stranger may take Advantage of an Estate determined thereby, &c. Co. Litt. 236. Dyer 300. Sub Conditione is the most proper Word to make a Condition: Proviso is as good a Word, when not dependant upon another Sentence; but in some Cases, the Word Proviso may make no Condition, but be only a Qualification, or Explication of a Covenant. 2 Danv. 1, 2.

And neither the Word Proviso, nor any other, makes a Condition, unless it is restrictive. Plowd. 34. 1 Nels. 466. A Grant to one, to the Intent he shall do so and so, is no Condition, but a Trust and Confidence. Dyer 138. Some Words in a Lease do not make a Condition but a Covenant, upon which the Lessor may bring his Action. A Lease being the Deed of Lessor and Lessee, every Word is spoken by both; and a Condition may be therein, though it sounds in Covenant. 1 Nels. 464. A Covenant not to grant, sell, &c. may be a Condition; and Covenant that paying the Rent, the Lessee shall enjoy the Land, is conditional. 2 Danv. 2, 6. Where Words are indefinite, and proper to defeat an Estate, they shall be taken to have the Force of a Condition. Palm. 503. Conditions regularly follow the Habendum in a Deed; but are good in Law, in any other Place. 2 Rep. 70.

Conduits for Water in London, shall be made and repaired, and the Lord Mayor and Aldermen may inquire into Defaults therein, &c. by the Statutes 32 & 35 H. 8.

Cone and Key. A Woman at the Age of fourteen or fifteen Years, might take the Charge of her House, and receive Cone and Key: Cone or Colne in the Sax. signifying Computus, so that she was then held to be of competent Years, when she was able to keep the Accounts and Keys of the House.—Fœmina in tali ætate potest disponere Domui suæ & habere Cone and Key. Bract. lib. 2. cap. 37. And there is something to the same Purpose in Glarv. lib. 7. c. 9.

Confederacy, (Confederatio) Is when two or more combine together to do any Damage or Injury to another, or to do any unlawful Act. And false Confederacy between divers Persons shall be punished, though nothing be put in Execution: But this Confederacy punishable by Law before it is executed, ought to have these Incidents; first, it must be declared by some Matter of Prosecution, as by making of Bonds, or Promises the one to the other; secondly, it should be malicious, as for unjust Revenge; thirdly, it ought to be false against an Innocent; and lastly, it is to be out of Court voluntarily. Terms de Ley 158. Where a Writ of Conspiracy doth not lie, the Confederacy is punishable: And Inquiry shall be made of Conspirators and Confederators, which bind themselves together, &c.

Confession, (Confessio) Is where a Prisoner is indicted of Treason or Felony, and brought to the Bar to be arraigned; and his Indictment being read to him, the Court demands what he can say thereto; then either he confesses the Offence, and the Indictment to be true, or pleads Not guilty, &c. Confession may be made in two Kinds, and to two several Ends: The one is, that the Criminal may confess the Offence whereof he is indicted openly in the Court, before the Judge, and submit himself to the Censure and Judgment of the Law; which Confession is the most certain Answer, and best Satisfaction that may be given to the Judge to condemn the Offender; so that it proceeds freely of his own Accord, without any Threats or Extremity used; for if the Confession arise from any of these Causes, it ought not to be recorded: As a Woman indicted for the felonious taking of a Thing from another, being thereof arraigned, confessed the Felony, and said that she did it by Commandment of her Husband; the Judges in Pity would not record her Confession, but caused her to plead Not guilty to the Felony; whereupon the Jury found that she did the Fact by Compulsion of her Husband, against her Will, for which Cause she was discharged. 27 Affis. pl. 50. The other Kind of Confession is, when the Prisoner confesses the Indictment to be true, and that he hath committed the Offence whereof he is indicted, and then becomes an Approver or Accuser of others, who have committed the same Offence whereof he is indicted, or other Offences with him; and then prays the Judge to have a

Coroner

Coroner assigned him, to whom he may make Relation of those Offences, and the full Circumstances thereof. There is also a third Sort of Confession, formerly made by an Offender in Felony, not in Court before the Judge, as the other two are, but before a Coroner in a Church, or other privileged Place, upon which the Offender by the ancient Law of the Land was to abjure the Realm. 3 Inst. 129. Confession is likewise a Plea in Civil Cases, where the Defendant confesses the Plaintiff's Action to be good: By which Confession there may be Mitigation of a Fine against the Penalty of a Statute; though not after Verdict. Finch 387. 2 Keb. 408. And there is a Confession indirectly implied, as well as directly expressed in Criminal Cases; as if the Defendant in a Case not Capital, doth not directly own himself guilty of the Crime, but by submitting to a Fine, owns his Guilt; whereupon the Judge may accept of his Submission to the King's Mercy. Lamb lib. 4. c. 9. By this indirect Confession, the Defendant shall not be barred to plead Not Guilty to an Action, &c. for the same Fact: The Entry of it is, that the Defendant posuit se in gratiam Regis, &c. And of the direct Confession, quod Cognovit Indictamentum, &c. And this last Confession carries with it so strong a Presumption of Guilt, that being entered on Record, in Indictment of Treasons, it estops the Defendant to plead Not Guilty to an Action brought afterwards against him for the same Matter: But such Entry of a Confession of an Indictment of a capital Crime, 'tis said will not estop a Defendant to plead Not Guilty to an Appeal, it being in Case of Life. And where a Person upon his Arraignment actually confesses himself guilty, or unadvisedly discloses the special Manner of the Fact, supposing that it doth not amount to Felony, where it doth; the Judges upon probable Circumstances, that such Confession, may proceed from Fear, Weakness, or Ignorance, may refuse such a Confession, and suffer the Party to plead. 2 Hawk. 303. A Confession may be received, and the Plea of Not Guilty be with-drawn, though recorded. Kel. 11. The Confession of the Defendant, whether taken upon an Examination before Justices of Peace, in Pursuance of the 1 Ed. 2 P. & M. c. 13. or 2 Ed. 3 P. & M. c. 10. upon a Bailment, or Commitment for Felony; or taken by the Common Law, upon an Examination before a Secretary of State, or other Magistrate, for Treason or other Crimes, is allowed to be given in Evidence against the Party confessing; but not against others. Also two Witnesses of a Confession of High Treason, upon an Examination before a Justice of Peace, were sufficient to convict the Person so confessing, within the Meaning of 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. and 5 Ed. 6. cap. 11. which required two Witnesses in High Treason; unless the Offender should willingly confess, &c. But the 7 W. 3. cap. 3. requires two Witnesses, except the Party shall willingly without Violence confess, &c. in open Court. 2 Hawk. P. C. 429. It has been held that where-ever a Man's Confession is made use of against him, it must all be taken together, and not by Parcels. Ibid. And no Confession shall before final Judgment, deprive the Defendant of the Privilege of taking Exceptions in Arrest of Judgment, to Faults apparent in the Record. 333. A Demurrer amounts to a Confession of the Indictment as laid, so far, that if the Indictment be good, Judgment and Execution shall go against the Prisoner. Bro. 86. S. P. C. 150. H. P. C. 246. And in criminal Cases not capital, if the Defendant demur to an Indictment, &c. whether in Abatement, or otherwise, the Court will not give Judgment against him to answer over, but final Judgment. 2 Hawk. 334. Where a Prisoner confesses the Fact, the Court has nothing more to do than to proceed to Judgment against him. And Confessus in Judicio pro Judicato Habetur. 11 Rep. 30. 4 Inst. 66.

Confessor, (Lat. Confessor, Confessionarius) Hath Relation to private Confession of Sins, in Order to Absolution: And the Priest, who received the auricular Confession, had the Title of Confessor; though improperly, for he is rather the Confessee, being the Person to whom the Confession is made. This Receiving the Confession of a Penitent, was in old English to Shrove or Serive; whence comes the Word Shrove, or looking like a confessed or shroved Person, on whom was imposed some uneasy Penance. The most solemn Time of Confessing was the Day before Lent, which from thence is still called Shrove-Tuesday. Cowel.

Confirmation, (Confirmatio, from the Verb Confirmare, quod est firmum facere) Is a Conveyance of an Estate, or Right in esse, from one Man to another, whereby a voidable Estate is made sure and unavoidable; or a particular Estate is increased, or a Possession made perfect. And 'tis a Strengthening of an Estate formerly made, which is voidable, though not presently void: As for Example; A Bishop granteth his Chancellorship by Patent, for Term of the Patentee's Life; this is no void Grant, but voidable by the Bishop's Death, except it be strengthened by the Confirmation of the Dean and Chapter. Confirmation, aut est perficiens, crescens, aut diminuens: Perficiens, as if Feoffees upon Condition make a Feoffment, and the Feoffor confirm the Estate of the second Feoffee: Crescens, that doth always enlarge the Estate of a Tenant; as Tenant for Years, to hold for Life, &c. Diminuens, as when the Lord of whom the Land is holden, confirms the Estate of his Tenant, to hold by a less Rent. 9 Rep. 142. The Lord may diminish the Services of his Tenant by Confirmation; but not reserve new Services, so long as the former Estate in the Tenancy continues: And therefore if he confirm to the Tenant, to yield him a Hawk, &c. yearly, it is void. Lit. Sect. 539 1 Co. Inst. 296. Leases for Years may be confirmed for Part of the Term, or Part of the Land, &c. But it is otherwise of an Estate of Freehold, which being intire, cannot be confirmed for Part of the Estate. 5 Rep. 81. There may be a Confirmation implied by Law, as well as express by Deed; where the Law by Construction makes a Confirmation of a Grant made to another Purpose: And a Confirmation may enlarge an Estate, from Estate held at Will to Term of Years, or a greater Estate; from an Estate for Years to an Estate for Life; from an Estate for Life, to Estate in Tail, or in Fee; and from an Estate in Tail to an Estate in Fee-simple. 1 Inst. 305. 9 Rep. 142. Dyer 263. But if the Confirmation be made to Lessee for Life or Years, of his Term or Estate, and not of the Land, this doth not increase the Estate, though if the Lessor confirm the Land, to have and to hold the Land to the Lessee and his Heirs, this will enlarge the Estate, and so of the Rest. Co. Litt. 299. Plowd. 40. In every good Confirmation, there must be a precedent rightful or wrongful Estate in him to whom made, or he must have the Possession of the Thing as a Foundation for the Confirmation to work upon; the Confirmor must have such an Estate and Property in the Land, that he may be thereby enabled to confirm the Estate of the Confessee; the precedent Estate must continue till the Confirmation come, so that the Estate to be increased comes into it; and it is required that both these Estates be lawful. Co. Litt. 296. 1 Rep. 146. Dyer 109. 5 Rep. 15. If one have Common of Pasture in another's Land, and he confirms the Estate of the Tenant of the Land, nothing passes of the Common, but it remains as it was before: So if a Man have a Rent out of the Land, and he doth confirm the Estate which the Tenant hath in the Land, the Rent remaineth. Litt. Sect. 537. Tenant for Life makes a Lease for Years to a Man, and after Leases the Land to another Person for Years; and he in Reversion confirms the last Lease, and after that the first Lease, this is not good: The second Lessee hath an Interest before by the Confirmation of him in Reversion. But in a like Case, Confirmation of the first Lease, after the Second was confirmed, was held good; for the Lease takes no Interest by the Confirmation, but only to make it durable and effectual. Moor, c. 180. 1 Inst. 296. Plowd. 10. If a Disseisor confirm the Land to the Disseisor, but for one Hour, one Week, a Year, or for Life, &c. it is a good Confirmation of the Estate for ever: And if he confirms the Estate of the Disseisor without any Word of Heirs, he hath a Fee-simple; and if a Disseisor make a Gift in Tail, and the Disseisor doth confirm the Estate of the Donee, it shall enure to the whole Estate: Also if the Disseisor enfeoffs A. and B. and the Heirs of B. and the Disseisor confirms the Estate of B. for his Life; this shall extend to his Companion, and for the whole Fee-simple. Co. Litt. 291, 297, 299. But where the Estate is divided it is otherwise; as if there be an Estate for Life, the Remainder over, there the Confirmation may be of either of the Estates: And if the Lessee of a Disseisor of a Lease for 20 Years, makes a Lease for 10 Years; the Disseisor may confirm to one of them, and not the other. 1 Cro. 472. 5 Rep. 81. If a Disseisor or any other make a Lease for Years to begin at a Day to come, a Confirmation to the Lessee before the Lease begins will not be good; for there is no Estate in him. Co. Litt. 296. The Tenant in Tail of Land, hath a Reversion in Fee expectant; in this Case, the Confirmation of the Estate-tail will not extend to the Reversion. And if my Disseisor make a Lease for Life, the Remainder in Fee, and I confirm the Estate of the Tenant for Life; this shall not confirm the Estate of him in Remainder: But if I confirm the Remainder Estate, without any Confirmation to Tenant for Life; it shall enure to him also. Co. Litt. 297, 298. If Lands are given to two Men, and the Heirs of their two Bodies begotten, and the Donor confirms their Estates in the Lands, to have and to hold to them two and their Heirs; this shall be construed a joint Estate for their Lives, and after they shall have several Inheritances. Co. Litt. 299. Tenant in Tail, or for Life of Land, lets it for Years, if after he makes a Confirmation of the Land to the Lessee for Years, to hold to him and his Heirs for ever, the Lessee hath only an Estate for the Life of the Tenant in Tail, &c. and therein his Lease for Years is extinct. Lit. Sect. 606. A Freehold for Life, and Term for Years, it is said, cannot stand together of the same Land, in the same Person. 1 Nelf. Abr. 480. If a Feme Lessee for Years marries, and the Lessor confirms the Estate of Husband and Wife, to hold for their Lives, by such a Confirmation, the Term will be drowned; and the Husband and Wife be Jointenants for their Lives. Co. Litt. 300. But if the Feme were Lessee for Life, then by the Confirmation to Husband and Wife for their Lives, the Husband holdeth only in Right of his Wife for her Life; but shall take a Remainder for his Life. Ibid. 299. Confirmation to Lessee for Life, and a Stranger to hold for their Lives, is void, for there is no Privity: But 'tis otherwise, if for Years. 2 Darv. Abr. 141. If Tenant for Life grant a Rent-charge, &c. to one and his Heirs, he in Reversion is to confirm it, otherwise 'tis good only for the Life of Tenant for Life. Lit. 529. A Tenant for Life, and Remainder-man in Fee, join in a Lease, this shall be taken to be the Lease of Tenant for Life, during his Life, and Confirmation of him in Remainder: Though after the Death of Tenant for Life, it is the Lease of him in Remainder, and Confirmation of Tenant for Life. 6 Rep. 15. 1 Nelf. Abr. 481. If Lessee for Years, without Impeachment of Waste, accepts a Confirmation of his Estate for Life; by this he hath lost the Privilege annexed to his Estate for Years. 8 Rep. 76. Acceptance of Rent in some Cases makes a Confirmation of a Lease: And if a Man leases for Life, reserving Rent upon a Condition of Re-entry; if after the Condition is broke, by Non payment of the Rent, the Lessor distrains for the said Rent, this Act shall be a Confirmation of the Lease, so as he cannot enter. 2

Darv. 128, 129. What a Person may defeat by his Entry, he may make good by his Confirmation. Co. Litt. 300. But none can confirm, unless he hath a Right at the Time of the Grant; he that hath but a Right in Reversion cannot enlarge the Estate of a Lessee. 2 Darv. 140, 141. And where a Person hath but Interesse termini, he hath no Estate in him, upon which a Confirmation may enure. Co. Litt. 296. A Confirmation is to bind the Right of him who makes it; but not alter the Nature of the Estate of him to whom made; it shall not discharge a Condition. Popb. 51. If A. enfeoffs B. upon Condition, and after A. confirms the Estate of B. yet the Condition remains: Though if B. had enfeoffed C. so that the Estate of C. had been only subject to the Condition in another Deed, and after A. had confirmed the Estate of C. this would have extinguish'd the Condition, which was annexed to the Estate of B. 1 Rep. 147. A Confirmation will take away a Condition annexed by Law: And by Confirmation, a Condition after broken in a Deed of Feoffment is extinguish'd. 1 Co. Rep. 146. Confirmations may make a defeasible Estate good; but cannot work upon an Estate that is void in Law. Co. Litt. 295. A Confirmation of Letters Patent, which are void as they are against Law, is a void Confirmation. 1 Lill. Abr. 295. If there be Lord and Tenant, and the Tenant having Issue is attainted of Felony, if the King pardons him, and the Lord confirms his Estate, and the Tenant dies, his Issue shall not inherit, but the Lord shall have it against his own Confirmation: For that could not enable him to take by Descent, who by the Attainder of his Father was disabled. 9 Rep. 141. Grants and Leases of Bishops not warranted by the Stat. 32 H. 8. must be confirmed by Dean and Chapter: And Grants and Leases of Parsons, &c. by Patron and Ordinary. 1 Inst. 297, 300, 301. Bishops may grant Leases of their Church-Lands for three Lives, or twenty-one Years, having the Qualities required by 32 Hen. 8. and concurrent Leases for twenty-one Years, with Confirmation of Dean and Chapter. If a Prebend Leases Parcel of his Prebendary, and the Bishop, who is Patron, confirms it; this shall not bind the succeeding Bishop, without Confirmation of Dean and Chapter, because the Patronage is Parcel of the Possessions of the Bishoprick; but it shall bind the present Bishop, &c. 2 Darv. 139. If a Parson grants a Rent, the Confirmation of the Patron and Bishop, is sufficient without the Dean and Chapter, and shall be good against the Successor Bishop. Ibid. 140. The Dean of Wells may pass his Possessions, with the Assent of the Chapter, without any Confirmation of the Bishop. Ibid. 135. Leases of Bishops are affirmed ex assensu & consensu Decani & totius Capituli. A Confirmation is in Nature of a Release, and in some Things is of greatest Force: And in this Deed, it is good to recite the Estate of the Tenant, as also of him that is to confirm it; and to mention the Consideration: The Words Ratify and Confirm, are commonly made Use of; but Words Give, Grant, Demise, &c. by Implication of Law, may enure as a Confirmation. 1 Inst. 295. West. Symb. 1. p. 457.

Confiscate, From the Lat. Confiscare, and that from Fiscus, which signifies metonymically the Emperor's Treasure: And as the Romans say, such Goods as are Forfeited to the Emperor's Treasury for any Offence are Bona Confiscata; so we say of those that are forfeited to our King's Exchequer. And the Title to have these Goods is given to the King by the Law, when they are not claimed by some other: As if a Man be indicted for stealing the Goods of another Person, when they are in Truth his own proper Goods, and when the Goods are brought in Court against him, and he is asked what he says to the said Goods, if he disclaims them, he shall lose the Goods, although that afterwards he be acquitted of the Felony, and the King shall have them as confiscated; but 'tis otherwise if he do not disclaim them. It is the same where Goods are found in the Possession of a Felon, if he disavows them, and afterwards is attained for other Goods, and not of them; for there the Goods which he disavows are confiscate to the King; but had he been attained of the same Goods, they should have been said to be forfeited and not confiscate. So if an Appeal of Robbery be brought, and the Plaintiff leaves out some of his Goods, he shall not be received to enlarge his Appeal; and forasmuch as there is none to have the Goods so left out, the King shall have them as confiscate, according to the Rule, Quod non Capit Christus, capit Fiscus. Staud. P. C. lib. 3. cap. 24. Goods confiscated are generally such as are arrested and seised for the King's Use: But Confiscare and Forisfacere, are said to be Synonyma; and Bona Confiscata are Bona Forisfacta. 3 Inst. 227.

Conformity to the Church of England. See Stat. 55 Eliz. &c. and Recusant.

Confratrite, (Confraternitas) A Fraternity, Brotherhood, or Society; as the Confratrie de St. George, or Les Chevaliers de la bleu Gartier, the Honourable Society of the Knights of the Garter.

Confreres, (Confratres) Brethren in a Religious House; Fellows of one and the same Society. Stat. 32 Hen. 8. c. 24.

Congable, (From the Fr. Conge, i. e. Leave or Permission) Signifies in our Law as much as lawful, or lawfully done, or done with Permission: As Entry Congable, &c. Lit. Sect. 420.

Conge d'Accorder, (Fr.) Leave to accord or agree, mentioned in the Statute of Fines, 18 Ed. 1. in these Words.—When the original Writ is delivered in the Presence of the Parties before Justices, a Pleader shall say this, Sir Justice Conge d'Accorder; and the Justice shall say to him, what saith Sir R. and name one of the Parties, &c.

Conge d'Esire, (Fr. i. e. Leave to choose) Is the King's Licence or Permission sent to a Dean and Chapter to proceed to the Election of a Bishop, when any Bishoprick becomes vacant. According to Gravin, in his Preface to his Readings, the King of England, as Sovereign Patron of all Bishopricks, and other Ecclesiastical Benefices, had of ancient Time free Appointment of all Church Dignities, when ever they became void, investing them first per Baculum & Annulum, and afterwards by his Letter Patent; and in Process of Time he made the Election over to others, under certain Forms and Conditions; as, that they should at every Vacation, before they chuse, demand of the King Conge d'Esire; that is Leave to proceed to Election, and then after the Election, to crave his Royal Assent, &c. And he affirms that King John was the first that granted this; which was afterwards confirm'd by Stat. H. 1. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 1. And by Articuli Cleri, 25 Ed. 3. c. 1. All the Prelacies in England were conferred at the Pleasure of the King, and the Persons invested by the King's Delivery of a Staff and Ring, till Archbishop Anselm denied this Royal Prerogative; and prevailed with Pope Paschal to abrogate this Custom by a solemn Canon: After which, the first Bishop who came in by a regular Election, was Roger Bishop of Salisbury, Anno 3 H. 1. By Statute, no Man is to be presented to the See of Rome for the Dignity of a Bishop, &c. but Election is to be by the King's Conge d'Esire, or Licence, to elect the Person named by the King; which the Dean and Chapter must do in twenty Days, or they will incur a Premunure: And if they fail to make Election, the King is to nominate, &c. by his Letters Patent. 25 H. 8. c. 20. The 1 Ed. 6. c. 6. ousted the Writ of Conge d'Esire, and empowered the King to collate to an Archbishoprick or Bishoprick, absolutely by Letters Patent. But this Statute was repealed by 1 M. cap. 2. though the Election by Conge d'Esire, as now made, seems to be little more than Form.

Congius, An ancient Measure, containing about a Gallon and a Pint.—Et reddat quinque Congios ceree & unum Yromelli, &c. Charta Edmondi Regis, Anno 946.

Coningeria, A Coney-Borough, or Warren of Conies.—Item dicunt, quod Idem Dominus potest capere in duabus Coningeriis quas habet infra, &c. 100 Cuniculos per Annum, & valet quilibet Cuniculus 2 d. Inquis. Anno 47 H. 3.

Conjuratio, Is an Oath; and Conjuratus, the same with Conjurator, viz. one who is bound by the same Oath. Conjurare is where several affirm a Thing by Oath. Mon. Ang. Tom. 1. p. 207.

Conjuration, (Conjuratio) Signifies a Plot or Compact made by Persons combining by Oath, to do any publick Harm: But it is more especially used for the having personal Conference with the Devil, or some evil Spirit, to know any Secret, or effect any Purpose. The Difference between Conjuration and Witchcraft is, that a Person using the one endeavours by Prayers and Invocations to compel the Devil to say or do what he commands him; the other deals rather by friendly and voluntary Conference, or Agreement with the Devil or Familiar, to have his Desires served, in Lieu of Blood or other Gift offered. And both differ from Enchantment or Sorcery; because they are Personal Conferences with the Devil, and these are as it were but Medicines and ceremonial Forms of Words usually called Charms, without Apparition. Cowel. Hawkins, in his Pleas of the Crown, lib. 1. pag. 5. says that Conjurors are those who by Force of certain Magick Words, endeavour to raise the Devil, and oblige him to execute their Commands. Witches are such who by Way of Conference bargain with an evil Spirit, to do what they desire of him: And Sorcerers, are those who by the Use of certain superstitious Words, or by the Means of Images, &c. are said to produce strange Effects, above the ordinary Course of Nature. All which were anciently punished in the same Manner as Hereticks, by the Writ of Heretico Comburendo, after a Sentence in the Ecclesiastical Court: And they might be condemned to the Pillory, &c. upon an Indictment at Common Law. 3 Inst. 44. H. P. C. 38. But by Stat. 1 Jac. 1. c. 12. These Offenders are divided into two Degrees; and those in the first Degree, and their Accessaries before, shall suffer as Felons without Benefit of Clergy; and of these there are the four following Species. 1. Such as shall use any Invocation or Conjuration of any evil Spirit. 2. That consult, covenant with, entertain, employ, or reward any evil Spirit, to any Intent. 3. As take up any dead Person's Body, or any Part thereof, to be used in any manner of Witchcraft. 4. Or that exercise any Witchcraft, Inchantment, Charm or Sorcery, whereby any Person shall be killed, destroyed, consumed, or lamed in his Body, or any Part thereof. And if a Spirit doth not actually appear, upon Invocation, &c. Or if a dead Person or Part of it be taken up to be used, and not actually used; they are within the Statute: But one must actually effect the Mischief to be within the Clause of killing, laming, &c. 3 Inst. 45. H. P. C. 6, 7. Those in the second Degree shall for the first Offence, suffer a Year's Imprisonment, and the Pillory; and for the Second, be adjudged Felons, excluded Clergy: And these Offenders are divided into the following Kinds: Such as take upon them by Witchcraft, Charm, &c. to tell where Treasure, or Things lost or stolen, may be found; or to do any Thing to the Intent to provoke any Person to unlawful Love; or to hurt any Person in his Body; or whereby any Cattle or Goods of any Person, shall be destroyed or impaired, &c. but those who take upon them to do the Last, are not within the Act, unless they actually accomplish it. 3 Inst. 46. Stat. 1 Jac. 1. c. 12. This Statute of K. James I. against Conjuration and Witchcraft is repealed; and no Prosecution tion shall be commenced on the same: But where Persons pretend to exercise any kind of Witchcraft or Conjuration, &c. Or undertake to tell Fortunes, or from their Skill in any crafty Science to discover where Goods stolen or lost may be found; upon Conviction, they shall be Imprisoned a Year, and stand in the Pillory once in every Quarter, in some Market-Town, and may be ordered to give Security for their Good Behaviour, by Stat. 9 Geo. 2. c. 5.

Conquest, Countries got by, what Laws to have for Government. See King.

Confanguinity, (Confanguinitas) Is a Kindred by Blood or Birth: As Affinity is a Kindred by Marriage: And it is considerable in the Discent of Lands, who shall take it as next of Blood, &c. And also in Administrations, which shall be granted to the next of Kin. See the Heads.

Conseruator, (Lat.) A Protector, Preserver, or Maintainer; or a standing Arbitrator, chosen and appointed as a Guarantee to compose and adjust Differences that should arise between two Parties, &c. Paroch. Antiq. p. 513.

Conseruator of the Peace, (Conseruator vel Custos Pacis) Is he that hath an especial Charge to see the King's Peace kept: And of these Conseruators Lambard saith, That before the Reign of Ed. 3. who first created Justices of Peace, there were diuers Persons that by the Common Law had Interest in keeping the Peace; some whereof had that Charge by Tenure, as holding Lands of the King by this Service, &c. And others as incident to their Offices which they bore, and so included in the same, that they were nevertheless called by the Name of their Office only: Also some had it simply, as of itself, and were thereof named Custodes Pacis, Wardens or Conseruators of the Peace. The Chamberlain of Chester is a Conseruator of the Peace in that County, by Virtue of his Office. 4 Inst. 212. Sheriffs of Counties at Common Law are Conseruators of the Peace; and Constables, by the Common Law were Conseruators, but some say they were only subordinate to the Conseruators of the Peace, as they are now to the Justice.

Conseruator of the Truce and Safe Conduits, (Conseruator Induciarum & saluorum Regis Conductuum) Was an Officer appointed by the King's Letters Patent, whose Charge was to inquire of all Offences done against the King's Truce and Safe Conduits upon the main Sea, out of the Liberties of the Cinque Ports, as the Admirals customably were wont to do, and such other Things as are declared 3 Hen. 5. c. 6. Two Men learned in the Law were joined to Conseruators of the Truce as Associates; and Masters of Ships sworn not to attempt any Thing against the Truce, &c. And Letters of Request and of Marque were to be granted when Truce was broken at Sea, to make Resitution. Stat. 4 H. 5. c. 7.

There was anciently a Conseruator of the Privileges of the Hospitalers and Templars. West. 2. c. 43. And the Corporation of the Great Level of the Fens consists of a Governor, six Bailiffs, twenty Conseruators, and Commonalty. Stat. 15 Car. 2. cap. 17.

Consideratio Curiae, Is often mentioned in Law Pleadings, and where Matters are determined by the Court. Idco Consideratum est per Curiam, i. e. Therefore it is considered and adjudged by the Court; for Consideratio Curiae is the Judgment of the Court. In the Entry of a Judgment for Debt, it concludes thus: Idco Consideratum est per Cur. quod praed. A. recuperet versus praefat. B. Debitum suum, necnon, &c. pro Dampnis suis, &c. quam pro Mis. & Custag', &c. Et praed. B. in mia', &c.

Consideration, (Consideratio) Is the material Cause or Quid pro quo, of any Contract, without which it will not be effectual or binding. This Consideration is either expressed; as when a Man bargains to give so much, for a Thing bought; or to sell his Land for 100*l.* or grants it in Exchange for other Lands; or where I Promise that if one will marry my Daughter, or build me a House, &c. I will give him a certain Sum of Money; or one agrees for 20*s.* to do a Thing. Or it is implied, when the Law itself enforces a Consideration; as where a Person comes to an Inn, and there staying eats and drinks, and takes Lodging for himself and Horse, the Law presumes he intends to pay for both, though there be no express Contract for it; and therefore if he discharge not the House, the Host may stay his Horse: And so if a Taylor makes a Garment for another, and there is no express Agreement what he shall have for it; he may keep the Clothes till he is paid, or sue the Party for the same. 5 Rep. 19. Plowd. 308. Dyer 30, 337. Also there is a Consideration of Nature and Blood; and valuable Consideration in Deeds and Conveyances: But if a Man be indebted to diuers others, and in Consideration of natural Affection, gives all his Goods to his Son, or other Relation, this shall be construed a fraudulent Gift, within the Stat. 13 Eliz. cap. 5. because that Act intends a valuable Consideration. Terms de Ley 165, 166. Considerations of natural Love, Affection, Marriage, &c. are good to raise Uses to a Man's Family: If the Uses are limited to a Stranger, then it must be for valuable Consideration, not for Love, Affection, &c. 1 Inst. 271. 1 Rep. 176. A Sale can never be without a valuable Consideration: Though the Law establishes free Gifts without the same. Noy's Max. 87. Hob. 230. One may sell his Freedom and Privilege for a Consideration; for by the Consideration it is intended he hath a full Recompence for it, by Reason of his own Contract. And a Man may, upon a valuable Consideration restrain himself by Contract from using his Trade in such a particular Place. 1 Lill. Abr. 297, 298. A Consideration ought to be Matter of Profit and Benefit to him to whom it is done; by Reason of the Charge or Trouble of him who doth it. Cro. Car. 8. Considerations altogether pass; as if a Person hath disbursed several Sums for another, without his Request, and afterwards such other says, that in Consideration he hath paid the said Sums for him, he promises to pay them: This is no Consideration, because it was executed before. But it will be otherwise, if the Sums were paid at the Request of the other. Moor 220. Cro. Eliz. 282. A mere voluntary Curtsey will not be a good Consideration of a Promise: But the Value and Proportion of the Consideration is not material, to maintain an Action; for a Shilling, or a Penny, is as much binding as 100*l.* Though in these Cases, the Jury will give Damages proportionably to the Loss. Hob. 4. 10 Rep. 76. A Consideration that is void in Part, is void in the Whole: And if two Considerations be alledged, and one of them is found false by the Jury, the Action fails. Hob. 126. Cro. Eliz. 848. But if there be a double Consideration, for the Grounding of a Promise, for the Breach whereof an Action is brought; though one of the Considerations be not good, yet if the other be good, and the Promise broken, the Action will lie upon that Breach: For one Consideration is enough to support the Promise. 1 Lill. 297. A Consideration must be lawful, to ground an Assumpsit. 2 Lev. 161. Where Considerations are valuable, and consist of two or more Parts, there the Performance of every Part ought to be shewn. Cro. El. 579. If a Deed express a Consideration of Money, on a Purchase, it is said this will be no Proof on a Trial that the Money was actually paid; but it is to be made out by Proof of Witnesses. Style's Rep. 169. In Case a Deed of Feoffment be made of Lands; or a Fine and Recovery be passed, and no Consideration is expressed in the Deed, &c. for the doing thereof, it shall be intended by the Law, that it was made in Trust, for the Use of the Feoffor or Conufor;

Conusor; for it shall be presumed he would not part with his Land without a Consideration, and yet the Deed shall be construed to operate something, and that which is most reasonable. 1 Lill. Abr. 299.

Consign, Is a Word used by Merchants, where Goods are assigned or delivered over to a Factor, &c. Lex Mercat.

Consilium, (Dies Consilii) Was a Time allowed for one accused to make his Defence, and answer the Charge of the Accuser.—In aliis querat Accusatus Consilium, & habeat ab amicis & paribus suis, quod nullo jure debet defendi, &c. Leg. H. 1. c. 45. It is now used for a speedy Day appointed to argue a Demurrer; which the Court grants after the Demurrer joined on reading the Record of the Cause, &c.

Consistor, A Magistrate so called: Tesibus Rogero de Gant, Willielmo Consitore Cestriae, &c. Blount.

Consistory, (Consistorium) Signifies as much as Prætorium, or Tribunal: It is commonly used for a Council-House of Ecclesiastical Persons, or Place of Justice in the Spiritual Court; a Session or Assembly of Prelates. And every Archbishop and Bishop of every Diocese, hath a Consistory Court, held before his Chancellor, or Commissary in his Cathedral Church, or other convenient Place of his Diocese, for Ecclesiastical Causes. 4 Inst. 338. The Bishop's Chancellor is the Judge of this Court, supposed to be skilled in the Civil and Canon Law: And in Places of the Diocese, far remote from the Bishop's Consistory, the Bishop appoints a Commissary (Commissarius Foraneus) to judge in all Causes within a certain District, and a Register to enter his Decrees, &c. 2 Roll. Abr. 286. Selden's Hist. of Tithe, 413, 414.

Consolidation, (Consolidatio) Is used for the Uniting of two Benefices into one. Stat. 37 H. 8. c. 21. Which Union is to be by the Assent of the Ordinary, Patron and Incumbent, &c. and to be of small Churches lying near together. Vide Church. This Word is taken from the Civil Law, where it signifies properly an Uniting of the Possession, Occupancy or Profit of Lands, &c. with the Property. See Extinguishment.

Conspiracy, (Conspiratio) Is used for an Agreement of two or more Persons falsely to indict one, or to procure him to be indicted of Felony; who after Acquittal, shall have Writ of Conspiracy: And Writ of Conspiracy lies for him that is indicted of a Trespass, and acquitted, though it was not Felony: Also upon an Indictment for a Riot. 2 Mod. 306. 5 Mod. 405. Where a Man is falsely indicted of any Crime, which may prejudice his Fame or Reputation; and though it doth not import Slander, if it endangers his Liberty; or if the Indictment be injurious to his Property, &c. Writ of Conspiracy lieth. 3 Salk. 97. And for a false Charge, before the Party is acquitted of it, Indictment lies, &c. But though a Conspiracy to charge falsely be indictable, yet the Party ought to shew himself to be innocent; and the Writ of Conspiracy lies not without an Acquittal. Mod. Caf. 137, 185, 186. Not only Writ of Conspiracy, which is a civil Action at the Suit of the Party; but also Action of the Case in the Nature of a Writ of Conspiracy, doth lie for a false and malicious Accusation of any Crime, whether Capital, or not Capital, even of High Treason; and though the Bill of Indictment is found Ignoramus, or it does not go so far as an Indictment. And the same Damages may be recovered in such Action, as in a Writ of Conspiracy, where the Party is lawfully acquitted by Verdict. 1 Roll. Abr. 111, 112. 9 Rep. 56. If one falsely and maliciously procure another to be arrested, and brought before a Justice of Peace to be examined concerning a Felony, &c. on purpose to vex and disgrace him, and put him to Charges and Trouble, although he is not indicted for the same, yet he may have an Action of the Case; in which he need not aver that he was lawfully acquitted, as he ought to do in a Writ of Conspiracy; but he must aver that the Accusation was Falso & Malitiose, which Words are necessary in the Declaration; and it must appear that there was no Ground for it. And as Action on the Case may be prosecuted against one Person, where the Writ of Conspiracy or Indictment doth not lie but against two, this Action is most commonly brought. 1 Dawv. Abr. 208, 213. 2 Inst. 562, 638. Conspirators may be indicted at the Suit of the King; and at the Common Law, one may prefer an Indictment against Conspirators, who only conspire together, and nothing is executed: Though the Conspiracy ought to be declared by some AG, or Promise to stand by one another, &c. But a bare Conspiracy, will not maintain a Writ of Conspiracy, at the Suit of the Party grieved, because he is not damaged by it; though it is a Ground for an Indictment. 9 Rep. 56. 2 Roll. Abr. 77. If the Defendants can shew any Foundation or probable Cause of Suspicion, they shall be discharged: And if a Man hath good Cause of Suspicion, that a Person is Guilty of Felony, and causes him to be indicted, in Prosecution of Justice, notwithstanding there be no Felony committed, Action of Conspiracy will not lie: But 'tis otherwise if the Prosecutor imposes the Crime of Felony, where no Felony was committed. 1 Roll. Abr. 115. and Rep. 438. An Action lies not against a Justice of Peace, who sends out his Warrant upon a false Accusation; but it lies if he makes it out without any Accusation. 1 Leon. 187. Conspiracies ought to be out of Court; for if a Prosecution be ordered in a Course of Justice, and Witnesses appear against a Party, &c. there shall be no Punishment: And if Persons acted only as Jurors in a criminal Matter; or Judges in open Court, there is no Ground for Prosecution. S. P. C. 173. 12 Rep. 24. If all the Defendants but one are acquitted on Indictment for Conspiracy, that one must be acquitted also; because one Person alone cannot be indicted for this Crime: And Husband and Wife being but one Person, may not be indicted. 2 Roll. Abr. 708. The Acquittal of one Person is the Acquittal of another upon Indictment of Conspiracy. 3 Mod. 220. Though where one is found guilty, according to the Opinion of the Lord Chief Justice Hale; if the other doth not come in upon Process, or if he dies pending the Suit, Judgment shall be had against the other. 1 Vent. 234. Writ of Conspiracy was brought against two Persons, and one found Not guilty; the other shall not have Judgment: But in Action on the Case, it had been good. Cro. Eliz. 701. If the Parties are found guilty of the Conspiracy, upon an Indictment of Felony, at the King's Suit; the Judgment is, that they shall lose their Frank Læu (which disables them to be put upon any Jury, to be sworn as Witnesses, or to appear in Person in any of the King's Courts) and that their Lands, Goods and Chattels be seized as forfeited, and their Bodies committed to Prison; which is called a Villainous Judgment. 2 Inst. 143, 222. Crompt. Just. 156. The Matter of the Conspiracy ought to touch a Man's Life, where this Judgment is imposed. 1 Hawk. P. C. 193. For conspiring to charge a Person with poisoning another, &c. one of the Parties was fined 1000*l.* and some others had Judgment of the Pillory, and to be burnt in the Cheek with the Letters F. and C. to signify False Conspirators. Moor 816. Fine and Imprisonment is the usual Punishment at this Day on Indictment for Conspiracy: And on Writ of Conspiracy, &c. the Party shall be fined, and render Damages. There is a Conspiracy to maintain Suits and Quarrels; and of Victuallers, to sell their Victuals at certain Prices; of Labourers and Artificers, &c. punishable by Statutes 33 Ed. 1. 37 H. 8. 2 & 3 Ed. 6.

A Writ of Conspiracy.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of B. Greeting: If A. B. shall make you Secure in prosecuting, &c. then put C. D. and E. F. to find Pledges and Sufficient Sureties, that they be before us at Westminster, on the Day, &c. to shew, why by Conspiracy between them had at W. they falsely and Maliciously procured the said A. B. to be Indicted of a certain Felony of, &c. and him on that Occasion to be taken, and in our Prison of R. until in the Court before our beloved and faithful, &c. our Justices, &c. according to the Law and Custom of our Realm he was acquitted, to be there detained; to the great Damage of him the said A. B. and against the Form of the Statute or Ordinance in such Case made and provided; and have you there the Names of the Pledges, and this Writ. Witness, &c.

Conspirators, (Conspiratores) By 33 E. 1. are defined to be those that do bind themselves by Oath, Covenant, or other Alliance, that every of them shall aid the other falsely and maliciously to indict Persons; or falsely to move or maintain Pleas, &c. And such as retain Men in the Country, with Liveries; or Fees, to maintain their malicious Enterprises, which extends as well to the 'Takers, as the Givers; and Stewards and Bailiffs of great Lords, who by their Office or Power, undertake to bear and maintain Quarrels, Pleas or Debates, that concern other Parties than such as relate to the Estate of their Lords or themselves. 2 Inst. 384. 562. And against Conspirators, false Informers and Imbracers of Inquest, the King hath provided a Writ in the Chancery; and the Justices of either Bench and Justices of Assize, shall on every Complaint, award Inquest thereupon. Stat. 28 E. 1. c. 10. From the Description of Conspirators, in several of our old Law Books, Conspiracy is taken generally, and confounded with Maintenance and Champerty. Besides these, there are Conspirators in Treason; by plotting against the Government, &c. See Treason.

Conspiratio, Is a Writ that lies against Conspirators. Reg. Orig. 134. F. N. B. 114.

Constable, (Constabularius) Is a Saxon Word, compounded of Coning, i. e. King; and Staple, which signify the Stay or Hold of the King. This Word is diversely used in our Law; first for the Lord Constable of England, whose Power was anciently so extensive, that some Time since that Office hath been thought too great for any Subject; unless at the King's Coronation to compleat the Grandeur of that Ceremony, and for the ancient Trials by Combat, &c. In the Reign of Henry the Fourth, the Lord North was made Lord Constable for Life. And this Office being formerly of Inheritance, by Tenure of certain Manors, the Line of the Bohuns, Earls of Hereford and Essex, enjoyed it in Right of the Manors of Harlefield, Newman, and Witsamburgh; and afterwards it came to the Staffords, and Dukes of Buckingham, as heirs general of them; but Edward Duke of Buckingham being attainted of High Treason Anno 13 H. 8. this Office became forfeited to the Crown, and since that Time it was never granted but pro hac vice, to be exercised at a Coronation, &c. The Power and Jurisdiction of the Lord High Constable, was the same with the Earl Marshal, and he sat as Judge having Precedence of the Earl Marshal in the Marshal's Court: But the Constable of England is by some of our Books also called Marshal; who takes Cognizance of all Matters of War and Arms, and had originally several Courts under him; but has now only the Marshal's; and his Office is in Force both in Time of Peace and War, so that though the Lord Constable had the Precedency, yet the Court held before them was called the Marshal's Court. See my Lex Constitutionis, p. 275, 276. Of this Officer or

Magistrate, Gwyn saith to this Effect: The Court of the Constable and Marshal determineth Contracts touching Deeds of Arms out of the Realm upon Land, and handleth Things concerning War within the Realm, as Combats, Blazons of Armory, &c. which cannot be determined by the Common Law; and in these Matters is commonly guided by the Civil Law. By Statute, the Constable of England hath Cognizance of Things concerning Arms and Wars, which cannot be discussed by the Common Law: And when a Plea is commenced before the Constable and Marshal, which may be tried at the Common Law, the Party grieved shall have a privy Seal to cause the Constable and Marshal to cease, until it be decided by the King's Counsel whether it may be tried there or at the Common Law. 13 R. 2. c. 2. The Constable and Marshal shall not have Cognizance of Pleas or Suits that ought to be tried at Common Law. Stat. 8 R. 2. c. 5. Appeals of Things done out of the Realm, are to be tried by the Constable and Marshal of England. 1 H. 4. c. 14. And if a Man be wounded on the High Sea, and die of the same Wound in a foreign Country, though this be done in the Seas belonging to England, yet it cannot be inquired of by the Common Law, because it is not within any of the Counties of the Realm: Neither can the Admiral hear and determine this Murder; for though the Stroke was within his Jurisdiction, the Death was Infra Corpus Comitatus, whereof he cannot inquire: Nor is it within the Stat. 28 H. 8. because the Murder was not committed on the Sea. But by Stat. 13 R. 2. the Constable and Marshal may hear and determine the same. And vide the 2 Geo. 2. c. 21. The Office of Constable of England is said to consist in the Care of the common Peace of the Land, in Deeds of Arms and Matters of War: And there is a Constable of the Tower; a Constable of Dover Castle and of divers other Castles; but these are more properly called Castellanes. Out of the High Magistracy of the Constable of England (says Lambard) were drawn those inferior Constables, which we call Constables of Hundreds and Franchises; and the Statute of Winchester, 13 E. 1. appoints for Conservation of the Peace, and View of Armour, two Constables in every Hundred and Franchise, who in Latin are called Constabularii Capitales, High Constables; because Continuance of Time, and Increase of People and Offences, have under these made others necessary in every Town, called Petty Constables; in Latin Sub Constabularii, which are of like Nature, but of inferior Authority to the other. And there are other Officers, whose Duty is much the same with Constables; as Headboroughs, Tithing-men, &c. of which the Petty Constable seems to be the principal Officer, but in his Absence, or where there is no Petty Constable, their Duty is the same. It has been held that both High Constables, and Petty Constables, were Officers at Common Law, before the Statute of Winton, 13 Ed. 1. cap. 6. And that by the Common Law they might arrest Persons for a Breach of the Peace, and carry them before a Justice to find Sureties for their good Behaviour, &c. But my Lord Coke says, That they were created by 13 Ed. 1. and their Duty was thereby limited, though subsequent Statutes have enlarged their Power; but being created by Act of Parliament, they have no more Authority than the Act that created them, or some other Acts have given them, and cannot prescribe as Officers at the Common Law may. 4 Inst. 267. 2 Danv. Abr. 148. Anciently High and Petty Constables were appointed by the Sheriff in his Tourn, and sworn there as well as in the Leet: And by the Common Law, they ought to be chosen in the Tourn or Leet. Dalt. cap. 21. Of common Right, a Constable is to be chosen by the Jury in the Leet; and if he be present, and refuse to be sworn, the Steward may fine him: If he be absent, he shall be sworn before Justices of Peace; and if such Constable refuses to be sworn, the Jury must present his Refusal at the next Court, and then he shall be amerced, for the Steward of the Leet may not fine him if he is absent. 1 Salk. 175. 5 Mod. 130. A High Constable may be chosen at a Court-Leet by the Steward, on Presentment of the Jury, when Custom warrants it; but where such Courts are not kept, or there is a Neglect in chusing him, the Justices at their Quarter-Sessions may chuse and swear a High Constable; and this is the usual Way observed at this Time. Micb. 21 Car. 1. Mod. Just. 133. And he may be sworn out of Sessions, by Warrant from thence; and be elected out of the Sessions, by the greater Number of Justices in the Division. Ibid. If one that is elected to the Office of Constable, refuse to take the Oath to serve in that Office, a Writ of Mandamus may be had to compel him to do it. 1 Lill. Abr. 303. The Justices of Peace may appoint a Constable in such Place where there was never any before. 1 Mod. 13. If Constables, Headboroughs, &c. die or go out of the Parish, two Justices of Peace are to swear new ones till the Lord of the Manor hold a Court-Leet, or till the next Quarter-Sessions, who shall approve of them or appoint others: And if any of them continue above a Year, the Justices of Peace may discharge them, and put in others till the Lord of the Manor holds a Court. By Stat. 13 & 14 Car. 2. cap. 12. A Constable's Oath runs thus: 'You shall well and truly serve our Sovereign Lord the King, and the Lord of this Leet (if sworn in a Court-Leet) in the Office of Constable, in and for the Hundred of, &c. or Parish of, &c. for the Year ensuing, or until you shall be thereof discharged according to due Course of Law: You shall well and truly do and execute all Things belonging to the said Office, according to the best of your Knowledge. So help you God.' Formerly the Oath of a Constable was very long, he being sworn to several Articles which included his particular Duty. High Constables are generally chosen and sworn by the Justices of Peace in their Sessions: And Petty Constables, who are their Assistants, in each Town, Parish or Vill, the Choice of them properly belongs to the Court-Leet; but at this Day they are usually elected by the Parishioners, and sworn by a Justice of Peace, who on just Cause may remove them. 4 Inst. 267. These Constables are appointed yearly; and are to be Men of Honesty, Knowledge and Ability, not Infants, Lunatics, &c. And if they refuse to serve, they may be bound over to the Sessions, and indicted, and fined and imprisoned. 8 Rep. 41. 5 Mod. 96. But Physicians, Apothecaries, &c. are excused by Statute from bearing the Office of Constable, or other Parish Office: Also Attornies, and Officers of the Courts at Westminster, Barristers at Law, Aldermen of London, &c. are privileged from serving the Office of Constable: And if a Gentleman of Quality be chose Constable, where there are sufficient Persons beside, and no special Custom concerning it; 'tis said such Persons may be relieved in B. R. 2 Hawk. P. C. 63, 64. A Constable may make a Deputy; but the Constable is answerable, and his Deputy must be sworn. Sid. 355. Dissenters chosen to the Office of Constables, &c. scrupling to take the Oaths, may execute the Office by Deputy, who shall comply with the Law in this Behalf. 1 W. & M. c. 18. Constables may appoint a Deputy, or Person to execute a Warrant when by Reason of Sickness, &c. they cannot do it themselves. A Woman made Constable, by Virtue of a Custom, that the Inhabitants of a Town shall serve by Turns, on Account of their Estates or Houses, may procure another to serve for her, and the Custom is good. 2 Hawk. P. C. 63. The High Constable has the Direction of the Petty Constables, Headboroughs, and Tithingmen, within his Hundred: His Duty is to keep the Peace, and apprehend Felons, Rioters, &c. to make Hue and Cry after Felons; and take Care that the Watch be duly kept in his Hundred; and that the Statutes for punishing Rogues and Vagrants be put in Execution. He ought to prevent unlawful Games; Tipling, and Drunkenness; Bloodshed, Affrays, &c. He is to execute Precepts and Warrants, directed to him by Justices of the Peace, and make Returns to the Sessions of the Peace to all the Articles contained in his Oath, or that concern his Office: And shall also cause the Petty Constables to make their Returns. He is to Return all Victuallers and Alehouse keepers that are unlicensed; and all such Persons as entertain Inmates, who are likely to be a Charge to the Parish. He must likewise present the Faults of Petty Constables, Headboroughs, &c. who neglect to apprehend Rogues, Vagrants and idle Persons, Whores, Night-walkers, Mothers of Bastard Children like to be chargeable to the Parish, &c. And also all Defects of Highways and Bridges, and the Names of those who ought to repair them: Scavengers who neglect their Duty; and all common Nuisances in Streets and Highways; Bakers who sell Bread under Weight; Brewers selling Beer to unlicensed Alehouses; Foretallers, Regrators, Ingrossers, &c. And at every Quarter-Sessions they are to pay to the Treasurer of the County all such Money as hath been levied and received by them, of the Churchwardens, &c. for the Relief of Prisons and Hospitals. Dalt. Ca. 28. Lamb. 125. By Statute, High Constables now Collect a general County Rate, made by the Justices in Sessions, and assessed upon every Parish, &c. which the Churchwardens and Overseers, out of the Money raised for the Poor, shall pay to them within thirty Days, or may be levied by Distress; and then they pay the same to the Treasurers appointed, as the publick Stock for repairing Bridges, Gaols, Houses of Correction, &c. Stat. 12 Geo. 2. cap. 29. The Authority of Petty Constables, in their several Towns, Tithings, and Boroughs, is generally the same as the High Constable hath in his Hundred: They are to keep the Peace in the Absence of the High Constable; and assist him in making Presentments at the Assises and Quarter-Sessions, of every Thing that is amiss: They may command Affrayers to keep the Peace, and depart, &c. And may break into a House to see the Peace kept; make fresh Pursuit into another County, &c. Also they may command all Persons to assist them, to prevent a Breach of the Peace; justify Beating another if assaulted; and if they happen to be killed, doing their Duty, it will be taken to be premeditated Murder. They may, without Warrant from a Justice of Peace, take into Custody any Persons whom they see committing a Felony or Breach of the Peace; but if it be out of their Sight, as where a Person is seized by another, &c. they may not do it without a Warrant from a Justice. A Constable cannot detain a Man at his Pleasure; but only stay him to bring him before a Justice, to be examined, &c. And this detaining of an Offender by the Constable may be for a Day, without Warrant, and be justified. Dalt. c. 1, 8. Lamb. 125. H. P. C. 135. 1 Leon. 307. Moor. 408. If one abuses a Constable in the Execution of his Office, he cannot commit him to Prison, there to remain till punished for the Offence; but must carry him before a Justice, who may commit him, &c. 2 Dawv. Abr. 149. But 'tis said, by the original Power in the Constable, he may for Breach of the Peace, and some other Misdemeanors, less than Felony, imprison a Man: And if an Offence be committed, for which a Constable may Arrest, he may convey the Offenders to the Sheriff or his Gaoler; though the safest Way in all Cases is to bring them to a Justice, to be bailed or committed, as the Case shall require. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 88, 99. The Constable's Office being ministerial and relative to the Justices of Peace, Coroners, Sheriffs, &c. their Precepts ought to be executed by him, or on Default he may be indicted and fined. Ibid. Petty Constables are to execute all Warrants of Justices, and not dispute it where the Justice hath Jurisdiction, and the Warrant is lawful: And being sworn Officers, they need not shew their Warrants when they come to arrest any one. 10 Rep. 76. If any Justice sends his Warrant to a Constable, &c. to bring a Person before him to answer all such Matters as shall be objected against him by another, and doth not set forth the special Matter in the Warrant, the Warrant is unlawful, because it doth not give the Offender Time and Opportunity to find Sureties: And the Constable, if he executes it, is liable to an Action of false Imprisonment. 2 Inst. 521. So if a Justice of Peace sends a Warrant to a Constable to take up one for Slander, &c. the Justices having no Jurisdiction, in such Cases, the Constable ought not to execute it. The Constable is the proper Officer to a Justice of Peace, and bound to execute his lawful Warrants; and therefore where a Statute authorises a Justice to convict a Person of any Crime, and to levy the Penalty, &c. without saying to whom such Warrant shall be directed, the Constable is the Officer to execute the Warrant, and must obey it. 5 Mod. 130. 1 Salk. 381. If a Warrant be directed to a Constable by Name, commanding him to execute it, though he is not compellable to go out of his own Parish, yet he may if he will, and execute it in any Place in the County, and shall be justified by the Warrant for so doing; but if the Warrant be directed to all Constables, &c. generally, no Constable can execute the same out of his Precinct. 1 Salk. 175. 3 Salk. 99. It is at the Election of a Constable to carry an Offender before any other Justice, than him who issued the Warrant; if the Warrant be not special, to bring the Offender before the Justice that granted it. 5 Rep. 59. A Constable is not obliged to return a Justice's Warrant to the Justice, but may keep the same for his own Justification, in Case he should be question'd for his Acting; but he must give the Justice an Account of what he hath done upon it. 2 Ld. Raym. 1196. And by Holt Chief Justice, where the Constable returns Warrant of Distress upon a Warrant to distrain; the Justice ought to make a Record of it, and then give Judgment for corporal Punishment. Ibid. Constables, Headboroughs, &c. out of Purse in their Offices, they and the Inhabitants may tax all Persons chargeable, by the 43 El. c. 2. as every Occupier of Land, &c. which Rate being confirmed by two Justices, the Constables may levy it by Distress and Sale of Goods. Stat. 13 & 14 Car. 2. A Constable by Warrant from a Justice of Peace, may sell the Goods of an Offender apprehended, to discharge the Expence of carrying him to Prison: If the Offender hath no Goods, then the Town where he was apprehended must be at the Expence, and the Constable with three or four of the principal Inhabitants, may impose a Tax on every Inhabitant, &c. which being allowed by a Justice, the Constable by his Warrant may levy it: And if the Inhabitants refuse to make a Tax; two Justices may by Warrant compel them to do it. 3 Jac. 1. c. 10. Constables sued may plead the General Issue, and give the special Matter in Evidence, for any Thing done in their Offices. 21 Jac. 1. c. 5. And if a Constable doth not his Duty, he may be indicted and fined by the Justices of Peace.

The particular Duty of Constables, is further as follows: They are not only to command Affrayers to depart, but call others to their Assistance to suppress Affrays; and they may put Affrayers in the Stocks, till they can convey them before a Justice, &c. Dalt. 33. Lamb. 135, 141. Constables are to levy the Penalties of Persons keeping Alshouses without Licence, selling less than Measure, &c. or forfeit 40 s. &c. 1 Jac. 1. They are to stop Persons as go or ride unlawfully armed, in Terror of the People; take away their Arms and carry them before a Justice of Peace. Dalt. 338. To take up Artificers going out of the Kingdom, by Justice's Warrant. 5 Geo. 1. Constables shall levy Penalties on Bakers, making or selling Bread wanting Weight deficient in Goodness, &c. and selling large Bread at a higher Price than set by Mayors, &c. 1 Geo. 1. 3 Geo. 2. The Constable of a Parish is to apprehend Mothers of Baslard-Children. Dalt. A Constable may with others called to his Assistance enter Barwdy-Houses, and arrest Persons with lewd Women, for Breach of the Peace. Mich. 13 Hen. 7. The Constable and two most able Inhabitants in the Parish, are to make an Assessment for the Repairs of Bridges, to be allowed by Justices. 22 H. 8. The Forfeiture for mixing corrupt Butter with good, and opening Casks, &c. is leviable by Constables. 14 Car. 2. 4 & 5 W. & M. By a Justice's Warrant, Constables shall levy Penalties for using Cloth Buttons, &c. upon Clothes. 4 & 7 Geo. 1. Constables shall provide Carriages on the marching of Soldiers, by Virtue of a Justice of Peace's Warrant, being allow'd by the Officers 1 s. a Mile for a Waggon, &c. 3 Geo. 1. They may seize Cattle brought from Ireland, and cause them to be killed, and the Flesh distributed among the Poor. 18 Car. 2. High Constables may hear and determine Complaints of Clubbers, and their Work-people; Search for and seize Ropes, Engines, &c. for the stretching of Cloth: Spinsters, &c. imbecilling Wool from Clothiers, shall make Satisfaction, or be whipped by Constables, &c. and Constables, by Warrant of two Justices, may enter and search Houses of Clothiers for Ends and Refuse of Yarn, which may not be worked up again, under Penalties leviable by the Constables; and they also levy by Distress the Forfeiture, for taking away Cloth from the Tenters, or Yarn, Wool, &c. left abroad to dry in the Night. 4 E. 4. 39 Eliz. 7 Jac. 1. 13 Geo. 1. 15 Geo. 2. Where Coals are sold by Sacks not lawful Measure, &c. Constables shall levy the Forfeiture inflicted. 3 Geo. 2. Also the Penalty for selling Coals, at higher Price than appointed, by Justice's Warrant, &c. 11 Geo. 2. Constables, Headboroughs, &c. are to levy the Fines imposed on those who shall be present at unlawful Conventicles; and by Virtue of a Justice's Warrant may enter such Places, break open Doors upon their being refused Entrance, and take into Custody Persons unlawfully assembled, &c. 22 Car. 2. To levy Penalties on Carriers, who do not curry Leather sufficiently, or that neglect the same within certain Times. 1 Jac. 1. 12 Geo. 2. They are to be assisting to all Persons appointed by the King for the Collecting and Management of the Customs; and to Persons having a Warrant from the Lord Treasurer, &c. to make a Search for Goods which have not paid the Customs. 12 & 14 Car. 2. 9 Geo. 2. The Penalties on Deer-sealers are to be levied by Constables, by Virtue of a Justice's Warrant: And the Penalties are 20 l. for hunting Deer in any Place enclosed; and 30 l. for each Deer killed, &c. And they may enter any suspected Place, and carry away Venison, Skins of Deer, Toils, &c. 13 Car. 2. 3 & 4 W. & M. By Justice's Warrant to levy the Penalty of Distillers, &c. selling Brandy, about the Streets, on any Bulks, or Sheds, &c. 6 Geo. 2. And Constables, and other Officers of the Peace, are to carry unlawful Retailers of Spirituous Liquors before a Justice, &c. and refusing to be aiding in executing the Acts against Distillers, shall forfeit 20 l. 11 Geo. 2. Constables are to assist Landlords in taking Distresses for Rent in Arrear; and in the Appraisalment of the Goods, Sale, &c. if the same are not replevied in five Days. 2 W. & M. They shall give Assistance to Searchers of Dyed Cloths, in entering and examining whether the Cloths or Stuffs are deceitfully dyed, &c. 13 Geo. 1. They are to levy the Penalty of 5 s. on Drunkards, for the Use of the Poor; or shall forfeit 10 s. 4 Jac. 1. Constables are to attend Officers of the Excise, and enter with them into Brew-houses, private Houses, &c. for Discovery of Frauds: And by Warrant from Justices, they they are to levy the Penalties on Offenders against any Law of Excise, by Distress, &c. 12 Car. 2. and 7 & 8 W. 3. A Constable permitting a Felon to escape, before arrested, is guilty of a Misdemeanor, for which he may be indicted and fined; and if the Felon be actually in Custody, and then he voluntarily permits him to escape, 'tis Felony in the Constable; but if the Escape be involuntary, it is only fineable: He may put a Felon in the Stocks, and lock him in; or put Irons upon him, or pinion him, to prevent an Escape. A Constable may discharge any Person arrested on Suspicion of Felony, where no Felony is actually committed. Dalt. 272. Cro. El. 202, 752. Constables ex Officio are to apprehend Felons, may call other Persons to their Assistance therein, and apprehend any upon Suspicion, and carry them before a Justice, &c. A Constable, upon Complaint or common Fame of a Felony, may search suspicious Houses, both for the Felon and Goods stolen; and may justify breaking open a House to take a Felon; and if the Felon fly, he is to make an Inventory of his Goods, send Hue and Cry, after him, &c. Dalt. 289, 340 27 Eliz. Constables must levy the Penalty of 10*s.* for fishing in a River, without the Owner's Consent; and search for unlawful Nets, Engines, &c. Also levy Forfeitures for using Engines to destroy the Breed of Fish; and selling Sea Fish under certain Lengths. 22 & 23 Car. 2. 3 Jac. 1. 4 & 5 Ann. 1 Geo. 1. They are to give Assistance to Justices of the Peace, in removing forcible Entries, &c. or shall be committed and fined. 5 R. 2. To prevent Forestallers of Markets, Ingrossers, &c. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. Constables are to carry Higlers, Chapmen, Victuallers, &c. before a Justice, who have in their Custody any Hare, or other Game; and by a Justice's Warrant are to search suspected Houses for Game, &c. They may carry Persons, not qualified to kill Game, before a Justice, for keeping Greyhounds, setting Dogs, &c. 4 & 5 W. & M. 5 Ann. 3 Geo. 1. They are to make a Search Monthly for Gaming-houses, where unlawful Games shall be kept; and they may commit the Masters of such Houses, and the Gamesters found therein: Though it is best to carry them before a Justice of Peace: Constables neglecting their Duties in this particular, forfeit 40*s.* They likewise levy Penalties on Persons for playing at unlawful Games, Ace of Hearts, Pharaoh, &c. adjudg'd to be a Kind of Lotteries. 33 Hen. 8. 12 Geo. 2. If Gaolers refuse to receive a Felon, the Constable may either secure the Prisoner in his House, or carry him back to the Town where apprehended: And to defray the Charge of carrying him to Gaol, &c. Constables have Power to sell the Offender's Goods, &c. or the same may be levied by a Tax. 10 H. 4. Dalt. 340. 3 Jac. 1. In London and Westminster the Constables, &c. shall make a Search for Gunpowder in the Houses of Persons keeping a greater Quantity than allowed by Statute, and remove the same. 5 & 11 Geo. 1. And they are to levy the Penalty for putting Gunpowder on board Ships, &c. above Blackwall in the River Thames. 5 Geo. 1. If any Constable refuse to assist in putting the Laws in Execution against Hawkers and Pedlars, that travel without Licences, and are thereby liable to Penalties, he shall forfeit 40*s.* 8 & 9 W. 3. The Penalties for selling Trusses of Hay, &c. under due Weight in the Hay market, are leviable by Constables. 2 W. & M. Constables are to whip Hedge-breakers, &c. for not making Satisfaction ordered by a Justice: They may apprehend Persons suspected of Hedge-breaking, or of having in their Possession any Underwood, Poles, Gates, Stiles, &c. and carry them before a Justice, &c. 43 El. 15 Car. 2. To be aiding and assisting in putting the Acts in Execution relating to the repairing of the Highways; under the Penalty of 40*s.* And they are to return Lists of Persons qualified for the Office of Surveyor, to the Justices in their Sessions on the 3d of January yearly, under the Penalty of 20*s.* 22 Car. 2. 3 & 4 W. & M. 1. 1 Geo. 1. To levy the Penalty for privately conveying away Hops, to avoid paying Duty; and Forfeiture for adulterating Hops, &c. 9 Ann. 1 Geo. 1. 7 Geo. 2. Constables are to be assisting in driving of Commons, Forests, &c. of Horses and Cattle; on Pain of 40*s.* 32 H. 8. They are to make Hue and Cry after Offenders where a Felony or Robbery is committed: To call upon the Parishioners to assist in the Pursuit; and if the Criminal be not found in the Precinct of the first Constable, he is to give Notice to the next Constable, and he to the next, who are to do as the First, and continue the Pursuit from Town to Town, and County to County, &c. 13 Ed. 1. 27 Eliz. Pursuers of the Hue and Cry may search suspected Houses, and arrest all suspicious Persons. And where Offenders are not taken, Constables shall levy the Tax to satisfy an Execution, on Recovery against a Hundred, and pay the same to the Sheriff, &c. and neglecting to make Hue and Cry, shall forfeit 5*l.* 8 Geo. 2. A Constable on Complaint is to cause an Innkeeper to be indicted and punished, for refusing to lodge a Traveller, or to provide him Victuals, &c. who offers to pay for the same. 10 H. 7. Constables must give in to the Justices at Michaelmas Sessions yearly, a List of Persons qualified to serve on Juries; and neglecting to return Lists, incurs a Forfeiture of 5*l.* 7 & 8 W. 3. These Lists of Jurors, are to be made from the Rates of each Parish; and Constables, &c. wilfully omitting Persons qualified, or inserting wrong Persons, shall forfeit 20*s.* 3 Geo. 2. In the Time of Harvest, a Constable may set Labourers, Artificers, and ordinary Tradesmen on Work, and put those in the Stocks who refuse. 5 El. To levy the Forfeiture for breaking down Lamps, set up in the Streets of London, by Virtue of a Justice's Warrant. 9 Geo. 2. Constables are to give their Assistance in collecting the Land Tax; and take Distresses for it, &c. when refused Payment. 2 W. & M. By Warrant from Justices, Constables are to levy the Penalties and Forfeitures for selling insufficient Leather, &c. 1 Jac. 1. They have Power to search for bad Malt, and if they find any bad mingled with good, they may with the Advice of a Justice cause the same to be sold at reasonable Rates. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. And there are divers Penalties for making bad Malt, and Frauds concerning the Duty, leviable by Constables. 9 W. 3. 1 Geo. 1. 3 Geo. 2. Constables are to search and examine if any Persons use other Measures than such as are Winchester Measure, and agreeable to the Standard. 22 Car. 2. By Warrant from the Lieutenantcy, Constables are to commit Persons to Gaol, refusing to provide Arms for Horse and Foot Soldiers, for the Militia, if no Distresses can be taken. 13 & 14 Car. 2. Night-walkers of ill Fame, may be taken up by Constables and carried before a Justice of Peace, who may bind them to the Good Behaviour, &c. 13 Ed. 1. Robbers of Orchards, &c. shall be whipped, by Order of a Justice, by the Constable of the Place. 15 Car. 2. Constables may complain to and carry before a Justice of Peace, Persons suspected to be Papists. 3 Jac. 1. In the City of London, they are to be assisting to the College of Physicians, &c. in putting their Laws in Execution. 14 H. 8. They may command and oblige Persons infected with the Plague, to keep within their Houses, &c. And are to levy Money appointed by Justices, for Relief of poor Persons infected. 1 Jac. 1. Constables shall present Popish Recusants, within their Liberties, &c. and certify to the Sessions, such Popish Recusants convict, who within twenty Days after the Arrival at the Place of their Birth, give in their Names to the Parson of the Parish; And neglecting, to forfeit 20*s.* 35 Eliz. 7 Jac. 1. To levy Money due for Postage of Letters, under 5*l.* by Justice's Warrant. 9 Ann. They are at the Quarter-Sessions to take Presentment, of all Things against the Peace, and belonging longing to their Offices, &c. The Constables shall levy a Tax on Parishes, for relieving poor Parishioners. 43 Eliz. Constables are to suppress Riots, and they may ex Officio commit Offenders, &c. 17 R. 2. And by 1 Geo. 1. Rioting, where twelve Rioters continue together an Hour after Proclamation, is made Felony. They are to make a Tax and Assessment by Warrant from two Justices on the Inhabitants of their Parishes, where a Robbery on the Highway is committed in the Hundred. 17 Eliz. See 8 Geo. 2. Constables are to whip wandering Rogues, &c. by stripping them from the Middle upwards, and causing them to be lashed till their Bodies be bloody. 1 Yac. 1. The Penalties for selling Salt under Weight, &c. and not entering Saltpits, are to be levied by Constables. 9 & 10 W. 3. 7 Geo. 2. Scavengers Rates in London shall be made by Constables and Churchwardens, &c. and the Constables to levy Forfeitures for Defaults of Scavengers in not carrying away Dirt, &c. 2 W. & M. 1 Geo. 1. Constables and two Householders of Towns, Parishes, &c. by an old Law were to give Testimonials to Servants: And Servants not procuring such were not to be retained, but punished as Vagrants. 5 Eliz. By Virtue of a Justice's Warrant Constables shall search after Shoes, Leather, &c. imbezilled or pawned by Journey-men Shoemakers in London, who shall make Satisfaction, &c. 9 Geo. 1. Constables are to quarter Soldiers in Inns, Alehouses, Victualling Houses, &c. Refusing to billet Soldiers, they are to be fined not exceeding 40 s. nor less than 10 s. and receiving any Reward to excuse Quarterage; or if Victuallers, &c. refuse Soldiers quartered, they shall forfeit not above 5 l. nor under 40 s. If they quarter the Wives, Children, or Servants of Officers or Soldiers, in any House, without Consent of the Owner, they forfeit 20 s. The Constables, &c. shall give in Lists to the Justices of the Houses and Persons obliged to quarter Soldiers, with their Names and Signs, and the Number of Officers and Soldiers billeted on them. 1 Geo. 1. 7 Geo. 1. c. 6. 3 Geo. 2. 15 Geo. 2. Persons suspected of Desertion, may be taken up by Constables, and carried before a Justice: And 20 s. Reward is given for taking up a Deserter. They are to levy the Penalty of 5 s. on Persons resorting to Wrestling, Dancing, or other Sports on a Sunday; and on Persons doing any worldly Labour on that Day, &c. Also 6 s. 8 d. on Butchers killing Meat; and 20 s. upon Carriers, Drovers, &c. travelling on Sunday. 1 Car. 1. 29 Car. 2. On receiving a Superfedeas from another Justice, &c. Constables shall discharge a Person taken up by Warrant. Dalt. To levy the Penalty for prophane Swearing; which is 1 s. for a Servant, Labourer, &c. and 2 s. for others; and as the Crime is repeated, the Penalty is to be doubled. 6 & 7 W. 3. Constables shall levy the Penalty of 5 l. on Tailors giving greater Wages than allowed; likewise the Wages of Journey-men by Distress, by a Justice's Warrant. 7 Geo. 1. By Warrant from two Justices, Constables, &c. are to levy small Tithes, refused Payment, by Distress and Sale. 10 & 11 W. 3. Constables, on Information, are to destroy Tobacco planted contrary to the Stat. 22 & 23 Car. 2. or be liable to a Forfeiture of 5 s. for every Rod not destroyed: And upon Warrant to make Search, and present Offences of planting Tobacco, &c. 17 Car. 2. 22 & 23 Car. 2. To execute Warrants of Commissioners for Turnpikes; and levy the Penalty for passing through them without paying the Toll, &c. 8 Geo. 2. 14 Geo. 2. Constables, &c. are to apprehend Vagrants, and carry them before a Justice; and to convey them by the Justice's Pass and Certificate, to their Place of Birth or Settlement, &c. being paid the Allowances mentioned in the Certificates: They are to pay 10 s. to any Person apprehending a Vagrant by Order of Justices, which is to be repaid by the High Constable, &c. and refusing to pay it shall forfeit 20 s. Vagabonds lodging in Houses or Barns, are also to be apprehended by Constables, &c. And if they refuse, or neglect to do their Duty, they shall forfeit not above 5 l. nor less than 40 s. by 13 Geo. 2. Constables of Towns, shall see that Night Watches be kept, from Sun-setting to Sun-rising, who must be able Persons, Inhabitants of the Place, and watch by Turns; and not doing it, may put them in the Stocks, &c. 13 Ed. 1. And Constables in the large Parishes of Westminster are twice or oftener in every Night to go their Rounds, and see that the Watch do their Duty, and use Endeavours to prevent Fires, Murders, Robberies, &c. and apprehend Malefactors, and Persons suspected. 9 & 10 Geo. 2. They are to execute all Warrants of Justices, being lawful, and not out of the Justice's Jurisdiction. 14 H. 8. Constables being Head Officers of Places, shall have in their Custody sealed Weights, &c. under Penalties: Persons buying or selling by false Weights or Measures, forfeit 5 s. leviable by Constables. 8 H. 6. 17 Car. 1. And Constables are to call together Assistance to save Ships from Wreck; and no Persons shall enter any such Ships, without leave from the Commander, Constable, &c. 12 Ann. cap. 18.

Constables of London, (which City is divided into twenty-six Wards, and every Ward into the like Number of Precincts, in each whereof is a Constable) are nominated by the Inhabitants of each Precinct on St. Thomas's Day, and confirmed, or otherwise at the Court of Wardmote; and after they are confirmed, they are sworn in their Offices at a Court of Aldermen, on the next Monday after Twelfth Day. The Substance of their Oath is, to keep the King's Peace to the utmost of their Power; to arrest Affrayers, Rioters, and such as make Contests to the Breach of the Peace, and carry them to the House of Correction or Compter of one of the Sheriffs; and in Case of Resistance, to make Outcry on them, and pursue them from Street to Street, and from Ward to Ward, till they are arrested: To search for common Nuisances, in their respective Wards, being required by Scavengers, &c. and upon Request to assist the Beadle and Raker in collecting their Salaries and Quarterage; to present to the Lord Mayor and Ministers of the City, Defaults relating to the Ordinances of the City; to certify once a Month into the Mayor's Court, the Names and Surnames of all Freemen deceased; and also of the Children of such Freemen, being Orphans: And by the Articles of the Wardmote Inquest, Constables are to certify the Names, Surnames, Place of Dwelling, Possession and Trade of every Person, who shall newly come to inhabit in their Precincts, and to keep a Roll thereof; in order to which, they are to make Inquiry at least once a Month into what Persons are come to lodge and sojourn there, and if they find by their own Confessions, or the Record of the Aldermens Books, that such new Comers are ejected from any other Ward for bad living, or any Misdemeanor, and refuse to find Sureties for their good Behaviour, Warning is to be given to them and their Landlords, that they depart; and on Refusal, they may be imprisoned, and the Landlords fined a Year's Rent agreed for by such new Comers. Calth. Rep. 129, 138. Constables of London in each Ward are to attend the Watch by Turns, and go the Rounds; and with the Beadles every Night are to warn such Persons as are to serve upon the Watch in their several Precincts; and if they refuse to appear, the Constable may hire others in their Stead, and they shall pay him according to the Custom of the City: But the Common Council appoint the Watchmen. Watchmen are to apprehend Night-walkers, Vagabonds, Persons going armed, &c. and may arrest Strangers in the Night, and carry them before the Constable to be examined, and finding Cause of Suspicion secure them till the Morning; and whether they are Horsemen or Footmen, or Drivers of Carriages, or Persons that carry Burdens, the Watch may stay them till the Morning, unless they can render a good Account of themselves, their Company; and and Carriage, &c. And Constables, &c. are to be aiding and assisting to the Watch; and the Watchmen are to obey their Orders, in conveying Offenders to the Compter, which is the common Prison for Offenders for the Breach of the Peace, till they are examined, and punished by the Lord Mayor, &c. But Constables ought to be careful whom they send to the Compter, for fear of Action for false Imprisonment; Prosecution for Damages, &c. If any will not obey the Arrest of the Watch, they may make Hue and Cry after them; and for such Arrest of a Stranger, (especially one suspected) none is liable to Punishment. Dalt. 240. The Court of Common Council are to meet the first of October yearly, and order a proper Number of Watchmen, Beadles and Nightly Constables for the City of London and Liberties, and determine Sums to be levied to bear the Charge thereof upon each Ward; and for raising Money, the Aldermen and Common Council-men of Wards, shall make a Rate and Assessment upon the Inhabitants, leviable by Distress; and shall appoint their Watchmen, set down in Writing their Stands and Number of Rounds, and make Orders for regulating the Watch, &c. Constables to keep Watch and Ward, from the 10th of Sept. to the 10th of March, from nine in the Evening, till seven the next Morning, and from 10th of March to 10th of September, from ten in the Evening till five next Morning. The Constables shall use their best Endeavours, for preventing Fires, Robberies and Disorders, and arrest Malefactors; and go twice or oftener about their Wards, in every Night; and the Watchmen are to apprehend all suspected Persons, &c. and deliver them to the Constable of the Night, who shall carry them before a Justice of Peace; Constables misbehaving themselves, to forfeit 20*s.* and the Lord Mayor, or two Justices for the City, may hear and determine Offences, and levy Penalties by Distress and Sale of Goods, &c. Stat. 10 Geo. 2. c. 22. Constables are to certify to the Lord Mayor, and Common Council of the City, the Names of all such Persons as shall interrupt them in the Discharge of their Offices: And a Constable of London has Power to execute Warrants, &c. throughout the whole City, upon Occasion. Such as are chosen into the Office are obliged to place the King's Arms, and the Arms of the City over their Doors; and if they reside in Alleys, at the End of such Alleys, towards the Streets; to signify that a Constable lives there, and that they may be the more easily found when wanted. See Comp. Paris Officer, 6 Edit. p. 7, 8, &c.

Constat, (Lat.) Is the Name of a Certificate, which the Clerk of the Pipe, and Auditors of the Exchequer, make at the Request of any Person who intends to plead or move in that Court, for the Discharge of any Thing: And the Effect of it is the Certifying what does Constare upon Record, touching the Matter in Question. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 4. and 13 Eliz. c. 6. A Constat is held to be superior to an Ordinary Certificate, because it contains nothing but what is evident on Record. And the Exemplification under the Great Seal, of the Inrolment of any Letters Patent, is called a Constat. Co. Litt. 225.

Consuetudinarius, A Ritual or Book, containing the Rites and Forms of Divine Offices, or the Customs of Abbeys and Monasteries: 'Tis mentioned in Brompton.

Consuetudinibus & Servitiis, Is a Writ of Right Close, which lies against the Tenant that deforceth his Lord of the Rent or Service due to him. Reg. Orig. 159. F. N. B. 151. When the Writ is brought by the Party in the Right only, he shall count of the Seisin of his Ancestor, and the Writ be in the Debet; but when he counts of his own Seisin, then the Writ is in the Debet & solet, &c. And if the Party say in the Writ ut in Redditibus & Arreragiis, these Words prove that the Demandant himself was seised of the Services; and then if he count in such Writ of Seisin of his Ancestors, and not of his own Seisin, the Writ shall abate: So that if he will bring a Writ of Customs and Services of the Seisin of his Ancestors, he ought to leave these Words ut in Redditibus, &c. out of the Writ. Where a Person brings a Writ of Customs and Services against any Tenant, and by Count demands Homage, the Writ ought to make special Mention thereof; as ut in Homagio, &c. or the Writ will abate. New Nat. Brev. 338. If this Writ be brought against Tenant for Life, where the Remainder is over in Fee, there the Tenant may pray in Aid of him in the Remainder, &c. The Writ, which is returnable in the Common Pleas, runs thus:

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of S. Greeting: Command A. B. that, &c. be do to C. D. the Customs and Services which to him be ought to do, for his free Tenement, that of him be holdeth in, &c. as in Rents, Arrearages, and other Things: Or, in Homage, Reliefs, &c. Or Suits of Court, and other, &c. unless, &c.

Consulta Ecclesia, A Church full, or provided for, according to Cowel.

Consultation, (Consultatio) Is a Writ whereby a Cause being removed by Prohibition from the Ecclesiastical Court, to the King's Court, is returned thither again; for if the Judges of the King's Court, upon comparing the Libel with the Suggestion of the Party, find the Suggestion false, or not proved, and therefore the Cause to be wrongfully called from the Ecclesiastical Court, then upon this Consultation or Deliberation they decree it to be returned; whereupon the Writ in this Case obtained is called a Consultation. Reg. Orig. 44, &c. Statute of Writ of Consultations, 24 Ed. 1. This Writ is in Nature of a Procedendo; but properly a Consultation ought not to be granted, but in Case where a Man cannot recover at the Common Law, in the King's Courts. New Nat. Br. 119. Causes of which the Ecclesiastical or Spiritual Courts have Jurisdiction, are of Administrations, Admissions of Clerks, Adultery, Appeals in Ecclesiastical Causes, Apostasy, General Bastardy, Blasphemy, Solicitation of Chastity, Dilapidations and Church Repairs, Celebration of Divine Service, Divorces, Fornication, Heresy, Incest, Institution of Clerks, Marriage Rites, Oblations, Obventions, Ordinations, Commutation of Penance, Penctions, Procurations, Schism, Simony, Tithes, Probate of Wills, &c. and where a Suit is in the Ecclesiastical Court, for any of these Causes, or the like, and not mixed with any Temporal Thing; if a Suggestion is made for a Prohibition, a Consultation shall be awarded. 5 Rep. 9. To move for a Prohibition in another Court, after Motion in the Chancery, &c. on the same Libel which is granted, is merely vexatious, for which a Consultation shall be had. Cro. Eliz. 277. Where a Consultation is granted upon the Right of the Thing in Question, there a new Prohibition shall never be granted on the same Libel; but where granted upon any Default of the Prohibition, in Form, &c. there a Prohibition may be granted upon the same Libel again. 1 Nels. Abr. 485. A Consultation must be pursuant to the Libel, &c. Vide Prohibition.

Consul, (Lat.) In our Law Books signifies an Earl. Brañ. lib. 1. c. 8. tells us, that as Comes is derived from Comitatu, so Consul is derived from Consulendo; and in the Laws of Edward the Confessor, Mention is made of Vicecomites and Viceconsules. Blount. Consuls among the Romans, were chief Officers, of which two were yearly chosen, to govern the City of Rome: But this Government of Rome has long since been abrogated. Our Consuls abroad take Care of the Affairs and Interests of Merchants, in foreign Kingdoms where they are appointed by the King; as at Lisbon, &c.

Contempt,

Contempt, (Contemptus) Is a Disobedience to the Rules and Orders of a Court, which hath Power to punish such Offence: And one may be imprisoned for a Contempt done in Court; but not for a Contempt out of Court, or a private Abuse. Cro. Eliz. 689. Attachment also lies against one for Contempt to the Court, to bring in the Offender to answer on Interrogatories, &c. and if he cannot acquit himself, he shall be fined. 1 Lill. 305. If a Sheriff being required to return a Writ directed to him, doth not return the Writ, it is a Contempt: And this Word is used for a kind of Misdemeanor, by doing what one is forbidden; or not doing what he is commanded. 12 Rep. 36. And as this is sometimes a greater, and sometimes a lesser Offence; so it is punished with greater or less Punishment, by Fine, and sometimes Imprisonment. Dyer 177, 128. 1 Bull. 85. See Attachment.

Contentement, (Contentementum) Is said to signify a Man's Countenance or Credit, which he hath together with, and by Reason of his Freehold: In which Sense, it is used in the Statute of 1 Ed. 3. and other Statutes: And Spelman in his Glossary says, Contentementum est Aestimatio & Conditionis forma, qua quis in Reput. subsistit. But Contentement is more properly that which is necessary for the Support and Maintenance of Men, agreeable to their several Qualities, or States of Life: And seems to be Freehold Land, which lieth to a Man's Tenement, or Dwelling-House, that is in his own Occupation. For by Magna Charta, cap. 14. it is enacted, that a Freeman shall not be amerced, but secundum magnitudinem delicti, salvo sibi Contentamento suo; & Mercator eodem modo, salva Merchandisa; & willanus salvo Wainagio; that is, as Glanvill tells us, he should be amerced, secundum quantitatem feodorum suorum, & secundum facultates, ne nimis gravari inde videantur vel suum Contentementum amittere. Lib. 9. c. 8.

Contingent Use, Is a Use limited in a Conveyance of Land, which may, or may not happen to vest, according to the Contingency expressed in the Limitation of such Use: A Use in Contingency is such which by Possibility may happen in Possession, Reversion or Remainder. 1 Rep. 121. A Contingent Remainder is where an Estate is limited to take Place in futuro, upon an uncertain Event; as where a particular Estate which doth support a Remainder, may or may not determine before the Remainder may commence. 10 Rep. 85. A Remainder Contingent is said to be an Estate vested; but on such Remainder in executory Devises, the Estate descends till the Contingency happens, and nothing is vested till then. 1 Vent. 189.

Continual Claim, Is a Claim made from Time to Time, within every Year and Day, to Land, or other Thing, which in some Respect we cannot attain without Danger: As if a Person be disseised of Land, into which though he hath a Right of Entry, he dare not enter for fear of Beating, &c. it behoves him to hold on his Right of Entry at his best Opportunity, by approaching as near it as he can, once a Year, as long as he lives, and to save the Right of Entry to his Heir. Lit. lib. 3. cap. 7. Continual Claim is where it is made, and repeated yearly, so as to be within a Year and a Day before the Death of him that hath the Lands; and if after he dies seised, so that his Heir is in by Discent, yet he that makes the Claim may enter, &c. but if no Claim be made, then the Entry of the Person disseised, &c. is taken away. 32 H. 8. cap. 33. Though by the Statute the Disseisor is to have peaceable Possession for five Years, without Entry or Continual Claim, for a Discent on his Death, to take away the Entry of the Disseisee, or his Heir; after the five Years, the Disseisee is to make Continual Claim, as before the Statute: The Feoffee of a Disseisor, Abators, &c. are out of the Statute. As to this Claim, though the Tenant die within the Year and Day, and it be but once made, it shall preserve the Entry of him that maketh it: And if the Ancestor claim, and the Disseisor die, and then the Ancestor dieth, now his Heir may enter: But if an Ancestor or Predecessor make a Continual Claim, and dieth, and the Son or Successor make no Continual Claim, and within the Year and Day after the Claim made by the Ancestor, the Disseisor dies; this shall take away the Entry of the Son or Successor, for the Discent was cast in his Time. Co. Litt. 250, 251. If there be Tenant for Life, Remainder for Life, the Remainder in Fee, and the Tenant for Life alien in Fee; if he in Remainder for Life maketh Continual Claim, before the Dying seised of the Alienee, and after the Alienee die seised, and after that the Remainder-Man for Life dieth before any Entry made by him: In this Case he in Remainder in Fee shall have Benefit by the Claim of Tenant for Life, and he may enter upon the Heir of the Alienee, &c. Lit. Sect. 416. This Claim shall not avoid a Discent, unless it be made by him that hath Title to enter, and in whose Life the Dying seised was: And so it is for the Continual Claim of a Tenant for Life, to give him in Remainder Advantage, except the Disseisor, &c. die in the Life time of Tenant for Life. Co. Litt. 250.

Continuance, Is the Continuing of a Cause in Court, by an Entry upon the Records there for that Purpose. There is a Continuance of the Assise, &c. And Continuance of a Writ or Action is from one Term to another, in Case where the Sheriff hath not returned a former Writ, issued out in the said Action. Kitch. 262. Continuances and Essoins are amendable upon the Roll, at any Time before Judgment: They are the Acts of the Court, and at Common Law they may amend their own Acts before Judgment, though in another Term; but their Judgments are only amendable in the same Term wherein they are given. 3 Lev. 431. Upon an Original, a Term or two or three Terms, may be mesne between the Teste and the Return; and this shall be a good Continuance; for the Defendant is not at any Prejudice by it, and the Plaintiff may give a Day to the Defendant beyond the common Day if he will: But a Continuance by Capias ought to be made from Term to Term, and there cannot be any mesne Term, because the Defendant ought not to stay so long in Prison. 2 Danv. Abr. 150. If a Man recovers upon Demurrer, or by Default, &c. and a Writ of Inquiry of Damages is awarded, there ought to be Continuances between the first and second Judgment, otherwise it will be a Discontinuance; for the first is but an Award, and not compleat till the second Judgment upon the Return of the Writ of Inquiry of Damages. Ibid. 153. If the Plaintiff, be nonsuit, by which the Defendant is to recover Costs; if the Plaintiff will not enter his Continuances, on Purpose to save the Costs, the Defendant shall be suffered to enter them. Cro. Jac. 316, 317. The Course of the Court of King's Bench is to enter no Continuance upon the Roll, till after Issue or Demurrer; and then to enter the Continuance of all upon the Back, before Judgment: And if it is not entered, it is Error. Trin. 16 Jac. B. R. Vide Discontinuance.

Continuando, Is a Word used in a special Declaration of Trespass, when the Plaintiff would recover Damages for several Trespasses in the same Action: And to avoid Multiplicity of Suits, a Man may in one Action of Trespass recover Damages for many Trespasses, laying the first to be done with a Continuando to the whole Time, in which the Rest of the Trespasses were done; which is in this Form, Continuando Transgressionem prædictam, &c. a prædicto die, &c. usque talem Diem, including the last Trespass. Terms de Ley 173. In Trespass with a Continuando of divers Things, though of some of those Things there could be no Continuando; yet it shall be good for those Things for which the Continuando could be, and not for for the others: But if the Continuando had been particularly of such Things whereof a Continuando could not be, then it had been naught. 3 Lev. 94. Every Day's Trespass is said to be a several Trespass; though a Continuando may not be of Men's continuing a Trespass Day and Night, for some Time together; for Mankind must take some Rest: Where Cattle do Trespass upon Ground, they are continually trespassing Night and Day, and therefore the Continuando in that Case is good. 1 Lill. Abr. 307. Trespass for Breaking an House with a Continuando, is good; and until a Re-entry is made, the Continuation of the Possession is a Continuing of the Trespass. Lutw. 1312. It is usual in Practice to lay the Continuando for longer Time than you can prove; but Damages shall be given only for what can be proved. 2 Mod. 253.

Contraband Goods, (from Contra, and the Ital. Bando, an Edict or Proclamation) Are those which are prohibited by Act of Parliament, or the King's Proclamation to be imported into, or exported out of this into any other Nation: As during the late War with France, French Wines, &c. were prohibited by Statute to be imported here from thence: And Wool, &c. is not to be exported from hence to other Kingdoms. Stat. 27 E. 3. c. 3. 13 & 14 Car. 2. 7 & 8 W. 3. &c.

Contracatus, A Criminal, or one prosecuted for a Crime: This Word is mentioned in Leg. H. 1. cap. 61.

Contract, (Contractus) Is a Covenant or Agreement between Two or more Persons, with a lawful Consideration or Cause. West. Symb. part 1. As if a Man sells his Horse or other Thing to another, for a Sum of Money; or covenants, in Consideration of 20*l.* to make him a Lease of a Farm, &c. these are good Contracts, because there is a Quid pro quo, or one Thing for another: But if a Person make Promise to me, that I shall have 20*s.* and that he will be Debtor to me therefore, and after I demand the 20*s.* and he will not give it me, yet I shall never have any Action to recover this 20*s.* because this Promise was no Contract, but a bare Promise, or Nudum Pactum; though if any Thing were given for the 20*s.* if it were but to the Value of a Penny, then it had been a good Contract. Every Contract doth imply in itself an Assumpsit in Law, to perform the same; for a Contract would be to no Purpose, if there were not Means to enforce the Performance thereof. 1 Lill. Abr. 308. Where an Action is brought upon a Contract, and the Plaintiff mistakes the Sum agreed upon, he will fail in his Action: But if he brings his Action on the Promise in Law, which arises from the Debt, there, although he mistakes the Sum, he shall recover. Alcy 29. There is a Diversity where a Day of Payment is limited on a Contract, and where not; for where it is limited, the Contract is good presently, and an Action lies upon it, without Payment; but in the other not: If a Man buys 20 Yards of Cloth, &c. the Contract is void, if he do not pay the Money presently; but if Day of Payment be given, there the One may have an Action for the Money, and the other Trover for the Cloth. Dyer 30, 293. Where a Seller says to a Buyer, he will sell his Horse for so much, and the Buyer says he will give it; if he presently tell out the Money, it is a Contract; but if he do not, it is no Contract. Noy's Max. 87. Hob. 41. The Property of any Thing sold is in the Buyer immediately by the Contract; though regularly it must be delivered to the Buyer, before the Seller can bring his Action for the Money. Noy 88. If one contract to buy a Horse or other Thing of me, and no Money is paid, or Earnest given, nor Day set for Payment thereof, nor the Thing delivered; in these Cases, no Action will lie for the Money, or the Thing sold, but it may be sold to another. Plowd. 309, 128. All Contracts are to be certain, perfect, and compleat: For an Agreement to give so much for a Thing as it shall be reasonably worth, is void for Incertainty; so a Promise to pay Money in a short Time, &c. or to give so much, if he likes the Thing when he sees it. Dyer 91. 1 Bul. 92. But if I contract with another to give him 10*l.* for such a Thing, if I like it on seeing the same; this Bargain is said to be perfect at my Pleasure: Though I may not take the Thing before I have paid the Money; if I do, the Seller may have Trespass against me; and if he sell it to another, I may bring Action of the Case against him. Noy 104. If a Contract be to have for Cattle sold 10*l.* If the Buyer do a certain Thing, or else to have 20*l.* it is a good Contract, and certain enough: And if I agree with a Person to give him so much for his Horse, as J. S. shall judge him to be worth, when he hath judged it, the Contract is compleat, and an Action will lie on it; and the Buyer shall have a reasonable Time to demand the Judgment of J. S. But if he dies before his Judgment is given, the Contract is determined. Perk. Sect. 112, 114. Skep. Abr. 294. In Contracts, the Time is to be regarded, in and from which the Contract is made: The Words shall be taken in the common and usual Sense, as they are taken in that Place where spoken; and the Law doth not so much look upon the Form of Words, as on the Substance and Mind of the Parties therein. 5 Rep. 83. 1 Bulst. 175. A Contract for Goods may be made as well by Word of Mouth, as by Deed in Writing; and where it is in Writing only, not sealed and delivered, it is all one as by Word. But if the Contract be by Writing sealed and delivered, and so turned into a Deed; then it is of another Nature, and in this Case generally the Action on the verbal Contract is gone, and some other Action lies for Breach thereof. Plowd. 130, 309. Dyer 90. Contracts, not to be performed in a Year, are to be in Writing, signed by the Party, &c. or no Action may be brought on them: But if no Day is set, or the Time is uncertain, they may be good without it. Stat. 29 Car. 2. c. 3. And by the same Statute, no Contract for the Sale of Goods for 10*l.* or upwards, shall be good, unless the Buyer receive Part of the Goods sold; or gives something in Earnest to bind the Contract; or some Note thereof be made in Writing, signed by the Person charged with the Contract, &c. If two Persons come to a Draper, and one says, let this Man have so much Cloth, and I'll see you paid; there the Sale is to the Undertaker only, though the Delivery is to another by his Appointment: But if a Contract be made with A. B. and the Vendor scruples to let the Goods go without Money, and C. D. comes to him and desires him to let A. B. have the Goods, and undertakes that he shall pay him for them, that will be a Promise within the Statute 29 Car. 2. and ought to be in Writing. Mod. Caf. 249. A Contract made and entered into upon good Consideration, may for good Considerations be dissolved. See Agreement and Sale. Usurious Contracts, vide Usury.

Contrafactio, (Contrafactio) A Counterfeiting; as Contrafactio sigilli Regis, Counterfeiting the King's Seal. Blount.

Contra soymam Collationis, Is a Writ that lay where a Man had given Lands in perpetual Alms, to any late Houses of Religion, as to an Abbot and Convent, or to the Warden or Master of any Hospital and his Convent, to find certain poor Men with Necessaries, and do Divine Service, &c. If they aliened the Land, to the Disherison of the House and Church, then the Donor, or his Heirs, should bring this Writ to recover the Lands. It was had against the Abbot, or his Successor; not against the Alienee, though he were Tenant of the Land: And was founded upon the Statute of West. 2. c. 1. Reg. Orig. 238. F. N. B. 210.

Contra

Contra formam feoffamenti, A Writ that lies for the Heir of a Tenant enfeoffed of certain Lands or Tenements, by Charter of Feoffment from a Lord to make certain Services and Suits to his Court, who is afterwards distrained for more Services than are mentioned in the Charter. Reg. Orig. 176. Old Nat. Br. 162.

Contra formam Statuti, Is the usual Conclusion of every Indictment, &c. laid on an Offence created by Statute.

Contramandatio Placiti, Signifies a respiting or giving a Defendant further Time to answer; or a Countermand of what was formerly ordered. Leg. H. 1. c. 59.

Contramandatum, Is said to be a lawful Excuse which the Defendant in a Suit by Attorney alledgeth for himself, to shew that the Plaintiff hath no Cause of Complaint. Blount.

Contrapositio, A Plea or Answer. — Si quis in Placito per Justitiam posito sui vel suorum causam injustis Conterminationibus vel Contrapositionibus difforciat, hanc perdat. Leg. Hen. 1. c. 34.

Contrarients. In the Reign of King Edw. 2. Thomas Earl of Lancaster taking Part with the Barons against the King, it was not thought fit, in Respect of their great Power, to call them Rebels or Traitors, but Contrarients: And hence we have a Record of those Times, called Rotulum Contrariensium.

Contratenere, To withhold. Si quis Decimas contrateneat. Leg. Alfredi apud Brompton, c. 9.

Contribules, Contribunales, Kindred or Cousins. Lamb. pag. 75.

Contribution, (Contributio) Is where every one pays his Share, or contributes his Part to any Thing One Parcener shall have Contribution against another; one Heir have Contribution against another Heir, in equal Degree: And one Purchaser have Contribution against another. Also Consors in a Statute shall be equally charged, and not one of them solely extended. 3 Rep. 12, 13, &c. On a Statute or Recognisance, there is a Contribution and Stay till the full Age of the Heir, &c. and this doth extend to the Lessee for Life or Years of the Consor, who has Part of the Land liable, and the Heir within Age the Residue: For the Land of every one of them ought to be charged equally, because the whole is liable to the Judgment; and this cannot be, if during the Nonage, the Burden shall fall upon one only. Jenk. Cent. 36. If Lands are mortgaged, and then devised to one Person for Life, with Remainder to another; both Devises shall make Contribution to Payment of the Mortgage-Money. Chan. Caf. 224, 271. Where Goods are cast into the Sea, for the Safe-guard of a Ship, or other Goods, &c. aboard in a Tempest; there is a Contribution among Merchants, towards the Loss of the Owners. 32 H. 8. c. 14. And where a Robbery is committed on the Highway, and Damages are recovered against one or a few Persons, in Action against the Hundred, the Rest of the Inhabitants shall make Contribution to the same. 27 Eliz. c. 13.

Contributione facienda, Is a Writ that lieth where there are Tenants in Common, that are bound to do one Thing, and one is put to the whole Burden; or who jointly hold a Mill pro Indiviso, and take the Profits equally, and the Mill falling into Decay, one of them will not repair the Mill; now the other shall have a Writ to compel him to contribute to the Reparations. And if there be three Coparceners of Land, that owe Suit to the Lord's Court, and the eldest performs the Whole; then may she have this Writ to compel the other to make their Contribution. So where one Suit is required for Land, and that Land being sold to divers Persons, Suit is demanded of them all, or some of them by Distress, as entirely as if all the Land were still in one. Reg. Orig. 175. F. N. B. 162.

Form of the Writ of Contributione facienda.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of, &c. If A. B. makes you secure, &c. then summon, &c. C. D. and E. F. that they be at, &c. to shew why, whereas the said A. B. C. D. and E. F. a certain Mill, in, &c. undivided hold, the Issues thence proceeding to take by equal Portions, and to the Reparation and Sustentation of the same Mill are held; the said C. D. and E. F. although their Portion of these Issues happening they take, refuse to contribute to the Reparation and Sustentation of the said Mill, to the Damage of the said A. B. &c. And have you there, &c.

Controller, (Fr. Contrerolleur, Lat. Contrarotulator) Is an Overseer or Officer relating to Publick Accounts, &c. And we have divers Officers of this Name; as Controller of the King's Household; of the Navy; of the Customs; of the Excise; of the Mint, &c. And in our Courts, there is the Controller of the Hamper; of the Pipe, and of the Pell, &c. The Office of Controller of the Household is to control the Accounts of the Green Cloth; and he sits with the Lord Steward and other Officers in the Counting-House, for daily taking the Accounts of all Expences of the Household. The Controller of the Navy controls the Payments of Wages; examines and audits Accounts; and inquires into Rates of Stores for Shipping, &c. Controllers of the Customs and Excise, their Office is to control the Accounts of those Revenues: And the Controllor of the Mint controls the Payment of Wages, and Accounts relating to the same. Controllor of the Hamper is an Officer in the Chancery attending the Lord Chancellor daily in Term-Time, and upon Seal-Days; whose Office is to take all Things sealed from the Clerk of the Hamper, inclosed in Bags of Leather, and to note the just Number and Effect of all Things so received, and enter the same in a Book, with all the Duties appertaining to his Majesty, and other Officers for the same. The Controllor of the Pipe is an Officer of the Exchequer, who writes out Summons twice every Year to the Sheriffs to levy the Farms and Debts of the Pipe; and keeps a Controlment of the Pipe, &c. Controllor of the Pell is also an Officer of the Exchequer; of which Sort there are Two, who are the Chamberlains Clerks, that do or should keep a Controlment of the Pell, of Receipts and Goings out: And this Officer was originally such as took Notes of other Officers Accounts or Receipts, to the Intent to discover if they dealt amiss, and was ordained for the Prince's better Security. Fleta, lib. 1. cap. 18. Stat. 12 Ed. 3. cap. 3. This last seems to be the original Use and Design of all Controllers.

Controver, (Fr. Controwear) Signifies in our Law one that of his own Head devises or invents false News. 2 Inst. 227.

Condenable, (Fr.) Agreeable. Stat. 27 Ed. 3. c. 21. See Covenable.

Convenient, (Conveniens) Of the Use of this Word, the Lord Coke in his Institute says, — Non solum quod licet sed quod est conveniens est Considerandum, nihil quod est inconveniens est licitum. 1 Inst. 66.

Convent, (Conventus) Signifies the Fraternity of an Abbey or Priory; as Societas doth the Number of Fellows in a College. Brañ. lib. 2. c. 35.

Conventicle, (Conventiculum) A private Assembly or Meeting for the Exercise of Religion; first attributed in Disgrace to the Meetings of Wickliff in this Nation, above Two hundred Years since; and now applied to the illegal Meetings of the Nonconformists: It is mentioned in the Statutes 2 Hen. 4. c. 15. 1 H. 6. c. 3. and 16 Car. 2. c. 4. which Statute was made to prevent and suppress Conventicles: And by 22 Car. 2. cap. 1. It is enacted, That if any Persons of the Age of sixteen Years, Subjects of this Kingdom, shall be present at any Conventicle, where there are Five or more assembled, they shall be fined 5*s.* for the first Offence, and 10*s.* for the Second; and Persons Preaching incur a Penalty of 20*l.* Also suffering a Meeting to be held in a House, &c. is liable to 20*l.* Penalty. Justices of Peace have Power to enter such Houses, and seize Persons assembled, &c. And if they neglect their Duty, they shall forfeit 100*l.* And if any Constable, &c. know of such Meetings, and do not inform a Justice of Peace, or chief Magistrate, &c. he shall forfeit 5*l.* But the 1*W. & M. c.* 18. ordains, that Protestant Dissenters shall be exempted from Penalties: Though if they meet in a House, with the Doors lock'd, barr'd, or bolted, such Dissenters shall have no Benefit from 1*W. & M.* Officers of the Government, &c. present at any Conventicle, at which there shall be ten Persons, if the Royal Family be not prayed for in express Words, shall forfeit 40*l.* and be disabled. Stat. 10 Ann. c. 2. See Herefy.

Conventio, Is a Word used in ancient Law-Pleadings, for an Agreement or Covenant: As A. B. queritur, &c. de C. D. &c. pro eo quod non teneat Conventioem, &c. There is a pleasant Record of the Court of the Manor of Hatfield, in Com. Ebor. held Anno 11 Ed. 3. which runs thus: Robertus R. qui optulit se versus Johannem J. de eo quod non teneat Conventioem inter eos factam, & unde queritur, quod certo die & anno apud, &c. convenit inter predictum Robertum & Johannem, quod predictus Johannes vendidit predicto Roberto Diabolum ligatum in quodam ligamine pro iii d. ob. & predictus Robertus tradidit predicto Johanni quoddam obulum earles (i. Earnest-Money) per quod Proprietas dicti Diaboli commoratur in Persona dicti Roberti ad habend. deliberationem dicti Diaboli, infra quartam diem prox. sequent. Ad quam diem idem Robertus venit ad presatum Johannem, & petit deliberationem dicti Diaboli, secundum Conventioem inter eos factam; idem Johannes predictum Diabolum deliberare noluit, nec adhuc vult, &c. ad grave dampnum ipsius Roberti lx sol. Et inde producit factam, &c. Et predictus Johannes venit, &c. Et non dedit Conventioem predictam. Et quia videtur Curie quod tale Placitum non jacet inter Christianos, Ideo partes predicti adjournantur usque in Infernum, ad audiendum Judicium suum, & utraque Pars in Misericordia, &c.

Conventione, Is a Writ that lies for the Breach of any Covenant in Writing, whether Real or Personal: And it is called a Writ of Covenant. Reg. Orig. 115. F. N. B. 145.

Convention, Is properly where a Parliament is assembled, but no Act is passed, or Bill sign'd, &c. See Parliament.

Convention Parliament. On the Abdication of King James II. Anno 1689. The Assembly of the States of the Kingdom, to take Care of their Rights and Liberties, and who settled King William and Queen Mary on the Throne, was called the Convention: And the Lords and Commons thus convened were declared the two Houses of Parliament, notwithstanding the Want of any Writ of Summons, &c. Stat. 1 W. & M.

Conventuals, Are those Religious Men who are united together in a Convent or Religious House. Corwel.

Conventual Church, Is a Church that consists of Regular Clerks, professing some Order of Religion; or of Dean and Chapter, or other Societies of Spiritual Men.

Conversos. The Jews here in England were formerly called Conversos, because they were converted to the Christian Religion. King Hen. 3. built an House for them in London, and allowed them a competent Provision or Subsistence for their Lives; and this House was called Domus Conversorum. But by Reason of the vast Expences of the Wars, and the Increase of those Converts, they became a Burden to the Crown; so that they were placed in Abbeys and Monasteries for their Support and Maintenance. And the Jews being afterwards banished, King Ed. 3. in the 511th Year of his Reign, gave this House which had been used for the converted Jews, for the Keeping of the Rolls; and it is said to be the same which is at this Time enjoyed by the Master of the Rolls. Blount.

Conveyance, Is a Deed which passes Land from one Man to another. Conveyance by Feoffment, and Livery, was the general Conveyance at Common Law; and if there was a Tenant in Possession, so that Livery could not be made, then was the Reversion granted, and the Tenant always attorned: Also upon the same Reason, a Lease and Release was held to be a good Conveyance, to pass an Estate; but the Lessee was to be in actual Possession, before the Release. And by the Common Law, when an Estate did not pass by Feoffment, the Vendor made a Lease for Years, and the Lessee actually entered; and the Lessor granted the Reversion to another, and the Lessee attorn'd: Afterwards, when an Inheritance was to be granted, then likewise was a Lease for Years usually made, and the Lessee entered (as before) and then the Lessor released to him: But after the Statute of Uses, it became an Opinion, that if a Lease for Years was made upon a valuable Consideration, a Release might operate upon it without an actual Entry of the Lessee; because the Statute did execute the Lease, and raised an Use presently to the Lessee: And Serjeant Moor was the First who practised this Way. 2 Mod. 251, 252. The most common Conveyances now in Use are Deeds of Gifts, Bargain and Sale, Lease and Release, Fines and Recoveries, Settlements to Uses, &c. A Son did give and grant Lands to his Mother, and her Heirs; though this was a defective Conveyance at Common Law, yet it was adjudged good by Way of Use, to support the Intention of the Donor, and therefore by these Words an Use did arise to the Mother by Way of Covenant to stand seised. 2 Lev. 225. A Feoffment, without Livery and Seisin, will not enure as a Grant; but where made in Consideration of a Marriage, &c. it has been adjudged, that it did enure as a Covenant to stand seised to Uses. 2 Lev. 213. Tenant in Fee, in Consideration of Marriage, covenanted, granted, and agreed all that Messuage to the Use of himself for Life, then to his Wife for Life, for her Jointure, then to their first Son in Tail Male, &c. Now by these Words it appeared, that the Husband intended some Benefit for his Wife, wherefore the Court supplied other Words to make the Conveyance sensible. 1 Lutw. 782. The Words Give and Grant, &c. are proper for a Conveyance at Common Law; but it has been held, that though some Books warrant that Conveyances shall operate according to the Words, yet of late the Judges have a greater Consideration of the Passing the Estate, than the Manner by which 'tis passed. 2 Lutw. 1209. A Conveyance cannot be fraudulent in Part, and good as to the Rest: For if it be fraudulent and void in Part, it is void in all, and it cannot be divided. 1 Lill. Abr. 311. Fraudulent Conveyances to deceive Creditors; defraud Purchasers, &c. are void, by Stat. 50 Ed. 3. cap. 6. 13 Eliz. cap. 5. 27 Eliz. cap. 4. Vide Deeds. See my Accomplish'd Conveyancer, Vol. 1. Edit. 2.

Convict, (Convictus) Is he that is found guilty of an Offence by Verdict of a Jury. Staund. P. C. 186. Crompton saith, That Conviction is either when a Man is outlawed, or appeareth and confesseth, or is found guilty by the Inquest: And when a Statute excludes from Clergy Persons found guilty of Felony, &c. it extends to those who are convicted by Confession. Crompt. Just. 9. The Law implies a Conviction, before Punishment, though not mentioned in a Statute: And where any Statute makes a second Offence Felony, or subject to a heavier Punishment than the First, it is always implied that such second Offence ought to be committed after a Conviction for the First. 1 Hawk. P. C. 13, 107. Judgment amounts to Conviction; though it doth not follow that every one who is convict, is adjudged. Ibid. 14. A Conviction at the King's Suit may be pleaded to a Suit by an Informer, on a Penal Statute; because while in Force it makes the Party liable to the Forfeiture, and no one ought to be punished twice for the same Offence: But Conviction may not be pleaded to a new Suit by the King. Ibid. 18. A Person convicted or attainted of one Felony, may be prosecuted for another, to bring Accessaries to Punishment, &c. Fitz Coron. 379. On a joint Indictment or Information, some of the Defendants may be acquitted, and others convicted. 2 Hawk. 240. Persons convicted of Felony by Verdict, &c. are not to be admitted to Bail, unless there be some special Motive for granting it; as where a Man is not the same Person, &c. for Bail ought to be before Trial, when it stands indifferent whether the Party be guilty, or not. Ibid. 99, 114. Conviction of Felony, and other Crimes, disables a Man to be a Juror, Witness, &c. By our Books, Conviction and Attainder are often confounded.

Conviction, before Justices of Peace. When an Act of Parliament orders the Conviction of Offenders by Justices of Peace, &c. it must be intended after Summons to bring them in, that they may have an Opportunity of making their Defence; and if it be otherwise, the Conviction shall be quashed. Mich. 2 Ann. B. R. Mod. Caf. 41.

Convict Recusant, According to the Statutes of 1 & 23 Eliz. See Recusants.

Convivium, Signifies the same Thing among the Laity, as Procuratio doth with the Clergy, viz. When the Tenant by Reason of his Tenure is bound to provide Meat and Drink for his Lord once or oftner in the Year. Blount.

Convocation, (Convocatio) Is the Assembly of all the Clergy, to consult of Ecclesiastical Matters in Time of Parliament: And as there are two Houses of Parliament, so there are two Houses of Convocation; the one called the Higher or Upper House, where the Archbishops and all the Bishops sit severally by themselves; and the other the Lower House of Convocation, where all the Rest of the Clergy sit, i. e. All Deans and Archdeacons, one Proctor for every Chapter, and two Proctors for all the Clergy of each Diocese, making in the whole Number One hundred and sixty six Persons. Each Convocation House hath a Prolocutor, chosen from among themselves, and that of the Lower House is presented to the Bishops, &c. The Archbishop of Canterbury is the President of the Convocation, and prorogues and dissolves it by Mandate from the King. The Convocation exercises Jurisdiction in making of Canons, with the King's Assent: For by the Stat. 25 H. 8. the Convocation is not only to be assembled by the King's Writ; but the Canons are to have the Royal Assent: They have the Examining and Censuring of heretical and schismatical Books, and Persons, &c. But Appeal lies to the King in Chancery, or to his Delegates. 4 Inst. 322. 2 Roll. Abr. 225. The Clergy called to the Convocation, and their Servants, &c. have the same Privileges as Members of Parliament. Stat. 8 H. 6. c. 1.

Consuance of Pleas, A Privilege that a City or Town hath to hold Pleas. See Cognisance.

Consuant, (Fr. Connoissant) Knowing or Understanding: As if the Son be Consuant, and agreed to the Feoffment, &c. Co. Litt. 159.

Coopers, Shall make their Vessels of seasonable Wood, and mark them with their own Marks, on Pain of 3 s. 4 d. Forfeiture; and the Contents of Vessels are appointed to be observed under like Penalty, as the Beer Barrel shall contain 36 Gallons, a Kilderkin 18, and Firkin 9, &c. The Wardens of the Coopers Company in London, with an Officer of the Mayor, are to search all Vessels for Ale, Beer and Soap to be sold there; and to mark them that are right, and they may burn those that be not so: And if any Cooper, &c. diminish a Vessel by taking out the Head, or a Staff thereof, it shall be burnt, and the Offender forfeit 3 s. 4 d. Also Coopers are to sell their Vessels at such Rates as shall be ordained by Justices, Mayors, &c. 23 H. 8. c. 4. This last Clause is repealed by 8 Eliz. cap. 9.

Coopertio, The Head or Branches of a Tree cut down; though Coopertio Arborum is rather the Bark of Timber Trees felled, and the Chumps and broken Wood. Corwel.

Coopertura, A Thicket or Covert of Wood. Chart. de Foresta, cap. 12.

Coparceners, (Participes) Otherwise called Parceners, are such as have equal Portion in the Inheritance of an Ancestor; and by Law are the Issue Female, which, in Default of Heirs Male, come in Equality to the Lands of their Ancestors. Brañ. lib. 2. cap. 30. They are to make Partition of the Lands; which ought to be made by Coparceners of full Age, &c. And if the Estate of a Coparcener be in Part evicted, the Partition shall be avoided in the Whole. Lit. 243. 1 Inst. 173. 1 Rep. 87. The Crown of England is not subject to Coparcenary; and there is no Coparcenary in Dignities, &c. Co. Litt. 27. Stat. 25 H. 8. c. 22. Vide Parceners.

Copartnership, Is a Deed of Covenants between Merchants, or others, for carrying on a joint Trade, &c.

Cope, Is a Custom or Tribute due to the King or Lord of the Soil, out of the Lead Mines in some Part of Derbyshire; of which Manlove saith thus:

*Egress and Regress to the King's Highway,
The Miners have; and Lot and Cope they Pay:
The thirteenth Dish of Oar within their Mine,
To the Lord, for Lote they pay at measuring Time;
Six pence a Load for Cope the Lord demands,
And that is paid to the Berghmaster's Hands, &c.*

Agreeable to this you may find in Sir John Pettus's Fodinae Regales, where he treats on this Subject. This Word, by Domesday-Book, as Mr. Hagar hath interpreted it, signifies a Hill: And Cope is taken for the supreme Cover, as the Cape of Heaven. Also it is used for the Roof and Covering of a House; the upper Garment of a Priest, &c.

Copula Libelli deliberanda, Is a Writ that lies where a Man cannot get the Copy of a Libel at the Hand of a Judge Ecclesiastical, to have the same delivered to him. Reg. Orig. 51.

Coppa, A Cop or Cock of Grass, Hay or Corn, divided into Titheable Portions; as the Tenth Cock, &c. This Word in Strictness denotes the gathering or laying up the Corn in Copes or Heaps, as the Method is for Barley or Oats, &c. not bound up, that it may be the more fairly and justly tithed: And in Kent they still retain the Word, a Cop or Cap of Hay, Straw, &c. Thorn in Chron.

Copy, (Copia) Is in a legal Sense the Transcript of an original Writing; as the Copy of a Patent, of a Charter, Deed, &c. A Clause out of a Patent, taken from the Chapel of the Roll, cannot be given in Evidence; but you must have a true Copy of the whole Charter examined: It is the same of a Record. And if upon a Trial, you will give Part of a Copy of an Office in Evidence to prove a Deed, which Deed is to prove the Party's Title to the Land in Question that gives it in Evidence; if that Part of the Office given in Evidence, be not so much of it as doth any Ways concern the Land in Question, the Court will not admit of it: For the Court will have a Copy of the whole given, or no Part of it shall be admitted. 1 Lill. Abr.

Abr. 312, 313. Where a Deed is inrolled, certifying an attested Copy is Proof of the Inrollment; and such Copy may be given in Evidence. 3 Lev. 387. A common Deed cannot be proved by a Copy or Counterpart, when the Original may be procured. 10 Rep. 92. And a Copy of a Will of Lands, or the Probate, is not sufficient; but the Will must be shewn as Evidence. 2 Roll. Abr. 74. Copies of Court Rolls admitted as Evidence. See Evidence.

Copyhold, (Tenura per Copiam Rotuli Curiae) Is a Tenure for which the Tenant hath nothing to shew but the Copy of the Rolls, made by the Steward of the Lord's Court; on such Tenant's being admitted to any Parcel of Land or Tenement belonging to the Manor. 4 Rep. 25. It is called Base Tenure, because held at the Will of the Lord: And Fitzherbert says, it was anciently Tenure in Villenage, and that Copyhold is but a new Name. Some Copyholds are held by the Verge in Ancient Demefne; and though they are by Copy, yet are they a Kind of Feehold; for if a Tenant of such a Copyhold commit Felony, the King hath Annum, Diem & Vastum, as in the Case of Freeholders: Some other Copyholds are such as the Tenants hold by common Tenure, called Meer Copyhold, whose Land, upon Felony committed, escheats to the Lord of the Manor. Kitch. 81. But Copyhold Land cannot be made at this Day; for the Pillars of a Copyhold Estate are, That it hath been demised Time out of Mind by Copy of Court-Roll; and that the Tenements are Parcel of or within the Manor. 1 Inst. 58. 4 Rep. 24. A Copyhold Tenant had originally in Judgment of Law but an Estate at Will; yet Custom so established his Estate, that by the Custom of the Manor it was descendible, and his Heirs inherited it: And therefore the Estate of the Copyholder is not merely ad voluntatem Domini, but ad voluntatem Domini secundum consuetudinem Manerii; so that the Custom of the Manor is the Life of Copyhold Estates; for without a Custom, or if Copyholders break their Custom, they are subject to the Will of the Lord: And as a Copyhold is created by Custom, so it is guided by Custom. 4 Rep. 21. A Copyholder so long as he doth his Services, and doth not break the Custom of the Manor, cannot be ejected by the Lord; if he be, he shall have Trespafs against him: But if a Copyholder refuses to perform his Services, it is a Breach of the Custom, and Forfeiture of his Estate. Copyholders descend according to the Rules and Maxims of the Common Law; but such customary Inheritances shall not be Assets, to charge the Heir in Action of Debt, &c. Ibid. Though a Lease for one Year of Copyhold Lands, which is warranted by the Common Law, shall be Assets in the Hand of an Executor. 1 Vent. 163. Copyholders hold their Estates free from Charges of Dower, being created by Custom, which is paramount to Title of Dower. 4 Rep. 24. Copyhold Inheritances have no collateral Qualities, which do not concern the Descendant; as to make them Assets; or whereof a Wife may be endowed; a Husband be Tenant by the Curtesy, &c. But by particular Custom, there may be Dower and Tenancy by the Curtesy. Cro. Eliz. 361. There may be an Estate tail in Copyhold Lands by Custom, with the Co-operation of the Statute W. 2. And as a Copyhold may be entailed by Custom, so by Custom the Tail may be cut off by Surrender. 1 Inst. 60. A Copyhold may be barred by a Recovery, by special Custom; and a Surrender may bar the Issue by Custom. A Fine and Recovery at Common Law, will not destroy a Copyhold Estate; because Common Law Assurances do not work upon the Assurance of the Copyhold: Though Copyhold Lands are within the Stat. 4 H. 7. of Fines with Proclamations, and five Years Non claim, and shall be barred. 1 Rol. Abr. 506. A Plaintiff may be made in the Court of the Manor, in the Nature of a Real Action, and a Recovery shall be had in that Plaintiff against Tenant in Tail, and such a Recovery shall be a Discontinuance to the Estate-tail. 1 Brownl. 121. And the suffering a Recovery by a Copyholder Tenant for Life in the Lord's Court is no Forfeiture, unless there is a particular Custom for it. 1 Nels. Abr. 507. Copyholders may entail Copyhold Lands, and bar the Entails and Remainders, by committing a Forfeiture, as making Lease without Licence, &c. and then the Lord is to make three Proclamations, and seise the Copyhold, after which the Lands are granted to the Copyholder, and his Heirs, &c. This is the Manner in some Places, but it must be warranted by Custom. 2 Danv. Abr. 191. Sid. 314. Customs ought to be Time out of Memory; to be reasonable, &c. And a Custom in Deprivation or Bar of a Copyhold Estate, shall be taken strictly; but when for Making and Maintaining it, shall be construed favourably. Comp. Cop. Sect. 33. Cr. El. 879. An unreasonable Custom, as for a Lord to exact exorbitant Fines; for a Copyholder for Life to cut down and sell Timber-Trees, &c. is void. A Copyholder for Life pleaded a Custom, that every Copyholder for Life, might in the Presence of two other Copyholders appoint who should have his Copyhold after his Death; and that the two Copyholders might assess a Fine so as not to be less than had been usually paid; and it was adjudged a good Custom. 4 Leon. 238. But a Custom to compel a Lord to make a Grant, is said to be against Law; though it may be good to admit a Tenant. Moor 788. By the Custom of some Manors, where Copyhold Lands are granted to Two or more Persons for Lives, the Person first named in the Copy may surrender all the Lands. 1 Nels. Abr. 497. There are Customs Ratione loci, different from other Places: But though a Custom may be applied to a particular Place; yet 'tis against the Nature of a Custom of a Manor to apply it to one particular Tenant. 1 Nels. 504. 1 Lutw. 126. There are usually Custom-Rolls of Manors, exhibited on Oath by the Tenants; setting forth the Bounds of the Manor, the Royalties of the Lord, Services of the Copyhold Tenants, the Tenures granted, whether for Life, &c. concerning Admittances, Surrenders, and the Rights of the Copyholders, as to taking Timber for Repairs, Fire-wood, &c. Common belonging to the Tenants; Payment of Rent, suing in the Court of the Manor, taking Heriots, &c. All which Customs are to be observed. Comp. Court-Keep. 21. When an Act of Parliament altereth the Service, Customs, Tenure, and Interest of Land, in Prejudice of the Lord or Tenant, there the general Words of such an Act shall not extend to Copyholds. 3 Rep. 7. Copyholders are not within the Stat. 27 H. 8. of Jointures; nor the 32 H. 8. of Leases, Copyholds being in their Nature demisable only by Copy: They are not within the Statute of Uses; nor are Copyholds extendible in Execution: But Copyholds are within the Statute 18 Ed. 1. of Limitation of Actions; and the 13 Eliz. &c. against Bankrupts. The Lord shall have the Custody of the Lands of Ideots, &c. And a Copyholder is not within the Act 12 Car. 2. to dispose of the Custody and Guardianship of the Heir; for if there be a Custom for it, it belongs to the Lord of the Manor. 3 Lev. 395. 1 Nels. Abr. 492, 522. Copyholders shall neither implead nor be impleaded for their Tenements by Writ, but by Plaintiff in the Lord's Court held within the Manor: And if on such Plaintiff, erroneous Judgment be given, no Writ of false Judgment lies, but Petition to the Lord in Nature of a Writ of false Judgment, wherein Errors are to be assigned, and Remedy given according to Law. Co. Litt. 60. Where a Man holds Copyhold Lands in Trust to surrender to another, &c. if he refuses to surrender to the other accordingly, he may be compelled by Bill exhibited in the Lord's Court, who, as Chancellor has Power to do Right. 1 Leon. 2. A Copyholder may have a Formedon in Descender in the Lord's Court. Lessee of a Copyholder for Life for one Year, shall maintain an Ejectment: But Ejectment will not lie lie for a Copyhold, unless the Plaintiff declare on the Custom, upon a Lease, &c. 4 Rep. 26. Moor 679. A Manor is loit when there are no customary Tenants or Copyholders: And if a Copyhold comes into the Hands of the Lord in Fee, and the Lord Leases it for one Year, or half a Year, or for any certain Time, it can never be granted by Copy after: But if the Lord aliens the Manor, &c. his Alienee may regrant Land by Copy. If the Lord keeps the Copyhold for a long Time in his Hand, it is no Impediment but that he may after Grant it again by Copy. 2 Danv. Abr. 176, 177. A Copyholder in Fee accepts of a Lease, Grant, or Confirmation of the same Land from the Lord, this determines his Copyhold Estate. 2 Cro. 16. Cro. Jac. 253. If a Copyholder bargains and sells his Copyhold to a Lessee for Years, &c. of the Manor, his Copyhold is extinguished. 2 Danv. 205. A Copyholder may grant his Estate to his Lord, by Bargain and Sale, Release, &c. for between Lord and Tenant the Conveyance need not be according to Custom. 1 Nels. 504. A Copyholder in other Cases cannot alien by Deed: Though he that hath a Right only to a Copyhold may release it by Deed. And if a Copyholder surrenders upon Condition, he may afterwards release the Condition by Deed. 2 Danv. 205. Cro. Jac. 36. Also one joint Copyholder may release to another, which will be good without any Admittance, &c. Ibid. The customary Grant of a Copyhold from Lord to Tenant is in this Form:

A Grant and Admittance by Copy of Court Roll.

Manor } At a Court Baron of T. B. Esquire, Lord of A. } of the Manor aforesaid, held for the said Manor the twenty sixth Day of October in the sixth Year of the Reign of the Lord
George the Second, by the Grace of God,
King of Great Britain, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. and in the Year of our Lord 1732. Before G. J. Gentleman, Steward there; it was enrolled among other Things, as follows.

AT this Court came J. C. and took of the Lord of the Manor aforesaid, by the Delivery of the Steward aforesaid, one Messuage or Tenement, and forty Acres of Land, Meadow, and Pasture, with their Appurtenances, within the aforesaid Manor, late in the Tenure of W. D. deceased: To have and to hold the said Messuage or Tenement and forty Acres of Land with all and singular the Appurtenances, unto the aforesaid J. C. and also to J. and T. his Sons, for the Term of their Lives, and the Life of either of them longest living successively, at the Will of the Lord, according to the Custom of the Manor aforesaid; By the Rent of ten Shillings by the Year, and for a Heriot when it happens, thirty Shillings, and by all other Rents, Works, Suits, Customs and Services therefore due, and of Right accustomed; and for such Estate and Entry so in the Premises had, the aforesaid J. C. gives to the Lord for a Fine ninety Pounds before-hand paid: And so he is admitted Tenant thereof, and doth his Fealty; but the Fealties of the others are respited, until, &c. Dated by Copy of the Rolls of the aforesaid Court, the Day and Year abovesaid.

Examined with the Rolls of the said Court,

By me G. J. Steward there.

A Copyholder cannot convey or transfer his Copyhold Estate to another otherwise than by Surrender: which is the Yielding up of the Land by the Tenant to the Lord, according to the Custom of the Manor, to the Use of him that is to have the Estate: Or it is in Order to a new Grant, and further Estate in the same. And these Surrenders are as follow:

Form of a Surrender of a Copyhold Estate in Fee.

AT this Court A. B. a customary Tenant of this Manor, surrendered into the Hands of the Lord, by the Hands of the Steward aforesaid, all that customary Messuage or Tenement, &c. called, &c. with the Appurtenances, to the Use and behoof of C. D. his Heirs and Assigns for ever; which said C. D. being present here in Court, prayed to be admitted Tenant to the Tenement aforesaid, with the Appurtenances; to whom the Lord, by the Steward aforesaid, granted and delivered to him Seisin thereof by the Rod: To have and to hold the Tenement aforesaid, with the Appurtenances, to the said C. D. his Heirs and Assigns at the Will of the Lord, according to the Custom, &c. and he gives to the Lord for a Fine, &c. and is admitted Tenant thereof, and does Fealty, &c.

A Surrender and New Grant of Copyhold Lands for Life.

AT this Court came W. E. who claims to hold for the Term of his Life, and of the Life of J. his Son, by Copy of Court Roll of the Manor there, bearing Date, &c. one Tenement, called, &c. with the Appurtenances, within the Manor aforesaid; and all and singular the Premises, and the whole Estate thereof, Right, Title, Interest, Possession, Reversion, Claim and Demand of him the said W. E. and J. his Son, (the said W. being sole Purchaser of the Premises) together with a Copy thereof made now to be cancelled, into the Hands of the Lord in the aforesaid Court he hath surrendered, that the said Lord may do therewith according to his Pleasure; from whence there accrues to the Lord a Heriot, which is included in the Fine here under written: Whereupon to this same Court came the aforesaid W. E. and J. his Son, and took of the Lord in the said Court, by the Delivery of the Steward, the aforesaid Premises, with the Appurtenances: To have and to hold the Tenement and Premises aforesaid, with all and singular the Appurtenances, to the aforesaid W. E. and J. E. and also to A. E. Daughter of the said W. E. for the Term of their Lives, and of the Life of the longest Liver of them successively, at the Will of the Lord, according to the Custom of the Manor aforesaid; by the Rent therefore by the Year of 13s. 4d. and one Heriot when it shall happen, and by all other Rents, Burdens, Works, Suits, Customs and Services, formerly due and of Right accustomed; and the aforesaid W. and J. to have such Estate in and Entry on the Premises, give to the Lord for a Fine, &c. before hand paid; and so the aforesaid W. is admitted Tenant thereof, and doth his Fealty to the Lord, but the Fealties of the said J. and A. are respited, until, &c.

As to Copyhold Grants; which are made either in Fee, or for three Lives, &c. the Lord of the Manor that hath a lawful Estate therein, whether he be Tenant for Life or Years, Tenant by Statute Merchant, &c. or at Will, is Dominus pro tempore, and may grant Lands, Herbage of Lands, a Fair, Mill, Tithes, &c. and any Thing that concerns Lands, by Copy of Court-Roll, according to Custom; and such Grants shall bind those in Remainder: The Rents and Services reserved by them shall be annexed to the Manor, and attend the Owner thereof after their particular Estates are ended. 4 Rep. 23. 11 Rep. 18. And if a Lord of a Manor for the Time being, Lessee for Life, Years, &c. take a Surrender, and before Admittance he dieth, or the Years or Interest determine, though the next Lord comes in above the Lease for Life or Years, or other particular Interest, yet shall he be compelled to make Admittance according to the Surrender. Co. Litt. 59. But a Lord at Will, of a Copyhold Manor, cannot Licence a Copyhold Tenant to make a Lease for Years; though he may grant a Copyhold for Life, according to the Custom: If a Lord for Life, gives Licence to a Tenant to make a Lease for Years, this Lease shall continue no longer than the Life of the Lord. 2 Danv. Abr. 202. If he that is Dominus pro tempore of the Manor, admits one to a Copyhold, he dispenses with all precedent Forfeitures; not only as to himself, but also as to him in Reversion; for such Grant and Admittance amount to an Entry for the Forfeiture, and a new Grant; but a Lord by Tort cannot by such Admittance purge the Forfeiture as to the rightful Lord. 1 Lew. 26. Grants by Copy of Court-Roll by Infants, &c. will be binding: And if a Guardian in Socage grants a Copyhold in Reversion, according to the Custom of the Manor, this shall be a good Grant; for he is Dominus pro tempore. 2 Roll. Abr. 41. If Baron and Feme seised of a Manor in Right of the Feme grant a Copyhold, this shall bind the Feme notwithstanding her Coverture. 4 Rep. 23. An Executor may make Grants of Copyhold Estates, according to the Custom of the Manor, where a Devise is made that the Executor shall grant Copies for Payment of Debts. 2 Danv. 178. A Manor may be held by Copy of Court-Roll, and the Lord of such Manor grant Copies; and such customary Manor may pass by Surrender and Admittance, &c. A customary Manor may be holden of another Manor, and such customary Lord may grant Copies and hold Courts: But a Copyholder Lord of such a Manor cannot hold a Court Baron to have Forfeitures, and hold Pleas in a Writ of Right, &c. 1 Nels. Abr. 524. All Grants of Copyhold Estates are to be according to the Custom of the Manor; and Rents and Services customary must be reserved; for what Acts of the Lord in granting Copyholds are not confirmed by Custom, but only strengthened by the Power and Interest of the Lord, have no longer Duration than the Lord's Estate continueth. Comp. Court Keeper 421. If by the Custom, a Copyhold may be granted for three Lives, and the Lord grants it to one for Life, Remainder to such Woman as he shall marry, and to the first Son of his Body; both these Remainders are void: And a Remainder limited upon a void Estate in the Creation, will be likewise void. But if by Custom it is demisable in Fee, a Surrender may be to the Use of one for Life, Remainder in Tail, Remainder in Fee. 2 Danv. Abr. 203. Cro. Eliz. 373. It is held, where by the Custom of a Manor the Lord can grant a Copyhold for three Lives, he may grant it for an Estate coming within the Intent of the Custom; as to A. B. and his Assigns, To hold to him and his Assigns for the Lives of three others, and of the longer Liver of them successively, &c. 2 Ld. Raym. 994, 1000. The Lord of a Manor may himself grant a Copyhold Estate at any Place out of the Manor; but the Steward cannot grant a Copyhold at a Court held out of the Manor. 4 Rep. 26. Though the Steward may take Surrenders out of the Manor, as well as the Lord. 2 Danv. Abr. 181. A Steward is in Place of the Lord, and without a Command to the contrary may grant Lands by Copy, &c. But if a Lord command a Steward that he shall not grant such a Copy, if he grants it, it is void: And if the Steward diminishes the ancient Rents and Services, the Grant will be void. Cro. Eliz. 699. Things of Necessity done by a Steward, who is but in reputed Authority, are good if they come in by Presentment of the Jury; as the Admittance of an Heir upon Presentment, &c. Though Acts voluntary, as Grants of Copyholds, &c. are not good by such Stewards. Ibid. If an Under-Steward hold a Court without any Disturbance of the Lord of the Manor, though he hath no Patent nor Deputation to hold it, yet it is good; because the Tenants are not to examine what Authority he hath, nor is he bound to give them an Account of it. Moor 110. A Deputy Steward may authorize another to do a particular Act; but cannot make a Deputy to act in general. 1 Salk. 95. In Admittances, in Court upon voluntary Grants, the Lord is Proprietor; in Admittances upon Surrender, the Lord is not Proprietor of the Lands, but only a necessary Instrument of Conveyance; and in Admittances by Descent the Lord is a meer Inlittment, not being necessary to strengthen the Heir's Title, but only to give the Lord his Fine. 4 Rep. 21, 22. The Heir of a Copyholder may enter, and bring Trespass, before Admittance, being in by Descent; and he may surrender before Admittance: But he is not a complete Tenant to be sworn of the Homage, or to maintain a Plaint in the Lord's Court. And if the Heir do not come in and be admitted, on the Death of his Ancestor, where the same is presented and Proclamation made, he may forfeit his Estate. Cro. El. 90. 4 Rep. 22, 27. On Surrender of a Copyhold, the Surrenderor or Person making the same, continues Tenant till the Admittance of the Surrendree; and the Surrendree may not enter upon the Lands, or Surrender before Admittance, for he hath no Estate till then; though 'tis otherwise of the Heir by Descent, who is in by Course of Law, and the Custom casts the Possession upon him. Comp. Court-Keep. 436. A Surrender is not of any Effect until Admittance, and yet the Surrendree cannot be defrauded of the Benefit of the Surrender; for the Surrenderor cannot pass away the Land to any other, or make it subject to any other Incumbrances; and if the Lord refuse the Surrendree Admittance, he is compellable in Chancery. Comp. Cop. Sect. 39. A Grantee hath no Interest vested in him till he is admitted: But Admittance of a Copyholder for Life is an Admittance of him in Remainder, for they are but one Estate; and the Remainder Man may, after the Death of Tenant for Life, surrender without Admittance. 3 Lew. 308. Cro. El. 504. Every Admittance upon a Descent or Surrender may be pleaded as a Grant; and a Person may allege the Admittance of his Ancestor as a Grant; and shew the Descent to him, and that he entered, &c. But he cannot plead that his Father was seised in Fee, &c. and that he died seised, and the Land descended to him. 2 Danv. 208. Admittance on Surrender, must in all Respects agree with the Surrender; the Lord having only a customary Power to admit secundum formam & effectum sursumreditionis. 4 Rep. 26. If any are admitted otherwise, they shall be seised according to the Surrender: Yet where a voluntary Surrender is general, without saying to whose Use, a subsequent Admittance may explain it. 2 Danv. 187, 204. In voluntary Admittances, if the Lord admits any one contrary to Custom, it shall not bind his Heir or Successor. If a Copyholder surrender to the Use of another, and after the Lord having Knowledge of it, accepts the Rent of such other out of Court, this is an Admittance in Law: And any Act implying the Consent of the Lord to the Surrender, shall be adjudg'd a good Admittance. 1 Nels. Abr. 493. If the Steward accept a Fine of a Copyholder, it amounts to an Admittance. 2 Danv. 189. But delivering a Copy is no Admittance. Where a Widow's Estate is created by Custom, that shall be an Admittance in Law: And her Estate arising out of that of her Husband's, his Admittance is the Admittance of her. Hut. 18. And she who hath a Widow's Estate by the Custom of the Manor, upon the Death of her Husband, need not pay a Fine to the Lord for the Estate; for this is only a Branch of the Husband's. Hob. 181. When a Custom is, that the Wife of every Copyholder for Life shall have her Free-Bench, after the Death of the Baron, the Law casts the Estate upon the Wife, so that she shall have it before Admittance, &c. 2 Danv. 184. But if a Wife is entitled to her Free Bench by Custom, and a Copyholder in Fee surrenders to the Use of another, and then dies; it has been adjudged that the Surrendree should have the Land, and not the Wife; because the Wife's Title doth not commence till after the Death of her Husband; but the Plaintiff's Title begins by the Surrender, and the Admittance relates to that.

1 Inst. 59. 1 Salk. 185. The Widow's Title commenceth not by the Marriage; if it did, then the Husband could do nothing in his Life time to prejudice it: But 'tis plain he may Alien or Extinguish his Right, so as to bind the Estate of the Widow: The Free-Bench grows out of the Estate of the Husband; and 'tis his dying seised which gives the Widow a Title, and as the Husband has a defeasible Estate, so the Wife may have her Free-Bank defeated. 4 Mod. Rep. 452, 453. Admittances are never by Attorney, for the Tenant ought to do Fealty: Though Surrenders are oftentimes by Attorney. 2 Danv. 189. A Copyholder in Fee may Surrender in Court, by Letter of Attorney: But not out of Court, without a special Custom. 9 Rep. 75, 76. If one cannot come into Court to surrender in Person, the Lord may appoint a Special Steward to go to him, and take the Surrender. 1 Leon. 36. A Copyholder being in Ireland, the Steward of a Manor here, made a Commission to one to receive a Surrender from him there, and it was held good. 2 Danv. 181. The Intent of Surrenders is, that the Lord may not be a Stranger to his Tenant, and the Alteration of the Estate. As a Copyholder cannot transfer his Estate to a Stranger by any other Conveyance than Surrender; so if one would exchange a Copyhold with another, both must surrender to each other's Use, and the Lord admit accordingly: And if any Person would devise a Copyhold Estate, he cannot do it by his Will; but he must surrender to the Use of his last Will and Testament, and in his Will declare his Intent. Comp. Cop. Sect. 36, 39. Also where a Copyholder surrenders to the Use of his Will, the Lands do not pass by the Will, but by the Surrender; the Will being only declaratory of the Uses of the Surrender. 1 Bull. 200. But in Case of a Will, the Chancery will supply the Defect of a Surrender, in the Behalf of Children, if not to disinherit the eldest Son; and for the Benefit of Creditors, where a Copyhold Estate is charged by Will with the Payment of Debts, though there is no Surrender to those Uses, it will be good in Equity. 4 Rep. 25. 1 Salk. 187. 3 Salk. 84. Yet 'tis held, that Equity shall not supply the Want of such Surrender in Favour of a Grandchild; or Bastard, who is not considered as a Child; or a Wife against the Heir; nor in Behalf of Legatees: But where the Surrender is refused, a Will of a Copyhold may be sufficient without it. Abr. Caf. Eq. 122, 124. A Cestui que Trust may devise an Interest in Land, &c. without Surrender; and if Copyhold Lands are in Mortgage, the Mortgagor can dispose of the Equity of Redemption by Will, without any Surrender made; because he hath at that Time no Estate in the Land, whereof to make a Surrender. Preced. Canc. 320, 322. One Jointenant may surrender his Part in the Lands to the Use of his Will, &c. And where there are two Jointenants of a Copyhold in Fee, if one of them make a Surrender to the Use of his Will, and die, and the Devisee is admitted, the Surrender and Admittance shall bind the Survivor. 2 Cro. 100. A Surrender may not be to commence in futuro; as after the Death of the Surrenderor, &c. though Copyholds may be surrendered to the Use of a Man's Will. March 177. A Copyholder cannot surrender an Estate absolutely to another, and leave a particular Estate in himself: Though he may surrender to Uses, &c. A Copyholder surrendered to the Use of his Wife and younger Son, without mentioning what Estate; and adjudged that they had an Estate for Life. 4 Rep. 29. If a Man having bought a Copyhold to himself, his Wife and Daughter, and their Heirs, afterwards surrenders it to another and his Heirs, for securing a Sum of Money; after his Death, the Surrendree shall not be intitled to the Land, it being an Advancement for the Wife and Daughter. 2 Vern. 120. A Feme Covert may receive a Copyhold Estate, by Surrender from her Husband, because she comes not in immediately by him, but by the Admittance of the Lord according to the Surrender. 4 Rep. A Feme Covert is to be secretly examined by the Steward, on her surrendering her Estate. Co. Litt. 59. An Infant surrendered his Copyhold, and afterwards entered at full Age, and it was held lawful, though the Surrendree was admitted. Moor 597. By the general Custom of Copyhold Estates, Copyholders may surrender in Court, and need not alledge any particular Custom to warrant it: But where they surrender out of Court, into the Hands of the Lord by Customary Tenants, &c. Custom must be pleaded. 9 Rep. 75. 1 Roll. Abr. 500. And Surrenders out of Court are to be presented at the next Court; for it is not an effectual Surrender till presented in Court. Where a Copyholder in Fee surrenders out of Court, and dies before it is presented, yet the Surrender being presented at the next Court will stand good, and Cestui que Use shall be admitted: So if Cestui que Use dies before it is presented, his Heir shall be admitted. But if the Surrender be not presented at the next Court, it is void. Co. Litt. 62. 2 Danv. 188. If the Tenants by whose Hands the Surrender was made shall die, and this upon Proof is presented in Court, it is well enough. 4 Rep. 29. Tenants refusing to make Presentment, are compellable in the Lord's Court. And by Surrender of Copyhold Lands to the Use of a Mortgagee, the Lands are bound in Equity, though the Surrender be not presented at the next Court. 2 Salk. 449. When a Copyholder surrenders upon Condition, and this is presented absolutely, the Presentment is void: But where a conditional Surrender is presented, and the Steward omits entering the Condition, on Proof thereof the Condition shall not be avoided; but the Rolls shall be amended. 4 Rep. 25. A Copyholder may surrender to the Use of another, reserving Rent with a Condition of Re entry for Non-payment, and in Default of Payment may re enter. Ibid. 21. If a Copyholder of Inheritance, takes a Lease for Years of his Copyhold Estate, it is a Surrender in Law of his Copyhold. Where there is a Tenant for Life, and Remainder in Fee, he in Remainder may surrender his Estate, if there be no Custom to the contrary. 3 Leon. 329. If a Surrender is made with Remainders over, Case lies for him in Remainder against a Copyholder for Life, who commits Waste, &c. 3 Lev. 128. A Surrendree of a Reversion of a Copyhold, is an Assignee within the Equity of the Stat. 32 H. 8. to bring Action of Debt or Covenant against a Lessee, &c. 1 Salk. 185. A Copyholder in Fee surrenders to the Use of one for Life, with Remainder to another for Life, Remainder to another in Fee; as the particular Estates and Remainders make but one Estate, there is but one Fine due to the Lord. 2 Danv. 191. Fines are paid to the Lord on Admittances; and may be due on every Change of the Estate by Lord or Tenant: In Case of a Surrender, the Lord may make what Fine he pleases; but Fines are to be reasonable; They are either certain, by Custom, or uncertain; a Fine certain is to be paid presently; but if, it be uncertain, the Copyholder is to have Notice, and Time to pay it. The Lord may have an Action of Debt for his Fine; or may distrain by Custom. 4 Rep. 27. 13 Rep. 2. A Heriot is a Duty to the Lord, rendered at the Death of the Tenant, or on a Surrender and Alienation of an Estate; and is the best Beast or Goods, found in the Possession of the Tenant deceased, or otherwise, according to Custom. And for Heriots, Reliefs, &c. the Lord may distrain, or bring Action of Debt. Plowd. 96. Relief is a Sum of Money which every Copyholder in Fee, or Freeholder of a Manor pays to the Lord, on the Death of his Ancestor; and is generally a Year's Profits of his Land. Services signify any Duty whatsoever accruing unto the Lord from Tenants; and are not only annual, and accidental; accidental; but corporal, as Homage, Fealty, &c. Comp. Court Keep. 7, 8, 9, &c.

Copyholds escheat, and are forfeited in many Cases; Escheat of a Copyhold Estate, is either where the Lands fall into the Hands of the Lord, for Want of an Heir to inherit them; or where the Copyholder commits Felony, &c. But before the Lord can enter on an Estate escheated, the Homage Jury ought to present it. Forfeitures proceeding from Treasons, Felonies, Alienation by Deed, &c. a Presentment of them must be also made in Court, that the Lord may have Notice of them. A Copyholder refusing to do Suit of Court, being sufficiently warned, is a Forfeiture of his Estate; unless he be prevented by Sickness, Inundations of Water, &c. If the Lord demandeth his Rent, and the Copyholder being present denies to pay it at the Time required, this is a Forfeiture; but if the Tenant be not upon the Ground when demanded, the Lord must continue his Demand upon the Land, so that by a continual Denial in Law, it may amount to a Denial in Fact: Though it is said there must be a Demand from the Person of the Copyholder, and a wilful Denial, to make a Forfeiture. A Copyholder not performing the Services due to his Lord; or if he sue a Replevin against the Lord, upon the Lord's lawful Distress for his Rent or Services, these are Forfeitures. If the Lord upon Admittance of a Copyholder, the Fine by the Custom of the Manor being certain, demandeth his Fine, and the Copyholder denieth to pay it upon Demand, this is a Forfeiture. Upon the Descent of any Copyhold of Inheritance, the Heir by the general Custom is tied, upon three solemn Proclamations, made at three several Courts, to come in and be admitted to his Copyhold; or if he faileth therein, this Failure worketh a Forfeiture; but if an Infant come not in to be admitted at three Proclamations, it is no Forfeiture: So of one beyond Sea, &c. An Idiot, Lunatick, &c. though able to take Copyholds, yet they are unable to forfeit them: And in Respect to others, Forfeitures may be mitigated by Custom, and the Copyholder only amerced. By Stat. 9 Geo. 1. c. 29. On Default of Infants, and Feme Coverts appearing to be admitted Tenants to Copyhold Lands, the Lord or his Steward may name a Person to be Guardian or Attorney for them, and by such Guardian, &c. admit them: And if the usual Fine thereon be not paid in three Months, being demanded in Writing, the Lord may enter on the Copyhold, and receive the Rents, &c. till the Fine is paid with all Charges. And by this Statute, no Infant or Feme Covert shall forfeit any Copyhold Lands for their Neglect to come to Court to be admitted, or Refusal to pay any Fine. The general Custom of Copyholds allows a Copyholder to make a Lease for one Year of his Copyhold Estate, and no more, without incurring a Forfeiture: But a Copyholder may make a Lease for one Year, and covenant with the Lessee, that after the End of that Year, he shall have the same for another Year, and so de anno in annum during the Space of seven Years, &c. and be no Forfeiture. Cro. Jac. 300. Though a Copyholder may not make a Lease to hold for one Year, and so from Year to Year during his Life, excepting one Day yearly, &c. which will be a Forfeiture, being a mere Evasion. A Woman who was a Copyholder in Fee married, her Husband made a Lease for Years, not warranted by the Custom, which was a Forfeiture; the Husband died; and adjudged that the Lord shall not take Advantage of this Forfeiture after his Death, but the Wife shall enjoy the Estate. Cro. Car. 7. Livery upon any Conveyance of a Copyhold Estate amounts to a Forfeiture. And yet if a Copyholder for Life surrender to another in Fee, this is no Forfeiture; for it passeth by Surrender to the Lord, and not by Livery. If Copyholder for Life cuts down Timber-Trees, it is a Forfeiture of his Copyhold: Though such Copyholder may take House-boot, Hedge-boot, and Plough-boot, upon his Copyhold, of common Right, as a Thing incident to the Grant; if he be not restrained by Custom, to take them by the Assignment of the Lord or his Bailiff. Where a Copyholder for Life sells Timber-Trees, the Lord may take them, and the Estate is forfeited: But if Under-Lessee for Years of a Copyholder cut down Timber, this shall not be a Forfeiture of the Copyhold Estate, but the Lord is put to his Action of the Case against the Lessee. 1 Bull. 150. Style 233. A Copyhold granted to two for their Lives successively, where the Custom of the Manor is, that they shall not fell Trees; if the first Copyholder for Life cut down Trees, &c. 'tis not only a Forfeiture of his own Estate for Life, but of him in Remainder. Moor 49. In other Cases, a Copyholder for Life committing Waste, shall not forfeit the Estate of him in Remainder. Cro. Eliz. 880. If Copyholder for Life, where the Remainder is over for Life, commits a Forfeiture by Waste, &c. he in Remainder shall not enter, but the Lord. 2 Danv. 198. A Copyholder committing Waste voluntary, or permissive, this is a Forfeiture: Voluntary, as if he pluck down any House, though built by himself; lop Trees, and sell them, plough up Meadow, whereby the Ground is made worse, &c. Permissive, if he suffer the Roof of the House to let in Rain, or the House to fall; or if he permit his Meadow Ground to be surrounded with Water, so that it becomes marshy, or his arable Land to be thus surrounded and become unprofitable, &c. these and the like are Forfeitures. See 2 Danv. Abr. 192, 193, 196, &c. 1 Nelf. Abr. 509, 510, &c. If a Feme Copyholder for Life takes Husband, who commits Waste, and dies, the Estate of the Feme is forfeited: Though not if a Stranger commit the Waste, without the Assent of the Husband. 4 Rep. 37. Most Forfeitures are caused by Acts contrary to the Tenure: But a succeeding Lord of a Manor, shall not have any Advantage of a Forfeiture, by Waste done by a Copyholder in the Time of his Predecessor. 2 Sid. 8. And if a present Lord doth any Thing whereby he acknowledges the Person to be his Tenant after Forfeiture, this Acknowledgment is a Confirmation of his Estate. Coke's Cop. 61. The Court of Chancery will not relieve a Copyhold Tenant, against a voluntary Forfeiture, on committing Waste, &c. But it doth for permissive Waste; and when the Estate is forfeited for Non payment of Rent, a Fine, or such Things, where a Value may be set on them, and Compensation made the Lord on any Laches of Time, the Tenant may be relieved; for there the Land is but in Nature of a Security for those Sums. Preced. Canc. 569, 572. In Case of making a Lease for Years, without Licence, and not warranted by Custom, found to be a Forfeiture at Law, Equity has nothing to do with it, to give any Remedy; it is like to a Feoffment made, or Fine levied by particular Tenants, against which there can be no Relief. Ibid. 574. Where Copyhold Lands are purchased in Fee, in Trust for an Alien, the Lands are not seizable by the King; nor is the Trust forfeited to him; for if the Lands were forfeited as purchased for such Alien, then the Lord of the Manor would lose his Fines and Services, &c. Hard. 436. Copyhold Estates of poor Prisoners, assigned to Creditors, and Assignees admitted by the Lord, on paying the usual Fine due on a Surrender, &c. See Stat. 10 Geo. 2. c. 26. See my Com. Court-Keeper, 3d Edit. throughout, and Nelson's Lex Manerior, 2d Edit.

Coraage, (Coraagium) Is a Kind of extraordinary Imposition, growing upon some unusual Occasion, and seems to be of certain Measures of Corn: For Corus tritici is a Measure of Wheat. BraE. lib. 2. c. 116. Numb. 6. Who in the same Chapter Numb. 8. hath these Words.—Sunt etiam quedam communes Præstationes, quæ servitia non dicuntur, nec de Consuetudine veniunt, nisi cum necessitas intervenerit, vel cum Rex venerit: sicut sunt Hidagia, Coraagia & Carvagia, &c.

Cozacle, A small Boat used by Fishermen on some Parts of the River Severn, made of an oval Form, of split Sally Twigs interwoven, and on that Part next the Water covered with Leather, in which one Man being seated in the Middle, will row himself swiftly with one Hand, while with the other he manages his Net or Fish-Tackle: and coming off the Water, he will take the light Vessel on his Back, and carry it home. This Boat is of the same Nature of the Indian Canoos; though not of the same Form, or imployed to the like Use.

Cozam non Judice, Is when a Cause is brought and determined in a Court whereof the Judges have not any Jurisdiction; then it is said to be Coram non Judice, and void. 2 Cro. 351.

Cozbel Stones, Are Stones wherein Images stand: The old English Corbel, was properly a Nich in the Wall of a Church, or other Structure, in which an Image was placed for Ornament or Superstition; and the Corbel Stones were the smooth polished Stones, laid for the Front and Outside of the Corbels or Niches. These Niches remain on the Outside of very many Churches and Steeples in England, though the little Statues and Reliques are moit of them broken down. Paroch. Antiq. 575.

Cozd of Wood, Is a Quantity of Wood eight Foot long, four Foot broad, and four Foot high, ordained by Statute.

Cozdage, (Fr.) Is a general Appellation for all Stuff to make Ropes, and for all Kind of Ropes belonging to the Rigging of a Ship: It is mentioned in 15 Car. 2. c. 13.

Cozdiner, From the Fr. Cordouannier, a Shoemaker; we call him vulgarly a Cordwainer; and so this Word is used in divers Statutes, as 3 H. 8. c. 10. 5 H. 8. c. 7. 27 H. 8. c. 14. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 3. 1 Jac. 1. c. 22, &c. By which last Statute the Masters and Wardens of the Cordwainers Company in London, &c. are to appoint Searchers and Triers of Leather; and Leather is not to be sold before searched and sealed, &c.

Cozdubanarius, Also signifies a Shoe-maker. Cowel.

Cozetes, From the Brit. Cored, Pools, Ponds, &c.

— Et cum suis Piscibus Et Coretibz anguillarum Et cum toto Territorio suo. Du Fresne.

Cozium forisfacere, Was where a Person was condemned to be whipped; which was anciently the Punishment of a Servant. Si quis Corium suum forisfaciat Et ad Ecclesiam incurrat, fit ei verberatio condonata. Corium perdere, the same: And Corium redimere is to compound for a Whipping.

Cozn, No Corn was formerly to be Transported, without the King's License; except for the Victualing of Ships, and in some special Cases; from some Ports only: And none may buy Corn to sell again, without Licence from Justices, &c. Stat. 5 El. c. 12. But now Corn, as Wheat, Barley, Oats, &c. may be transported to States in Amity when they exceed not such and such Prices, viz. Wheat 48s. the Quarter, Barley 24s. Oats 16s. &c. by many Statutes; and the Exporters of it shall pay no Duty or Custom, but be intitled to Bounty-Money or a certain Allowance for Exportation, viz. 5s. for every Quarter of Wheat, 2s. 6d. for Barley, &c. 3 Car. 1. 12. 15 & 22 Car. 2. 2 W. & M. &c. The Transportation of Corn to foreign Parts, was prohibited by 8 Ann. c. 2. See 2 Geo. 2. cap. 18. A Custom Duty is granted on foreign Corn imported; to be paid according to the Price of English Corn, and no foreign Corn shall be transported from one Port of Great Britain to another, on Pain of Forfeiture, and 20s. a Bushel. Stat. 5 Geo. 2. cap. 12. If any Person use Violence on another Person to hinder him from buying, or carrying Corn to any Sea-port Town to be transported, &c. he shall be imprisoned by two Justices, not exceeding three Months, and be publickly whipped, &c. and committing a second Offence, or destroying Granaries, or Corn in any Boat or Vessel, to be adjudged a Felon, and transported for seven Years: And the Hundred to make good the Damage, if not above 100*l.* as in Cases of Robbery; where any Offender is not apprehended and convicted within twelve Months, but Notice must be given to the Constable in two Days, &c. by 11 Geo. 2. c. 22. This Statute is of little Use; for no Sort of Corn, Meal, Flour, Bread Biscuit, Beef, &c. may now be exported, on Pain of forfeiting 20*s.* for every Bushel of Grain, and 12*d.* every Pound Weight of Bread, &c. But his Majesty before a certain Time may permit the Exportation of Corn by Proclamation, and Notice in the Gazette. Stat. 14 Geo. 2. c. 3.

Coznage, (Cornagium, from the Lat. Cornu) a Horn, Was a Kind of Tenure in Grand Serjeanty; the Service of which was to blow a Horn when any Invasion of the Sots was perceived: And by this Tenure many Persons held their Lands Northward, about the Wall commonly called the Picts Wall. Camd. Britan. 609. This old Service of Horn-blowing was afterwards paid in Money, and the Sheriffs accounted for it under the Title of Cornagium.—Memorandum quod cum vicecomes Cambrix sederet compotum ad Saccarium apud Salop, idem vicecomes fecit Tallagium sub nomine suo lx. lib. tam de Cornagio, quam de aliis debitis. Mem. in Scacc. 6 Ed. 1. Sir Edward Coke in his first Institute, pag. 107. says Coznage is also called in the old Books Horngeld; but they seem to differ much. See Horngeld.

Coznare, To blow in the Horn.—Faciat Cornare ne videatur furtive facere. Mat. Paris. pag. 181.

Coznwall, A Royal Dutchy belonging to the Prince of Wales, abounding with Mines, and having Stannary Courts, &c. It yields a great Revenue to the Prince; and how Leases are to be made of Lands in the Dutchy of Cornwall, for three Lives, or thirty-one Years, under the ancient Rents, &c. See Stat. 13 Car. 2. c. 4. and 12 Ann. c. 22.

Cozody, (Corodium) Signifies a Sum of Money or Allowance of Meat, Drink, and Cloathing due to the King from an Abbey, or other Houe of Religion, whereof he was Founder, towards the Sustainment of such a one of his Servants as he thought fit to bestow it upon. The Difference between a Cozody and Pension seems to be, that a Cozody was allowed towards the Maintenance of any of the King's Servants in an Abbey: A Pension is given to one of the Kings's Chaplains, for his better Maintenance, till he may be provided of a Benefice: And of both these you may read Fitz. Nat. Br. fol. 250. where are set down all the Corodies and Pensions that our Abbies, when they were standing, were obliged to pay to the King. Cozody is ancient in our Laws: And it is mentioned in Staundf. Prærog. 44. And by the Stat. of Westm. 2. c. 25. it is ordained, that an Assise shall lie for a Cozody. It is also apparent by 34 & 35 H. 8. cap. 26. that Corodies belonged sometimes to Bishops, and Noblemen, from Monasteries: And in the New Terms of Law, it is said that a Cozody may be due to a common Person, by Grant from one to another; or of common Right to him that is a Founder of a Religious Houe, not holden in Frank Almoine; for that Tenure was a Discharge of all Corodies in itself: By this Book it likewise appears, that a Cozody is either certain or uncertain, and may be not only for Life or Years, but in Fee. Terms de Ley 182. 2 Inst. 630. In the Monasticon Anglicanum, there is recorded the following Grant of a Cozody.

Form of a Grant of a Cozody.

Corodio Habendo, A Writ to exact a Corody of an Abbey or Religious House. Reg. Orig. 264.

Corona Mala, or Mala Corona, The Clergy who abused their Character, were formerly so called. Blount.

Coronare Filium, To make one's Son a Priest. Anciently, Lords of Manors, whose Tenants held by Villinage, did prohibit them Coronare Filios, lest such Lords should lose a Villein by their entering into Holy Orders: For Ordination changed their Condition, and gave them Liberty, to the Prejudice of the Lord, who could before claim them as his Natives or born Servants.—Homo Coronatus was one who had received the first Tonsure, as preparatory to superior Orders; and the Tonsure was in Form of a Corona, or Crown of Thorns. Cowel.

Coronatoze Eligendo, Is a Writ which lies on the Death or Discharge of any Coroner, directed to the Sheriff out of the Chancery, to call together the Freeholders of the County, for the Choice of a new Coroner; and to certify into the Chancery both the Election, and the Name of the Party elected, and also to give him his Oath, &c. Reg. Orig. 177. F. N. B. 163. There are usually four Coroners in a County, in some Counties fewer, and in some but one, according as the Usage is; and if any of them dieth, or is discharged, then shall issue this Writ; which is in this Form: The King to the Sheriff, &c. Because A. B. late one of our Coroners in your County is dead, as we have understood; We command you, that if so it be, then in your full County-Court by the Assent of the same County, in the Place of the said A. B. you cause to be chosen another Coroner, according to the Form of the Statute thereof set forth and provided, who having taken his Oath, as the Manner is, shall thence forward those Things do and keep, which to the Office of the Coroner, belongeth in the same County; and such Person cause to be chosen, who best shall know, and may that Office attend, and his Name make known to us, Witness, &c.

Coronatoze exonerando, Is a Writ for the Discharge of a Coroner, for Negligence, or Insufficiency in the Discharge of his Duty: And where Coroners are so far engaged in any other publick Business, that they cannot attend the Office; or if they are disabled by old Age or Disease, to execute it; or have not sufficient Lands, &c. they may be discharged by this Writ. 2 Inst. 32. 2 Hawk. P. C. 44. But if any such Writ be grounded on an untrue Suggestion, the Coroner may procure a Commission from the Chancery to inquire thereof; and if the Suggestion be disproved, the King may make a Superſedeas to the Sheriff, that he do not remove the Coroner; or if he have removed him, that he suffer him to execute the Office. Reg. Orig. 177, 178. F. N. B. 164.

Coroner, (Coronator, a Corona) Is an ancient Officer of this Realm. Mention being made of him in King Atbelstan's Charter to Beverly, Anno 925. and is so called, because he deals wholly for the King and Crown. This Officer by the Statute of Westm. c. 10. ought to be a sufficient Person, that is the wisest and discreetest Knight, that best would and might attend upon such an Office: And there is a Writ in the Register, Nisi sit Miles, &c. whereby it appears it was good Cause to remove a Coroner chosen, if he were not a Knight, and had not an hundred Shillings Rent of Freehold. Coroners are to be Men of good Ability, and have Lands in Fee in the County where chosen, to answer all People: And if insufficient, the County shall answer for them. 2 Inst. 174. The Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, is the Sovereign Coroner of the whole Kingdom in Person wheresoever he is. 4 Rep. 57. There are also special Coroners, within divers Liberties, as well as the ordinary Officers in every County; as the Coroner of the Verge, which is a certain Compass about the King's Court; who is likewise called Coroner of the King's House. Crompt. Jurisd. 102. And some Corporations and Colleges are licensed by Charter to appoint their Coroners within their own Precincts. 4 Inst. 271. And for what arises on the High Sea, we read of Coroners appointed by the King or his Admiral. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 53. The Office of Coroners especially concerns the Pleas of the Crown; and they are Conservators of the Peace in the County where generally elected. Their Authority is Judicial and Ministerial; Judicial, where one comes to a violent Death, and to take and enter Appeals of Murder, pronounce Judgment upon Outlawries, &c. And to inquire of Lands and Goods, and Escapes of Murderers, Treasure Trove, Wreck of the Sea, Deodands, &c. The Ministerial Power is where Coroners execute the King's Writs, on Exception to the Sheriff, as being Party to a Suit, Kin to either of the Parties, on Default of the Sheriff, &c. 4 Inst. 271. 1 Plowd. 73. And the Authority of Coroners does not determine by the Demise of the King; as that of Judges, &c. doth, who act by the King's Commission. 2 Inst. 174. Where Coroners are empowered to act as Judges, as in taking an Inquisition of Death, or receiving an Appeal of Felony, &c. The Act of one of them, is of the same Force as if they had all joined; but after one of them has proceeded to act, the Act of another of them will be void: And where they are authorized to act only ministerially, in the Execution of a Process directed to them upon the Incapacity of the Sheriff, their Acts are void if they do not all join. 2 Hawk. P. C. 52. Hib. 70. So that Coroners as Ministers must all join; but as Judges, they may divide. But two Coroners ought to be Judges in Redisseisin; and though one serves to pronounce an Outlawry, the Entry ought to be in the Name of all of them: And so of all Processes directed to the Coroners. Staudf. 53. Jenk. Cent. 85. If the Sheriff is either Plaintiff or Defendant, or one of the Cognisees, the Writ must be directed to the Coroner. Cro. Car. 300. But the Coroner is not the Officer of B. R. but where the Sheriff is improper; not where there is no Sheriff; for if the Sheriff die, the Coroner cannot execute a Writ. In Case of two Coroners, if one is challenged, the other may execute the Writ, &c. yet both make but one Officer: It is the same of two Sheriffs of a City, &c. 1 Salk. 144. A Venire facias shall go to the Coroner, where the Sheriff is a Party, or the Defendant is Servant to the Sheriff, &c. but it ought to be on principal Challenge to the Favour. Moor 470. On Defaults of Sheriffs, Coroners are to impanel Juries, and return Issues on Juries not appearing, &c. 2 H. 5. cap. 8. As the Sheriff in his Turn might inquire of all Felonies by the Common Law, saving the Death of a Man; so the Coroner can inquire of no Felony but of the Death of a Person, and that super visum Corporis. 4 Inst. 271. By Magna Charta, cap. 17. no Sheriff, &c. or Coroner, shall hold Pleas of the Crown: But by Stat. Westm. 1. 3 Ed. 1. c. 10. it is enacted, that Coroners shall lawfully attach and present Pleas of the Crown; and that Sheriffs shall have Counter-Rolls with the Coroners, as well of Appeals, as of Inquests, &c. Coroners before the Stat. Magn. Chart. might not only receive Accusations against Offenders, but might try them: But since that Statute, they cannot proceed so far; and Appeals before them, are are removeable into B. R. &c. by Certiorari, directed to the Coroners and Sheriff, &c. Though Proceſs may be awarded by the Sheriff and Coroner, or the Coroner only, in the County-Court on Appeals, till the Exigent, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 51. By the Statute de Officio Coronatoris, 4 Ed. 1. The Coroner is to go to the Place where any Perſon is ſlain or ſuddenly dead, and ſhall by his Warrant to the Bailiffs, Conſtables, &c. ſummon a Jury out of the four or five neighbouring Towns, to make Inquiry upon View of the Body; and the Coroner and Jury are to inquire into the Manner of Killing, and all Circumſtances that occasioned the Party's Death, who were preſent, whether the dead Perſon were known, where he lay the Night before, &c. Examine the Body if there be any Signs of Strangling about the Neck, or of Cords about the Members, &c. Alſo all Wounds ought to be viewed, and Enquiry made with what Weapons, &c. And the Coroner may ſend his Warrant for Witneſſes, and take their Examination in Writing; and if any appear guilty of the Murder, he ſhall inquire what Goods and Lands he hath, and then the dead Body is to be buried. A Coroner may likewiſe commit the Perſon to Priſon who is by his Inquiſition found Guilty of the Murder; and the Witneſſes are to be bound by Recogniſance to appear at the next Aſſiſes, &c. When the Jury have brought in their Verdict, the Coroner is to inrol and return the Inquiſition, whether it be brought in Murder, Manſlaughter, &c. to the Juſtices of the next Gaol-delivery of the County, or certify it into B. R. where the Murderers ſhall be proceeded againſt. 2 Rol. Abr. 32. Upon an Inquiſition taken before the Coroner, he muſt put into Writing the Effect of the Evidence given to the Jury before him; and bind them to appear, &c. which is to be certified to the Court with the Inquiſition; and neglecting it ſhall be fined. 1 Ed. 2 P. & M. cap. 13. 1 Lill. Abr. 327. The Word Murdravit is not neceſſary in a Coroner's Inquiſition; though 'tis in an Indiſtment for killing another Perſon. 1 Salk. 377. It is not neceſſary that the Inquiſition be taken in the Place where the Body was viewed. 2 Hawk. 48. But a Coroner has no Authority to take an Inquiſition of Death without a View of the Body; and if the Inqueſt be taken by him without ſuch View, it is void. 2 Lev. 140. The Coroner may in convenient Time take up a dead Body that hath been buried, in Order to view it; but if it be buried ſo long that he can diſcover nothing from the Viewing it; or if there be Danger of Infection, the Inqueſt ought not to be taken by the Coroner, but by Juſtices of Peace, by the Teſtimony of Witneſſes; for none can take it on View, but the Coroner. Bro. Coron. 167, 173. If the Body is buried, the Town ſhall be amerced; as it ſhall be if the Body is ſuffered to lie ſo long that it ſtinks. 2 Danv. Abr. 209, &c. Where the Body hath lain for ſome Time, that it cannot be judged how it came by its Death, that muſt be recorded, that at the Coming of the Juſtices of Aſſiſe, the Town where, &c. may be amerced on Sight of the Coroner's Rolls. A Coroner may find any Nuſance by which the Death of a Man happens; and the Townſhip ſhall be amerced on ſuch Finding. 1 Nelf. Abr. 536. If one is ſlain in the Day, and the Murderer eſcapes, the Town where done ſhall be amerced, and the Coroner is to inquire thereof on View of the Body. 3 Hen. 7. c. 1. A Coroner may take an Indiſtment upon View of the Body; as alſo an Appeal, within a Year after the Death of one ſlain. Wood's Inſt. 491. But a Coroner super viſum Corporis, cannot make an Inquiſition of an Accellary after the Murder; though he may of Accellaries before the Fact. Moor 29. Coroners ought to ſit and inquire on the Body of every Priſoner that dies in Priſon: They have no Jurisdiction within the Verge of the King's Courts; nor of Offences committed at Sea, or between high and low Water Mark, when the Tide is in; though they have in Arms and Creeks of the Sea. 3 Inſt. 134. If a Body is drowned, and cannot be found to be viewed, the Inquiſition muſt be taken by Juſtices of Peace, on the Examination of Witneſſes, &c. 5 Rep. 110. Where a Coroner's Inqueſt is quaſhed, he muſt make a new one super viſum Corporis: And a Coroner may attend and amend his Inquiſition in Matters of Form: But if he miſbehaves himſelf, and a Melius Inquirendum is granted upon it, that Inquiſition muſt be taken by the Sheriffs or Commiſſioners, upon Affidavits, and not super viſum Corporis; becauſe none but a Coroner can take Inquiſition super viſum, &c. and he is not to be truſted again. 1 Salk. 190. 2 Danv. Abr. 210. If a Coroner hath been Guilty of any corrupt Practice, Bribery, &c. in taking the Inquiſition, a Melius Inquirendum may be awarded for taking a new one by ſpecial Commiſſioners, &c. Coroners concealing Felonies, &c. are to be fined, and ſuffer one Year's Imprifonment. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 9. Alſo for Miſmanagement in the Coroner, Filing the Inquiſition may be ſtopped. 1 Mod. 82. A Coroner's Inquiſition is not traverſable: If it be found before the Coroner super viſum Corporis, that one was Felo de ſe, the Executors or Adminiſtrators of the Deceased, it is ſaid, cannot traverſe it. 3 Inſt. 55. But it has been held that the Inqueſt being moved into B. R. by Certiorari, may be there traverſed by the Executor or Adminiſtrator of the Deceased. 2 Hawk. 54. And it hath been adjudged, that the Inquiſition of Felo de ſe is traverſable; though Fugam fecit is not. 2 Leo. 152. A Coroner's Inquiſition being final, the Coroner ought to hear Counſel, and Evidence on both Sides. 2 Sid. 90, 101. The Coroner muſt admit Evidence, as well againſt the King's Intereſt as for it; but it hath been held, that if a Perſon be killed by another, and it is certainly known that he did it, the Coroner's Jury are to hear the Evidence only for the King: And inquire whether the Killing were by Malice, or without Malice, &c. Per Hale C. J. Where a Coroner would not admit of Evidence againſt the King, to prove a Felo de ſe to be Non compos Mentis, his Inquiſition was ſet aſide; and a new Inquiſition taken, whereby it was found that the Party was Non compos. 2 Hale's Hiſt. P. C. 60. If there be an Inquiſition of Manſlaughter or Murder, and alſo an Indiſtment by the Grand Jury againſt one, and he is arraigned, and found Not Guilty on the Indiſtment; here it is neceſſary to quaſh the Coroner's Inquiſition, or to arraign the Party upon it, and acquit him on that alſo: For otherwiſe it ſtands as a Record againſt him, whereon he may poſſibly be outlawed. 2 Hale 65. And where a Perſon found Guilty by the Coroner's Inqueſt, pleads, and is acquitted by the Petit Jury; they muſt give in who it was that killed the Man, which ſerves as an Indiſtment againſt that other Perſon, and if they cannot tell who, they may mention ſome fictitious Name. Ibid. By the Stat. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 10. Coroners ſhall demand or take nothing for doing their Offices: And by the ancient Law of England, none having any Office concerning the Adminiſtration of Juſtice, could take any Fee for doing his Office; and therefore this Statute was only in Affirmance of the Common Law. By 3 Hen. 7. cap. 1. upon an Inquiſition taken on View of the Body, the Coroner ſhall have 13s. 4d. Fee of the Goods of the Murderer; and if he be gone, out of the Amercement of the Town for the Eſcape. Though the 1 H. 8. c. 7. enacts that where a Perſon is ſlain by Miſadventure, the Coroner is to take no Fee, on Pain of 40s. Juſtices of Aſſiſe and of Peace have Power to enquire of and puniſh Extortions of Coroners, and alſo their Defaults. Stat. Ibid.

(then and there lying dead) being feloniously murdered at M. aforesaid, upon the Oath of honest and lawful Men of the said Town of M. and three others of the next Towns, that is to say, &c. (naming three other Places) as the Custom is, to inquire after what Manner, and by what Means the said C. D. came to his Death, on the Oaths of G. H. J. K. L. M. &c. (the Jury) who say upon their Oath, that the said C. D. on the Day, Year, and Place above-mentioned, about Ten of the Clock in the Forenoon on the said Thursday, was in the Peace of God and our said Sovereign Lord the now King, at M. aforesaid, and then and there came A. B. late of, &c. Yeoman, and feloniously and as a Felon of our said Lord the King, and of his Malice forethought, on the Day, Year, Hour, and Place above-mentioned, did make an Assault upon the said C. D. in the said County, and strike the said C. D. with a certain Sword (of the Price of two Shillings, which the said A. B. then and there held in his Right Hand) upon the Right Part of his Breast, and gave the said C. D. one mortal Wound, of which said Wound the said C. D. immediately died; and so the said A. B. then and there feloniously killed and murdered the said C. D. against the Peace of our said Lord the King, his Crown and Dignity. And the said Jurors farther say, upon their Oath aforesaid, that N. B. of, &c. aforesaid was feloniously present with a drawn Sword, at the Time of the said Felony and Murder committed in Form aforesaid, that is to say, on the said Day, &c. in the Year, &c. at M. in the said County, about Ten of the Clock in the Forenoon of the same Day, then and there comforting, abetting and aiding the said A. B. to do and commit the Felony and Murder aforesaid, against the Peace of our said Sovereign Lord the King, his Crown and Dignity. And moreover the Jurors aforesaid upon their Oath say, that the said A. B. and N. B. had not, nor had either of them, any Goods or Chattels, Lands or Tenements, to their Knowledge, within the said County, at the Time of the Felony and Murder committed as aforesaid. In Witness, &c.

Coroner of the King's Household, Hath an exempt Jurisdiction within the Verge, and the Coroner of the County cannot intermeddle within it; as the Coroner of the King's House may not intermeddle within the County out of the Verge. 2 Hawk. 45. If an Inquisition be found before the Coroner of the County, and the Coroner of the Verge, where the Homicide was committed in the County, and it is so entered and certified, it will be Error. 4 Rep. 45. But if a Murder be committed within the Verge, and the King removes before any Indictment taken by the Coroner of the King's Household; the Coroner of the County, and the Coroner of the King's House shall inquire of the same: And according to Sir Edw. Coke, the Coroner of the County might inquire thereof at the Common Law. 2 Hawk. 45. 2 Inst. 550. If the same Person be Coroner of the County, and also of the King's House, an Indictment of Death taken before him as Coroner, both of the King's House, and of the County, is good. 4 Rep. 46. 2 Inst. 134. By the Stat. 33 H. 8. 12. Par. 1 & 3. It is ordained, That all Inquisitions upon the View of Persons slain, within any of the King's Palaces or Houses, or any other House or Houses wherein his Majesty shall happen to be abiding in his Royal Person, shall be taken by the Coroner for the Time being of the King's Household, without any Assisting of another Coroner of any Shire within this Realm, by the Oaths of Twelve or more of the Yeomen Officers of the King's Household, returned by the two Clerks Controllers, the Clerks of the Cheek, and the Clerks Marshal, or one of them, of the said Household, to whom the said Coroner of the Household shall direct his Precept; and the said Coroner shall certify, under his Seal, and the Seals of such Persons as shall be sworn before him, all such Inquisitions before the Master or Lord Steward of the Household; who hath the Appointment of such Coroner, &c.

Coroner of London. By the Charter of King Ed. 4. the Mayor and Commonalty of London may grant the Office of Coroner to whom they please; and no other Coroner but he that belongs to the City, shall have any Power there: Also the Lord Mayor, &c. may chuse two Coroners in Southwark. When any one is killed, or comes to an untimely Death in London, the Coroner upon Notice shall attend where the Body is, and forthwith cause the Beadles of the Ward to summon a Jury to make the necessary Inquiry, how such Person came by his Death? And after Inquisition taken, he shall give a Certificate to the Churchwarden, Clerk or Sexton of the Parish, to the Intent the Corpse may be buried: The Coroner's Fees here formerly amounted to 25s. now to above double that Sum; unless the Friends of the Deceased are poor, and then he shall execute his Office for nothing. Cit. Lib. 46, 47. The Coroners in London and Middlesex, and in other Cities, &c. may bail Felons and Prisoners in such Manner as hath been heretofore accustomed. 1 & 2 P. & M. c. 13. sect. 6. 1 Lill. Abr. 327. What anciently belonged to Coroners, you may read at large in Bracton, lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 5, 6, 7 & 8. Britton, cap. 1. and Fleta, lib. 1. c. 18.

Corone, (Fr.) All Matters of the Crown, were heretofore reduced to this Law Head or Title; They are the Things that concern Treason, Felony, and divers other Offences, by the Common Law, and by Statute; of which some are greater, and others less, according to their Nature. Skep. Epit. 367.

Corporal Oath, And how it is administered. See Oath.

Corporation, (Corporatio) Is a Body Politick or Incorporate, so called, as the Persons are made into a Body, and of Capacity to take and grant, &c. Or it is an Assembly and joining together of many into one Fellowship and Brotherhood, whereof one is Head and Chief, and the Rest are the Body; and this Head and Body knit together, make the Corporation: Also it is constituted of several Members like unto the natural Body, and framed by Fiction of Law to endure in perpetual Succession. And of Corporations some are Sole, some Aggregate; Sole, when in one single Person, as the King, a Bishop, Dean, &c. Aggregate, which is the most usual consisting of many Persons, as Mayor and Commonalty, Dean and Chapter, &c. Likewise Corporations are Spiritual or Temporal; Spiritual, of Bishops, Deans, Archdeacons, Parsons, Vicars, &c. Temporal, of Mayors, Commonalty, Bailiffs and Burgeses, &c. and some Corporations are of a mixt Nature, composed of Spiritual and Temporal Persons, such as Heads of Colleges and Hospitals, &c. All Corporations are said to be Ecclesiastical, or Lay: And Bodies Politick or Incorporate may commence and be established three Manner of Ways, viz. by Prescription, by Letters Patent, or by Act of Parliament; but are most commonly by Patent or Charter. 1 Inst. 250. 3 Inst. 202. 3 Rep. 73. There may be a Corporation without a Head: But where there is a Head, all Acts ought to be by and to the Head; nor can they sue without such Head; and if he dies, nothing can be done in the Vacancy. 10 Rep. 30, 32. 1 Inst. 264. If Land be given to a Mayor and Commonalty for their Lives, they have an Estate by Intendment not determinable: So it is, if a Feoffment be made of Land to a Dean and Chapter, without Mention of Successors. In case of a sole Corporation, as Bishop, Dean, Parson, &c. no Chattel either in Action or Possession shall go in Succession; but the Executors or Administrators of the Bishop, Parson, &c. shall have them: But it is otherwise of a Corporation Aggregate, as a Dean and Chapter, Mayor and Commonalty, and the like; for they in Judgment of Law never die. And yet the Case of the Chamberlain of London differs from all these; his Successor may in his own Name have Execution of a Recognizance acknowledged to his Predecessor for Orphanage Money; and the Reason is,

is, because the Corporation of the Chamberlain is by Custom, which hath enabled the Successor to take and have such Recognizances, Obligations, &c. that are made to his predecessor. Terms de Ley 187, 188. Though a sole Corporation cannot generally take in Succession Goods and Chattels, &c. yet it may take a Fee-simple in Succession, by the Word Successors. 1 Inft. 8, 9, 46. Aggregate Corporations may take not only Goods and Chattels, but Lands in Fee simple, without the Word Successors, for the Reason afore mentioned. 4 Inft. 249. And Succession in a Body Politick, is as Inheritance in a Body private. If a Lease for Years be made to a Bishop and his Successors, 'tis said his Executors shall have it in antea droit; for regularly no Chattel can go in Succession in case of a sole Corporation, no more than if a Lease be made to a Man and his Heirs, it can go to his Heirs. 1 Inft. 46. In making Aggregate Corporations, there must be, 1. Lawful Authority. 2. Proper Persons to be incorporated. 3. A Name of Incorporation. 4. A Place, without which no Corporation can be made. 5. Words sufficient in Law to make a Corporation. 10 Rep. 29, 123. 3 Rep. 73. The Words Incorporo, Fundo, &c. are not of Necessity to be used in making Corporations; but other Words equivalent are sufficient: And of ancient Time, the Inhabitants of a Town were incorporated, when the King granted to them to have Guildam Mercatoriam. 2 Danv. Abr. 214. He that gave the first Possessions to the Corporation, is the Founder. The Parishioners or Townsmen of a Parish or Town; and Tenants of a Manor, are to some Purposes a Corporation. Co. Lit. 342, 95. If the King grants Lands to the Inhabitants of B. Hæredibus & Successoribus suis, rendering a Rent, for any Thing touching these Lands, this is a Corporation; though not to other Purposes: But if the King grants Lands Inhabitantibus de B. and they be not incorporated before, if no Rent be reserved to the King, the Grant is void. 2 Danv. 214. If the King grants Hominibus de Iffington to be discharged of Toll, this is a good Corporation to this Intent; but not to purchase, &c. And by special Words the King may make a limited Corporation, or a Corporation for a special Purpose. Ibid. London is a Corporation by Prescription; but though a Corporation may be by Prescription, it shall be intended that it did originally derive its Authority by Grant from the King; for the King is the Head of the Common-wealth, and all the Common-wealth, in Respect of him, is but as one Corporation; and all other Corporations are but Limbs of the greater Body. 1 Lill. Abr. 330. A Mayor and Commonalty or Corporation, cannot make another Corporation, or Commonalty. 1 Sid. 290. The City of London cannot make a Corporation, because that can only be created by the Crown; but London, or any other Corporation, may make a Fraternity. 1 Salk. 193. A Corporation is properly an investing the People of the Place with the local Government thereof, and therefore their Laws shall be binding to Strangers; but a Fraternity is some People of a Place united together in Respect of a Mystery and Business into a Company, and their Laws and Ordinances cannot bind Strangers, for they have not a local Power. Salk. Ibid. No Masters and Wardens, &c. of any Mystery, or other Corporation, shall make any By-Laws or Ordinances in Diminution of the King's Prerogative, or against the common Profit of the People; except the same be approved by the Lord Chancellor, or Chief Justices, &c. on Pain of 40 l. And such Bodies Corporate shall not make any Acts or Ordinances for the restraining Persons to sue in the King's Courts for Remedy, &c. under the like Penalty. Stat. 19 H. 7. cap. 7. Ordinances made by Corporations, to be observed on Pain of Imprisonment, or of Forfeiture of Goods, &c. are contrary to Magna Charta. 2 Inft. 47, 54. But Penalties may be inflicted by By-Laws, which may be recovered by Distress or Action of Debt: And a Custom for the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, to commit a Citizen for not accepting of the Livery, &c. was held a good Custom, being for the good Government of the City. 5 Mod. 320. Corporations may not, by Bond, or otherwise, restrain any Apprentice, &c. from keeping Shop in the Corporation under the Penalty of 40 l. Stat. 28 H. 8. c. 5. When a Corporation is duly created, all Incidents, as to Purchase and Grant, sue and be sued, &c. are tacitly annexed to it; and although no Power to make Laws is given by a special Clause to a Corporation, it is included by Law in the very Act of Incorporating. 1 Inft. 264. A new Charter doth not merge or extinguish any of the ancient Privileges of the old Charter. And if an ancient Corporation is incorporated by a new Name, yet their new Body shall enjoy all the Privileges that the old Corporation had. Raym. 439. 4 Rep. 37. There are usually granted in Charters to Corporations, divers Franchises, as Felons Goods, Waifs, Eltrays, Treasure Trove, Deodands, Courts, and Cognizance of Pleas, Fairs, Markets, Assise of Bread and Beer, &c. 4 Rep. 65. Actions arising in Corporations, may be tried in the Corporation Courts; but if they try Actions which arise not within their Jurisdictions, and encroach upon the Common Law, they shall be punished for it. Lutw. 1571, 1572. The Corporation of the City of London is to answer for all particular Misdemeanors, which are committed in any of the Courts of Justice within the City; and for all other general Misdemeanors committed within the City: So 'tis conceived of all other Corporations. 1 Lill. Abr. 329. If a common officer of a Town doth any Thing for their common Use, it is reasonable the Corporate Town shall be answerable for it. 1 Leon. 215. A Corporation may be dissolved, for it is created upon a Trust; and if that be broken 'tis forfeited. 4 Mod. 58. Corporations are dissolved by Forfeiture of their Charter, Misuser, &c. upon the Writ Quo Warranto brought; by Surrender, or by Act of Parliament: And if they neglect to choose Officers, or make false Elections, &c. it is a Forfeiture of the Corporation. 4 Rep. 77. But by Statute 11 Geo. 1. c. 4. no Corporation shall be dissolved, for any Default to chuse a Mayor, &c. but the Electors are still to proceed to Election; and if no Election be made, the Court of King's Bench shall issue a Mandamus requiring the Electors to choose such Mayor, &c. By 2 Ann. c. 20. where Persons intrude into the Office of Mayor, &c. of a Corporation, a Quo Warranto shall be brought against the Usurpers, who shall be ousted, and fined; And none are to execute an Office in a Corporation for more than a Year. No Persons shall bear Office in any Corporation, &c. but such as have received the Sacrament of the Church, and taken the Oaths. Stat. 13 Car. 2. c. 1. But see the Stat. 5 Geo. 1. c. 6. confirming Officers in Corporations. In Acts done by Corporations, the Consent of the major Part shall be binding, by 33 H. 8. cap. 27. Grants of Corporations are to be by Deed, under their common Seal, and are good without Delivery; for the common Seal gives Perfection to Corporation Deeds. Daw. 44. An Obligation sealed with the common Seal of a Corporation, if the Mayor signs it, he is suable if the Corporation be dissolved: But if two of the Members sign it, the particular Persons are not bound by it. 2 Lev. 137. Raym. 152. A Release of a Mayor for any Sum of Money due to the Corporation, made in his own Name, is not good in Law; the Corporation must join and do it by their common Seal. Terms de Ley. A Corporation which hath a Head, may make a personal Command without Writing; but a Corporation aggregate without a Head cannot. Lutw. 1497. A Corporation aggregate may employ any one in ordinary Services, without Deed; though not to appear for them, in any Act which concerns their Interest or Title. 1 Ventr. 47, 48. Such a Corporation may appoint a Bailiff to take a Distress, without Deed or Warrant. 1 Salk. 191. But cannot without Deed command a Bailiff to enter into Lands for a Condition broken; for such Command without Deed is void. Cro. 815. Though a Corporation cannot do any Act in pais without their common Seal, they may do an Act upon Record; and the Reason is, because they are estopped by the Record to say it is not their Act. 1 Salk. 192. A Promise to a Corporation is good without Deed. 2 Lev. 252. The Head of a Corporation aggregate may not be charged with the Act of his Predecessor if it be not by common Seal, or for such things as come to the Use of the whole Body or Society. 1 And. 23, 196. A Corporation may do an Act in that Capacity, to one of themselves in his natural Capacity; and any Member in his natural Capacity, may perform an Act to the Corporation in its politick Capacity; And so they may sue one another, in their distinct Capacities. 1 Skep. Abr. 436. Trespas for an Assault and Battery, &c. will not lie against a Corporation; but it must be brought against the Persons that do the Trespas by their proper Names: Though if the Beasts of the Corporation trespass on a Man in his Ground, Action of Trespas lies against them for this: Process of Outlawry will not lie against a Corporation; nor Capias or Exigent, but Distress. 22 Aff. 67. 39 E. 3. 13. 21 Ed. 4. A Corporation cannot sue, or appear in Person, but by Attorney: They cannot commit Treason or Felony, or be excommunicate, &c. They may not be Executors, or Administrators, be Jointnants, Trustees, &c. Nor shall the Members of a Corporation be regularly Witnesses for the Corporation. 10 Rep. 32. 11 Rep. 98. 1 Inst. 134. But they may be disfranchised, and then be Witnesses; though not surrender by Consent. Attachment doth not lie against a Corporation. Raym. 152. Corporations may have Power not only to infranchise Freemen, but to disfranchise a Member, and deprive him of his Freedom; if he doth any Act to the Prejudice of the Body, or contrary to his Oath, &c. Though for conspiring to do any Thing contrary to his Duty; or for Words of Contempt against the Chief Officers, he may not be disfranchised, but may be committed till he find Sureties for his good Behaviour. 11 Rep. 98. 5 Mod. 257. A Corporation cannot disfranchise for Breach of a By Law. 1 Lill. 331. And one wrongfully disfranchised, may be restored, and have his Remedy by Mandamus, &c. in B. R. An Alderman or Freeman of a Corporation, cannot be removed from his Freedom or Place without good Cause, and a Custom to remove them ad Libitum is void, because the Party hath a Freehold therein. Cro. Jac. 540. A Person may be bound to the good Behaviour for Words spoke against Mayors, &c. but he may not be indicted for it: And if Justices of a Corporation deny to do Right, it is a Forfeiture of their Exemption from the Inquiry of the Justices of the County. Mod. Caf. 125, 164. Head Officers of Corporations are to redress Abuses of Merchant Strangers, &c. or the Franchise shall be seized, Stat. 9 Eliz. 3. se. 1. and have Authority in many Cases by Statute; for which see Mayors. No Strangers shall sell by retail any Woollen or Linen Cloth, or Mercery Wares, in Corporate Towns, except at Fairs, on Pain of Forfeiture, &c. But such Persons may sell Wares by Wholesale, and Cloth of their own making by Retail. 1 & 2 P. & M. cap. 7. Bodies Politick Ecclesiastical may make Leases for three Lives, or twenty one Years, under the Restrictions in the Acts 1 & 13 Eliz. &c. If Land is given in Fee to a Dean and Chapter, or to a Mayor and Commonalty, &c. and after such Body Politick or Incorporate is dissolved, the Donor shall have the Land again, and not the Lord by Escheat. 1 Inst. 31.

Corredium and Contredium, The same with Corrodium. See Corody.

Corruption of Blood, (Corruptio Sanguinis) Is an Infection growing to the State of a Man, and to his Issue; and is where a Person is attainted of Treason or Felony, by Means whereof his Blood is said to be corrupted, and neither his Children, nor any of his Blood, can be Heirs to him or any other Ancestor: Also if he is of the Nobility, or a Gentleman, he and all his Posterity by the Attainder are rendered base and ignoble. But by Pardon of the King, the Children born afterwards may inherit the Land of their Ancestor, purchased at the Time of the Pardon or after; and so cannot they, who were born before the Pardon. Terms de Ley 189. If a Man that hath Land in Right of his Wife hath Issue, and his Blood is corrupt by Attainder of Felony, and the King pardons him; in this Case, if the Wife dies before him, he shall not be Tenant by the Curtesy, for the Corruption of the Blood of that Issue: Though it is otherwise, if he hath Issue after the Pardon; for then he should be Tenant by the Curtesy, although the Issue which he had before the Pardon be not inheritable. 13 H. 7. c. 17. A Son attainted of Treason or Felony in the Life of his Ancestor, obtains the King's Pardon before the Death of his Ancestor, he shall not be Heir to the said Ancestor, but the Land shall rather escheat to the Lord of the Fee by the Corruption of Blood. 26 Aff. pl. 32 H. 8. But if a Man seized of Lands hath Issue two Sons, and the Eldest is attainted in the Life-time of his Father, and after the Father dies seized; the youngest Son shall inherit the Lands as Heir unto his Father, if the eldest Son leaves no issue alive: Contra, if he hath Issue, which should have inherited but for the Attainder; then the Land shall escheat. 1 Inst. 8, 391. Dyer 48. 3 Inst. 211. If the Father of a Person attainted die seized of an Estate of Inheritance, during his Life, no younger Brother can be Heir; for the elder Brother though attainted, is still a Brother, and no other can be Heir to his Father while he is alive; but if he die before the Father, the younger Brother shall be Heir. 2 Hawk. P. C. 457. Corruption of Blood from an Attainder is so high that it cannot be absolutely saved but by Act of Parliament; for the King's Pardon doth not restore the Blood so as to make the Person attainted capable either of inheriting others, or being inherited himself by any one born before the Pardon. 1 Inst. 391, 392. 2 Hawk. 458. A Statute which saves the Corruption of Blood, impliedly saves the Descent of the Land to the Heir; and it prevents the Corruption of Blood so far: Also it saves the Wife's Dower, &c. But nevertheless the Land shall be forfeited for the Life of the Offender. 3 Inst. 47. 1 Hawk. 107. For Counterfeiting the Coin or Clipping, there is no Corruption of Blood. Stat. 5 Eliz. cap. 11. So on Attainder trander of Piracy, &c. And in Felony by imbeziling the King's Ordnance, Armour, &c. 22 Car. 2. And therefore it shall not make any Disinheritance of an Heir, &c. See Attainder.

Cosselet, (Fr. in Lat. Corpusculum) Signifies a little Body: And it is used with us for an Armour to cover the Body or Trunk of a Man, wherewith Pikemen commonly set in the Front and Flanks of the Battle were formerly armed, for the better Resistance of the Assaults of the Enemy, and the surer Guard of the Soldiers placed behind, who were more slightly armed for their speedier Advancing and Retreating to Fire. Stat. 4 & 5 P. & M. c. 2.

Cossepent, (From the Fr. Corps present) Is a Word signifying a Mortuary: And the Reason why it was thus term'd seems to be, that where a Mortuary became due on the Death of any Man, the Best or second Best was, according to Custom, offered or presented to the Priest, and carried with the Corps. — Ego Brianus de Brompton, &c. Volo Corpus meum sepeliri in Prioratu Majoris Malverniae inter Praedecessores meos, & cum Corpore meo Palefridum meum cum hernefo & Equum Summarium, cum lecto meo, &c. In Codice MS. penes Gul. Dugdale, Mil. See Stat. 21 H. 8. c. 6. and Mortuary.

Corsued Bread, (Panis conjuratus) Ordeal Bread: It was a Kind of superstitious Trial used among the Saxons, to purge themselves of any Accusation, by taking a Piece of Barley Bread, and eating it with solemn Oaths and Excommunications, that it might prove Poison, or their last Morfel, if what they asserted or denied were not punctually true. These Pieces of Bread were first execrated by the Priest, and then offered to the suspected guilty Person to be swallowed by Way of Purgation: For they believed a Person, if guilty, could not swallow a Morfel so accursed; or if he did, it would choak him. The Form was thus: We beseech Thee, O Lord, that he who is guilty of this Theft, when the Exorcised Bread is offered to him in Order to discover the Truth, that his Jawes may be shut, his Throat so narrow that he may not swallow, and that he may cast it out of his Mouth, and not eat it. Du Cange. The old Form, or Exorcismus panis hordeacei vel casei ad Probationem veri, is extant in Lindembrogius, pag. 107. And in the Laws of King Canute, cap. 6. — Si quis altari ministrantium accusetur, & amicis Desistutus sit, cum Sacramentales non habeat, vadat ad iudicium quod Anglice dicitur Corsued, & fiat sicut Deus velit, nisi super Sanctum Corpus Domini permittatur ut se Purget: From which it is conjectured, that Corsued Bread was originally the very Sacramental Bread, consecrated and devoted by the Priest, and received with Solemn Abjuration, and devout Expectance that it would prove Mortal to those who dared to swallow it with a Lie in their Mouth; till at Length the Bishops and Clergy were afraid to prostitute the Communion Bread to such rash and conceited Uses, when to indulge the People in their superstitious Fancies, and idle Customs, they allowed them to practice the same judicial Rite, in eating some other Morfels of Bread, blest or curs'd to the like Uses. It is recorded of the perfidious Godwin Earl of Kent, in the Time of King Edward the Confessor, that on his Abjuring the Murder of the King's Brother, by this Way of Trial, as a just Judgment of his solemn Perjury, the Bread stuck in his Throat, and choaked him. — Cum Godwinus Comes in mensa Regis de neci sui fratris impetretur, ille post multa Sacramenta, tandem per Buccellam deglutendam abjuravit, & buccella gustata continuo suffocatus interiit. — Ingulph. This with other barbarous Ways of Purgation, was by Degrees abolished: Though we have still some Remembrance of this superstitious Custom in our usual Phrases of Abjuration; as, I will take the Sacrament upon it; — May this Bread be my Poison; — or, May this Bit be my loss, &c.

Cortis, (Curtis) A Court or Yard before a House. Blount.

Cortularium, (Curtilogium, Is also a Yard adjoining to a Country Farm. Cartul. Glaslon. MS. f. 42.

Corus, A certain Corn-Measure heaped up, from the Hebr. Cora, a Hill: Eight Bushels of Wheat in a Heap, making a Quarter, are of the Shape of a little Hill; and probably a Corus of Wheat was eight Bushels; for we read in Bracton, Decem Coros tritici sive decem Quarteria. Bract. lib. 2. c. 6.

Cosduna, An ancient Word for Custom or Tribute. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. p. 562.

Cosenage, (Fr. Cousinage, i. e. Kindred, Cousinship) Is used for a Writ that lies where the Tresail, that is, the Father of the Besail, or Great Grandfather, being seised of Lands and Tenements in Fee at his Death, and a Stranger enters upon the Heir and abates; then shall his Heir have his Writ of Cosenage. Brit. c. 89. F. N. B. 221. A Man shall not have a Writ of Cosenage of the Seisin of his Great Grandfather, but shall be put to his Writ of Besail: And if a Person may have a Writ of Aiel, he shall not bring a Writ of Cosenage. Also on the Death of an Uncle, Writ of Cosenage doth not lie, because Assise of Mort d'Ancestor may be had of his Seisin: And Cosenage lies not between Privies in Blood, no more than Assise of Mort d'Ancestor, but the Party must bring Nuper Obiit. New Nat. Br. 492. In Writs of Cosenage, Aiel and Besail, the Tenant's Answer that the Plaintiff is not next Heir, of the same Ancestor by whose Death he demandeth his Lands, shall be admitted and inquired; and according to the same Inquisition, the Justices shall proceed to Judgment, Stat. 13 Ed. 3. c. 20.

Coshering. As there were many Privileges inherent by Right and Custom, allowed in the Feudal Laws; so were there several grievous Exactions imposed by the Lords on their Tenants, by a Sort of Prerogative or seignioral Authority, as to lie and feast themselves and their Followers at their Tenants Houses, &c. which were called Coshering. Spelm. of Parliaments, MS.

Costs, Are Expense Litis, recovered by the Plaintiff in a Suit, together with his Damages: And if the Plaintiff be nonsuit, or overthrown by lawful Trial in any Action, the Defendant shall have Costs. 4 Jac. 1. cap. 3. Also putting off Trials, insufficient Pleas, &c. on their Amendment, are liable to Costs: But it has been held Costs ought not to be paid for the putting off a Trial, where no Fault was in the Party against whom it is moved; for Costs are only to be paid by such Persons which by their Occasion have caused the other Party to have been

at extraordinary Charges: And no Costs shall be allowed for unreasonable Motions, but only for such as the Party was necessarily put unto. 1 Lill. Abr. 335, 337. The Common Law doth not give Costs in any Case; but they are given by Statute: For the Defendant on a Writ of Error, brought to delay Execution, if Judgment be affirmed, Costs are allowed. 3 Hen. 7. c. 10. So in Actions of Waste; Debt upon the Statute for Tithes; in all Suits by Scire facias, for malicious Trespasses, &c. 13 Car. 2. cap. 2. And by some Statutes double and treble Costs, and Damages, are given: But in Personal Actions, Actions of Trespass, Assault and Battery, Actions on the Case for Words, &c. if the Debt or Damage amount not to 40s. or the Judge do not certify that the Battery was sufficiently proved, &c. no more Costs shall be allowed than Damages. 43 Eliz. c. 6. 21 Jac. 1. c. 16. 22 & 23 Car. 2. Where several are made Defendants in Action of Trespass, Assault, &c. and one or more is acquitted, all of them shall have Costs; unless the Judge certify there was reasonable Cause for making them Defendants. 8 & 9 W. 3. cap. 11. In an Action of Trespass removed out of an inferior Court into B. R. by Habeas Corpus, the Plaintiff shall have full Costs, though the Damages are under 40s. And so it has been held in Action of the Case for Words, where special Damage is received, &c. 1 Ld. Raym. 395. 2 Raym. 1588. On a Judgment on Demurrer upon a Plea in Abatement, Costs are not allowed; they are given only where the Merits of the Cause are determined on the Demurrer. Ibid. 992. No Costs shall be allowed the Defendant where the Suit is commenced for the Use of the King. 24 H. 8. cap. 8. And Costs are not awarded against Executors or Administrators. Ibid. Nor for or against one that sues in Forma Pauperis. Though it has been adjudged that the King shall pay Costs for an Amendment; but not for not going to Trial, &c. 1 Salk. 193. And if Executors bring an Action in their own Right, as for Conversion or Trespass, &c. in their own Time, and a Verdict pass against them, they shall pay Costs. 2 Danv. Abr. 224. Also if a Plaintiff being admitted in Forma Pauperis, be afterward nonsuited, the usual Course is to tax Costs; and if not paid, to punish the Plaintiff by Whipping; but it is in the Discretion of the Court to spare both. 2 Sid. 261. Where a Pauper Plaintiff has a Decree to recover with Costs; he shall be allowed no more than he is out of Pocket. Preced. Canc. 219. An Executor, Defendant in Equity pays no Costs; though at Law it's said he does in all Cases. Abr. Cas. Eq. 125. An Heir at Law, suing for the Family Estate, where he shall not pay Costs, see 1 Peer Williams 482. When there is a Fault in the Original Writ, if a Plaintiff be afterwards nonsuit, 'tis said he shall pay no Costs; because when the Original is abated, it is as if no Suit had been between the Parties. 1 Leon. 105. 1 Nelf. Abr. 547. If a Sum certain is given to a Stranger by Statute, as where 'tis given to the Prosecutor, he shall have no Costs, as he had no Right of Action till he commenced it; so in popular Actions, whether the Penalty is certain or not, there shall be no Costs. 1 Salk. 206. 1 Lutw. 201. Where Costs are allowed, it is not necessary that the Jury should give the Costs; but they may leave it to the Court to do it, who are best able to judge of what Costs are fitting to be given. 23 Car. B. R. It is the Course of the Court of B. R. to refer the Taxing of the Costs to the Secondary of the Office, and not to make any special Rules for such Matters; except it be in extraordinary Cases. 1 Lill. Abr. 338. If at a Trial Evidence be given, and the Jury charged and ready to give their Verdict, but the Plaintiff becomes nonsuited, on which the Jury depart without assessing Costs and Damages, they shall be assessed by a Writ of Enquiry, &c. Skin. 595. Attachment lies where Costs are refused Payment: And where a Plaintiff is nonsuit, Action of Debt may be brought for the Costs; also the Defendant may have a Capias ad satisfaciendum against him. 1 Nelf. Abr. 550. Where Costs are given after a Verdict, the Court will stop Proceeding in the same Court till they are paid, on Motion made: But when Costs are given for not going on to Trial, a Party may proceed, though they are not paid. Sid. 279. The Awarding of Costs is always discretionary in the Court; and in Case of a great Fraud, a Person may be obliged to pay such Costs as shall be ascertained by the injured Party's Oath. 2 Vern. 123. See Damages, &c.

Costs are allowed in Chancery, for failing to make Answer to a Bill exhibited; or making an insufficient Answer: And if a first Answer be certified by a Master to be insufficient, the Defendant is to pay 40s. Costs; 3l. for a second insufficient Answer; 4l. for a Third, &c. But if the Answer be reported good, the Plaintiff shall pay the Defendant 40s. Costs. An Answer is not to be filed, (till when it is not reputed an Answer) until Costs for Contempt in not answering are paid. Practif. Attorn. 1 Edit. pag. 210, 212. If a Plaintiff in Chancery dismisses his Bill, or the Defendant; or if a Decree be obtained for the Defendant, Costs are allowed by Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. c. 16.

Cot, In the old Saxon signifies Cottage, and so is still used in many Parts of England.

Cotarius, A Cottager: The Cotarii, or Cottagers, are mentioned in Domesday.

Cote and Cot. The Names of Places which begin or end with these Words or Syllables, have the Signification of a little House or Cottage: There are likewise Dove-Cotes, which are small Houses or Places for the Keeping of Doves or Pigeons. Game Law, 2 par. fol. 133, 135. See Pigeon-house.

Cotellus, Cotetia, Both signify a small Cottage, House or Homestead. Cowel.

Coterellus. Cotarius and Coterellus, according to Spelman and Du Fresus, are servile Tenants: But in Domesday and other ancient MSS. there appears a Distinction, as well in their Tenure and Quality, as in their Name. For the Cotarius had a free Socage-Tenure, and paid a stated Firm or Rent in Provisions or Money, with some occasional customary Services; whereas the Coterellus seems to have held in mere Villenage, and his Person, Issue and Goods, were disposable at the Pleasure of the Lord.—Edmund Earl of Cornwall, gave to the Bon-hommes of Asberugge, his Manor of Chefferton and Ambrosden—una cum Villanis, Coterellis, eorum Catallis, Servitiis, Señis, & omnibus suis ubicunque pertinentibus. Paroch. Antiq. 310.

Coteswold, Is used for Sheep-Cotes and Sheep feeding on Hills: From the Sax. Cots and Wold, a Place where there is no Wood.

Cotgare, A kind of refuse Wool, so clung or clogged together, that it cannot be pulled asunder. By Stat. 13 R. 2. cap. 9. it is provided, that neither Denizen or Foreigner shall make any other Refuse of Wools but Cotgare and Villein.

Cotland and Cotsethland, Land held by a Cottager, whether in Socage or Villenage.—Dimidia acra terra jacet ibidem inter Cotland, quam Johannes Goldering tenet, ex una parte, & Cotland quam Thomas Webbe tenet ex altera. Paroch. Antiq. 532.

Cotsethla, Cotsetle, The little Seat or Mansion belonging to a small Farm.—Ego Thomas de C. Dedi Deo & Ecclesie Malmesbury unam Cotsetle in Culern, cum omnibus pertinentiis. Cartular. Malmesbur. MS.

Cotsethus, A Cottage holder, who by servile Tenure was bound to work for the Lord. Cowel. Cotsets are the meanest Sort of Men, now termed Cottagers. And Cotseti are those who live in Cottages.—Villani vero vel Cotseti, vel Perdingi, vel qui sunt hujusmodi viles, vel inopes persone, non sunt inter legum Judices numerandi. Leg. H. 1. c. 30.

Cottage,

Cottage, (Cotagium) Is properly a little House for Habitation, without Lands belonging to it. Stat. 4 Ed. 1. But by a later Statute, the 31 El. cap. 7. No Man may build a Cottage, unless he lay four Acres of Land thereto; except it be in Market-Towns or Cities, or within a Mile of the Sea, or for the Habitation of Labourers in Mines, Sailors, Foresters, Shepherds, &c. and Cottages erected by Order of Justices of Peace, &c. for poor impotent People, are excepted out of the Statute. The four Acres of Land to make it a Cottage within this Law, are to be Freehold, and Land of Inheritance: And four Acres of Ground holden by Copy, or for Life or Lives, or for any Number of Years, will not be sufficient to make it a lawful Cottage. 2 Inst. 737. Also the four Acres in Fee-simple, or Fee-Tail, must lie near the Cottage, and be occupied therewith, so long as the Cottage shall be inhabited. 2 Roll. Abr. 139. But this Statute doth not extend to Houses that are Copyhold. 1 Bull. 50. The Penalty of erecting Cottages contrary to the Statute, is 10l. for every Erection, and 40s. a Month for the Continuance of it; which is inquirable in the Leet, or the Offenders may be punished by Indictment at the Quarter-Sessions of the Peace, &c. And no Owner or Occupier of any Cottage shall suffer any Inmates, or more Families than one to inhabit therein, on Pain to forfeit to the Lord of the Leet 10s. a Month: But in Cottages built for the Poor, more Families than one may be placed. Cottages are oftentimes erected on the Waste at the Charge of Parishes, for poor impotent Persons, by the Church-wardens and Overseers of the Poor, having obtained Leave of the Lord of the Manor, in Writing under Hand and Seal; but then it must be confirmed by the Justices in Sessions. Mod. Just. 152. Cottagers of new erected Cottages within the Memory of Man, ought not to have Common in the Lord's Waste, though they have four Acres of Land laid to them. Wood's Inst. 445. Every Cottager, &c. is obliged to work towards the Repairs of the Highways, or to hire an able Labourer to work on the Days appointed by the Statute, on Pain of forfeiting 1s. 6d. per Day. Stat. 22 Car. 2.

Cotton Library. For better settling and preserving the Library kept in the House at Westminster; called Cotton-house, in the Name and Family of the Cottons for the Benefit of the Publick, a Statute was made 12 W. 3. c. 7. See Stat. 5 Ann. c. 30.

Cotuchans, Boors or Husbandmen, of which Mention is made in Domesday.

Coucher, or Courcher, Signifies a Factor that continues abroad in some Place or Country for Traffick; as formerly in Gascoign, for buying of Wines. Stat. 37 Ed. 3. cap. 16. This Word is also used for the General Book wherein any Corporation, &c. register their particular Acts. 3 & 4 Ed. 6. c. 10.

Covenable, (Fr. Convenable, Lat. Rationabilis) Is what is convenient or suitable.—Every of the same three Sorts of Goods, &c. shall be good and covenable, as in old Time hath been used. Stat. 31 Ed. 3. cap. 2. Covenably indowed, that is, indowed as is fitting. 4 H. 8. c. 12. See Plowd. 472.

Covenant, (Conventio) Is the Consent and Agreement of two or more Persons to do or not to do some Act or Thing, contracted between them: Also it is the Declaration the Parties make, that they will stand to such Agreement, relating to Lands or other Things; and is created by Deed in Writing, sealed and executed by the Parties, or otherwise it may be implied in the Contract as incident thereto. 2 Mod. Entr. 91. And if the Persons do not perform their Covenants, a Writ or Action of Covenant is the Remedy to recover Damages for the Breach of them.

Ibid. A Covenant is generally either in Fact, or in Law: In Fact is that which is expressly agreed between the Parties, and inserted in the Deed; and in Law, is that Covenant which the Law intends and implies, though it be not expressed in Words; as if a Lessor demise and grant to his Lessee a House or Lands, &c. for a certain Term, the Law will intend a Covenant on the Lessor's Part, that the Lessee shall during the Term quietly enjoy the same against all Incumbrances. 1 Inst. 384. There is also a Covenant Real, and Covenant Personal: A real Covenant is that whereby a Man ties himself to pass a Thing real, as Lands or Tenements; or to levy a Fine of Lands, &c. And Covenant personal, is where the same is annexed to the Person and merely personal; as if a Person Covenants with another by Deed to build him a House, or to serve him, &c. F. N. B. 145. 5 Rep. 10. Covenants are likewise Inherent, that tend to the Support of the Land or Thing granted; or are collateral to it; and are affirmative, where somewhat is to be performed, or negative; executed, of what is already done, or executory: But a Covenant being to bind a Man, to do something in futuro, is for the most part executory. 1 Vent. 176. Dyer 112, 271. And where a Covenant shall be construed dependant upon another, and when distinct by itself, see Winch 74. 3 Cro. 107. Further, this Word is taken for the solemn league and Covenant; which was a seditious Conspiracy, invented in Scotland, and voted illegal by Parliament, and Provision is made against it, by Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 4. All Covenants between Persons must be to do what is lawful, or they will not be binding; and if the Thing to be done be impossible, the Covenant is void. Dyer 112. But where the Thing is lawful at the Time of the Covenant made, and afterwards the Matter agreed to be done, is prohibited by Act of Parliament, yet such Covenant will be binding. 3 Mod. 39. And if a Man covenants to do a Thing before a certain Time; and it becomes impossible by the Act of God, this shall not excuse him, inasmuch as he hath bound himself precisely to do it. 2 Davv. Abr. 84. If a Person covenants expressly to repair a House, and it is burnt down by Lightning, or any other Accident, yet he ought to repair it; for it was in his Power to have provided against it by his Contract. Aloyn 26, 27. 1 Lill. Abr. 349. But he is not so bound by Covenant in Law. Where Houses are blown down by Tempest, the Law excuses the Lessee in Action of Waste; though in a Covenant to repair and uphold, it will not. 1 Plowd. 29. If a Lessee for Years, rendering Rent, covenants for him and his Assigns to repair the House, and after the Lessee assigns over the Term, and the Lessor accepts the Rent from the Assignee, and then the Covenant is broke; notwithstanding Acceptance of Rent from the Assignee, Action of Covenant lies against the first Lessee, on his express Covenant to repair: And this Personal Covenant cannot be transferred by the Acceptance of the Rent. 2 Davv. Abr. 240. Action of Covenant also lies on Covenant for Payment of Rent against such Lessee; but not Action of Debt after Acceptance. 3 Rep. 24. In Covenant upon a Demise, rendering Rent, the Defendant cannot say, that Part of it was to be allowed; for this is a Covenant against a Covenant. Comb. 21. There may be an Agreement and Covenant, only to be performed by the Parties themselves; and there are some Covenants which none but the Party and his Heirs may take Advantage of, being such as concern the Inheritance; and descend to the Heir, as knit to the Estate: Covenants in gross go to the Executors, &c. 1 Roll. Abr. 520. 2 Davv. 135. Not only Parties to Deeds, but their Executors and Administrators; shall take Advantage of inherent Covenants; nants, though not named; and every Assignee of the Land may have the Benefit of such Covenants: Likewise Executors and Assigns are bound by them, although not named, as a Covenant to repair, &c. 5 Rep. 16, 17. 1 Cro. 552. If a Man covenants with another to do any Thing, his Heir shall not be bound, unless he be expressly named: And yet where a Lessee covenants to repair, the Heir shall have the Benefit of the Covenant, though not named, because it runs with the Land. 2 Lev. 92. 5 Rep. 8. The Grantee of a Reversion may bring Action of Covenant against a Lessee, as well in the County where the Demise was made, as in the County where the Lands lie. Cartbret 183. And Grantees of Reversions have the like Remedy by Action of Covenant against Termors, as the Lessors and their Heirs, &c. by Stat. 32 H. 8. A Person covenants with another, to pay him Money at a Time to come, and doth not say to his Executors, &c. if the Covenantee die before the Day, yet his Executors or Administrators shall have the Money. Dyer 112, 257. And in every Case where the Testator is bound by a Covenant, the Executor shall be bound by it; if it be not determined by his Death. 48 Ed. 3. 2. 2 Darv. 232. Assignees shall not have an Action upon Breach of any Covenant, before their Time. Cro. Eliz. 863. Nor shall an Assignee be charged in a Writ of Covenant for any Breach, after the Death of the first Lessee; as it is personal to the Lessee himself. 2 Darv. 238. If A. seised of Land in Fee, conveys it to B. and covenants with B. his Heirs and Assigns, to make any other Assurance upon Request; and after B. conveys it to C. who conveys it to D. and then D. requires A. to make another Assurance, according to the Covenant; if he refuses, D. shall have Action of Covenant against him, as Assignee to B. Ibid. 236. A Lessor made a Lease of an House for Years, excepting two Rooms, and free Passage to them; the Lessee assigned the Term, and the Lessor brought Covenant against the Assignee for disturbing him in his Passage to those Rooms; and adjudged that the Action lies: For the Covenant goes with the Tenement, and binds the Assignee. 1 Salk. 196. If a Man leases for Years, and ousts the Lessee, he shall have Covenant against him. 48 Ed. 3. 2. But if, where a Person leases Lands for Years, a Stranger enters before the Lessee, such Lessee shall not have an Action of Covenant upon this Ouster, because he was never a Lessee in Privity to have the Action. 2 Darv. 234. A Man grants a Watercourse, and afterwards stops it; for this voluntary Misfeasance, Covenant lies. 1 Saund. 322. Though where the Use of a Thing is demised, and it runs to decay, so that the Lessee cannot have the Benefit of it, for this Nonfeasance no Action of Covenant lieth: Nor may Covenant be brought for a Thing which was not in esse at the Making of the Lease. 2 Darv. 233. If one makes a Lease for Years, reserving a Rent, Action of Covenant lies for Non-payment of the Rent; for the Reddendum of the Rent is an Agreement for Payment of it, which will make a Covenant. Ibid. 230. A Lease is made to two, and one Seals the Deed, but the other doth not; if he accepts the Estate and occupies the Land, he is bound to perform the Covenants for Payment of the Rent, Reparations, and the like. 1 Skep. Abr. 458. Where there is an Agreement under Hand and Seal, Action of Covenant may be brought on it: And if a Man is Party to a Deed, his Agreement to pay amounts to a Covenant, though formal Words are wanting. 2 Mod. 91, 269. Action of Covenant lies on a Deed indented, or Poll: Also on a Bond, it proving an Agreement. 2 Darv. 228. 1 Lill. Abr. 346. And if one Man covenants to pay another 20*l.* at a Day; although he may have Action of Debt for the 20*l.* yet 'tis said he may have a Writ of Covenant at his Election. 2 Darv. 229. It is agreed that A. B. shall pay to C. D. 100*l.* for Lands in E. this is a mutual Covenant, whereon Action of Covenant may be brought if C. D. will not convey. 1 Sid. 423. But where there are mutual Covenants, and the one not to be performed before a precedent Covenant, in such Case the Covenant is not suable till the other is performed: Though if the Covenants are distinct and mutual, several Actions may be brought by and against the Parties. 1 Lill. Abr. 350. 2 Mod. 74. In a Covenant to pay another so much Money, he making him an Estate in such Land, &c. It has been adjudged, that if he tender the Covenantor a Feoffment, and offer to make Livery, he may have Action of Covenant for the Money, as if he had made a Title. 3 Salk. 107. If a Person covenants that he hath good Right to grant, &c. and he hath no Right, it is a Breach of Covenant, for which Action of Covenant lies. 2 Bull. 12. Where a Man covenants that he hath Power to grant, and that the Grantee, shall quietly enjoy notwithstanding any claiming under him; these are distinct Covenants, for one goes to the Title, and the other to the Possession. 1 Mod. 101. A Covenant for the Lessee to enjoy against all Men; this extends not to tortious Acts and Entries, &c. for which the Lessee hath his proper Remedy against the Aggressors. Vaugb. 111, 123. Where there is a Covenant to save harmless against a certain Person, there the Covenantor must save the Covenantee harmless against the Entry of that Person, be it by wrong or rightful Title: But if it be to save harmless against all Persons, the Entry and Eviction must be by lawful Title. Cro. Eliz. 213. Covenant that Lands shall continue of such a Value notwithstanding any Act done, or to be done, extendeth only to the Time of the Covenant made; and 'tis said cannot extend as well to that Time, as to the Time future. Ibid. 43, 479. 1 Lill. 352. A Covenant was entered into, that Lands settled on a Woman for her Jointure, were of the Value of 100*l.* per Ann. and so should continue notwithstanding any Act done by the Covenantor; in Action of Covenant for that the Lands were not of that yearly Value, adjudged that the Action did not lie, except some Act done by the Covenantor was the Cause which made them not of that Value. Cro. Eliz. 43. 1 Nell. Abr. 557. Where the Covenant is to do a Thing, and no Time appointed for it, it must be done in convenient Time: If it be inserted in a Deed among other Covenants, that the Lessee shall repair, provided the Lessor allows Timber, &c. this will be a good Covenant on both sides. 2 And. 73. Dyer 57, 150. Hob. 28. But a Covenant must wait upon and join with the Grant; so that if it be to make such Assurance as shall be reasonably devised, it must be of an Assurance as differs not from the Bargain: And when the Estate to which a Covenant is annexed is at an End, the Covenant is gone. Hob. 276. 1 Lesn. 179. In an Indenture, the Word Covenant, is a Word both of Lessor and Lessee; and therefore if the Lessee covenants to pay the Rent, this is a Reservation. Though when there is a Covenant for a Lessee to repair, and he makes an Under-lease to one who is in Possession, the Under-Lessee is not liable to that Covenant, in Law or Equity. 1 Rel. Rep. 80. 1 Vern. 87. 'Tis held in all Cases where Words that begin any Sentence are conditional, and give another a Remedy, they shall not be construed a Covenant; and yet if Words of Condition and Covenant are coupled together in the same Sentence, as Provided always, and it is covenanted, &c. in that Case they may be adjudged both a Condition and Covenant. March 103. There is this Difference however between a Covenant and Condition; a Condition gives Entry, and Covenant gives an Action only. Owen 54. A Person cannot have Action of Covenant upon a verbal Agreement, for it cannot be grounded without Writing, except by special Custom. F. N. B. 145. An Infant within Age may bind himself Apprentice; but neither at Common Law nor by Statute may be bound by Covenant for his Apprenticeship, so as to make him liable to an Action of Covenant if he depart, &c. But Action

tion of the Case may lie upon the Covenant in Law, if he defraud his Master: And by the Custom of London he may bind himself by his Covenant at fourteen Years old. 1 Cro. 129. Wincb 63. An exprefs Covenant in a Deed, will qualify the general Covenant of Law: Though on a Covenant in Law, the Lessee cannot charge the Executors or Administrators of the Lessor; as he may upon an exprefs Covenant for quiet Enjoyment. Dyer 257. See 4 Rep. 80. If a Lessor Covenant with the Lessee that he shall have House bote, &c. by Assignment of his Bailiff, this is a good Covenant; and yet it doth not restrain the Power that the Lessee hath by Law to take those Things without Assignment: But if a Lessee Covenants, that he will not cut any Timber, without the Leave or Assignment of the Lessor; by this he will be restrained. Dyer 19, 115. A Man makes a Lease, wherein are divers Covenants to be performed by the Lessee; and after the Lessee doth Covenant that if any of the Covenants are broken, the Lessor shall enter upon the Land demised, and hold it till the Lessee make him Amends, &c. it is good, and the Lessor may take Advantage thereof. Fitz. Coven. 3. No Duty nor Cause of Action arises on a Covenant, till it is broken: And as to Breaches of Covenant, if a Person by his own Act disables himself to perform a Covenant, it is a Breach thereof. 5 Rep. 21. Though there can be no Covenant or Breach, where a Lease, &c. is void. Yelv. 18, 19. But here although when a Covenant concerns the Interest of the Lease, as where 'tis for paying Rent, it is void, if the Lease be so: Yet where Covenants are collateral to the Lease and Interest, though that be void, the Covenants may be good. Owen 136. And if a Covenant to do a Thing is performed in Substance, and according to the Intent, it is good, though it differs from the Words; and on the other Hand, although the Covenantor performs the Letter of his Covenant, if he does any Act to defeat the Intent and Use of it, he is guilty of a Breach. Mod. Entr. Engl. In Covenant that a Person shall hold Lands free from all Incumbrances, and be kept indemnified from Arrears of Rent; there till an Action is brought, or Distress made, he is not damaged: And a Suit in Chancery is no Breach in such Case; but where a Jointure, or Dower is recovered, it is. Skin. 397. Moor 859. Palm. 339. If Covenants perpetual are once broken, and an Action is brought, and Recovery thereon; upon a new Breach, a Scire facias shall be had on that Judgment, and the Plaintiff need not bring a new Writ of Covenant. Cro. Eliz. 5. When the Intention of the Parties can be collected out of a Deed for the doing, or not doing of the Thing, Covenant shall be had thereupon. Chan. Rep. 294. A Covenant being one Part of a Deed, is subject to the general Rules of Exposition of all Parts of the Deed: And in a Covenant the last Words, that are general, shall be expounded by the first Words, which are special and particular. 1 Vent. 218. Also a later Covenant cannot be pleaded in Bar to a former. When a Covenant is to two Persons jointly, one of them may not bring Action of Covenant, or plead alone, but both must join. 1 Nelf. 558. If a Man is bound to perform all the Covenants in an Indenture, and they are all in the Affirmative, he may plead Performance generally. Co. Lit. 303. Covenants in the Negative must be pleaded specially. Ibid. 330. When some Covenants are in the Negative, and some in the Affirmative, the Defendant is to plead specially to the Negative Covenants, that he had not done the Thing, and Performance generally as to the Affirmative: And where the Negative Covenants are against Law, and the Affirmative agreeable to Law, Performance generally may be pleaded. Moor 856. If any of the Covenants are in the Disjunctive, so that 'tis in the Election of the Covenantor to perform the one, or the other, the Performance ought to be specially pleaded, that it may appear what Part hath been perform'd, Cro. Eliz. 23. 1 Nelf. 573.

And commonly where an Act is to be done, according to a Covenant, he who pleads Performance ought to do it specially. 1 Leon 136. In Debt upon Bond for Performance of Covenants, one whereof for peaceable Enjoyment, and free from all Incumbrances, and another for farther Assurance, &c. the Defendant should plead specially, that the Houle was free from Incumbrances at the Time of the Conveyance made, and not charged at any Time since, and that no farther Assurance had been required, or such an Assurance which he had executed, &c. yet where a Defendant pleaded generally, in this Case, it was held good. 1 Lutw. 603. Covenants are generally taken most strongly against the Covenantor, and for the Covenantee. Plowd. 287. But it is a Rule in Law, that where one Thing may have several Intendments, it shall be construed in the most favourable Manner for the Covenantor. 1 Lut. 490. The common Use of Covenants is for assuring of Land; quiet Enjoyment free from Incumbrances; for Payment of Rent reserved; and concerning Repairs, &c. And in Deeds of Covenant, sometimes a Clause for Performance with a Penalty, is inserted in the Body of the Deed: Other Times, and more frequently Bonds for Performance, with a sufficient Penalty, are given separate; which last being sued, the Jury must find the Penalty; but on Covenant, only the Damages. Wood's Inst. 250. It is held an Action of Covenant may be laid in London, for Non payment of Rent on a Lease of Lands in any other Place. 1 Sid. 401. And if in this Action, a Sum be miscast, either too little or too much; it is amendable; and not like the Action of Debt, which if alledged less than it is, without shewing the Rest to be satisfied, it is ill. 3 Keil. 39. 2 Cro. 247. In Action of Covenant, the Plaintiff must have Recourse to the Deeds or Writings, and the Circumstances of Time, Place, &c. and take Notice what particular Covenant in the Deed it is best to insist upon, to lay a Breach right, &c. The Words of Covenanting are, Covenant, Grant, Promise, and Agree, &c. but there needs no great Exactness in Words to make a Covenant.

Covenant to stand seised of Uses, Is when a Man that hath a Wife, Children, Brother, Sister, or Kindred, doth by Covenant in Writing under Hand and Seal agree that for their or any of their Provision or Preferment, he and his Heirs will stand seised of Land to their Use; either in Fee-simple, Fee tail, or for Life. The Use being created by the Stat. 27 H. 8. c. 10, which conveyeth the Estate as the Uses are directed; this Covenant to stand seised is become a Conveyance of the Land since the said Statute. The Considerations of these Deeds, are natural Affection, Marriage, &c. and the Law allows in such Cases Consideration of Blood and Marriage, to raise Uses, as well as Money and other valuable Consideration when a Use is to a Stranger. Plowd. 302. There are no Considerations now to raise Uses upon Covenants to stand seised, but natural Love and Affection, which is for Advancement of Blood; and Consideration of Marriage, which is the joining of the Blood and Marriage together: Other Considerations, as Money, &c. for Land, though the Words in the Deed are stand seised, yet they are Bargains and Sales, and without Inrolment they raise no Use. Carter 138. Lill. Abr. 353. The usual Covenant to stand seised to Uses need not be by Deed indented and inrolled: And where a Man limits his Estate to the Use of his Wife for Life, this imports a sufficient Consideration in itself: Also if a Person covenants to stand seised to the Use of his Wife, Son, or Cousin, it will raise an Use without any exprefs Words of Consideration, for sufficient Consideration appears. 7 Rep. 40. In Case of a Covenant to stand seised, so much of the Use as the Owner doth not dispose of, remains still in him. 1 Ventr. 374. And where an Use is raised by Way of Covenant, the Covenantor continues in Possession; and there the Uses limited, limited, if they are according to Law, shall rise and draw the Possession out of him: But if they are not, the Possession shall remain in him until a lawful Use ariseth. 1 Leou. 197. 1 Mod. 159, 160. If on a Covenant to stand seised to Uses, no Use doth arise, yet it may be good by Way of Covenant and give Remedy to the Covenantee in an Action; as if the Covenant be future, that in Consideration of a Marriage, Lands shall descend or remain to a Son, and the Heirs of his Body on the Body of his Wife; in this Case the Covenantee may have Writ of Covenant upon the Covenant against the Covenantor: But if a Covenant be that a Man and his Heirs, shall from henceforth stand and be seised to such and such Uses, and the Uses will not arise by Law; here no Action of Covenant lies on the Covenant, for this Action will never lie upon any Covenant but such as is either to do a Thing hereafter, or where the Thing is already done, and not when it is for a Thing present. Plowd. 307, 398. Finch's Law 49.

Cobert Baron, A married Woman. Stat. 27 Eliz. cap. 3.

Coberture, (Fr.) Any Thing that covers; as Apparel, a Coverlet, &c. but it is by our Law particularly apply'd to the State and Condition of a married Woman, who is sub potestate viri; and therefore disabled to contract with any to the Damage of herself or Husband, without his Consent and Privity, or his Allowance and Confirmation thereof. Bract. lib. 1. c. 10. lib. 2. c. 15, &c. Bro. Abr. When a Woman is married, she is called a Feme Covert; and whatever is done concerning her, during the Marriage, is said to be during the Coverture: All Things that are the Wife's, are the Husband's; nor hath the Wife Power over her self, but the Husband: And if the Husband alien the Wife's Land, during the Coverture, she cannot gainsay it during his Life; but after his Death, she may recover by Cui in vita. Terms de Ley 195. See Baron and Feme.

Cobin, (Covina) Is a deceitful Compact between two or more to deceive or prejudice others; as if Tenant for Life or in Tail, conspires with another, that he shall recover the Land which he the Tenant holds, in Prejudice of him in Reversion. Plowd. 546. Covin is commonly conversant in and about Conveyances of Land by Fine, Feoffment, Recovery, &c. And then it tends to defeat Purchasers of the Lands they purchase, and Creditors of their just Debts; and so it is used in Deeds of Gift of Goods: It may be likewise sometimes in Suits of Law, and Judgments had in them. But where ever Covin is, it shall never be intended, unless it appears and be particularly found; for Covin and Fraud though proved, yet must be found by the Jury, or it will not be good. Brownl. 188. Bridgm. 112. If one make a Lease to a Person by Covin, and after grant another Lease to another bona fide, but without any Fine or Rent; in this Case the second Lessee may not avoid the first Lease, because he is not a Purchaser that comes in for Money. 3 Rep. 83. On Recovery by a good Title, there may be Covin; as where Tenant for Life by Assent, &c. suffers a Recovery by Nil dicit, without making any Defence: And if a Man hath a rightful and just Cause of Action, and of Covin and Consent shall raise up a Tenant by Wrong against whom he may recover; the Covin doth so suffocate the Right, that the Recovery, although it be upon good Title, shall not bind. Bro. Covin 47. Co. Litt. 357. 1 Step. Abr. 365. A. is Tenant for Life, Remainder in Tail to B. and a Præcipe is brought against them as jointenants, by Covin between the Demandant and A. and an Answer procured for B. as jointenant, and they join the Mise, and after make Default, whereby final Judgment is given; this shall not defeat the Estate of B. who may bring a Writ of Disceit and shall be restored to his Land. Roll. Abr. 621. If a Man that has a Right to certain Lands, by Covin causes another to oust the Tenant of the Land, to the Intent to recover it from him, and he recovers accordingly against him by Action tried; yet he shall not be remitted to his ancient Right; but is in of the Estate of him who made the Ouster; and an Assise lies against him. 2 Daw. Abr. 309. Land is aliened, pending a Writ of Debt, by Covin, to avoid the Extent thereof for the Debt; the Land so aliened shall be extended, when the Covin appears upon the Return of the Elegit by the Sheriff. Ibid. 311. If a Man makes a Deed of Gift, &c. of his Goods in his Life-time by Covin, to oust his Creditors of their Debts, after his Death the Donee or Vendee shall be charged for them. 13 H. 4. And if Goods are sold in Market overt by Covin, on Purpose to bar him that hath Right, this shall not bar him thereof. 2 Inst. 713.

Council. In the City of London, there are Common Council-men chosen in every Ward at a Court of Wardmote held by the Aldermen of the respective Wards on St. Thomas's Day yearly: They are to be chosen out of the most sufficient Men; and sworn to give true Council for the common Profit of the City, &c. Lex Londonen. 117. In the Court of Common Council, are made Laws for Advancement of Trade; and Committees yearly appointed, &c. But Acts made by them, are to have the Assent of the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, by Stat. 11 Geo. 1.

Counsellor, (Consiliarius) Is a Person retained by a Client to plead his Cause in a Court of Judicature. A Counsellor at Law hath a Privilege to enforce any Thing which is informed him by his Client, if pertinent to the Matter, and is not to examine whether it be true or false; for it is at the Peril of him who informs him. Cro. Jac. 90. But after the Court hath delivered their Opinions of the Matter in Law depending before them, the Counsel at the Bar are not to urge any thing further in that Cause. 1 Lill. Abr. 355. It has been held that the King's Counsel ought not to be admitted to argue any Cause against the King; though this was oppos'd by Serjeant Maynard, Hill 21 Car. 2. 1 Mod. 38. A Counsellor must not set his Hand to a frivolous Plea, to delay a Trial; which argues Ignorance or foul Practice. Ibid. And as Counsellors have a special Privilege to practice the Law, they are punishable by Attachment, &c. for Misbehaviour. 1 Hawk. P. C. 157. No Recusant Convict, or Nonjuror, shall practice the Law, as a Counsellor, or otherwise, under Penalties, by Stat. 3 Jac. 1. c. 5. 13 & 14 W. 3. c. 6.

Counsel, for Prisoners. No Counsel is allowed a Prisoner upon a General Issue, on Indictment of Felony, &c. unless some doubtful Point of Law arise: The Court is the Prisoner's only Counsel; and the Behaviour of the Prisoner in his own Defence, is one Means of discovering the Truth. In Appeals, and upon special Pleas, &c. the Prisoner shall have Counsel assigned him by the Court: Tho' Counsel is not to prompt the Prisoner in Matters of Fact. 2 Hawk. 400, 401. Provision is made for Counsel for Prisoners in Treason, by Stat. 7 W. 3.

Count, Signifies the original Declaration of Complaint in a real Action. As Declaration is applied to personal; so Count is applicable to real Causes: But Count and Declaration are oftentimes confounded, and made to signify the same Thing. F. N. B. 16, 60. In passing a Recovery at the Common Pleas Bar, a Serjeant at Law counts upon the Præcipe, &c. See Counts and Declarations.

Countess, (Fr. Comte) Was the most eminent Dignity of a Subject, before the Conquest; and those who in ancient Time were created Countess, were Men of great Estate: For which Reason and because the Law intends that they assist the King with their Counsel for the publick Good, and preserve the Realm by their Valour, they had great Privileges leges; as they might not be arrested for Debt or Trespals; or be put on Juries, &c. Of old the Countee was Præfatus, or Præpositus Comitatus, and had the Charge and Custody of the County; but this Authority the Sheriff now hath. 9 Rep. 46. A Countee or Count, is an Earl, in the Law French. Lavv Fr. Diç.

Countenance. This Word seems to be used for Credit or Estimation. Old Nat. Br. 111. And in the Stat. 1 Ed. 3. c. 4. See Contenement.

Counter, (Computatorium, from the Lat. Computare) Is the Name of two Prisons in London, the Poultry-Counter, and Woodstreet Counter, for the Use of the City, to confine Debtors, Peace-breakers, &c. where in if any enter, he is like to account before he gets out. Covent.

Counterfeits. Persons obtaining any Money, Goods, &c. by Counterfeit Letters or false Tokens, being convicted before Justices of Assise, or Justices of Peace, are to suffer such Punishment as shall be thought fit, under Death; as Imprisonment, Pillory, &c. Stat. 33 H. 8. cap. 1. It was the Opinion of Sir Edward Coke, that upon this Statute the Offender could not be fined; and that only corporal Pains ought to be inflicted: But it hath been otherwise adjudg'd in Terry's Case, who by a false Note in the Name of another obtain'd into his Hands a Wedge of Silver, of the Value of two hundred Pounds; and on Conviction thereof, was sentenced to stand in the Pillory, pay a Fine of five hundred Pounds to the King, and be imprisoned during the King's Pleasure. Cr. Car. 407. The Obtaining of Money from one Man to another's Use, upon a false Pretence of having a Message and verbal Order to that Purpose, is not punishable by criminal Prosecution; it depending on a bare naked Lie, against which common Prudence and Caution may be a Security. 6 Mod. 105. 1 Hawk. P. C. 188. Counterfeiting the King's Seal, or Money, &c. which is Treason, Vide Treason: And Counterfeiting Exchequer Bills, Bank-Bills, Lottery-Orders, &c. which are Felony. See Felony.

Countermand, Is where a Thing formerly executed, is afterwards by some Act or Ceremony made void by the Party that first did it. And it is either actual by Deed, or implied: Actual where a Power to execute any Authority, &c. is by a formal Writing for that very Purpose put off for a Time, or made void: And implied is where a Man makes his last Will and Testament, and thereby devises his Land to A. B. if he afterwards enfeoffs another of the same Land, here this Feoffment is a Countermand to the Will, without any express Words for the same, and the Will is void as to the Disposition of the Land: Also if a Woman seized of Land in Fee-simple, makes a Will and deviseth the same to C. D. and his Heirs, if he survives her; and after she intermarries with the said C. D. there by taking him to Husband, and Coverture at the Time of her Death, the Will is countermanded. Terms de Ley 198. But if a Woman makes a Lease at Will, and then marries, this Marriage is no Countermand to the Lease, without express Matter done by the Husband to determine the Will. Where Land is devised, and after a Lease made thereof for Years only; it shall not be a Countermand of the Will, which is good notwithstanding for the Reversion after the Lease for Years is ended: But in Case a Man have a Lease for Years, and gives it by his Will, and after Surrenders it; it is a Countermand of the Devise, and the Devisee shall not have this Lease. Dyer 47. Goldsb. 93. If a Copyholder like to die, do surrender his Estate to the Use of his Wife or Children, without any Consideration of Money, &c. and he recover before the Presentment and Admittance, it may be Countermanded: 'Tis otherwise if it be to the Use of a Stranger. Kitch. 82. If there be a Feoffment with Letter of Attorney to make Livery and Seisin; and before it is made the Feoffor makes a Feoffment, or Bargain and Sale of the Land, or Lease to another, it will be a Countermand in Law of the Authority given by the Letter of Attorney. 2 Brownl. 291. A Person may countermand his Command, Authority, Licence, &c. before the Thing is done; and if he dies, it is countermanded. There is a Countermand of Notice of Trial, &c. in Law Proceedings.

Counterplea, Is when the Tenant in any real Action, Tenant by the Curtesy, or in Lower, in his Answer and Plea, vouches any one to warrant his Title, or prays in Aid of another, who hath a larger Estate; as of him in Reversion, &c. Or where one that is a Stranger to the Action, comes and prays to be received to save his Estate: then that which the Demandant alledgeth against it, why it should not be admitted, is called a Counterplea: In which Sense it is used Stat. 25 Ed. 3. cap. 7. So that Counterplea is in Law a Replication to Aid Prier; and is called Counterplea to the Voucher: But when the Voucher is allowed, and the Vouchee comes and demands what Cause the Tenant hath to vouch him, and the Tenant shews his Cause, whereupon the Vouchee pleads any Thing to avoid the Warranty; that is termed a Counterplea of the Warranty. Terms de Ley 199. Stat. 3 E. 1. cap. 39. If on Demurrer to a Counterplea of the Voucher upon a Warranty, it be found against the Vouchee, Judgment shall not be peremptory, but only Seet vocare: 'Tis otherwise upon a Plea to the Writ tried by the Country. 10 Rep. 34. 4 Rep. 80.

Counter-Rolls, Are the Rolls which Sheriffs of Counties have with the Coroners of their Proceedings, as well of Appeals, as of Inquests, &c. Stat. 3 Ed. 1. c. 10.

Countors, (Fr. Contours) Have been taken for such Serjeants at Law, which a Man retains to defend his Cause, and speak for him in any Court, for their Fees. Horn's Mirror, lib. 2. And as in the Court of C. B. none but Serjeants at Law may plead; they were anciently called Serjeant Countors. 1 Inst. 17.

County, (Comitatus) Signifies the same with Shire, the one coming from the French, the other the Saxons; and contains a Circuit or Portion of the Realm, into which the whole Land is divided, for the better Government of it, and the more easy Administration of Justice: So that there is no Part of this Kingdom that lies not within some County; and every County is governed by a yearly Officer whom we call a Sheriff. Fortescue, cap. 24. Of these Counties, there are in England forty, besides twelve in Wales, making in all fifty-two: And four of them are of special Note, which are therefore term'd Counties Palatine; as Lancaster, Chester, Durham, and Ely; and we read anciently of the Counties Palatine of Pembroke and Hexam, though they have long since lost their Privileges. The chief Governors of the Counties Palatine, by special Charter from the King, heretofore did all Things touching the Administration of Justice as absolutely as the Prince himself in other Counties, only acknowledging him their Superior and Sovereign: But by the Stat. 27 H. 8. cap. 24. their Power is abridged. 4 Inst. 204, 221. The Counties Palatine are reckoned among the superior Courts: And are privileged as to Pleas, so as no Inhabitant of such Counties shall be compelled by any Writ to appear or answer out of the same; except for Error, and in Cases of Treason, &c. and the Counties Palatine of Chester and Durham, are by Prescription, where the King's Writ ought not to come, but under the Seal of the Counties Palatine; unless it be Writs of Proclamation. Crompt.

Jurisd. 137. 1 Danv. Abr. 750. But Certiorari lies out of B. R. to Justices of a County Palatine, &c. to remove Indictments, and Proceedings before them. 2 Hawk. P. C. 286. There is a Court of Chancery in the Counties Palatine of Lancaster and Durham, over which there are Chancellors; that of Lancaster called Chancellor of the Dutchy, &c. and there is a Court of Exchequer at Chester, of a mixt Nature, for Law and Equity, of which the Chamberlain of Chester is Judge. There is also a Chief Justice of Chester; and other Justices in the other Counties Palatine, to determine Civil Actions and Pleas of the Crown. The Bishops of Durham and Ely, have those Counties Palatine; and if any erroneous Judgment be given in the Courts of the Bishoprick of Durham, a Writ of Error shall be brought before the Bishop himself; and if he give an erroneous Judgment thereon, a Writ of Error shall be sued out returnable in B. R. 4 Inst. 218. But it has been held, that Ely is not a County Palatine, only a Royal Franchise, having Cognisance of Pleas like unto the Cinque Ports. Carthew 109. Counties Palatine, with Jura Regalia, were probably erected at first, because they were adjacent to the Enemies Countries heretofore; as Lancaster and Durham to Scotland, and Chester to Wales; that the Inhabitants might have Administration of Justice at Home, and remain there to secure the Country from Incurfions. 1 Vent. 155. The King may make a County Palatine by his Letters Patent without Parliament. 4 Inst. 201. Besides these Counties of both Sorts, there are Counties Corporate. Stat. 3 E. 4. cap. 5. And they are certain Cities, with Lands and Territories, having Liberties and Jurisdiction by Grant from the King: As the County of Middlesex annexed to the City of London by King Hen. 1. The County of the City of York, Anno 32 H. 8. The County of the City of Chester, 42 Eliz. The County of the City of Bristol, Norwich, Worcester, &c. and the County of the Town of Kingston upon Hull, New Castle, &c. Lamb. Eiren. lib. 1. Crompt. Just. 59. And County in another Signification, is used for the County Court, kept by the Sheriff within his Charge, or by his Deputy. Stat. 2 Ed. 6. cap. 25. Bract. lib. 3. cap. 7. See Comitatus.

County-Court, (Curia Comitatus) Is by Lambard called Conventus, in his Explication of Saxon Words, and divided into two Sorts; one retaining the general Name, as the County Court held every Month, by the Sheriff or his Deputy: The other called the Turn, held twice in every Year, viz. within a Month after Easter and Michaelmas; of both which you may read in Crompt. Jurisd. fol. 241. All Administration of Justice was at first in the King's Hands; but afterwards when by the Increase of the People the Burden grew too great for him; as the Kingdom was divided into Counties, Hundreds, &c. So the Administration of Justice was distributed amongst divers Courts; of which the Sheriff had the County-Court for Government of the County, and Lords of Liberties had their Leets and Law-Days, for the speedier and easier administering Justice therein, &c. Before the Courts at Westminster were erected, the County-Courts were the chief Courts of the Kingdom: And among the Laws of King Edgar it is ordained, that there be two County-Courts kept in the Year, in which there shall be a Bishop and an Alderman, or Earl, as Judges; one to judge according to the Common Law, and the other according to the Ecclesiastical Law: But these united Powers of a Bishop and Earl, to try Causes, were separated by William the First, called the Conqueror; and soon after the Business of Ecclesiastical Cognisance was brought into its proper Courts, and the Common Law Business into the King's Bench. Blount. That the County Court in ancient Times had the Cognition of great Matters, appears by Glanv. lib. 1. cap. 2. 3. 4. by Bracton, and Briton, in divers Places, and Fleta, lib. 2. c. 62. But the Power of this Court was much reduced by Magn. Chart. c. 17. and by 1 Ed. 4. cap. 1. It had formerly, and now hath the Determination of certain Trespases, and Debts under 40*s.* And this Court holdeth not Plea of any Debt or Damage to the Value of 40*s.* or above; nor of Trespas Vi & Armis, &c. But of Debt and other Actions personal above that Sum, the Sheriff may hold Plea by Force of a Writ of Justitias, which is in Nature of a Commission to him to do it. 4 Inst. 266. Here the Plaintiff takes out a Summons, and if the Defendant do not appear, an Attachment or Distringas is to be made out against him; but if the Defendant appears, the Plaintiff is to file his Declaration, and after the Defendant is to put in his Answer or Plea; and the Plaintiff having joined Issue, the Trial proceeds, &c. whereupon, if Verdict is given for the Plaintiff, Judgment is entered, and a Fieri Facias may be awarded against the Defendant's Goods, which may be taken by Virtue thereof, and be appraised and sold to satisfy the Plaintiff: But if the Defendant hath no Goods, the Plaintiff is without Remedy in this Court; for no Capias lies therein, but an Action may be brought at Common Law, upon the Judgment entered. Greenwood of Courts, p. 22. No Sheriff is to enter in the County-Court, any Plaintiff in the Absence of the Plaintiff; nor above one Plaintiff for one Cause, under Penalties: The Defendant in the County Court is to have lawful Summons; and two Justices of Peace are to view the Eftreats of Sheriffs, before they issue them out of the County-Court, &c. By Statute 11 Hen. 7. c. 15. Causes are removed out of the County Court, by Recordare, Pone, and Writ of Falso Judgment, into B. R. &c.

County-Rates, Are those ordered by Justices of Peace at their Quarter-Sessions, who may make one General Rate, to answer all former distinct Rates, which shall be assessed on every Parish, &c. and collected and paid by the High Constables of Hundreds to Treasurers appointed by the Justices; which Money shall be deemed the Publick Stock, and be laid out in Repairing of Bridges, Gaols, or Houses of Correction, on Presentment made by the Grand Jury, at the Assises or Quarter-Sessions, of their wanting Reparation; But Appeal lies by the Churchwardens and Overseers of the Poor of the Parishes to the Justices at the next Sessions, against the Rate on any particular Parish. 12 Geo. 2. c. 29.

Counting-House of the King's Household, (Domus Computus Hospitii Regis) Is usually called the Green-Cloth; where sit the Lord Steward, and Treasurer of the King's House, the Comptroller, Master of the Household, Cofferer, and two Clerks of the Green-Cloth, &c. for daily taking the Accounts of all Expences of the Household, making Provisions, and ordering Payment for the same; and for the good Government of the King's Household Servants, and paying the Wages of those below Stairs. Stat. 39 Eliz. cap. 7.

Courier, (from the Fr. Courre to run) An express Messenger of Haste.

Courtafter, A French Word signifying a Horse-Courser. 2 Inst. 719.

Court, (Curia) Signifies the King's Palace, or Mansion; and is more especially the Place where Justice is judicially administered. The Superior Courts are those at Westminster; and of Courts some are of Record, and some not, which are accounted Base Courts, in Respect of the Rest: A Court of Record is that Court which hath Power to hold Plea, according to the Course of the Common Law, of real, personal, and mixed Actions, where the Debt or Damage is 40*s.* or above; as the King's Bench, Common Pleas, &c. A Court not of Record is where it cannot hold Plea of Debt or Damages amounting to 40*s.* but of Pleas under that Sum; or where the Proceedings are not according to the Course of the Common Common Law, nor inrolled; as the County Court, and the Court Baron, &c. 1 Inst. 117, 260. 4 Rep. 52. 2 Roll. Abr. 574. Every Court of Record is the King's Court, though his Subjects have the Benefit of it; and the free Use of all Courts of Record and not of Record, is to be granted to the People: The Leet and Tourn are the King's Courts, and of Record. 2 Dawv. 259. The Rolls of the superior Courts of Record are of such Authority, as no Proof will be admitted against them; and they are only triable by themselves. 3 Inst. 71. But the County-Court, Court Baron, &c. as they are no Courts of Record, the Proceedings therein may be denied, and tried by a Jury: And upon their Judgments, a Writ of Error lies not; but Writ of False Judgment. 1 Inst. 117. At the Courts at Westminster, the Plaintiff need not shew at large in his Declaration, that the Cause of Action arises within their Jurisdiction, it being general: Inferior Courts are to shew it at large, because they have particular Jurisdictions. 1 Lill. Abr. 371. Also nothing shall be intended to be within the Jurisdiction of an inferior Court, but what is expressly so alleged: And if Part of the Cause arises within the inferior Jurisdiction, and Part thereof without it, the inferior Court ought not to hold Plea. 1 Lev. 104. 2 Rep. 16. An inferior Court not of Record cannot impose a Fine, or Imprison: But the Courts of Record at Westminster may fine, imprison, and amerce. 11 Rep. 43. The King being the Supreme Magistrate of the Kingdom, and intrusted with the executive Power of the Law, all Courts Superior and Inferior ought to derive their Authority from the Crown. Staud. 54. 2 Hawk. P. C. 2. Though the King himself cannot sit in Judgment in any Court upon an Indictment, because he is one of the Parties to the Suit. Hawk. Ibid. The King hath committed all his Power Judicial to one Court or other. 4 Inst. 71. And by Statute it is enacted, that all Persons shall receive Justice in the King's Court, and none take any Distress, &c. of his own Authority, without Award of the King's Courts. Stat. 52 Hen. 3. cap. 1. It is said the Customs, Precedents, and common Judicial Proceedings of a Court, are a Law to the Court: And the Determinations of Courts, make Points to be Law. 2 Rep. 16. 4 Rep. 53. Hob. 298. All Things determinable in Courts, that are Courts by the Common Law, shall be determined by the Judges of the same Courts; and the King's Writ cannot alter the Jurisdiction of a Court. 6 Rep. 11. The Court of B. R. regulates all the Courts of Law in the Kingdom, so that they do not exceed their Jurisdictions, nor alter their Forms, &c. 22 Car. B. R. And as the Court of King's Bench hath a general Superintendency over all Inferior Courts, it may award an Attachment against any such Court, usurping a Jurisdiction not belonging to it: But it is sometimes usual first to award a Writ of Prohibition, and afterwards an Attachment, upon its continuing to proceed. 2 Hawk. 149, 150. If a Court having no Jurisdiction of a Cause depending therein, do nevertheless proceed, the Judgment in such Court is coram non Judice, and void; and an Action lies against the Judges who give the Judgment, and any Officer that executes the Process under them: Though where they have Authority, and give an ill Judgment, there the Party who executes the Process, &c. upon the Judgment, shall be excused. 1 Lill. Abr. 370. Action on the Case lies against the Plaintiff in an Action for suing one in an Inferior Court, where the Cause of Action is out of its Jurisdiction. 1 Vent. 369. And if a Plaintiff on a Contract for a large Sum, splits it into several Actions for small Sums to give an inferior Court Jurisdiction, a Prohibition shall go. Mod. Caf. 90. Striking in the Courts at Westminster, is punished by cutting off the right Hand, and Forfeiture of Goods, &c. How Contempts to Courts are punishable by Fine and Imprisonment, &c. Vide Attachment: See more of Courts, under Judges.

Court of Admiralty, (Curia Admiralitatis) Was erected, as generally held, by King Ed. 3. for deciding Maritime Causes; and the Title of its Judge is Supreme Curie Admiralitatis Anglie Locum tenens, Judex sine Presidens. The Admiralty Court is not allowed to be a Court of Record, because it proceeds by the Civil Law; and the Judge has no Power to take such a Recognisance, as a Court of Record may: The Process and Proceedings are in the Name of the Lord Admiral, and by Libel; and the Plaintiff and Defendant enter into a Stipulation, or Bond, for Appearance, and to abide the Sentence. 4 Inst. 134, 135. This Court hath Jurisdiction to determine all Causes arising wholly upon the Sea; out of the Jurisdiction of a County: And a Judgment of a Thing done upon Land, is void. 1 Inst. 260. If the Court of Admiralty hold a Plea of an Agreement made at Sea, but put in Writing and sealed in foreign Lands, a Prohibition may be granted; but not if only a bare Remembrance had been made of it at Land. Hob. 69, 211. See Latch 11. By the Custom of the Admiralty, Goods may be attached in the Hands of a third Person in Causa civili & maritima. March 204

Court-Baron, (Curia Baronis) Is a Court which every Lord of a Manor, hath within his own Precinct: It is an inseparable Incident to the Manor; and must be held by Prescription, for it cannot be created at this Day. 1 Inst. 58. 4 Inst. 268. A Court-Baron must be kept on some Part of the Manor: And is of two Natures. 1. By Common Law, which is the Barons or Freeholders Court, of which the Freeholders being Suitors are the Judges; and this cannot be a Court Baron, without two Suitors at least. 2. By Custom, which is called the Customary Court: And concerns the Customary Tenants and Copyholders, whereof the Lord, or his Steward is Judge. The Court-Baron may be of this double Nature, or one may be without the other: But as there can be no Court-Baron at Common Law without Freeholders; so there cannot be a customary Court without Copyholders or Customary Tenants. 4 Rep. 26. 6 Rep. 11, 12. 2 Inst. 119. The Freeholders Court, which hath Jurisdiction for trying of Actions of Debt, Trespasses, &c. under 40s. may be held every three Weeks; and is something like a County Court, and the Proceedings much the same: Though on Recovery of Debt, they have not Power to make Execution, but are to distrain the Defendant's Goods, and retain them till Satisfaction is made. The other Court-Baron, for taking and passing of Estates, Surrenders, Admittances, &c. is held but once or twice in a Year, (usually with the Court-Leet) unless it be on Purpose to grant an Estate; and then it is holden as often as requisite. In this Court the Homage Jury are to inquire that their Lords do not lose their Services, Duties, or Custom; but that the Tenants make their Suits of Court; pay their Rents and Heriots, &c. and keep their Lands and Tenements in Repair; they are to prevent all common and private Nufances, which may prejudice the Lord's Manor; and every publick Trespass must be punished in this Court, by Amercement, on presenting the same. By Statute, It shall be inquired of customary Tenants, what they hold, by what Works, Rents, Heriots, Services, &c. And of the Lord's Woods, and other Profits, Fishings, &c. Stat. Extent. Manerii, 4 Ed. 1. See my Compleat Court-Keeper, 3d Edit.

Court of Chivalry, (Curia Militaris) Otherwise called the Marshal Court; the Judges of it are the Lord Constable of England, and the Earl Marshal: This Court is said to be the Fountain of the Marshal Law, and the Earl Marshal hath both a judicial and ministerial Power; for he is not only one of the Judges, but to see Execution done. 4 Inst. 123. See Constable.

Court Christian, (Curia Christianitatis) Is an Ecclesiastical Judicature, opposed to the Civil Court, or Lay

Lay Tribunal: And as in secular Courts, Human Laws are maintained; so in the Court Christian, the Laws of Christ should be the Rule. And therefore the Judges are Divines; as Archbishops, Bishops, Archdeacons, &c. 2 Inst. 488. Courts Christian are so called, because they handle Matters especially appertaining to Christianity; and were held heretofore by our Bishops from the Pope, as he challenged the Superiority in all Causes Spiritual: But since his Ejection, they hold them by the King's Authority, Virtute Magistratus sui, &c. and as the Appeal from these Courts did lie to Rome, now by the Stat. 25 Hen. 8. cap. 19. it lies to the King, in his Chancery. 4 Inst. These Courts were complained against long before the Reformation, the Bishops having extended their Jurisdiction so far, that they had left very little Business for the secular Judges; for they assumed an Authority over the Clergy, even in Criminal Cases, though they had no legal Power, but only in the Execution of the Sentence of Degradation, &c. and took upon them to judge in a great many other Things, that did not belong to them.

Court of Conscience, (Curia Conscientie) In the 9th Year of King Hen. 8. the Court of Conscience in London was erected; there was then made an Act of Common Council, that the Lord Mayor and Aldermen should assign monthly two Aldermen, and four discreet Commoners, to be Commissioners to sit in this Court twice a Week, to hear and determine all Matters brought before them between Party and Party, between Citizens and Freemen of London, in all Cases where the Debt or Damage was under 40*s.* And this Act of Common Council is confirmed by the Stat. 1 Jac. 1. which impowers the Commissioners of this Court to make such Orders between the Parties touching such Debts, as they shall find stand to Equity and good Conscience. Also the Stat. 3 Jac. 1. c. 15. further establishes this Court; the Course and Practice whereof is by Summons, to which if the Party appear, the Commissioners proceed summarily; examining the Witnesses of both Parties, or the Parties themselves on Oath, and as they see Cause give Judgment. And if the Party summoned appear not, the Commissioners may commit him to the Compter Prison till he does; also the Commissioners have Power to commit a Person refusing to obey their Orders, &c. Stat. 3 Jac. 1. By a late Statute, the Proceedings of the Court of Conscience are regulated; and in Case any Person affront or insult any of the Commissioners, on their certifying it to the Lord Mayor, he shall punish the Offender by Fine, not exceeding 20*s.* or may imprison him ten Days. 14 Geo. 2. c. 10. By the Stat. 22 Geo. 2. c. 47. a like Court is erected for the more easy and speedy Recovery of small Debts within the Town and Borough of Southwark, and the several Parishes of St. Saviour, St. Mary at Newington, St. Mary Magdalen Bermondsey, Christ Church, St. Mary Lambeth, and St. Mary at Rotherhithe in the County of Surry, and the several Precincts and Liberties of the same, by the Name of The Court of Requests for the Town and Borough of Southwark in the County of Surry.

Court of Delegates, (Curia Delegatorum) Is so called, because the Judges are delegated, and sit by Force of the King's Commission, under the Great Seal, upon Appeals to the King, in three Cases. 1. When a Decree or Sentence is given in an Ecclesiastical Cause, by the Archbishop, or any of his Officials. 2. When any Decree or Sentence is given in an Ecclesiastical Cause in Places exempt, or Peculiar, belonging to the King, or an Archbishop. 3. When a Sentence is given in the Court of Admiralty in a Civil and Marine Cause, according to the Civil Law. 4 Inst. 339. Stat. 25 Hen. 8. c. 19. If the Delegates in Ecclesiastical Causes are Spiritual Persons, they may proceed to Excommunication, &c. This is the highest Court for Civil Affairs that concern the Church. See Appeal to Rome.

Courts Ecclesiastical, (Curia Ecclesiastica) Are those Courts which are held by the King's Authority as supreme Governor of the Church, for Matters which chiefly concern Religion. 4 Inst. 321. And the Laws and Constitutions whereby the Church of England is governed, are, 1. Divers immemorial Customs. 2. Our own Provincial Constitutions; and the Canons made in Convocations, especially those in the Year 1603. 3. Statutes or Acts of Parliament concerning the Affairs of Religion, or Causes of Ecclesiastical Cognizance; particularly the Rubrics in our Common Prayer-Book, founded upon the Statutes of Uniformity. 4. The Articles of Religion, drawn up in the Year 1562, and established by 13 Eliz. cap. 12. 5. And 'tis said, by the General Canon Law, where all others fail. See the 25 Hen. 8. c. 28. As to Suits in Spiritual or Ecclesiastical Courts, they are for the Reformation of Manners, or for punishing of Herefy, Defamation, laying violent Hands on a Clerk, and the like; and some of their Suits are to recover something demanded, as Tithes, a Legacy, Contract of Marriage, &c. And in the Causes of this Nature, the Courts may give Costs, but not Damages: Things that properly belong to these Jurisdications are Matrimonial and Testamentary, and defamatory Words, for which no Action lies at Law; as for calling one Adulterer, Fornicator, Usurer, or the like. 11 Rep. 54. Dyer 240. The Proceedings in the Ecclesiastical Courts, are according to the Civil and Canon Law, by Citation, Libel, Answer upon Oath, Proof by Witnesses, and Presumptions, &c. and after Sentence, for Contempt, by Excommunication: And if the Sentence is disliked, by Appeal. The Jurisdiction of these Courts, is voluntary, or contentious: And the Punishments inflicted by them, are Censures and Punishments pro salute Animae, by way of Penance, &c. They are not Courts of Record. Vide Consultation and Prohibition.

Court of Hustings, (Curia Hustings) Is the highest Court of Record, holden at Guildhall, for the City of London, before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, the Sheriffs, and Recorder. 4 Inst. 247. This Court determines all Pleas real, personal, and mixt: And here all Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, Rents and Services, within the City of London, and Suburbs of the same, are pleadable in two Hustings; one called Hustings of Plea of Lands, and the other Hustings of Common Pleas. In the Hustings of Plea of Lands, are brought Writs of Right Patent directed to the Sheriffs of London, on which Writs the Tenant shall have three Summons at the three Hustings next following; and after the three Summons there shall be three Essoins at three other Hustings next ensuing; and at the next Hustings after the third Essoin, if the Tenant makes Default, Process shall be had against him by Grand Cape, or Petit Cape, &c. And if the Tenant appears, the Demandant is to declare in the Nature of what Writ he will; without making Protestation to sue in Nature of any Writ: Then the Tenant shall have the View, &c. and if the Parties plead to Judgment, the Judgment shall be given by the Recorder: But no Damages, by the Custom of the City, are recoverable in any such Writ of Right Patent. Practis. Solic. 416, 417. In the Hustings of Common Pleas, are pleadable Writs Ex gravi Querela, Writs of Gavellet, of Dower, Waste, &c. also Writs of Exigent are taken out in the Hustings; and at the fifth Hustings the Outlawries are awarded, and Judgment pronounced by the Recorder. If an erroneous Judgment is given in the Hustings, the Party grieved may sue a Commission out of Chancery directed to certain Persons to examine the Record, and thereupon do Right. 1 Rel. Abr. 745.

Court-Lect, (Leta, Visus franci plegii) Is a Court of Record, ordained for punishing Offences against the

the Crown; and is said to be the most ancient Court of the Land. 2 Davv. Abr. 289. It enquires of all Offences under High Treason; but those which are to be punished with Loss of Life or Member, are only inquirable and presentable here, and to be certified over to the Justices of Assize. Stat. 1 Ed. 3. And this Court is called the View of Frankpledge, because the King is to be there certified by the View of the Steward, how many People are within every Leet, and have an Account of their good Manners, and Government; and every Person of the Age of 12 Years, which hath remained there for a Year and a Day may be sworn to be faithful to the King, and the People are to be kept in Peace, &c. Also every one from the Age of twelve to sixty Years, that dwells within the Leet, is obliged to do Suit in this Court; except Peers, Clergymen, &c. unless they are under the Sheriff's Turn. 4 Inst. 264, 265, &c. A Leet is incident to a Hundred, as a Court Baron to a Manor; for by Grant of a Hundred, a Leet passeth, and a Hundred cannot be without a Leet. Kitch. 70. Leets may be held by Charter or Prescription; but are commonly claim'd by Prescription; and are to be kept twice a Year, one Time within a Month after Easter, and the other within a Month after Michaelmas, at a certain Place within the Precinct: These are the usual Times of holding the Leet; but if it hath been a Custom to keep this Court at any other Time of the Year, it is good if due Warning be given. 1 Inst. 115. 2 Inst. 72. The Steward is the Judge of this Court, as the Sheriff is in the Turn: And he hath Power to elect Officers, as Constables, Tithingmen, &c. as well as punish Offenders. 6 Rep. 12. 2 Inst. 199. A Presentment in a Court-Leet, or Sheriff's Turn, after the Day of Presentment, subjects the Party to a Fine or Amerciament; and is not traversable, except it toucheth the Party's Freehold; as that one ought to cleanse the Highways, &c. by Reason of his Tenure: Though such Presentment may be removed into B. R. by Certiorari, where it may be traversed. Dyer 13. 2 Inst. 52. Kitch. 86, 91, &c. A Court-Leet may fine, but not imprison: A Steward may impose a reasonable Fine, for a Contempt in Court; or commit those who make an Affray before him, in the Execution of his Office, or bind them to the Peace or Good Behaviour: But he may not grant Surety of the Peace, unless by Prescription. 8 Rep. 38. 1 Saund. 135. The usual Method of Punishment in the Court-Leet, is by Fine and Amerciament; the former assessed by the Steward, and the latter by the Jury: For both of which, the Lord may have an Action of Debt, or take a Distress, &c. Twelve Freeholders or Resiants, are to be of the Jury: And the particular Articles to be enquired into, by Statute, are, if all that owe Suit of Court are present; of Customs withdrawn; Purprestures in Lands, Woods, &c. of Houses set up, or beat down, Cottages erected contrary to Law, and other Annoyances; of Bounds taken away; Ways or Waters turned or stopped; of Thieves, and Hues and Cries not pursued; of Bloodshed, Escapes, Persons outlawed, Money Coiners, Treasure found; Assize of Bread and Ale, Persons keeping Ale-houses without Licence; False Weights and Measures, Unlawful Games, Offences relating to the Game; Offences of Tanners in selling insufficient Leather, of Foresters, &c. of Markets, Victuallers and Labourers, unlawful Fishing, idle Persons, &c. Stat. 18 Ed. 2. 14 & 15 H. 8. 2 & 3 Ed. 6. 31 Eliz. 1 Jac. &c. All these Articles are drawn up in Form, and given in Charge by the Steward. The Lord of the Leet ought to have a Pillory and Tumbrel, to punish Offenders; and for Want thereof, the Lord may be fined, or the Liberty seised. 2 Davv. 289. Also all Towns in the Leet are to have Stocks in Repair; and the Town that hath none shall forfeit

5 l. Ibid. Stewards of Leets, &c. are not to receive Profits to their own Use, belonging to the Lord, on Pain of 40 l. Stat. 1 Jac. 1. c. 5. Vide my Compleat Court-Keeper. 3 Edit.

Court of Marshalsea, (Curia Palatii) A Court of Record to hear and determine Causes between the Servants of the King's Household and others within the Verge; and hath Jurisdiction of all Matters within the Verge of the Court, and of Pleas of Trespas, where either Party is of the King's Family; and of all other Actions personal, wherein both Parties are the King's Servants; and this is the original Jurisdiction of the Court of Marshalsea. But the Curia Palatii, erected by K. Charles I. by Letters Patent, in the 6th Year of his Reign, and made a Court of Record, hath Power to try all Personal Actions, as Debt, Trespas, Slander, Trover, Actions on the Case, &c. between Party and Party, the Liberty whereof extends twelve Miles about Whitehall; which Jurisdiction hath since been confirmed by King Charles the Second: And the Judges of this Court, are the Steward of the King's Household, and Knight-Marshal for the Time being, and the Steward of the Court, or his Deputy; being always a Lawyer. Cromp. Jurisd. 102. Kitch. 199, &c. 2 Inst. 548. This Court is kept once a Week, in Southwark: And the Proceedings here are either by Capias or Attachment; which is to be served on the Defendant, by one of the Knight-Marshal's Men, who takes Bond with Sureties for his Appearance at the next Court; upon which Appearance, he must give Bail, to answer the Condemnation of the Court; and the next Court after the Bail is taken, the Plaintiff is to declare, and set forth the Cause of his Action, and afterwards proceed to Issue and Trial by a Jury, according to the Custom of the Common Law Courts. If a Cause is considerable, it is usually removed into B. R. or C. B. by an Habeas Corpus cum causa: Otherwise Causes are here brought to Trial in four or five Court-Days. Practif. Salic. 409, 410. By Statute, The Steward and Marshal of the King's House, are not to hold Plea of Freehold, &c. 28 Ed. 1. c. 3. Error in the Marshalsea Court may be removed into the King's Bench. 10 Ed. 3. And the Fees of the Marshalsea are limited by the Stat. 2 H. 4. c. 23. This Marshalsea, is that of the Household; not the King's Marshalsea, which belongs to the King's Bench.

Court Marshal, (Curia Martialis) Is a Court for Punishing the Offences of Officers and Soldiers in Time of War. And it appears by our Books, that if any Person in Commission, in Time of Peace, put to Death any Man by Martial Law, it is against Magna Charta, and Murder. 3 Inst. 52. Though Temporal Acts of Parliament have of late enabled our Kings to hold Courts Martial in Time of Peace, &c. By 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 13. Desertion and Mutiny is punishable by a Court Martial: And the King, or the General of the Army, may grant Commissions to any Field Officer, &c. to call a Court Martial, of thirteen at least Commission Officers, who are to take an Oath for trying truly; and Sentence of Death is not to be given unless Nine concur: And a Field-Officer is not to be tried by any under the Degree of a Captain. By a subsequent Act, Court Martials may be called within the Realm, for trying Offenders against the Laws of War out of the Realm; or a Deserter abroad may be sent back to his Regiment to be proceeded against. And an Acquittal or Conviction in a Court Martial, is a good Bar to an Indictment. Stat. 7 Ann. c. 4. See 1 Geo. 1. c. 9. 7 Geo. 1. c. 6. Court Marshal at Sea, vide Navy.

Court of Piepowders, (Curia Pedis Pulverisati) Is a Court held in Fairs, to do Justice to Buyers and Sellers, and for Redress of Disorders committed in them: So called, because they are most usual in Summer, Summer, when the Suitors to the Court have dusty Feet; and from the Expedition in hearing Causes proper thereunto, before the Dust goes off the Feet of the Plaintiffs and Defendants. 4 Inst. 272. It is a Court of Record incident to every Fair; and to be held only during the Time that the Fair is kept. Doct. & Stud. c. 5. As to the Jurisdiction, the Cause of Action for Contract, Slander, &c. must arise in the Fair or Market; and not before at any former Fair, nor after the Fair: It is to be for some Matter concerning the same Fair or Market; and be done, complained of, heard and determined the same Day. Also the Plaintiff must make Oath that the Contract, &c. was within the Jurisdiction and Time of the Fair. Stat. 17 Ed. 4. c. 2. 2 Inst. 220. The Court of Pitpowders may hold Plea of a Sum above 40*s.* and 'tis said, Judgment may be given at another Fair, at a Court held there: And a Writ of Error lies upon a Judgment given. Dyer 133. F. N. B. 18. This Court may not meddle with any Thing done in a Market, without a special Custom for it; but for what is done in a Fair only: And not there for slanderous Words, unless they concern Matter of Contract in the Fair; as where it is for Slandering the Wares of another, and not of his Person in the same Fair. Moor ca. 854. The Steward before whom the Court is held, is the Judge: And the Trial is by Merchants and Traders in the Fair; and the Judgment against the Defendant shall be Quod Americetur. If the Steward proceeds contrary to the Statute 17 Ed. 4. he shall forfeit 5*l.*

Court of Requests, (Curia Requisitionum) Was a Court of Equity, of the same Nature with the Court of Chancery, but inferior to it; principally instituted for the Relief of such Petitioners, as in conscientious Cases addressed themselves by Supplication to his Majesty: Of this Court, the Lord Privy Seal was Chief Judge, assisted by the Masters of Requests; and it had Beginning about the 9 H. 7. according to Sir Julius Caesar's Tractate on this Subject: Though Mr. Guya, in his Preface to his Readings, saith it began from a Commission first granted by King Hen. 8. This Court having assumed great Power to itself, so that it became burdensome, Mich. Anno. 40 & 41 Eliz. in the Court of Common Pleas, it was adjudged upon solemn Argument, that the Court of Requests was no Court of Judicature, &c. And by the Stat. 16 & 17 Car. 1. c. 10. it was taken away. 4 Inst. 97. See Court of Confidence.

Court of the Lord Steward of the King's House. The Lord Steward, or in his Absence, the Treasurer and Controller of the King's House, and Steward of the Marshalsea, may inquire of, hear and determine in this Court, all Treasons, Murders, Manslaughters, Bloodsheds, and other malicious Strikings, whereby Blood shall be shed, in any of the Palaces and Houses of the King, or in any other House where his Royal Person shall abide. And this Jurisdiction was given by Stat. 33 H. 8. c. 12. 3 Inst. 140. But this Court was at first intended only to inquire of and punish Felonies, &c. by the King's Servants, against any Lord or other Person of the King's Council. 3 H. 7. c. 14.

Court of Star-Chamber, (Curia Camera Secretata) A Court erected by 3 H. 7. c. 8. which ordained, That the Lord Chancellor, Treasurer, and Lord Privy Seal, calling a Bishop, and Lord of the King's Council, and the Two Chief Justices to their Assistance, on Bill or Information might make Process against Maintainers, Rioters, Persons unlawfully Assembling, and for other Misdemeanors, which through the Power and Countenance of such as did commit them lifted up their Heads above their Faults, and punish them as if the Offenders had been convicted at Law, by a Jury, &c. But this Act was repealed, and the Court dissolved by Statute 17 Car. 1. c. 10.

Courts of Universities. The Courts of Universities of Oxford and Cambridge are of a particular Nature: They were granted by Charters, and confirmed by Authority of Parliament. See Stat. 13 Eliz. 4 Inst. 227. These Courts are called the Chancellor's Courts, and are kept by the Vice-Chancellors of the Universities: Their Jurisdiction extends to all Causes Ecclesiastical and Civil, (except for Malhem, Felony, and relating to Freehold) where a Scholar, Servant, or Minister of the Universities is one of the Parties to the Suit. The Causes are managed by Advocates and Professors: And they proceed in a summary Way, according to the Practice of the Civil Law; and the Judges in their Sentences follow the Justice and Equity of the Civil Law, or the Laws, Statutes and Customs of the Universities, or the Laws of the Land, at their Discretion. 3 Cro. 73. If any erroneous Judgment be given in these Courts, Appeal lies to the Congregation; thence to the Convocation; and thence to the King in Chancery, by his Delegates. Wood's Inst. 526.

Courts of Wales, (Curia Principatus Wallie) The Courts of the Principality of Wales, and their Jurisdiction, are settled by Acts of Parliament: And besides County-Courts, Hundred-Courts; Courts-Leet, &c. by 34 & 35 H. 8. c. 26. it is enacted, that there shall be a Court of Grand Sessions, kept twice in every Year in every of the twelve Counties of Wales; and the Justices of those Courts may hold Pleas of the Crown in as large a Manner as the King's Bench, &c. And also Pleas of Assises, and all other Pleas and Actions Real and Personal, in as large a Manner as the Common Pleas, &c. And Errors in Judgment before any of the Justices in the Great Sessions, shall be redressed by Writ of Error out of the Chancery of England returnable in B. R. The Proceedings in these Courts are according to the Laws of England: And the King's Writs ought not to go into Wales; though a Quo Minus out of the Exchequer is often sent thither.

Crabare, To impeach. Si Homicida dividitur ibi vel Cravetur, &c. Leg. H. 1. c. 30.

Crabent, Was a Word of Obloquy, where in the ancient Trial by Battel, the Victory should be proclaimed, and the Vanquished acknowledge his Fault, or pronounce the Word Crabent, in the Name of Recrants, &c. and thereupon Judgment was given forthwith; after which the Recrants should become infamous, &c. 2 Inst. 248. If the Appellant join'd Battel, and cried Crabent, he should lose Liberam Legem; but if the Appellee cried out Crabent, he was to be hanged. 3 Inst. 221.

Crannet, A Foreign Merchant; but generally taken for one who hath a Stall in a Fair or Market. Blount.

Creantor, Creditor, (of the Fr. Creance) Signifies him that trusts another with any Debt, Money, or Ware: In which Sense it is used in Old Nat. Br. 66. and 38 Ed. 3. c. 5.

Creast, or Creft, (Crista) Any Imagery, or carved Work, to adorn the Head of Wainicot, &c. like our modern Cornice: But this Word is now applied by the Heralds to their Devices set over a Coat of Arms. Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. 573.

Creation-Money, This is mentioned in Stat. Car. 2. c. 1.

Creditors, Shall recover their Debts of Executors or Administrators, who in their own Wrong waste, or convert to their Use the Estate of the Deceased, &c. Stat. 30 Car. 2. c. 7. Wills and Devises of Lands, &c. as to Creditors on Bonds or other Specialties, are declared void; and the Creditors may have Actions of Debt against the Heir at Law and Devisees. 3 & 4 W. & M. c. 14. 6 & 7 W. 3. And in Favour of Creditors, whenever it appears to be the Testator's Intent, in a Will, that his Lands should be liable for paying his Debts; in such Case Equity will make them subject, though there are not express Words; but there must be more than a bare Declaration, or it shall be intended out of the personal Estate. 2 Vern. Rep. 708. Where one devisees that all his Debts, &c. shall be first paid; if his personal Estate is not sufficient to pay the Creditors, it shall amount to a Charge on his Real Estate for that Purpose. Preced. Canc. 430. See Debtors, and Executor.

Creek, (Crica, Crecca) Is a Part of a Haven where any Thing is landed from the Sea: So that it is observed, if when you are out of the main Sea within the Haven, you look round and see how many landing Places there are, so many Creeks may be said to belong to that Haven. Cromp. Jurisd. fol. 110. It is also said to be a Shore or Bank whereon the Water beats, running in a small Channel from any Part of the Sea; from the Lat. crepião. This Word is used in the Stat. 4 H. 4. c. 20. and 5 Eliz. c. 5.

Crepare Oculum, To put out an Eye; which had a pecuniary Punishment annexed to it.—Si quis alii crepat Oculum solvat ei sexaginta solid. Leg. H. 1. c. 78.

Crocards, A Sort of old base Money. See Peardards.

Crocia, The Crozier or Pastoral Staff, so called a familitudine Crucis; which Bishops, &c. had the Privilege to carry as the common Ensign of their Religious Office; and being invested in their Prelacies, by the Delivery of such a Crozier: Hence the Word Crocia did sometimes denote the Collation to, or Disposal of Bishopricks and Abbies, by the Donation of such Pastoral Staff; so as when the King granted large Jurisdictione, Exceptis Crociis, it is meant, except the Collation or Investiture of Episcopal Sees, &c. Addit. to Cowel.

Crociarius, The Crociary or Cross bearer, who like our Virger, went before the Prelate, and bore his Cross. — Robertus de Wycombe, Clericus Episcopi Dunelm. quem vulgo Crociarium ejus vocant. Liber de Miraculis Tho. Episc. Heref. MS. Anno 1290.

Croft, (Sax. Croftum and Crosta) A little Close adjoining to a Dwelling-house; and enclosed for Pasture or Arable, or any particular Use. In some old Deeds Crusta occurs as the Latin Word for a Croft; but cum Toftis & Croftis, is most frequent. Ingulph. It seems to be derived from the old English Word Creast, signifying, Handy Craft; because such Grounds are usually manured and extraordinarily dressed by the Hand and Skill of the Owner.

Croifes, and Croisado, Are mentioned in our ancient Law Books. See Croifes.

Crook, (Crocius) Turning up the Hair into Curls or Crooks; whence comes Crook, crooked, &c. — Sciatis quod Potestatem vobis Dedimus sciendendi Capillos Clericorum nostrorum, longos crines habentium, & ad Crocos Capillorum suorum deponendos, &c. Pat. 21 H. 3.

Crop, Croppa, The Seeds or Products of the Harvest in Corn, &c. Fleta, lib. 2. c. 82.

Cross-Bow, None shall shoot in, or keep any Cross-Bow, Hand-gun, Hagbut, &c. but those who have Lands of the Value of 100*l.* per Annum: And no Person shall travel with a Cross-Bow bent, or Gun charged, except in Time of War; or shoot within a Quarter of a Mile of any City, or Market-Town, unless for Defence of himself or his House, or at a dead Mark, under the Penalty of 10*l.* Stat. 33 H. 8. cap. 6.

Crosses. By Stat. 13 Eliz. c. 2. Crosses, Beads, &c. used by the Roman Catholicicks, are prohibited to be brought into this Kingdom, on Pain of a Premunire, &c. And it was usual in former Times for Men to erect Crosses on their Houses, by which they would claim the Privileges of the Templars to defend themselves against their rightful Lords; but this was condemned by the Stat. Westm. 2. c. 37. It was likewise customary in those Days, to set up Crosses in Places where the Corps of any of the Nobility rested, as it was carried to be buried, that a Transseuntibus pro ejus anima deprecetur. Walsing. Anno 1291. There were several of these Crosses erected over England, especially in Honour to the Resting-places of our Kings, on their Bodies being transmitted to any distant Place for Burial: But these Superstitions sunk in this Kingdom with the Romish Religion.

Croyses, (Cruce Signati) Is used by Briton for Pilgrims, because they wear the Sign of the Cross upon their Garments. Of these and their Privileges, Bracton hath treated, lib. 5. par. 2. cap. 2. and par. 5. cap. 9. Under this Word are also signified the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, created for the Defence of Pilgrims; and all those worthy Persons who in the Reigns of K. Hen. 2. Ric. 1. Hen. 3. and Ed. 1. Cruce Signati took upon them the Croisado, dedicating and lifting themselves to the Wars, for the Recovery of Jerusalem and the Holy Land. Greg. Syntag. Lib. 15. cap. 13, 14.

Crown,

Crown, (Corona) Signifies the Possessions and Dignity of a King of any Kingdom. The Crown of England has from the Beginning been successive, by Right of Inheritance; but sometimes our Kings, for political Reasons, have conferred their Principalities on whom they pleased, esteeming it lawful to appoint their Successors after them. For Edward the Confessor appointed the Crown, after his Decease, at several Times, to William called the Conqueror, and Edgar and Harold; and Harold, after the Decease of his Father, upon the Title left him, was crown'd by the Archbishop of York; but William of Normandy having slain Harold at the Battle of Hastings, he claim'd the Kingdom as well by the Nomination of Edward the Confessor, as by Right of Conquest, and he was crown'd and enjoy'd the Kingdom for his Time. Bac. Coron. 4. 27. And to come further down, we find that the Parliament, (which had the best Right) have asserted their Authority in these Cases: The Crowns of England and France were entail'd on King Henry the Fourth, and his four Sons by Act of Parliament. Stat. 7 H. 4. c. 2. And the Parliament entail'd the Crown on Henry the Sixth, and his Issue; also Richard the Third was recognised by Parliament. But the most extraordinary Instance of this Nature was, the Nomination and Appointment of King Henry the Eighth, to whom the Parliament granted Power by his Last Will and Testament to make Conditions and Limitations at his Pleasure, for settling the Inheritance of the Crown; and he by his Will ordain'd, that his Son Edward should succeed him, and he dying without Issue, his Daughter Mary, and for her Want of Issue, his Daughter Elizabeth to enjoy the Crown in Succession; with Remainders to such as the King by his Letters Patent, &c. should appoint. Stat. 35 Hen. 8. c. 1. After the Death of King Henry 8. his Son Edward the Sixth succeeded; and he was prevailed upon to appoint the Lady Jane, Daughter to the Duke of Suffolk, (who married King Henry's Sister) a Protestant Lady, by his Letters Patent to succeed him: But this Appointment soon after the Death of K. Edward, was vacated by Queen Mary; the Lady Jane beheaded, and the Protestant Reform'd Religion eclipsed during her Reign; but it revived again and received Perfection, by her Successor the glorious Q. Elizabeth. By the Stat. 1 Eliz. c. 1. the Parliament acknowledg'd the Queen to be right Heir to the Crown; and by this Act the Limitation of the Crown contain'd in 35 H. 8. is declared to stand and remain Law for ever. And when King James the First came to the Crown, the Parliament made a Recognition, that upon Queen Elizabeth's Death, the Crown of England, and all the Kingdoms, Dominions, and Rights belonging to the same, did by lawful Birth-right and Succession descend to K. James. Stat. 1 Jac. 1. c. 1. After this, I do not find that the Parliament intermeddled in settling the Succession of the Crown till the Abdication of King James the Second; when the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, lawfully representing all the Estates of the People of the Realm, invited over William, Prince of Orange, and the Princess Mary, (eldest Daughter of King James II.) to take Care of their Rights and Liberties; whom they declared to be King and Queen of England. And by Stat. 1 W. & M. c. 2. reciting the Declaration of the Lords and Commons for securing the Liberties of the Kingdom, upon which the Prince and Princess of Orange accepted the Crown, the said Prince and Princess were recognised King and Queen of England, &c. for their Lives, and the Life of the Survivor of them; and after their Deaths, the Crown was settled on the Heirs of the Body of the said Princess; and for Want of such Issue to the Princess Anne of Denmark, Sister to the Queen, and the Heirs of her Body. Also by 12 W. 3. c. 2. (after the Decease of Q. Mary without Issue) the Princess Sophia of Hanover, (Daughter of Elizabeth, eldest Daughter of King James the First) was declared next in Succession after King William, and the Princess Anne, and their Issue; and the Crown to remain to the Princess Sophia, and the Heirs of her Body being Protestants. By Virtue of which last Statute, his Majesty King George the First, eldest Son of the Princess Sophia, on the Death of her Majesty Queen Anne without Issue, the said Princess Sophia being likewise dead, came to the Possession of the Crown of these Realms: By these last Acts, Papists are rendered incapable to inherit the Crown of England; and Subjects are absolved of their Allegiance to such; Persons coming to the Crown, are to join in the Communion of the Church of England. And this Nation is not to be engaged in a War for Defence of Dominions not belonging to the Crown. Persons endeavouring to deprive the next in Succession to the Crown from succeeding, and who attempt it by any Overt act, are guilty of High Treason. Stat. 1 Ann. c. 2. And if any affirm by Writing, &c. that the King or Queen of England cannot make Laws by the Authority of Parliament to bind the Crown, they are guilty of Treason: And Preaching or Speaking it incur a Premunire. 4 Ann. c. 3. Affirming by Writing or Printing, that any other Person hath Right to the Crown, otherwise than according to the Stat. 1 W. & M. &c. is declared High Treason. Stat. Ibid. There is no Interregnum in this Kingdom; for when the Crown descends to the right Heir, he is Rex before Coronation, as there must always be a King in whose Name Laws are to be maintained and executed. Hill. 1 Jac. See Descent of the Crown and King.

Crown-Office. This is an Office under the King's Bench, of which the King's Coroner or Attorney there is commonly Master. The Attorney General, and Clerk of the Crown exhibit Informations in this Office, for Crimes and Misdemeanors; the one ex officio, and the other usually by Order of Court: And here Informations may be laid for Offences and Misdemeanors at Common Law, as for Batteries, Conspiracies, Libelling, Nuisances, Contempt, Seditious Words, &c. wherein the Offender is liable to pay a Fine to the King. Fines 340. Show. 109. By Stat. 4 & 5 W. & M. c. 18. the Clerk of the Crown in B. R. is not to receive or file any Information for Trespass, Battery, &c. without express Order of Court; nor to Issue any Process without taking a Recognizance in 20*l.* Penalty to prosecute with Effect; and if the Party appear, and the Plaintiff do not procure a Trial in a Year, or if Verdict pass for the Defendant, &c. the Court shall award the Defendant Costs: But this Act doth not extend to Informations in the Name of the King's Coroner or Attorney, &c. When a Battery is committed privately, so that the Person receiving it can make no Proof thereof by Witnesses at Law; it is usual to bring an Information in this Office, where the Party may be a Witness for the King, it being his Suit. Informations in the Nature of Quo Warranto's brought by the Attorney General, against Corporations, &c. Vide Quo Warranto.

Crustum, Was a Garment of Purple, mix'd with many Colours.—Duas Patenas argenteas auro ornatas, cum duobus Urceolis & Crusto auro. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. pag. 210.

Cry de Pais, On a Robbery or other Felony done, Hue and Cry may be raised by the Country in the Absence of the Constable, which is called Cry de pais. 2 Hale's Hist. P. C. 100.

Crypta, A Chapel or Oratory under Ground: Egresso toto Conventu, accepta absconsa si nox est vadit per Cryptam. Du Cange.

Cuckingstool, (Tumbrellum) Is an Engine invented for the Punishment of Scolds, and unquiet Women, by Ducking them in Water, called in ancient Time a Tumbrel; and sometimes a Trebuchet. Lamb Eiren. lib. 1. cap. 12. And Brahan writes this Word Tymborella. In Domesday it is called Castredra Stercoris:

Stercoris: And it was in Use even in our Saxons Time, by whom it was described to be Calbedra, in qua rixosæ mulieres sedentes aquis demergebantur. It was anciently also a Punishment inflicted upon Brewers and Bakers, transgressing the Laws; who were thereupon in such a Stool immersed over Head and Ears in Stercore, some stinking Water. Some think it is a Corruption from Duckingstool; others from Cboakingstool; quia hoc modo demersæ aquis ferè suffocantur. Blount.

Cude. A Cude Cloth is a Chrysom or Face-Cloth for a Child baptized. Vide Chrismale.

Cui ante Divortium, Is a Writ that a Woman divorced from her Husband hath to recover her Lands and Tenements which she had in Fee-simple, or in Tail, or for Life, from him to whom her Husband did alienate them during the Marriage, when she could not gain say it. Reg. Orig. 233. F. N. B. 240. And the Heir shall have a Sur cui ante Divortium, where the Wife dieth before the Action brought; as well as she shall have a Sur cui in Vita: But of an Estate-tail, the Heir shall not have Sur cui in Vita ante Divortium, but shall be put to his Formedon in in the Descender. New Nat. Br. 454.

Cui in Vita, Is a Writ of Entry, which a Widow hath against him to whom her Husband alienated her Lands or Tenements in his Life-time; which must contain in it, that during his Life she could not withstand it. Reg. Orig. 232. F. N. B. 193. If Husband and Wife be Jointenants before the Coverture, and the Husband alieneth all the Land, and dieth, she shall have a Cui in Vita for a Moiety, and no more: But if they are joint Purchasers, during the Coverture, and he alien all the Land, and dieth, his Wife shall have a Cui in Vita of the whole Land; because that during the Coverture, as to Purchase, they are but one Person in Law. F. N. B. 187. And from this Reason, if Husband and Wife, and a third Person, purchase jointly, and the Husband alieneth all in Fee, and dieth, the Wife shall have a Cui in Vita of a Moiety. Ibid. Where the Husband and Wife exchange the Lands of the Wife for other Lands, if the Wife agree unto the Exchange after the Husband's Death, she shall not have a Cui in Vita. Also if the Wife do accept of Parcel of the Land in Dower, of which she hath a Cui in vita, by that Acceptance she shall be barred of the Residue. New Nat. Br. 430. If the Husband and Wife lose by Default the Wife's Lands, after the Death of her Husband, she shall have a Cui in Vita to recover those Lands so lost by Default. F. N. B. 187. By Stat. 13 Ed. 2. c. 3. Cui in Vita is given to the Wife where the deceased Husband lost her Lands by Default in his Life-time: And she shall be admitted to defend her Right during his Life, if she come in before Judgment. Likewise if Tenant in Dower, by the Curtesy, or for Life, do make Default, &c. the Heirs and they to whom the Reversion belongeth, shall be admitted to their Answer, if they come before Judgment: And if on Default Judgment happen to be given, such Heirs, &c. shall have a Writ of Entry for Recovery of the same, after the Death of such Tenants. The Form of the Writ Cui in Vita runs thus:

Form of a Writ Cui in Vita.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff, &c. Command A. B. that justly, &c. be render to C. D. who was the Wife of T. D. one Messuage, with the Appurtenances in, &c. which she claimeth to be her Right and Inheritance, and into which the said A. B. hath not entered, but by the aforesaid T. D. sometime Husband of her the said C. D. who that to him demised; whom she in his Life-time could not contradict, as she saith, &c.

Culagium, Is when a Ship is laid up in the Dock to be repaired. MS. Arb. Trevor Arm. de Plac. Edw. 3.

Culpit, Is a Reply of a proper Officer in Behalf of the King, affirming a Criminal to be Guilty, after he hath pleaded Not guilty, without which the Issue to be tried is not joined: It is compounded of two Words, viz. Cul and Prit; the one an Abbreviation of Culpabilis, and the other derived from the French Word Prest, i. e. Ready; and 'tis as much as to say, That he is ready to prove the Offender guilty.

Cultura, This Word is often found in old Writings, and signifies a Parcel of arable Land. Blount.

Culvertage, (Culvertagium) Is said by some Persons to be derived from Culum & Vertere, to turn Tail: And in this Sense, sub nomine Culvertagii, was taken to be on Pain of Cowardice, or being accounted Cowards. But in the Opinion of others, it rather signifies some base Slavery, or the Confiscation of an Estate; being a Feudal Term for the Lands of the Vassal forfeited and escheating to the Lord: And sub nomine Culvertagii, in this Signification, was under Pain of Confiscation. Matt. Paris. Anno 1212.

Culward and Culberd, Words used for a Coward, or Cowardice. Chart. Temp. E. 1.

Cuna Cerbilla, A Tub of Ale. Domestay. But this Word is truly Curva.

Cuneus, A Mint or Place to coin Money: Cuneum Monetum signifies the King's Stamp for Coinage; and from the Word Cune, is derived Coin. See Coin.

Cuntee-Cuntee, Is a Kind of Trial, as appears by Bracton, in these Words, In Brevis de Re. So, negotium terminabitur per Cuntee-Cuntee, &c. which is taken to be the Ordinary Jury. Bract. lib. 4. tract. 3. c. 18.

Curagulus, One who taketh Care of a Thing. Mon. Ang. Tom 2.

Curia Monasterii, An Officer so called, who had the Charge of a Monastery.

Curate, (Curatus) Is he who represents the Incumbent of a Church, Parson or Vicar, and officiates Divine Service in his Stead: And in Case of Pluralities of Livings, or where a Clergyman is old and infirm, it is requisite there should be a Curate to perform the Cure of the Church. He is to be licensed and admitted by the Bishop of the Diocese, or by an Ordinary, having Episcopal Jurisdiction: And when a Curate hath the Approbation of the Bishop, he usually appoints the Salary too; and in such Case, if he be not paid, the Curate hath a proper Remedy in the Ecclesiastical Court, by a Sequestration of the Profits of the Benefice; but if he hath no Licence from the Bishop, he is put to his Remedy at Common Law, where he must prove the Agreement, &c. Right Clerg. 127. By Statute, where Curates are licensed by the Bishop, they are to be appointed by him a Stipend not exceeding 50 l. per Ann. nor less than 20 l. a Year, according to the Value of the Livings, to be paid by the Rector or Vicar: And the same may be done on any Complaint made. Stat. 12 Ann. c. 2. One Person cannot be Curate in two Churches, unless such may satisfy the Law, by Reading both Morning and Evening Prayers at each Place: Nor can he serve one Cure on one Sunday, and another Cure on the next; for he must not neglect to read Morning and Evening Prayer in his Church every Lord's Day; if he doth he is liable to Punishment. Comp. Incumb. 572. But it is otherwise where a Church or Chapel is a Member of the Parish Church: and where one Church is not able to maintain a Curate. Can. 48. A Curate having no fixed Estate in his Curacy, not being instituted and inducted, may be removed at Pleasure by the Bishop or Incumbent. Noy. But there are Perpetual Curates, as well as temporary, who are appointed where Tithes are impropriate.

G g g and and no Vicarage endowed: These are not removeable; and the Impropriators are obliged to find them, some whereof have certain Portions of the Tithes settled on them. Stat. 29 Car. 2. Every Clergyman that officiates in a Church, (whether Incumbent or Substitute) is in our Liturgy called a Curate: Curates must subscribe the Declaration, according to the Act of Uniformity, or are liable to Imprisonment, &c.

Curfeu, (of the Fr. Curvir, i. e. Tegera, and Feu, Ignis) Signifies the Ringing of a Bell, or Evening Peal, by which William the First, called the Conqueror, commanded every Person to rake up or cover over his Fire, and put out his Light: And in many Places of England at this Day, where a Bell is customarily rung towards Bed-time, it is said to Ring Curfeu. Stow's Annals.

Curia, The Word was sometimes taken for the Persons, as feudatory and other customary Tenants, who did their Suit and Service at the Court of the Lord. Kennet's Paroch. Antiq. 139. And it was usual for the Kings of England, in ancient Times, to assemble the Bishops, Peers, and great Men of the Kingdom to some particular Place, at the chief Festivals in the Year, and this Assembly is called by our Historians Curia; because there they consulted about the weighty Affairs of the Nation. And it was therefore called Solemnis Curia, Augustalis Curia, Curia Publica, &c. See Court.

Curia advisare vult, Is a Deliberation which a Court of Judicature sometimes takes, where there is any Point of Difficulty, before they give Judgment in a Cause. New Book Entr. And when Judgment is said, upon Motion to arrest it; then 'tis entered by the Judges Curia advisare vult. Shep. Epit. 682.

Curia Curfus Aquæ, A Court held by the Lord of the Manor of Gravesend for the better Management of Barges and Boats using the Passage on the River of Tbames from thence to London, and plying at Gravesend Bridge, &c. mentioned in the Stat. 2 Geo. 2. c. 26.

Curia Claudenda, Is a Writ to compel another to make a Fence or Wall, which he ought to make between his Land and the Plaintiff's, on his refusing or deferring to do the same. Reg. Orig. 155. This Writ doth not lie but against him who hath a Close adjoining to the Plaintiff's Land, who is obliged to enclose it; and it lieth not but for him who hath a Freehold, &c. It may be sued before the Sheriff in the County Court, or in the Common Pleas: And the Judgment is to recover the Inclosure and Damages. New Nat. Br. 282, 283.

Curia Domini, The Lord's House, Hall or Court, where all the Tenants attend at the Time of keeping Courts.

Curia Penticefarum, Is a Court held by the Sheriff of Chester, in the Place there called the Pentice or Pentice: And 'tis probable its being originally kept under a Pent house, or open Shed covered with Boards, gave it its Denomination.

Curnock, A Measure containing four Bushels, or Half a Quarter. Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 12.

Curriers, Are Persons that curry and dress Leather. No Carrier shall use the Trade of a Butcher, Tanner, &c. or shall curry Skins insufficiently tanned, or gash any Hides of Leather, on Pain of Forfeiting for every Hide or Skin 6 s. 8 d. And Persons in London putting Leather to be curried to any but Freemen of the Curriers Company; and such Curriers not currying the Leather sufficiently, shall forfeit the Wares, or the Value, &c. Stat. 1 Jac. 1. The Clause relating to Freemen is repealed; but if any Carrier do not curry Leather sent him, within Sixteen Days between Michaelmas and Lady Day, and in Eight Days at other Times, on Conviction before a Justice, he shall forfeit 5 l. to be levied by Distress, &c. yet subject to Mitigation. 12 Geo. 2. c. 25. Curriers and such as deal in Leather, may cut and sell it in small Pieces in their Shops to any Persons whatsoever. Stat. Ibid.

Curriculus, The Year, or Course of a Year: Album est hoc annorum Dominicæ incarnationis quatuor quinquagenis & quinquies, quinis Lustris, & tribus Curriculis. This is Year 1028; for four Times 50 make 200, and five Times 200 make 1000. Then five Lustra are twenty-five Years, and three Curriculi, three Years, making in all the very Year.

Curstors, (Clerici de Curfu) Clerks belonging to the Chancery, who make out original Writs; and are called Clerks of Course, in their Oath appointed 18 Ed. 3. There are of these Clerks twenty-four in Number, which make a Corporation of themselves; and to each Clerk is allotted a Division of certain Counties, in which they exercise their Functions. 2 Inst. 670.

Cursores, A sort of light Ships, or swift Sailors: This Word is mentioned in Hoveden, R. 1. Applicurunt ibi Navis & Busciæ 500. exceptis Galeis & Cursois, &c.

Curtesy of England, (Jus Curialitatis Angliæ) Is where a Man taketh a Wife seized in Fee-simple, or Fee-tail general, or as Heiress in special Tail, and hath Issue by her, Male or Female, born alive, which by any Possibility may inherit, and the Wife dies; the Husband holds the Lands during his Life; and is called Tenens per Legem Angliæ, or Tenant by the Curtesy of England; because this Privilege is not allowed in any other Country, except Scotland, now belonging to England. And four Things are requisite to give an Estate by the Curtesy, viz. Marriage, Seisin of the Wife, Issue, and death of the Wife. 1 Inst. 30. If Land descend to the Wife, after the Husband hath Issue by her; or if the Issue be dead at the Time of her Death, being born alive; the Husband shall be Tenant by the Curtesy. Also if a Child is born alive, 'tis not material whether 'tis baptised, or ever heard to cry, to make the Husband Tenant by the Curtesy; for if 'tis born alive, 'tis enough. 1 Nelf. Abr. 578. But the Child must be such as by Possibility may inherit; and therefore if Land be given to a Woman, and the Heirs Male of her Body, and she takes Husband and hath Issue a Daughter, and dies; as this Issue cannot possibly inherit, the Husband shall not be Tenant by the Curtesy. Terms de Ley 206. If the Child is rip'd forth of the Mother's Belly, after her Death, tho' it be alive, it will not entitle Tenancy by the Curtesy; for this ought to begin by the Issue; and be consummate by the Death of the Wife, and the Estate of Tenant by the Curtesy should avoid the immediate Descent. Ibid. A Man shall not be Tenant by the Curtesy of a bare Right, Title, Use, Reversion, &c. expectant upon an Estate of Freehold, unless the particular Estate is determined during the Coverture; nor of a Seisin in Law: But if a Wife dies before a Rent becomes due; or in the Case of an Advowson, before the Church becomes void: the Husband shall be Tenant by the Curtesy, though the Wife had only a Seisin in Law: for in this Case no other Seisin could be attained. F. N. B. 149. 1 Inst. 29, 30, 40. There is no Tenancy by the Curtesy of Copbold Lands, except there be a special Custom for it. And where a Husband is entitled to this Tenancy, if after the Wife is an Ideot, and her Estate in the Land found; when she dies, he shall not be Tenant by the Curtesy, for the King's Title by Relation prevents it. Plowd. 263. If the Wife be seized in Fee of Lands, and attaint of Felony, but have Issue by her Husband, and she is hanged, &c. 'tis said the Husband shall be Tenant by the Cur- Curtesy: But yet the Land will be forfeited according to this Book. Kitch. 159. 21 Ed. 3. 49. A Woman seized of Land had two Daughters, and covenanted to stand seized to the Use of E. her eldest Daughter in Tail; on Condition that she should pay to her other Daughter within a certain Time 300*l.* And if E. made Default, or died without Issue before such Payment, then the Land to go to the second Daughter; the Mother dying, E. took a Husband, and had Issue, and died afterwards without any Issue living, before the Day of Payment: It was here held, that her Husband should be Tenant by the Curtesy. 1 Leon. cap. 233. See Kitch. 159.

Curteyn, (Curtana) Was the Name of King Edward the Confessor's Sword; which is the first Sword carried before the Kings of England at their Coronation: And it is said the Point of it is broken as an Emblem of Mercy. Mat. Paris. in Hen. 3.

Curtilage, (Curtilagium, from the Fr. Cour, Court, and Sax. Leagb locus) Is a Court-Yard, Back side, or Piece of Ground lying near and belonging to a Dwelling-house. 4 Ed. 1. cap. 1. 35 H. 8. c. 4. 39 Eliz. c. 10. 6 Rep. 64. — *Mibi dici videtur Curtilagium à Curtillum & ago, scil. locus ubi Curtis vel Curtilli negotium agitur. Curtilles Terræ, Court-Lands. It is recorded, that among our Saxon Ancestors, the Thanes or Nobles who possessed Bockland, or hereditary Lands, divided them into Inland and Outland: The Inland was that which lay most convenient for the Lord's Mansion-house; and therefore the Lords kept that Part in their own Hands, for Support of their Families, and for Hospitality: Afterwards the Normans called these Lands Terras Dominicales, the Demains, or Lord's Lands: The Germans term'd them Terras Indominicatas, Lands in the Lord's own Use: And the Feudists, Terras Curtilles, Lands appropriate to the Court or House of the Lord. Spelm. of Feuds, cap. 5.

Custantia, The same with Custagium, which signifies Costs.

Custode admittendo, and Custode amovendo, Writs for the Admitting or Removing of Guardians. Reg. Orig.

Custodes Libertatis Bnglitz Auctoritate Parliamenti, Was the Style in which Writs and all judicial Process did run during the Grand Rebellion, from the Murder of King Charles I. till the Usurper Oliver was declared Protector, &c. mentioned and declared traitorous, by Statute 12 Car. 2. c. 3.

Custodiam dare, Was taken for a Gift or Grant for Life. De Cange.

Custom, (Consuetudo) Is a Law not written, established by long Usage, and the Consent of our Ancestors. No Law can oblige a People without their Consent: So where-ever they consent and use a certain Rule or Method as a Law, such Rule, &c. gives it the Power of a Law; and if 'tis universal, then 'tis Common Law; if particular to this or that Place, then 'tis Custom. 3 Salk. 112. And as to the Rise of Customs, when a reasonable Act once done was found to be good and beneficial to the People, then did they use it often, and by frequent Repetition of the Act, it became a Custom; which being continued without Interruption Time out of Mind, it obtain'd the Force of a Law, to bind the particular Places, Persons, and Things concerned therein. Thus a Custom had Beginning and grew to Perfection: And a good Custom must be grounded on Antiquity, Continuance, Certainty, and Reason; Antiquity, for that it hath been Time out of Memory, or threescore Years, as limited by Statute; and Time out of Mind is where no Man then living hath heard or known any Proof to the contrary: If two or more Witnesses can depose that they heard their Fathers say it was a Custom all their Time; and that their Fathers heard their Grandfathers say it was so also in their Time; it is enough for the Proof of a Custom. Blount. Davis Rep. 32. Continuance of a Custom ought to be without any Interruption Time out of Memory; for if it be discontinued within Time of Memory, the Custom is gone. Certainty, a Custom must be certain, because an uncertain Thing may not be continued Time out of Mind: And Custom must be reasonable, for unreasonable Things are unlawful. Customs have four inseparable Incidents: They are to have a reasonable Commencement; to be certain, and not ambiguous; to have uninterrupted Continuance; and not be against the King's Prerogative. And the two Pillars of Custom, are common Usage, and that they be Time out of Mind. Davis 32. 4 Leon. 384. A Custom contrary to the publick Good; or injurious to a Multitude, and beneficial only to some particular Persons, such Custom is repugnant to the Law of Reason, and consequently void. Dav. 1. Customs ought to be beneficial to all, but may be good where against the Interest of a particular Person, if for the publick Good. Dyer 60. A Custom is not unreasonable for being injurious to private Persons or Interests, so as it tends to the general Advantage of the People. 3 Salk. A Custom may be good in some Cases, where a Prescription is not: But Customs that are good for the Substance and Matter of them, may yet be bad for the Manner; if they are uncertain, or mix'd with any other Custom that is unreasonable, &c. 2 Bullst. 166. 2 Brownl. 198. Custom that every one who passeth over such a Bridge, within the Lord's Manor, and which the Lord doth repair, shall pay him one Penny, is a good Custom; but if it be to pay the Lord 12*d.* it will be naught, for it is unreasonable. Calth. Cop. 35. 1 Bullst. 203. A Custom that a Lord shall have within his Manor Liberam saldam, or throughout the Village; and that no other shall have it but by Agreement with him, and if any take it, the Lord may abate the same; this hath been held a good Custom. 1 Roll. 560. The Custom of a Place, for all the Inhabitants of the Parish, to have Common in a great Waste of the Lord's for all Manner of Beasts all the Year; and to have Liberty to Water them in such a Pond, and when the Pond was foul, to cleanse it, was adjudged good. Mich. 4 Jac. 1. 2 Brownl. 293. A Custom, that Tenants of a Manor shall grind all the Corn they spend in their own Houses, in the Lord's Mill, &c. is good: But Custom that every Inhabitant of a House held of the Lord, shall grind the Corn that he spends, or shall sell, at his Mill, is void. Moor, cap. 1217. Hob. 149. Custom to have a common Bakehouse in a Manor or Parish, for all the Tenants or Inhabitants, is a good Custom. 2 Bullst. 198. Custom is, and must always be alledg'd to be in many Persons, and so it may be claimed by Copyholders, or the Inhabitants of a Place, and when it is claimed, it must be as within such a County, Hundred, City, Borough, Manor, Parish, Hamlet, &c. Co. Litt. 110, 113. 4 Rep. 31. A good Custom or Prescription hath the Force of a Grant; as where one and his Ancestors have had a Rent Time out of Mind, and used to distrain, &c. But a Custom that begins by Extortion of Lords of Manors, is Judged wanting a lawful Commencement, and therefore void: And where Custom is amongst many, and they are all dead but one, the Custom is gone. Plow. 322. Dyer 199. Customs must be construed according to vulgar Apprehension: And are to be taken strictly, being in Derogation of the Common Law. 2 Roll. Abr. 270. They are not good which are meerly in the Negative; but if mixed with an Affirmative, they may be good. 1 Roll. 565. A Custom which may be intended to have had lawful Beginning, is a good Custom; otherwise not: Nor will Continuance of Time make Malum in se good. 1 Lil. Ab. 375. Customs against common Right and the Rule of Law, are held good.

good, 8 Rep. 126. The Law takes Notice of Customs of Gavelkind, &c. which alter Descents from the Common Law, in Favour of all the Sons, &c. And Custom for an eldest Daughter to inherit, or a youngest Son, may be good: For these, though contrary to a particular Rule of Law, may have a reasonable Beginning. 1 Nels. Abr. 579. And by Custom a Woman may be endowed of a Moiety of the Husband's Lands, &c. Also by Custom, an Infant may make a Feoffment, at the Age of Fifteen: And Infants may bind themselves Apprentices, &c. 2 Danv. Abr. 438. Regularly a Man cannot alledge a Custom against a Statute, because that is the highest Matter of Record in Law: But a Custom may be alledged against a negative Statute, which is made in Affirmance of the Common Law. 1 Inst. 115. And Acts of Parliament do not always take away the Force of Customs. Custom pleaded against Custom is not good. 2 Danv. 436. A Custom is to be positively alledged, by Usage in Fact. Lutw. 1319. General Customs which are used throughout England, and are the Common Law, are to be determined by the Judges: But Particular Customs, such as are used in some certain Town, Borough, City, &c. shall be determined by Jury. Doct. & Stud. c. 7, 10. 1 Inst. 110. Consuetudo pro Lege servatur, &c. faith Bracon, lib. 3. c. 3. And Custom is said to be altera Lex: But the Judges of the Court of B. R. or C. B. can over-rule a Custom though it be one of the Customs of London, if it be against natural Reason, &c. 1 Mod. 212.

Custom of London. The City of London hath divers particular Customs, different from any other Place. By the Custom of London, when a Citizen and Freeman dies, his Goods and Chattels shall be divided into three Parts; the Wife to have one Part, the Executors another, to discharge Legacies, &c. and the Children unprovided for, the other third Part. 2 Danv. Abr. 311, 312. If a Freeman of London hath no Wife, but Children, the Half of his Personal Estate goes to them, and he may dispose of the other Moiety; so if he have a Wife and no Children, the Half belongs to her; but if he have both Wife and Children, then one third Part belongs to the Wife, another third to the Children, and he may dispose of the other third; and if he dies Intestate, the remaining third is to be distributed according to the Statute. 2 Nels. 1139. But see 11 Geo. 1. c. 18. An after born Child shall come in with the others, for a Customary Share of a Freeman's Estate. And where any Child dies, before one and twenty, his Share survives to the other Children; but in Case he die after that Age, at which Time he might make a Will of it, there on his dying Intestate, it shall go according to the Statute of Distributions. Preced. Canc. 499, 537. A Devise or Settlement of Lands, does not bar a Child of his Part of the Personal Estate by the Custom: But where a Wife is to have a certain Sum out of the Husband's Estate, it shall be intended in Satisfaction of her Share. 2 Vern. 753. 1 Chan. Caf. 160. A Freeman of London dies without Issue, his Widow is to have her Widow's Chamber, and a Moiety of the Rest of the Estate; and in an extraordinary Case, she was allowed the Benefit of the other Moiety for Life, by Virtue of her Husband's Will. 1 Vern. 132. 2 Vern. Rep. 110. By the Statute 11 Geo. 1. Freeman by Will may now give and dispose of their Personal Estates, to whom they think fit; yet if they die Intestate, such Estates shall be subject to, and be distributed agreeable to the Custom of the City. Where a Freeman dies, and leaves Orphan-Children under Age, unmarried, the Court of Orphans hath the Custody of their Bodies and Goods, by the Custom of London: It is also the same, though he dies, or the Children were born out of London. 1 Mod. 80. By the City Custom, Action on the Case lies for calling a married Woman Whore; for in London such Woman may be carted: And this reaches to all the Inhabitants within London. 2 Danv. 310. 1 Lill. 378. A Woman that useth a Trade in London, without her Husband, is chargeable without him as a Feme Sole Merchant: She shall plead as sole, and if condemned, be put in Prison till she pay the Debt; also the Bail for her are liable, if she absent herself; and the Husband shall not be charged. Privil. Londini. And if Action of Trespass be brought against a Man and his Wife, and the Wife only arrested, &c. by the Custom of London, the Plaintiff may proceed against the Wife. It is the Custom of the City of London, that where a Person is educated in one Trade, he may set up another. 1 Saund. 312. If a Debtor be Fugitive, he may be arrested by the Custom of London, before the Day, to find better Security. Hob. 86. Where two Persons are bound as Sureties for another, and Recovery is had against one of them, he may have Contribution against the other, by the City Laws. 2 Danv. Abr. 310. Debts on simple Contract will maintain an Action in London, as well as Debts on Speciality: And it is the Custom of the City, that Action of Debt shall be maintained upon such a Contract against Executors or Administrators, who shall be chargeable therewith, as if it were upon a Bond or Obligation. 8 Co. Rep. 126. 5 Rep. 82. There is a foreign Attachment, by the Custom of London, of Money, &c. in the Hands of a third Person, where one Man owes another any Debt, &c. See Attachment. By a Custom of London, every Tenant at Will of any House above 40s. per Ann. in the City, ought to give, or to have, half a Year's Warning, on leaving it: And a Landlord recovered half a Year's Rent, where the Tenant had left the House, &c. without such Warning. Comber. 384. If any Custom of London be pleaded and denied, it shall be tried by Writ to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, to certify whether there be such a Custom; who shall make Certificate by the Mouth of their Recorder. Cro. Car. 516. The Courts at Westminster of Course take Notice of the Customs of London; but not of any other Place, without being alledged. 1 Rol. Rep. 106.

Custom of Merchants, Merchants giving Characters of Strangers to those who sell them Goods, are liable to the Debts of such Strangers for the Goods sold; by the Custom of Merchants. Lex Mercat. cap. 10. fol. 69. If two Persons be found in arrear, upon an Account grounded on the Custom of Merchants, any one of them may be charged to pay the whole Sum, that both were found in Arrear. 1 Lill. Abr. 376. And if two joint Merchants occupy their Stock and Merchandise in Common, one of them naming himself a Merchant, shall have an Account against the other, and charge him as Receiver. Co. Litt. 172. By the Custom of Merchants, where a Merchant orders his Factor to buy Goods of a particular Person, there the Merchant is Debtor, and not the Factor: But 'tis otherwise where the Merchant orders his Factor to buy Goods generally, without saying of whom; here the Factor is Debtor, though the Goods come to the Use of the Merchant. 1 Lill. 376. The Custom of Merchants as to Bills of Exchange, that the Indorsee shall charge the first Drawer before the Indorser, &c. See Bill of Exchange.

Customs, (Custumæ) Are used for the Tribute or Toll that Merchants pay to the King, for carrying out and bringing in Merchandise. Stat. 14 Ed. 3. c. 21. They are Duties payable to the Crown for Goods exported and imported, and are due to the King of common Right; first because the Subject hath Leave to depart the Kingdom, and to export the Commodities thereof; secondly, for the Interest which the King hath in the Sea, and as he is Guardian of, and maintains all the Ports, wherein the Commodities are exported or imported; and lastly, for that the King protects Merchants from Enemies and Pirates. Dyer 43. The Word Customs comprehends Magna & Antiqua Custumæ, which is payable out of our own native Commodities, as for Wool, Woodfells, and Leather; and Parva Custumæ, Custumæ, which are Customs payable by Merchants, Strangers and Denizens; and these began in the Reign of Edw. I. when the Parliament granted him 3*d.* in the Pound for all Merchandises exported and imported. Ibid. 165. But that which is granted by Parliament, is properly called a Subsidy; and sometimes granted to the King for Life; and there are several Sorts of these Subsidies, as Tonnage, a Duty granted out of every Ton of Wine imported, which was first granted by Parliament to King Edward III. And Poundage, a Subsidy granted for all Goods exported and imported, except Wines, &c. and is usually the twentieth Part of the Value of the Goods, or 12*d.* in the Pound; and this was first given to Hen. 6. for Life. 1 Nels. Abr. 583, 584. In the Reign of Edward III. the Great Charter for free Traffick was confirm'd: And Anno 6 Ed. III. it was enacted, that no new Customs could be levied, nor ancient increased, but by Authority of Parliament. 2 Inst. 60. But though the King cannot lay any Imposition on Merchandise without Consent of Parliament; yet by his Prerogative he may restrain Merchants from Trading without his Royal License. In the 14th Year of Ed. 3. it was enacted in Parliament, that a Mark should be paid as Custom for a Sack of Wool. Anno 4 H. 8. Collectors were appointed of the Subsidy of Cloth of Gold, Silver, Velvet, &c. And 1 Eliz. Duties were granted on Sweets, Wines, &c. And An. 12 Car. 2. The Subsidies of Tonnage and Poundage, &c. were granted to King Charles during his Life; as they have been since to his Royal Successors, down to his Majesty King George II. And many and various are the Duties of Customs granted on foreign Goods and Merchandise, in the Reigns of King James II. K. William, Q. Anne, and his late and present Majesty. The Tonnage Duty granted to King Charles II. was for every Tun of French Wine, brought into the Port of London, by Merchants natural Subjects, 4*l.* 10*s.* by Alien Strangers 6*l.* for Malmseys, Tents, Alicants, Sacks, Canaries, Malaga's, Madera's, and all other sweet Wines, by native Subjects, 2*l.* 5*s.* the Tun, by Strangers and Aliens 3*l.* &c. The Poundage Duty was 12*d.* in the Pound value for all Merchandise Goods, according to the Book of Rates, except Woollen Cloths made in England, and for all Woollen Broad Cloths, to be paid after the Rate of each 64 Pounds in Weight, by Subjects 3*s.* 4*d.* and Strangers 6*s.* 8*d.* Stat. 12 Car. 2. c. 4. If Goods and Merchandise are brought by a Merchant to a Port or Haven, and there Part thereof sold but never put on Land, they must pay the Customs; and discharging them out of the Ship into another upon the Sale, amounts in Law to a putting them upon the Land, so that if the Custom Duties are not paid, the Goods will be forfeited. Hill. 24 Eliz. 12 Co. Rep. 18. By the Statute 21 Geo. 2. c. 2. over and above all Subsidies of Tonnage and Poundage, and other Duties whatsoever already payable on any Goods or Merchandises imported, a further Subsidy of Poundage of 12*d.* in the Pound is given to his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, payable by the Importer according to the Rate of the same Goods, as valued in the Book of Rates. Unrated East India Goods are to pay 5*l.* per Cent. of the Gross Price, for which they shall be sold at the Candle. By the Stat. 19 Geo. 2. c. 34. If any Persons, to the Number of three or more, armed with offensive Weapons, shall be assembled in order to be aiding in the illegal Exportation of Goods prohibited to be exported, or the Running uncustomed Goods, or the illegal Relanding any Goods, or rescuing the same, after Seizure, from any Officer, or from the Place where they shall be lodged, or in the Rescuing any Person apprehended for any Offence made Felony by any Act relating to the Customs or Excise, or preventing the Apprehending any Person guilty of any such Offence; or in Case any Persons to the Number of three or more, so armed, shall be so assisting, or if any Person shall have his Face blacked, or wear any Mask or other Disguise when passing with such Goods, or shall forcibly hinder, obstruct, assault, oppose, or resist any Officer of his Majesty's Revenue, in the Seizing such Goods, or shall maim or dangerously wound any such Officer in his attempting to go on board any Vessel, or shoot at or dangerously wound any such Person when on board and in the Execution of his Office, every such Person shall be guilty of Felony and suffer Death. On Information on Oath of any Person's being guilty of any of the above Offences, the Justice may certify the Information to one of the Secretaries of State, who is to lay it before his Majesty; whereupon his Majesty may make an Order, requiring the Offender to surrender himself in forty Days after Publication thereof in the Gazette; and in Default thereof, the Order being published twice in the Gazette, and proclaimed in two Markets near where the Offence was committed, and a Copy thereof affixed up in some publick Place there, the Offender shall be attainted of Felony and suffer Death. Any Person harbouring or aiding any such Offender after the Time for his Surrender expired, knowing him to have been so required to surrender, being prosecuted within a Year, shall be transported for seven Years. Offences made Felony by this Act, may be sued in any County. If any Officer, &c. in the Seizing, &c. such Goods, or in the Endeavouring to apprehend any such Offender, shall be beat, wounded, maimed or killed, or the Goods be rescued, the Inhabitants of the Rape, Lath or Hundred, unless the Offender be convicted within six Months, shall forfeit 100*l.* to the Executors of any Officer killed; and pay Damages to any Officer beat, &c. not exceeding 40*l.* and for any Goods rescued, not exceeding 200*l.* A Reward of 500*l.* for apprehending any Offender; a Person wounded in apprehending an Offender to have 50*l.* extraordinary, and the Executors of a Person killed to have 100*l.* Ships and Vessels outward bound, are not to take in any Goods, till the Vessel, &c. is entered with the Collector of the Customs; and before Departure, the Contents of the Lading is to be brought in under the Hands of the Laders, &c. Also when Ships arrive from beyond Sea, the Masters are to make a true Entry upon Oath, of the Lading, Goods, Ship, &c. under the Penalty of 100*l.* And if any concealed Goods are found after Clearing, for which the Duties have not been paid, the Master of the Vessel shall be subject to the like Penalty. Stat. 13 & 14 Car. 2. Keepers of Wharfs, Keys, &c. landing or shipping Goods, without the Presence of some Officer of the Customs, shall forfeit 100*l.* And resisting Officers of the Customs in the Execution of their Office, is liable to a Fine not exceeding 100*l.* Stat. Ibid. But by 6 Geo. 1. Where Officers of the Customs are hindered in the Execution of their Duty, by Persons armed to the Number of Eight, the Offenders are to be transported for seven Years. If any Goods are put into any Vessel to be carried beyond Sea; or be brought from beyond Sea, and unshipped to be landed, the Duties not being paid, nor agreed for at the Custom-House; the same shall be forfeited, one Moiety to the King, the other to the Seisor, &c. And by late Statutes, Foreign Goods taken in at Sea, by any Coasting Vessel, &c. shall be forfeited, and treble Value. To prevent clandestine running of Goods, foreign Brandy, &c. imported in Vessels under forty Tuns, the Vessel and Brandy to be forfeited: If any Person conceal Run Goods, he shall forfeit them, and treble Value; and the like Penalty is inflicted for offering such Goods to Sale. 8 & 11 Geo. 1. The Commissioners of the Customs, &c. shall cause all Goods seized for unlawful Importation, or Non-payment of Duties, to be publickly sold; and damaged Wines for Distillation, &c. And one or more Justices of Peace, of the County where any Seizure shall be made by Officers of Run-Goods, &c. mentioned in Informations before them, may administer an Oath to any Person skilled in the Nature and Quality of the Goods, to view the same, and make a Return of the Species and Value; and after they shall be condemned and sold. Stat. 12 Geo. 1. cap. 26. By the late Act, where three Persons are assembled and armed with Fire-Arms, &c. to be assisting in the Running of Goods, they shall be guilty of Felony and transported, and 50*l.* to be paid for apprehending such Offenders, also the like Reward to any of them for discovering others. All Persons two or more in Company, found passing within five Miles from the Sea-Coasts, with any Horses, Cart, &c. wherein are put above six Pounds of Tea, or five Gallons of Brandy, or other foreign Goods of 30*l.* Value, landed without Entry, and not having Permits, and who shall carry offensive Weapons, &c. or Assault any of the Officers of the Customs, shall be adjudged Runners of Goods, and be transported as Felons, and all the Goods to be seized and forfeited: And suspected Persons lurking near the Coasts, not giving a good Account of themselves, may be sent by a Justice to the House of Correction for a Month; and Informers to have 20*s.* for every Offender so taken. If any Person offers any Tea, Brandy, &c. to Sale, without a Permit, the Persons to whom offered may seize and carry it to the next Warehouse belonging to the Customs or Excise; and the Seizors shall have a third Part, &c. And Watermen, Carmen, Porters, &c. in whose Custody Run Goods are found, shall forfeit treble Value, or be committed for three Months. Ships and Vessels from foreign Parts, having on Board Tea, or Brandy, Rum, &c. in Casks under sixty Gallons, (except for the Use of Seamen) found at Anchor, or hovering near any Port, or within two Leagues of the Shore, and not proceeding in their Voyages, unless in Cases of unavoidable Necessity, all such Tea, &c. shall be forfeited. Persons offering any Bribe to Officers of the Customs, to connive at the Running of Goods, to forfeit 50*l.* and obstructing such Officers in entering or searching Ships, incurs a Forfeiture of 100*l.* And if an Officer be wounded or beaten on board any Ship, the Offenders to be transported, &c. Stat. 9 Geo. 2. c. 35. There is a Drawback allowed Merchants for some Goods and Merchandize; and they have Allowances of so much per Cent. out of the Customs, where Goods are defective, or receive Damage, &c.

By Statute, no Customer or Comptroller of the Customs, shall have any Ships of his own, or meddle with the Freight of Ships. 14 R. 2. c. 10. And no Searcher, Surveyor, &c. or their Clerks, Deputies, or Servants, may have any such Ships of their own; nor shall use Merchandize, keep a Wharf, Inn or Tavern, or be Factor, Attorney, &c. to a Merchant, under the Penalty of 40*l.* Stat. 20 H. 6. c. 5. Customers, Collectors, or Comptrollers, shall not conceal Customs duly entered and paid, in Pain to forfeit the treble Value of Merchandize so customed, and to make Fine and Ransom to the King. 3 H. 6. c. 3. If any Persons employed about the Customs and Subsidies take a Bribe, or connive at any false Entry, they shall forfeit 100*l.* and be incapable of any Employment under the King. Stat. 13 & 14 Car. 2. c. 11. Also if any Officer of the Revenue, shall make any collusive Seizure of foreign Goods, to the Intent the same may escape Payment of the Duties, he is to forfeit 500*l.* and be incapable of serving his Majesty; and the Importer and Owner shall forfeit treble the Value of the Goods so collusively seized, &c. 5 Geo. 1. c. 11. Officers of the Customs, &c. are not to trade in Brandy, Coffee, &c. or any exciseable Liquor, on Pain of 50*l.* and Forfeiture of Offices. 12 Geo. 1. c. 28. See Information.

Customs and Services, Belonging to Tenure of Lands, are such as Tenants owe unto their Lord; which being withheld from the Lord, he may have a Writ of Customs and Services. See Consuetudinibus & Servitiis.

Custos Brevium, Is the principal Clerk belonging to the Court of of Common Pleas, whose Office is to receive and keep all the Writs returnable in that Court, and put them upon Files, every Return by it self; and to receive of the Prothonotaries all the Records of Nisi Prius, called the Postea's; for they are first brought in by the Clerk of Arise of every Circuit to the Prothonotary, who entered the Issue in the Causes, to enter the Judgment: And four Day after the Return thereof, the Prothonotary enters the Verdict and Judgment thereupon, into the Rolls of the Court; whereupon he afterwards delivers them over to the Custos Brevium, who binds them into a Bundle. He makes Entry likewise of all Writs of Covenant, and the Concord upon every Fine; and maketh forth Exemplifications, and Copies of all Writs and Records in his Office, and of all Fines levied. The Fines after they are engrossed, are divided between the Custos Brevium and the Chirographer; the Chirographer always keeps the Writ of Covenant and the Note, and the Custos Brevium the Concord and Foot of the Fine; upon which Foot of the Fine, the Chirographer causeth the Proclamations to be indorsed, when they are proclaimed. This Officer is made by the King's Letters Patent: And in the Court of King's Bench, there is also a Custos Brevium & Rotulorum, who fileth such Writs as are in that Court filed, and all Warrants of Attorney, &c. and whose Business it is to make out the Records of Nisi prius, &c.

Custos Placitorum Coronæ, An Officer which seems to be the same with him we now call Custos Rotulorum. Bracl. lib. 2. c. 5.

Custos Rotulorum, Is he who hath the Custody of the Rolls or Records of the Sessions of the Peace, and also of the Commission of the Peace itself. He is always a Justice of the Peace of the Quorum in the County where appointed, and usually some Person of Quality: But he is rather termed an Officer or Minister, than a judge. Lamb. Eiren. lib. 4. cap. 3. p. 373. The Custos Rotulorum in every County is appointed by a Writing signed by the King's Hand, which shall be a Warrant to the Lord Chancellor to put him in Commission: And he may execute his Office by Deputy; and hath Power to appoint the Clerk of the Peace, &c. Stat. 37 H. 8. cap. 1. By Stat. 1 W. & M. c. 21. The Custos Rotulorum is to nominate and appoint the Clerk of the Peace; but not to sell the Place, on Pain of forfeiting the Office of Custos Rotulorum, and other Penalties, &c. The Custos Rotulorum, two Justices of Peace, and the Clerk of the Peace, are to enrol Deeds of Bargain and Sale of Lands of Papists, &c. by 3 Geo. 1. cap. 18.

Custos of the Spiritualities, (Custos Spiritualitatis) Is he that exerciseth the Spiritual or Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction of a Diocese, during the Vacancy of any See; who with us in England is the Archbishop by Prescription: But (according to Gwin) some Deans and Chapters challenge this Right by ancient Charters from the Kings of this Land. Cowel.

Custos of the Temporalities, (Custos Temporalium) The Person to whose Custody a vacant See or Abbey was committed by the King, as supreme Lord; who as a Steward of the Goods and Profits, was to give an Account to the Escheator, and he into the Exchequer: His Trust continued till the Vacancy was supplied, and the Successor obtained the King's Writ De Restitutione Temporalium, which was usually after Consecration.

Cut-purse. If any Person clam & secreta and without the Knowledge of another, cut his Purse or pick his Pocket, and steal from thence to the Value of 12*d.* it is Felony excluded Clergy. 8 Eliz. 3 Inst. 68. See Felony.

Cutts,

Cutts, Flat-bottomed Boats, built low and commodiously, used in the Channel for transporting of Horses. Stow. Annal. p. 412.

Cutter of the Tallies, Is an Officer of the Exchequer, to whom it belongs to provide Wood for the Tallies, and to cut the Sum paid upon them, &c.

Cube, Is a French Word, in English Keove, from whence comes Keever, a Tub or Fat for Brewing. Cowel.

Cyclas, A long Garment close upwards, and open or large below. Matt. Paris. Anno 1236. speaking of the Citizens of London, tells us, they were Sericiis vestimentis ornati, Cycladibus auri textis circumdati.

Cynebote. This Word signifies the same with Cenevild. Blount.

Cyrcbryce, (Sax.) Irruptio in Ecclesiam. Leg. Eccl. Canuti Regis.

D, (Fr.) A Word Affirmative for Yes. Law Fr. Dict.

Dag, A Gun; un Dagg, a small Gun, or Hand-gun. See Haque.

Dagenham-Breach, A Duty is granted on Coals imported in London to repair the Walls, and Banks thereof; to be collected and disposed by Trustees, &c. Stat. 12 Ann. c. 17.

Dagus or Dais, The chief or upper Table in a Monastery; from a Cloth called Dais, with which the Tables of Kings were covered.

Dakir. The Stat. 51 H. 3. De Compositione Ponderum & Mensurarum ascertains a Last of Hides to consist of twenty Dakirs, and every Dakir of ten Hides See Dicker.

Dalmatica, A Garment with large open Sleeves, at first worn only by Bishops, tho' since made a Distinction of Degrees; so called, because it came originally from Dalmatia.

Dalus, Dailus, Dassa, A certain Measure of Land.—Et totam Dailam Marisci tam de rossa quam de prato, &c. Mon. Ang. tom. 2. p. 211. In some Places it is taken for a Ditch or Vale, whence comes Dals. The Dali prati have been esteemed such narrow Slips of Pasture, left between the ploughed Furrows in arable Land; which in some Parts of England are called Doles: The present Welch use this Word for low Meadow by the River Side. And this seems to be the original Name and Nature of Deal in Kent, where Cæsar landed, and fought the Britains: Cæsar ad Dole Bellum pugnavit. Nennius.

Damage, (Dammum) Signifies generally any Hurt or Hindrance that a Man receives in his Estate: But particularly, a Part of what the Jurors are to enquire of and bring in, when an Action passeth for the Plaintiff: For after Verdict given of the principal Cause, the Jury are asked touching Costs and Damages, which comprehend a Recompence for what the Plaintiff hath suffered, by Means of the Wrong done him by the Defendant. Co. Lit. 257. This Word Damage is taken in the Law, in two several Significations, the one Properly and Generally, the other Relatively: Properly, as it is in Cases where Damages are founded upon the Statute of 2 H. 4. c. 1. and 8 H. 6. c. 9. where Costs are included within the Word Damages, and taken as Damages: But when the Plaintiff declares for the Wrong done to him, to the Damage of such a Sum, this is to be taken relatively for the Wrong which passed before the Writ brought, and is assessed by Reason of the foregoing Trespas, and cannot extend to Costs of Suit, which are future, and of another Nature. 10 Rep. 116, 117. Greater Costs may be given in some Cases, than the Damages laid in the Plaintiff's Declaration; for the Plaintiff's Declaration is only for the Damage done him by the Defendant: But the Costs are given in Respect of the Plaintiff's Suit to recover his Damages, which may be sometimes greater than the Damage. 1 Lill. Abr. 384. Where the Plaintiff shall have no more Costs than Damages, unless the Jury finds more than 40 s. in Actions of Trespas, on the Case, &c. See Stat. 43 Eliz. c. 6. 21 Jac. 1. cap. 16. In Action upon the Case, the Jury may find less Damages than the Plaintiff lays in his Declaration; though they cannot find more than is laid therein; if they do, it is Error; but Costs may be increased beyond the Sum mentioned in the Declaration for Damages: Also the Plaintiff may release Part of the Damages, upon entering up his Judgment. 10 Rep. 115. In Actions upon any Bond, &c. for Non-performance of Covenants, the Jury shall assess Damages for those the Plaintiff proves broken; and the Plaintiff may assign as many Breaches as he thinks fit. 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 11. Damages are not to be given for that which is not contained in the Plaintiff's Declaration; and only for what is materially alledged. 1 Lill. 381. In personal and mixed Actions, Damages were recovered at Common Law: But in real Actions, no Damages were recoverable, because none were demanded by the Count or Writ: Whereas in Actions Personal, the Plaintiff counts Ad Dampnum for the Injury; and if he recovers no Damages, he hath no Costs. 10 Rep. 111, 117. In a personal Action, the Plaintiff shall recover Damages only for the Tort done before the Action brought; and therein he counts for his Damages: In a real Action, he recovers his Damages pending the Writ; and therefore never counts for his Damages. 10 Rep. 117. By the Stat. of Glouc. 6 Ed. 1. cap. 1. Damages are given in real Actions, Assises of Novel Disseisin, Mort d'Ancestor, &c. and shall be recovered against the Alienee of a Disseisor, as well as against the Disseisor himself; and the Demandant shall have of the Tenant likewise Costs of Suit; but not Expences for Trouble and Loss of Time. 2 Inst. 288. If the Disseisor make a Feoffment in Fee, and the Disseisee dieth, the Heir of the Disseisee shall not recover Damages against the Alienee, because that Branch of the Stat. 6 Ed. 1. only provides for the Disseisee's Remedy against the Alienee, and not for his Heirs; though if a Person be disseised, and the Disseisee dies, his Heirs shall recover Damages against the Disseisor, from the Death of his Ancestor. 2 Inst. 286. And it is a Rule upon this Statute, that in none of the Writs or Actions therein mentioned, the Demandant shall recover Damages but from the Death of his next immediate Ancestor. Ibid. 288. For the Insufficiency of the Disseisor, the Tenant shall answer the Damages by this Act: And if the Disseisor be able to yield Part and not the whole Damages, both the Disseisor and Tenant shall be charged; and Judgment is given against the Disseisor and against the Tenant generally. 2 Inst. 284. 2 Danv. Abr. 448. When Damages double or treble are given in an Action newly created by Statute; if no Damages were formerly recoverable, there the Demandant or Plaintiff shall recover those Damages only, and shall not have Costs, being a new Creation in Recompence where there was none before: As upon the Stat. 1 & 2 P. & M. for driving of Distresses out of the Hundred, &c. whereby Damages are given, the Plaintiff shall recover no Costs, only his Damages, because this Action is newly given. But in an Action upon the Stat. 8 H. 6. of Forcible Entry, which giveth treble Damages, the Plaintiff shall recover his Damages and his Costs to the Treble, by Reason he was entitled to single Damages before by the Common Law; and the Statute, as Part of the Damages, encreases the Costs to treble; and when a Statute increases Damages, Costs shall likewise be increased. 2 Inst. 289. 10 Rep. 116. In some Cases double treble Damages, &c. are are allowed: For not setting forth Tithes; Distresses wrongfully taken; Rescous, &c. Treble Damages are incurred by Statute. Though if it be not found by the Jury that the Plaintiff hath sustained some Damage in Cases where treble Damages, &c. are inflicted by Law, no Damages can be awarded. 2 Danv. Abr. 449. And no Damages could be recovered at the Common Law, but against the Wrong-doer, and by him to whom the Wrong was done. 2 Inst. 284. Damages shall be recovered in Writ of Admeasurement of Dower; but not in a Writ of Admeasurement of Pasture. 2 Danv. 457. In Writ of Partition, by one Coparcener against another, it is said no Damages shall be had: In a Formedon, no Damages shall be recovered; so in a Nuper Obiit, Writ of Account, Writ of Execution, &c. Ibid. 455, 456. Damages and Costs are due in a Writ of Annuity; and if the Jury find for the Plaintiff, and do not assess Damages, it will be Error; though he may after Verdict release the Damages, and take Judgment for the Annuity. 11 Rep. 56. Dyer 320, 369. Where Damages are awarded for Delay of Execution, and being kept out of the Money, they are usually assessed by allowing the Party what lawful Interest he might have. 1 Salk. 208. In real Actions, Damages are assessed by Writ of Enquiry: When the Jury find the Issue for the Plaintiff, they are to assess the Damages. And in Actions upon the Case, &c. where Damages are uncertain, it is left to the Jury to inquire of and tax them: In Debt, which appears certain to the Court what it is, the Damages assessed by the Jury are small, and the Master in B. R. taxeth the Costs; which is added thereto, and called Damages. 1 Lill. 390. When Judgment is given by Default, in Action of Debt, the Court is to assess the Damages, and not the Jury: So if Judgment by Nil dicit, in Action of Debt. And if on Demurrer for taking Goods, &c. it is adjudged for the Plaintiff, though Damages are found by Writ of Enquiry, the Court may increase or mitigate the Damages, because the Court might have awarded them without such Writ. 2 Danv. 452. In Writ of Trespass de Clauso fracto, and when there is a Writ to inquire of Damages in Trespass; in Action of the Case for Slander, where the Jury tax Damages, or in an Assise, the Judges cannot increase nor abridge the Damages: It is otherwise on a Writ of Enquiry in Debt, Detinue, Covenant, Mayhem and Battery; the Court may increase or diminish the Damages. Fitz. Damage 28. Dyer 105. Jenk. Cent. 68. In Batteries and Wounding, the Court may increase Damages given by the Jury, on View of the Wound, or upon Affidavits made thereof, &c. But it is said the Courts at Westminster only can increase Damages in Action of Assault and Wounding on View, &c. and not Justices of Nisi prius; though they may indorse the Evidence on the Postea, and on such Evidence the Damages may be increased in the Courts above. 3 Salk. 115. If Damages are too small, the Court hath Power to increase them: Or if the Jury assess no Damages, where Verdict is found for the Plaintiff in Action of Debt on Bond, &c. the Court may tax the Damages; though it is otherwise in Action on the Case, &c. 2 Inst. 200. 2 Danv. 449. It hath been holden that the Judges may increase, but not decrease Damages; and this is, because the Party may have an Attaint. 2 Danv. 452. But where excessive Damages have been given, or there hath been any Misdemeanor in executing a Writ of Enquiry; the Court hath sometimes relieved the Defendant by a new Writ of Enquiry. 2 Danv. 464. And where Damages are excessive, on Motion the Defendant may have a new Trial. Style 465. 1 Nelf. Abr. 587. In Battery, Imprisonment, and taking of Goods, against three Persons; one commits the Battery, another the Imprisonment, the Third takes the Goods, all at one Time, all are guilty of the Whole, and to be charged in Damages. 3 Lev. 324. See 10 Rep. 66, 69. In Trespass against two, one comes and pleads Not guilty, and it is found against him; and afterwards another comes and pleads the like, and is found Guilty by another Inquest; in this Case, the first Jury shall assess all the Damages for the Trespass. New Nat. Br. 236. Trespass against divers Defendants, they plead Not guilty severally, and the Jury finds them all Guilty: The Jury must assess the Damages jointly, for it is but one intire Trespass, and made joint by the Declaration; But if in Trespass against two, the Jury finds one Guilty of the Trespass at one Time, and the other Guilty thereof at another Time, there several Damages may be assessed. If the Plaintiff himself confesses that they committed the Trespass severally, then the Writ shall abate. 11 Rep. 5. Damages may be several, where one Action of Trespass is brought for two several Trespases: And in Action on the Case, Damages are divisible, and may be apportioned according to the Wrong. 1 Saund. 268. Also in an Action on the Case upon two Promises, intire Damages may be given; though it be insisted that Damages should be several upon each Promise. 1 Roll. Rep. 423. But if Action is brought for two several Causes of Action, one of which is not actionable, if intire Damages are given, the Verdict is void: Contra if the Damages are several. And where Damages are intirely assessed, and they ought not to be given for some Part; no Judgment can be given on the Verdict. 10 Rep. 130.

Damage-clear, (Damna Clericorum) Was a Fee assessed of the tenth Part in the Common Pleas, and the twentieth Part in the King's Bench and Exchequer, out of all Damages exceeding five Marks, recovered in those Courts, in Actions upon the Case, Covenant, Trespass, Battery, &c. wherein the Damages were uncertain; which the Plaintiff was obliged to pay to the Prothonotary, or the Chief Officer of the Court wherein recovered, before he could have Execution for the Damages: This was originally a Gratuity given to the Prothonotaries and their Clerks, for drawing special Writs and Pleadings; but it is taken away by Statute, and if any Officer in the King's Courts, take any Money in the Name of Damage clear, or any Thing in Lieu thereof, he shall forfeit Treble the Value. Stat. 17 Car. 2. c. 6.

Damage-tenant, or Faisant, Is when a Stranger's Beasts are found in another Person's Ground without his Leave or Licence, and there doing Damage, by Feeding, or otherwise, to the Grass, Corn, Woods, &c. In which Case, the Tenant whom they damage, may distrain and impound them, as well by Night as in the Day, lest the Beasts escape before taken; which may not be done for Rent, Services, &c. only in the Day-time. Stat. 51 H. 3. 1 Inst. 142. If a Man take my Cattle, and puts them into the Land of another, the Tenant of the Land may take these Cattle Damage-tenant, though I who was the Owner, was not privy to the Cattle's being there Damage-tenant; and he may keep them against me till Satisfaction of the Damages. 2 Danv. Abr. 364. But if one comes to distrain Damage-tenant, and to seize the Cattle, and the Owner drives them out before they are taken, he cannot distrain them Damage-tenant, but is put to his Action of Trespass; for the Cattle ought to be actually upon the Land Damage-tenant, at the Time of the Distress. 1 Inst. 161. 9 Rep. 22. He that hath but the Possession of, and no Title to the Land, may justify taking a Distress Damage-tenant. Plowd. 431. If a Man puts Cattle to Pasture at so much a Week with another, who after gives Notice that he will not have them there any longer; in this Case, the Owner of the Ground may distrain them Damage-tenant, though the Cattle be in lawfully at first: So where a Lessee holds after his Estate is end.

ed. 43 E. 3. Kelw. 69. Beasts belonging to the Plough, or Beasts of Husbandry, Sheep, Horses joined to a Cart, and 'tis said a Horse with a Rider on it, may be distrained Damage-fesant, though not for Rent. 1 Sid. 422, 440. But the Owner may tender Amends, before the Cattle are impounded; and then the Detainer is unlawful: Also if when impounded the Pound-door is open, the Owner may take them out. 5 Rep. 76. A Greyhound may be taken Damage-fesant, running after Conies in a Warren: So a Man may take a Ferret that another hath brought into his Warren, and taken Conies with. If a Person bring Nets and Gins through my Warren, I cannot take them out of his Hands. 2 Dawv. 633. But if Men are rowing upon my Water, and endeavouring with Nets to catch Fish in my several Piscary, I may take their Oars and Nets, and detain them as Damage-fesant, to stop their further Fishing; though I cannot cut their Nets. Cro. Car. 228.

Dam, A Boundary, or Confinement; as to dam up, or dam out: Infra damnum suum, within the Bounds or Limits of his own Property or Jurisdiction. Brañ. lib. 2. c. 37.

Damifella, A light Damofel or Mifs. Stat. 12 Ed. 1. See Pimp-Tenure.

Damnnum absque injuria. If one Man keeps a School in such a Place, another may do so likewise in the same Place, though he draw away the Scholars from the other School; and this is Damnnum absque injuria; but he must not do any Thing to disturb the other School. 3 Salk. 10.

Dan. Anciently the better Sort of Men in this Kingdom had the Title of Dan; as the Spaniards Don, from the Lat. Dominus.

Danegelt, or Dane-geld, (Danegildum) Is compounded of the Words Dane and Gelt, the latter in Dutch signifying Money; and was a Tax or Tribute of 1 s. and after of 2 s. upon every Hide of Land through the Realm, laid upon our Ancestors the Saxons by the Danes, when they lorded it here. Camd. Brit. 83, 142. According to some Accounts, this Tax was levied for clearing the Seas of Danish Pirates; which heretofore greatly annoyed our Coasts: But King Etheldred being much distressed by the continual Invasions of the Danes, to procure his Peace, was compelled to charge his People with very heavy Payments called Danegelt, which he paid to the Danes at several Times. Hoveden par. post. Annal. 344. Ingulph. 510. Selden's Mare Claus. 190. This Danegelt was released by St. Edward the Confessor; but levied again by William the First and Second: Then it was released again by King Henry the First, and finally by King Stephen. It is probable that this ancient Tax might be a Precedent for our Land-Tax of 3 s. and 4 s. in the Pound, when first granted.

Danelage, Was the Law of the Danes when they governed a third Part of this Kingdom. See Merchenlage.

Dangeria, A Payment in Money made by Forest Tenants, that they might have Liberty to Plough and Sow in Time of Pannage or Mast-feeding. Manw. For. Laws.

Dapifer, (à Dapes ferendò) Was at first a Domestick Officer, like unto our Steward of the Household; or rather Clerk of the Kitchen: But by Degrees it was used for any fiduciary Servant, especially the Chief Steward or Head Bailiff of an Honour or Manor. There is Mention made in our ancient Records of Dapifer Regis; which is taken for Steward of the King's Household. Cowel.

Dardus, i. e. a Dart: In Wales an Oak is called a Dar.

Dare ad Remanentiam, To give away in Fee, or for ever. Glawv. lib. 7. cap. 1. This seems to be only of a Remainder.

Date of a Deed, Is the Description of the Time, viz. the Day, Month, Year of our Lord, Year of the Reign, &c. in which the Deed was made. 1 Inst. 6. But the ancient Deeds had no Dates, only of the Month and the Year; to signify that they were not made in Hastè, or in the Space of a Day, but upon longer and more mature Deliberation. Blount. If in the Date of a Deed, the Year of our Lord is right, though the Year of the King's Reign be mistaken, it shall not hurt it. Cro. Jac. 261. A Deed was dated 30th March 1701. without Anno Domini and Anno Regni; and it was adjudged that both the Year of the Lord and of the King were implicitly in the Deed. 2 Salk. 658. A Deed is good, though it hath no Date of the Day or Place, or if the Date be mistaken, or though it hath an impossible Date, as the 30th of February, &c. But he that doth plead such a Deed, without any Date, or with an impossible Date, must set forth the Time when it was delivered. 2 Rep. 5. 1 Inst. 46. If no Date of a Deed be set forth, it shall be intended that it had none; and in such Case it is good from the Delivery; for every Deed or Writing hath a Date in Law, and that is the Day on which it is delivered: And a Deed is no Deed till the Delivery, and that is the Date of it. Mod. Ca. 244. 1 Nels. Abr. 525. An impossible Date of a Bond, &c. is no Date at all; but the Plaintiff must declare on the Bond as made at a certain Time: And if the express Date be insensible, the real Date is the Delivery. 2 Salk. 463. Where there is none, or an impossible Date, the Plaintiff may count of any Date. 1 Lill. Abr. 393. If there be a mistaken Date, or a Date be impossible, &c. the Plaintiff may surmise a legal Date in the Declaration, whereupon the Defendant is to answer to the Deed, and not to the Date. Yelv. 194. If a Deed bears Date at a Place out of the Realm, it may be averred that the Place mentioned in the Deed, is in some County in England; and here the Place is not traversable; without this the Deed cannot be tried. 1 Inst. 261. A Deed may be dated at one Time, and sealed and delivered at another: But every Deed shall be intended to be delivered on the same Day it bears Date, unless the contrary is proved. 2 Inst. 674. Though there can be no Delivery of a Deed before the Day of the Date; yet after there may. Yelv. 138. So that a Deed may be dated back on a Time past, but not at a Day to come. See Deed.

Datibe or Datif, (Dativus) Signifies that may be given or disposed of at Will and Pleasure. Stat. 9 R. 2. c. 4.

Davata terra, Damath, A Portion of Land so called in Scotland. Skene.

Day, (Dies) Is a certain Space of Time, containing twenty-four Hours; and if a Fact be done in the Night, you must say in Law Proceedings in Noſte ejusdem Diei. Vierum alii sunt Naturales, alii Artificiales: Dies Naturalis constat de 24 horis, & continet Diem Solarem & Noctem, & est spatium in quo sol progreditur ab Oriente in Occidentem, & ab occidente iterum in Orientem: Dies Artificialis, sive solaris, incipit in ortu solis & desinit in occasu. 1 Inst. 135. By this Description, the natural Day consists of twenty-four Hours, and contains the solar Day and the Night: And the artificial Day begins from the Rising of the Sun, and ends when it sets. Day in legal Understanding, is the Day of Appearance of the Parties, or Continuance of the Suit where a Day is given, &c. And there is a Day of Appearance in Court by the Writ, and by the Roll; by Writ, when when the Sheriff returns the Writ; by Roll, when he hath a Day by the Roll, and the Sheriff returns not the Writ, there the Defendant, to save his Freehold, and prevent Loss of Issues, Imprisonment, &c. may appear by the Day he hath by the Roll. 1 Inst. 135. In real Actions there are Dies communes, common Days; and in all Summons there must be 15 Days after the Summons before the Appearance: And before the Statute of Articuli super Chartas, in all Summons and Attachment in Plea of Land, there should be contained 15 Days. 1 Inst. 134. As to Offences in B. R. if the Offence be committed in another County than where the Court sits, and the Indictment be removed by Certiorari, there must be fifteen Days between every Process and the Return thereof; but if it be committed in the same County where the Bench sits, they may sit de Die in Diem; but this they will very rarely do. Ibid. There is a Day called Dies specialis, as in an Assise in the King's Bench or Common Pleas, the Attachment need not be 15 Days before the Appearance; otherwise it is before Justices assigned: But generally, in Assises the Judges may give a special Day at their Pleasure, and are not bound to the common Days; and these Days they may give as well out of Term as within. There is also a Day of Grace, Dies Gratia, and generally this is granted by the Court at the Prayer of the Demandant or Plaintiff, in whose Delay it is: But it is never granted where the King is Party, by Aid Prier of the Tenant or Defendant; nor where any Lord of Parliament, or Peer of the Realm is Tenant or Defendant. And sometimes the Day that is quarto Die post, is called Dies Gratia; for the very Day of Return is the Day in Law, and to that Day the Judgment hath Relation, but no Default shall be recorded till the fourth Day be past; unless it be in a Writ of Right, where the Law alloweth no Day but the Day of the Return. 1 Inst. 135. There are several Return Days in the Terms; and if either of them happen upon a Sunday, the Day following is taken instead of it: For Sunday is Dies non Juridicus; and so is Ascension-Day in Easter-Term, St. John Baptist in Trinity-Term, All Saints and All Souls in Michaelmas-Term, and the Purification of the Virgin Mary in Hilary-Term. 2 Inst. 264. Days in Bank are Days set down by Statute, or Order of the Court, when Writs shall be returned, or when the Party shall appear upon the Writ served. Stat. 51 Hen. 3. 32 H. 8. c. 21. And by the Statute de Anno Bissextili 21 H. 3. the Day increasing in the Leap-Year, and the Day next going before are to be accounted but one Day. It is commonly said that the Day of Nisi prius, and the Day in Bank, is all one Day; but this is to be understood as to Pleading, not to other Purposes. 1 Inst. 135. If a Defendant appears, and the Court gives a Day to another Term; at which Day he makes Default, no Judgment shall be given, but Process shall be awarded in this Case. 2 Danv. Abr. 476. But after Issue found for the Plaintiff at the Nisi prius, if a Day be given in Banco, and the Defendant makes Default, Judgment shall be given against him. Ibid. 477. To be dismissed without Day, is to be finally dismissed the Court: And when the Justices before whom Causes were depending, do not come on the Day to which they were continued, whether such Absence be occasioned by Death, or otherwise, they are said to be put without Day: But may be revived or recontinued by Re-summons, Reattachment, &c. 2 Hawk. P. C. 300. Also by the Common Law, all Proceedings upon any Indictment, &c. whereon no Judgment had been given, were determined by the Demise of the King, and nothing remained but the Indictment, Original Writ, &c. which were put without Day, till re-continued by Re-attachment to bring in the Defendants to plead de novo: Though this is remedied by Stat. 4 & 5 W. 3. c. 18. and 1 Ann. c. 8. by which such Process, &c. are to continue in the same Force after the King's Demise, as they would have done if he had lived.

Day-light. In Respect to Day-light, before Sun-rising and after Sun-setting, is accounted Part of the Day by the Common Law; as to Robberies committed in the Day-time, when the Hundred is liable. 7 Rep. 6. The Law regularly rejects all Fractions and Divisions of a Day, for the Incertainty. 5 Rep. 1. 1 Inst. 135. See Computation.

Days-man, In the North of England, an Arbitrator or elected Judge is usually termed a Dies man or Days-man: And Dr. Hammond saith, that the Word Day in all Idioms signifies Judgment.

Dayetta, Dairy, from Day, Daie, Sax. Dag, was at first the Daily Yield of Milch-Cows, or Profit made of them. In Lorrain and Champaign they use the Word Dayer, for the Meeting of the Day-labouring People to give an Account of their daily Work, and receive the Wages of it. A Dairy in the North is called Milkness; as the Dairy-maid is in all Parts a Milk-maid: She is termed Androchia by Fleta, lib. 2. cap. 87.—Comptus Henrici D. & Johanna uxoris sue de omnibus Exitibus & Proventibus de Dayri Domini Prioris de Burncestre. Paroch. Antiq. 548.

Daywere of Land, As much arable Land as could be ploughed up in one Day's Work; or one Journey, as the Farmers still call it. Hence any young Artificer who assists a Master Workman in Daily Labour, is called a Journey-man.—Confirmavi Abbati & Conventui de Rading, tres Acres & sexdecim Daywere, de terra Archid. Cartular. Rading. MS. f. 90.

Deadly Feud, Is a Profession of an irreconcilable Hatred, till a Person is revenged even by the Death of his Enemy. It is mentioned in Stat. 43 El. c. 13. And such Enmity and Revenge were allowed by the old Saxon Laws; for where any Man was killed, if a pecuniary Satisfaction was not made to the Kindred of the Slain, it was lawful for them to take up Arms against the Murderer, and revenge themselves on him: And this is called Deadly Feud; which it is conjectured was the Original of an Appeal. Blount. Vide Feud.

Dead Pledge, (Mortuum vadium) A Pledge of Lands or Goods. See Mortgage.

Deafforested, This Word signifies discharged from being Forest; or that is freed and exempted from the Forest Laws. 17 Car. 1. c. 16.—Johannes Dei Gratia, &c. Volumus & firmiter precipimus quod Foresta de Brerewood & homines in illa manentes & heredes eorum sint Deafforestati imperpetuum, &c. Dat. 13 Martii Anno Regni nostri 5.—There is likewise Deawarrenata, as well as Deafforestata; which is when a Warren is diswarrened, or broke up and laid in Common. King Henry the Third, in a Charter to the Citizens of London, grants to them,—Quod tota Warrenna de Stanes cum pertin. suis sit Dewarrenata & Deafforestata in perpetuum. Placit. temp. Ed. 1. and Ed. 2. MS. fol. 144.

Dean, (Decanus, from the Greek Δίκα Decem) Is an Ecclesiastical Governor or Dignitary, so called as he presides over ten Canons or Prebendaries at the least. And we call him a Dean, that is next under the Bishop, and Chief of the Chapter, Ordinarily in a Cathedral Church, the Rest of the Society being called Capitulum, the Chapter. As there are two Foundations of Cathedral Churches in England, the Old and the New, the New erected by King Henry VIII. so there are two Means of creating those Deans: For those of the old Foundation, as the Dean of St. Pauls, York, &c. are exalted to their Dignity much like Bishops; the King first sending out his Comge d'Esire to the Chapter to chuse such Dean, and the Chapter then chusing, the King afterwards yielding his Royal Assent, and the Bishop confirming him, and giving his Mandate to instal him:

him: Those of the new Foundation, whose Deaneries were translated from Priors and Convents, to Dean and Chapter, as the Deans of Canterbury, Durban, Ely, Norwich, Winchester, &c. are donative, and installed by a shorter Course, by Virtue of the King's Letters Patent, without either Election or Confirmation; and are visitable only by the Lord Chancellor, or by special Commission from the King: But the Letters Patent are presented to the Bishop for Institution, and a Mandate for Instalment goes forth. 1 Inst. 95. Davis 46, 47. There are some Cathedral Churches which never had a Dean; as that of St. David and Landaff, where the Bishop is Head of the Chapter, and in his Absence the Archdeacon: And there is also a Dean without a Chapter, such as the Dean of Battel in Suffex: Then there is a Dean without a Jurisdiction, as the Dean of the Chapel Royal, &c. In which Sense this Word is applied to the Chief of certain peculiar Churches or Chapels. Spelm. There are four Sorts of Deans; a Dean who hath a Chapter, such as the Dean of Canterbury, &c. A Dean without a Chapter, as the Dean of Bocking, who hath a Court and Jurisdiction to hold Plea of all Ecclesiastical Matters arising in several Parishes within his Peculiar; and who is constituted by Commission from the Archbishop of Canterbury, like to the Dean of the Arches. The Dean of Battel, founded by William the First, styled the Conqueror, who hath Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction within the Liberty of Battel, and is presentable by the Duke of Montague, and instituted and inducted by the Bishop of Chichester; but not subject to his Visitation. And Rural Deans, who had first Jurisdiction over Deaneries, as every Diocese is divided into Archdeacons and Deaneries; but afterwards their Power was diminished, and they were only the Bishops Substitutes to grant Letters of Administration, Probate of Wills, &c. And now their Office is wholly extinguished, for the Archdeacons and Chancellors of Bishops execute the Authority which rural Deans had through all the Dioceses of England. 1 Nelf. Abr. 596, 597. There are likewise Deputy Deans; and Commendatory Deans, who cannot confirm any Grants, &c. But a Commendatory Dean may with the Chapter chuse a Bishop. And if a Dean be elected Bishop, and before Consecration doth obtain Dispensation to hold his Deanery in Commendam, such Dean may well confirm, &c. for his old Title remains, and therefore Confirmations, and other Acts done by him as Dean, are good in Law. Litch 237, 250. Palm. Rep. 460. A Dean and Chapter are the Bishop's Council, to assist him in the Affairs of Religion, &c. to consult in deciding difficult Controversies, and consent to every Grant which the Bishop shall make to bind his Successors, &c. A Dean that is solely seised of a distinct Possession, hath an absolute Fee in him as well as a Bishop. 1 Inst. 325. A Deanery is a spiritual Promotion, and not a temporal one, though the Dean be appointed by the King: And the Dean and Chapter may be in part Secular, and in part Regular. Dyer 10. Palm. 500. As a Deanery is a spiritual Dignity, a Man cannot be Dean and Prebendary in the same Church. Dyer 273. See Chapter.

Death of Persons, There is a natural Death of a Man, and a civil Death: Natural, where Nature itself expires and extinguishes; and Civil, is where a Man is not actually Dead, but is adjudged so by Law; as where he enters into Religion, &c. If any Person for whose Life any Estate hath been granted, remain beyond Sea, or is otherwise absent seven Years, and no Proof made of his being Living, such Person shall be accounted naturally dead; though if the Party be after proved living at the Time of Ejection of any Person, then the Tenant, &c. may re enter, and recover the Profits. Stat. 19 Car. 2. c. 6. And Persons in Reversion or Remainder, after the Death of another, upon Affidavit that they have Cause to believe such other dead, may move the Lord Chancellor to order the Person to be produced; and if he be not produced, he shall be taken as dead; and those claiming may enter, &c. 6 Ann. c. 18. A Man seised in Fee of Lands, made a Lease in Reversion to L. D. for ninety-nine Years, to commence after the Deaths of J. D. and E. D. who had then a Lease in Possession for the like Term, if they or either of them so long lived: The Plaintiff positively proved the Death of J. D. but as to the Death of E. D. the Proof was that he had been reputed dead, and no body had heard of him for fifteen Years past, and the Defendant not being able to prove that he was alive at any Time within seven Years, this Case was adjudg'd within the Act 19 Car. 2. Cartbew 246. In Law Proceedings, the Death of either Party, between the Verdict and Judgment, shall not be Error; so as Judgment be entered in two Terms. 17 Car. 2. c. 8. Where on the Death of Parties to a Suit, the Writ, &c. shall abate, see 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 10. and Abatement: Death of Judges, &c. Vide Day.

De bene esse. To take or do any Thing de bene esse, is in Law Signification to accept or allow it as well done for the Present; but when it comes to be more fully examined or tried, to stand or fall according to the Merit of the Thing in its own Nature. As in Chancery, upon Motion to have one of the less principal Defendants in a Cause examined as a Witness, the Court (not then thoroughly examining the Justice of it, or not hearing what may be objected on the other Side) will often order such a Defendant to be examined de bene esse, viz. That his Depositions shall be taken, and allowed or suppressed at the Hearing of the Cause, upon the full Debate of the Matter, as the Court shall think fit; but in the Interim they have a Well-being, or conditional Allowance. 3 Cro. 68. Where a Complainant's Witnesses are aged, or sick, or going beyond Sea, whereby the Plaintiff thinks he is in Danger of losing their Testimony, the Court of Chancery will order them to be examined de bene esse; so as to be valid, if the Plaintiff hath not an Opportunity of examining them afterwards; as if they die before Answer, or do not return, &c. In either of which Cases, the Depositions taken may be made Use of in the Court of Chancery, or at Law: But if Parties are alive and well, or do return, &c. after Answer, these Depositions are not to be of Force, for the Witnesses must be re examined. Practif. Attorn. Edit. 1. p. 232.

Debenture. A Soldier's Debenture (Stipendia Debita) is in the Nature of a Bond or Bill, to charge the Government to pay the Soldier Creditor, or his Assigns, the Sum due upon the auditing the Account of his Arrears; it was first ordained by an Act made during Oliver's Usurpation, Anno 1649. and is mentioned in the Act of Oblivion, 12 Car. 2. cap. 8. They use Debentures likewise in the Exchequer; and Debentures are given to the King's Servants, for the Payment of their Wages, Board-Wages, &c. Also there are CUSTOM HOUSE Debentures, &c.

Debet & Detinet, Are Latin Words used in the Bringing of Writs and Actions. And an Action shall be always in the Debet & Detinet, when he who makes a Bargain or Contract, or lends Money to another, or he to whom a Bond is made, bringeth the Action against him who is bounden, or Party to the Contract and Bargain, or unto the Lending of the Money, &c. But if a Man sells to another a Horse, &c. if he brings Debt for the Horse, the Writ must be in the Detinet only. New Nat. Br. 265. In Debt against Husband and Wife, for a Debt due from the Wife before Coverture, the Writ shall be in the Debet & Detinet: So in Debt against or for Successors, in Respect of Obligations made to the Predecessor, &c. Ibid. Debt against an Heir, is to be in the Debet & Detinet, or it will be naught; if an Heir be to bring Debt, it shall be in the Detinet: And if a Man be bound to another, and makes his Executor and dies, if the Money due in the

the Time of the Testator be refused to be paid by the Executor, the Action must be brought against him only in the Detinet; and so in all Actions brought by Executors as Executors, though the Duty accrued in their own Time. But Debet & Detinet lies by an Executor on his own Contract: And if Lessee for Years makes his Executor and dies, for Rent due after the Testator's Death, there the Action shall be in the Debet & Detinet. It is the like Law in Cases of Administrators, as it is not certain what shall be recovered, only according to the Assets. 5 Rep. 31. An Executor upon a Devastavit shall be charged in the Debet & Detinet, the Action being upon a Judgment. 1 Lill. Abr. 399. In Action grounded on Privity of Contract; or Action of Escape, it must be brought in the Detinet. Cro. Jac. 545, 685. See Executor.

Debet & solet, Are also formal Words made Use of in Writs: And some Writs have these Words in them, which ought not to be omitted. Likewise according to the Diversity of the Case, both Debet and solet are used, or Debet alone: As a Quod permittat may be in the Debet & solet, or in the Debet only, as the Demandant claims. And if a Person sues to recover any Right, whereof his Ancestor was disseised by the Tenant or his Ancestor, then he useth the Word Debet alone in his Writ, because his Ancestor only was disseised, and the Estate discontinued: But if he sue for any Thing that is now first of all denied him, then he useth Debet & solet, by Reason his Ancestor before him, and he himself usually enjoyed the Thing sued for, until the present Refusal of the Tenant. Reg. Orig. 140. The Writ of Secta Malendini is a Writ of Right, in the Debet & solet, &c. F. N. B. 98.

Debt, (Debitum) is an Action which lieth where a Man oweth another a certain Sum of Money, by Obligation, or Bargain for a Thing sold, or by Contract, &c. and the Debtor will not pay the Debt, at the Day agreed; then the Creditor shall have Action of Debt against him for the same. And if Money be due upon any Specialty, Action of Debt only lies; for no other Action may be brought for it: If a Man contract to pay Money for a Thing which he hath bought; and the Seller takes Bond for the Money, the Contract is discharged, so that he shall not have Action of Debt upon the Contract, but on the Bond. New Nat. Br. 268. If one binds himself in a single Obligation, or with Condition, to pay Money at a Day; or to deliver Corn, or the like, and do not perform it accordingly, the Obligee may bring Action of Debt for it. F. N. B. 120. A Man acknowledges by Deed, that he hath so much of the Money of 7. S. due to him in his Hands; here Debt may be brought: And Debt will lie on a Talley sealed. F. N. B. 122. 1 H. 6. 55. A delivers 20*l.* to B. to buy Goods, and B. gives a Receipt to A. testifying the Delivery and Receipt of the 20*l.* but doth not promise to deliver the Goods, &c. A. may maintain Debt upon this Deed. Dyer 20. 2 Bulst. 256. If a Man be bound by Bond to pay 20*l.* in Manner following, viz. 10*l.* at one Day, and 10*l.* at another Day; Action of Debt will not lie till after the last Day, it being an entire Duty: But if one binds himself to pay A. B. 10*l.* at one Day, and 10*l.* at another, after the first Day Action of Debt lies for 10*l.* being a several Duty. 2 Danv. Abr. 501. On a Bond, Debt lies against the Heir of an Obligor, who has Lands by Descent, if the Executors have not sufficient; and the Obligee may bring his Action against the Heir or Executor, although the Executor have Assets. Anders. 7. An Heir mediate may be sued in Debt as if he were immediate Heir, &c. Though the Heir may not bring Action of Debt for a Debt due to his Ancestor; if it be by Specialty, by which the Party is bound to pay it to him and his Heirs, the Executor shall nevertheless have the Action. Dyer 368. F. N. B. 120. Action of Debt lies not against Executors, upon a simple Contract made by the Testator. 9 Rep. 87. But Debt will lie for the Arrearages of an Account against Executors, of Receipts by the Testator. 2 Danv. 497. Before the Statute 32 H. 8. c. 37. the Heirs, or Executors of a Man seised of a Rent-service, Rent charge, &c. in Fee-simple, or Fee-tail, had no Remedy for the Arrearages incurred in the Life-time of the Owner of such Rents: But by that Statute, the Executors and Administrators of Tenants in Fee simple, Fee tail, or for Life, of any Rent, shall have Action of Debt for all Arrearages of Rent due in the Life of the Testator. 1 Inst. 162. 2 Danv. 492. A Feme Sole seised of a Rent in Fee, &c. which is behind and unpaid, takes Husband, and the Rent is behind again, and then the Wife dieth; the Husband by the Common Law should not have the Arrearages before the Marriage, but for the Arrears becoming due during the Coverture, he might have Action of Debt. Now by the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. the Husband shall have the Arrears due before Marriage, and he hath a double Remedy for the same. 1 Inst. 162. At the Common Law, Debt lies not for Rent upon a Lease for Life, (though it doth on a Lease for Years) but the Remedy is Assise, if the Plaintiff have Seisin, or by Distress. 3 Rep. 65. But by Stat. 8 Ann. cap. 17. any Person having Rent in Arrear upon any Lease for Life or Lives, may bring Action of Debt for such Rent, as where Rent is due on a Lease for Years. Action of Debt will lie against a Lessee, for Rent due after the Assignment of the Lease; for the personal Privity of Contract remains, notwithstanding the Privity of Estate is gone. 3 Rep. 22. But after the Death of the Lessee, it is then a real Contract, and runs with the Land. Cro. Eliz. 555. When a Lease is ended, the Duty in Respect of the Rent remains, and Debt lieth by Reason of Privity of Contract between Lessor and Lessee. 2 Cro. 227. 1 Nelf. Abr. 604. If Debt be brought by an Executor for Arrears of Rent ended, it is local still, and must be laid where the Land lies. Hob. 37. Action of Debt may be had against the Lessee in any Place; but if it be brought against an Assignee, it must be where the Land lieth: And upon the Privity of Contract, it is to be brought against the Lessee where the Land is. Latch 197, 271. 2 Leon. c. 28. In some Cases Action of Debt will lie, although there be no Contract betwixt the Party that brings the Action, and him against whom brought; for there may be a Duty created by Law, for which Action will lie. 2 Saund. 343, 366. Debt lieth against a Sheriff, for Money levied in Execution. 1 Lill. Abr. 403. Action of Debt lies against a Gaoler for permitting a Prisoner committed in Execution to escape; because thereupon the Law makes the Gaoler Debtor: But where the Party is not in Execution, there Action on the Case only lies for Damages suffered by the Escape. 1 Saund. 218. 1 Lill. Abr. 402. If I agree with a Taylor for a certain Price to make me a Suit of Clothes, the Taylor may have a general Action of Debt against me for the Money; though if the Price is not agreed on, there lies Action of the Case only, or special Action of Debt upon the special Contract, which the Law may imply on a Quantum Meruit. Wood's Inst. 544. And Debt may be made Action on the Case, by proving Money lent, or Goods delivered, &c. whereupon Promise of Payment is implied in Law. A Man owes another a Sum of Money, and hath his Note under Hand, without Seal, Action of Debt on a Mutuum lies; but the Defendant may wage his Law: In Action of the Case brought upon Promise of Payment, the Defendant cannot wage his Law. 4 Rep. 93. Action of Debt lies upon a parol Contract, and so doth Action on the Case. 1 Lill. 403. If Goods or Money are delivered to a third Person for my Use, I may have Action of Debt or Account for them. 2 Danv. 404. Where Money is delivered to a Person, to be redelivered again, the Property is altered, and Debt lies: But where a Horse, or any Goods are thus delivered, there Detinue lies, because the Property is not altered; and and the Thing is known; whereas Money is not. Owns 86. 1 Nelf. Abr. 603. Debt will lie against him that lodges or tables with another; by an Inn-keeper for the Lodging and Victuals of his Guest, &c. A Servant for his Wages, though he do his Service beyond Sea. 9 Rep. 87. Debt lieth not against a Master upon the Buying of the Servant, unless it come to the Master's Use, or be by his Agreement. Doct. & Stud. 137. Action of Debt lies against the Husband, for Goods which were delivered or sold to the Wife, if they come to the Use of the Husband. 1 Litt. 400. If one delivers Meat, Drink, or Clothes, to an Infant, and he promises to pay for them, Action of Debt or on the Case, will lie against the Infant. Though Debt may not be brought on an Account stated with an Infant: And what is deliver'd, must be averr'd to be for the necessary Use of the Infant. 1 Litt. Abr. 401. An Attorney shall have Action of Debt against his Client, for Money, which he hath paid to any Person for the Client, for Costs of Suit, or unto his Counsel, &c. A Person may have Debt upon an Arbitrament; but not for Debt referred to Arbitration, which must be Action on the Case: Also Debt lies for Money recovered upon a Judgment, &c. And upon a Recovery in C. B. he must bring the Action in Middlesex, the Record being there; but a Sci. fac. to execute Judgment, must be where the Original was, and follow it. New Nat. Br. 267, 268, &c. When Judgment is had in the King's Bench, and a Writ of Error brought in the Exchequer Chamber, or in Parliament; yet an Action of Debt will lie on the Judgment: In this Case, if the Plaintiff levies Part of his Money by Elegit; he may likewise bring Debt for the Residue. 1 Sid. 236, 184. If a Man recovers Debt or Damages in London, on Action brought there by the Custom of the City, which lies not at Common Law; when it is become a Debt by the Judgment, Action of Debt lies in the Courts at Westminster upon this Judgment. 2 Danv. 449. Action of Debt will lie for Breach of a By-Law; or for Amercement in a Court-Leet, &c. 1 Litt. 400. And Action of Debt is sometimes grounded on an Act of Parliament; as upon the 2 Ed. 6. c. 13. for not setting out Tithes: the 27 El. c. 13. against the Hundred for a Robbery, &c. Against Physicians in London, for practising without Licence, by 14 H. 8. By Assignees of a Commission of Bankrupt. 1 Jac. 1. c. 15, &c. A College shall have Action of Debt for Commons of any Student, adjudged Pastor. 9 Jac. B. R. For Debt to a Bishop, or Parson, after his Death, his Executors shall have the Action: But of a Dean and Chapter, Mayor and Commonalty, &c. the Successors are intitled to the Action of Debt. F. N. B. 120. Action of Debt lies on a Recognizance; so upon a Statute Merchant, it being in Nature of a Bond or Obligation: But it is otherwise in Case of a Statute Staple. 2 Danv. 497. In bringing this Action, it is the general Rule, that the Party himself to whom the Debt is originally due, whilst he doth live must bring the Action; and after his Death, his Executors, &c. And the Action must be brought against the Party himself that doth originally owe the Debt, whilst he is living; and after his Death, it may be brought against his Executor, if he make any; or otherwise against the Administrator; and if the Ordinary appoint none, against the Ordinary himself; and if he die possess'd of the Goods, against his Executor, &c. And also against Executors of Executors in infinitum. Dyer 24, 471. 3 Rep. 9. 2 Brownl. 207. In Debt, if it be demanded by Original; the Process is Summons, Attachment and Distress; and upon a Default of Sufficiency, on a Nihil return'd; Process to the Outlawry, &c. And the Judgment in Debt, where the Demand is in the Debet & Detinet, is to recover the Debt, Damages and Costs of Suit; and the Defendant in Misericordia: But if a Defendant denies his Deed, then a Capias pro Fine issues. 1 Shep. Abr. 523. The Defendant in Debt pleads a Release, if at the Trial he makes Default, the Plaintiff shall have Judgment for his Debt, without a Verdict: Contra, if Durels, or Payment had been pleaded. Jenk. Cent. 68. Where the Plaintiff in Debt, declares on some Specialty, or Contract for a Sum of Money, it must be certainly demanded, and no other; and the Demand can't be of a lesser Sum, but it must be shewn how the Remainder was satisfy'd: But in an Action upon a Statute, that gives a certain Sum for the Penalty; though less be recovered than the Plaintiff lays, it will be good. Cro. Jac. 498. If Action of Debt is brought on a Specialty, Bill, Bond, Lease, &c. the several Writings must be well considered by which the Plaintiff warrants his Action, and the Sum due is to be rightly set forth; and if it be Debt for Rent, the Time of Commencement, and Ending, &c. Also in Debt on Account, the Attorney must know when the Accounts were made up, and before whom; what the Party was to account for, and Time when, which are to be laid in the Declaration, &c. Comp. Attorn. 28. In Debt on single Bill the Defendant may plead Payment (before the Action brought) in Bar: And pending an Action, on Bond, &c. the Defendant may bring in Principal, Interest and Costs; and the Court shall give Judgment to discharge the Defendant. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. c. 16.

Debt to the King. Under this Word Debitum, all Things due to the King are comprehended; as all Rents, Fines, Issues, Amercements, and other Duties received or levied by the Sheriff; for Debt in the larger Sense, signifies whatever any Man owes. 2 Inst. 198. The King's Debt is to be satisfied before that of a Subject; and until his Debt be paid, he may protect the Debtor from the Arrest of others. 1 Inst. 130. But by Statute, notwithstanding the King's Protection, Creditors may proceed to Judgment against his Debtor, with a cesset Executio till the King's Debts be paid. 25 Ed. 3. Lands, &c. of the King's Debtor and Accountant, may be sold as well after his Death, as in his Life-time: But if the Accountant or Debtor to the King had a Quietus during his Life, his Heir shall be discharged of the Debt. 27 Eliz. cap. 3. A Person being in Debt to the King, purchases a Lease to him and his Wife, and dies; the Term in the Wife's Hands is liable to the Debt. 2 Roll. Abr. 157. Though it is said if he purchase Lands to him and his Wife for Life, and to their Heirs; such Lands in the Hands of the Wife, are not extendible after the Husband's Death, for the King's Debt. Dyer 255. If a Tenant in Tail, becomes indebted to the King, by Receipt of the King's Money, or otherwise; unless it be by Judgment, Recognizance, Obligation, or other Specialty originally due to the King, or some other to his Use; and then dies, the Land in the Hands of the Issue in Tail shall not be extended: But it may, in either of those four Cases. 7 Rep. 21, 22. By the Common Law, the King for his Debt had Execution of the Body, Land, and Goods of the Debtor: By Magna Charta, 9 H. 3. c. 8. the King's Debt shall not be levied on Lands, where the Goods and Chattels of the Debtor are sufficient to levy the Debt; for in such Case, the Sheriff ought not to extend the Lands and Tenements of the King's Debtor, or of his Heir, &c. 2 Inst. 19. Also Pledges shall not be distrained, when the Principal is sufficient: Though in both Cases it must be made appear to the Sheriff; in the one, that there are Goods and Chattels enough, and in the other, that the Sheriff may levy the King's Debt on the Principal. Ibid. Sheriffs having received the King's Debts, upon their next Account are to discharge the Debtors, on Pain to forfeit treble Value; and the Sheriffs are to give Tallies to the King's Debtors on Payment. Stat. 3 Ed. 1. Sec. Execution.

Debtors. It is here held, that Debt follows the Person of the Debtor, being on simple Contract; and not of the Creditor, as to Actions brought, &c. 3 Feb. 163. Where a Debtor is made Executor of a Will, the Debt is said to be Affets, because it is extinguished not by Release, but in the Way of Legacy. 1 Salk. 303. By Statute 8 & 9 W. 3. c. 18. Two Thirds in Number and Value of Creditors might make Compositions with Debtors, and bind all the rest; making Oath before a Master in Chancery how their Debts became due, &c. But this Act was repealed by 9 & 10 W. 3. And there have been several Statutes for discharging poor Insolvent Debtors out of Prison, where they have had no Estate or Effects to pay their Creditors, &c. See Prisoners.

Deceit, (Deceptio) Is a subtle Trick or Device, whereunto may be drawn all manner of Craft and Collusion, used to deceive and defraud another, by any Means whatsoever, which hath no other or more proper Name than Deceit to distinguish the Offence. West. Symb. Sect. 68. And there is a Writ called Breve Deceptione, that lies for one that receives Injury or Damage from him that doth any Thing deceitfully in the Name of another Person: Which Writ is either original or judicial. Reg. Orig. 112. Old Nat. Br. 50. Deceit is an Offence at Common Law, and by Statute: And all Practices of defrauding or endeavouring to defraud another of his Right, are punishable by Fine and Imprisonment; and if for Cheating, Pillory, &c. Serjeants, Counsellors, Attornies and others, doing any Manner of Deceit, are to be imprisoned a Year and a Day; Also Pleaders by Deceit shall be expelled the Court. Stat. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 29. If a Fine be levied by Deceit; or if one recover Land by Deceit, the Fine, and the Recovery, shall be void. 3 Rep. 77. And if a Man be Attorney for another in a real Action against the Demandant, and afterwards by Covin between such Attorney and the Demandant, the Attorney makes Default, by which the Land is lost, the Tenant who lost the Land shall have a Writ of Deceit against the Attorney. F. N. B. 96. In a Precipe quod reddat, if the Sheriff return the Tenant summoned, where he was not summoned, by which the Defendant loseth his Land by Default at the Grand Cape returned; the Tenant shall have a Writ of Deceit against him who recovered, and against the Sheriff for his false Return; and by that Writ the Tenant shall be restored unto his Land again: And the Sheriff shall be punished for his Falsity. Ibid. 97. If a Man bring a Writ of Deceit against him that recovers in the first Action, and the Sheriff return him summoned, upon which the same the Recovery is reversed; in this Case the Defendant shall not have Writ of Deceit to recover the Land again, if he were not summoned: But he shall have his Remedy against the Sheriff. Roll. Abr. 621. And where Debt was brought, and the Defendant pleaded in Abatement, and the Plea was over-ruled; the Attornies on both Sides by Deceit between them, to the End the Plaintiff might recover his Debt, entered another Judgment when it should have been a Respondens Ouster; and it was held that the Writ of Deceit would not lie to reverse the Record, but only to recover Damages. Ibid. 622. If in a Suit or Action, another Person shall come into Court and pretend he is Party to the Suit, and so let Judgment be had, or some other Damage done to the Party himself; or if I have Cause to have an Action, and another brings it in my Name, and lets Judgment go against me by Nonsuit, or the like; I may have this Writ of Deceit against him. F. N. B. 96. March 48. If any one forge a Statute, &c. in my Name, and sueth a Capias thereupon, for which I am arrested; I shall have a Writ of Deceit against him that forged it, and against him who sued forth the Writ of Capias, &c. Ibid. And if a Person procure another to sue an Action against me to trouble me, I shall have a Writ of Deceit. There are many Frauds and Deceits provided against by Statute, relating to Artificers, Bakers, Brewers, Victuallers, false Weights and Measures, &c. which are liable to Penalties and Punishment in Proportion to the Offence committed. And Writ of Deceit lies in various Cases, for not performing a Bargain; or not selling good Commodities, &c. 1 Inst. 357. See Action on the Case. This Writ for suing out a false Process runs thus: If A. B. shall procure you, &c. then put, &c. C. D. to answer as well to us as the said A. why a certain Writ or Process be fraudulently and maliciously obtained, &c. in the Name of the said A. whereof he was altogether ignorant, in Deceit of our Court, and to his great Damage, &c.

Decem Tales, Is when a full Jury doth not appear at a Trial at Bar; then a Writ goes to the Sheriff Appone Decem Tales, &c. whereby a Supply is made of Jurymen to proceed in the Trial.

Decies tantum, Is a Writ that lies against a Juror, who hath taken Money of either Party for giving his Verdict; so called, because it is to recover ten Times as much as he took: And every Person that will may bring this Writ and recover the same, one half whereof shall be to the Prosecutor, and the other to the King. This Writ also lies against Embracers that procure such an Inquest; who shall be further punished by Imprisonment for a Year. Reg. Orig. 188. F. N. B. 171. Stat. 38 Ed. 3. cap. 13. But Decies tantum doth not lie against the Embracer, if he embrace and take no Money; for he ought to take Money, and also embrace. Yet it lies against the Jurors, although they do not give a Verdict, if they take Money; and so, 'tis said, if they give a true Verdict, Decies tantum lies, if they take Money. Dyer 95. New Nat. Br. 380.

Decimation, (Decimatio) The punishing every tenth Soldier by Lot, was termed Decimatio Legionis: It likewise signifies Tithing, or Paying a tenth Part. There was a Decimation during the Time of the Usurper 1655. which by the Loyal Party will not easily be forgotten.

Deciners, Decennifers, or Doziners, (Decennarii) Derived from the Fr. Dixaine, i. e. Decas, Ten, signify in our ancient Law, such as were wont to have the Oversight of the Friburghs, or Views of Frank-Pledge, for the Maintenance of the King's Peace; and the Limits or Compass of their Jurisdiction was called Decenna, because it commonly consisted of ten Households; as every Person bound for himself and his Neighbours to keep the Peace, was stiled Decennier. Bras. lib. 3. Tras. 2. cap. 15. These seemed to have large Authority in the Time of the Saxons, taking Knowledge of Causes within their Circuits, and redressing Wrongs by Way of Judgment and compelling Men thereunto, as appears in the Laws of King Edward the Confessor, published by Lambard, Numb. 32. But of late Times Decennier is not used for the chief Man of a Dixain, or Decain; but he that is sworn to the King's Peace, and by Oath of Loyalty to his Prince, is settled in the Society of a Dozein. A Dozein seemed to extend so far as a Leet extendeth; because in Leets the Oath of Loyalty is administered by the Steward, and taken by all such as are twelve Years old, and upwards, dwelling within the Precinct of the Leet where they are sworn. F. N. B. 161. There are now no other Dozeins but Leets; and there is a great Diversity between the ancient and these modern Times, in this Point of Law and Government. 2 Inst. 73.

Declaration, (Declaratio, Narratio) Is a Shewing in Writing the Cause of Complaint of the Plaintiff in an Action against the Defendant, wherein the Party is supposed to have received some Wrong. And this ought to be plain and certain, because it impeacheth the Defendant, and compels him to answer thereunto; it must set forth the Plaintiff's and Defendant's Names, the Nature and Cause of the Action, the Manner thereof, &c. and the Damage mage received. 1 Inst. 17. A Count or Declaration ought to contain Demonstration, Declaration, and Conclusion: In Demonstration, are included three Things; Quis queritur, contra quem, & pro qua Causa: In Declaration, there ought to be comprised, Quomodo inter partes Actio accrevit, quando & qua die, anno & loco, & cui dabitur: And in the Conclusion, should be averred and offered to prove the Suit and Damage, &c. sustained. Terms de Ley 222. A Declaration is an Exposition of the Writ, with the Addition of Time, Circumstances, &c. and must be true and clear, for the Court is not to take Things in it by Implication: But it is not necessary to set forth Matters of Fact, as in a Bill in Chancery, because they are to be tried by a Jury. Wood's Inst. 582. The Law requires four Things in Declarations and Pleadings, viz. 1. Truth. 2. Certainty. 3. Order. 4. Congruity. In personal Actions, the Day, Year, and Place ought to be expressed in the Declaration; but not in real Actions: And if in Trespas the Plaintiff declares, that it was committed such a Day, &c. and continued Diversis diebus & vicibus, without shewing the Days of the Continuance of it, this is good: For that is to be proved in Evidence, for the Increase of Damages. Jenk. Cent. 124. In Action of Debt, upon a Bond, the Plaintiff in his Declaration must alledge a Place where the Bond was made, because the Jury should come from that Place; and if this be omitted, the Declaration is ill. Dyer 15, 39. 1 Nelf. Abr. 619. In Action of Covenant, no more of the Deed need be mentioned in the Declaration, than the Covenant where the Breach is assigned: And if a Defendant pleads Non est factum to a Deed, he allows a Covenant therein to be broken, as laid in the Declaration, and makes the Declaration good, though the Breach be too generally assigned. 2 Cro. 369. In Slander there should be no more Inducement than is necessary: The like is to be observed in Actions upon general Statutes, concluding contra formam Statuti, &c. But in Declarations for Words, the Words spoke are to be laid expressly and positively; not with an hoc verba vel consimilia, nor with a Quorum tenor sequitur, &c. Cro. Eliz. 645, 857. 5 Mod. 72. And where the Plaintiff declares on, and recites a Statute, he must recite it truly, and 'tis erroneous to misrecite it; though as to the Substance of the Declaration, the Plaintiff might have omitted to recite it all. 1 Nelf. 616. In Action on the Case upon Assumpsit, the Plaintiff is to declare upon the whole Promise made, and not on a Part of it; or on Trial he will be nonsuited. 1 Lanw. Abr. 266, &c. It is good to lay large and sufficient Damages in Declarations; in Debt it is usual to double the Sum, &c. And Damages shall not be given for that which is not contained in the Declaration, and only for what is materially alledged. 10 Rep. 115. 1 Lill. Abr. 381. If one declare upon an Obligation, with an hic in Curia Prolat', he must on Oyer pray'd of it, shew the Obligation, or the Declaration will not be good. And a Plaintiff declaring as Executor or Administrator, ought to set forth the Probate of the Will, and Letters of Administration granted, with a Profert in Curia; or the Declaration will be naught. 2 Lill. Abr. 412. Where there are two Counts in a Declaration, for Things of the same Kind, and not averred to be different, it is not good; for the Defendant is twice charged for the same Thing: But on Arrest of Judgment in such a Case, it was adjudged good after Verdict, and the Court will not intend them to be the same. 1 Salk. 213. If a Declaration is bad, and the Defendant demurs, the Plaintiff may set it right in a second Action; but if the Defendant do not take Advantage of it, but pleads in Bar, and the Plaintiff proceeds to Issue thereon, if the Right is found for the Defendant, the Plaintiff is estopp'd by the Verdict from bringing a new Action: And so it is if he had demurred to the Plea in Bar. 1 Mod. 20, 207. Where a Declaration is defective, it is sometimes aided by the Statutes of Jesails, &c. but they help only Matters of Form, not Matters of Substance; for Uncertainty in a Declaration, which is Matter of Substance, is not aided by Statute after Verdict, as in Case of Trespas for taking Fish, where their Number or Nature are not set forth. 5 Rep. 35. The Plaintiff, after the Return of the Writ, hath two Terms to exhibit his Declaration against the Defendant, that Term being reckoned one wherein the Writ was returnable: And if no Declaration comes in before the Rising of the Court, the last Day of the second Term, on a Rule of Court given, the Plaintiff shall be nonsuited, and the Defendant sign a Non. Prof. whereupon he shall have Costs. If the Defendant appears in Person, the Plaintiff is to declare in three Days after Appearance in B. R. and in other Courts, at the next Court, by Stat. 8 El. c. 2. The Plaintiff's Attorney is to file his Warrant the Term wherein he declares. Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. If one be in Custody of the Marshal of the Court, any Plaintiff may file a Declaration against him, and he is obliged to plead thereto; it is the same when he is out upon Bail, any other may declare against him: For when a Man is in Custody of the Law, he is bound to answer every one's Suit; and on Hab. Corp. a Stranger to the Writ by which the Prisoner is arrested, may take Notice of the Prisoner when he is turned over to the Marshal, though at the Suit of another, and declare against him, without taking out Process. 1 Lill. 413. By Statute, when a Defendant is taken or charged in Custody, upon any Writ out of the Courts at Westminster, or imprisoned for Want of Sureties for Appearance, the Plaintiff must declare against him before the End of the next Term, and cause a Copy to be delivered to the Prisoner or Gaoler; to which Declaration the Prisoner is to plead, or the Plaintiff shall have Judgment. 4 & 5 W. & M. cap. 21. But if the Declaration be not enter'd, or left in the Office, before the End of the next Term; and Affidavit is made thereof, and filed, before the End of twenty Days after, &c. the Prisoner, on entering his Appearance, shall be discharged by Superfedat. 8 & 9 W. 3. If a Person is in Custody of the Marshal, &c. and the Plaintiff would charge him either with an Action or Execution, (if in Term-time) he must file a Bill against him, and deliver a Declaration to the Turnkey, &c. and he shall lie in Custody two Terms, &c. but if in Vacation, the Plaintiff is to go to the Marshal's Book in the Office, and make an Entry quod Defenden. remaneat in Custodia ad festam A. B. &c. 1 Salk. 213. And in Declarations against Prisoners by Virtue of any Process out of B. R. it shall be alledged in Custody of what Sheriff, Bailiff, &c. such Prisoner is at the Time of the Declaration delivered; which Allegation shall be as effectual as if the Prisoner was in Custody of the Marshal. 4 & 5 W. & M. All Declarations are to be filed; for 'tis filing makes them Authentick, as the Foundation of the Cause depending; and before filed, they are not of Record to warrant a Judgment: And if the Plaintiff's Attorney cannot find the Defendant's Attorney to deliver him the Declaration, filing it in the Office, will be a good Delivery; but Notice thereof must be given either to the Defendant or his Attorney, when they are to be found; and if the Defendant do not plead, Judgment shall be had against him. Pasch. 13 Car. B. R. On filing Declarations, Copies thereof are served on the Defendants, or their Attornies, &c. And by an Order of all the Judges, Anno 12 W. 3. the Plaintiff's Attorney is not obliged to deliver the Defendant's Attorney the original Declaration; but instead of it, is to deliver a true Copy of the Declaration; upon Delivery or Tender whereof, the Defendant's Attorney ney shall pay for such Copy after the Rate of 4 d. per Sheet, &c. and if any Person refuse to pay for the Copy tendered, the said Copy is to be left in the Office, with the Clerk that keeps the Files of Declarations, and thereupon the Plaintiff's Attorney giving Rules to plead, may for Want of a Plea sign Judgment; and before any Plea shall be received, the Defendant's Attorney is to pay for the Copy of the Declaration. 1 Lill. 417. And by a late Order in every Cause where special or common Bail is filed, and Notice given to the Plaintiff, a Copy of the Declaration shall be delivered to the Attorney for the Defendant, who shall pay for it according to the usual Rate; but if the Defendant's Attorney, or his Clerk in his Absence, refuses to pay for such Copy; or if it happens the Habitation of the Attorney for the Defendant, be unknown to the Attorney for the Plaintiff; then it shall be lawful to leave the Copy, with the Officer of the Court appointed for filing Declarations, which shall be good, giving Notice, &c. Ord. Cur. Trin. 2 Geo. 2. On the first Day of the following Term after Delivery of the Declaration, the Paper of Rules is to be made up, writing on the Top the Attorney's Name and the Term, and under that the Names of the Plaintiff and Defendant, as A. B. against C. D. &c. and the Paper of Rules must be carried to the Secondary, who will give one peremptory Rule to plead in eight Days, &c. A Plaintiff's Attorney, may amend his Declaration in B. R. in Matter of Form, after the General Issue pleaded, before Entry thereof, without paying Costs, or giving Impar lance: But if he amend in Substance, he is to pay Costs, or give Impar lance: And if he amend in Substance, after a special Plea pleaded, though he would give Impar lance, he must pay Costs. 1 Lill. Abr. 409. A Mistake in a Declaration the Plaintiff may amend in C. B. on Notice before the Effoin-Day, and the Defendant shall have no Advantage of it: Also before Demurrer, or Issue joined, the Plaintiff may amend, paying 13 s. 4 d. Costs; and force the Defendant to plead presently, or give him a further Impar lance without paying Costs: But after Demurrer, or Issue joined, and when the Pleadings are entered on the Roll, the Plaintiff cannot amend his Declaration; but is to enter a Discontinuance, and proceed de novo. Practif. Attoyn. Edit. 1. p. 147. On a Latitat in B. R. you may declare against the Defendant in as many Actions as you think fit; but you must have one Original, for every Action in C. B. The Declaration is grounded upon the Writ in the Common Pleas, and Bill of Middlesex in the King's Bench: And in C. B. it is usual to declare in Actions on Quare clausum fregit, as is practised on a Latitat in B. R. 2 Vent. 259. One may not regularly declare in B. R. against a Person that is not in Custodia Marischalli, or hath not filed Bail; unless he be a privileged Person. 21 Car. B. R. If a Declaration begins Queritur de Placito Transg. pro eo quod, &c. it may be a Declaration in Case, or it will serve for either Trespass, or Case. Cro. Car. 325. The Plaintiff's Attorney is not obliged to set his Hand to his Declaration; for the Defendant's Attorney must receive it without, if he knows him to be the Attorney in the Cause. By Statute, no Man shall be prejudiced by the ancient Forms; so that the Matter of the Action be fully shewn in the Declaration, &c. which shall be good, though the Terms are not perfectly proper. 35 E. 3. c. 15. Vide 4 Geo. 2.

Form of a Declaration in Debt in B. R.

Midd. ff. A. B. Complains of C. D. otherwise called C. D. of the Parish of St. Clement's Danes in the County of Middlesex, Gentleman, in the Custody of the Marshal of the Marshalsea of our Sovereign

Lord the King, before the King himself, of a Plea, that he render to the said A. twenty Pounds of good and lawful Money of Great Britain, which he owes to him, and unjustly detains; for that, to wit, That whereas the said C. the tenth Day of September in the fifth Year of the Reign of the Lord George the Second, now King of Great Britain, and so forth, at the aforesaid Parish of St. Clement Danes in the County aforesaid, by his certain Writing Obligatory, sealed with the Seal of the said C. and here shewn to the Court of the said Lord the King, the Date whereof is the same Day and Year above-mentioned, acknowledged himself to be held and firmly bound to the aforesaid A. in the aforesaid twenty Pounds, to be paid to the said A. whenever afterwards he should be thereto required: Nevertheless the said C. although often required to pay the same, hath not paid to the said A. the said twenty Pounds, or any Part thereof; but hath hitherto refused, and still doth refuse so to do: Whereupon the said A. said, that he is injured, and hath Damage to the Value of ten Pounds; And therefore he brings his Suit, &c.

Form of a Declaration in Case on an Assumpsit.

Som. ff. A. B. Complains of C. D. being in the Custody of the Marshal, &c. for that, to wit, That whereas the said A. on the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. at the Parish of G. in the said County of Somerset, at the special Instance and Request of the said C. hath sold and delivered to the said C. to the proper Use of him the said C. one Damask Bed, &c. at the Price of ten Pounds of lawful Money of Great Britain; he the said C. then and there, that is to say, the Day and Year aforesaid, at, &c. aforesaid, in Consideration thereof, assumed upon himself, or undertook, and to the said A. then and there faithfully promised, that he the said C. would well and truly pay and content to the said A. the aforesaid ten Pounds, whenever after he should be therunto required: Yet the said C. not regarding his Promise and Assumption aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending, craftily and subtilly, to deceive and defraud the said A. in this Behalf, the aforesaid ten Pounds, or any Penny thereof, hath not paid to the said A. although the said C. was afterwards thereto required by the said A. to wit, on the Day and in the Year, &c. and often after at that Time, at, &c. aforesaid, but he hath hitherto always refused, and still doth refuse to pay the same to him; by Reason whereof he says that he is the worse, and hath Damage to the Value of, &c. And therefore he brings his Suit.

Form of a Declaration in Trespass in B. R.

Wilts. ff. A. B. Complains of C. D. in Custody, &c. of that, That he the said C. the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. with Force and Arms, to wit, with Clubs, Staves, &c. the Close of him the said A. called M. Close, at, &c. in the County aforesaid, broke and entered, and the Grass of the said A. to the Value of one hundred Shillings, then and there growing, with certain Beasts, that is to say, with Horses, Oxen, Cows and Sheep, eat up, trod down and consumed; and continued the said Trespass at divers Days and Times, in so eating up, treading down and consuming the Grass of the aforesaid A. there growing, from the said Day of, &c. in the Year aforesaid, until the Day, &c. (or between such Day, and the said Day) then next following; and other Injuries then and there did to the said A. against the Peace of our said Sovereign Lord the King, and to the Damage of him the said A. &c. And therefore he brings his Suit, &c.

Decretals,

Decretals, (Decretales) Are a Volume or Books of the Canon Law, so called, containing the Decrees of sundry Popes; or a Digest of the Canons of all the Councils that pertained to one Matter under one Head. See Canon Law.

Decurfare, Signifies to bring into Order. Mon. Angl. Tom. 1. p. 243.

Debi, Is a Warranty in Law; as if it be said in a Deed or Conveyance, That A. B. hath Given, &c. to C. D. it is a Warranty to him and his Heirs. Co. Lit. 304. Also Dedi imports a Power of giving any Thing. Hob. 12.

Dedication-Day, (Festum Dedicationis) The Feast of Dedication of Churches, or rather the Feast-Day of the Saint and Patron of a Church; which was celebrated not only by the Inhabitants of the Place, but by those of all the neighbouring Villages, who usually came thither; and such Assemblies were allowed as lawful: It was usual for the People to feast and drink on those Days; and in many Parts of England, they still meet every Year in Villages for this Purpose, which Days are called Feasts or Wakes.

Deimus Potestatem, Is a Writ or Commission given to one or more private Persons, for the speeding some Act appertaining to a Judge, or some Court: And it is granted most commonly upon Suggestion, that the Party who is to do something before a Judge, or in Court, is so weak that he cannot travel; as where a Person lives in the Country, to take an Answer in Chancery; to examine Witnesses in a Cause depending in that Court; to levy a Fine in the Common Pleas, &c. F. N. B.

Deimus Potestatem de Attornato faciendo. As the Words of Writs do command the Defendant to appear, &c. anciently the Judges would not suffer the Parties to make Attornies in any Action or Suit, without the King's Writ of Deimus Potestatem, to receive their Attornies: But now by Statutes, the Plaintiff or Defendant may make Attornies in Suits without such Writs. New Nat. Br. 55, 56.

Deed, (Factum) Is an Instrument in Parchment or Paper, but chiefly in Parchment, comprehending a Contract or Bargain, between Party and Party; or an Agreement of the Parties thereto, for the Matters therein contained: And it consists of three principal Points, Writing, Sealing, and Delivery; Writing, to express the Contents; Sealing, to testify the Consent of the Parties; and Delivery, to make it binding and perfect. Terms de Ley. The Word Scriptum or Writing doth not import a Deed; for a Contract may be in Writing, and not by Deed, and if so, it is but a parol Agreement: But a Deed may be effectual, although it does not mention, in the Beginning, by or to whom it is made. 1 Ld. Raym. 28. Of Deeds there are two Sorts, Deeds indented, and Deeds Poll; which Names principally arise from the Form of them, the one being cut in and out at Top, dentwise, and the other plain: And a Deed indented is defined to be a Deed consisting of two Parts, or more, for there are Deeds Tripartite, Quadripartite, Sextipartite, &c. in which it is expressed, that the Parties have to every Part thereof interchangeably set their several Seals; and for that it contains more Parts than one, each Part is indented, or cut one of them into the other, that thereby it may appear they belong to one Business or Contract. West. Symb. Sect. 47. A Deed Poll is a Deed testifying that only one of the Parties to the Agreement hath put his Seal to the same, where such Party is the Principal or only Person, whose Consent or Act is necessary to the Deed: And it is therefore a plain Deed, without indenting, and is used when the Vendor, for Example, only seals, and there is no need of the Vendee's Sealing a Counterpart, because the Nature of the Contract is such, as it requires no Covenant from the Vendee, &c. Co. Lit. 55. The several Parts of Deeds by Indenture, are belonging to the Feoffor, Grantor, or Lessor, who have one; the Feoffee, Grantee, or Lessee, who have another; and some other Persons, as Trustees, a third, &c. and the Deed Poll which is single, and of but one Part, is delivered to the Feoffee, or Grantee, &c. All the Parts of a Deed indented, in Judgment of Law make but one intire Deed; but every Part is of as great Force, as all the Parts together, and they are esteemed the mutual Acts of either Party, who may be bound by either Part of the same, and the Words of the Indenture are the Words of either Party, &c. But a Deed Poll is the sole Deed of him that makes it, and the Words thereof shall be said to be his Words, and bind him only. Plowd. 134, 421. Lit. Sect. 370. And there are other Divisions of Deeds; some are Absolute, and some Conditional; some inrolled, and others not inrolled; some concerning the Realty, some the Personalty, &c. and some have in them Matter of Gift or Grant; and others Matter of Discharge. Also in every Deed well made, there must be Writing in Parchment or Paper; Form and Method in the Writing; it must be sealed and delivered; the Parties to the Deed are to be able to make and take; and the Thing to be passed must be a Thing passable for the Matter and Manner, &c. 1 Inst. 225. There are several Kinds of Deeds, by which Lands pass from one Man to another; as of Bargain and Sale, Feoffment, Lease and Release, Indentures to lead the Uses of Fines and Recoveries, Settlements, Leases, Assignments, Exchanges, Mortgages, &c. And Deeds have several formal Parts, viz. The Premises, Habendum, Reddendum, Condition, Covenant, Warranty, Date, Sealing, &c. The Premises set forth the proper Names of the Parties, with their Additions of Place and Quality; and comprehend the Certainty of the Lands and Tenements to be conveyed, with the Consideration of the Deed, as Money, Natural Love, &c. the Premises also contain the Exceptions, if there be any out of the Land granted; as of Timber, Mines, &c. and in many Deeds there may be an Occasion of a Recital of former Deeds in the Premises, particularly in Assignments of Leases, Mortgages, &c. The Habendum names the Certainty of the Estate granted, for what Time the Grantee is to have it, and to what Use: And it sometimes qualifies the Estate, so that the general Implication of it, which by Construction of Law passes in the Premises, by the Habendum may be controlled; but not if the Estate is expressed in the Premises. Likewise an Habendum may explain the Premises, to prevent Wrong; and sometimes the Premises are thereby enlarged. A Freehold cannot be granted by Deed with Habendum at a Day to come: And a Deed or Lease, Habendum from henceforth, includes the Day on which it was dated: But Habendum à Die Datus excludes it. The Reddendum is that Clause in the Deed, which reserveth some new Thing to the Grantor; as Rent, Suit, Service, &c. and is usually made by the Words Yielding, Paying, Doing, &c. A Lessor cannot reserve to any but himself, his Heirs and Executors, &c. nor can he reserve to himself Parcel of the annual Profits, such as the Herbage of the Land; for that would be repugnant to the Grant, it being a Part thereof. Conditions and Covenants in Deeds, are for the Holding or not holding of the Estate granted, on Performance of some Act: And a Condition relating to a real Estate, is a Quality annexed by him that hath the Estate, Interest or Right in the same, whereby the Estate granted may be defeated, enlarged, or created, upon an uncertain Event. Conditions are expressed by these Words, viz. upon Condition, provided, so that, &c. and provided always, and it is covenanted, is a Condition, by Force of the Proviso, and a Covenant, by Virtue of the other Words; though sometimes a Proviso shall amount to a Covenant, and sometimes be taken for a Limitation, Exception, Reservation, Explanation, &c. The Warranty in Deeds, is to secure the Estate to the Grantee and his Heirs, &c. and is a Covenant real, annexed to the Land granted, by which the Grantor and his Heirs are bound to warrant the same to the Grantee and his Heirs, and that they shall quietly hold and enjoy it; or upon Voucher, &c. the Grantor shall yield other Lands, to the Value of what shall be evicted. Where a Feoffor grants away all his Estate in the Land, and is not bound to warrant the Title, but the Feoffee is to defend it at his Peril; the Feoffee shall have all the Deeds, as Incidents to the Land, although not granted in exprefs Words: But where the Feoffor warrants the Land, it is otherwise, the Feoffor shall have them to defend the Title; and the Feoffee must trust to his Warranty, and have only such Deeds as concern the Possession, &c. In vitinis ubereof, &c. ascertains the Date of the Deed; and is as well Part of it as what is written before. 1 Inst. 6, 47, 201, 365. Plowd. 152. Wood's Inst. 224, 225, &c. 1 Nels. Abr. 624, &c. Deeds of Bargain and Sale, are to be inrolled by Stat. 27 Hen. 8. And all Deeds are to be registered in the Counties of York, and Middlesex. Stat. 2 & 6 & 7 Ann. A Deed may be good without all the orderly and formal Parts; but without Delivery by the Party himself, or his Attorney lawfully authorized, to the Party to whom made, or some other to his Use, it is no Deed: And the Delivery may be either absolute or on Condition. 1 Inst. 35. 2 Rep. 5. If a Deed sealed lieth on the Table, and the Grantor saith to the Grantee, Take that as my Deed, or this will serve, &c. it is a good Delivery: But if it be thus left when sealed, and the Party to whom made takes it up, this is no Delivery, without some Words. Though where Parties have come for that Purpose, and done every Thing but Delivery; it has been adjudged a good Delivery in Law. Cro. El. 7. 1 Leon. 140. A Deed sealed and delivered, 'tis said may be good without signing; for the Seal is the essential Part of the Deed: But 'tis usual to have Deeds signed; and there must be Witnesses to the Sealing and Delivery, who are to indorse or under write their Names thereon. 1 Inst. 7. 10 Rep. 93. If a Writing is not sealed, it cannot be a Deed: And if the Print of the Seal be utterly defaced, the Deed is insufficient, so that it cannot be pleaded; but it may be given in Evidence. 3 Inst. 169. 5 Rep. 23. If any Deed be read false to an illiterate Person, though he sign, seal, and deliver it, it shall not be his Deed, to bind him: Though if he does not require the Deed to be read, and seal and deliver it, he is bound by the same. 2 Rep. 3. 2 Rol. Abr. 28. And if he that is to seal the Deed, cause a Stranger covinously to read it false, to make the same void; this will not hurt the Deed. 12 Rep. 90. Hob. 96. If another Person seal my Deed, and I take it after sealed and deliver it as my Deed; it is held to be good. Perk. Sect. 130. But if a Man seal and deliver a Piece of blank Paper, although he also command that a Deed be written in it, and this is done, it is no good Deed. Co. Lit. 171. Regularly there may not be two Deliveries of a Deed, for where the First doth take Effect, the Second is void: Unless it be where the Deed is delivered to a Stranger as an Escrow; or when a Deed good at first, becomes void afterwards by the Breach of the Seal; or a Feme Covert seals a Deed, and after being sole delivers it again, &c. Perk. Sect. 154. Co. Lit. 48. 5 Rep. 119. The Delivery of any Deed may be alledged at any Time after the Date; but not before. Dyer 315. In Deeds, the Consideration is a principal Thing to give them Effect: And the Foundation of Deeds ought always to be honest. Falfe Latin or falfe English, will not make a Deed void: But Rasure or Interlineation in a material Part, will render the same void; unless some Memorandum be made thereof on the Back of the Deed, testifying its being done before Sealing. 1 Roll. Rep. 40. If Words are blotted out in a Deed, by a Grantee or Lessee himself, although it be not in a Place material, it will make the Deed void. Dyer 261. It has been adjudged, where an Estate cannot have its Essence without a Deed, there if the Deed is rased in any material Part, after the Delivery, it makes the Estate void: But if the Estate may have Essence without a Deed, then notwithstanding it is created by Deed, and that Deed is rased, it shall not destroy the Estate, but the Deed. 1 Nels. Abr. 625. When a Chose in Action is created by Deed, the Destruction of such Deed is the Destruction of the Duty itself; as in Case of a Bond, Bill, &c. though it is not so, where an Estate or Interest is created by a Deed. 3 Salk. 120. If a Deed be suppressed, on Proof made that it came to the Party's Hands, and of its Contents, the Person injured will have the same Benefit to hold the Estate, as if the Deed could be produced. 2 Vern. Cas. 237. Deeds, if fraudulently made; when got by Corrupt Agreement, as on usurious Contract; and when made by Force or Duress, &c. are void: So they are for Uncertainty, and by Reason of Infancy, Coverture, or other Disability in the Makers, &c. 2 Roll. Abr. 28. 1 Inst. 253. 11 Rep. 27. A Deed may be good in Part, and void in another; or good against one Person, and void as to another: If all the Parts of a Deed may by Law stand together, no one Part shall make the Whole void. And if a Deed by any Construction of Law can be construed to have legal Operation, the Law will not make it utterly void, though it may not operate according to the Purport of the Deed: Also the Law will transpose and marshal Clauses in Deeds, to come at their true Meaning; but not to confound them. Where the Words of a Deed may have a double Intendment, one standing with Law, and the other contrary to it; the Intendment that standeth with Law shall be taken. 1 Lill. Abr. 421. 1 Inst. 42, 217. 1 Shep. Ab. 540. There are four Grounds for the Exposition of Deeds. 1. That they may be beneficial to the Taker. 2. That where the Words may be employed to some Intent, they shall never be void. 3. That the Words be construed according to the Intention of the Parties, and not otherwise; and the Intent of the Parties shall take Effect, if it may possibly stand with Law. 4. That they are to be consonant to the Rules of the Law. And Deeds shall have a reasonable Exposition, without Injury against the Grantor, to the greatest Advantage of the Grantee. They are to be expounded upon the Whole, and if the second Part contradicts the first, such second Part shall be void; but if the latter Part expounds or explains the former, which it may do, both of them shall stand. Plowd. 160. Raym. 142. 6 Rep. 36. 1 Inst. 313. *1 Roll. And where a Deed is by Indenture between Parties, none can have an Action upon that Deed, but he who is a Party to it; but where 'tis a Deed Poll, one may covenant with another who is not a Party to it, to do certain Acts, for the Non-performance whereof he may bring an Action. 2 Lev. 74. Where a Man justifies Title under a Deed, he is to produce the Deed: If a Deed is alledged in Pleading, it must be shewed to the Court, that the Court may judge of the Validity of it, and whether there are sufficient Words to make a good Contract; and when it is shewn to the Court, the Deed shall remain in Court all the Term, in the Hands of the Custos Brevium; but at the End of the Term, it shall be delivered to the Party. If the Deed is denied, it must remain in Court till the Plea is determined. 10 Rep. 88. Wood 235. A Deed set forth with a Proferri hic in Curia, remains in Court in Judgment of Law all that Term; and any Person may during that Term have Benefit by it, though he hath it not ready to shew; the adverse Party may take any Advantage by the Deed that it will afford him. 5 Rep. 74. 1 Nels. 625. Deeds sealed and delivered cannot be pleaded, &c. if not stamped according to Law. 5 & 6 W. & M. cap. 21. A Deed Poll commonly begins thus: To all People to whom these Presents shall come, &c. Or, Know all Men by these Presents, &c. See Accomplish'd Conveyancer, Vol. 1. Edit. 2.

Deer-stealers, There are several Laws, for the Punishment of Deer-stealers; as by 3 Jac. 1. cap. 13. None shall kill or chase any Deer, in any Park or inclosed Ground, on Pain of suffering three Months Imprisonment, and to pay treble Damages: And Persons not having 40l. per Ann. in Lands, or worth 200l. in Goods, &c. are not to use any Gun, Bow, Dog, &c. to kill Deer; and their Guns, &c. may be taken from them. By the 13 Car. 2. cap. 10. It is ordained, that whoever shall course, kill, hunt, or take away any Red, or Fallow Deer, from any Parks, &c. shall be liable to a Penalty of 20l. And the Stat. 3 & 4 W. & M. c. 10. inflicts a Penalty of 20l. for unlawful Hunting and Coursing of any Deer; and 30l. for Taking, Wounding, or Killing, to be levied by Distress; which is to be divided into three Parts; one whereof to go to the Informer, another to the Poor, and the other to the Owner of the Deer; and if no Distress can be had, the Offenders shall be imprison'd a Year, and set on the Pillory, &c. Pulling down Pales or Walls of Parks, &c. where Deer are inclosed, by this Act is punished with three Months Imprisonment: And the Offences are determined by Justices of Peace of the County where committed. Also by 5 Geo. 1. c. 15 & 28. Persons guilty of Deer-stealing, may be indicted before a Judge of Gaol Delivery, and in that Case be transported to the Plantations for seven Years: And Persons otherwise convicted before they are discharged, are to enter into Bond of 50l. Penalty to the Person injured for future good Behaviour. Keepers of Parks, killing Deer without Consent of the Owners, incur a Forfeiture of 50l. and others pulling down Walls and Fences of Parks, are liable to the Penalties inflicted by 3 & 4 W. & M. for killing of Deer. Thus stood our Laws till the great Insolences of the Waltham-Blacks made a further Provision necessary, when by Statute 9 Geo. 1. c. 22. it was enacted, that if any Persons armed with Swords, Fire-Arms, or other Weapons, and having their Faces blacked, or being otherwise disguised, shall appear in any Forest, Park, &c. and unlawfully hunt or kill any Deer; rob any Warren, &c. or shall set Fire to any House, or shoot at any Person in a Dwelling-house, or other Place; or send any Letter without a Name subscribed, or with a fictitious Name, demanding Money of any Person, &c. they shall be guilty of Felony without Benefit of Clergy: And 50l. Reward is given for the Apprehension of the Offenders. This Statute is continued for five Years, by 12 Geo. 1. cap. 30. Persons convicted a second Time, of hunting or taking away Deer in uninclosed Forests, &c. or coming armed with an Intent to hunt or take them, who shall beat or wound any Keeper, &c. shall be transported for seven Years. 10 Geo. 2. c. 32. Before the Charta de Foresta, 9 H. 3. to hunt the King's Deer, in any Forest or Park was Felony; but that Charter ordained that none should lose either Life or Member for killing the King's Deer. 2 Roll Rep. 120. And the Hunting in any Forest, &c. with Vifors or painted Faces in the Day-time, or in the Night with or without such Vifors, if the Party conceal the same, it is Felony by Stat. 1 H. 7. So that we may observe there is some Agreement between our ancient Laws and modern Statutes. A Person was convicted on the Statute of Deer-stealing, and it appearing by the Conviction, that the Deer were not in a Park inclosed, &c. upon Motion in B. R. the Conviction was quashed. Mich. 9 W. 3. Mod. Just. 161. A Conviction of Deer-stealing may be removed by Certiorari into B. R. but the Party doing it, is to give Bond in the Penalty of 60l. to the Justice of Peace before whom convicted, to prosecute such Certiorari, and pay the Forfeiture due by the Conviction, or render his Person in a Month after the Conviction confirmed, &c. 5 Geo. 1.

Default, (Fr. Defaut) Is commonly taken for Non-appearance in Court, at a Day assigned; though it extends to any Omission of that which we ought to do. Bract. lib. 5. Tract. 3. Co. Litt. 259. If a Plaintiff makes Default in Appearance in a Trial at Law, he will be nonsuited; and where a Defendant makes Default, fault, Judgment shall be had against him by Default. In Action of Debt upon Bond, if the Defendant pleads a Release, and Issue is thereupon joined, if at the Trial the Defendant makes Default, the Plaintiff may pray Judgment by Default; because by the Plea the Duty is confessed, and therefore no Inquest need be taken by Default: But if the Defendant plead Non est factum, by that Plea the Duty is denied, and therefore if he make Default, Inquest must be taken by Default. In Trespass, if the Defendant plead a Release, and then make Default, the Plaintiff cannot pray Judgment by Default; but an Inquest is to be taken, because Damages are incertain. 1 Salk. 216. Stat. Westm. 2. cap. 4. And in a Quod ei deserviat, where the Tenant joined Issue upon the mere Right, and the Jury appearing, the Defendant made Default; it was adjudged, that in such Case final Judgment shall be given: But if the Tenant had made Default, it would be otherwise, for then a Petit Cape must issue against him, because it may so happen that he may save his Default. 1 Nels. By Default of a Defendant, he is said to be generally out of Court to all Purposes, but only that Judgment may be given against him: And no Judgment can be afterwards given for the Defendant. Ibid. 628. When two are to recover a personal Thing, the Default of one is the Default of the other: Contra, where they are to discharge themselves of a Personalty; there the Default of the one is not the Default of the other. 6 Rep. 25. 1 Lill. If a Defendant imparl to another Day in the same Term, and make Default at the Day, this is a Departure in Despite of the Court: And when the Defendant after Appearance, and being present in Court, upon Demand makes Departure, it is in Despite of the Court, and the Entry is, Et præd. Tenens, licet solemniter exactus, non revenit, sed in contemptum Curie recessit, & Defaltum fecit, &c. Co. Litt. 139. Before a Verdict is taken by Default, the Cryer of the Court calls the Defendant three Times; and if he doth not appear, the Plaintiff's Counsel prays, that the Inquest may be taken by Default: He is called three Times, to shew if he hath any Challenge to the Jurors; and if he doth not appear upon the Cryer's Calling, then the Capiatur per Default is indorsed on the Back of the Panel. 1 Lill. 425. Default, and Saver of Default, made a large Title in the old Books of Law.

Default in Criminal Cases, An Offender indicted appears at the Capias, and pleads to Issue, and is let to Bail to attend his Trial, and then makes Default; here the Inquest in case of Felony, shall never be taken by Default, but a Capias ad audiendam juratos shall issue, and if the Party is not taken, an Exigent; and if he appeared on that Writ, and then make Default, an Exigi facias de novo may be granted: But where upon the Capias or Exigent the Sheriff returns Cepi Corpus, and at the Day hath not his Body, the Sheriff shall be punished, but no new Exigent awarded, because in Custody of Record. 2 Hale's Hist. Default of Jurors. If Jurors make Default in their Appearance for trying of Causes, they shall lose and forfeit Issues, unless they have any reasonable Excuse proved by Witnesses, in which Case the Justices may discharge the Issues for Default. Stat. 35 H. 8. c. 6.

Defamation, (Defamatio) Is when a Person speaks scandalous Words of another, or of a Magistrate, &c. whereby they are injured in their Reputation; for which the Party offending shall be punished according to the Nature and Quality of his Offence; sometimes by Action on the Case at Common Law, sometimes by Statute, and sometimes by the Ecclesiastical Laws. But Defamation is properly punishable by the Spiritual Courts; in which Courts, it ought to have three Incidents, viz. First, It is to concern Matters Spiritual, and determinable in the Ecclesiastical Courts; as for calling a Man Heretic, Schismatick, Adulterer, Fornicator, &c. Secondly, That it be a Matter Spiritual only; for if the Defamation concern any Thing determinable at the Common Law, the Ecclesiastical Judges shall not have Conusance thereof. And Thirdly, Although such Defamation be merely Spiritual, yet he that is defamed cannot sue for Damages in the Ecclesiastical Courts; but the Suit ought to be only for Punishment of the Fault, by Way of Penance. Terms de Ley 224, 225. See Action of the Case for Words, also Prohibition.

Defeasance, (From the Fr. Defaire, to defeat) Signifies a Condition relating to a Deed, which being performed, the Deed is defeated, and render'd void, as if it never had been made. The Difference between a common Condition and a Defeasance is, that the Condition is annexed to, or inserted in the Deed; and a Defeasance is a Deed by itself, concluded and agreed on between the Parties, and having Relation to another Deed. To make a good Defeasance, it must be, 1. By Deed, for there cannot be a Defeasance of a Deed without Deed; and a Writing under Hand doth not imply it to be a Deed. 2. It must recite the Deed it relates to, or at least the most material Part thereof. 3. It is to be made between the same Persons that were Parties to the first Deed. 4. It must be made at the Time, or after the first Deed, and not before. 5. It ought to be made of a Thing defeasible. 1 Inst. 236. 3 Lev. 234. Inheritances executed by Livery, such as Estates in Fee, or for Life, cannot be subject to Defeasance afterward, but at the Time of making the Feoffment, &c. only: But executory Inheritances, such as Leases for Years, Rents, Annuities, Conditions, Covenants, &c. may be defeated by Defeasance made after the Things granted. And it is the same of Obligations, Recognisances, Statutes, Judgments, &c. which are most commonly the Subject of Defeasance, and usually made after the Deed whereto they have Relation. Plowd. 137. 1 Rep. 113. If a Man acknowledge a Statute to another, and enters into a Defeasance, that if his Lands in such a County should be extended, the Statute should be void; the Defeasance will be good, and not repugnant, because it is by another Deed: But the Condition of a Bond not to sue the Obligation, is void for Repugnancy, being in the same Deed. Moor 1035. Although the Condition of an Obligation, where it is repugnant to it, be void; 'tis otherwise in Case of a Defeasance, made after the Bond, for this shall be good notwithstanding: As where the Obligee afterwards grants by Deed to the Obligor, that he will not sue thereon at all; or not till such a Time, or that it shall be discharged, &c. 20 H. 7. 24. Fitz. Bar. 71. If A. be bound in a Bond to B. in 20l. and he makes a Defeasance to C. that if he pay him the like Sum, the Obligation made by A. shall be void; this is no good Defeasance, because it is not made between the same Parties: Though if a Statute be entered into to Husband and Wife, and the Husband alone make a Defeasance, it may be good 14 H. 8. 101. 2 Shep. Abr. 488. It has been held, that if a Disseisee release his Right to the Tenant of the Land, and after there is a Defeasance between them, that if the Releasor Releffor shall pay fo much, the Release to be void ; by this it will not be defeated: And yet such a Release may be avoided by a Condition or Defeasance made at the Time of making it. Bro. Defeas. 6. Plowd. 137. 1 Inst. 236. A Statute, &c. may be defeasanced on Condition of performing a Will, and paying Legacies to other Persons. 1 Cro. 837. If a Defeasance of a Statute be made, and after another Defeasance is made by the same Parties, the first Defeasance becomes void thereby; and the second only is in Force, as in a Will. 2 Danv. Abr. 481. Where a Statute is acknowledged to two Persons, and one of them makes a Defeasance, it is said to be a good Discharge. Ibid. 480. If Execution be sued out before the Time in a Defeasance is past, it shall be set aside in B. R. 1 Lill 426. In a Defeasance of a Deed of Lands, the Person to whom made, covenants that on Payment of a certain Sum, on such a Day, he will transfer and reconvey the Estate back again; and that the Maker shall enjoy till Default, &c. If the Defeasance be of a Judgment, he covenants that on Payment of the Money, he will enter Satisfaction on Record: If of a Statute or Bond, that on Payment it shall be void, &c. Law of Securities 144, 146, 148, &c. Vide Mortgage.

Defence, In a legal Signification is applicable to a Plea, and is that which the Defendant ought to make immediately after the Count or Declaration, viz. That he defends all the Wrong, Force, and Damages, where and when he ought, &c. And by defending the Force and Wrong, he excuses himself of the Wrong surmised against him, and makes himself Party to the Plea; and by defending the Damage, he affirms the Plaintiff able to be answered unto: So that if he will shew any Disability in the Plaintiff then he ought to omit the Defence of the Damage, and demand Judgment if the Party shall be answered unto: For the Residue of the Defence, the Defendant accepts the Power of the Court to hear and determine their Pleas. Terms de Ley 227. A Defence is sometimes a full Defence, and that is where the Plea begins with these Words, Venit & Defendit vim & injuriam quando, &c. and this is usual in personal Actions: But there is another Defence in real Actions, where the Plea begins Venit & dicit, &c. In every Præcipe, where Land is demanded, the Defence must be Venit & Defendit jus suum, &c. As in a Writ of Intrusion, Writ of Formedon, &c. 1 Nels. Abr. 629. A Defendant cannot plead any Plea, before he hath made a Defence; though this must not be intended absolutely, for in a Scire facias a Defence is never made. 3 Lev. 182.

Defend, (Defendere) In our ancient Laws and Statutes signifies to forbid: And there is a Statute intitled, Statutum de Defensione portandi Arma, &c. 7 Ed. 1. In divers Parts of England, we commonly say God defend, instead of God forbid. Blount.

Defendant, (Defendus) Is the Party that is sued in a Personal Action; as Tenant is he that is sued in an Action Real.

Defendimus, Is an ordinary Word used in Grants and Donations; and hath this Force, that it binds the Donor and his Heirs to defend the Donee, if any one go about to lay any Incumbance on the Thing given, other than what is contained in the Deed of Donation. Bract. lib. 2. c. 16. See Warranty.

Defender of the Faith, (Fidei Defensor) Is a peculiar Title belonging to the King of England; as Catholicus, to the King of Spain; and Christianissimus, to the King of France, &c. These Titles were given by the Popes of Rome; and that of Defensor Fidei was first conferred by Pope Leo the Tenth, on King Henry the Eighth, for Writing against Martin Luther, and the Bull for it bears Date Quinto Idus Octob. 1521. Lord Herbert's Hist. Hen. 8. 105. But the Pope, on King Henry's suppressing the Houses of Religion, at the Time of the Reformation, not only deposed him of his Title, but his Crown also; though in the 35th Year of his Reign, his Title, &c. was confirmed by Parliament; which hath continued to be used by all succeeding Kings to this Day. Lex Constitutionis 47, 48.

Defendere se per Corpus suum, To offer Duel or Combat, as a Legal Trial and Appeal. Bract. lib. 3. cap. 26.

Defendere uncta manu, Words signifying to Wage Law, and a Denial of the Accusation upon Oath. See Manus.

Defensa, A Park or Place fenced in for Deer, and defended as a Property for that Use and Service.

—Idem Dux facit instaurare prædictum Parcum de feris Defense Leicestrensis. H. Knighton, sub ann. 1352.

Defensiba, The Lords or Earls of the Marches, who were the Wardens or Defenders of their Country, had the Title of Defensiva. Cowel.

Defensio, That Part of any open Field or Place that was allotted for Corn and Hay, and upon which there was no Common or Feeding, was anciently said to be in Defensio: So of any Meadow Ground, that was laid in for Hay only. It was likewise the same of a Wood, where Part was inclosed and fenced up, to secure the Growth of the Underwood from the Injury of Cattle. Mon. Angl. Tom. 3. p. 306.

Defensum, An Inclosure of Land, or any fenced Ground. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. p. 114.

Deficiencies. Act for making good the Deficiencies, and preserving the publick Credit, &c. Stat. i. Ann. c. 13.

Deforcement, (Deforciamentum) Is where any one is cast out of his Lands or Possessions by Force: Or it is a With holding Lands or Tenements by Force from the Right Owner. Co. Litt. 331. A Deforcior is one that overcomes and casts forth by Force and Violence, and differs from Disseisor; first, because a Man may disseise another with Force; and next, for that a Person may deforce another, who never was in Possession; as if several have Right to Lands as common Heirs, and one entering keeps out the rest, the Law saith he deforceth, not disseiseth them. And (according to Littleton) he who is enfeoffed by Tenant in Tail, and put in Possession, by keeping out the Heir of him in Reversion who hath Right to the Land, the Tenant in Tail being dead, doth deforce the Heir, though not disseise him, because he entered during the Life of the Tenant in Tail, when the Heir had no present Right. Also a Deforcior differs from an Intruder, by Reason a Man is made an Intruder by a wrongful Entry only into Land void of a Possessor: And a Deforcior is he that holds out against the right Heir. Bract. lib. 4. cap. 1. Britt. cap. 33. Litt. 138. F. N. B. 118. As Force and Violence are opposite to the Peace and Justice of the Kingdom; and 'tis a Disgrace to the Law, that any Person should presume to enter forcibly into the Possession of another, before the Law hath decided his Title therein; therefore divers Statutes have been made for Reformation of these Abuses, as among others the Stat. 5 R. 2. cap. 7. See Forcible Entry.

Deforciant, Mentioned in the Stat. 23 Ed. c. 3. is the same with a Deforcior.

Deforcitatio, Is used for a Distress, or Holding of Goods for Satisfaction of a Debt. Paroch. Antiq. 293.

Degradation, (Degradatio) Is an Ecclesiastical Censure, whereby a Clergyman is deposed of his Holy Orders, and there are two Sorts of degrading, by the Canon Law; one Summary, by Word only: the other Solemn, by stripping the Party degraded of those Ornaments and Rights, which are the Ensigns of his Order or Degree. Selden's Titles of Hon. 787. Degradation is otherwise called Deposition; and in former Times, the degrading a Clerk was no more than a Displacing or Suspension from his Office: But the Canonists have since distinguish'd between a Deposition and a Degradation; the one being now used as a greater Punishment than the other, because the Bishop takes from the Criminal all the Badges of his Order, and afterwards delivers him to the secular Judge, where he cannot purge himself of the Offence, whereof he is convicted, &c. There is likewise a Degradation of a Lord, or a Knight, &c. at Common Law; when they are attainted of Treason; as Hill 18 Ed. 2. Andrew Har. la, Earl of Carlisle, who was also a Knight, was degraded, and when Judgment of Treason was pronounced against him, his Sword was broken over his Head, and his Spurs hewn off his Heels, &c. And there is a Degrading by Act of Parliament; for by Stat. 13 Car. 2. cap. 15. William Lord Monson, Sir Henry Mildmay, and others, were degraded from all Titles of Honour, Dignities, and Preeminences, and none of them to bear or use the Title of Lord, Knight, Esquire, or Gentleman, or any Coat of Arms for ever after.

Dehors, (Fr.) A Word used in ancient Pleading, when a Thing is without the Land, &c. or out of the Point in Question. Vide Hors de son fee.

De Injuria sua propria, Abque tali Causa, Are Words used in Replications, in Actions of Trespas, or on the Case. 1 Lill. Abr. 427. De Injuria sua propria is a good Plea, where it comes in Excuse of an Injury alledged to be done to the Person of the Plaintiff; or where a Defendant justifies in Defence of his Possession, if the Title doth not come in Question. 8 Rep. 86. When one justifies by Command or Authority deriv'd from another; or if a Defendant justifies by Authority at Common Law, as a Constable by Arrest for Breach of the Peace; or if he justifies by Act of Parliament, &c. De Injuria sua propria is a good Replication. Cro. Eliz. 539. 2 Salk. 628. See De son Tort Demesne.

Dei Judicium. The old Saxon Trial by Ordeal was so called; because they thought it an Appeal to God, for the Justice of a Cause, and verily believed that the Decision was according to the Will and Pleasure of Divine Providence. Domesd.

Deis, The high Table of a Monastery. See Dagus.

Delatura, A Saxon Word signifying an Accusation: And sometimes it hath been taken for the Reward of an Informer. Leges H. 1. c. 64. Leges Luc. 20. apud Brompton.

Delegates, Are Commissioners of Appeal appointed by the King under the Great Seal; in Cases of Appeals from the Ecclesiastical Court, &c. by Stat. 25 Hen. 3. c. 19. See Court of Delegates.

Delf, (from the Sax. Delpan, to dig, or delve) Is a Quarry or Mine, where Stone, or Coal, &c. are dug. Stat. 31 Eliz. cap. 7. We still retain the Word Delve for dig, in some Parts of this Kingdom.

Deliberance. When a Criminal is brought to Trial, and the Clerk in Court asks him whether he is Guilty, or Not guilty, to which he replies Not guilty, and puts himself on God and his Country, the Clerk wishes him a Good Deliverance.

Deliberer of Deeds, On executing them, to give them Perfection, &c. See Deed.

Demand, (Fr. Demande, Lat. Postulatum) Signifies a Calling upon a Man for any Thing due. And there are two Manner of Demands, the one in Deed the other in Law: In Deed, as in a Præcipe quod Reddat, there is an express Demand: In Law, every Entry on Land, Distress for Rent, Taking of Goods, &c. which may be done without Words, is a Demand in Law. 8 Rep. 153. Mr. Nelson, in his Abridgment of the Law, Vol. 1. pag. 630 says, there are three Sorts of Demands; one in Writing, without speaking, and that is in every Præcipe; one without Writing, being a verbal Demand of the Person, who is to do or perform the Thing; and another made without either Word or Writing, which is a Demand in Law, in Cases of Entries on Lands, &c. And as Entry on Land, and taking a Distress, are a Demand in Law of the Land and Rent; so the Bringing an Action of Debt for Money due on an Obligation, is a Demand in Law of the Debt. 1 Lill. 432. Debts, Claims, &c. are to be demanded and made in Time, by the Statute of Limitations, 21 Jac. 1. c. 16. and other Statutes; or they will be lost by Law. Where there is a Duty, which the Law makes payable on Demand, no Demand need be made; but if there is no Duty 'till Demand, in such Case there must be a Demand to make the Duty. Trin. 3 Ann. 1 Lill. 432. Debt on Bond, to be paid presently upon Demand, is a Duty presently, and requires no Demand. Cro. Eliz. 548. And upon a Penalty, the Party need not make a Demand, as he must in the Case of a Nomine Pæne; for if a Man be bound to pay 20 l. on such a Day, and in Default thereof to pay 40 l. the 40 l. must be paid without Demand. 1 Mod. 89. If a Man leases Land by Indenture for Years, reserving a Rent payable at certain Days, and the Lessee covenants to pay the said Rent at the Days limited; the Lessor is intitled to his Rent, without Demand, for the Lessee is obliged to pay it at the Days, by Force of his Covenant. 2 Danv. Abr. 101. But if a Lessor makes a Lease rendring Rent, and the Lessee covenants to pay the Rent, being lawfully demanded, the Lessee is not bound to pay the Rent, without a Demand. Ibid. 102. A Person makes a Lease for Life, or Years, reserving a Rent upon Condition, that if the Lessee doth not pay the Rent at the Day, that then without any Demand it shall be lawful for the Lessor to re-enter; by this special Agreement of the Parties, the Lessor may enter on Non-payment of the Rent, without any Demand. Ibid. 100. A Lease for Years, with Condition to be void, on Non-payment of the Rent, is not void unless the Rent be demanded, and an Entry made: And an Interest shall not be determined, without an actual Demand. Hob. 67, 331. 2 Mod. 264. A Demand is to be legal, and made in such Manner as the Law requires: If it be for Rent of a Messuage and Lands, it ought to be made at the Messuage, at the fore Door of the House, the most notorious Place: Where Lands and Woods are let together, the Rent is to be demanded on the Land, as the most worthy Thing, and on the most publick Part thereof: If Wood only be leased, the Demand must be at the Gate of the Wood, &c. 1 Inst. 201. Poph. 58. For Re-entry, the Demand is to be on the Day of Payment of the Rent, and it must be exactly observed: But a Demand at any Time after due, is sufficient to warrant a Distress. Dyer 51. If a Lessor in a Demand of Rent for Re-entry, demand a Penny more or less than due, or doth not shew the Certainty of the Rent, and the Day of Payment, and when due, the Demand will not be good: If the Demand be of all the Rent due, without shewing what Rent, and for what Time, &c. it is not good. 1 Leon. 425. Cro. Eliz. 209. In Order to Re-entry for Non-payment of Rent on a Lease, the Lessor or some other Person by his Direction, is to go on the last Day of Payment, a little before Sunset, and make the Demand thus: I do here demand the Sum of 10 l. for Half a Year's Rent for this Messuage due and ending at, &c. and yet unpaid, &c. And after the Demand, continue at the Place till it be dark. He that would enter for a Condition broken, which tends to the Destruction of an Estate, must 1. Demand the Rent. 2. Upon the Land, if there is no House. 3. If there is a House, at the fore Door; though it is not material whether any Person be in the House or no. 4. If the Appointment is at any other Place off from the Land, the Demand must must be at that Place. 5. The Time of the Demand is to be certain, that the Tenant may be there, if he will, to pay the Rent: And the last Time of Demand of the Rent, must be such a convenient Time before the Sun-setting of the last Day of Payment, as the Money may be numbered. Also the Lessor or his sufficient Attorney is to remain upon the Land, the last Day on which the Rent due ought to be paid, until it be so dark that he cannot see to tell the Money: And if the Money thus demanded is not paid, this is a Denial in Law, though there are no Words of Denial; upon which a Re-entry may be made, &c. 1 Inft. 201, 202. 4 Rep. 73. A Demand ought to be in the Presence of Witnesses: And Demands are released by a Release of all Demands; which discharges all Freeholds, Rights of Entry, Actions, &c. 8 Rep. 153.

Demandant, (Petens) All civil Actions are prosecuted either by Demands or Plaints, and the Pursuer is called Demandant, in Actions Real; and Plaintiff, in Personal Actions: In a real Action, Lands, &c. are demanded. Co. Lit. 127.

Demefue, or Demains, (Dominicum, Domanium) Is a French Word otherwise written Domaine, and signifies Patrimonium Domini. Demains, according to common Speech, are the Lord's chief Manor Place, with the Lands thereto belonging; which he and his Ancestors have from Time to Time kept in their own manual Occupation, for the Maintenance of themselves and their Families: And all the Parts of a Manor, except what is in the Hands of Freeholders, are said to be Demains. Copyhold Lands have been accounted Demains, because they that are the Tenants thereof are judged in Law to have no other Estate but at the Will of the Lord; so that it is still reputed to be in a Manner in the Lord's Hands: But this Word is oftentimes used for a Distinction between those Lands that the Lord of the Manor hath in his own Hands, or in the Hands of his Lessee demised at a Rack-Rent, and such other Land appertaining to the Manor, which belongeth to Free or Copyholders. Brañ. lib. 4. tract. 3. cap. 9. Fleta, lib. 5. cap. 5. As Demains are Lands in the Lord's Hands manually occupied, some have thought this Word derived from De manu; but it is from the Fr. Demaine, which is used for an Inheritance, and that comes from Dominium, because a Man has a more absolute Dominion over that which he keeps in his Hands, than of that which he lets to his Tenants. Blount. Domanium properly signifies the King's Lands in France, appertaining to him in Property: And in like Manner do we in some Sort use it here in England; for all Lands 'tis said are either mediately or immediately from the Crown; and when a Man in Pleading would signify his Land to be his Own, he saith, that he is seised thereof in his Demain, as of Fee; whereby is meant, that although his Land be to him and his Heirs, it depends upon a superior Lord, and is held by Rent or Service, &c. Lit. lib. 1. cap. 1. From this it hath been observed, that Lands in the Hands of a common Person, cannot be true Demains: And certain it is, that Lands in the Possession of a Subject are called Demains in a different Sense from the Demain Lands of the Crown. For Demains or Domains in the Hands of a Subject, have their Derivation à Domo, because they are Lands in his Possession for the Maintaining of his House: But the Domains of the Crown are held of the King, who is absolute Lord, having proper Dominion; and not by any feudal Tenure of a superior Lord, as of Fee. Wood's Inft. 139. Demain is sometimes taken in a special Signification, as opposite to Frank Fee: For Example, those Lands which were in the Possession of King Edward the Confessor, are called Ancient Demains, and all others Frank Fee; and the Tenants which hold any of those Lands are called Tenants in Ancient Demain, and the others Tenants in Frank Fee, &c. Kitch 98. See Ancient Demefue.

Demise, (Demissio) Is applied to an Estate either in Fee, for Term of Life, or Years, but commonly the latter: It is used in Writs for any Estate. 2 Inft. 483. The Word Demise in a Lease for Years, implies a Warranty to the Lessee and his Assignee; and upon this Word Action on the Covenant lies against the Heir of the Lessor, if he oust the Lessee: It binds the Executors of the Lessor, who has Fee-Simple, or Fee-Tail; where any Lessee is evicted, and the Executor hath Assets; but not the Lessor for Life's Executors, without express Words, that the Lessee shall hold his whole Term. Dyer 257. Jenk. Cent. 35. The King's Death is in Law termed the Demise of the King, to his Royal Successor, of his Crown and Dignity, &c.

Demise and Redemise. The Conveyance by Demise and Redemise, is where there are mutual Leases made from one to another on each Side of the same Land, or something out of it; and is proper upon the Grant of a Rent charge, &c.

Demurrer, (in Latin Demorare, from the Fr. Demourer) Is a Kind of Pause or Stop, put to any Action, upon a Point of Difficulty, which must be determined by the Court, before any farther Proceedings can be had therein: For in every Action, the Controversy consists either in Fact or in Law; if in Fact, that is tried by the Jury; but if in Law, the Judge with his Associates proceeds to Judgment; and whatever they conclude stands firm without any Appeal. Smith de Repub. Ang. lib. 2. c. 13. This Demurrer is in our Records expressed in Latin by Moratur in Lege: And when any Action is brought, and the Defendant saith that the Plaintiff's Declaration is not sufficient for him to answer unto; or when the Defendant pleads, and the Plaintiff saith, that it is not a sufficient Plea in Law, and the Defendant saith, that it is a good Plea; and thereupon both Parties submit to the Judgment of the Court: This is a Moratur in Lege. 1 Lill. Abr. 435. So that a Demurrer is an Issue joined upon Matter of Law, to be determined by the Judges; and is an Abiding in Point of Law, and a Referring to the Judgment of the Court, whether the Declaration or Plea of the adverse Party is sufficient in Law to be maintained. Finch, lib. 4. cap. 40. 1 Inft. 71. And a Demurrer may be to the Writ, Count, or Declaration, or to any Part of the Pleadings: Also a Demurrer may be to a Demurrer, as where the Demurrer is double, and he that demurs assigns one Error in Fact and another in Law, which is ill, and may be demurred unto on the other Side. 1 Lill. 438. Demurrers to Pleas, &c. are General, without shewing any particular Cause; or Special, where the Causes of Demurrer are particularly set down: And the Judgment of the Court is not to be prayed upon an insufficient Declaration or Plea, otherwise than by Demurrer; when the Matter comes judicially before the Court. If in Pleadings, &c. a Matter is insufficiently alledged, that the Court cannot give certain Judgment upon it, a general Demurrer will suffice; and for Want of Substance, a general Demurrer is good: But for Want of Form, there must be a special Demurrer, and the Causes specially assigned. Pract. Attorn. Edit. 1. p. 84. And as he that demurs generally, confesseth all Matters of Fact that are well and sufficiently pleaded; so he that makes a special Demurrer, can take no Advantage of any other Matter of Form, but what is expressed in his Demurrer; though he may take Advantage of Matter of Substance, if the Demurrer be Special, and the Causes not set down. 10 Rep. 88. By Statute, Judges are to proceed to give Judgment in Actions, according to the Right of the Cause, after Demurrer joined, without Regard to Defects of Proceedings, except such as are expressed with the Demurrer; but this not to extend tend to Indictments, &c. in criminal Prosecutions. Stat. 27 Eliz. cap. 5. And by 4 & 5 Ann. cap. 16. the Causes of Demurrer are to be specially set down, or the Judges shall give Judgment without regarding any Imperfections in Writs, Declarations, Pleadings, &c. A Defendant is to demur where he may do it; for if the Defendant pleads in any Case, where he can demur, he shall not afterwards take Advantage in Arrest of Judgment, Writ of Error, &c. Plowd. 182. If any special Matter is pleaded, which hath the Colour of a Plea, but amounts to the General Issue; 'tis no Cause of Demurrer. 5 Mod. 18. There cannot be a Demurrer in Abatement; and where a Defendant demurs only in Abatement, the Court may give final Judgment: But it may be to a Plea in Abatement. 1 Salk. 220. 1 Nelf. Abr. 634. After the Plaintiff and Defendant have joined Issue, which goes to the Whole, neither of them can demur, without Consent of the other: But one may demur to one Part of a Declaration, and plead to the other Part thereof, with a Quoad, &c. And where there is an Issue to Part of the Defendant's Plea, and a Demurrer to other Part of it, the Plaintiff before or after Judgment given on the Demurrer, may try the Issue; though 'tis usual to give Judgment on the Demurrer first. 1 Lill. Abr. 437. 1 Inst. 71. 1 Saund 80. If a Defendant pleads to Part, and demurs to Part; the Demurrer shall first be determined, and the Issue last; because upon the Trial of the Issue, the Jury may assess Damages as to both. Palm. 517. Where there is a Demurrer in Part, and Issue is joined upon the other Part, and the Plaintiff hath Judgment on the Demurrer; here he may enter a Non Prof. as to the Issue, and proceed to a Writ of Inquiry upon the Demurrer: But otherwise he cannot have such Writ of Inquiry. 1 Salk. 219. A Demurrer is to be signed, and argued on both Sides by Counsel; and if a Party be delayed in his Proceedings by Demurrer, he may move the Court to appoint a short Day after to hear Counsel on the Demurrer, and the Court will grant it. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. After a Demurrer is joined, the Plaintiff having entered it in the Roll, delivers the Roll to the Secondary, and makes a Motion for a Consilium or Day to argue it, which the Court grants of Course, on the Secondary's reading the Record; then the Demurrer must be entered by the Plaintiff in the Court-Book with the Secondary, who on his Rule sets down the Day appointed for Argument, at least four Days before the Demurrer is argued: And Paper-Books are made and delivered to the Judges. The Demurrant argues first, and the Court will hear but two Counsel on a Day, viz. one of a Side, and seldom give Judgment the same Day; and if desired on either Side, (unless the Case be very plain) the Court will hear further Arguments the next Term. The whole Record is not to be read, on opening the Demurrer; except the same be to the Declaration only: But where it appears to be for Delay, the whole Record will be heard by the Court, though there be a Plea, &c. And if it be found merely for Delay, Judgment shall be given presently. If the major Part of the Judges of the Court cannot determine the Matter on the Demurrer, it is to be sent into the Exchequer Chamber to be determined by all the Judges of England. 1 Inst. 71. Practif. Attorn. Edit. 1. p. 154. When the Court gives Judgment on Demurrer in Debt for the Plaintiff in the Action, the Judgment is for the Plaintiff to recover his Debt, Costs and Damages; but if it be in Action of the Case, a Writ of Inquiry of Damages must be awarded, before Judgment on the Demurrer. If Judgment on the Demurrer is for the Defendant in the Action, the Judgment is, that the Plaintiff Nihil Capiat per Breve, or per Billam; and that the Defendant cat sine die. Wood's Inst. 603. A Demurrer being entered, it cannot be afterwards waved. And the general formal Words of a Demurrer are,

Quod Breve vel Nar. vel Placitum, &c. Materiaque in eodem content. minus sufficiens in Lege existit, &c.
1 Lill. 435.

Form of a Demurrer to a Declaration in English.

AND the said C. D. by, &c. his Attorney, comes & defends the Force, Injury, and Damages, and whatever else he ought to defend, when and where the Court will consider thereof; and the said C. prays Judgment of the Declaration of the said A. because he saith, that the said Declaration, and the Subject Matter therein contained, are insufficient in Law for him the said A. to maintain his said Action against the said C. To which Declaration the said C. is under no Necessity, or in anywise bound by the Law of the Land to answer; and this he is ready to verify: Whereupon for Want of a sufficient Declaration in this Case, the said C. prays Judgment of the said Declaration, and that the same may be quashed, &c.

Form of the Joinder in Demurrer.

AND the said A. saith, that notwithstanding any Thing above alleged by the said C. the said Declaration ought not to be quashed; because he saith, that the said Declaration, and the Subject Matter therein contained, are good and sufficient in Law, for him the said A. to maintain his said Action against the said C. which said Subject Matter contained in the said Declaration, the said A. is ready to verify and prove in such Manner as the Court shall think fit: And because the said A. hath made no Answer thereto, nor hitherto in any Manner denied the same, the said A. prays Judgment, and that his Damages occasioned by the Premises may be awarded to him, &c.

Demurrer to Evidence, Is where a Question of Law doth arise thereupon: As if the Plaintiff produces in Evidence, any Records, Deeds, Writings, &c. upon which a Question of Law arises, and the Defendant offers to demur upon it; and then the Plaintiff must join in Demurrer, or waive his Evidence. So if the Plaintiff brings Witnesses to prove a Fact, and a Matter of Law ariseth upon it; if the Defendant admits their Testimony to be true, there also the Defendant may demur in Law: And so may the Plaintiff demur upon the Defendant's Evidence. And in these Cases, the Counsel for the Plaintiff and Defendant agree the Matter of Fact in Dispute; and the Jury are discharged; and the Matter of Law is referred to the Judges to determine. But where Evidence is given for the King, in an Information or other Suit, and the Defendant offers to demur upon it, the King's Counsel are not obliged to join therein; but the Court ought to direct the Jury to find the special Matter. And indeed because Juries of late usually find a doubtful Matter specially, Demurrers upon Evidence are now seldom used. 5 Rep. 104. 1 Inst. 72. 2 Inst. 426. If the Court doth not agree to a Demurrer to the Insufficiency of Evidence in a Civil Cause; they ought to seal a Bill of Exceptions, &c. 9 Rep. 13.

Demurrer to Indictments, If a Criminal joins Issue upon a Point of Law in an Indictment or Appeal, allowing the Fact to be true, as laid therein, his is a Demurrer in Law: And if the Indictment or Appeal proves good in Law, in the Opinion of the Judges, they proceed to Judgment and Execution, as if the Party had been convicted by Confession or Verdict. And though by the Criminal's Demurrer, he refuseth to put himself upon Trial by Jury, yet he shall not as in other Cases, be put under the Pain fort & dure; for a Demurrer is allowed to be tried by the Judges, and not by the Inquest. And he that is condemned on Demurrer, is said to be convict; for whoever is adjudged, is convicted by Law. 2 Inst. 178. H. P. C. 243. S. P. C. 150. 1 Hawk. P. C. 14. But see 2 Hawkins 334.

Deny Danguer, Is the Half Blood: Where a Man marries a Woman, and hath Issue by her a Son, and the Wife dying he marries another Woman, by whom he hath also a Son; now these two Sons, though they are called Brothers, are but Brothers of the Half-Blood, because they had not both one Father and Mother: And therefore by Law they cannot be Heirs to one another; for he that claims as Heir to another by Discent, must be of the whole Blood to him from whom he claimeth. Terms de Ley 234.

Denarius, An English Penny: It is mentioned in the Stat. Ed. 1. De compositione mensurarum, &c.

Denarius Dei, God's Penny, or Earnest Money given and received by the Parties to Contracts, &c. Cart. Ed. 1. The Earnest Money is called Denarius Dei, or God's Penny, because in former Times, the Piece of Money so given to bind the Contract, was given to God, i. e. To the Church, or the Poor.

Denarius S. Petri, An annual Payment of one Penny from every Family to the Pope, during the Time that the Roman Catholick Religion prevailed in this Kingdom, paid on the Feast of St. Peter. Stat. 25 H. 8. c. 25. See Peter-Pence.

Denarius testium Comitatus, Of the Fines and other Profits of the County-Courts, originally when those Courts had superior Jurisdiction before other Courts were erected, two Parts were reserved to the King, and a third Part of Penny to the Earl of the County; who either received it in Specie at the Assises and Trials, or had an equivalent Composition for it out of the Exchequer. Paroch. Antiq. 418.

Denbera, (From the Sax. Den, a Vale, and Berg, a Barrow or Hog) A Place for the Running and Feeding of Hogs, whereto they are penn'd; by some called a Swinecomb. Cavel.

Denizen, (Fr. Donaison) Is an Alien enfranchised, and made a Subject by the King's Letters Patent; and is called Donaison, because his Legitimation proceeds ex donatione Regis, from the King's Gift. Such a one is enabled in many Respects, so do as the King's native Subjects do, to purchase and possess Lands, enjoy any Office or Dignity; and when he is thus enfranchised, he is said to be under the King's Protection, or Esse ad fidem Regis Angliæ; before which Time he can possess nothing in England. But notwithstanding this, he is short of Naturalisation; for a Stranger naturalised may inherit Lands by Discent, which a Denizen cannot: And in the Charter, whereby a Person is made a Denizen, there is commonly contained some Clause that expressly abridges him of that full Benefit which natural Subjects enjoy. Bract lib. 5. traß. 5. cap. 25. 2 Inst. 741. When the King makes a Denizen by Letters Patent, he may purchase Lands, and his Issue born afterwards may inherit them; but those he had before shall not: And though a Denizen is enabled to purchase, he cannot inherit the Lands of his Ancestors; but as a Purchaser he may enjoy them; and he may take Lands by Devise. 1 Inst. 8. 11 Rep. 67. 5 Rep. 52. Aliens made Denizens are incapable of Offices in the Government, to be Members of Parliament, &c. by Stat. 12 W. 3. cap. 2. 1 Geo. 1. c. 4. It is so high a Prerogative to make Aliens Subjects and Denizens, that the King cannot grant this Power over to any other. 7 Rep. Wood's Inst. 22.

Denstiring of Land, is the Casting Parings of Earth, Turf, and Stubble into Heaps, which when dried are burnt into Ashes, for a Compost on poor barren Land. This Method of Improvement is used on taking in and inclosing Common and Waste Ground; and in many Parts of England is called Burn-beating, but in Staffordshire and other Counties, they term it Denstiring of Land.

De non Decimando, To be discharged of Tithes. See Modus Decimandi.

De non Residentia Clerici Regis, Is an ancient Writ where a Parson is employed in the King's Service, &c. to excuse and discharge him of Non residence. 2 Inst. 624.

Deodand, (Deo dandum) Is a Thing given as it were to God, to appease his Wrath, where a Person comes to a violent Death by Mischance, not by any reasonable Creature; and is forfeited to the King, or Grantee of the Crown; and if to the King, his Almoner disposes of it by Sale, and the Money arising thereby he distributes to the Poor: Also if forfeited to the Lord of a Liberty, it ought to be thus distributed. 3 Inst. 57. 5 Rep. 110. 1 Nelf. 636. The Original of Deodands is said to come from the Notion of Purgatory; for when a Person came to a sudden and untimely Death, without having Time to be forrieved by a Priest, and to have the Extream Unction administered to him, the Thing which had been the Occasion of his Death, became Deodand; that is, was given to the Church, to be distributed in Charity, and to pray for the Soul of such deceased Person out of Purgatory. 1 Lill. 443. These are several Examples of Forfeitures in Cases of Deodands; as if a Man in driving a Cart, falls so as the Cart-wheel runs over him, and presseth him to Death; the Cart-wheel, Cart, and Horses are forfeited to the Lord of the Liberty: For Omnia que morantur ad mortem sunt Deodanda. Bract lib. 3. traß. 2. cap. 5. But it hath been observed, that at this Day, if a Man be killed by the Wheel of a Cart drawn with Horses, the Jury find that only Deodand which was the immediate Cause of his Death, viz. the Wheel; which is then seized by the Lord of the Manor, and converted to his own Use. 1 Nelf. 639. If a Man riding over a River, is thrown off his Horse by the Violence of the Water, and drown'd, his Horse is not Deodand; for the Death was caused per Cursum Aquæ. 2 Co. 483. Where one under fourteen Years of Age, falls from a Cart, Horse, &c. they are not Deodand; but if a Horse strikes and kills such a Person, he is Deodand. 3 Inst. 57. And if a Person wounded by any Accident, as of a Cart, Horse, &c. die within a Year and a Day after, what did it is Deodand: So that if a Horse strikes a Man, and afterwards the Owner sells the Horse, and then the Party that was stricken dies of the Stroke, the Horse, notwithstanding the Sale, shall be forfeited as Deodand. Plowd. 260. 5 Rep. 110. If one falls out of a Vessel in Salt Water, the Vessel is not Deodand, and Accidents at Sea are frequently happening; but if one fall out of a Vessel in fresh Water, it is said to be otherwise. Wood's Inst. 212.

Things fixed to the Freehold; as a Bell hanging in a Steeple, a Wheel of a Mill, &c, unless severed from the Freehold, cannot be Deodands. 2 Inst. 281. And there is no Forfeiture of a Deodand, till the Matter is found of Record, by the Jury that finds the Death; who ought also to find and appraise the Deodand. 5 Rep. 110. 1 Inst. 144. After the Coroner's Inquisition, the Sheriff is answerable for the Value, where the Deodand belongs to the King; and he may levy the same on the Town, &c. Wherefore the Inquest ought to find the Value of it. 1 Hawk. 67. Deodands were likewise the Goods and Chattels of Felo de se, &c. 1 Lill. 443.

De onerando pro rata Portionis, Is a Writ that lies where a Person is distrained for Rent, that ought to be paid by others proportionably with him. F. N. B. 234. If a Man hold twenty Acres of Land, by Fealty and twenty Shillings Rent; and he aliens one Acre to one Person, and another Acre to another, &c. the Lord shall not distrain one Alienee for the whole Rent, but for the Rate and Value of the Land he hath purchased, &c. And if he be distrained for more, he shall have this Writ. New Nat. Br. 586.

Departure, Is a Word in our Law properly applied to a Defendant, who first Pleading one Thing in Bar of an Action, and being replied unto in his Rejoinder, he quits that and shews another Matter, contrary to, or not pursuing his first Plea, which is called a Departure from his Plea: Also where a Plaintiff in his Declaration sets forth one Thing, and after the Defendant hath pleaded, the Plaintiff in his Replication shews new Matter different from his Declaration, this is a Departure; as in Coke's Institutes, The Defendant demurred, because it was a Departure from the Declaration. Plowd. 7, 8. 2 Inst. 147. But if a Plaintiff in his Replication depart from his Count, and the Defendant takes Issue upon it; if it be found for the Plaintiff, the Defendant shall take no Advantage of that Departure: Though it would have been otherwise, if he had demurred upon it. Raym. 86. 1 Lill. Abr. 444. If a Man plead a general Agreement in Bar, and in his Rejoinder alledge a special One, this is a Departure in Pleading: And if an Action is brought at Common Law, and the Plaintiff by his Replication would maintain it by Virtue of a Custom, &c. it hath been held a Departure. 1 Nels. Abr. 638. Where a Matter is omitted at first, it is a Departure to plead it afterwards. Ibid. If in Covenant, the Defendant pleads Performance; and after rejoins that the Plaintiff ousted him, it is a Departure from his Plea. Raym. 22. In Debt upon Bond for Performance of Covenants in a Lease, the Defendant pleaded Performance; and afterwards in his Rejoinder set forth that so much was paid in Money, and so much in Taxes, &c. upon Demurrer it was adjudged a Departure from the Plea; because he had pleaded Performance, and afterwards sets forth other Matter of Excuse, &c. 1 Salk. 221. Debt upon Bond for Performance of an Award, made for Payment of Money; if the Defendant plead Performance, and the Plaintiff having replied and assigned a Breach of Non payment, &c. the Defendant rejoins that he is ready to pay the Money at the Day, &c. this is a Departure from his Plea; for Performance is Payment of the Money, and Payment and ready to pay are different Issues. Sid. 10. 4 Leon. 79. In Debt upon Bond for Non-performance of an Award; the Defendant pleads that the Award was, that he should release all Suits to the Plaintiff, which he had done; the Plaintiff replies that such an Award was made, but that the Award was further, that the Defendant should pay to the Plaintiff such a Sum, &c. the Defendant rejoins that true it is, that by the Award he was to pay the Plaintiff the said Sum, but that the Award was also, that the Plaintiff should release to the Defendant all Actions, &c. which he had not done; on Demurrer this was held a Departure from the Plea, being all new Matter. 2 Bull. 39. Godb. 155. 1 Nels. 637. After Nullum fecerunt Arbitrium, the Defendant cannot plead that the Award is void, without being a Departure from the former Plea: And if where Nul tiel Award is pleaded; then the Award is set forth, and a Joinder that it was not tendered, it is a Departure. 1 Lev. 133. Lut. 385. A Departure must be always from something that is material; or it will not be allowed: If in Trespass for taking Goods, the Plaintiff reply, that after the Taking, the Defendant converted them to his own Use, this being an Abuse makes a Trespass; and the Conversion is either Trover or Trespass at the Plaintiff's Election, so that by his Replication he may make it Trespass, and be no Departure. 1 Salk. 221, 222. In Circumstances of Time, &c. laid as to Promises, the Plaintiff is not tied to a precise Day; for if the Defendant by his Plea, force the Plaintiff to vary, it is no Departure from his Declaration. 1 Nels. 640, 641. And if another Place be mentioned in the Replication, in Action of Debt; as this is a personal Thing, 'tis no Departure, because he who is indebted to another in one Place, is so in every Place. Sid. 228. A Departure being a Denial of what is before admitted, is a Saying and Unlaying, and for that one Issue cannot be joined upon it, 'tis naught for the Uncertainty. 1 Lill. 444.

Depopulation, (Depopulatio) Is a Wasting or Destruction; a Desolation or Unpeopling of any Place, by Fire, Sword, Pestilence, &c. 12 Rep. 30.

Depopulatores Agrosum. These were great Offenders, by the ancient Common Law; so called, because by Prostrating and Ruining of Houses of Habitation of the King's People, they as it were depopulated Towns and Villages, leaving them without Inhabitants. Stat. 4 Hen. 4. cap. 2. 3 Inst. 204.

Deposition, (Depositio) Is the Testimony of a Witness, otherwise called a Deponent, put down in Writing by Way of Answer to Interrogatories exhibited for that Purpose, in Chancery, &c. Proof in the High Court of Chancery is by Depositions of Witnesses; and the Copies of such regularly taken and published, are read as Evidence at the Hearing: And Depositions taken in one Cause, may be used at the Hearing of another Cause, when they are between the same Parties, &c. without Motion; but in a Cause between other Parties, though touching the same Matters, this will not be allowed, without special Order of Court; neither will Depositions in other Courts be permitted to be read, without such Order. Practif. Attorn. Edit. 1. p. 233. 234. Depositions in the Chancery after a Cause is determined, may be given in Evidence in a Trial at Bar in B. R. in a Suit for the same Matter, between the same Parties, if the Party that deposed be dead; but not otherwise, for if he be living, he must appear in Person in Court to be examined, &c. 1 Lill. Abr. 445. And where Witnesses in a Cause are going to Sea, or long Journeys, the Court of B. R. will give Leave to examine them on Interrogatories, at a Judge's Chamber, in the Presence of the Attornies on both Sides; which Depositions in such Case shall be admitted to be good Evidence. Ibid. Depositions of Informers, &c. taken upon Oath before a Coroner, upon an Inquisition of Death; or before Justices of Peace on a Commitment or Bailment of Felony, may be given in Evidence at a Trial for the same Felony, if it be proved on Oath that the Informer is dead, or unable to travel, or kept away by the Procurement of the Prisoner; and Oath must be made that the Depositions are the same that were sworn sworn before the Coroner or Justice, without any Alteration. 2 Hawk. P. C. 429. But the Depositions taken before a Coroner, cannot be given in Evidence upon an Appeal for the same Death; because it is a different Prosecution from that wherein they were taken: And it has been adjudged, That the Evidence given by a Witness at one Trial, could not in the ordinary Course of Justice be made Use of against a Criminal, on the Death of such Witness, at another Trial. Ibid. 430 It was adjudged in the Earl of Strafford's Trial, that where Witnesses could not be produced, by Reason of Sicknes, &c. their Depositions might be read, for or against the Prisoner on a Trial of High Treason; but not where they could be produced in Person: And that Depositions by a Witness before a Justice of Peace, might, at the Prisoner's Desire, be read at the Trial; in order to take off the Credit of the Witness, by shewing a Variance between such Depositions and the Evidence given in Court. Ibid. Deposition is used in the Law in another Sense, viz. To signify the Depriving a Person of some Dignity: And Deposition is also taken for Death; and Dies Depositionis, the Day of one's Death. Littleton's Dist.

Deprivation, (Deprivatio) Is a Depriving or Taking away; as when a Bishop, Parson, Vicar, &c. is deposed from his Preferment. Of Deprivations there are two Sorts, Deprivatio à Beneficio, and ab Officio; the Deprivation à Beneficio is when for some great Crime, &c. a Minister is wholly deprived of his Living: And Deprivation ab Officio is where a Minister is for ever deprived of his Orders, which is also called Deposition or Degradation; and is commonly for some heinous Offence meriting Death, and performed by the Bishop in a solemn Manner. Blount. Deprivatio à Beneficio is an Act of the Spiritual Court, grounded upon some Crime or Defect in the Person deprived, by which he is discharged from his Spiritual Promotion or Benefice, upon sufficient Cause proved against him. 1 Nels. Abr. 641. Deprivation may also be by a particular Clause in some Act of Parliament: The Deprivation of Bishops, &c. is declared lawful by Statute 39 Eliz. c. 8. And by the King's Commission, as he hath the Supremacy lodged in him, a Bishop may be deprived; for since a Bishop is vested with that Dignity by Commission from the King, 'tis reasonable he should be deprived, where there is just Cause, by the same Authority: But the Canons direct, that a Bishop shall be deprived in a Synod of the Province; or if that cannot be assembled, by the Archbishop, and twelve Bishops at least, not as his Assistants, but as Judges: Though I think this Canon was never received in England. Young Clergyman's Lawyer 105. It has been adjudged, that an Archbishop may deprive a Bishop for Simony, &c. for he hath Power over his Suffragans, who may be punished in the Archbishop's Court for any Offence against their Duty. 1 Salk. Rep. 134. The Causes of Deprivation are many: If a Clerk obtains a Preferment in the Church, by Simoniack Contract; if he be an Excommunicate, a Drunkard, Fornicator, Adulterer, Infidel, Schismatick or Heretick; or guilty of Murder, Manslaughter, Perjury, Forgery, &c. If a Clerk be an Illiterate, and not able to perform the Duty of his Church; if he is a scandalous Person in his Life and Conversation; or Bastardy is objected against him; if one be a mere Layman, and not in Holy Orders; or under Age, viz. the Age of twenty-three Years; be disobedient and incorrigible to his Ordinary; or a Nonconformist to the Canons; if a Parson refuse to use the Common Prayer, or preach in Derogation of it; do not administer the Sacraments, or read the Articles of Religion, &c. If any Parson, Vicar, &c. have one Benefice with Cure of Souls, and take Plurality, without a Faculty or Dispensation: Or if he commit Waste in the Houses and Lands of the Church, called Dilapidations; all these have been held good Causes for Deprivations of Priests. Degg's Parson's Counsellor, 98, 99, &c. 3 Inst. 204. And refusing to use the Common Prayers of the Church; Plurality of Livings, &c. are Causes of Deprivation ipso facto, in which Case the Church shall be void, without any Sentence declaratory; And Avoidances by Act of Parliament need no declaratory Sentence: But in other Cases there must be a declaratory Sentence. Dyer 275. Where a Benefice is only voidable, but not void before Sentence of Deprivation, the Party must be cited to appear; there is to be a Libel against him, and a Time assigned to answer it, and also Liberty for Advocates to plead, and after all a solemn Sentence pronounced: Though none of these Formalities are required, where the Living is made ipso facto void. Can. 122. If a Deprivation be for a Thing merely of Ecclesiastical Cognizance, no Appeal lies; but the Party has his Remedy by a Commission of Review, which is granted by the King of mere Grace. 26 H. 8. Moor 781.

Deputy, (Deputatus) Is he that exercises an Office, &c. in another Man's Right; whose Forfeiture or Misdemeanor, shall cause him, whose Deputy he is, to lose his Office. The Common Law takes Notice of Deputies in many Cases, but it never takes Notice of Under-Deputies; for a Deputy is generally but a Person authorized, who cannot authorize another. 1 Lill. Abr. 446. A Man cannot make his Deputy in all Cases; except the Grant of the Office justify him in it, and where it is to one, to execute by Deputy, &c. Litt. 379. Judges cannot act by Deputy, but are to hold their Courts in Person; for they may not transfer their Power over to others. 2 Hawk. P. C. 3. But it has been adjudged, that Recorders may hold their Courts by Deputy. 1 Lev. 76. 1 Nels. 643. The Office of Custos Brevium and Chirographer in C. B. cannot be executed by Deputy. 1 Nels. Abr. 644. A Steward of a Court may make a Deputy; and Acts of an Under-Steward's Deputy have been held good in some Cases. Cro. Eliz. 534. A Sheriff may make a Deputy; it is incident to his Office, though no express Power is given by his Patent; and he hath equal Power with the High Sheriff. 9 Rep. 49. A Coroner ought not to execute his Office by Deputy, it being a judicial Office of Trust; and judicial Offices are annexed to the Person. 1 Lill. 446. If the Office of Parkership be granted to one, he may not grant this to another; because it is an Office of Trust and Confidence. Terms de Ley 239. A Bailiff of a Liberty, may make a Deputy. Cro. Jac. 240. And a Constable may make a Deputy, who may execute the Warrant directed to the Constable, &c. 2 Danv. 482. When an Office descends to an Infant, Ideot, &c. such may make a Deputy of Course. 9 Rep. 47. Where an Office is granted to a Man and his Heirs, he may make an Assignee of that Office; and by Consequence a Deputy. 9 Rep. A Deputy of an Office, hath no Interest therein, but doth all Things in his Master's Name, and his Master shall be answerable; but an Assignee hath an Interest in the Office, and doth all Things in his own Name, for whom his Grantor shall not answer, unless in Special Cases. Terms de Ley 239, 240. A superior Officer must answer for his Deputy in Civil Actions, if he is not sufficient: But in Criminal Cases it is otherwise, where Deputies are to answer for themselves. 2 Inst. 191, 466. Dob. & Stud. c. 42.

De quibus sur Willelmus, Is a Writ of Entry, mentioned in our Books treating of Writs. F. N. B. 191.

Der,

Der, (From Sax. Deor, Fera) The Names of Places beginning with this Word, signify that formerly wild Beasts herded there together.

Deraign or Dereyn, (Disfranchare) Seems to be derived literally from the Fr. Defrayer, i. e. To confound and disorder, or to turn out of Course or displace; as Deraignment or Departure out of Religion. Stat. 31 H. 8. cap. 6. And Deraignment and Discharge of their Profession. 33 H. 8. c. 29. Which is spoken of those religious Men that forsake their Orders or Profession; and so doth Kitchin use it, where he says the Lessee entered into Religion, and afterwards was derained, p. 152. In our Common Law this Word is used diversly; but generally to prove any Thing, viz. to draign that Right, Deraign the Warranty, &c. Glarv. lib. 2. cap. 6. F. N. B. 146. If a Man hath an Estate in Fee with Warranty, and enfeoffs a Stranger with Warranty, and dies; and the Feoffee vouches the Heir, the Heir shall derain the first Warranty, &c. Plowd. 7. And Jointenants and Tenants in Common shall have Aid, to the Intent to deraign the Warranty paramount. 31 H. 8. cap. 1. See Bracton, lib. 3. tract. 2. cap. 28. Britton applieth this Word to a Summons that they be challenged as defective, or not lawfully made, cap. 21. And Skene confounds it with our Waging and Making of Law. See Lex Derainia.

Descent of Lands, Tenements, &c. See Discent.

Description, (Descriptio) In Deeds and Grants there must be a certain Description of the Lands granted, the Places where the Lands lie, and of the Persons to whom granted, &c. to make them good. But Wills are more favoured than Grants as to these Descriptions; and a wrong Description of the Person will not make a Devise void, if there be otherwise a sufficient Certainty what Person was intended by the Testator. 1 Nell. Abr. 647. If there are several Descriptions of one Person in a Will, they must all agree at the Time of the Will executed, in Name, Circumstances, &c. or the Devise to such is void. Ibid. And where a first Description of Land, &c. is false, though the second is true, a Deed will be void: Contra if the first be true, and second false. 3 Rep.

De son tort Demesne, Are certain Words of Form used in Actions of Trespass, &c. by Way of Replication to the Defendant's Plea: For Example, A. sues B. in Action of Trespass. B. answers for himself, that he did that which is alledged against him by the Command of C. his Master; to which A. replies, that B. did it De son tort Demesne, sans ce que C. luy command, modo & forma, viz. That B. did it of his own Wrong, without that, that C. commanded him, in such Form, &c. When the Defendant, in jura proprio, or as a Servant to another, claims any Interest in a Common, or to a Way, &c. De son tort generally is not good: But if the Defendant justifies as Servant, there it may be good, with a Traverse of the Commandment, it being material; for the general Replication De son Tort is properly, when the Defendant's Plea consists merely of Matter of Excuse, and no Matter of Interest. 8 Rep. 67. 1 Lill. Abr. 428. There ought to be a Conclusion to the Country, in a Replication of De son Tort; because the Replication should make an Issue of it. 3 Lev. 65. But there cannot be Variety of Matter put in Issue; as Matter of Record, and Matter of Fact, &c. 3 Lev. 65. 2 Lev. 108.

Detinue, (Detinendo) In the Common Law is like Actio Depositii in the Civil Law, and is a Writ which lies against him, who having Goods or Chattels delivered to keep, refuseth to redeliver them. In this Action the Thing detained is generally to be recovered, and not Damages; but if one cannot recover the Thing itself, he shall recover Damages for the Thing, and also for the Detainer. Wood's Inst. 542. Detinue lies for any Thing certain and valuable, wherein one may have a Property or Right; as for a Horse, Cow, Sheep, Hens, Dogs, Jewels, Plate, Cloth, Bags of Money, Sacks of Corn, &c. It must be laid so certain, that the Thing detained may be known and recovered; and therefore for Money out of a Bag, or Corn out of a Sack, &c. it lies not; for the Money or Corn cannot in this Case be known from other Money or Corn; so that the Party must have an Action on the Case, &c. 1 Inst. 286. F. N. B. 138. Yet Detinue may be brought for a Piece of Gold, of the Price of 22 s. though not for 22 s. in Money; for here is a Demand of a certain particular Piece. 2 Davv. Abr. 510. If a Man receiving Money from a Banker, put Part thereof into his Bag, and while he is telling the rest the Bag is stolen; no Action of Detinue, &c. lies; because by putting up the Money, he had appropriated it to his own Use. Camber. 475. A Man lends a Sum of Money to another, Detinue lies not for it, but Debt: But if A. bargains and sells Goods to B. upon Condition to be void if A. pays B. a certain Sum of Money at a Day; now if A. pays the Money, he may have Detinue against B. for the Goods, though they come not to the Hands of B. by Bargain, but by Bargain and Sale. Cro. Eliz. 867. 2 Davv. 510. If a Man delivers Goods to A. to deliver to B. B. may have Detinue, for the Property is in him: And where he delivers them to B. and after grants them to D. he shall not have Detinue after the Grant, but the Grantee shall have it. Yelv. 241. 1 Bull. 69. When Goods are delivered to one, and he delivers them over to another, Action of Detinue may be had against the second Person, and if he delivers them to one that has a Right thereto, yet 'tis said he is chargeable: Also if a Person to whom a Thing is delivered dieth, Detinue lieth against his Executors, &c. or against any Person to whom the Thing comes. 2 Davv. Abr. 511. A Man may have a general Detinue against another that finds his Goods: Though if I deliver any Thing to A. to re deliver, and he loses it, if B. finds it and delivers it to C. who has a Right to the same, he is not chargeable to me in Detinue, because he is not privy to my Delivery. 7 H. 6. 22. 9 H. 6. 58. In Actions of Detinue, the Thing must be once in the Possession of the Defendant; which Possession is not to be altered by Act of Law, as Seizure, &c. And the Nature of the Thing must continue, without Alteration, to intitle this Action. F. N. B. 138. If I find Goods, and before the Owner brings his Action, I sell them; or they are recovered out of my Hands upon an Execution, or Outlawry against the Owner, &c. he cannot have Detinue against me. 12 E. 4. 8. 27 H. 8. 13. But Action of Detinue will lie against him that finds Goods, if they are washed by wilful Negligence. Dr. & Stud. 129. A Man buys Cloth or other Things of another, on a good and perfect Contract; if the Seller keeps the Things bought, Detinue lieth. Dyer 30, 203. Where one takes my Goods into his his Custody to keep them for me, and refuses to restore them; although he have nothing for the keeping of them, this Action will lie. 4 Rep. 84. 29 Aff. pt. 28. If I deliver to one a Trunk that is locked with Things in it, and keep the Key myself, and something be taken out of it, Writ of Detinue lieth not for this: But if the Trunk and all that is in it be taken away, there it lies. 11 Rep. 89. 4 E. 3. This Action will not lie, where a Man delivers Goods to me, and I bid him take them again, if he refuses to do it: Or where one takes my Goods or Cattle by Wrong as a Trespasser; or by Way of Distress for Rent, or as Damage-feasant, &c. Nor for a Horse sick, when it is taken or lent; if it dies of that Sickness. Bro. Detin. 242. 43 E. 3. 21. 21 E. 4. And if it be a Ring that is delivered to another, and he breaks it, 'tis doubted whether Action of Detinue may lie; because the Thing is altered, and cannot be returned as it was: But Action of the Case lieth. And although where Goods are found, and sold, &c. Detinue lies not; yet Action upon the Case of Trover and Conversion may be brought. 12 E. 4. 8. 18 E. 4. 22. To bring Detinue, the Plaintiff is to set forth the Time and Thing delivered, to what Use the same was delivered, and the Time appointed for the Redelivery thereof, with its Value, &c. If for a Thing bought, he must shew when he bought it, and what he paid, and the Time for Delivery: Also in Trover, the Nature and Value of the Things are to be shewn, the Time and Place when and where the Plaintiff was possessed of them, and how they came to the Defendant's Hands, with the Conversion, &c. Practif. Solic. Actions of Detinue are not so frequently brought as formerly; for Actions of Trover and Conversion are had in their Stead, where the Conversion changes the Detinue to Action of the Case; and thereby the tedious Proceedings as to Garnishment, &c. are now out of Use. 10 Rep. 57. 1 Inst. 286.

Detinue of Charters. A Man may have Detinue for Deeds and Charters concerning Land; but if they concern the Freehold, it must be in C. B. and no other Court. Action of Detinue lies for Charters which make the Title of Lands; and the Heir may have a Detinue of Charters, although he hath not the Land: If my Father be disseised, and dieth, I shall have Detinue for the Charters, notwithstanding I have not the Land; but the Executors shall not have the Action for them. New Nat. Br. 308. If a Man keep my Charters from me, concerning the Inheritance of my Land, and I know the Certainty of them, and the Land; or if they be in a Chest locked, &c. and I know not their Certainty, I may recover them by this Writ: So where Lands are given to me and J. S. and my Heirs, and he dies, if another gets the Deeds; and if Tenant in Tail give away the Deed of Entail, and then die, his Issue may bring a Writ of Detinue of Charters. Co. Litt. 286. 1 Rep. 2. F. N. B. 138. But if the Tenant in Fee-simple, do give away his Deeds of the Land, his Heir may not have this Action: And in Case a Woman great with Child by her deceased Husband, keeps the Charters from his Daughter and Heir that Concern the Land, during the Time she is with Child; this Writ will not lie against her. 41 E. 3. 11. Detinue was brought for a Deed, and the Plaintiff had a Verdict, that the Defendant detained the Deed, and the Jury gave 20*l.* Damages, but did not find the Value of the Deed; and then there issued out a Disfringas to deliver the Deed, or the Value, and afterwards a Writ of Inquiry was awarded for the Value; whereupon the Jury found a different Value from what the first Verdict found; and it was adjudged good. Raym. 124. 1 Nels. Abr. 649. In Detinue of Charters, if the Issue be upon the Detinue, and it is found that the Defendant hath burnt the Charters, the Judgment shall not be to recover the Charters, which it appears cannot be had; but 'tis said it shall be for the Plaintiff to recover the Land in Damages. 2 Roll. Abr. 101. 2 Danv. Abr. 511. For Detaining of Deeds and Charters concerning the Inheritance of Lands, or an Indenture of Lease, the Defendant shall not wage Law; but in a common Action of Detinue he may do it. 1 Inst. 295.

Detinue of Goods in Frank-marriage, Is on a Divorce betwixt a Man and his Wife; after which, the Wife shall have this Writ of Detinue for the Goods given with her in Marriage. Mich. 35 E. 1. New Nat. Br. 308.

Detuncare, To discover or lay open to the World. Matth. Westm. 1240.

Debadiatus, Is where an Offender is without Sureties or Pledges. Si homo in Villa delinquit & Devadiatus fuerit, nil inde habet Præpositus Regis. Domesday.

Devastabit, or Devastaverunt bona Testatoris, Is a Writ that lies against Executors or Administrators, for paying Debts upon simple Contract, before Debts on Bonds and Specialties, &c. for in this Case they are as liable to Action as if they had squandered away the Goods of the Deceased, or converted them to their own Use; and are compellable to pay such Debts by Specialty out of their own Goods, to the Value of what they so paid illegally. Dyer 232. But if an Executor pays Debts upon simple Contract, before he hath any Notice of Bonds, it is no Devastavit; and regularly this Notice is by an Action commenced against him, for the Law doth not oblige him to take Notice of it himself, nor of a Judgment against his Testator, because he is not privy to Acts done either by or against him. 1 Mod. 175. 3 Lev. 115. Where an Executor, &c. payeth Legacies before Debts, and hath not sufficient to pay both, 'tis a Devastavit. Also where an Executor sells the Testator's Goods at an Undervalue, it is a Devastavit; but this is understood where the Sale is fraudulent; for if more Money could not be had, it is otherwise. Kelw. 59. 1 Nels. Abr. 649. Executors keeping the Goods of the Deceased in their Hands, and not paying the Testator's Debts; or selling them, and not paying off Debts, &c. or not observing the Law which directs them in the Management thereof; or doing any Thing by Negligence or Fraud, whereby the Estate of the Deceased is misemployed, are a Devastavit, or Waste; and they shall be charged for so much de bonis propriis, as if for their own Debt. 8 Rep. 133. But the Fraud or Negligence of one Executor is not chargeable on the Rest, where there are several Executors. 1 Roll. Abr. 929. There are some Cases in the old Books, in which it hath been held, if an Executor wastes the Goods of the Testator, and afterwards makes his Executor, and dies, leaving Assets, that an Action of Debt will not lie against the Executor of the wasting Executor, upon a Suggestion of a Devastavit or Waste by the first Executor; because 'tis a personal Wrong which died with him. 3 Leon. 241. But in this Case there is a Difference between a lawful Executor and an Executor de son tort; for as an Executor de son tort possesses himself of the Goods wrongfully, if he afterwards wastes them, and dies, leaving Assets, his Executor shall be charged upon the Suggestion of a Devastavit in his Testator, because he came wrongfully by the Goods, and therefore the Wrong shall not die with his Person. 2 Lev. 133. And before the Statute 30 Car. 2. c. 7. it has been decreed in Equity against the Executor of a lawful Executor, who had wasted the Goods, and died, that such Executor should be liable to make good to the Creditors of the the Testator, so much as the first Executor had wasted, and so far as he had Assets of the said first Executor. 1 Ch. Rep. 257. By that Statute 'tis enacted, that if an Executor de son tort wastes the Goods, and dies, his Executors shall be liable in the same Manner as their Testator would have been if he had been living. And it has been since adjudged, that a rightful Executor who wastes the Goods of the Testator, is in Effect an Executor de son tort for abusing his Trust; and therefore his Executor or Administrator may be liable to a Devastavit. 3 Mod. 113. Debt lies against an Executor in the Debet and Detinet, where there is a Judgment against his Testator, upon a Suggestion only, that he had wasted the Goods; and this is a more expeditious Way than the old Method of Sci. fac. Inquiry which was issued to shew Cause why the Plaintiff should not have Execution against the Executor de bonis propriis, and thereupon the Sheriff returned a Devastavit, &c. 1 Lev. 147. 1 Nels. 653. A Husband is to be charged for Waste done by his Wife Dum sola: But the Husband is not chargeable after the Death of a Wife Executrix, on Suggestion of a Devastavit in a Declaration against him. Cro. Car. 603. Lutw. 672. And it has been adjudged, that a Feme Covert Executrix cannot do any Waste during the Coverture; though for Waste done by the Husband she shall be charged, if she survives him; but then it must be on a Judgment obtained against him, and not on a bare Suggestion of a Devastavit, &c. 2 Lev. 145. See Debet & Detinet.

Debenerunt, A Writ heretofore directed to the Escheator on the Death of the Heir of the King's Tenant under Age and in Custody, commanding the Escheator that by the Oaths of good and lawful Men he inquire what Lands and Tenements by the Death of the Tenant came to the King. Dyer 360. This Writ is now disused: But see Stat. 14 Car. 2. c. 11. for preventing Frauds and Abuses in his Majesty's Customs.

Debest, (Devestire) Is opposite to invest. As invest signifies to deliver the Possession of any Thing to another; so Devest signifieth the Taking it away. Feud. lib. 1. cap. 7.

Devise, (from the Fr. Deviser, to divide or fort into Parcels) Is properly where a Man gives away any Lands or Tenements by Will in Writing. And he who gives away his Lands in this Manner, is called the Devisor; and he to whom the Lands are given, the Devisee. A Devise in Writing is, in Law Construction, no Deed; but an Instrument by which Lands are conveyed. And anciently where Lands were deviseable, it was by Custom only; for at Common Law, in Favour of Heirs, no Lands or Tenements in Fee simple were deviseable by Will; nor could they be transferred from one to another but by solemn Livery and Seisin; Matter of Record, or sufficient Deed or Writing. 1 Inst. 111. 2 Inst. 386, &c. But now it is otherwise by Statute 32 Hen. 8. 'Tis said that Words of Recommendation and Desire in a Will, are always held to be a Devise; as where the Testator gives a Legacy to one, willing him to do such a Thing, &c. Preced. Cant. 201, 202. See Will.

Devoirs of Calais, Were the Customs due to the King, for Merchandise brought into or carried out of Calais, when our Staple remained there. 2 R. 2. Stat. 1. c. 3. Devoir in French signifies a Duty; paying their Custom and Devoirs to the King. Stat. 34 Ed. 1. c. 18.

Dextrarius, Is understood to take the Right Hand of another. And the Word Dextrarios, has been used for light Horses, or Horses for the great Saddle; from the Fr. Destrier, a Horse for Service.—Willelmus de B. dedit Regi tres Dextrarios, quinque Chacurus, &c. pro habenda seifina Castr. de Gros-

Dicker or Dicker of Leather, Is a certain Quantity consisting of ten Hides, by which Leather is bought and sold: There are also Dickers of Iron containing ten Bars to the Dicker. This Word is thought to come from the Greek δίκυς; which signifies Ten. Domesday.

Ditiosus and Ditium: The one signifies an Arbitrator; and the other the Arbitrament — Protulit Ditium suum & sententiam pro Rege Angliæ. Malmf. p. 384.

Ditium de Kenelworth, An Edict or Award, between King Henry the Third and his Barons and others, who had been in Arms against him; so called, because it was made at Kenelworth Castle in Warwickshire, Anno 51 Hen. 3. It contained a Composition of those who had forfeited their Estates in that Rebellion, which Composition was five Years Rent of the Lands and Estates forfeited.

Diem clausit extremum, Was a Writ issued out of the Court of Chancery to the Escheator of the County, upon the Death of any of the King's Tenants in Capite, to inquire by a Jury of what Lands he died seized, and of what Value, and who was the next Heir to him; and the same ought to be granted at the Suit of the next Heir, &c. for upon that, when the Heir came of Age, he was to sue Livery of his Lands out of the King's Hands. F. N. B. 251.

Dies. There are several Sorts of Days, i. e. Days natural, artificial and legal; and Sunday is not only Dies non Juridicus as to legal Proceedings, but also as to Contracts. 2 Inst. 264. See Day.

Dies datus, Is a Day or Time of Respite given to the Defendant in a Suit by the Court. Broke.

Dies Marchiæ, Was the Day of Congress or Meeting of the English and Scotch, appointed annually to be held on the Marches or Borders, to adjust all Differences between them, and preserve the Articles of Peace. — *Convenerunt ad Diem Marchiæ, & conventum fuit inter eos pro commodo pacis, &c. Diet, (Conventus) An Assembly; as the Diet of the Empire, of Ratisbon, &c.

Dieu & mon Droit, God and my Right, the Motto of the Royal Arms, intimating that the King of England holds his Empire of none but God; first given by King Rich. 1.

Dieu son Fait, Are Words often used in our old Law: And it is a Maxim in Law, That the Act of God shall prejudice no Man. Therefore, if a House be blown down by Tempest, Thunder or Lightning, the Lessee or Tenant for Life or Yeats, shall be excused in Waste: Likewise he hath by the Law a special

Special Interest to take Timber, to build the House again for his Habitation. 4 Rep. 63. 11 Rep. 82. So when the Condition of a Bond consists of two Parts in the Disjunctive, and both are possible at the Time of the Obligation made, and afterwards one of them becomes impossible by the Act of God, the Obligor is not bound to perform the other Part. 5 Rep. 22. And where a Person is bound to appear in Court, at a certain Day, if before the Day he dieth, the Obligation is saved, &c. See Bond.

Diffaceere, To destroy: And Diffatio is a Maiming any one. Leg. H. 1. c. 64, 92.

Digest, The Book of Pandects of the Civil Law; which hath its Name from its containing Legalia præcepta excellenter Digesta. Du Cange.

Dignity, (Dignitas) Signifies Honour and Authority; Reputation, &c. And Dignity may be divided into Superior and Inferior: As the Titles of Duke, Earl, Baron, &c. are the highest Names of Dignity; and those of Baronet, Knight, Serjeant at Law, &c. the lowest. Nobility only can give so high a Name of Dignity, as to supply the Want of a Surname in legal Proceedings: And as the Omission of a Name of Dignity, may be pleaded in Abatement of a Writ, &c. so it may be where a Peer who has more than one Name of Dignity, is not named by the most Noble. 2 Hawk. P. C. 185, 239. No Temporal Dignity of any Foreign Nation can give a Man a higher Title here than that of Esquire. 2 Inst. 667. See Addition and Discent.

Dignity Ecclesiastical, (Dignitas Ecclesiastica) Is defined by the Canonists to be Administratio cum Jurisdictione & Potestate aliqua conjuncta; of which there are several Examples in Daarenus, de Sacris Eccles. &c. lib. 2. c. 6. Dignities Ecclesiastical are mentioned in the Stat. 26 H. 8. cap. 31 & 32. And of Church Dignities, Camden in his Britannia, p. 161. reckons in England 544.

Dignitaries, (Dignitarii) Are those who are advanced to any Dignity Ecclesiastical; as a Bishop, Dean, Archdeacon, Prebendary, &c. But there are simple Prebendaries, without Cure or Jurisdiction, which are not Dignitaries. 3 Inst. 155.

Dilapidation, (Dilapidatio) Is where an Incumbent on a Church Living, suffers the Parsonage-House or Outhouses to fall down, or be in Decay for Want of necessary Reparation: Or it is the pulling down or destroying any of the Houses or Buildings, belonging to a Spiritual Living, or destroying of the Woods, Trees, &c. appertaining to the same; for it is said to extend to the Committing or Suffering any wilful Waste, in or upon the Inheritance of the Church Degg's Pars. Counf. 89. 'Tis the Interest of the Church in general to preserve what belongs to it for the Benefit of the Successors; and the old Canons, and our own provincial Constitutions, require the Clergy sufficiently to repair the Houses belonging to their Benefices; which if they neglect or refuse to do, the Bishop may sequester the Profits of the Benefice for that Purpose, &c. Rights Clerg. 143. And by the Canon Law, Dilapidations are made a Debt, which is to be satisfied out of the Profits of the Church; but the Common Law prefers Debt on Contracts, &c. before Debt for Dilapidations. Hern. 136. The Prosecution in these Cases, may be brought either against the Incumbent himself, or against his Executors or Administrators; and the Executor or Administrator of him in whose Time it was done or suffered, must make Amends to the Successor: And if you proceed against the Incumbent, then it is proper in the Spiritual Court: Likewise you may proceed in that Court against an Executor, or the Successor may have an Action of the Case or Debt at the Common Law, in which Action he shall recover Damages in Proportion to the Dilapida- tions. 1 Nels. Abr. 656. By Statute, if any Parson, &c. shall make a Gift of his Goods and personal Estate to defraud his Successor, as to Dilapidations, such Successor may have the same Remedy in the Spiritual Court against the Person to whom such Gift is made, as he might have against the Executors of the deceased Parson. 13 Eliz. cap. 10. And Money recovered for Dilapidations, is to be employed in the Reparations of the same Houses suffered to be in Decay, or the Party recovering shall forfeit double the Value of what he receives, to the King, by Stat. 14 Eliz. cap. 11. Where in our Books 'tis said, that Dilapidations are suable for only in the Ecclesiastical Court, that is to be intended when the Suit is grounded upon the Canon Law; for an Action of the Case might have been brought at Common Law by the Successor against the Executors of the Dilapidator. Pars. Counf. 97, 98. If a Parson suffers Dilapidations, and afterwards takes another Benefice, whereby his former Benefice becomes void, his Successor may have an Action against him, and declare that by the Custom of the Kingdom he ought to pay him Tantas Denariorum summas quantæ sufficient ad Reparandum, &c. 3 Lev. 268. In Case a Parson comes to a Living, the Buildings whereof are in Decay by Dilapidations, and his Predecessor did not leave a sufficient personal Estate to repair them, so that he is without Remedy; he is to have the Defects survey'd by Workmen, and attested under their Hands in the Presence of Witnesses, which may be a Means to secure him from the Incumbrance brought upon him by the Fault of his Predecessor. Country Parson's Companion 60.

Dilatory Pleas, Are such as are put in merely for Delay; and there may be a Demurrer to a Dilatory Plea, or the Defendant shall be ordered to plead better, &c. 6 Mod. The Truth of Dilatory Pleas is to be made out by Affidavit of the Fact, &c. by Stat. 4 & 5 Ann. See Plea.

Disligatus, Outlawed, i. e. De Lege ejus. Leg. Hen. 1. c. 45.

Disligout, Pottage formerly made for the King's Table, on his Coronation Day: And there was a Tenure in Serjeanty, by which Lands were held of the King, by the Service of finding this Pottage, at that great Solemnity. 39 H. 3.

Dimidietas, Is used in our Records for a Moiety, or one Half. — Sciant quod Ego Matilda Filia Willelmi le F. dedi Waltero de S. Dimidietatem illius Burgagii, &c. — Sine dat. Ex libro Chart. Priorat. de Leominster.

Diminution, (Diminutio) Is where the Plaintiff or Defendant in a Writ of Error alleges to the Court that Part of the Record is omitted and remains in the inferior Court not certified; whereupon he prays that it may be certified by Certiorari. Co. Ent. 232, 242. Of course Diminution is to be certified on a Writ of Error; though if Issue be join'd upon the Errors assigned, and the Matter is entered upon Record, which is made a Conflium, in this Case there must be a Rule of Court granted for a Certiorari to certify Diminution. 1 Lill. Abr. 245. Diminution cannot be alleged of a Thing which is fully certified; but in something that is wanting, as Want of an Original, or a Warrant of Attorney, &c. 2 Lev. 206. 1 Nels. Abr. 658. And if on Diminution alleged, the Plaintiff in Errors certify one Original, &c. which is wrong; and the Defendant in Errors certifies another that is true; the true one shall stand. Cro. Jac. 597. Cro. Car. 91. After a Writ of Error brought, and the Defendant hath pleaded In nullo est Erratum, he cannot afterwards allege Diminution; because by that Plea he affirmeth or alloweth the Record to be such as is certified upon the Writ of Error. Godb. 266. But in some Cases, Diminution hath been alleged, after In nullo est Erratum pleaded, ex gratia Curie; though not ex rigore juris. Palm. 85. And there is an Instance that the Court in such such a Case hath awarded a Certiorari, to inform their Conscience of the Truth of the Record in C. B. where the Defendant in Error had not joined In nullo est Erratum. 1 Nelf. 658.

Dimissory Letters, (Literæ Dimissoriae) Are such as are used where a Candidate for Holy Orders has a Title in one Diocese, and is to be ordained in another: The proper Diocesan sends his Letters Dimissory directed to some other ordaining Bishop, giving Leave that the Bearer may be ordained, and have such a Cure within his District. Cowel.

Diocese, (Diocesis) Signifies the Circuit of every Bishop's Jurisdiction. For this Realm hath two Sorts of Divisions; one into Shires or Counties, in Respect to the Temporal State; and another into Dioceses, in Regard to the Ecclesiastical State, of which we reckon twenty-one in England, and four in Wales. 1 Inst. 94. Also the Kingdom is said to be divided in its Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction into two Provinces of Canterbury and York; each of which Provinces is divided into Dioceses, and every Diocese into Archdeacons, and Archdeacons into Parishes, &c. Wood's Inst. 2.

Disability, (Disabilitas) Is when a Man is disabled, or made incapable to inherit any Lands, or take that Benefit which otherwise he might have done: Which may happen four Ways; by the Act of an Ancestor, or of the Party himself, by the Act of God, or of the Law. 1. Disability by the Act of the Ancestor, is where the Ancestor is attainted of Treason, &c. which corrupts the Blood of his Children; so that they may not inherit his Estate. 2. Disability by the Act of the Party, is where a Man binds himself by Obligation, that upon Surrender of a Lease, he will grant a new Estate to the Lessee; and afterwards he grants over the Reversion to another, which puts it out of his Power to perform it. 3. Disability by the Act of God, is where a Person is Non sane Memoriae, whereby he is incapable to make any Grant, &c. So that if he passeth any Estate out of him, it may after his Death be made void; but it is a Maxim in Law, That a Man of full Age shall never be received to disable his own Person. 4. Disability by the Act of the Law, is where a Man by the sole Act of the Law, without any Thing by him done, is rendered incapable of the Benefit of the Law; as an Alien born, &c. Terms de Ley 256. 5 Rep. 21. 4 Rep. 123, 124. 8 Rep. 43. There are also other Disabilities, by the Common Law, of Ideocy, Infancy and Coverture, as to Grants, &c. And by Statute in many Cases; as Papists are disabled to make any Presentation to a Church, &c. Officers not taking the Oaths, are incapable to hold Offices; Foreigners, though naturalized, to bear Offices in the Government, &c. 11 Rep. 77. Stat. 11 & 12 W. 3. 1 Geo. 1. A Person shall not be admitted to Disable himself to avoid an Office of Charge, &c. no more than a Man shall be allowed to say that he was an Idiot, &c. to avoid an Act done by himself. Cartwright's Rep. 307. And the Statutes do not exempt and Disable Dissenters from bearing Offices; but they must submit to a Fine, if they do not Qualify themselves. Hill. 6 Will. 3. Skinner 576, 577. See Capacity.

Disabdicare, To deny or not acknowledge a Thing: It is mentioned in Hengham Magna, cap. 4.

Disagreement, Will make a Nullity of a Thing; that had Effence before: And Disagreement may be to certain Acts, to make them void, &c. Co. Litt. 380. See Agreement.

Disalt, According to Littleton, is to disable a Person. Lit. Tit. Discontinuance.

Disboscatio, A Turning Wood Ground into Arable or Pasture.

Discharge, (From Dis and Cargo) Is to unlade a Ship or Vessel by taking out the Cargo or Goods.

— Et prædictus, &c. Carcare & Discharge fecit ibidem Merchandisas & Denariatas quasunque. Placit. Parl. 18 Ed. 1.

Disceit, A Writ or Action for Fraud and Deceit. See Deceit.

Discent, (Lat. Descensus, Fr. Descend) Is an Order or Means whereby Lands or Tenements are derived unto any Man from his Ancestors: And is either by Common Law, Custom, or Statute: By Common Law, as where one hath Land of Inheritance in Fee-simple, and dieth without disposing thereof in his Life-time, and the Land goes to the eldest Son and Heir of Course, being cast upon him by Law. 1 Inst. 13, 237. Discent of Fee simple by Custom, is sometimes to all the Sons, or to all the Brothers, where one Brother dieth without Issue; as in Gavelkind: Sometimes to the youngest Son, as in Borough English; and sometimes to the eldest Daughter, or the Youngest, &c. according to the Customs of particular Places. 1 Inst. 110, 140, 175. Litt. 210, 211. And Discent by Statute of Fee-tail, is as directed by the Manner of the Settlement or Limitation, pursuant to the Stat. West. 2. 13 Ed. 1. cap. 1. Discent at Common Law, is Lineal, or Collateral: Lineal is a Discent downwards in a right Line, from the Grandfather to the Father, the Father to the Son, Son to Grandson, &c. and the lineal Heirs shall first inherit. Collateral is a Discent which springeth out of the Side of the whole Blood, as another Branch thereof; such as the Grandfather's Brother, Father's Brother, and so downward. 1 Inst. 10, 11. Therefore if a Man purchaseth Lands in Fee-simple, and dies without Issue, for Default of the right Line, he which is next of Kin in the collateral Line of the whole Blood, though never so remote, comes in by Discent as Heir to him; for there is a next of Kin by Right of Representation, and by Right of Propinquity or Nearness of Blood. Litt. 2. 1 Ventr. 415. 3 Rep. 40. To have Land in Fee-simple by Discent, a Person must be Heir of the whole Blood; he is to be the next, and most worthy of Blood, to the Ancestor; and he ought to be Heir to him that was last actually seized. Where Lands descend to the Son from the Father, and he enters on the Lands, and dies seized thereof, without having any Issue, this Land will descend to the Heirs of the Part of the Father, who are of the whole Blood; and if there are none such, the Land shall escheat: So where Lands descend on the Part of the Mother. Litt. Sect. 4. 1 Inst. 13. And there is a Maxim in Law, that where Lands descend on the Part of the Father, the Heirs of the Mother shall never inherit; and when Lands descend on the Part of the Mother, the Heirs of the Father shall never inherit. 1 Inst. 14. But it has been resolved, that a Five and Render of Lands, claimed by a Party, as Heir at Law ex parte materna, will alter the Quality of the Estate; so that it shall descend to the Heir ex parte paterna. 6 Rep. 63. Cartwright 141. Also if a Man seized of Land, as Heir of the Part of his Mother, make a Feoffment, and take back an Estate to him and his Heirs; this as a Purchase alters the Discent, and if he die without Issue, the Heir of the Part of the Father shall inherit it. 1 Inst. 12. There is a Difference between Discents from Father and Mother to their Children, and Discents between Brothers and Sisters; for a Son or a Daughter need be only of the Blood of either the Father or Mother, which hath the Inheritance, to inherit them: Though the Brothers and Sisters must be of the same Father and Mother, to inherit one another. Noy 68. The next and most Worthy of Blood are the Male, and all Descendants from him, before the Females; and the Female on the Part of the Father, before the Male or Female of the Part of the Mother: And the eldest Brother, and his Posterity, shall have Lands in Fee simple before any younger Brother: Also a Sister of the whole Blood shall be preferred, and take before the younger Brother, which is of the Half Blood; but such a younger Brother, though he may not be Heir to a Brother, for Want of the whole Blood, yet he may be Heir to his Father, or his Uncle. 1 Inst. 14. 3 Rep. 41. All the Descendants from a Person who by our Laws might have been Heir to another, hold the same Right as that common Root from whom they are derived; so that the Son, or Grandchild, whether Son or Daughter of the eldest Son, takes before the younger Son; and a Son or Grandchild of the eldest Brother before the youngest Brother: And so it is through all Degrees of Descents; by Representation, the Proximity is transferred from the Root to the Branches, and gives them the same Preference, as next and worthiest of Blood. Hale's Hist. L. 237. The great Grandchild of the elder Brother, whether it be a Son or a Daughter, shall here be preferred as the Heir before the younger Brother; for though a Female be less worthy than the Male, yet she stands in Right of Representation of the elder Brother, who was more worthy than the younger. Hale's Hist. L. 237. As to being Heir to him that was last seised: If Tenant in Fee simple hath a Son and a Daughter by one Woman or Venter, and a Son by another Venter, and dies seised, and the elder Son dies without Issue, before actual Seisin, the younger Brother as Heir to the Father shall have the Estate; but if the elder Brother had entered on the Lands, the Sister would have it as Heir to him. 1 Inst. 11, 15. Lit. 8. None can inherit any Lands as Heir, but only the Blood of the first Purchaser; as if the Father make a Purchase, the Blood of the Mother shall not have the Estate: But if a Son purchases, and there is no Heir on the Side of the Father, the Land shall go to the Heirs on the Side of the Mother; for they are of the Blood of the Son the first Purchaser, and he had the Blood of both Father and Mother. Lit. 4. 1 Inst. 12. So that there is a Difference where the Son purchaseth Lands in Fee-simple, and where he cometh to them by Descent. Land thus purchased may go to the Heirs of the Father and Mother of the Purchaser; unless it be once attached in the Heir of the Part of the Father, for then the Heirs of the Mother cannot have it, because they are not of the Blood of him who was last seised. 49 E. 3. 12. Finch 119. Where for want of Heirs of a Purchaser, of the Part of his Father, or when such Heir had not entered, the Lands descend to the Line of the Mother; there the Heirs of the Mother of her Father's Side, shall take in Succession, before her Heirs of the Part of her Mother. Hale's Hist. L. 247. Plovid. 444. If a Man hath Issue two Sons by divers Venters, the younger Brother of the Half Blood shall not have Land purchased by the elder Brother, on his dying without Issue; but the elder Brother's Uncle, or next Cousin shall have it. 1 Inst. 14. The elder Brother of the whole Blood shall have Land by Descent, purchased by a middle or younger Brother, if such die without Issue; (for as to Descents between Brethren, the Eldest is the most worthy of Blood to inherit to them as well as to the Father.) And if there be no Brother or Sister, the Uncle shall have it as Heir, and not the Father: And yet it may afterwards come to the Father, as Heir to the Uncle; likewise if the Father hath Issue another Son or Daughter, after the Descent to the Uncle, that Issue may enter upon the Uncle, and hold the Estate. Lit. 3. 3 Rep. 40. The Law takes no Notice of the Disability of the Father in Case of Descent, but only of the immediate Relation of Brothers and Sisters, as to their Estates; so that the Inability of the Father doth not hinder the Descent between them: For Example, A Man had Issue a Son and a Daughter, and was attainted of Treason, and died; the Son purchased Lands, and died without Issue; and it was adjudged that notwithstanding ing the Attainder of the Father, the Daughter shall take by Descent from her Brother, because the Descent between them was immediate, and the Law doth not regard the Disability of the Father. 4 Leon. 5. 1 Nelf. Abr. 645. If there be Father and Son, and the Son is attainted of Treason or Felony in the Father's Life-time, and yet outlive his Father, the Land by Descent shall not come to such Son, nor any of his Issues; but if he die before the Father, it will descend to his other Children. 4 Rep. 31, 124. And where a Person seised of Lands, hath Issue two Daughters, if one of them commits Felony, after the Father's Death both Daughters being alive, a Moiety shall descend to one Daughter, and the other shall Escheat. 1 Inst. 163. Inheritances may descend but not ascend: And in the right Line, Children inherit their Ancestors without Limitation; but the Ancestors may not take from their Children, for the Father can never come to the Lands which his Son hath purchased, by lineal Ascend; though he may by collateral Ascend, where the Son's Lands come to his Uncle, and then to the Father. In the collateral Line, the Uncle inherits the Nephew, and the Nephew the Uncle. Litt. 3. 3 Rep. 40. Vaugh. 244. Lands and Tenements in Fee-simple descend, first, to the eldest Son as Heir, and to his Issue; the Sons first, in Order of Birth; and for Want of Sons, to the Daughters equally, who inherit as one Heir; if the eldest Son hath no Issue, then to his next eldest Brother of the whole Blood, and his Heirs, and for Want of a Brother, to his Sister or Sisters of the whole Blood, and their Issue; if there be no Brother or Sister, to the Uncle and his Issue; and for Want of an Uncle, to an Aunt or Aunts, and their Issue; and if there be none such, then to Cousins in the nearest Degree of Consanguinity. Bacon's Elem. And in Case of Lands purchased by Brethren; after Uncles and Aunts, the Lands shall descend to the Father, and the Half Blood, and their Issue, (who come in after the Father, being of the whole Blood to him, though not to one another) and for Want of Uncle, Father, and Half Blood, to the next of Kin in the collateral Line. Wood's Inst. 218. In Descent of Estates-tail, Half Blood is no Hindrance; because the Issue are in per formam Domi, and always of the whole Blood to the Donee. 3 Rep. 41. A Man hath Issue an elder Son, born out of the King's Allegiance, and after hath another Son within the Realm; the younger Son shall have Lands by Descent from his Father in this Case, and not the Elder who had never any inheritable Blood in him. 1 Co. Inst. 8. If one die seised of Land, in which another has Right to enter, and it descends to his Heir; such Descent shall take away the other's Right of Entry, and put him to his Action for Recovery thereof. Stat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 33. Co. Litt. 237. But a Descent of such Things as lie in Grant, as Advowsons, Rents, Commons in gross, &c. puts not him that hath Right to his Action. 1 Inst. 237. 2 Danv. Abr. 561. And a Descent shall not take away the Entry of an Infant; nor of a Feme Covert, where the Wrong was done to her during the Coverture. 2 Danv. 563. See Kindred, and Heir.

Descent being created by Law, and the most ancient Title, an Heir is in by that, before a Grant, or Devise, &c. 'Tis a Rule in Law, that a Man cannot raise a Fee simple to his own right Heirs, by the Name of Heirs, as a Purchase, either by Conveyance or Devise; for if he devise Lands to one who is Heir at Law, the Devise is void, and he shall take by Descent. Dyer 54, 126. And 'tis the same where the Lands will come to the Heir, either in a direct or collateral Line; or where the Heir comes to an Estate by way of Limitation, when the Word Heirs is not a Word of Purchase. Ibid. A Father hath two Sons by several Venters, and devises his Land to his Wife for Life, and after her Decease to his eldest Son; tho' the Son doth not take the Estate presently on the Death of his Father, he shall be in by Discent, and not by Purchase, and the Devise shall be void as to him. Style 148. 1 Nels. Abr. 645. A Man being seised of Lands which he had by the Mother's Side devised them to his Heirs on the Part of his Mother; and it was adjudged that the Devisee shall take by Discent. 3 Lev. 127. And when the Heir takes that which his Ancestor would have taken if living, he shall take it by Discent, and not by Purchase. 2 Davv. 557. But generally where an Estate is devised to the Heir at Law, attended with a Charge, as to pay Money, Debts, &c. in such Case he takes by Purchase, and not by Discent. Though Conditions to pay Money have been construed only a Charge in Equity; and that they do not alter the Discent at Common Law. 1 Lut. 593. 1 Salk. 241. A Man can have Lands no other Way than by Discent or Purchase. And Discent is the worthiest Means whereby Land can be acquired.

Discent of Crown-Lands. All the Lands whereof the King is seised in Jure Corpore, shall secundum jus Coronae attend upon and follow the Crown; so that to whomsoever the Crown descends, those Lands and Possessions descend alio. And if the Heir to the Crown be attainted of Treason; yet shall the Crown descend to him, and without any Reversal the Attainder is avoided. Plowd. 247. Co. Lit. 15. The Dignity of the Crown of England, for Want of Heirs Male, is descendible immediately to the eldest Daughter, and her Posterity; and so it has been declared by Act of Parliament: And by Stat. 25 H. 2. cap. 22. Regnum non est Divisibile. The eldest Sister of a King, as well as the eldest Daughter, shall inherit all his Fee-simple Lands by Discent: And Half Blood is no Impediment to the Discent of Lands of the Crown. Co. Litt. 15, 165. But a Daughter of the Whole Blood shall not inherit where there is a Son of the Half Blood; as where the King hath Issue a Son and a Daughter by one Venter, and a Son by another Venter, and purchases Lands, and dies; afterwards the eldest Son enters and dies also without Issue, the Daughter shall not have these Lands, or any other Fee-simple Lands of the Crown, but they shall descend to the younger Brother. Plowd. 245. 34 H. 6. A Person coming to be King by Discent of the Part of his Mother, makes a Purchase of Land to him and his Heirs, and dies without Issue, this Land shall descend to the Heir on the Part of the Mother; contrary to the Case of a Subject, where the Heir on the Father's Side shall enjoy it. Ibid. Co. Lit. 16. As the whole Kingdom hath an Interest in the Discent of the Crown, the King cannot surrender or alien it, &c. See Crown.

Discent of Dignities. A Dignity also differs from common Inheritances, and goes not according to the Rules of the Common Law; for it descends to the Half Blood, and there is no Coparcenership in it, but the eldest takes the Whole. Co. Lit. 27. The Dignity of Peerage is personal, annexed to the Blood, and so inseparable that it cannot be transferred to any Person, or surrendered even to the Crown; it can move neither forward or backward, but only downward to Posterity; and nothing but Corruption of Blood, as if the Ancestor be attainted of Treason or Felony, can hinder the Discent to the right Heir. Lex Constitutionis, p. 85.

Discharge, On Writs and Process, &c. is where a Man confined by some legal Writ or Authority, doth that which by Law he is required to do; whereupon he is released or discharged from the Matter for which he was confined. And if one be arrested by a Latitat out of B. R. and the Plaintiff do not file a Declaration against the Defendant in Prison in two Terms, he shall be discharged on common Bail. 1 Lill. Abr. 470. Also where a Defendant on Arrest is admitted to Bail, if the Bail bring in the Principal before the Return of the second Scire facias issued out against them, they shall be discharged. Mich. 24 Car. B. R. If an Obligee discharges one joint Obligor, where several are jointly bound; it discharges the others. March 129. And a Man may discharge a Promise made to himself, &c. Cro. Jac. 483. See Aquittal, and vide Habes Corpus.

Disclaimer, (Disclamium, From the Fr. Clamer, with the Privative Dis) Is a Plea containing an express Denial, or Renouncing of a Thing; as if a Tenant sue a Replevin, upon the Distress of the Lord, and the Lord avows the Taking, saying the Tenant holds of him as of his Lord, and that he distrained for the Rent not paid, or Service not performed: Now if the Tenant say he doth not hold of him, this is called a Disclaimer, and the Lord proving the Tenant to hold of him, on a Writ of Right brought, the Tenant shall lose his Land. Terms de Ley 263. And if a Writ of Præcipe be brought against two Persons for Land, and one of them the Tenant saith that he is not Tenant, nor claims any Thing in the Lands; this is a Disclaimer as to him, and the other shall have the whole Land. Ibid. And when a Tenant hath disclaimed, upon Action brought against him, he shall not have Restitution on Writ of Error, &c. against his own Act; but is barred of his Right to the Land disclaimed. 8 Rep. 62. But a verbal Disclaimer, shall not take Place against a Deed of Lands: Nor shall the Disclaimer of a Wife during the Coverture, bar her Entry on her Lands. 3 Rep. 26. Baron and Feme may disclaim for the Wife; though if the Husband hath nothing but in Right of his Wife, he cannot disclaim. 2 Davv. Abr. 569. Such Person as cannot lose the Thing perpetually in which he disclaims, shall not be permitted to disclaim: A Bishop, &c. may not disclaim, for he cannot devise the Right out of the Church. Though in a Quo Warranto, at the Suit of the King, against a Bishop or others for Franchises and Liberties, if the Bishop, &c. disclaims them, this shall bind their Successors. Co. Lit. 102, 103. If a Man be vouched because of a Reversion on a Lease made by himself, he cannot disclaim: But an Heir may disclaim, being vouched upon a Lease made by his Ancestor. 2 Davv. 569. A Person may not disclaim in the Principal, and not in the Incident; as he that is vouched because of a Reversion, cannot disclaim in the Reversion, saving the Seigniority. 40 Ed. 3. 27. If the Lord disclaims his Seigniority, in a Court of Record, it is extinct; and the Tenant shall hold of the Lord next paramount to the Lord disclaiming. Lit. SeE. 146. It is said not to be necessary, that the Writ of Right sur Disclaimer should be brought against the Person that disclaims; for if it be only against him that is found Tenant of the Land, though he be a Stranger, it is not material. 2 Davv. 570. By Plea of Non-tenure, nothing is diowned but the Freehold, which may be good where the Tenant hath the Reversion in Fee, and not the Freehold; but when such Tenant disclaims, or pleads Non-tenure and disclaims, the Demandant shall have the Whole, as the Whole is disclaimed. Ibid. Beside these Disclaimers by Tenants of Lands, there are Disclaimers in divers other Cases: For there is a Disclaimer of Blood, where a Person denies himself to be of the Blood or Kindred of another in his Plea. F. N. B. 102. And a Disclaimer of Goods, as well as Lands; as if a Man disclaimeth Goods, on Arraignment of Felony, when he shall lose them, though he be cleared. Stawndf. P. C. 186. In the Chancery, if a Defendant by his Answer renounces the having having any Interest in the Thing in Question, this is likewise a Disclaimer. And there is a Deed of Disclaimer of Executorship of a Will, &c. where an Executor refuses, and throws up the same.

Form of a Disclaimer of Executorship.

THIS Indenture tripartite, made the Day, &c. Between A. B. of, &c. of the first Part, C. D. of, &c. of the second Part, and L. B. of, &c. of the third Part: Whereas T. B. late of, &c. duly made and published his last Will and Testament in Writing, bearing Date, &c. and thereby devised (amongst other Things) all that Messuage, &c. to the said L. B. and also gave and bequeathed, &c. and made the said A. B. and C. D. Executors and Trustees of his said Will, as in and by the said Will may more fully appear. And whereas the said T. B. soon after the Making and Publishing of the said Will, died; And the said A. B. hath refused to accept the said Executorship and Trust, and never acted therein, nor ever received any of the Rents and Profits of the said Messuage, or of the Goods and Chattels of the Testator T. B. But the said C. D. alone proved the said Will, and took upon him the Execution thereof: Now this Indenture witnesseth, That the said A. B. as a further Declaration of his not acting in the Executorship aforesaid, and to free himself from the same, doth by these Presents renounce and disclaim the said Executorship, and all the Trusts reposed in him by the said recited Will: And doth also by these Presents remise and release unto the said C. D. his Executors and Administrators, all the Estate, Right, Title and Interest of him the said A. B. in and to the said Premises, by Virtue of the said recited Will, or otherwise howsoever. In Witness, &c.

Discontinuance, (Discontinuatio, Derived from the Fr. Discontinuer, i. e. Cessare) Signifies an Interruption or Breaking off; and is twofold, Discontinuance of Possession, and Discontinuance of Process: The Effect of Discontinuance of Possession is, that a Man may not enter upon his own Lands or Tenements alienated, whatever his Right be to it, of his own Authority, but must bring his Writ, and seek to recover Possession by Law. Co. Lit. 325. F. N. B. 191. Where a Tenant in Tail, or a Man seized in Right of his Wife, &c. by Feoffment, Gift in Tail, or Lease for Life, by Fine or Livery, not warranted by the Statute 32 H. 8. aliens the Estate; such Alienations are called Discontinuances: Whereby the Wife after her Husband's Death, and the Issue in Tail after the Death of Tenant in Tail, and those in Remainder and Reversion are driven to their Action, and cannot enter. 1 Inst. 325. But a Discontinuance taketh away an Entry only: And to every Discontinuance it is necessary there should be a Devesting or Displacing of the Estate, and turning the same to a Right; for if it be not turned to a Right, they that have the Estate cannot be driven to an Action. Co. Lit. 327. And an Estate-tail cannot be discontinued, but where he that makes the Discontinuance, was once seized by Force of the Intail, where the Estate-tail is executed; unless by Reason of a Warranty. Lit. Sect. 637, 641. Also if Tenant in Tail levies a Fine, &c. this is no Discontinuance, till the Fine is executed; because if he dies before Execution, the Issue may enter. Co. Lit. 33. 2 Danv. Abr. 572. A Discontinuance may be five Ways, viz. by Feoffment, Fine, Recovery, Release, and Confirmation with Warranty. 1 Rep. 44. A Grant without Livery; or a Grant in Fee without Warranty, are no Discontinuances: An Exchange will not make a Discontinuance; as if Tenant in Tail exchanges Land with another, that is not any Discontinuance, by Reason no Livery is requisite thereon. 2 Danv. 57. It is the same of a Bargain and Sale, &c. And an Alteration of such Things as lie in Grant, and not in Livery, works no Discontinuance; for such Grant does no Wrong either to the Issue in Tail, or him in Reversion or Remainder, because nothing passeth but during the Life of Tenant in Tail, which is lawful; and every Discontinuance worketh a Wrong. Co. Lit. 332. If Tenant in Tail of a Copyhold Estate, surrenders to another in Fee, this makes not any Discontinuance, (except there be a Custom for it) but the Heir in Tail may enter; though this hath been a great Question. 1 Leon. 95. 2 Danv. 571. If there be Tenant for Life, Remainder in Tail, and Remainder in Tail, &c. And Tenant for Life, and he in the first Remainder in Tail levy a Fine, this is no Discontinuance of either of the Remainders. 1 Rep. 76. But if there be Tenant in Tail, Remainder in Tail, &c. And Tenant in Tail, enfeoffs him in Reversion in Fee: Or where there is Tenant for Life, Remainder in Tail, Reversion in Fee, and Tenant for Life enfeoffs the Reversioner; these are Discontinuances, because there is a mean or immediate Estate. 1 Rep. 140. Co. Lit. 335. 3 Danv. 575. If there be Tenant in Tail, Remainder to his right Heirs, and he makes Feoffment in Fee, this is a Discontinuance; though such Tenant that made the Feoffment, hath the Fee in him. 2 Danv. 572. A Man is Tenant for Life, the Remainder in Tail, Remainder in Fee, and the Tenant for Life makes a Feoffment to him in Remainder in Fee; this is such a Discontinuance of the Estate Tail, as produceth a Forfeiture. 3 Rep. 59. If a Tenant in Tail be disseised, and after Release with Warranty to the Disseisor, it will be a Discontinuance: So if he release or confirm to Tenant for Life. Lit. Sect. 135. 1 Rep. 44. And if where there is a Tenant for Life, and Remainder in Tail, the Tenant for Life levies a Fine to his own Use; and after Tenant for Life, and he in Remainder join in a Feoffment by Letter of Attorney, this is a Discontinuance of the Estate Tail and the Fee. Dyer 327. If Tenant in Tail makes a Feoffment in Fee upon Condition, and the Condition is broken, the Issue may enter notwithstanding this Discontinuance. Lit. 632. Tenant in Tail grants all his Estate to another, though with Livery and Seisin; and if that other Person make a Feoffment in Fee, it will not be a Discontinuance to take away the Entry of him in Reversion or Remainder. Lit. 145. 1 Rep. 46. 10 Rep. 97. A Lease is made for Life, Remainder in Tail; and he in Remainder in Tail disseises the Tenant for Life, and makes a Feoffment in Fee, and dies without Issue, and then Tenant for Life dieth; this is no Discontinuance to him in Reversion. Lit. 146. 1 Brownl. 36. And if Tenant in Tail of a Rent, Common, Advowson, or the like, grant it in Fee, it is not a Discontinuance: Nor where such Tenant granteth any Thing out of Land, &c. Lit. 138. Finch's Law 193. Where a Tenant in Tail of a Manor makes a Lease for Life, not warranted by Stat. 32 Hen. 8. of Part of the Demesnes, this is a Discontinuance of this Parcel; and 'tis said makes it no Parcel of the Manor. 2 Roll. Abr. 58. By Statute, a Husband is restrained from Alienation, and discontinuing of the Wife's Land. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 28. And a Wife Tenant in Tail with the Husband; or having an Estate in Dower, &c. from making any Discontinuance of the Lands of the Husband, after his Death. 11 H. 7. cap. 20. Likewise Ecclesiastical Persons, as Bishops, Deans, &c. from alienating or discontinuing their Estates. 13 Eliz. cap. 10. 1 Jac. 1. cap. 3. And some Discontinuances at Common Law are now made Bars as to the Issue in Tail; though still Discontinuances in some Cases, to him in Remainder, &c. such as Fines, with Proclamations by Statute 4 H. 7. c. 24. 32 H. 8. cap. 36. If the Husband levy a Fine with Proclamations, Proclamations, and dieth, the Wife must enter, or avoid the Estate of the Conusee within five Years, or she is barred for ever, by the Stat. 4 Hen. 7. For the Stat. 32 Hen. 8. cap. 28. doth help the Discontinuance, but not the Bar. 1 Inst. 326. Husband and Wife Tenants in special Tail, the Husband alone levied a Fine to his own Use, and afterwards he devised the Land to his Wife for Life, the Remainder over, rendering Rent, &c. The Husband dies, the Wife enters and pays the Rent, and dies: In this Case it was adjudged, that the Fine had barred the Issue in Tail, but not the Wife. Dyer 351. The Entry of the Wife in this Case, was a Disagreement to the Estate of Inheritance, and an Agreement to the Estate for Life: But if the Wife had not waived the Inheritance, the Estate-tail as to the Wife had remained. 9 Rep. 135. If Lands be given to the Husband and Wife, and to the Heirs of their two Bodies, and the Husband maketh a Feoffment in Fee, and dieth; the Wife is helped by the Statute 32 H. 8. and so is the Issue of both their Bodies. 1 Inst. 326. The Husband is Tenant in Tail, the Remainder to the Wife in Tail, the Husband makes a Feoffment in Fee; by this the Husband by the Common Law did not only discontinue his own Estate tail, but his Wife's Remainder: But by Statute 32 Hen. 8. after the Death of the Husband without Issue, the Wife may enter by the said Act. Though if the Husband hath Issue, and maketh a Feoffment in Fee of his Wife's Land, and his Wife dieth; the Heir of the Wife shall not enter during the Husband's Life, neither by the Common Law, nor by the Statute. Ibid. A Discontinuance may be defeated, where the Estate that worked it is defeated; as if a Husband make a Feoffment of the Wife's Land upon Condition; and after his Death, his Heir enters on the Feoffee for the Condition broken; now the Discontinuance is defeated, and a Feme may enter upon the Heir. 1 Inst. 336. The Titles of Discontinuance of Estates and Remitter, were formerly large Titles in our Books, but they are abridged by Statute.

Discontinuance of Process, Is when the Opportunity of Prosecution is lost for that Time; or the Plaintiff is dismissed the Court, &c. And every Suit, whether Civil or Criminal, and every Process therein, ought to be properly continued from Day to Day, &c. from its Commencement to its Conclusion; and the Suffering any Default or Gap herein, is called a Discontinuance: The Continuance of the Suit by improper Process, or by giving the Party an illegal Day, is properly a Miscontinuance. 2 Hawk. 298. Where an Action is long depending, and continued from one Term to another, the Continuances must be all entered, otherwise there will be a Discontinuance: whereupon a Writ of Error may be brought, &c. 1 Nelf. Abr. 660. If the Plaintiff in a Suit doth nothing, it is a Discontinuance, and he must begin this Suit again: And where 'tis too late to amend a Declaration, &c. or the Plaintiff is advised to prosecute in another Court, he is to discontinue his Suit, and proceed de novo. Com. Law Com. Plac. 171. But a Discontinuance of an Action, is not perfect till it is entered on the Roll, when it is of Record. Cro. Car. 236. The Plaintiff cannot discontinue his Action after a Demurrer joined, and entered; or after a Verdict, or a Writ of Inquiry, without Leave of the Court. Cro. Jac. 35. 1 Lill. Abr. 473. In Actions of Debt or Covenant, after a Demurrer joined, the Court will give Leave to discontinue, if there be an apparent Cause; as if the Plaintiff through his own Negligence, is in Danger of losing his Debt: But if the Demurrer be argued, then he shall not have Leave to discontinue; nor where he brings another Action for the same Cause, and this is pleaded in Abatement of the first Action. Sid. 84. It has been ruled, upon a Motion to dif-continue, that the Court may give Leave after a special Verdict; which is not compleat and final; but never after a general Verdict. 1 Salk. 178. 1 Nelf. 663. An Appeal may as well be discontinued by the Defect of the Process or Proceeding in it, as it may be by the Insufficiency of the Original Writ, &c. For by such Defect, the Matter depending is as it were out of Court. 1 Lill. 473. A Discontinuance or Miscontinuance, at Common Law reverses a Judgment given by Default; and Discontinuance upon a Demurrer is Error; but a Miscontinuance after Appearance is not so. 8 Rep. 156. 46 E. 3. 30. Discontinuance of Process is helped at Common Law by Appearance: And by Stat. 32 H. 8. cap. 30. all Discontinuances, Miscontinuances and Negligences therein, of Plaintiff or Defendant, are cured after Verdict. 2 Davy. 352. The Death of the King is not a Discontinuance of any Suit; and no Suit before Justices of Assize, or Justices of Peace, &c. will be discontinued by a new Commission. Stat. 1 Ed. 6. c. 3. 4 & 5 W. & M. &c. On the Discontinuance of Suits, it is usual to give the Defendant Costs. See Continuance.

Discontinuance of Plea, Is where divers Things should be pleaded to, and some are omitted; this is a Discontinuance. 1 Nelf. Abr. 660, 661. If a Defendant's Plea begin with an Answer to Part, and answers no more, it is a Discontinuance; and the Plaintiff may take Judgment by Nil dicit, for what is not answered: But if the Plaintiff plead over, the whole Action is discontinued. 1 Salk. 139. Debt upon Bond of 500 l. the Defendant as to 225 l. Part of it, pleads Payment, &c. And upon Demurrer to this Plea, it was adjudged that there being no Answer to the Residue, 'tis a Discontinuance as to that, for which the Plaintiff ought to take Judgment by Nil dicit. 1 Salk. 180. Where no Answer is given to one Part, if the Plaintiff pleads thereto, he cannot have Judgment according to his Declaration; for which Reason it may be a Discontinuance of the Whole. 1 Nelf. 660. But this is helped after Verdict by 32 H. 8. c. 30.

Discobert, Is used in the Law for a Woman unmarried or Widow, one not within the Bands of Matrimony. Law Fr. DiE.

Discretion, (Discretio) When any Thing is left to any Person to be done according to his Discretion, the Law intends it must be done with sound Discretion, and according to Law: And the Court of B. R. hath a Power to redress Things that are otherwise done, notwithstanding they are left to the Discretion of those that do them. 1 Lill. Abr. 477. Discretion is to discern between Right and Wrong; and therefore whoever hath Power to act at Discretion, is bound by the Rule of Reason and Law. 2 Inst. 56, 298. And though there be a Latitude of Discretion given to one, yet he is circumscribed that what he does be necessary and convenient; without which no Liberty can defend it. Hob. 158. The Assessment of Fines on Offenders committing Affrays, &c. And the Binding of Persons to the good Behaviour, are at the Discretion of our Judges and Justices of the Peace. 1 Hawk. P. C. 132, 138. And in many Cases, for Crimes not capital, the Judges have a discretionary Power to inflict corporal Punishment on the Offenders. 2 Hawk. 445. Infants, &c. under the Age of Discretion, are not punishable for Crimes; and want of Discretion is a good Exception against a Witness. Ibid. 434.

Disfranchise, Is to take away one's Freedom or Privilege: It is the contrary to Enfranchise. And Corporations have Power to disfranchise Members, for doing any Thing against their Oaths; but not for Contempts, &c. 11 Rep. 98. See Corporation.

Disinherit, Is an old Word which signifies as much as Disinherit; mentioned in the Stat. 20 Ed. 1. and 8 R. 2.

Disinherit, One that disinheriteth, or puts another out of his Inheritance. Stat. 3 Ed. 1. cap. 39.

Dismes, (Decime) Are Tithes, or the Tenth Part of all the Fruits of the Earth, and of Beasts, or Labour due to the Clergy. It signifieth also the Tenbs of all Spiritual Livings; given to the Prince, which is called a Perpetual Disfm. Stat. 2 & 3 Ed. 3. cap. 35. And formerly this Word signified a Tax or Tribute levied of the Temporality. Hollingsh. in H. 2. f. 111. The Laws of Dismes or Tithes; see Tithes.

Disengagement, In a legal Sense was used for matching an Heir in Marriage under his Degree, or against Decency. Co. Lit. 107. Magn. Chart. c. 6.

Dispauper... When a Person by Reason of his Poverty, is admitted to sue in Forma pauperis; if afterwards, before the Suit is ended, the same Party have any Lands or personal Estate fallen to him, or be guilty of any Thing whereby he is liable to have this Privilege taken from him, then he is put out of the Capacity of suing in Forma Pauperis, and is said to be dispaupered. See Forma Pauperis.

Dispensation. By the 25 H. 8. cap. 21. The Archbishop of Canterbury has Power of dispensing in any Case, wherein Dispensations (not contrary to the Law of God) were formerly granted by the See of Rome; and may grant Dispensations to the King, as well as to his Subjects: But such Dispensations shall not be granted out of the Realm, &c. And during the Vacancy of the See of Canterbury, the Guardian of the Spiritualities may grant Dispensations. The Archbishop of Canterbury grants Dispensations, not only in his own Province, but in the Province of York; and the Archbishop of York, and other Bishops, dispense as they were wont to do, by the Common Law and Custom of the Realm. Wood's Inst. 26. Every Bishop of common Right has the Power of Institution into Benefices, and of Dispensing in common Cases, &c. Ibid. 505. Dispensations to hold Pluralities; see Chaplains.

Dispensations of the King. If a Dispensation by the Archbishop of Canterbury, is to be in extraordinary Matters, or in a Case that is new, the King and his Council are to be consulted; and it ought to be confirmed under the Broad Seal. The King's Authority to grant Dispensations remains as it did at Common Law; notwithstanding the Stat. 25 H. 8. 1 Cro. 542, 601. The Dispensation of the King, &c. makes a Thing prohibited, lawful to be done by him who hath it: But Malum in se will not admit of a Dispensation. March Rep. 213. Where the Subject hath an immediate Interest in an Act of Parliament, the King cannot dispense with it; but where the King is intrusted with the Management thereof, and the Subject interested by Way of Consequence only, he may. March 214, 216. When an Offence wrongs none but the King; or if the Suit is only the King's for the Breach of a Penal Law, that is not to the Damage of a third Person, the King may dispense: But in Case the Suit is the King's, for the Benefit of another, he cannot. Vaugh. 344, 334, 339, &c.

Dispensation by non obstante. If any Statute tends to restrain some Prerogative incident to the Person of the King, as the Right of Pardoning, or of Commanding the Service of the Subject for the publick Weal, &c. which are inseparable from the King; by a Clause of Non obstante, he may dispense with it. 2 Harwk. 390. But as in the Reign of King James II. the dispensing Power was carried so high as to render the Execution of our necessary Laws in a Manner dependent on the Pleasure of the Prince; by Stat. 1 W. & M. Sess. 2. cap. 2. It is enacted, That no Dispensation by Non obstante of, or to any Statute, or any Part thereof, shall be allowed; but that the same shall be held void, and of none Effect, except a Dispensation be allowed in such Statute. The Dispensation by Non obstante was brought into this Kingdom by the Pope; and first used by Hen. 3. Pryn's Animadver. on 4 Inst. fol. 129.

Disseisin, (From the Fr. Disseisin) Signifies an unlawful Dispossession of a Man of his Right. As where a Person enters into Lands or Tenements, and his Entry is not lawful, and keeps him that hath the Estate from the Possession thereof. Bract. lib. 4. c. 3. And Disseisin is of two Sorts; either Single Disseisin, committed without Force of Arms; or Disseisin by Force, but this latter is more properly Deforcement. Brit. cap. 42, 43. By Magna Charta, 9 Hen. 3. c. 29. No Man is to be disseised or put out of his Freehold, but by lawful Judgment of his Peers, or the Law: And by Statute, the Dying seised of any Disseisor of or in any Lands, &c. having no Right therein, shall not be a Disent in Law, to take away an Entry of a Person having lawful Title of Entry; except the Disseisor hath had peaceable Possession five Years, without Entry or Claim by the Person having lawful Title. 32 H. 8. c. 33. But if a Disseisor having expelled the right Owner, hath such Peaceable Possession of the Lands five Years without Claim, and continues in Possession so as to disseise, and the Land descends to his Heirs, they have a Right to the Possession thereof till the Person that is Owner recovers at Law; and the Owner shall lose his Estate for ever, if he do not prosecute his Suit within the Time limited by the Statute of Limitations. Bar. Elem. And if a Disseisee levy a Fine of the Land whereof he is disseised, unto a Stranger, the Disseisee shall keep the Land for ever; for the Disseisee against his own Fine cannot claim, and the Conusee cannot enter, and the Right which the Disseisee had being extinct by the Fine, the Disseisor shall take Advantage of it. 2 Rep. 56. But this is to be understood, where no Use is declared of the Fine by the Disseisee; when it shall enure to the Use of the Disseisor, &c. by Bridgman, C. J. 1 Lev. 128. If a Feme Sole be seised of Lands in Fee, and is disseised, and then taketh Husband; in this Case, the Husband and Wife, as in Right of the Wife, have Right to enter, and yet the Dying seised of the Disseisor, shall take away the Entry of the Wife, after the Death of the Husband. 1 Inst. 246. If a Person disseises me, and during the Disseisin, he or his Servants cut down the Timber growing upon the Land, and afterwards I re enter into the Lands, I shall have Action of Trespass against him; for the Law, as to the Disseisor and his Servants, supposes the Freehold to have been always in me; But if the Disseisor be disseised, or if he makes a Feoffment, Gift in Tail, Lease for Life or Years, I shall not have an Action against the second Disseisor, or against those who come in by Title: For all the mesne Profits shall be recovered against the Disseisor himself. 11 Rep. 51. Keilw. 1. A Disseisor in Assise, where Damages are recovered against him, shall recover as much as he has paid in Rents chargeable on the Lands before the Disseisin. Jenk. Cent. 189. But if the Disseisor or his Feoffee sows Corn on the Land, the Disseisee may take it whether before or after Severance. Dyer 31, 173. 11 Rep. 46. Where a Man hath a House in Fee, &c. and locks it, and then departs; if another Person comes to his House, and takes the Key of the Door, and says that he claims the House to himself in Fee, without any Entry into the House, this is a Disseisin of the House. 2 Danv. Abr. 624. If a Feoffor enters on the Land of the Feoffee, and makes a Lease for Years, &c. it is a Disseisin, though the Intent of the Parties to the Feoffment, was that the Feoffee should make a Lease to the Feoffor for Life. 2 Rep. 59. If Lessee for Years is ousted by his Lessor; this is said to be no Disseisin. Cro. Jac. 678. A Man enters on another's Lands, claiming a Lease for Years, who hath not such Lease, is a Disseisor: Though if a Man enters into the House of another by his Sufferance, without claiming any Thing, it will not be a Disseisin.

9 H. 6. 21, 31. 2 Dauv. 625. If a Person enters on Lands by Virtue of a Grant or Lease, that is void in Law; he is a Disseisor. 2 Dauv. 630. A Lessee at Will makes a Lease for Years, it is a Disseisin, at the Election of the Lessor at Will: But it is the Disseisin of the Lessee at Will, not of the Lessee for Years. Hill. 7 Car. B. R. If a Man enters into the Land of an Infant, though by his Assent; this is a Disseisin to the Infant, at his Election. 11 Ed. 3. Aff. 87. And if a Person commands another to enter upon Lands, and make a Disseisin, the Commander is a Disseisor, as well as each other; unless the Command be conditional, when it may be otherwise. 22 Aff. 99. 2 Dauv. 631. If a Man forces another to swear to surrender his Estate to him, and he doth so, it will be a Disseisin of the Estate. So forcibly hindring a Person from tilling his Land, is a Disseisin of the Land. 1 Inst. 161. But if one enter wrongfully into the Lands of another, and he accepts Rent from such Person, he shall not afterwards be taken for a Disseisor. Dyer 173. Where any Person is disturb'd from entering on Land, it is a Disseisin: A Denial of a Rent, when lawfully demanded, is a Disseisin of the Rent. 1 Inst. 153. Also hindring a Distress for Rent, by Force; or making Refrains of a Distress, are a Disseisin of the Rent. 2 Dauv. 624, 625. An Infant, or Feme Covert, may be a Disseisor, but it must be by actual Entry on Lands, &c. A Feme Covert shall not be a Disseisor, by the Act of the Baron: If he disseises another to her Use, she is not a Disseisor; nor if the Wife agrees to it during the Coverture: Yet if after his Death, she agrees to it, she is a Disseisor. Ibid. 626, 627. Assises that lie against Disseisors are called Writs of Disseisin; and there are several Writs of Entry sur Disseisin, of which some are in the Per, and others in le Post, &c. But Writs of Assise on Disseisins, are now disused; and the feigned Action of Ejectment is introduced in their Place. See Assise of Novel Disseisin, and Entry.

Disseisor, Is in general he that disseiseth or puts another out of his Land, without Order of Law: And a Disseisee is he that is so put out. 4 H. 4. As the King in Judgment of Law can do no Wrong, he cannot be a Disseisor. 1 E. 5. 8. A Disseisor is to be fined and imprisoned; and the Disseisee restored to the Land, &c. by Stat. 20 H. 3. c. 3. Where a Disseisor is disseised, it is called Disseisin upon Disseisin.

Dissenters, Are Separatists from the Church, and the Service and Worship thereof. At the Revolution a Law was enacted, That the Statutes of Q. Eliz. and K. James I. concerning the Discipline of the Church, should not extend to Protestant Dissenters: But the Persons dissenting, are to subscribe the Declaration of 30 Car. 2. c. 1. and take the Oaths, or the Declaration of Fidelity, &c. And they must not hold their Meetings, till their Place of Worship is certified to the Bishop, &c. or to the Justices at their Quarter-Sessions, and registred there; also they are not to keep the Doors of their Meeting-houses locked, &c. If any Person disturbs them in their Worship, on Conviction at the Sessions, he shall forfeit 20*l.* Stat. 1 W. & M. And there are a great many Statutes relating to Dissenters besides the Toleration Act: As the 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 1. 23 Eliz. c. 1. 3 Jac. 1. c. 4. 13 Car. 2. c. 1. 17 Car. 2. c. 2. and 22 Car. 2. c. 1. 1 W. & M. c. 18. 10 Ann. c. 2. 1 Geo. 1. c. 6, &c. See Church, &c.

Distillers, Of Strong Waters and Spirits, setting up any Tun, Cask, &c. or using any private Warehouse or Cellar, without Notice given to the Officer of Excise, shall forfeit 20*l.* and 10*l.* for working Stills but at such appointed Hours, to be levied by Warrant of two Justices of Peace. Stat. 1 & 3 W. & M. 7 W. 3. c. 30. If any Distiller shall use a private Pipe for Conveyance of distilled Liquor, he forfeits 100*l.* And private Stills to be seized, for which a Search may be made by Officers of Excise by Virtue of a Justice's Warrant. 10 Geo. 1. c. 4. Distillers, &c. are to make an Entry of all Warehouses, for keeping Brandy, on Pain of 20*l.* and Forfeiture of the Liquors; and Brandy shall not be sold but in Warehouses and Places entered, under the Penalty of 40*s.* per Gallon, by Stat. 6 Geo. 1. c. 20. All Mixed or Compound Waters or Spirits, commonly called Geneva, &c. in the Possession of Distillers, are liable to a Duty of 5*s.* per Gallon; and Entries to be made of Stills, &c. under Penalty of 20*l.* And none of the said mixed Liquors shall be exposed to Sale, but in some Place that is entered, on Pain of forfeiting 40*s.* a Gallon; and if any Distiller distils or sells any Spirits, not of full Proof he shall pay the like Forfeiture: Also Sellers or Retailers of any Compound Liquors, in less Quantities than a Gallon, are to take out a License at the Excise-Office for the same, and pay down 20*l.* and selling without such License, to forfeit 50*l.* Selling Brandy about Streets, in any Wheelbarrow or on a Shed, or other Place, incurs a Penalty of 10*l.* leviable by Justices of Peace: But this Act shall not extend to Arrack, Rum, Citron Water, Irish Uisquebaugh, &c. Stat. 6 Geo. 2. cap. 17. The Duty on Compound Waters or Spirits, and French Brandy, &c. taken off, and Duties granted of 1*s.* and 2*s.* per Gallon, to be raised in the same Manner as Excise upon Beer, and Ale, &c. And Distillers or other Persons may export Spirits, drawn from Corn of Great Britain, on Oath, and that Duties are paid, and shall be allowed a Drawback of 4*l.* 18*s.* per Ton, &c. Cyder used in Distillation, is exempted from Duty; but Distillers using it otherwise, shall forfeit 5*l.* Stat. 6 Geo. 2. c. 17. No Distillers or others, shall retail any Brandy, Rum, Arrack, Geneva, &c. by any Name, in any less Quantity than two Gallons, without taking out a License, and paying 50*l.* to the next Office of Excise, &c. on Pain of forfeiting 100*l.* and shall pay 20*s.* per Gallon: And the Retailers to make a true Entry of all their Warehouses, Shops, Cellars, and the Liquors therein, under the Penalty of 20*l.* and 40*s.* for every Gallon concealed, or making any clandestine Increase, &c. Officers for the Duties may enter Warehouses, &c. and take an Account of Liquor, and Persons refusing them Entrance shall forfeit 50*l.* None may contract with any Workman or Servant, to pay him his Wages, so much in Money, and the rest in Brandy, &c. And Hawkers and Sellers of Brandy about the Streets, &c. to forfeit 10*l.* or be committed for two Months. But Physicians and Apothecaries, may use Spirituous Liquors in Medicines for Sick Persons; and Distillers may exercise any other Trade. 9 Geo. 2. c. 23. The Forfeitures imposed on unlawful Retailers of Spirituous Liquors, &c. to be recovered and mitigated, as directed by the Act 12 Car. 2. And where any Persons are not able to pay the Fines, Commissioners of Excise to advance the Rewards for Information out of Money in their Hands; and the Offenders to be committed to the House of Correction, and there stript naked from the Middle and whipped, &c. Stat. 10 Geo. 2. c. 17. Occupiers of any House or Place, where any Spirituous Liquors shall be sold less than two Gallons, if privy thereto, are to be deemed Retailers thereof, and forfeit 100*l.* And if any Persons to the Number of five or more, in a riotous Manner assemble to rescue Offenders, or to assault, beat or wound Informers, they shall be adjudged guilty of Felony, and be transported. 11 Geo. 2. c. 26. By a late Act the great Duties laid on Spirituous Liquors by former Statutes, and on Licenses for retailing the same, are repealed, and other Duties granted; and no Persons shall retail any distilled Spirituous Liquors, or Strong Waters, in Publick or Private, without taking out a License from the Commissioners of the Excise, &c. and paying 20*s.* yearly, on Pain of forfeiting 10*l.* or to be committed to the House of Correction, and there kept to Hard Labour two Months. These Licenses are not granted to any Persons, but those only that keep Taverns, Inns, Ale-houses or Coffee Houses; and they must be first Licensed to sell Ale or Spirituous Liquors by two or more Justices of Peace, to be enabled to retail such Liquors: But none shall be deem'd a Retailer, who does not sell it to be drank in any Place belonging to him, or send it abroad, in less Quantities than a Pint. Stat. 16 Geo. 2. cap. 8. By the Stat. 17 Geo. 2. c. 17. All Penalties by the Stat. 16 Geo. 2. c. 8. and by this Act imposed, may be sued for, recovered, levied, and mitigated by such Ways and Means as any Penalty may be sued for by any Law of Excise: But the Justice may, if he thinks proper, instead of levying the Penalty, commit the Offender to the House of Correction, to be kept to hard Labour for two Months, and be whipt before discharged. Licenses granted as aforesaid to any Person, who shall afterwards, during the Continuance of his License, exercise the Trade of a Distiller, Grocer, or Chandler, or keep a Brandy Shop for Sale of Spirituous Liquors, shall be void, and the Offender forfeit 10*l.* Every Person, who shall retail Spirituous Liquors to be drank in his House, &c. or retail or send the same abroad, in less Quantities than two Gallons, without a License, shall be deemed a Retailer, and forfeit 10*l.* for every Offence. Where Offenders are not able to pay the Penalties, but in lieu thereof are sent to the House of Correction, the Commissioners of Excise may order a Reward to the Informer, not exceeding 5*l.* By the Stat. 20 Geo. 2. c. 39. Distillers within the Bills of Mortality may have Licenses on Payment of 3*l.* yearly. Distillers in Partnership to have but one License. And no Distiller shall have a License, unless, inhabiting in the City of London, he pay to Church and Poor Rates, for the Value of 20*l.* and in any other Parts for the Value of 10*l.* in the Parish he exercises his said Trade: And he shall not, by Virtue of such License, retail Spirituous Liquors but in his own Shop, under the Penalty of 10*l.* And if he sells any Spirituous Liquors to be drank, or suffer it to be drank in his Shop, he shall forfeit 10*l.* All such Penalties to be sued for, &c. as above is mentioned. And every Person found tipling in a Distiller's Shop, shall forfeit 20*s.* And by the Stat. 19 Geo. 2. c. 12. an Additional Duty is laid on Spirituous Liquors.

Distress, (Distressio) Signifies most commonly any Thing which is taken and distressed for Rent behind, or other Duty: And by the Common Law, Distresses for Rent were not to be sold, but only detained for enforcing Payment of the Rent; but this is altered by Statute. A Man may take a Distress for Homage, Fealty, or any Services; for Fines and Amercements; and for Damage feasant, &c. And the Effect of it is to compel the Party either to replevy the Distress, and contest the Taking in Action of Trespas against the Distrainer; or, which is more usual, to compound and pay the Debt or Duty, for which he was distressed. There are likewise Distresses in Actions compulsory to cause a Man to appear in Court: And of these there is a Distress Personal, of a Man's moveable Goods, and Profits of his Lands, &c. for Contempt in not appearing after summoned; and Distresses Real, upon immoveable Goods. And none shall be distressed to answer for any Thing touching their Freeholds, but by the King's Writ. 52 Hen. 3. Distress is also divided into finite and infinite: Finite, is that which is limited by Law, how often it shall be made to bring the Party to Trial of Action, as once, twice, &c. And infinite, is without Limitation, until the Party appears; which is likewise applicable to Jurors not appearing: Then it hath had a further Division into a Grand Distress, and Ordinary Distress; the former whereof extends to all the Goods and Chattels which the Party hath within the County. F. N. B. 904. Old Nat. Br. 43, 113. Brit. c. 26. f. 52. Of common Right a Person may distrain for Rents, and all Manner of Services; and for Rent reserved upon a Gift in Tail, Lease for Life, Years, &c. though there be no Clause of Distress in the Deed, so as the Reversion be in himself: But on a Feoffment in Fee, a Distress may not be taken, unless expressly reserved in the Deed. 1 Inst. 57, 205. Doctor and Student, cap. 9. If a Lessee for Years grant away all his Term to another, rendering Rent, he cannot distrain for this Rent; but Debt will lie for it as a Sum in gross. 2 Lev. 80. If one make a Lease rendering Rent at Michaelmas, provided if it be behind twenty Days after, he shall distrain; in this Case the Lessor may not distrain till the twenty Days be past: But the Opinion of some Judges is against it, where a Distress is incident; and the Words are Affirmative, that he may distrain at any Time after the Day. Co. Litt. 204. Trin. 14 Jac. 1. A Man grants a Rent out of the Manor of D. and further, that if the Rent be behind, the Grantee should distrain for it in the Manor of S. this is a Rent of the Manor of D. and only a Penalty on the other Manor. 1 Skep. Abr. 567. If a Person seised of Land in Fee, demise it to one upon Condition to pay his Wife 5*l.* a Year Rent, and if it be behind and in Arrear, that she shall distrain for it; the Wife may take a Distress for the Rent. Dyer 3, 48. There is a Lord and Tenant by 3*l.* Rent and Fealty, the Lord dies, and his Wife is endowed of the Thirds of the Seignory; here she may distrain for one Pound, and the Heir for two Pounds: So if a Rent be divided amongst Parceners, each of them may have a Distress for her Part; but this may not be till Partition is made. Bro. 45. If one Jointenant make a Gift in Tail, of the Land, reserving a certain Rent, and the Rent be arrear; he may not distrain the Beasts of the other Jointenant. 33 H. 6. 35. But if A. and B. are Tenants in Common, and A. leases his Moiety to C. for Years, rendering Rent, and C. lease it to B. if the Rent is behind, A. may take a Distress of the Cattle of B. his fellow Tenant in Common. 7 Rep. 23. Moor 558. To justify Taking a Distress, the Party must see he hath good Cause to Distrain; that he have Power to take the Distress, and from the Person from whom he takes it; that the Thing for the Quality of it be Distrainable, and he distrain it in due Time and Place, &c. He who takes a Distress for another, ought to have good Warrant for the doing of it; and must do it in his Name: And a Bailiff or Servant, may distrain for his Master. 1 Cro. 748. 2 Cro. 436. Godb. 110. A Distress ought to be made of such Things whereof the Sheriff may make Replevin, and deliver again in as good Plight and Condition as they were at the Time of the Taking. 1 Inst. 47. And Distresses for Rent are to be reasonable, and not excessive; and not to be taken in the King's Highway, or the common Street; or in the ancient Fees of the Church. 51 H. 3. 52 H. 3. c. 15. 9 Ed. 2. And where a Distress is taken, it may be replevied in five Days; if the Tenant and Owner of the Goods do not in that Time after taken, and Notice given, and of the Cause left at the Dwelling-house, &c. replevy the same according to Law; then the Person distraining may with the Under-Sheriff of the County, or Constable of the Place, &c. (who are required to be assisting) cause the Goods to be appraised by two sworn Appraisers, and sold to satisfy the Rent, &c. leaving the Overplus in the Constable's Hands for the Use of the Owner. Stat. 2 W. & M. c. 5. All Distresses for Rent must be made on the Premises, by the Common Law: But by Statute, if any Tenant fraudulently removes Goods from off the Premises, the Landlord may in five Days seise such Goods where-soever found, as a Distress for the Rent in Arrear; unless the Goods are sold for a valuable Consideration before the Seisure. 8 Ann. c. 17. And whereas before that Statute, for Rent due the last Day of the Term, the Lessor could not distrain; because the Term ended before the Rent was due; (and the Lessee had had the whole Day to pay it) and it was the same, where the Lessee held over his Term, for Rent incurred during the Term. Co. Litt. 47. Now by the Stat. 8 Ann. where Leases are expired, a Distress may be taken, provided it be done within six Months, and during the Landlord's Title and Tenant's Possession. Distresses for Services, are to be on the Land: But for an Amercement in a Leet, the Distress may be taken any where within the Hundred, as well out of the Land, as on it, where-ever Cattle are of him that is amerced; for the Amercement charges only the Person, and not the Land; and for this a Distress may be taken in the high Street. 2 Dawv. Abr. 644, 645. The Lord cannot distrain for Amercements in a Court-Baron, without a Prescription; though he may in the Leet: And the Goods and Cattle of another, may not be taken in Distress on my Ground, for an Amercement, &c. set upon me in a Court-Leet or Court-Baron. 11 Rep. 44. 12 H. 7. 13. For Services a Distress cannot be taken but where the Services are certain; or may be reduced to a Certainty. Co. Litt. 96. A Distress for Rent cannot be made in the Night: Nor may Gates, &c. be broke open to make a Distress; or the Landlord enter into the Tenant's House for that Purpose, unless the Doors are open. 1 Inst. 142, 161. One may break an inner Door of a House, &c. to take the Distress; if the outer Doors be open. Comb. 17. Distresses are to be of a Thing valuable, whereof some Body hath a Property; Things Fere Nature, as Dogs, Conies, &c. may not be distrained. 1 Roll. Abr. 664, 666. It is the same of Cattle of the Plough, Beasts of Husbandry, Sheep, or Horses joined to a Cart, with a Rider upon it, 1 Vent. 36. But it has been adjudged that Horses may be taken from a Cart loaded; though it has been a disputed Case, whether they could be separated. Sid. 422. Raym. 18. A Horse with a Rider upon his Back; or a Horse in an Inn, or put into a Common; an Ax in a Man's Hand, cutting down Wood; or any Thing a Person carries about him; Utensils and Instruments of a Man's Trade or Profession, or the Books of a Scholar; Corn in a Mill, or Goods in a Market to be sold for the Use of the Publick; Materials in a Weaver's Shop, for making of Cloth; another Person's Garment in the House of a Taylor, &c. are not distrainable: Nor is any Thing that is fixed to the Freehold of a House, as a Furnace, Doors, Windows, Boards, &c. 1 Sid. 422, 440. 1 Inst. 47. 2 Dawv. Abr. 641. But Goods, Cattle, not of the Plough, &c. Sheaves of Corn; Corn in the Straw, or thrashed; and Carts with Corn, (but not Victuals) Hay in a Barn, or Ricks of Hay, Money in a Bag sealed, though not out of a Bag, &c. may be distrained for Rent: And so may Cattle or Goods driving to Market, if put into Pasture by the Way; and Beasts of a Stranger, in the Landlord's Ground, being Levant and Couchant, and having well rested themselves there. 1 Inst. 47. 1 Lutw. 214. Mod. 385. 2 W. & M. If a Driver of Cattle asks Leave of the Lessor to put his Cattle into Ground for a Night, and he gives Leave, as well as the Lessee; yet 'tis said he is not concluded from distraining them for Rent. 2 Ventr. 59. 2 Dawv. 642. Relief given in Equity in these Cases. See Chancery. 2 Vern. 129. But the Goods of a Carrier are privileged, and cannot be distrained for Rent, though the Waggon wherein loaded is put into the Barn of a House, &c. on the Road. 1 Salk. 249. If the Fences of another Man's Ground be out of Repair, and the Neighbour's Cattle escape there, and are Levant and Couchant, without any fresh Pursuit after them, they may be distrained for Rent; for the Land is Debtor for the Rent, and the Landlord must resort thither, and is not to inquire whose Cattle they are which he finds therein. 1 Roll. Rep. 124.

1 Nelf. Abr. 667. But if the Owner freshly pursues the Cattle, they are not distrainable; because they are supposed to be always in his View and Possession. If the Owner of the Cattle is to maintain the Fences, in such Case, if they escape into another's Ground, they may be distrained before Levant and Couchant, and notwithstanding fresh Pursuit. 1 Nelf. Ibid. Where a Landlord comes to distrain Cattle, which he sees on the Tenant's Ground, if the Tenant, or any other, to prevent the Distress, drives the Cattle off the Land, the Landlord may make fresh Pursuit, and distrain them: Though if before the Distress, the Owner of the Cattle tenders his Rent, and a Distress is taken afterwards, it is wrongful. 2 Inst. 160. 2 Inst. 107. Two Distresses cannot be taken for one Rent, if there were sufficient Goods when the first Distress was made; but if there were not then a sufficient Distress, there may. Cro. El. 13. Lutw. 1536. But by Stat. 17 Car. 2. cap. 1. When the Value of Cattle distrained shall be found not to be of the Value of the Arrears of Rent, for which the Distress was taken, the Person distraining, his Executors, &c. may take further Distresses, for such Arrears. 1 Nelf. 670. A Distress of Cattle must be brought to the common Pound, or be kept in an open Place; and if they are put into a common Pound, the Owner is to take Notice of it at his Peril; but if in any other open Place, Notice is to be given to the Owner, that he may feed them; and then if the Cattle die for Want of Food, the Tenant shall bear the Loss; and the Landlord may distrain again for his Rent. 5 Rep. 90. 1 Inst. 47, 96. Where one impounds Cattle distrained, he cannot justify the Tying them in the Pound; if he ties a Beast, and it is strangled, he must answer it in Damages. 1 Salk. 248. If the Person distraining put the Distress in a broken Pound, and the Distress escapes, he can have no Action for the same: 'Tis otherwise if from another Pound, without his Default, when he may have Action of Trespass. Salk. Ibid. By Statute, none shall drive a Distress out of the County, on Pain to be fined and amerced: And no Distress of Cattle shall be driven out of the Hundred where taken to any Pound, except to a Pound overt in the same County, and not above three Miles distant; nor shall any Distress be impounded in several Places, under the Penalty of 5 l. and treble Damages. 52 H. 3. c. 4. 1 P. & M. cap. 12. After a Distress is in the Pound, it is said to be in Custodia Legis, so that the Owner of it hath no absolute Property therein; and therefore he cannot sell or forfeit it, nor may the same be taken in Execution, &c. but it must be as a Pledge or Means to help the Party distraining to his Debt or Duty. Co. Litt. 190. Finch's Ley 135. Cattle distrained may not be used, because by Law they are only as a Pledge; unless it be for the Owner's Benefit, by milking, &c. 2 Cro. 148. When a Distress is taken of Household Goods, or other dead Things, they are to be impounded in a House, or other Pound Cover, &c. And if the Distress is damaged, the Distrainer must answer it. Wood's Inst. 191. And they are to be removed immediately; except Corn or Hay, by Stat. W. & M. cap. 5. If a Landlord doth not remove Goods immediately, but quits them till another Day, during which Time they are taken away, it is not a Rescous, for want of Possession. Mod. Ca. 215. 1 Nelf. 672. Where Goods are unlawfully distrained, the Owner may rescue them, before they are impounded; but not afterwards. 1 Inst. 47. If Lands lie in several Counties, a Distress may be made in one County, for the whole Rent. 1 Inst. 154. And if a Landlord comes into a House, and seizes upon some Goods as a Distress, in the Name of all the Goods in the House; this is a good Seizure of all. 6 Mod. 215. But if any Person shall distrain another another, on Purpose to injure him, or put him to Expence, &c. he shall pay treble Damages. Stat. 13 Ed. 1. And if any Distress and Sale be made where there is no Rent due, the Owner of the Goods distrained shall recover double the Value of the Goods, and full Costs, by 2 W. & M. Also by the Common Law, if a Lord or other Person shall distrain several Times for his Service or Rent, when none is in Arrear, the Tenant may have an Affise de sovant Distress, &c. F. N. B. 176. See Recaption, Replewin and Rescous.

Distress for Rent by the late Act, which has much altered our Law in this Case: If any Tenant of Lands or Tenements, shall fraudulently carry away his Goods, to prevent Distress, the Landlord may within thirty Days after, distrain them wherever they shall be found, as if they had been on the Premises; but no such Goods shall be distrained, if sold bona fide for valuable Consideration before Seizure, to any Person not privy to the Fraud. Tenants committing such Fraud, or others assisting, shall forfeit double the Value of the Goods carried off, to be recovered by Action of Debt, &c. And where they shall not exceed 50 l. Value, the Landlord may exhibit a Complaint before two Justices of Peace, who are to examine the Fact, and inquire into the Value of the Goods, and thereupon order the Offender to pay double Value, leviable by Distress and Sale; or for want thereof, commit the Offender to the House of Correction for six Months. Landlords, or their Agents, may with the Assistance of a Constable, seize any Goods fraudulently concealed in any House, Outhouse, &c. And in Case of a Dwelling-house, on Oath first made to some Justice of Reason to suspect that such Goods are therein, may break open the same, and distrain them: They may also distrain for Rent any Cattle, or Stock of their Tenants, feeding in any Common; or Corn, Grass, Hops, Fruits, &c. growing on the Land, which they shall cut, gather, cure and lay up when ripe, in any proper Place, giving Notice to the Tenant within a Week where lodged, and dispose thereof towards the Satisfaction of the Rent and Charges; the Appraisement to be taken when cut or cured: But if after a Distress so taken, before the Product be ripe and gathered, the Tenant shall pay the Rent, and Charges of the Distress, the said Distress shall cease. Persons may secure Distresses lawfully taken, and sell them upon the Premises, in like Manner as may be done off the same, by 2 W. & M. And any Persons may go to and from the Premises, to view, appraise, buy, or take away the Goods of the Purchaser; and if a Rescous be made for the Distress, the Persons aggrieved shall have the Remedy given by the said Statute. Distresses made for Rent justly due, shall not be unlawful, nor Distainers, Trespassers ab initio, for any Irregularity in the Disposition thereof; but the Parties grieved to have Satisfaction for special Damage, in an Action of the Case, &c. But no Tenant shall recover by such Action, if Tender of Amends hath been made before the Action brought. And in all Actions of Trespass, or on the Case relating to the Entry, Distress, or Sale, made by Landlords for Rents, the Defendants may plead the General Issue, and if the Plaintiffs become nonsuit, &c. shall recover double Costs of Suit. Stat. 11 Geo. 2. c. 19. See Lease. Vide the Statute.

Distress of the King. By the Common Law, no Subject can distrain out of his Fee or Seignior; unless Cattle are driven to a Place out of the Fee, to hinder the Lord's Distress, &c. But the King may distrain for Rent-Service, or Fee-Farm, in all the Lands of the Tenant wheresoever they be; not only on Lands held of himself, but of others; where his Tenant is in actual Possession, and the Land manured with his own Beasts, &c. 2 Inst. 132. 2 Danv. Abr. 643.

Distress of a Town. If a Town be assessed to a certain Sum, a Distress may be taken in any Part, subject to the whole Duty. 2 Danv. 643.

Distribution of Intestates Estates, according to the 22 & 23 Car. 2. may be sued for as well in the Chancery, as in the Ecclesiastical Court: And if the Persons appointed to have it, die before a Distribution made, their Shares go to their Executors, &c. 2 Chan. Rep. 374. Where the Remainder or Surplus of an Estate, not disposed of by Will, shall go and remain to the next of Kin, by the Statute of Distributions. 2 Vern. 361, 676. See Administrator, also Executor, and Intestates.

Districtione Saccharii, A Statute so called. 51 H. 3.

District, (Districtus) A Territory, or Place of Jurisdiction; the Circuit wherein a Man may be compelled to appear; also the Place in which one hath the Power of distraining: And where we say Hors de son fee, out of the Fee; it has been used for Extra Districtum suum. Brit. c. 120.

Distringas, Is a Writ directed to the Sheriff, or other Officer, commanding him to distrain a Man for a Debt to the King, &c. Or for his Appearance at a Day. There is a great Diversity of this Writ; which was sometimes of old called Constringas. F. N. B. 138.

Distringas Juratores, Is a Writ directed to the Sheriff, to distrain upon a Jury to appear; and return Issues on their Lands, &c. for Non-appearance. Where an Issue in Fact is joined to be tried by a Jury, which is returned by the Sheriff in a Panel upon a Venire facias for that Purpose; thereupon there goes forth a Writ of Distringas Jurator, to the Sheriff, commanding him to have their Bodies in Court, &c. at the Return of the Writ. 1 Lill. Abr. 483. And the Writ of Distringas Jur ought to be delivered to the Sheriff so timely, that he may warn the Jury to appear four Days before the Writ is returnable, if the Jurors live within forty Miles of the Place of Trial; and eight Days if they live farther off. Ibid. 484. There may be an Alias, or Pluries Distringas Jur where the Jury do not appear.

Dividend in the Exchequer, Is taken for one Part of an Indenture. Stat. 10 Ed. 1. c. 11.

Dividend in the University, Is that Part or Share which every one of the Fellows do justly and equally divide among themselves of their annual Stipend.

Divoꝛce,

Divorce, (Divortium, a Divertendo) Is a Separation of two, de facto married together, made by Law: It is a Judgment Spiritual; and therefore if there be Occasion, it ought to be reversed in the Spiritual Court. Co. Lit. 335. And besides Sentence of Divorce; in the old Law, the Woman divorced was to have of her Husband a Writing called a Bill of Divorce, which was to this Effect, viz. I Promise that hereafter I will lay no Claim to Thee, &c. There are many Divorces, mentioned in our Books; as Causa Præcontractus; Causa Frigiditatis; Causa Consanguinitatis; Causa Affinitatis; Causa Professionis, &c. But the usual Divorces are only of two Kinds, i. e. à Mensa & Thoro, from Bed and Board; and à Vinculo Matrimonii, from the very Bond of Marriage. A Divorce à Mensa & Thoro, dissolveth not the Marriage; for the Cause of it is subsequent to the Marriage, and supposes the Marriage to be lawful: This Divorce may be by Reason of Adultery in either of the Parties, for Cruelty of the Husband, &c. And as it doth not dissolve the Marriage, so it doth not debar the Woman of her Dower; or bastardise the Issue; or make void any Estate for the Life of Husband and Wife, &c. 1 Inst. 235. 3 Inst. 89. 7 Rep. 43. The Woman under Separation by this Divorce, must sue by her next Friend; and she may sue her Husband in her own Name for Alimony. Wood's Inst. 62. A Divorce à Vinculo Matrimonii, absolutely dissolves the Marriage, and makes it void from the Beginning, the Causes of it being precedent to the Marriage; as Præcontractus with some other Person, Consanguinity or Affinity, within the Levitical Degrees, Impotency, Impuberty, &c. On this Divorce Dower is gone; and if by Reason of Præcontractus, Consanguinity, or Affinity, the Children begotten between them are Bastards. 1 Inst. 335. 2 Inst. 93, 687. But in these Divorces, the Wife 'tis said shall receive all again that she brought with her, because the Nullity of the Marriage arises through some Impediment; and the Goods of the Wife were given for her Advancement in Marriage, which now ceaseth: But this is where the Goods are not spent; and if the Husband give them away during the Coverture, without any Collusion, it shall bind her: If she knows her Goods unspent, she may bring Action of Detinue for them; and as for Money, &c. which cannot be known, she must sue in the Spiritual Court. Dyer 62. 1 Nelf. Abr. 675. Where Lands were formerly given to Husband and Wife, and the Heirs of their Bodies in Frank Marriage; if they had been afterwards divorced, the Wife was to have her whole Lands; and by Divorce an Estate-Tail of Baron and Feme, 'tis said may be extinct. Godb. 18. After a Sentence of Divorce is given in the Spiritual Court Causa Præcontractus, the Issue of that Marriage shall be Bastards, so long as the Sentence stands unrepealed; and no Proof shall be admitted at Common Law to the contrary. 1 Inst. 235. 1 Nelf. 674. And Issue of a second Marriage in such Case, may inherit until the Sentence is repealed. 2 Leon. 207. Though it is not so where the Divorce is à Mensa & Thoro, for Adultery, &c. in which Case the Marriage still continues. Cro. Car. 462. And if after a Divorce à Mensa & Thoro, either of the Parties marry again, the other being Living, such Marriage is a mere Nullity; and by Sentence to confirm the first Contract, she and her first Husband become Husband and Wife to all Intents, without any formal Divorce from the second. 1 Leon. 173. Also on this Divorce, as the Marriage continues, marrying again while either Party is living, hath been held within the Statute 1 Jac. 1. of Felony, for having married a second Husband or Wife, the former being alive; where a Woman was divorced, and inhibited by the Statute not to marry during her Husband's Life. Cro. Car. 333. 1 Nelf. 674. On a Divorce à Vinculo Matrimonii, by Reason of Præcontractus, &c. the Parties may marry again: And in Divorces for Adultery, several Acts of Parliament have allowed the innocent Party to marry again. Sentence of Divorce must be given in the Life of the Parties, and not afterwards: But it may be repealed in the Spiritual Court, after the Death of the Parties. 1 Inst. 33, 244. 7 Rep. 44. 5 Rep. 98. Upon the Divorce of a Man and his Wife, Equity will not assist the Wife in recovering Dower, at the Husband's Death, but shall leave her to the Law; neither ought the Spiritual Court to grant her Administration, she not being such a Wife as is intitled to it; nor will the Chancery Decree her a Distributive Share. Preced. Canc. 111, 112. A Divorce shall be tried by the Bishop's Certificate; and not by a Jury.

Diurnal, Signifies as much Land as can be ploughed in a Day, with one Ox; in some Authors, it is writ Diurna. Blount.

Docket, or Dogget, Is a Brief in Writing on a small Piece of Paper or Parchment, containing the Effect of a greater Writing. 2 & 3 P. & M. cap. 6. West. Symbol. par. 2. sect. 106. And when Rolls of Judgments are brought into C. B. they are docketted, and entered on the Docket of that Term; so that upon any Occasion you may soon find out a Judgment, by searching these Dockets, if you know the Attorney's Name. Exemplification, of Decrees in Chancery are also docketted: And Attornies keep Docket Books, wherein are entered Judgments, &c. Practif. Astorn. Edit. 1. p. 155, 166.

Dogs, The Law takes Notice of a Greyhound, Mastiff Dog, Spaniel and Tumbrel; for Trover they lie for them. 1 Cro. 125. 2 Cro. 44. A Man hath a Property in a Mastiff: And where a Mastiff falls on another Dog, the Owner of that Dog cannot justify the Killing the Mastiff; unless there was no other Way to save his Dog, as that he could not take off the Mastiff, &c. 1 Saund. 84. 3 Salk. 139. The Owner of a Dog is bound to muzzle him if mischievous, but not otherwise: And if a Man doth keep a Dog, that useth to bite Cattle, &c. if after Notice given to him of it, his Dog shall do any Hurt, the Master shall answer for it. Ibid.

Dog-Days, (Dies caniculares) Are the hottest Time of the Year, by Reason the Sun is then in Leo: They are reckoned sixty-four in all, à tertio Idus Julii usque in Idus Septembris.

Dog-draw, Is a manifest Deprehension of an Offender against Venison in a Forest, when he is found drawing after a Deer by the Scent of a Hound, led in his Hand: Or where a Person hath wounded a Deer, or wild Beast, by shooting at him, or otherwise, and is caught with a Dog drawing after him to receive the same. Manswood, par. 2. cap. 18.

Dogger, A light Ship or Vessel; as a Dutch Dogger, &c. Stat. 31 Ed. 3. cap. 1.

Dogger-men, Fishermen that belong to Dogger-Ships. 25 H. 8. c. 2.

Doitkin, or Doit, Was a base Coin of small Value, prohibited by the Stat. 3 H. 5. c. 1. We still retain the Phrase, in common Saying, when we would undervalue a Man, That he is not worth a Doit.

Do Law, (Facere Legem) Is the same with to make Law. Stat. 25 H. 8. c. 14.

Dole, (Dola) A Saxon Word signifying as much as Pars or Portio in the Latin; and anciently where a Meadow was divided into several Shares, it was called a Dole Meadow. 4 Jac. cap. 11. See Dalus.

Dolefish, seems to be the Share of Fish, which the Fishermen, yearly employed in the North Seas, do customarily receive for their Allowance. Stat. 35 H. 8. c. 7.

Dolg-bote, (Sax.) A Recompence or Amends, for a Scar or Wound. Sax. Diſt. LL. Aluredi Reg. cap. 23.

Dollar, A Piece of Foreign Coin, going for about 4s. 6d. Lex Mercat.

Dom-boc, (Sax.) Signifies Liber Judicialis, as appears by the Laws of K. Ed. 1. This 'tis conjectured was a Book of Statutes of the English Saxons, wherein the Laws of the ancient Saxon Kings were contained. Leg. Ine, c. 29.

Dome, or Doom. (from the Sax. Dom) A Judgment, Sentence, or Decree. And several Words end in Dom; as Kingdom, Earldom, &c. from whence they may be applied to a Jurisdiction of a Lord, or a King. Mon. Ang. Tom. 1. fol. 284. Also there is a Dome of a Church; such as St. Paul's, &c.

Domesday, (Liber Judicarius, vel Censualis Anglice) Is a most ancient Record, made in the Time of William I. called the Conqueror, and now remaining in the Exchequer fair and legible, consisting of two Volumes, a Greater and a Less; the greater containing a Survey of all the Lands in England, except the Counties of Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmoreland, Durham, and Part of Lancashire, which 'tis said were never surveyed, and excepting Essex, Suffolk, and Norfolk; which three last are comprehended in the lesser Volume. There is also a third Book, which differs from the others in Form more than Matter, made by the Command of the same King. And there is a fourth Book kept in the Exchequer which is called Domesday; and though a very large Volume, is only an Abridgment of the others. Like-wise a fifth Book is kept in the Remembrancer's Office in the Exchequer, which has the Name of Domesday, and is the very same with the fourth before mentioned. Our Ancestors had many Dome-Books: King Alfred had a Roll which he called Domesday; and the Domesday Book made by Will. I. referred to the Time of Edward the Confessor, as that of King Alfred did to the Time of Ethelred. The fourth Book of Domesday having many Pictures, and gilt Letters in the Beginning, relating to the Time of King Edward the Confessor, this led him who made Notes on Fitzherbert's Register into a Mistake in p. 14. where he tells us, that Liber Domesday factus fuit tempore Regis Edwardi. The Book of Domesday was begun by five Justices, assigned for that Purpose in each County, in the Year 1081, and finished Anno 1086. And it is generally known, that the Question whether Lands are Antient Demefne, or not, is to be decided by the Domesday of Will. I. from whence there is no Appeal: And 'tis a Book of that Authority, that even the Conqueror himself submitted some Cases wherein he was concerned to be determined by it. The Addition of Day to this Dome-Book, was not meant with any Allusion to the final Day of Judgment, as most Persons have conceived; but was to strengthen and confirm it, and signifieth the judicial decisive Record or Book of dooming Judgment and Justice. Hammond's Annot. Camden calls this Book Gulielmi Libram Censualem, the Tax-Book of King William; and it was further called Magna Rolla Winton. The Dean and Chapter of York have a Register stiled Domesday; so hath the Bishop of Worcester; and there is an ancient Roll in Chester-Castle, called Domesday Roll. Blount.

Domes-men, Judges, or Men appointed to doom, and determine Suits and Controversies: Hence ægdeme, I deem, or Judge. Vide Days Man.

Domicellus, Is an old obsolete Latin Word, anciently given as an Appellation or Addition to the King's natural Sons in France, and sometimes to the eldest Sons of Noblemen there; from whence we borrowed these Additions: As several natural Children of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, are stiled Domicelli by the Charter of Legitimation. 20 R. 2.

But according to Tborn, the Domicelli were only the better Sort of Servants in Monasteries. — Domicellus Abbatis & Domicelli & Servientes Monasterii, p. 1748, 1990.

Dominica in Hamis Palmarum, Palm Sunday Anno 23 Ed. 1.

Domintum, Signifies Right or Regal Power. Paroch. Antiq. 498.

Dominius, This Word prefixed to a Man's Name, in ancient Times usually denoted him a Knight, or a Clergyman; and sometimes a Gentleman, not a Knight, especially a Lord of a Manor.

Domo Reparanda, Is a Writ that lies for one against his Neighbour, by the Fall of whose House he fears Damage and Injury to his own. Reg. Orig. 153.

Domus Conberforum, Was an ancient House built or appointed by King Hen. 3. for such Jews as were converted to the Christian Faith: But King Ed. 3. who expelled the Jews from this Kingdom, deputed the Place for the Custody of the Rolls and Records of the Chancery. See Rolls.

Domus Dei, The Hospital of Saint Julian in Southampton, so called. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. 440.

Donative, (Donativum) Is a Benefice merely given and collated by the Patron to a Man, without either Presentation to, or Institution by the Ordinary, or Induction by his Order. F. N. B. 35. And Donatives are so termed, because they began only by the Foundation and Erection of the Donor. Clergym. Law 120. The King might of ancient Time found a Church or Chapel, and exempt it from the Jurisdiction of the Ordinary: So he may by his Letters Patent give Licence to a common Person to found such a Church or Chapel, and make it Donative, not presentable; and that the Incumbent or Chaplain shall be deprived by the Founder and his Heirs, and not by the Bishop; which seems to be the Original of Donatives in England. Grwin's Readings. When the King founds a Church, &c. Donative, it is of Course exempted from the Ordinary's Jurisdiction, though no particular Exemption is mentioned, and the Lord Chancellor shall visit the same: And where the King grants a Licence to any common Person to found a Church or Chapel, it may be Donative, and exempted from the Jurisdiction of the Bishop, so as to be visited by the Founder, &c. 1 Inst. 134. 2 Roll. Abr. 230. The Resignation of a Donative must be to the Donor or Patron, and not to the Ordinary; and Donatives are not only free from all ordinary Jurisdiction, but the Patron and Incumbent may charge the Glebe to bind the Successor: And if the Clerk is disturbed, the Patron may bring Quare Impedit, &c. Also the Patron of a Donative may take the Profits thereof, when it is vacant. 1 Inst. 344. Cro. Jac. 63. If the Patron of a Donative will not nominate a Clerk, there can be no Lapse: But the Bishop may compel such Patron to nominate a Clerk by Ecclesiastical Censures; for though the Church is exempt from the Power of the Ordinary, the Patron is not exempted: And the Clerk must be qualified like unto other Clerks of Churches, no Person being capable of a Donative, unless he be a Priest lawfully ordained, &c. Yelv. 61. Stat. 14 Car. 2. cap. 4. 1 Lill. 488. There may be a Donative of the King's Gift with Cure of Souls, as the Church of the Tower of London is: And if such Donative be procured for Money, it will be within the Statute of Simony. Mich. 9 Car. B. R. A Parochial Church may be Donative, and and exempt from the Ordinary's Jurisdiction. Godolph. 262. The Church of St. Mary le Bone in Middlesex is Donative, and the Incumbent being cited into the Spiritual Court, to take a Licence from the Bishop to preach, pretending that it was a Chapel, and that the Parson was a Stipendiary; it was ruled in the King's Bench that it was a Donative; and if the Bishop visit, the Court of B. R. will grant a Prohibition. 1 Mod. 90. 1 Nels. Abr. 676. If a Patron of a Donative, doth once present his Clerk to the Ordinary, and the Clerk is admitted, instituted and inducted, then the Donative ceaseth; and it becomes a Church presentative. 1 Inst. 344. But when a Donative is created by Letters Patent, by which Lands are settled upon the Parson and his Successors, and he is to come in by the Donation of the King, and his Successors; in this Case, though there may be a Presentation to the Donative, and the Incumbent come in by Institution and Induction, yet that will not destroy the Donative. 2 Salk. 541. All Bishopricks, being of the Foundation of the King; they were in ancient Time Donative. 3 Rep. 75. A Parson is put in Possession of a Donative by Gift in Writing of the following Form:

Form of a Donation of a Church.

TO all to whom these Presents shall come, I the Right Honourable T. Lord B. Baron of, &c. send Greeting. Whereas the Church or free Chapel of, &c. in the Diocese of, &c. is now void, and of Right doth belong and appertain to my Gift. Know ye therefore, That I the said T. Lord B. in Consideration of the known Abilities, Learning and Honesty of T. D. Clerk of, &c. Have given and granted unto him the said T. D. the said Church or Chapel of, &c. aforesaid with all Rights, Benefits, Advantages and Appurtenances whatsoever to the same belonging; and by these Presents I the said T. Lord B. do induce the said T. D. to the Possession of the said Church or Chapel, with all its Rights and Appurtenances. In Witness, &c.

Donor and Donee. Donor is he who gives Lands or Tenements to another in Tail, &c. And the Person to whom given is the Donee.

Dormitory, (Dormitorium) Is the common Room or Chamber, where all the Fryers, or Religious of one Convent slept and lay all Night. Stat. 25 H. 8. c. 11.

Dossale, A Word used for Hangings or Tapestry. — Dossale fron Tapefium. Mat. Par.

Dote Assignanda, Is a Writ that lay for a Widow, where it was found by Office, that the King's Tenant was seized of Lands in Fee, or Fee-tail, at the Day of his Death, and that he held of the King in chief, &c. In which Case, the Widow came into the Chancery, and there made Oath, That she would not marry without the King's Leave; whereupon she had this Writ to the Escheator, to assign her Dower, &c. But it was usual to make the Assignment of the Dower in the Chancery, and to award a Writ to the Escheator, to deliver the Lands assigned unto her. Stat. 15 Ed. 4. cap. 4. Reg. Orig. 297. F. N. B. 263.

Dote unde nihil habet, Is a Writ of Dower, that lies for the Widow against the Tenant who bought Land of her Husband in his Life-time, whereof he was solely seized in Fee-simple, or Fee-tail, and of which she is dowable. F. N. B. 147.

Dotis Admensuratio, Admeasurement of Dower, where the Widow holds more than her Share, &c. See Admeasurement.

Double Plea, (Duplex plucitum) Is where a Defendant alledgeth for himself two several Matters in Bar of the Plaintiff's Action, when one of them is sufficient, which shall not be admitted: As if a Man plead several Things, the one not depending upon the other, the Plea is accounted Double, and will not be allowed; but if they mutually depend on each other, and the Party may not have the last Plea without the first, then it shall be received. Kitch. 223. And where a Double Plea that is wrong, is pleaded; if the Plaintiff reply thereto, and take Issue of one Matter; if that be found against him, he cannot afterwards plead in Arrest of Judgment; for by the Replication it is allowed to be good. 18 Ed. 4. 17. If a Man pleads two or more Matters, when he is compelled to shew them, it makes not the Plea double; so it is where two distinct Things are pleaded, which require but one Answer: And in Case a Man pleads two several Matters or Things, and only one is material, the other being Surplusage, or but Matter of Inducement, and needing no Answer, the Plea is not double. Hob. 197. Where there are several Inducements to a Plea, they shall not make the Plea double: And Double Pleas are allowable in Affixes of Novel Disseisin, &c. but not in other Actions. Jenk. Cent. 75. All Pleas ought to be single, that the Jury may not be troubled and perplexed with over many Things at once. Smith's Rep. Ang. lib. 2. c. 13.

Double Quarrel, (Duplex Querela) Is a Complaint made by any Clerk, or other to the Archbishop of the Province, against an inferior Ordinary, for delaying or refusing to do Justice in some Cause Ecclesiastical; as to give Sentence, institute a Clerk, &c. and seems to be termed a Double Quarrel, because it is most commonly made against both the Judge, and him at whose Suit Justice is denied or delayed: The Effect whereof is, That the Archbishop taking Notice of the Delay, directs his Letters under his authentical Seal to all Clerks of his Province, commanding them to admonish the Ordinary within a certain Number of Days to do the Justice required, or otherwise to appear before him or his Official, and there alledge the Cause of his Delay: And to signify to the Ordinary, that if he neither perform the Thing injoin'd, nor appear and shew Cause against it, he himself in his Court of Audience will forthwith proceed to do the Justice that is due. Cowel.

Doubles, (Fr.) Signify as much as Letters Patent. Stat. 14 H. 6. c. 6.

Douzen Peers, Were twelve Peers, assigned at the Instance of the Barons in the Reign of K. H. 3. to be Privy Counsellors to the King, or rather Conseillers of the Kingdom.

Dover Castle. The Constable of Dover Castle, shall not hold Plea of any foreign County within the Castle Gates, except it concern the keeping of the Castle; nor shall he distrain the Inhabitants of the Ports, to plead elsewhere or otherwise than as they ought, according to their Charters, &c. Stat. 28 Ed. 1. c. 7.

Dow, To give or endoro, from the Latin Word Do.

Dowager, (Dotata, Dotissa) A Widow endowed; applied to the Widows of Princes, dukes, Earls, and other great Personages.

Dower, (Dotarium) Is a Portion which a Widow hath of the Lands of her Husband after his Decease, for the Sustainance of her self, and Education of her Children. 1 Inst. 30. And there were formerly five Kinds of Dower in this Kingdom. 1. Dower by the Common Law, which is a third Part of such Lands or Tenements whereof the Husband was sole seized in Fee-simple, or Fee-tail, during the Coverture; and this the Widow is to enjoy during her Life. 2. Dower by Custom, which is that Part of the Husband's Estate to which the Widow is entitled after the Death of her Husband, by the Custom of any Manor or Place, so long as she lives Sole and Chaste; and this is more than one third Part, for in some Places she shall have Half the Land, as by the Custom of Gavelkind; and in divers Manors the Widow shall have the whole during her Life, which is called her Frey-Bench: But as Custom may enlarge;

so it may abridge Dower to a 4th Part. 1 Inst. 33. 3. Dower ad Offitium Ecclesie, made by the Husband himself immediately after the Marriage, who named such particular Lands of which his Wife should be endowed; and in ancient Time, it was taken that a Man could not by this Dower endow his Wife of more than a third Part, though of less he might: And as the Certainty of the Land was openly declared by the Husband, the Wife after his Death might enter into the Land of which she was endowed without any other Assignment. 1 Inst. 34. Lit. Sect. 39. 4 Dower ex officio Patris, which likewise was of certain Lands named by a Son who was the Husband, with the Consent of his Father, and always put in Writing as soon as the Son was married: And if a Woman thus endowed, or Ad Offitium Ecclesie, after the Death of her Husband entered into the Land allotted her in Dower, and agreed thereto, she was concluded to claim any Dower by the Common Law. Lit. Sect. 41. 5. Dower de la plus Belle, which was where the Wife was endowed with the fairest Part of her Husband's Estate; but of all these Writs of Dower, the two first are now only in use. 1 Nels. Abr. 679. By our Law, all the Goods and Chattels of the Wife, are the Husband's; and if she be an Inheritrix, the Husband holds her Land during her Life; also if he hath Issue by her, he shall hold it for his own Life, by the Curtsey of England: And if he have any Land in Fee, whereof he is possessed during the Marriage, she is to have a third Part thereof for her Life as her Dower; though she bring nothing to the Husband, and whether she have Issue by him or not. Lit. 36. There are three Things to entitle Dower, viz. Marriage, Seisin, and Death of the Husband; the Marriage, must be good and lawful; and continue to the Husband's Death; and a Wife shall be endowed of a Seisin in Law, as well as of a Seisin in Deed; as where Lands and Tenements descend to the Husband, before Entry, he hath but a Seisin in Law, and yet the Wife shall be endowed although it be not reduced to an actual Possession. 1 Inst. 31, 32, &c. And it is not necessary that Seisin should continue during the Coverture; for if the Husband aliens the Lands, &c. the Wife shall be nevertheless endowed. Ibid. 32, 35. If Lands are exchanged by the Husband for other Lands, the Wife may be endowed of which Lands she will, as the Husband was seized of both; though the may not be endowed of the Lands given and taken in Exchange. 1 Inst. 31. Where the Estate, which the Husband hath during the Marriage, is ended, there the Wife shall lose her Dower. New Nat. Br. 333. But of an Estate-tail in Lands determined, a Woman shall be endowed; in like Manner as a Man may be Tenant by the Curtsey of her Lands. 1 Inst. 31. And if a Wife be endowed of her third Part, and afterwards evicted by an elder Title, she shall have a new Writ of Dower, and be endowed of the other Lands. 2 Daru. Abr. 670. Though this is where it is the immediate Estate descended to the Heir; and not when it is the Estate of an Alienee. 9 Rep. 17. The Wife is dowable where Lands were recovered against the Husband by Default or Covin: And a Woman deforc'd of her Dower, shall recover Damages, viz. the Value of her Dower from her Husband's Death. 13 E. 1. 20 H. 3. If the Husband doth not die seized, after Demand and Refusal to assign Dower to her, she shall have Damages from the Time of the Refusal. Jenk. Cent. 45. The Wife of a Man who is banish'd, shall have Dower in his Lifetime; 'tis held otherwise, if he is profess'd in Religion: And a Jointress of a banish'd Husband, shall enjoy her Jointure in his Life. 1 Inst. 133. Perk. 5, 307. If a Man leaves Land for Life, rendering Rent; his Wife shall not be endowed of this Rent; for this is but an Estate for Life in the Rent; though it descends to the Heir. 2 Daru. 656. But she shall be endowed of a Reversion, expectant on a Term of Years; and of a Rent reserved thereon. Lutw. 729. If the Husband hath only an Estate for Life, Remainder to another in Tail, though the Remainder over is to his Heirs, the Wife shall not be endowed. 2 Daru. 656. A Woman shall not be endowed of the Goods of her Husband; nor of a Castle, or capital Messuage: But of all other Lands and Tenements she may. 1 Inst. 35. Where there are three Manors, one of them may be assign'd to the Wife in Dower in Lieu of all three; though it is said that a third Part of every Manor ought to be assign'd. Moor 12, 47. The Sheriff may assign a Rent out of the Land in Lieu of Dower; and her Acceptance of the Rent will bar Dower out of the same Land, but not of other Lands. 2 And. 31. Dyer 91. 1 Nels. Abr. 680. A Grantee of a Rent in Fee or Tail, dies without Heir, his Wife shall be endowed: But not where the Rent arises upon a Reservation to the Donor and his Heirs, on a Gift in Tail, and the Donee dies without Issue; for this is a collateral Limitation. Plowd. 156. F. N. B. 149. If during the Coverture, the Husband doth extinguish Rents by Release, &c. yet she shall be endowed of them; for as to her Dower, in the Eye of the Law, they have Continuance. 1 Inst. 32. And where a Rent is descended to the Husband, but he dies before any Day of Payment; notwithstanding the Wife shall be endowed of it. 1 H. 7. 17. When a Jointure is made of Lands after Marriage, the Wife may waive it, and demand her Dower: But it is otherwise when made before Marriage, according to the Statute 27 Hen. 8. And if Lands are given to the Husband and Wife in Tail, and after the Death of the Husband, the Wife disagrees, she may recover her Dower; for by her waiving her Estate, her Husband in Judgment of Law was sole seized ab initio. 3 Rep. 27. If Lands are improved, the Wife is to have one Third according to the improved Value. 1 Inst. 32. And if the Ground deliver'd her be sowed, she shall have the Corn. 2 Inst. 81. A Widow may recover her Dower, with a Cessat Executio, in Case there be any Thing objected against precedent the Title of Dower, &c. till that is determined. 1 Nels. 684, 687. 1 Salk. 291. Judgment in Dower is to recover a third Part of Lands and Tenements per Metas & Bandas; but this may not be of a Mill; for if it were, neither of the Parties could use their Parts. 1 Lev. 182. When no Division can be made of what the Wife is dowable, Dower is to be assigned in a special Manner; as of the third Presentation to a Church, the third Toll Ditch of a Mill; Common certain, a third Year; the third Part of the Profits of an Office, Fair, Market, &c. 1 Rol. Abr. 678. And Dower is much favoured in Law, being for the Benefit of Widows: Wherefore the Wife of one Non Compos Mentis, of an Ideot, Outlaw, or one attainted of Felony, may be endowed: But not of a Person attainted of Treason; nor the Wife of an Alien, Jew, &c. 1 Inst. 33, 37. Stat. 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. 5 Ed. 6. cap. 11. At Common Law, Dower is assigned by the Sheriff, by the King's Writs, or by the Heir, &c. by Agreement among themselves: And the Wife cannot enter otherwise into her Dower. 1 Bull. 35. By the ancient Law of England, till Magna Charta, a Woman was to continue a whole Year in her Husband's House, for the Assignment of her Dower. 2 Inst. 17. By that Statute, a Widow shall immediately after her Husband's Death have her Marriage Inheritance; and remain in his chief House forty Days, within which Time Dower is to be assign'd her of the third Part of all his Lands, &c. 9 H. 3. The Assignment of the Lands is to be for her Life; and if Lands are assign'd to a Woman for Years, in Recompence of Dower; this is no Bar of Dower; for it is not such an Estate therein as she should have.

have. 2 Dawv. Abr. 668. Also where other Land is assigned to the Woman, that is no Part of the Lands wherein she claims Dower; that Assignment will not be good or binding: And there must be Certainty in what is assigned; otherwise though it be by Agreement, it may be void. 4 Rep. 2. 1 Inst. 34. If a Wife accept and enter upon less Land than the third of the Whole, on the Sheriff's Assignment, she is barred to demand more. Moor 679. But if where a Wife is intitled to Dower of the Lands of her first Husband; her second Husband accepts for this Dower less than her third Part, after his Death she may refuse the same, and have her full third Part. Fitz. Dower, 121. If a Wife having Right of Dower in the Land, accept of a Lease for Years thereof after the Death of her Husband, it suspends the Dower; though not such Acceptance of a Lease, before the Husband's Death, &c. for then the Wife has only a Title to have Dower, and not an immediate Right of Dower. Bro. ca. 372. Jenk. Cent. 15. A Widow accepting of Dower of the Heir, against common Right, shall hold it subject to the Charges of her Husband; but otherwise it is, if she be endowed against common Right by the Sheriff. 2 Dawv. 672. By Provision of Law, the Wife may take a third Part of the Husband's Lands, and hold them discharged. Ibid. If Dower be assign'd a Woman on Condition, or with an Exception; the Condition and Exception are void. Cro. Eliz. 541. Detaining of Charters concerning the same Land of which the Widow demands her Dower, is a good Plea by the Heir in Delay of her Dower: But if she delivers up the Evidences, she shall have Judgment; though if she denies the Detainer, and it is found against her, she loses her Dower. Hob. 199. 9 Rep. 19. If a Wife levies a Fine with her Husband, she debar herself of her Dower: And if a common Recovery be had against the Husband and Wife, of the Husband's Lands, it shall bar the Wife of her Dower. 2 Rep. 74. Plowd. 514. Where a Woman releases her Right to him in Reversion, her Dower may be extinguish'd. 8 Rep. 151. If a Wife commits Treason or Felony; or if she elope from her Husband, and live with the Adulterer willingly, without being reconciled to the Husband, she shall lose and forfeit her Dower; but if the Husband be reconciled to her, and she lives with him again, she shall be endow'd. 2 Inst. 453. Dyer 196. And if after Elopement of the Wife, her Husband and she demean themselves as Husband and Wife, it is Evidence of Reconciliation. Dyer 196. If a Man grants his Wife with her Goods to another, and the Wife by Virtue of the Grant lives with the Grantee during the Life of the Husband, this shall forfeit her Dower; for she lived in Adultery, notwithstanding the Grant. 1 Inst. 135. 2 Dawv. 662. If a Woman be of the Age of nine Years, at the Death of her Husband, she shall be endowed of whatsoever Age he is; because after the Death of the Husband, the Marriage is adjudged lawful. 1 Inst. 33. And Dower is an inseparable Incident to an Estate in Tail or Fee that cannot be taken away by Condition: If one seised in Fee of Lands make a Gift in Tail, on Condition that the Wife shall not have Dower, the Condition is void. 6 Rep. 41. If Tenant in Tail die without Issue, so that the Land reverts to the Donor; or in Case he covenants to stand seised to Uses, and dies, his Wife will be endowed: And a Devise of Land by the Husband to his Wife by Will, is no Bar of her Dower, but a Benevolence. 8 Rep. 34. Yelv. 51. Bro. Dower 69. It is held, that Land devised to a Man's Wife, who is entitled to Dower of his Lands; it not being mentioned in Satisfaction of her Dower, shall be taken as a voluntary Gift, and not any Recompence or Bar of Dower: And in this Case the Widow brought a Writ and recover'd, against which the Heir could have no Relief. Preced. Canc. 133. A Person grants and conveys Land to D. and his Heirs, on Condition, to redemise the same back, &c. which afterwards he does, and dies; here D.'s Widow may nevertheless be endow'd. Abr. Caf. 217. A. is Tenant in Tail of Lands, the Remainder to B. in Tail, Remainder to A. in Fee; if A. bargains and sells the Land to C. and his Heirs, the Wife of the Bargainee shall have Dower, determinable upon the Death of the Tenant in Tail. 10 Rep. 96. And if a Feoffment be made upon Condition to re infeoff, and the Feoffee take a Wife, she may have her Dower till Re infeoffment, or an Entry made for not doing it: And so 'tis of other defeasible Estates. 2 Rep. 59. Perk. Sect. 420. If one be disseised, and after doth marry, if he die before Entry, his Wife shall not have Dower: And where a Person recovers Land in a real Action, and before his Entry or Execution made he dieth, the Wife shall not be endowed of this Land. 2 Rep. 56. Perk. 377. Where the Husband's Estate is such, that by no Possibility Issue begotten on his Wife might inherit as Heir to him; there the Wife may not be endow'd: As if Lands are given to a Man and the Heirs he shall beget on his present Wife, and she dies; and then he takes another Wife, she shall not have Dower: But in Case Land be given to the Husband and Wife in Tail, the Remainder in Tail to the Husband, and the first Wife dying without Issue, he marries another Wife; this second Wife will be entitled to Dower, after his Death. Lit. Sect. 53. 40 E. 3. 4. 2 Skep. Abr. 63. The Wife of a Tenant in Common, but not a Jointenant, shall have Dower; and she shall hold her Part in Common with the Tenants in Common. Kitch. 160. A Wife may have her Writ of Dower against an Heir, an Alien, a Disseisor, &c. or against any one that has Power to assign Dower; if the Lord enters on the Land for an Escheat, she may bring it against him, but to the King she must sue by Petition. 9 Rep. 10. Plowd. 141. Dyer 263. 1 Inst. 59. This Writ was brought against eight Persons Feoffees of the Husband after Marriage, two confessed the Action, and the other six pleaded to Issue; here the Demandant had Judgment to recover the third Part of two Parts of the Land, in eight Parts to be divided: And after the Issue being found for the Demandant against the six, she recovered against them the third Part of six Parts of the same Land, as her Dower. Dyer 187. 1 Co. Inst. 32. The Wife is, as soon as she can after the Decease of her Husband, to demand her Dower, lest she lose the Value from the Time of his Death: And in Action of Dower, the first Process is Summons to appear: And if the Tenant or Defendant do not appear, nor cast an Essoin, a Grand Cape lies to seize the Lands, &c. But on the Return of the Writ of Summons, the Attorney for the Tenant or Defendant may enter with the Filizer that the Tenant appears, and prays View, &c. Then a Writ of View goes out, whereby the Sheriff is to shew the Tenant the Land in Question; upon the Return of which Writ of View, the Tenant's Attorney takes a Declaration, and puts in a Plea; the most general one is, Ne unques seise, &c. viz. that the Husband was never seised of any Estate, whereof the Wife can be endowed; and when Issue is join'd, you must proceed to Trial, as in other Actions: Upon Trial, the Jury are to give Damages for the mean Profits from the Death of the Husband (if he die seised) for which Execution shall be made out; and then you have a Writ to the Sheriff to give Possession of a third Part of the Lands. Pract. Solic. p. 335, 336.

Form of a Writ of Dower, &c.

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of S. Greeting: Command A. B. that justly, &c. he render to C. D. who was the Wife of T. D. her reasonable Dower, which is come unto her, of the free Tenement (or Freehold) that was of, and belonging to the said T. some Time her Husband, in, &c. whereof she hath nothing, nothing, as she saith; and whereof she complains, that the said A. deserveth her, &c. And unless, &c.

As in great Estates Jointures of Lands are usually made in Lien and Satisfaction of Dowry, these Actions of Dowry are not so frequently brought as they were formerly.

Dowry, (Dos Mulieris) Was in ancient Time applied to that which the Wife brings her Husband in Marriage; otherwise called Maritagium, or Marriage Goods: But these are termed more properly, Goods given in Marriage, and the Marriage Portion. 1 Inst. 31. This Word is often confounded with Dowry; though it hath a different Meaning from it.

Dowry Bill: Among the Jews, the Bridegroom at the Time of the Marriage, gave his Wife a Dowry Bill. Blount.

Dreit-Dreit, or Droit, Are Words signifying formerly a double Right, viz. of Possession, and of Property or Interest. Bract. lib. 4. cap. 27. Co. Lit. 266.

Drenched, An old Word, used where a Person was overcome, from the Germ.

Drenches, or Drenges, (Drengi) Are Tenants in Capite, says an ancient MS. Mon. Angl. Tom. 2. fol. 598. And according to Spelman, they are such as at the Coming of Will. 1. called the Conqueror, being put out of their Estates, were afterwards restored thereunto; on their making it appear that they were Owners thereof, and neither in Auxilio, or Consilio against him. Spelm.

Drengage, (Drengagium) The Tenure by which the Drenches or Drenges held their Lands. Trin. 21 Ed. 3. Ebor. & Northumb. Rot. 191.

Drift of the Forest (Agitatio Animalium in Foresta) Is a View or Examination of what Cattle are in the Forest, that it may be known whether it be surcharged or not; and whose the Beasts are, and whether they are commutable, &c. These Drifts are made at certain Times in the Year by the Officers of the Forest; when all the Cattle of the Forest are driven into some Pound or Place inclosed, for the Purposes afore mentioned; and to the End it may be discovered whether any Cattle of Strangers be there, which ought not to common. Manw. par. 2. c. 15. Stat. 32 H. 8. c. 13. 4 Inst. 309.

Drinklean, (in some Records Potura Drinklean) Was a Contribution of Tenants, in the Time of the Saxons, towards a Potation or Ale, provided to entertain the Lord, or his Steward.

Drosenne, Signified with our Saxon Ancestors a Grove, or woody Place, where Cattle were kept; and the Keeper of them was called Drosman. Domesday.

Drossand, or Dyffand, Another Saxon Word, signifying a Tribute or yearly Payment made by some Tenants to the King, or their Landlords, for driving their Cattle through a Manor to Fairs or Markets. Convel.

Droit, Right, Is the highest Writ of all other real Writs whatsoever, and hath the greatest Respect, and the most assured and final Judgment; and therefore is called a Writ of Right, and in the old Books Droit. Co. Lit. 158. There are divers of these Writs used in our Law, such as the following.

Droit de Redemson.

Droit de Dowry.

Droit de Garde.

Droit Patent.

Droit Rationabilis parte.

Droit sur Disclaimer.

Dromones, Dromos, Dromunda, Signified at first high Ships of great Burden, but afterwards those which we now call Men of War. Walsing. Anno 1292. — Tres Majores Naves subsequenter, quos vulgo Dromones appellant. — Mat. Paris. sub ann. 1191.

Drobers, Are those that buy Cattle in one Place to sell in another: They are to be married Men and Householders, and be licensed by Statute, 5 Eliz. c. 12. And if they drive their Cattle on the Lord's Day, they shall forfeit 20s. by 1 Car. 1. c. 1.

Druggeria, A Place of Drugs, or Druggers Shop: And Druggists and their Wares. Vide Coffe.

Drunkennes, Is an Offence for which a Man may be punished in the Ecclesiastical Court; as well as by Justices of Peace by Statute: And by 4 Jac. 1. c. 5. And 21 Jac. 1. c. 7. If any Person shall be convicted of Drunkennes by the View of a Justice, Oath of one Witness, &c. he shall forfeit five Shillings for the first Offence, to be levied by Distress and Sale of his Goods; and for want of a Distress shall sit in the Stocks six Hours: And for the second Offence, he is to be bound with two Sureties in ten Pounds each, to be of the good Behaviour, or be committed. And he who is guilty of any Crime through his own voluntary Drunkennes, shall be punished for it as if he had been sober. Co. Lit. 247. 1 Hawk. P. C. 2. It has been held, that Drunkennes is a sufficient Cause to remove a Magistrate: And the Prosecution for this Offence, by the Statute of 4 Jac. 1. was to be, and still may be before Justices of Peace in their Sessions, by way of Indictment, &c.

An Indictment against a common Drunkard.

THE Jurors, &c. That A. B. late of, &c. on the Day, &c. in the Year of the Reign, &c. and on many Days and Times, as well before as afterwards, at, &c. in the said County, and elsewhere in divers other Places within the said County, was and yet is a common Drunkard, and common Disturber of the Peace of our Sovereign Lord the King, to the bad Example of of other Subjects of our said Lord the King, and against the Peace, &c.

Dry Exchange, (Cambium Siccum) Is a Term invented in former Times for the Disguising and Covering of Ujary; in which something was pretended to pass on both Sides, whereas in Truth nothing passed but on one Side, in which Respect it was called Dry. Stat. 3 H. 7. c. 5.

Dry Rent, A Rent reserved without Clause of Distress. See Rent sack.

Duces tecum, Is a Writ commanding a Person to appear at a certain Day in the Court of Chancery, and to bring with him some Writings, Evidences, or other Things which the Court would view. Reg. Orig.

Duces tecum licet Languidus, A Writ directed to the Sheriff, upon a Return that he cannot bring his Prisoner without Danger of Death, he being adeo Languidus; then the Court grants a Habeas Corpus in Nature of a Duces tecum licet Languidus. Book Entr.

Duel, (Duellum) In our ancient Law is a Fight between Persons in a doubtful Case, for the Trial of the Truth. Fleta. But this Kind of Duel is disused; and what we now call a Duel is, a Fighting between Two, upon some Quarrel precedent: Wherein, if a Person is killed, both the Principal and his Seconds are guilty of Murder, and whether such Seconds fight, or not. H. P. C. 47, 51. And 'tis said by some, that the Seconds of the Person killed are equally guilty, by Reason of the Encouragement which they gave by joining with him: But this is contradicted by others. 1 Hawk. 82. Wherever two Persons in cool Blood meet and fight upon a precedent Quarrel, and one of them is killed, the other is guilty of Murder; and cannot excuse himself by alledging that he was first struck by the Deceased, or that he had declined to meet him, was prevailed upon to do it by his Importunity, or that it was not his Intent to kill, but only to vindicate his Reputation, &c. 1 Hawk. P. C. 81. If two Persons quarrel over Night, and appoint to fight the next Day; or quarrel in the Morning, and agree to fight in the Afternoon; or such a considerable Time after, by which it may be presumed the Blood was cooled; and then they meet and fight a Duel, and one kill the other, it is Murder. 3 Inst. 52. H. P. C. 48. Keyl. 56. And whenever it appears that he who kills another in a Duel or Fighting on a sudden Quarrel, was Master of his Temper at the Time, he is guilty of Murder; as if after the Quarrel he fall into another Discourse, and talk calmly thereon; or alledge that the Place where the Quarrel happens is not convenient for Fighting; or that his Shoes are too high, if he should fight at present, &c. Kel. 56. 1 Lev. 180. If one challenge another, who refuses to meet him, but tells him that he shall go the next Day to such a Place about Business, and then the Challenger meets him on the Road, and assaults the other; if the other in this Case kill him, it will be only Manslaughter; for here is no Acceptance of the Challenge, or Agreement to fight: And if the Person challenged refuseth to meet the Challenger, but tells him that he wears a Sword, and is always ready to defend himself; if then the Challenger attack him, and is killed by the other, it is neither Murder nor Manslaughter, if necessary in his own Defence. Kel. 56. It is a very high Offence to challenge another, either by Word or Letter, to fight a Duel; or to be the Messenger of such a Challenge; or even barely to endeavour to provoke another to send a Challenge, or to fight, as by dispersing Letters for that Purpose, full of Reflection, &c. 1 Sid. 186. 3 Inst. 158. And Persons convicted of barely sending a Challenge, have been adjudged to pay a Fine of 100 l. to be imprisoned for a Month, and make a publick Acknowledgment of their Offence, and to be bound to their good Behaviour. 1 Hawk. P. C. 135, 138.

Duke, (Lat. Dux, Fr. Duc, à Ducendo) Signified among the ancient Romans, Duxorem exercitus, such as led their Armies; since which they were called Duces, and were Governors of Provinces, &c. In some Nations, the Sovereigns of the Country are called by this Name; as the Duke of Savoy, &c. In England, the Title of Duke is the next Dignity to the Prince of Wales: And the first Duke we had in England was Edward the Black Prince, so famed in our English Histories for Heroick Actions; who was created Duke of Cornwall in the 11th Year of King Edw. 3. After which, there were more made in such Manner as their Titles descended to their Posterity; and during the late Reigns their Number hath been greatly increased. They are created with Solemnity, per Circuram Gladii; Cappæque & Circuli aurei in Capite impositionem. Camd. Brit. p. 166.

Dum fuit infra ætatem, Is where an Infant maketh a Feoffment of his Lands; when he cometh of full Age, he may have this Writ to recover those Lands or Tenements which were so aliened: And within Age, he may enter into the Land and take it back again, and by his Entry he shall be remitted to his Ancestor's Right. New Nat. Br. 426. If the Husband and Wife alien the Wife's Land, during the Nonage of both of them, the Wife at her full Age after the Death of the Husband, shall have a Writ of Dum fuit infra ætatem. M. 14. E. 3. By this Writ to the Sheriff, he shall command A. that he render to B. who is of full Age, two Messuages and Lands, &c. which B. demised to him, while he was within Age, as he saith; or into which the said A. hath not entered, but by C. to whom the said B. those demised; and unless, &c. F. N. B. 477.

Dum non fuit Compos Mentis, Is a Writ that lies where a Man who is not of sound Memory aliens any Lands or Tenements, then he shall have this Writ against the Alienor. And he shall alledge that he was not of Sane Memorie, but being visited with Infirmitie, lost his Discretion for a Time, so as not to be capable of making a Grant, &c. New Nat. Br. 449. But see Disability.

Dun, Down, In which Termination it hath varied into Don, signifies a Mountain or high open Place; so that the Names of those Towns which end in Dun or Don, as Abdon, &c. were either built on Hills, or near them in open Places. Domesday.

Dunfettes, Those who dwell on Hills or Mountains.

Dunum and Duna, A Down or Hill: And Dunarium is used in the same Sense. Chart. dat. 29 Ed. 3. Penes Decan. & Cap. Eccl. Cath. Cbristi Oxon.

Duodena, A Jury of twelve Men.—Tunc Justiciar. convocata sexdecim alia Duodena. Walsing. 256.

Duplex Querrela, A Process Ecclesiastical; Double Quarrel.

Duplicate, Is used for second Letters Patent, granted by the Lord Chancellor, in a Case wherein he had before done the same; which were therefore thought void. Crompt. Jurif. fol. 215. But it is more commonly a Copy or Transcript of any Deed or Writing, Account, &c. or a second Letter, written and sent to the same Party and Purpose as a former, for Fear of Miscarriage of the First, or for other Reasons: This Word is mentioned in the Stat. 14 Car. 2 c. 10.

Durden, A Thicket of Wood in a Valley. Corwel.

Durets, (Duritia) Is where one is wrongfully imprisoned or restrained of his Liberty contrary to Law, till he seals a Bond or other Deed to another; or threatned to be killed, wounded, or beaten if he doth doth not do it: And a Bond or Deed so obtained is void in Law. Broke, in his Abridgment, joins Durefs and Minas together, i. e. Hardship and Threatnings: If one under a just Fear of being imprisoned, killed, &c. enters into a Bond to him that threatens him, it is Durefs per Minas; and may be pleaded to avoid the Bond: But it must be a Threatning of Life or Member, or of Imprisonment; and not of a Battery only; or to take away Goods, &c. 1 Inst. 162, 253. 2 Inst. 483. But it has been adjudged, that if a Man makes a Deed by Durefs done to him by Taking of his Cattle, though there be no Durefs to his Person, yet this shall avoid the Deed. 2 Danv. Abr. 686. If a Person threaten another to make a Deed to a third Person, it is by Durefs, and void; as if such third Person had made the Threatning. 2 Inst. 482. 3 Inst. 92. 4 Inst. 97. And wheré a Man is imprisoned until he makes a Bond at another Place; if afterwards he doth it when at large, the Bond is by Durefs, and void: But if a Person be arrested upon an Action at the Suit of another, and the Cause of Action is not good, if he make a Bond to a Stranger, it is not Durefs; though if he make it to the Plaintiff, it is, and being sued upon the Bond, he may plead it was made by Durefs, and so avoid it: Also the Party shall have an Action for the false Imprisonment itself. 1 Rep. 119. Perk. Sett. 16. Crompt. Jur. 296. 1 Lill. Abr. 494. If one imprisoned make an Obligation by Durefs, and after he is at large takes a Defeasance upon it; this will estop him to say it was made per Durefs. And where A. and B. by Durefs to B. Seal a Bond or Deed, it may be good for A. that was never threatned. 3 H. 6. 16. Bro. 17. Mich. 7 Jac. 1. If a Man be lawfully in Prison, and makes an Obligation against his Agreement and Will, he may avoid it by Durefs: Though it is otherwise if he do it of his good Will. 43 E. 3. 10. 2 Danv. 686. A Man shall not avoid a Deed by Durefs to a Stranger: For it hath been held that none shall avoid his own Bond for the Imprisonment or Danger of any other than of himself only. Cro. Jac. 187. And yet a Son shall avoid his Deed by Durefs to the Father: And the Husband shall avoid a Deed made by Durefs to the Wife; though a Servant shall not avoid a Deed made by Durefs to his Master, or the Master the Deed sealed by Durefs of his Servant. 2 Danv. 686. If a Man is taken by Virtue of a Process issuing out of a Court that hath not Power to grant it; or in Custody on a false Charge of Felony, &c. and for this Enlargement and Discharge gives Bond, &c. this may be avoided, as taken by Durefs. Cro. El. 646. 4 Inst. 97. Allen 92. A Statute Merchant may be avoided by Audita Querela, because it was made by Durefs or Imprisonment. A Will shall be avoided by Durefs or Menace of Imprisonment. A Feoffment made by Durefs is voidable; but not void. But no Averment shall be taken against a Deed inrolled that it was made by Durefs. 1 Roll. Abr. 862. 2 Danv. 685. A Marriage had by Durefs is voidable: And by Statute, Obligations, Statutes, &c. obtained of Women by Force, to marry the Persons to whom made, or otherwise, unless for a just Debt, are declared void. 31 H. 6. c. 9. If a Person executes a Deed by Durefs, he cannot plead Non est factum, because it is his Deed; though he may avoid it by special Pleading, and Judgment Sic alio, &c. 5 Rep. 119. Records may not regularly be said to be made by Durefs, and therefore shall not be avoided by this Plea or Pretence. 2 Shep. Abr. 319.

Durham. The Bishoprick of Durham was dissolved, and the King to have all the Lands, &c. by Stat. 7. Edw. 6. But this Act was afterwards repealed, and the Bishoprick new erected, with all Jurisdiction Ecclesiastical and Temporal annexed to the County Palatine. The Justices of the County

Palatine of Durham may levy Fines of Lands in the County: And Writs upon Proclamations, &c. are to be directed to the Bishop. 5 Eliz. c. 27. 31 Eliz. c. 2. Also Writs to elect Members of Parliament in the County Palatine of Durham shall go to the Bishop or his Chancellor, and be returned by the Sheriff, &c. Stat. 25 Car. 2. c. 9.

Durtley, Signifies Blows without Wounding or Bloodshed, vulgo Dry Blows. Blount.

Dusty fatts, Dusty Foots; Pedlers or Traders who have no settled Habitation, and they have their Name from their Feet being cover'd with Dust, by their continual Travelling. See Pisepowder Court.

Dutchy Court of Lancaster. Is a Court of the Dutchy Chamber of Lancaster held at Westminster before the Chancellor, for Matters concerning the Lands and Franchises of the Dutchy: And the Proceedings in this Court are by English Bill, as in Chancery. 4 Inst. 204. The Original of it was in Henry the Fourth's Days, who obtaining the Crown of England by deposing Richard II. and having the Dutchy of Lancaster by Discent, in Right of his Mother, was seized thereof as King, and not as Duke: But at length by Authority of Parliament he passed a Charter, whereby the Possessions, Liberties, &c. of the said Dutchy were severed from the Crown, and so left to Posterity. Of this Court Gwin (in his Preface to his Readings) says thus: The Court of the Dutchy of Lancaster grew out of the Grant of King Edward III. who gave that Dutchy to his Son John of Gaunt, and endowed it with Royal Rights and Privileges; and for as much as it was afterwards extinct in the Person of King Henry IV. by Reason of the Union thereof with the Crown, the same King (suspecting himself to be more rightfully Duke of Lancaster, than King of England) determined to save his Right in the Dutchy, whatever should betel the Kingdom; and therefore he separated the Dutchy from the Crown, and settled it in the natural Persons of himself and his Heirs, as if he had been no King: In which Estate it continued during the Reigns of Hen. 5. and Hen. 6. But when Edw. 4. recover'd the Crown, and recontinued the Right of the House of York, he appropriated that Dutchy to the Crown again, yet so that he suffered the Court and Officers to remain as he found them; and in this Manner it came together with the Crown to Hen. 7. who approving the Policy of Hen. 4. and by whose Right he obtained the Kingdom, made a like Separation of the Dutchy, and so left it. It is now only a superior County Palatine. Vide Lancaster. Officers of this Court, see Chancellor of the Dutchy of Lancaster.

Duty. Any thing that is known to be due by Law, and thereby recoverable, is a Duty before it is recovered; because the Party interested in the same hath a Power to recover it. 1 Lill. 495.

Dyers. By an ancient Statute Dyers shall dye both the Cloth and the Lint, of one and the same Colour, or forfeit it. 1 R. 3. c. 4. No Dyer may dye any Cloth with Orchel; or with Brazil, to make a false Colour in Cloth, Wool, &c. in Pain of 20 s. Stat. 3 & 4 E. 6. c. 2. Dyers are to fix a Seal of Lead to Cloths, with the Letter M, to shew that they are well mathered, &c. or forfeit 3 s. 4 d. and not to use Logwood in Dying, on Pain of forfeiting 20 l. Stat. 23 Eliz. c. 9. And Penalties are inflicted on Dyers, who dye any Cloths deceitfully, and not being dyed throughout with Wead, Indico and Mather; also Marks shall be put to the Cloths dyed, &c. Dyers in London are subject to the Inspection of the Dyers Company, who may appoint Searchers; and out of their Limits, Justices of Peace in Sessions to appoint them: Opposing the Searchers, incurs 10 l. Penalty, by Stat. 13 Geo. 1. cap. 24.

Dyke-reeve, An Officer that hath the Care and Oversight of the Dykes and Drains in Fenny Countries; as of Dieping Fens, &c. mentioned in the Stat. 16 & 17 Car. 2. c. 11.

Dyrge or Ditge, A mournful Song over the Dead; from the Teutonick Dyrke Laudare, to praise and extol, whence it is a laudatory Song. Cowel.

Dytenum, A Ditty or Song.—Venire cum toto ac pleno Dytenu, to sing Harvest home. Paroch. Antiq. 320.

Eshatus, (from the Sax. Eale, Cervisia, & Hus, Domus) An Ale-house: In the Law of King Alfred we often find this Word.

Calhoda, The Privilege of Assising and Selling Ale and Beer: It is mentioned in a Charter of King Hen. 2. to the Abbot of Glastonbury.

Calderman, Among the Saxons was as much as Earl with the Danes. Camd. Brit. 107. Also an Elder, Senator, &c. Ealdermen or Aldermen, are now those that are associated to the Mayor or Chief Officer in the Common Council of a City or Borough Town. Stat. 24 H. 8. c. 13. See Alderman.

Earl, (Sax. Eorle, Lat. Comes) This 'tis said was a great Title among the Saxons, and is the most ancient of the Englisch Peerage, there being no Title of Honour used by our present Nobility that was likewise in Use by the Saxons, except this of Earl; which was usually applied to the First in the Royal Line. Verflegan deriveth this Word from the Dutch Ear, i. e. Honour, and Ethel, which signifies Noble: But whencesoever it is derived, the Title Earl was at length given to those who were Associates to the King in his Councils and Martial Actions; and the Method of Investiture into that Dignity was Per Cincturam Gladii Comitatus, without any formal Charter of Creation. Dugdals' Warwicksh. 302. William the First, called the Conqueror, gave this Dignity in Fee to his Nobles, annexing it to this or that County or Province; and allotting them for the Maintenance of it a certain Portion of Money arising from the Prince's Profits, for the Pleadings and Forfeitures of the Provinces. Camd. And formerly one Earl had divers Shires under his Government, and had Lieutenants under him in every Shire, such as are now Sheriffs; as appears by divers of our old Statutes. Cowel. But about the Reign of King John and ever since, our Kings have made Earls of Counties, &c. by Charter; and giving them no Authority over the County, nor any Part of the Profits arising out of it; only sometimes they have had an annual Fee out of the Exchequer, &c. An Earl, Comes, was heretofore correlative with Comitatus; and antiently there was no Earl, but had a Shire or County for his Earldom; but of late Times the Number of Earls very much increasing, several of them have chosen for their Titles some eminent Part of a County, considerable Town, Village, or their own Seats, &c. Then, besides these local Earls; there are some personal and honorary; as Earl Marshal of England; and others nominal, who derive their Titles from the Names of their Families. Lex Constitutionis, pag. 78. Their Place is next to a Marquess, and before a Viscount: And as in very ancient Times, those who were created Counts or Earls, were of the Blood Royal; our British Monarchs to this Day call them in all publick Writings, Our most dear Cousin: They also originally did, and still may use the Style of Nos. See Countess.

Easement, Aisfamentum, (from the Fr. Aise, i. e. Commoditas) is defined to be a Service or Convenience, which one Neighbour hath of another, by Charter or Prescription, without Profit, as a Way through his Land, a Sink, or such like. Kitch. 105.

A Person may prescribe to an Easement in the Freehold of another, as belonging to some ancient House, or to Land, &c. And a Way over the Land of another; a Gate-way, Water-course, or Washing-place in another's Ground, may be claimed by Prescription as Easements: But a Multitude of Persons cannot prescribe; though for an Easement they may plead Custom. Cro. Jac. 170. 3 Leon. 254. 3 Mod. 294. To alledge an Easement by Consuevit only is the best Way: And Things of Necessity shall not be extinguished by Unity of Possession; but a Way of Ease may be thus extinguished. 1 Lill. Abr. 496. See Prescription.

Easter, Was the Name of a Goddess which the Saxons worshipped in the Month of April, and so called, because she was the Goddess of the East. Blount. But in our Church it is the Feast of the Paschever, in Commemoration of the Sufferings of our Saviour Christ.

Eastintus, (Sax. East-Tyne) Is an easterly Coast or Country; also the East Street, East Side of a River, &c.—Si sit Eastintus, & si sit Northintus amendet—Leg. K. Edw. 1.

East-India Company of Merchants and their Privileges, began in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, when they obtained divers Grants and Charters to carry on their Trade, 20 Eliz. c. 9. And for raising a Sum not exceeding two Millions, and settling the East-India Trade, 160,000 l. per Ann. arising by the Duties on Salt, stamp'd Vellum, &c. was made a Fund for Payment of Annuities of 8 per Cent. to Subscribers, who were incorporated by Letters Patent: The Company to have the sole Trade to the East-Indies; and others trading thither without Licence, shall forfeit their Ships and Goods, and double Value: Members of this Company are to Trade only in their Joint-Stock; and the Company not to owe more than their Capital Stock undivided, which is liable for Debt. And an additional Duty of 5 l. per Cent. is laid on East-India Goods, for the Company to maintain Forts, &c. Stat. 9 & 10 W. 3. c. 44. The two East-India Companies are United by Statute; they shall advance and pay into the Exchequer One million two hundred thousand Pounds, and may borrow 1,500,000 l. more than they could before this Act. 6 Ann. c. 17. This Company may enter Goods and Merchandize imported by Bills at Sight, and give Security for Payment of the Customs under their common Seal. Stat. 10 Ann. c. 9. East-India Goods and Merchandize are not to be imported in Ireland or the Plantations, but from Great Britain only, on Pain of forfeiting the same. And illegal Traders to pay Customs to the King, and 30 l. per Cent. Damages to the Company, on a Bill exhibited by the Attorney General; Persons abroad trading, may be seized and brought into England, &c. by Stat. 5 & 7 Geo. 1. c. 21. Subjects of England shall not subscribe to any foreign Company of Trade to the East-Indies, under the Penalty of forfeiting their Shares of Stocks, &c. 9 G. 1. c. 26. The Interest at 8 l. per Cent. paid by the Government, is sunk to 6 and 5, by subsequent Acts: And a late Statute was made for reducing the Fund of this Company; and continuing the Corporation, &c. But on repaying the whole Capital Stock, after so many Years, the exclusive Trade to cease. 3 Geo. 2. c. 14. See Merchant.

Ebdomadarius, An Ebdomary or Officer appointed Weekly in Cathedral Churches, to supervise the regular Performance of Divine Service, and prescribe the particular Duties of each Person attending in the Choir, as to Reading, Singing, Praying, &c. To which Purpose the Ebdomary at the Beginning of his Week drew in Form a Bill or Writing of the respective Persons and their several Offices, called Tabula; whereupon the Persons there entered were filed stiled Intabulati: This is manifested in the Statutes of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, digested by Dr. Ralph Baldock, Dean of St. Paul's, Anno 1295, MS. penes Joh. Episc. Norw.

Eberemurth, or Eberemurth, (Sax.) Bare, or down-right Murder. Leg. H. 1. c. 12.

Eberemurder, (Apertum Murdrum) Was one of those Crimes, which by King Henry the First's Laws, cap. 13. Emendari non possunt; hoc ex scelerum genere fuit nullo pretio expiabilem, &c. Spelm.

Ecclesia, (Lat.) Is commonly used for that Place where God is served, which is called a Church: But in Law Proceedings, according to Fitzberbert, this Word intends a Parsonage; for so he expresses it in a Question, whether a Benefice was Ecclesia, sive Capella, &c. F. N. B. 32. 2 Inst. 363.

Ecclesie Sculptura. The Image or Sculpture of a Church in ancient Times, which was often cut out or cast in Plate or other Metal; and preserved as a religious Treasure or Relique; and to perpetuate the Memory of some famous Churches. Mon. Ang. Tom. 3. p. 309.

Ecclesiastical, Denotes something belonging to, or set apart for the Church; as distinguished from Civil or Secular, which regard the World.

Ecclesiastical Persons or Ecclesiastics, (Ecclesiastici) Are Church-men, Persons whose Functions consist in performing the Service, and keeping up the Discipline of the Church. See Clergy.

Egyptians, (Egyptiani) Commonly called Gypfes, are by our Laws and Statutes a counterfeit Kind of Rogues, who disguising themselves in strange Habits, smearing their Faces and Bodies, and framing to themselves a Canting unknown Language, wander up and down; and under Pretence of telling Fortunes, curing Diseases, and such like, abuse the ignorant common People, by Stealing and Pilfering from them every Thing that is not too heavy for their Carriage, and which they may go off with undiscovered. There are several Statutes for suppressing those Impollers; as by Statute 22 H. 8. c. 10. Egyptians coming into England, are to depart the Realm in fifteen Days, or be imprisoned. And by 1 & 2 P. & M. If any Person shall import any Egyptians into this Kingdom, he shall forfeit 40*l.* And if the Egyptians remain in England above a Month, they shall be guilty of Felony. Ejectione Custodiz, (Ejection de Garde) Is a Writ which lieth against him that casteth out the Guardian from any Land during the Minority of the Heir. Reg. Orig. 162. F. N. B. 139. There are two other Writs not unlike this; the one termed Revisement de Gard, and the other Droit de Gard.

Ejectione firmæ, or Ejectment, Is a Writ or Action that lies for the Lessee for Years, who is ejected before the Expiration of his Term, either by the Lessor, or a Stranger: Also Ejectment may be brought by a Lessor against the Lessee, for Rent in Arrear, or holding over his Term, &c. Reg. Orig. 227. A Copyholder may not bring Action of Ejectment; but the Lessee of a Copyholder for one or more Years, may bring it. 4 Rep. 26. And the Executors of a Lessee, shall have this Writ. Lib. Instr. 195. In these Cases, Ejectment is either an actual Ejectment, as when the Lessee is actually put out of Land let unto him; or it is an Ejectment by Implication of Law, viz. where such an Act is done by one which doth amount to an Ejectment, although he doth not really enter upon the Land let, and oust the Lessee. 1 Lill. Abr. 496. But Ejectment is now become an Action in the Place of many Real Actions, as Writs of Right, Formedons, &c. which are very difficult as well as tedious and chargeable: And this is the common Action for trying of Titles, and recovering of Lands, &c. illegally kept from the right Owner; though where Entry is taken away by Discents, Fines and Recoveries, Disseisins, &c. Ejectment may not be brought; so that all Titles cannot be tried by this Action. Wood's Inst. 547, 548. Anciently Writs of Entry and Assise were the usual Means of Recovery of the Possession of Lands, and lay only against Freeholders; but Anno 14 II. 7. it was resolved that an Habere facias Possessionem would lie to recover the Term in Ejectment, and the Land itself. Attorn. Compan. 170. The Action of Ejectione firmæ was never known to remove a Possession till the Reign of King Hen. 8. before which Time an Action of Trespas Quare clausum fregit, &c. was made use of: Though in Action of Trespas, Damages were only to be recovered; whereas in Ejectione firmæ, the Thing or Term itself is recovered, as well as Damages. 3 Leon. 49. Ejectment ought to be brought for a Thing that is certain; and if it be of a Manor, Manerium de A. cum Pertinentiis; if of a Rectory, Rectoriam de B. &c. And so many Messuages, Cottages, Acres of arable Land, Meadow, &c. cum pertin. in Paroch. &c. For Land must be distinguished, how much of one Sort, and how much of another, &c. Cro. El. 339. 3 Leon. 13. Ejectment lies of a Church, as De uno Domo vocat. The Parish Church of, &c. And a Church is a Messuage, by which Name it may be recovered; and the Declaration is to be served on the Parson who officiates Divine Service. 11 Rep. 25. 1 Salk. 256. It lies not of Tithes only; but may be of a Rectory, Chapel, &c. and the Tithes there-to belonging. 2 Danv. Abr. 752. And Ejectment will lie of so many Loads of Tithe Corn, severed from the nine Parts, or where certainly expressed; though it will not lie for Tithes generally. 1 Nelf. Abr. 688. It lies De uno Messuagio sive Burgagio; but not De uno Messuagio sive Tenemento, unless it have a Vocat' A. &c. to make it good, because of the Uncertainty of the Word Tenement. 1 Sid. 295. It will lie of a Messuage and a Tenement: For a Moiety; or third Part, of a Manor or Messuage, &c. And for a Chamber or Room of a House well set forth. 11 Rep. 55, 59. 3 Leon. 210. It lieth de Domo, which hath convenient Certainty for the Sheriff to deliver Possession, &c. Cro.

Cro. Jac. 654. It lies of a Cottage or Curtilage; or of a Coal-mine, &c. but not of a Common, Piscary, &c. Cro. Jac. 150. For Underwood it lies, though a Præcipe doth not. 2 Roll. Rep. 482, 483. But for uno Clanso, or una pecia Terræ, &c. without Certainty of the Acres, and their Nature, it doth not lie. 11 Rep. 55. 4 Mod. 1. It lieth of a Close, containing three Acres of Pasture, &c. Also of so many Acres of Land covered with Water; though not de Aqua cursu. 2 Cro. 435. 1 Brownl. 242. The Method of Proceeding in Ejectionem, is made more easy than formerly; when a Lease was to be sealed and delivered on the Premises to the Lessee, &c. In ancient Times, the Ejector in Law was any Person that came upon any Part of the Land, &c. mentioned in the Lease of Ejectionem, though he were there without any Intent to disturb the Lessee of the Possession, after the Sealing of the Ejectionem Lease; and such Ejector was a good Ejector against whom an Action of Ejectionem firmæ might be brought to try the Title of the Land in Question: But now the Law is altered, for there is no Occasion for a Lease to be made and sealed upon the Premises to the Lessee, who hath a Mind to try the Title, and to leave the Lessee in Possession to be ousted and ejected by the Tenants in Possession, &c. As the Plaintiff could not proceed to recover his Lands against the casual Ejector, without delivering to the Tenant in Possession a Declaration, and making him a proper Defendant, if he thought fit: After this, the Lord Ch. Ju. Rolls invented the Rule now in use; which is, that if the Defendant comes in the Room of such Ejector, he should enter into a Rule to confess Lease, Entry, and actual Ouster, and insist on the Title only. See Attorn. Compan. 170, 173. The usual Course at this Time is to draw a Declaration, and therein feign a Lease for three, five, or seven Years, to him that would try the Title, and also feign a casual Ejector or Defendant in the Declaration, and then deliver the Declaration to the Ejector, who serves the same by delivering a Copy thereof on the Tenant in Possession, or his Wife, (for a Delivery to a Son or Servant, &c. is not good) and gives Notice in Writing at the Bottom for him to appear and defend his Title; which must be read to the Tenant, and the Person serving it, is to tell him, that if he do not procure some Attorney to appear for him and defend his Title, in Default thereof, that he, (the Defendant) will suffer a Judgment to be had against him, whereby he (the Tenant) will be turned out of Possession: The Declaration being thus served, the Tenant is to appear the Beginning of the next Term by his Attorney, and consent to a Rule to be made Defendant instead of the casual Ejector, and take upon him the Defence; wherein he may confess a Lease, Entry, and Ouster, and at the Trial stand upon the Title only: But if the Tenant in Possession doth not appear and enter into the aforementioned Rule in Time, after the Declaration served; then on Affidavit made of the Service of the Declaration, with Notice to appear as aforesaid, the Court will order that Judgment be entered against the casual Ejector by Default; and the Tenant in Possession will, by an Habere facias Possessionem upon such Judgment, be turned out of Possession. 1 Lill. 499. If at the Trial the Defendant will not appear and confess Lease, Entry and Ouster, it is usual to call him or his Attorney, and then call the Plaintiff and nonsuit him; and upon Return of the Posse, Judgment will be given against the casual Ejector. 1 Salk. 250. But in this Case, though the Plaintiff be nonsuit, he shall not pay any Costs; for the Rule for confessing Lease, Entry, and Ouster is to be carried to the Secondary, who taxes Costs upon it to be paid by the Defendant; and if the same are not paid, the Court on Affidavit and Motion will grant an Attachment against the Defendant; but this is where the Defendant appears, and not where it goes wholly against him by Default. 1 Lill. 503, 504. If the Tenant doth appear, having by his Attorney filed common Bail, and entered into the Rule abovementioned, he is made Defendant in the Declaration, and put into the same in the Place of the casual Ejector; and then the Defendant's Attorney must plead Not Guilty: And the Plaintiff's Attorney draws up the Issue, a Copy whereof and of the Declaration is to be delivered to the Attorney for the Defendant; whereupon Notice is given of Trial: In order to which the Venire, &c. is to be made out and returned, and the Record made up by the Plaintiff's Attorney, beginning with the Declaration; which being sealed, the Breviate is to be prepared, in which after a short Recital of the Declaration and Plea, the Plaintiff's Title is to be set forth from the Person last seized in Fee of the Premises, under whom the Lessor claims down to the Client, the Plaintiff proving the Deeds, &c. And after Trial the Proceedings are as in other Cases. And here it is to be observed, that if the Declaration is delivered the first or second Day of Easter or Michaelmas Terms, the Tenant must plead the same Term, or the Plaintiff will have Judgment; and this is by Reason of the Length of those Terms. Practif. Solic. 328, 329. The Plaintiff is not allowed to amend his Declaration in Ejectionem after Delivery; he must stand by it, or deliver a new Declaration. As many Demises may be laid in a Declaration, as shall be thought fit; and if the Plaintiff recovers upon one, it is sufficient for the Whole. 3 Lev. 117, 334. Where one brings Ejectionem of Land in two Parishes, and the Whole lies in one, he shall recover: Also if a Person brings Ejectionem of one Acre in B. and Part of it lies in A. he shall recover for such Part as lies in B. And if one having Title to a Part only of Lands, bringeth an Ejectionem for the Whole, he shall recover his Part of the Lands. Plowd. 429. 3 Cro. 13. A Plaintiff shall recover only according to the Right which he hath at the Time of bringing his Action: And one who hath Title to the Land in Question, may on Motion be made a Defendant in the Action with the Tenant in Possession, to defend his Title; and a Landlord may be made a Defendant by the Tenant, with the Consent of such Landlord, &c. 1 Nelf. Abr. 694. 1 Lill. 497, &c. As the Possession of the Land is primarily in Question, and to be recovered, that concerns the Tenant; and the Title of the Land, which is tried collaterally, that is concerning some other, who may be admitted to be a Defendant with a Tenant: But none other is to be admitted a Defendant but he that hath been in Possession, or receives the Rents, &c. When there is a Recovery in Ejectionem by Verdict; Action of Trespass may be brought to recover the mesne Profits of the Lands, from the Time of the Defendant's Entry laid in the Declaration: And this Action may be brought either by the Plaintiff in Ejectionem, or by the Lessor of the Plaintiff; though where the Plaintiff brings it, he need only at the Trial to produce his Posse of his Recovery; but where the Lessor brings it, he must prove his Title over again, if it be insisted on by the other Side, otherwise he will be nonsuited. 1 Lill. 499. The Plaintiff in Ejectionem is a meer nominal Person, and a Trustee for the Lessor; and if he release the Action, the Court may set aside the Release, and he shall be committed for a Contempt; so likewise if he release an Action brought in his Name for the mesne Profits. 1 Salk. 260. Skinn. 247. It has been held a great Abuse, that nominal Lessees in Ejectionem were Persons not in Being, or not known to the Defendant; and Attornies who have made such Lessees, have been ordered to pay Costs, and put to answer on Interrogatories, &c. Mod. Ca. 309. If a Man is made Plaintiff in Ejection without his Knowledge, and the Defendant appearing the Plaintiff thereupon becomes nonsuit, after which Execution is sued out against him; if it appears by his Oath, that he was made Plaintiff without his Knowledge or Order, he shall be discharged. 34 Car. B. R. 5 Ann. 1 Lill. 500. In Ejection, if the Plaintiff was ejected after the Lease made, it is sufficient; though no certain Day be alledged in which he was ejected, for the Day is not material, being before the Action brought. Crò. Jac. 311. But the Time of Entry of the Plaintiff must be shewn that it may appear, he was not a Disseisor, by Entering on the Lands before the Commencement of his Term, &c. If it appears that the Lessor of the Plaintiff had not any Title at the Time of the Demise, upon which the Plaintiff declared, this will be fatal: And the Court will not give Leave to alter the Declaration as to the Time of the Demise, which would make it a new Demise. Carth. 179. Where Lands in the Lease and Declaration, &c. are different, and not exactly the same, or the Term is different from that in the Declaration, though the Plaintiff hath a Verdict, he cannot have Judgment. Yelv. 166. 2 Lutw. 963. The Declaration must assign a Place where the Lease was made: It is a good Plea in Abatement, that the Plaintiff hath another Ejectione firma depending in another Court for the same Land; but as this Action is only as Trespass, the Death of a Defendant when there are two, will not abate the Suit. One may in Ejection as in Trespass, justify by Command of him who hath Title; and Accord with Satisfaction is a good Bar in the Action. Moor, ca. 710, 673. 1 And. 283. 9 Rep. 78. If there be a Verdict and Judgment against the Plaintiff, he may bring another Action of Trespass and Ejection for the Land, it being only to recover the Possession, &c. wherein Judgment is not final; and it is not like a Writ of Right, &c. where the Title alone is tried. Wood's Inst. 47. Trin. 23 Car. B. R. And an Ejection being a mixed Action, after a Judgment therein has lain some considerable Time, Execution may not be had upon it without a Scire fac. for the Tenant may be changed, &c. But formerly it was held otherwise. Sid. 351. Comberb. 250. No Arrest is to be made in this Action, as now usually prosecuted. But if there be no Tenant in Possession; as where a House or Land is empty, and the Person that was last in Possession is run away, so that you cannot find any Person to deliver the Declaration to, then the Process must be in the old Way, by sealing a Lease upon the Ground; and an Original is to be sued out against the Person who ejected the Lessee, and then Ouster and Ejection, &c. And herein Rules are to be given to plead; though there cannot be Judgment against the casual Ejector, without a Motion for that Purpose, after the Rules for Pleading are out. 1 Lill. 498. In Ejection for empty Houses, a Lease was sealed on the Land, and a Declaration delivered to the casual Ejector, and Judgment and Execution had; yet because the Plaintiff did not move for a peremptory Rule to plead, the Judgment was set aside: And in this Case there must be an Affidavit of the Sealing the Lease and the Entry. 1 Salk. 255. 1 Nels. Abr. In C. B. the common Rule is, that the Defendant shall forthwith appear, and receive a Declaration, and therefore this supercedes the Necessity of an Original Writ; and no Advantage can be taken for want thereof, unless it be in a Writ of Error; but when Error is brought, an Original must be filed: And as in the Common Pleas there needs no Original, so in the King's Bench there need not be a Latitat; but the Party is to file a Bill of Ejections, besides the Plea-Roll, if a Writ of Error be brought before the Errors are assigned; and he must file Bail before he can proceed, &c. In Ejection, where there are divers Defendants for the same Premises, and one appears, and confesses Lease, Entry, &c. and the other does not, the Plaintiff cannot proceed against the rest, but must be nonsuited. Though where Freeholds are several, no Defendant may defend for more than his own Possession; and the Plaintiff may take Judgment against his Ejector for what remains. 1 Vent. 355. 2 Keb. 531, 524. And if there are several Defendants in Ejection, that are severally concerned in Interest, to whom the Plaintiff delivers Declarations; if he moves to join them all in one Declaration, the Court will not agree to it, for several Declarations must be delivered to each of the Defendants; because if any are found Not guilty, each of them must have a Remedy for his Costs. 2 Keb. 524. In Lord Raymond's Reports, it is held if there are two Defendants in Ejection, and one of them appears and confesses Lease, Entry, and Ouster, but the other doth not appear; in that Case the Plaintiff may enter a Nisi pro. or Retraxit against him, and go to Trial and have Judgment against the other Defendant. 1 Lord Raym. 717, 718. Also if an Ejection be brought against two Persons, and after Issue joined, one dies, and a Venire is awarded as to the two Defendants, and a Verdict against two; here upon Suggestion of the Death of one of them upon the Roll, Judgment shall be given for the Plaintiff against the other for the whole: For 'tis said this Action is grounded upon Tort, which are several in their Nature, and one may be found guilty and the other acquitted. Ibid. An Ejection was brought for Non-payment of Rent; and the Court was moved to stay Proceedings, upon Payment of the Rent and Costs, to be adjudged by a Secondary, which the Court granted: And also ordered a new Lease to be made at the Defendant's Charge. Mich. 8 W. 3. 1 Lill. 501. And by a late Statute, in all Cases between Landlord and Tenant, when half a Year's Rent shall be in Arrear, the Landlord having lawful Right to re enter for Non-payment, may serve a Declaration in Ejection on the Tenant, without a formal Demand or Re-entry; or he may affix such Declaration on the Door of the demised Messuage, or notorious Place of the Lands, which shall be deemed a legal Service: And upon Proof that half a Year's Rent was due before the Declaration was served, and no sufficient Distress on the Premises, the Lessor shall have Judgment and Execution; which if the Lessee suffer, without paying the Arrears and Costs, and without filing a Bill in Equity to be relieved within six Months, he shall be barred from all Relief, other than by Writ of Error; and the Lessor shall hold the Premises discharged from the Lease: But if the Tenant or Lessee tender to the Lessor; or bring into Court the Rent in Arrear, together with Costs, all further Proceedings shall cease; and if the Lessee be relieved in Equity, he shall enjoy the demised Premises, according to his Lease, without obtaining a new one. Stat. 4 Geo. 2. c. 28. Tenants to whom Declarations in Ejection are generally delivered for any Lands, &c. shall give their Landlords, or their Bailiffs, Notice thereof, under the Penalty of three Years Rack Rent; to be recovered by Action of Debt, &c. And the Court where such Ejection shall be brought, shall suffer the Landlord to make himself Defendant, by joining with the Tenant, unto whom the Declaration is delivered, if he appears; but if not, Judgment shall be signed against the casual Ejector, for want of such Appearance: But if the Landlord shall desire to appear by himself, and consent to enter into the like Rule that the Tenant, if he had appeared, ought to have done; the Court may permit him so to do, and order a Stay of Execution, till they make a further Order therein. 11 Geo. 2. c. 19.

If an Original in Ejection is required, it is thus:

GEORGE

GEORGE the Second, &c. To the Sheriff of S. Greeting: If A. B. shall make you secure, &c. then put C. D. late of, &c. in your County, to find Pledges and sufficient Sureties, that he be before our Justices at Westminster, on the Day, &c. to answer to the said A. B. in a Plea, wherefore he with Force and Arms into one Messuage, twenty Acres of Land, ten Acres of Meadow, and six Acres of Pasture, with the Appurtenances, in, &c. in your County, which T. F. hath demised to the said A. for a Term not yet past, hath entered, and him from his Farm aforesaid ejected, and other Wrongs to him done, to the great Damage, &c. And against the Peace, &c.

Form of a Declaration in Ejectment in B. R.

South'ton, ff. A. B. Complains of C. D. in Custody of the Marshal, &c. For that whereas T. E. Gentleman, on the Tenth Day of May in the sixth Year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Second, by the Grace of God, King of Great Britain, &c. at the Parish of, &c. in the County aforesaid, had demised, granted, and to Farm let to the said A. one Messuage, ten Acres of Meadow, and six Acres of Pasture, &c. with the Appurtenances, situate, lying and being in, &c. in the County aforesaid: To have and to hold the said Tenements, with the Appurtenances, to the said A. and his Assigns, from the Twenty-ninth Day of September then last past, unto the full End and Term of five Years from thence next ensuing, and fully to be compleat and ended: By Virtue of which said Demise, he the said A. entered into the said Tenements, with the Appurtenances, and was thereof possessed, until the said C. afterwards, that is to say, the same tenth Day of May in the Year aforesaid, with Force and Arms, &c. entered into the said Tenements, with the Appurtenances, in and upon the Possession of the said A. and him the said A. from his said Farm, his said Term therein not being yet expired, ejected, expelled and removed; and the said A. being so ejected, expelled and removed, the said C. hitherto hath with-held from him, and still doth with-hold the Possession thereof, and other Injuries then and there did to him, against the Peace of our said Sovereign Lord the King, and to the Damage of the said A. Twenty Pounds: And thereupon he brings his Suit, &c.

Notice to the Tenant in Possession to appear, &c.

I Am informed that you are in Possession of, or claim Title to the Messuage and Premises mentioned in this Declaration of Ejectment, or to some Part thereof, And I being sued in this Action as a casual Ejector, and having no Title to the same, do advise you, (or give you Notice) to appear on the first Day of next Hillary Term, in his Majesty's Court of King's Bench at Westminster, by some Attorney of that Court, and then and there, by a Rule to be made of the same Court, to cause yourself to be made Defendant in my Stead, and make your Defence; otherwise I shall suffer a Judgment to be had against me, and you will be turned out of Possession.

Your Loving Friend,

C. D.

Affidavit of Service of the Declaration and Notice.

In the King's Bench.

Between A. B. Plaintiff and C. D. Defendant.

T. B. of, &c. maketh Oath, That he this Depo-nent on, &c. last past, did deliver to E. F. Tenant in Possession of the Messuage and Premises in Question, a true Copy of the Declaration in Ejectment hereto annexed; at the Foot of which Declaration is a Notice for the said E. F. to appear on the first Day of the then next, and now present Hillary Term, in this Court, and defend his Title; otherwise Judgment would be entered against him by Default: And this Depo-nent farther saith, That he told the said E. F. that if he did not appear, and defend his Title, the then next and now present Hillary Term, he would be turned out of Possession.

T. B.

The Common Rule by Consent in Ejectment.

Michaelmas Term in the Seventh Year of the Reign of King George the Second.

South'ton, ff. IT is ordered by the Court, with the Consent of the Attornies for both Parties, that E. F. be admitted Defendant instead of the now Defendant C. D. And that he forthwith appear at the Suit of the Plaintiff, and put in common Bail, and receive a Declaration in a Plea of Trespass and Ejectment for the Messuage and Premises in Question, and plead thereunto Not Guilty; and that upon the Trial of the Issue, he confess Lease, Entry, and actual Ouster, and insist upon the Title only; otherwise Judgment shall be entered by the Plaintiff against the now Defendant C. by Default: And if upon the Trial of the said Issue, the said E. F. shall not confess Lease, Entry, and actual Ouster, by which the Plaintiff will not be able further to prosecute his Bill against the said E. then no Costs shall be awarded upon such Nonsuit; but the said E. shall pay to the Plaintiff the Costs and Charges to be taxed thereupon. And it is further ordered, that if on the Trial of the said Issue, a Verdict shall be given for the Defendant, or if it happen the Plaintiff should not further prosecute his said Bill, for any other Cause than for not confessing the said Lease, Entry, and actual Ouster; that then the Plaintiff's Lessor, shall pay to the said E. his Costs and Charges, in that Case to be awarded to him.

By the Court. { G. H. for the Plaintiff,
J. K. for the Defendant.

Form of a Plea and Issue in Ejectment.

AND the said E. F. (the now Defendant) by, &c. his Attorney, comes and Defends the Force and Injury, &c. and whatsoever, &c. when and where the Court will consider thereof, and saith, that he is in no wise guilty of the Trespass and Ejectment aforesaid, so as the said A. B. hath above against him complained; and of this he puts himself upon the Country, and the said A. doth likewise, &c. It is therefore commanded to the Sheriff, that he cause to come before our Lord the King at Westminster, on the Day, &c. twelve honest, &c. and who neither, &c. to recognize and make a Jury, &c. because as well the said A. as the said E. have thereof submitted themselves to the Jury: The same Day is given to the said Parties here, &c.

Judgment

Judgment in Ejectment for the Plaintiff after Verdict.

Therefore it is considered, (adjudged) that the said A. do recover against the said E. his Term yet to come of and in the said Tenements, with the Appurtenances, and the Damages assessed by the said Jury in Form aforesaid: And also eight Pounds and ten Shillings for his Expences and Costs awarded to the said A. with his Assent, by the Court of the Lord the now King here, by way of Increase; which said Damages and Costs, in the whole amount to, &c. And be the said E. amerced, &c.

Election, (Electio) Is when a Man is left to his own Free-will to take or do one Thing or another, which he pleases. And if it be given of several Things, he who is the first Agent, and ought to do the first Act, shall have the Election: As if a Person make a Lease, rendering Rent, or a Garment, &c. the Lessee shall have the Election, as being the first Agent, by Payment of the one, or Delivery of the other. Co. Litt. 144. And if A. covenant to pay B. a Pound of Pepper or Sugar, before Easter; it is at the Election of A. at all Times before Easter, which of them he will pay: But if he pays it not, before the said Feast, then afterwards it is at the Election of B. to demand and have which he pleaseth. Dyer 18. 5 Rep. 59. 11 Rep. 51. If I give to you one of my Horses in my Stable, there you shall have the Election; for you shall be the first Agent, by Taking or Seizure of one of them. C. Lit. 145. If Things granted are Annual, and to have Continuance, the Election (where the Law gives it him) remains to the Grantor, as well after the Day as before: But 'tis otherwise when to be perform'd at once. Ibid. When nothing passeth to the Feoffee or Grantee before Election to have the one Thing or the other, the Election ought to be made in the Life of the Parties; and the Heir or Executor cannot make the Election: But where an Estate or Interest passeth immediately to the Feoffee, Donee, &c. there Election may be made by them, or their Heirs or Executors. 2 Rep. 36, 37. And when one and the same Thing passeth to the Donee or Grantee, and such Donee or Grantee hath Election in what Manner he will take it, there the Interest passeth immediately, and the Party, his Heirs, &c. may make

Election when they will. Co. Litt. 145. 2 Davo. Abr. 761. Where the Election creates the Interest, nothing passeth till Election; and if no Election can be made no Interest will arise. Hob. 174. If the Election is given to several Persons, there the first Election made by any of the Persons shall stand: As if a Man leases two Acres to A. for Life, Remainder of one Acre to B. and of the other Acre to C. Now B. or C. may elect which of the Acres he will have, and the first Election by one binds the other. Co. Litt. 145. 2 Rep. 36. If a Man leases two Acres for Life, the Remainder of one in Fee to the same Person; and after licenses the Lessee to cut Trees in one Acre, this is an Election that he shall have the Fee in the other Acre. 2 Anv. 762. A Real Election concerning Lands is descendible; and Election of a Tenant in Tail, may prejudice his Issue. He in Remainder may make an Election, after the Death of Tenant for Life; but if the Tenant for Life do make Election, the Remainder-Man is concluded. Moor, ca. 247, 832. A Person grants a Manor, except one Close called N. and there are two Closes called by that Name, one containing nine Acres, and the other but three Acres; the Grantee shall not in this Case chuse which of the said Closes he will have, but the Grantor shall have Election which Close shall pass. 1 Leon. 268. But if one grants an Acre of Land out of a Waste or Common, and doth not say in what Part, or how to be bounded, the Grantee may make his Election where he will. 1 Leon. 30. If a Man hath three Daughters, and be covenanted with another that he shall have one of them to dispose of in Marriage; it is at the Covenantor's Election which of his Daughters the Covenantee shall have, and after Request she is to be delivered to him. Moor 72. 2 Davo. 762. Where there are three Coparceners of Lands, upon Partition the eldest Sister shall have Election: Though if she herself make the Partition, she loseth it, and shall take last of all. Co. Litt. 166. In Consideration that a Person had sold another certain Goods, he promised to deliver him the Value in such Pipes of Wine as he should chuse, the Plaintiff must make his Election before he brings his Action. Style 49. An Election which of two Things shall be done, ought not to be made merely by bringing an Action; but before, that the Defendant may know which he is to do, and 'tis said he is not bound to tender either before the Plaintiff hath made his Choice which will be accepted. 1 Mod. 217. 1 Nels. Abr. 697. A Condition of a Bond is, that the Obligor shall pay 30 l. or twenty Kine, at the Obligee's Election, within such a Time; the Obligee at his Peril is to make his Election within the Time limited. 1 Leon. 69. Though in Debt upon Bond to pay 10 l. on such a Day, or four Cows, at the then Election of the Obligee, it was adjudged, that it was not enough for the Defendant to plead that he was always ready, &c. if the Obligee had made his Election; for he ought to tender both at the Day, by Reason the Word then relates to the Day of Payment. Moor 246. 1 Nels. 694, 695. If a Man hath an Election to do one of two Things, and he cannot by any Default of a Stranger, or of himself, or the Obligee, or by the Act of God, do the one; he must at his Peril do the other. 1 Lill. Abr. 506. Where the Law allows a Man two Actions to recover his Right, it is at his Election to bring which he pleaseth: And when a Man's Act may work two Ways, both arising out of his Interest, he hath Election given him to use it either Way. Dyer 20. 2 Roll. Abr. 787. Action of Trespass upon the Case, or Action of Trespass Vi & Armis, may be brought against one that rescues a Prisoner, at the Election of the Party damnified by the Rescous. And an Action of the Case, or an Assise lies against him that
